Once again; Christ is a prophet—what is He to be to us? I have two thoughts here: first in regard to personal teaching. Let us rejoice in his kingly glory; let us rejoice that He is our priest, and that we need no human priest between us and God; but rejoicing in these, let us also glory in this blessed truth that every believer can have direct contact with the great teacher Jesus. Just as we need no other Saviour or Mediator, so we need no other teacher. Let us believe this and pray God that He would teach us, and also that He would bring all ministers of his Gospel to a right sense of their glorious position and privilege. As Christ is the mouthpiece of God, so it is theirs to be the mouthpiece of Christ. Allusion was made in the preceding address to the humility of Christ—"I can do nothing of mine own self." "The words I speak, I speak not of myself." His work as prophet was to wait on God; and friends, our work as ministers, servants of Christ, or men and women teaching in the Sunday-school or elsewhere, is to honour Jesus as prophet; to be his mouthpiece as He was the mouthpiece of God; to live and speak by Him, as He did by God. We must give ourselves to prayer and continuous waiting in quiet self-abnegation, crying to Him as little children that He might use us as never before. God bless ministers and all workers with the gift of the Holy Ghost! Remember all three offices are made real to us by the coming forth of the Holy Ghost. These three are one, for Jesus is in all. The teaching of Christ Himself, the giving of this precious book, and ministry through us, are all by the Holy Ghost. It is peculiarly, however, by virtue of the prophetic office that the Holy Ghost is given in great abundance. Let us wait on Christ and trust Him, and He will give it.

And now my second thought in closing is this: It will profit us very little to have heard about Christ, as the burden and fulfilment of this blessed word if we do not realise that we need the living Christ, that we want Him day by day as our personal teacher and guide. Do you remember how, at the installation of Jesus as prophet at the river Jordan, the Father said, "This is my beloved Son, hear ye Him." You know how Saul's servants were able to say, when he was seeking the lost asses, There is one who can tell us. So we know we have One who is able to tell us everything, to deal with every difficulty, every prayer, and every need. Will you let the blessed Jesus be your teacher, your guide? Wait on Him and you shall never be ashamed. Above all, if you are longing to enter into the mysteries of God, into the holiest of all, within the veil to dwell with God; if you would have Him lead you into the full experience of redeemed saints, to realise the meaning of the song, "Unto Him that loved us and washed us from our sins in his own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God, and his Father, to Him be glory and dominion for ever and ever." If you would have these blessings, let Jesus as prophet deal with you even now. Claim Him affectionately, believingly; rejoice in Him and trust in Him as your prophet and guide.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Sacrifice and Priesthood.

Lord Polwarth, after reading from Hebrews v. and vii., remarked upon the opening verse of chapter viii.: "We have such a high priest." Take heed to the words, "We have." How rich then we are! Our subject, "Our Lord Jesus Christ the Completion of Sacrifice and Priesthood," seems to divide itself into two parts—first of all, the finished work of sacrifice, and secondly, the priestly office; and from the study of these we should derive true joy, and also learn more of Him in whom alone we can have rest and peace.

REV. G. H. C. MACGREGOR.

In Rev. i. 5 we read: "Unto Him that loveth us, and loosed us from our sins in his own blood." Those words will form a fitting starting point for the consideration of the blessed subject before us. What a wonderful Saviour is the Lord Jesus Christ! Each new glimpse that we get of his glory seems to be brighter and better than anything we have ever seen before. When, moreover, He comes to do any new work of grace in our hearts it seems the very best that He can do for us.

When we hear of the Lord Jesus Christ as the Prophet we are tempted to exclaim, "Surely this is his most wonderful office; there can be nothing in Christ that goes higher than this, or is more glorious than his work in revealing God the Father." Again, when we speak of Him as the Priest, we cry, "God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." And then, as we see Him as our King, we fall down in adoration at his feet, and "crown Him Lord of all." So, we need to be reminded that we must not set up one office against another, for the whole Jesus is fully in each of them. Let us give ourselves up for a time to the adoration of the Lord Jesus as Priest, and be content, for the present, to think of this as his most wonderful work; and God grant that a fresh glory of it may break in upon our souls!

All the offices of the Lord Jesus have a redemptive aspect. He comes as a prophet to reveal God to a race whose heart has been blinded by sin. As a priest He comes to redeem men who are deserving of eternal condemnation. As a king He comes to subdue men to his own holy will. While all the offices have a redemptive aspect, this is especially so of the priestly office. For it is conceivable—I do not, of course, say that it would have been so—that even although man had not sinned, Jesus Christ might have become incarnate, and have been the prophet of God to mankind, and He might also have been king and Lord of men; but if man had not fallen there would have been no place for the atoning work. It is because man has fallen, and because sin constitutes such that the Cross has for the saved sinner such a peculiar glory, and at the foot of the cross the Christian heart sings its sweetest song.

AN AWFUL FACTOR IN HUMAN EXPERIENCE

We have already seen that the Lord Jesus is the perfect prophet. Why so? Because He perfectly does the prophet's work. He is the burden and fulfilment of all the prophetic word because He does perfectly what all the other prophets tried to do, but did so imperfectly. He reveals God. All through the ages God was yearning to make Himself known to man, and man was yearning to know God; but not until Christ came did the Father find full expression, and man find all that he needed to know of God. "The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father), full of grace and truth."

Why is Jesus Christ the perfect priest? Because He does perfectly the priest's work; because He accomplishes what man had toiled in vain to accomplish. He comes, and He brings the sinful race back into fellowship with God, and He maintains in fellowship with God those whom He had redeemed. He is the perfect priest. Why? Because "He loveth us, and loosed us from our sins in his blood."

Vision is a more powerful sense than hearing, and if we could only see Jesus to-day—if we could "behold the Lamb of God," no argument would be needed to convince us that He is the perfection of priesthood. I want to speak first of the load, and then of the loosening of the load. When the Lord Jesus came to save man, He found man lying crushed under an awful load, and that load was our sin. Ah! How easy it is to say "our sin," but how tremendously difficult it is to form anything like an adequate conception of what the words mean. We shall never rightly understand the work of Christ until we understand our sin; and we shall never understand that until the Lord Jesus as prophet reveals the meaning of sin to our souls. Let us try to get hold of the meaning.

When Jesus Christ came to reconcile man to God He had to deal with the whole of human sin. Think of the sins of a single man. Look into your own heart, and honest self-examination will reveal a state of matters that will fill you with utter amazement. Most of us are mere children in knowledge of

THE SINFULNESS OF OUR OWN HEARTS.

If we knew ourselves better, we should loathe ourselves because of our sins. When a man sees his own heart, he cries with the Psalmist: "Innumerable evils have compassed me about; mine iniquities have taken hold upon me, so that I am not able to look up; they are more than the hairs of my head: therefore my heart faileth me."

If I were to enumerate the sins of a single life, before I had got half-way through you would be sick of the horrid catalogue. Look at the multitude of our sins! Think of our breaches, our transgressions, of the law of truth—of our lying, our exaggeration, our slander, our calumny, our evil-speaking, our hypocrisy, cunning, fraud, and deceit. Think of our transgressions of the law of justice—our disregard of the rights of others, unfairness, rudeness, incivility, want of courtesy, want of gratitude. Think of our transgressions of the law of love—our malice, our regarding others as below us, and the petty annoyances to which we have subjected those with whom we have come into contact. Think of our transgressions of the law of self-control—our sins of temper and appetite. a need not extend the list. I was reading recently I catalogue of 252 sins, under one of these general heads. I pass by our laziness, our indolence, our sensuality, when we have allowed the body of sin and death to get the upper hand of our spirit. There is not a sin that we could mention but there is a possibility of it in our hearts. As we are judged by the searching law of God, as interpreted in the Sermon on the Mount, we can only cry: "If Thou shouldest mark iniquity, who should stand?"

As the awfulness of sin dawns upon our souls, we cry, "God, be merciful to me a sinner!" The priest who could deal with the sin of mankind must be the very perfection of a priest. Our sins were not only numerous but heinous—not only against light but against love. We did what was evil and gloried in it. Multiply the sins of one life by the sins of the millions of the redeemed. Look at the sin of Adam, the sins of Abraham, David, and of God's people through all the ages, and think what a load it must have been. Is it not amazing that the Son of God should have faced the putting away of a black cloud like that of our sin?

We pass on to consider the loosing of the load. When the Lord Jesus Christ came forth as the gift of the Father's love to the world, He not only found man under the load of sin, but from his own shoulders, and with the conviction of impotence growing deeper and deeper in the mind of the race. Read history, and you will find that men have all along had a conviction that they are lost, a consciousness of sin, and of being in a wrong relation to God; and these feelings have been at the bottom of all the disquiet and unrest that have troubled the human race. Aware of the need of deliverance, the race has made efforts to deliver itself, but discovered its inability to put away sin.

UTTERLY UNABLE TO REMOVE THE LOAD

It has been realised that sorrow cannot cancel sin, and that repentance is very different from pardon. The murderer commits his sin, and is sorry; but he is a murderer still. The impure man sins, and is sorry; but he is an impure man still. Judas was sorry for his sin, and yet Scripture tells us that he "went to his own place."

Then, again, sacrifice will not put away sin. It is pathetic to see the altars smoking with countless victims, and men offering the seed of their body for the sin of their soul, and to see written over it all the word "Failure." The Mosaic sacrifices were appointed by God, and offered year by year; and when this had gone on for centuries, the inspired writer had to tell us, "It was impossible that the blood of bulls and of goats should put away sin." Nothing in front but blackness and darkness; then, as the proverb says, "When need is higher, help is nigher." When it had been burnt into the heart of the race that man could not save himself, then the Lord Jesus Christ was "manifested to put away sin!" He established his claim to be a sacrificing priest by putting away the load that was crushing us down. The Bible tells us how He did it.

HE LOOSED US FROM THE BURDEN

of our sins by taking the burden upon Himself. God forbid that the familiarity of the story should make us lose sight of the wonder of it. "All we like sheep have gone astray"; "The Lord laid on Him the iniquity of us all." "He bore our sins in his own body on the tree." "He was wounded for our transgressions, and bruised for our inquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with his stripes we are healed." It cost Him his blood. Think of what that load must have been which even the Son of God could not carry; for when it was laid on Him it killed Him. In Gethsemane he said, "Father, if it be possible, let this cup—this awful load—pass from Me." He was "sorrowful even unto death; his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling upon the ground." Ah! He loosed us from our sins in his own blood; and when, on Calvary, the load was laid upon Him, there burst out of the darkness that cry, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" Then "He bowed his head and gave up the ghost!"

O Christ, what burdens bowed thy head!
Our load was laid on Thee;
Thou stoodest in the sinner's stead,
Didst bear all ill for me.
A Victim led, thy blood was shed;
Thy bruising healeth me.

The Lord was unloosed that we might be loosed.

Bearing shame and scoffing rude,
In my place condemned He stood;
Sealed my pardon with his blood:
Hallelujah! what a Saviour!

And because He has done this, and "put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself," He has the right to be proclaimed the completion of sacrifice and priesthood.

Then, remember, He helps us. I like to recall Bunyan's words: "I saw in my dream that the highway up which Christian was to go, was fenced on either side with a wall, and that wall was called Salvation. Up this way, therefore, did burdened Christian run, but not without difficulty, because of the load on his back. He ran thus till he came at a place somewhat ascending, and upon that place stood a cross, and a little below, in the bottom, a sepulchre. Just as Christian came up to the cross, his burden loosed from off his shoulders, and fell from off his back, and began to tumble, and so continued to do till it came to the mouth of the sepulchre, where it fell in. Then Christian gave three leaps for joy, and went on singing—

'Thus far I did come laden with my sin,
Nor could aught ease the grief that I was in Till I came hither. What a place is this!
Must here be the beginning of my bliss?
Must here the burden fall from off my back?
Must here the strings that bound it to me crack?
Blest cross! blest sepulchre! blest rather be
The Man that there was put to shame for me!'"

"God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world."

The prayers of the assembly were presented by Rev. Evan H. Hopkins, some of the special petitions (read by Col. Morton) being: For the Christians of Madagascar, that in their present trials their faith in God may grow, and if it be God's will the war may come to a speedy end, and religious liberty be maintained; for England, that she may be brought to forsake her national sins, and especially desist from complicity in the opium traffic; that disregard for the Lord's Day may cease, and that the tendency among our people to be "lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God" may be checked; that false charity, which sees no difference between God's Gospel and such error as Romanism, may be realised as sin against God; that, if it be God's will, rain may be given for the strengthening of the crops and the refreshment of the land.

An address on the same subject followed from Rev. Andrew Murray, which we defer to a succeeding issue.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

A full audience greeted the platform friends on this second evening of the Conference. After a season of silent prayer, the company sang heartily the hymn of praise and supplication:—

O Lord, with one accord,
We gather round thy throne,
To hear thy holy Word,
To worship Thee alone.
Now send from heaven the Holy Ghost;
Be this another Pentecost.

Psalm cx. was read by the chairman, Lord Polwarth. The Hon. and Rev. R. Moreton led in prayer for a rich and present blessing. The addresses were in continuation of the morning's subject, "Our Lord Jesus Christ, the completion of sacrifice and priesthood." The first speaker was who chose for his text Heb. vii. 25, "Wherefore He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them." This passage, he said, is often wrongly applied. It belongs primarily not to the unconverted but to the children of God. It is the practical conclusion of all the glorious truths we have heard at previous Conference meetings. Who are here referred to? They are described as "those that come unto God by Jesus Christ." To come to God in this epistle means to worship God, which is the highest service of all—higher than prayer, and higher than work. In order to worship we must first of all have access. There can be no access without pardon. The altar's place of atonement stood outside the holy place; the place of worship was within the veil. We are exhorted here to draw nigh, not to the place of atonement, but to the place of worship—from the altar to the throne. When we come to the cross with our need and guilt, and having got pardon and access, we draw near to the place of worship. In order to pardon there must be sacrifice—that sacrifice we find in the person of Christ Himself.

REV. EVAN H. HOPKINS.

The writer here is not thinking of an isolated act, but of a habit; and so it is in the present tense, not the past or the perfect. So the text is for us now and always. We have been considering wonderful truths; now we need to have power to apply them in daily life. Christ is able to save us, thank God. But salvation is a big word. It is past and complete in the work of Christ on the cross. It is also future and perfect, "kept through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time." But it is also present. He is able to be saving us from day to day. Here is the Gospel for the saint. We need to be saved from selfishness, pride, temper, evil thoughts, evil speakings, anxieties, worries—how many things we Christians need to be saved from! And He is able. We are not able. Let our weakness hang on his omnipotence "to the uttermost"—that is, to the very end. His priesthood abides ever; there is no death in his sublime ministry. Therefore He is able to save us evermore, to the very end.

He has this power to save, "because He ever liveth." His death has put us right with God, but in his life everything is communicated to us. Reconciled by his death: saved in his life and in union with his life. This includes every daily need, strength, cleansing, satisfying, transforming. Do we dread some besetting sin? He will save by keeping. He is able to succour in trial and temptation. So the living Christ day by day, moment by moment, gives that living power which He has purchased by his death. As we take a fresh view of our great High Priest, and look forward to the difficulties of the future, let us believe that He is able to save us, because we are in the habit of continually coming to God by Him.

After another song and prayer,

REV. H. LINDSAY YOUNG

took up the evening's theme, referring in detail to some Scriptural statements, touching Christ's sacrifice and priesthood. Heb. ix. 26, puts the subject in a nutshell: "Now once in the end of the world hath He [Jesus Christ] appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself." Christ's dying words were, "It is finished." He came for a definite work. It was not in his life of devotion, but in his death, that we have an atonement for sin. God's holiness demanded that we as a sinful people should have a sacrifice in order to acceptance with Him. God's love never shines more brightly than when preached on the dark background of his wrath against sin, and in his provision of a sacrifice to atone for that sin. Christ is the essence and kernel of all the typical teaching of the old dispensation. Prophecy, type, and promise were like so many converging lines, pointing to Calvary. Further, the rending of the veil of the temple after the crucifixion was a picture of the removing of all hindrance to access to God. The age of sacrifice and ritual was now at an end. If we use altars now we are quite out of date, and eighteen hundred years behind the times. The proper place for them is in the graveyard. Christ's resurrection proved the completion of his sacrificial work. After his resurrection he proclaimed "Peace," which was the fruit coming from the blossom of his atonement. His blood was the golden key that opened the kingdom of heaven to all believers. In Hebrews ix. 25, 26, we see the connection between offering and sacrifice. The sacrifice could only be synonymous with the offering. This strikes completely at the root of the sacerdotal idea that Christ is now continually offering his sacrifice in heaven. If so, He would be undergoing ceaseless suffering—a monstrous theory. The speaker also dwelt on the perpetuity of the priesthood of Christ—it is "not transferable." We read that Christ hath "sat down at the right hand of God," having completed his rest—the posture of rest after work done. He is not sitting at an altar, but on a throne. And He pleads from a throne; not in the way of beseeching the Father for something for us. The word denotes the request of an equal. It is not "I beg," but "I will," as it was in his prayer for his disciples in John xvii. Repentance unto remission of sin is the message to the unsaved; for the believer it is that Christ hath prepared a place for us, and by-and-by He will come and take us there to be with Himself.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The last day of Conference opened with the singing of Hymn 9:—

O God of glorious majesty,
Messiah, King of grace.

Colonel Morton said: I have been asked to mention, as treasurer, the state of affairs with regard to finance. The work at Mildmay is large, widespread, and multifarious, covering an immense field, and reaching large numbers of people. There are two Hospitals, with two convalescent homes, and a whole circle of missions—some twenty in London alone—radiating from this centre, besides those at Malta and in Palestine. Moreover, there is the Deaconess House, the Orphanage, the Probationers' House, and various other institutions all needing support. Last year mention was made of this subject, with special reference to the Training Home, the Willows, in which hundreds have been trained for service in home and foreign missions. We wanted to secure a piece of land to complete our compound and provide needed space. We asked, I think, £1800; we received about £1450, leaving £350 still wanted. We render praise and thanksgiving to God with reference to the Willows. Now, as to the general funds. Last year the deficiency, in round figures, was about £4444; at the close of the Conference this was brought down to about £3333, and now it is about £2222. We should be glad if beloved friends will think of us as going on—not at Conference times only—but all the year round.

Lord Polwarth, who presided, said: I think we realise that, as we separate to different parts, after having enjoyed this sacred time here, Mildmay itself should never be forgotten. We should carry away with us sympathy for the great work going on here. Let us try to familiarise ourselves with the operations. This hall is a great centre of missionary work, and especially, I think I may say, of woman's work. Here many are trained for service, and many of these handmaidens are now scattered over the earth. It has been well said, "We are God's hand to use as He will"; and so Mildmay is God's hand stretched out to the poor and suffering, as witness the hospitals, in this great and tried city. I trust many will visit the Bethnal Green Hospital and see what is being done. There are also the Training Home, the Orphanage, and other operations going on. God's hand is on this work; and as we scatter to the ends of the

(Continued on page 19.)

NOTES ON DAILY READINGS.

SUNDAY, JULY 7.—REV. VII.

The Sealing of the 144,000 (1-8).—This scene closely resembles that in Ezekiel, where the seal of the living God is impressed on the foreheads of those who sigh and cry for the abominations of the land (Ezekiel ix.). How careful God is of his own; not a wind can be loosed from its leash until his own are safe. So Noah was delivered from the deluge, and Lot from Sodom. God knows his own, He seals them and gives them his Holy Spirit in their hearts (2 Cor i. 21, 22). To be sealed of God is to bear the imprint of the character of Jesus so obviously that those who meet us can be sure that we are his. (4) The definiteness of this number indicates the perfectness and greatness of this the first fruit sheaf of souls. If the first sheaf be so full and heavy, what will not the harvest be (ch. xiv. 4).

The Ingathering of the Gentiles (9-17).—Beyond human count in number; representing every country under heaven; spotless in their character; victorious in their conflict against evil; ascribing all the glory to the Lamb—see one result at least of the travail of his soul. If these had accumulated in heaven at the beginning of this era, what have not the Gospel triumphs of nineteen centuries effected? (11) The sight of the saved shall stimulate new songs in angel-breasts. (13) A question to elicit the confession of ignorance and humility to be presently illuminated. God loves to bring us to an end of ourselves that we may be driven to Him for light. (14) Tribulation will be behind for ever. But they are not there because of their sufferings, but through his. (15) The perpetual service of the heavenly temple, the fellowship of God, the satisfaction of every unfulfilled yearning, the screening from trial and temptation, the following of the Shepherd-Lamb ever deeper into the heart of heaven, to further draughts of the fountains of life—all these elements compose such a picture, that we do not wonder that Burns said he could never read this paragraph without feeling that tears were near.

MONDAY, JULY 8.—REV. VIII.

The Four Trumpets.—Silence! (1, 2).—As the hush which precedes the thunderstorm, so this hush the terrors of the events that followed. What a conception is here. A little before, heaven was resonant with praise; now all is still.

Prayer (3-5).—The prayers of saints need mingling with the fragrance of the Saviour's merit, only so may they ascend to the hallowed presence of the Eternal. Is not this angel but the Lord Jesus under the guise in which he appeared to the tent of Abraham. But see how prayer may bring vengeance on those who have persecuted the saints, and corrupted the earth with their violence and sin. It may be that your prayers are wanting in eloquence and force, but in Christ they are sweet to God; and they will bring judgment on the world as Elijah's did on Israel, through which the purposes of redemption will be accelerated.

Hail, Fire, Wormwood (6-12).—We have no desire to enter on the possible explanation of these symbols, but let us remember that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain because of human sin. The course of nature is out of joint, and yearns for the manifestation of the sons of God when it shall be delivered.

The Announcement of Coming Woes (13).—As in the case of Egypt, so here, due notice is given of the approaching storm, that all who will may find shelter in the Rock of Ages. Let us not delay seeking that refuge, lest we be overwhelmed, as Lot's wife on the plains of Sodom.

TUESDAY, JULY 9.—REV. IX.

The Fifth and Sixth Trumpets.—The Locusts (1-11).—Whether these words refer to the incursion of Northern Barbarians, or of Mahomet and his followers; whether this plague has been realised, or yet awaits fulfilment; whether after all the assault of the passions on the soul is not the main subject under consideration—the present writer cannot decide. Only mark that those that have the seal of God are alone safe (4.) The destroying angel passes over the houses marked by blood. (11) Behind all the evils that devastate the world there is the evil working of the wicked spirits that rule its darkness. We fight not against flesh and blood, but against these; and only as we use spiritual weapons, and are filled by the Holy Spirit, can we prevail. Only the spiritual can cope with the spiritual.

The Loosing of the Angels (12-21).—The River Euphrates possibly stands for nations and hordes of men that have emanated, or shall emanate, from that vicinity. It is also closely associated with Babylon. (20) Idolatry is in its ultimate essence demon-worship. Men worship demons under the effigies of wood and stone, and the works of idolaters prove their origin. Murders, sorceries, fornication, and theft are the crop which comes of such evil seed. How great need there is to dispossess the hearts of men of such hideous prepossessions, that Jesus may be enthroned in all his beauty and majesty.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 10.—REV. X.

The Angel with the Book (1-11).—If one of God's angels is so strong and glorious, what must the Lord of the angels be! From the splendour of the retinue, we can estimate the wealth of the Prince. This little book may be the record of all that was to ensue, for when the seer had eaten it, he was commissioned to further tell its burden (13). (4) There are things spoken to the saints, which, as Paul says, no tongue can utter. But though frequently God speaks in thunder, his voice is oftenest small and still. (6) What a magnificent conception of God, the Ever-living, the Creator, the Unfolder of good-tidings! (9) Much that is sweet and delightful in its first inception is bitter in its actual experience. When first we catch a glimpse of the life of consecration and victory, how accessible and easy it seems, till we learn that we can only enter and maintain it by self-denial and death. When a new ministry is entrusted to us, as to the prophet, we count that we shall so easily be able to meet all its demands, we do not realise how much assiduous toil and bitter experience are involved. Thus our Lord was always careful to describe how much his disciples might have to renounce and suffer. But there is blessedness in what seems bitterest, through the dark we reach the true light.

THURSDAY, JULY 11.—REV. XI.

The Two Witnesses (1-13).—It is not easy to say whom these witnesses represent. For us, it is sufficient to know that God never leaves Himself without witness. All through these centuries of the prevalence of the world-powers there has been a succession of holy souls, sometimes, like the Waldenses of the Alps, almost extinguished, which has maintained and transmitted the Gospel testimony. The forty-two months of thirty days each is equivalent to the 1260 days, so that the desecration of the sanctuary and the witness-bearing run side by side. (4) Referring to Zechariah's vision; those who witness for God must be fed and nourished by oil from God. (5) God's care of his own. (6) Like Elijah they have power with God through their prayers and faith. (7) Often the powers of evil have seemed to triumph, but the ultimate victory has been with the saints, whom they had murdered. (11) For truth there is resurrection as well as for the saints. Oh that our testimony were strong enough to torment people!

The Kingdom Come (14-19).—The kingdom is now in mystery; then it will be in manifestation. Christ and his saints shall rule the earth from the heavenly places. What a burst of joy will roll through the universe when the Divine power shall be acknowledged in this corner of his universe, so long the scene of usurpation and rebellion. (19) What comfort, amid the convulsions and terrors of those last days, to see the symbol of God's covenant of grace, which shall reassure the timid but trustful soul. That covenant is our everlasting security.

FRIDAY, JULY 12.—REV. XII.

The Woman and her Child (1-8).—The spirit of evil waits to destroy every birth of good in our world. As soon as the virgin mother was delivered of her first-born, Herod did his worst to destroy Him, and this is characteristic of all the ages. But God is ever nearest when the devil comes to devour. He has his prepared places, where He hides those that trust in Him, the secret of his pavilion, where He keeps them from the pride of man.

War in Heaven (9-12).—Not here only, but throughout the universe, evil has brought conflict. But from those heavenly places evil is being gradually driven, till the last stand shall be made upon our world. (10) What though Satan accuse, the blood of Jesus and his most gracious intercession prevail over all that he can say or do. (11) Oh, precious blood, what could we say if it had not been shed? But now we have only to point to it to find a conclusive reply to the worst allegations of our foes. (12) Whenever Satan rages most it is because he feels he must make as much as he can of a limited rope.

War on Earth (13-17).—Perhaps the woman represents the Church. Here is the enmity between her seed and the serpent's. The bruising which the Divine Voice predicted in Eden must go forward to the bitter end; and in so far as we keep the commandments of God and the testimony of Jesus we shall be involved in it. Let us hold to this testimony, speaking by life and lip, bearing witness to the unseen Lord, as the moon to the sun that has set behind the western wave.

SATURDAY, JULY 13.—REV. XIII.

The Beast out of the Sea (1-10).—The horns symbolise power, the heads intelligence, the beast (as in Daniel) an earthly kingdom. The dragon must stand for Satan. How clear it is that Satan has wrought some of his greatest achievements through earthly potentates and systems, and has thus dominated the minds of men. It is through the world-powers also that the spleen and hate of hell have been piled on the saints of God. What a comfort to know that the duration of such power is limited to forty-two symbolic months. (7) That which is popular with the great world of men must be antagonistic to the saints. They are no longer of the world, but have been chosen out of the world; thus they are hated, and liable to the keenest opposition of those who are dominated by the prince of this world. Wherever unregenerate men congregate there is the kingdom of the beast, and there will be hatred and persecution for the saints. (8) Oh, how needful to be sure that our names are written in the Lamb's Book of Life. This will compensate us amid the most virulent opposition.

The Beast out of the Earth (11-18).—The forms of evil societies have been manifold. Pagan and papal have arisen in turn. Many are Satan's devices to turn the minds of men from God. The brand of the Beast mimics the seal of God. It is somehow connected with trade and commerce, and only those who have it may trade. What can it be? May it not be the habit of lying and cheating, of gambling and speculation, of self-interest, which is only too rife amongst us. It is hard for the godly man to hold his own. This is the form in which God's saints have now to suffer. May we have grace to be loyal to Christ in spite of all, and not to count our lives dear for his sake. F. B. M.

MRS. BAEYERTZ AT FALKIRK

THIS lady has finished a fortnight's mission here, June 12 to 26. From the first meeting to the close not a night passed without blessing and souls being led to decision. One evening was devoted to men and boys, and another to women and girls. The meeting for women and girls was largely attended and very fruitful.

The principal meetings during the week were held in the Free Church. On Sunday evening the meetings had to be held in the Parish Church (the largest in the town), which was crowded in every part, nearly 2000 being present. Bible readings were held every afternoon in the Christian Institute; these were largely attended, and have proved very helpful to Christians. The closing meeting of the mission was held in the Parish Church. This took the form of a conversation meeting. A deep solemnity pervaded the proceedings from the beginning to the close; hundreds remained to a closing prayer meeting when five ministers each in turn led the devotions.

The visit of Mrs. Baeyertz will long be remembered, and her mission as one of the most successful ever held in Falkirk. Her style is free and unconventional, and whether expounding the Scriptures, pressing home the truths of the Gospel, or recounting some personal reminiscence or illustrative incident, she rivets the attention of her hearers. She has a fine, clear utterance, a well-modulated voice, a rare command of language, and makes her points with great clearness of force. Her position as a converted Jewess gives her an immense advantage in dealing with Bible themes into which so much of the Jewish element enters.

Mrs. Baeyertz's next mission will be held this month in Campbeltown. H. M.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSONS.

JULY 14.

THE GOLDEN CALF.—Exod. xxxii. 1-8; 30-35.

GOLDEN TEXT.—1 John v. 21.

THE melancholy event this chapter relates took place only six or seven weeks after the giving of the Law, and in sight of the very Mount on which that law was given. How speedily the people have violated their promise (xix. 8), and broken some of the most important commands so solemnly given! Tell the story—of the demand of the people (1); of Aaron's weakness in yielding to their demand, and becoming practically their leader in idolatry (2-6); of God's anger, and his practical rejection of the people (7-10); of Moses' judgment of the people, after his descent from the Mount (15-29); and of his intercession, by which he stood in the breach and turned away God's anger (11-14; 30, 35). Compare with the narrative here the account given in Deut. ix. 11-21; and Psa. cvi. 19-23.

The lessons will appear as we think of the people, of Aaron, and of Moses.

I. We may try to excuse the sin of the people by remembering their long residence in Egypt, and their familiarity with idols there, and the fact that Moses had been for several weeks absent from them. These facts may explain, but do not excuse, their sin. The miracles performed in Egypt, their deliberately-formed covenant with God, the experience of God's power which they had lately enjoyed; the pillar of cloud and fire, the daily supply of manna, the glory surrounding the Mount, all these left them without excuse. They were guilty of casting off God, and substituting in his place an image which another had made. Gods that need to be made (1) are not fit objects of worship. Are there no idolaters except those who bow down to such images? Our goldentext warns us that we may all sin in this matter. Anything that is put in God's place as an object of worship or of confidence, becomes our idol. The calves we make are pride, fashion, pleasure, gain, position.

It is important to contrast their view of their sin with that taken by God. Their words, and the words of Aaron (4, 5), seem to suggest that the calf was not to displace God, but was an outward and visible symbol by means of which they worshipped the true and invisible God. It is by such methods that Ritualists and Romanists seek to justify the idolatry of their worship. God's view is different, "They have made a calf and have worshipped it." (8-10.)

II. Aaron appears in this story to great disadvantage. First, in responding to the demand of the people (1-5). No excuse can be offered for him. He ought not to have been surprised into the committal of such a sin, nor to have been terrified by the violence of the people. The same hands that had wielded the rod of God fashioned the calf, and built the altar for it. Next, in attempting to excuse his sin (21-24). He seeks to shrink the blame, and put it all upon the people; and he tells the story as though the calf had mysteriously made itself! Every attempt to excuse sin will have a similar result.

III. Moses appears in splendid contrast to Aaron. See him rejecting a grand opportunity (10). He has the offer of a position as great as that of Abraham. The spirit of carnal ambition, that desires to rise whoever may fall, would have said: "Let the people perish as they deserve, and let me take a splendid offer when I have the chance." Moses is too great a man to reason so. See him practically sacrificing himself. Nowhere is he a more beautiful type of Jesus than in this narrative. He so identifies himself with the people that he is willing to have no blessing—not even life itself—apart from them (32; compare Rom. ix. 3). See him as an intercessor, finding in the words "Let me alone" (10) an implied promise that God put Himself into his servant's hands, and was willing to yield to his servant's entreaties. And how skilfully he pleads! Not a single argument can he draw from the people; he can only plead the fact that they are God's covenant people (11), that the glory of God was involved in their deliverance (12), and that his oath to Abraham bound Him to do it (13).

Yet his conduct when he came down from the Mount showed that he had no sympathy with the people's sin. The shattering of the two tables was a fit emblem of the people's guilt (19). How could he take an unbroken law into the midst of such a people? His treatment of the idol was most wise (20). He revealed the utter impotence of their god, and made it to be the instrument of their punishment. He called for an act of judgment on those who were the worst offenders (25-29). Desperate evils can only be corrected by desperate remedies In the present conflict with evil, on which side are we?

For the Young.

OUR CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOURERS.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer.

ONE wet, chilly April evening, our Christian Endeavourers found their way to a narrow back street in the Borough to help one of their number to form a society in a Ragged School. A tea had preceded the meeting attended by about twenty children, the majority hatless. The first hour was spent in an ordinary C.E. meeting, conducted by a friend from a neighbouring society, who was there with several of his members. At 7.30 these were obliged to leave, and the Christ Church Endeavourers were asked to conduct the meeting for another half hour. They were twelve in number, and about fourteen children stayed. After singing, four of our members told in simple, earnest words what the Lord Jesus had done for them, and invited the children to come to Him to learn what a Saviour He could be. Short prayers followed, and those who wished to settle the matter at once were asked to remain behind. Eight girls stayed, with whom our members were soon engaged in separate conversations in different parts of the room; in some cases they were praying with their little charges, in others, pleading they should give themselves to Christ.

As two of the children rose from their knees after talking and praying with a young Endeavourer, a lady who was present crossed the room to speak to them. She immediately observed a great difference in the children, of whom one was radiantly glad, whilst the other was sobbing bitterly.

"What is the matter, dear?" she asked.

"I am so naughty," was the child's reply, amidst her sobs.

"Then you are just the one the Lord Jesus came to save!"

And a little talk followed to explain the text, "All we like sheep have gone astray."

"You know that you have been like a silly little sheep, going astray from the Shepherd."

"Yes, I am so naughty."

"But the text says, 'The Lord laid on Jesus that sin of yours.' Now, is it on you or on Jesus?"

"On me," came amid fresh sobs.

Thinking she had not fully understood the meaning, the text was again explained quietly and gently, followed by the same query, only to be answered by a heart-breaking cry, "On me!"

Ah! the Holy Spirit was Himself wonderfully teaching that little earnest soul, giving deep lessons such as no talking could convey. But they thought she did not understand!

At that moment the lady had to move away to speak to another child. When she returned at the end of a few minutes, the tears were gone, whilst the face of the young Endeavourer was beaming with the new-found joy of leading a soul to the Saviour.

The story was soon told. Pointing to two slices of bread-and-butter lying on the table, the young helper said, "She took those out of her pocket; she stole them from the tea-table as she passed. This was why she was crying—she knew that her sin could not be on Jesus whilst she had these in her pocket. But now she has confessed and given them up, and has given herself right away to Him."

Poor little untaught, ragged child! It was probably hunger that prompted her to take the food—the thought of to-morrow's want! And yet she knew that unconfessed sin must be a barrier between her and the forgiveness she longed for.

A wonderful ideal of the Christian life demanded from one who had been bought by the precious blood of Christ seemed instantly imprinted on the little mind, for as she left the room she said softly, "Teacher, will you put up a prayer for me sometimes?"

"Yes, dear, willingly! What do you especially want prayer for?"

"When mother asks me to help her, I grumbles!"

"Who teacheth like Him?" Too few of us Christians, daily engaged in Christian work, count our grumbles as a fall in our Christian walk! May we not learn a lesson here?

And now bright, happy faces were seen all about the room, as one by one these little lambs were found by the Good Shepherd, and one little voice was heard saying, "Teacher, thank you so much for leading me to Jesus Christ to-night." After the singing of "Praise God," and the offering of two short prayers, they went out in the darkness, but with the Light of Life in their hearts. And as the young Endeavourers stood in a group, voice after voice was lifted in thanksgiving that they had been called to be fellow-workers with God, uniting with their praise supplications for those who had just left.

But the work of the evening was not yet over. A rap was heard at the door, and two small boys were brought in by a little girl with the words, "My brothers want to be Christians."

One of the teachers in the Ragged School spoke with them for some few minutes, and at the conclusion the two professed to have given their hearts to Christ. Quite kindly and gently the teacher said, "Well, boys, I think it was a very good impulse that brought you in at that door, but I don't feel you quite understand what you are saying."

"Yes we do, sir," was the eager answer.

"Then you can kneel down right away, and thank Jesus for dying for you."

"Don't know what to say."

"The words will come when you kneel." And after a moment's hesitation the two boys, in quite different little prayers, were thanking the Lord Jesus.

There were ten little ones that night who seemed to come into the kingdom, and "Thank God!" was the one expression on the lips of each Endeavourer. A strange sense of their own weakness and insufficiency suddenly came over them, given expression to by one boy on the homeward way. "We do want less of self, and all of Christ." God grant this may be only the first fruits of a great harvest that God will gather for Himself through the devoted lives and earnest words of the members of our Christian Endeavour Society.—Christian Treasury.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. H. Hutchinson, Blackheath, July 5; Stroud Green, July 7; Upper Norwood Congregational School, July 8; Broxbourne, July 9; Mr. H. Hankinson, Bishop's Waltham, July 4; Sparsholt, July 5; Mr. H. Falkner, Finchley, July 7; Mr. J. S. Tyler, Herne Bay, July 7-25; Mr. T. Lewes Sayer, Lordship-lane, July 13; Mr. S. J. Hewlett, Ridgmont, Beds., to July 7.

Special Prayer Meeting for Seaside Services, with address by Rev. G. H. C. Macgregor, at Thirlmere, Homefield-road, Bromley, Kent, Thursday, July 4, 7.30.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for week ending July 13, 1895.—Sun., July 7, Genesis xxvii. 30-40; Mon., 8, xxvii. 41-46, xxviii. 1-5; Tues., 9, xxviii. 10-22; Wed., 10, xxix. 1-20; Thurs., 11, xxxi. 14-29; Fri., 12, xxxi. 36-50; Sat., 13, xxxii. 1-16.

AFTER.

AFTER the storms of earth below
There is a calm eternal;
From every grief and sin and woe
A rest, a rest supernal.

After the bitter rain of tears,
The sadness and the sorrow,
There is a dawn of brighter years,
A glad, a glad to-morrow.

After the disappointments here
That earth has always given,
There is a blessed hope and cheer,
At last, at last in heaven.

After the journey dark and lone
Along death's awful river,
There is the brightness of the throne
For ever and for ever.

JOHN WILFRID MCCLURE.

DR. PENTECOST'S SERMONS.—Four recent discourses by the Presbyterian pastor at Marylebon, have been issued by Mr. G. Taylor, 40, Southwick-street, W. Two of them, preached on Sunday-June 23, are issued in one number. The four discourses can be had for sixpence, or separate numbers, 2d. each. They deal with important living topics; close argument, clear exposition, and warm appeal are admirably intermingled.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.—Rev. W. J. Mayers conducted anniversary services of the Sunday-school connected with the Prewitt-street Mission, Bristol, on Sunday, June 23. At the close of the morning service about 300 children's garments, prepared chiefly by young people of the Sunday-school, were handed to Mr. Mayers for use in the work of the Homes. Mr. Mayers will this week be holding meetings in aid of the Homes in Suffolk and Norfolk, and will be accompanied by a party of Dr. Barnardo's musical boys.

The Revival of 1859.

SOME OF ITS FRUITS.

I am glad to see from The Christian of June 13 and 20, that correspondents continue to tell of the Lord's doings during the Revival of 1859. I believe God is glorified by thus acknowledging the work of the Holy Spirit, and I hope others who are old enough to remember that solemn visitation, will relate to your readers what they saw and heard.

The early numbers of The Revival give many particulars, but I well remember that the local secular newspapers of that day gave full graphic and special details, whole pages being filled week after week with accounts of meetings in churches, halls, and in the open air, lasting all night, night after night, in open fields, during the summer of 1859, at Coleraine and other parts of Ireland. It may seem strange to some that these outward manifestations have largely ceased, but I believe that blessed fruits of that outpouring of the Holy Spirit in Ireland, Scotland, and America have been seen ever since. To-day we can trace them more than ever in the unprecedented energy and self-denial shown by lay Evangelists, both men and women, of the highest and the lowest, the educated and the uneducated classes, going forth preaching the Gospel in the open air, and in tents, barns, iron rooms, and great assembly halls.

Not only in those countries where in 1859 the outward manifestations appeared, was that work effectual, but I believe that at that same time, and subsequently, "the same Spirit" was working quietly in England and elsewhere, in the conversion of a large number of persons, who, not seeing the necessity of postponing active Gospel work for the sake of a university education (which indeed some of them already possessed), and not feeling it expedient to become clergymen of the Church of England, or ministers of either of the existing Nonconformist churches, became evangelists, and went forth everywhere preaching the Gospel of Christ.

Some of these converts joined existing missionary societies and went forth to the heathen, but most of them to the towns and villages in England. By these has the great Evangelistic work been carried on from that day till this in the halls and tents already alluded to. Most of them are still with us, but Arthur Blackwood, Brownlow North, Lord Shaftesbury, Mrs. Daniell and her devoted daughter, William Taylor, Robert Baxter, John McGregor, Gawin Kirkham, F. R. Havergal, and others, have been called hence and rest from their labours. Their hands were greatly strengthened by the formation of the Evangelisation Society, whose offices are at Surrey-street, W.C., where, under the management of an honorary secretary and committee, engagements to preach the Gospel as lay Evangelists are arranged throughout the year in hundreds of separate localities. No attempt is made by the organisation to establish new churches or sects, or to administer sacraments; but the converts are earnestly exhorted to join some existing church and avail themselves of these means of grace.

During this same period there have also been established or greatly increased the blessed works in connection with the Mildmay Institutions, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Institutes at Aldershot, Portsmouth, Devonport, and Winchester (these latter being conducted by energetic and devoted Christian ladies, the wondrous missions of Messrs. Moody and Sankey, the continually increasing number of Y.M.C.A. Associations throughout the world, with their central Association and National Council in London, the jubilee of which was celebrated last year.

The Christian philanthropy shown in the increased efforts on behalf of orphans at Bristol, London, and many other places, are also gratifying features of these latter days, by which many thousands of waifs and strays are brought up under Gospel teaching, and are subsequently established as useful members of society, both at home and in our colonies. These works were comparatively unknown forty years ago, and most of them have sprung up independently of any ecclesiastical organisations, though in no case antagonistic to them.

Those who witnessed the awful manifestations of the Spirit of God 35 and 36 years ago will scarcely presume to pray for a repetition almost of the same outward visitations, but we must all rejoice and praise God for the "fruits of the Spirit" we are now witnessing in the works I have alluded to, and prayer should continually be made in churches, chapels, halls, and in families, for a mighty outpouring of God's Holy Spirit on all these institutions and on those carrying them on.

Thus far I have alluded chiefly to the preaching of the Gospel at home, but the remarkable increase of the foreign missionary spirit in England of late years, as manifested in the "New Departures" of the Church Missionary Society, the London Missionary and kindred Societies is most gratifying; as is also the almost unique work of the "China Inland Mission" and some others, in which the founders and the agents, both men and women, have gone forth to evangelise China and the world without the promise of pecuniary support from committees at home as guaranteed by the older missionary societies. This marvellous increase of foreign missionary work, including medical missions, is also within the last thirty or thirty-five years, and those of us who remember the time of the Revival of 1859-60, when very few of these organisations existed, are constrained to say, "This is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes." The Lord increase our faith, and enable us to believe that we have the things we ask; may He fill us with his Holy Spirit, and enable us to "stretch forth the withered hand."

Martin Hope Sutton,

NOTES FROM SIAM.

By J. E. BUDGETT MEAKIN.

This field is occupied almost exclusively by the American Presbyterians, though the American Baptists also hold property here, and have in former years done solid work among the Chinese immigrants. There are a few Independent brethren here as well, but the bulk of the people has not yet been reached. The progress made by Siam in the steps of Europe has, however, been the outcome of the advice of the early missionaries, one of whom became the late king's tutor. Owing to the international jealousies of the European Powers, it is well that the work should remain in American hands, but it is lamentable that it should not be prosecuted with much greater vigour. There is ample room for a hundred more.

It so happened that my first step in Siam was on to the grounds of one of the Mission schools—that at Bangkok for boys. Here, next afternoon, I had the pleasure of meeting the members of a newly-formed Y.M.C.A., transformed out of a C.E. Soc., as it consisted entirely of young men. For a newcomer it was an interesting as well as an encouraging sight, that gathering of brown-skinned brush-haired youths, with bare legs and pink, green, black, or dark print pantaloons, made by folding a cloth without a stitch, surmounted by white jackets, buttoned to the throat, some of their mouths and teeth disfigured by betel chewing, the leader in a striped cotton blouse and pigtail which marked him as Chinese.

Though all could read and understand some English, being chiefly pupils of the Mission School hardly one could speak it, for the disadvantages of facilitating intercourse with Europeans are so great that no more English is taught than is needed to enable them to use English text-books. I believe it would be well if such a policy were universally adopted by mission schools, exceptions being made where needed. It is the experience everywhere that the brightest pupils in English drift into the employment of ungodly men, where years of faithful labour are all undone. The chief aim of mission schools is to afford a reasonable education for the native Christians and their children, and to turn out native evangelists. Too many who get hold of European ideals lose their hold upon their fellow-countrymen.

Another Sunday found me at the girls' school, confronted by rows on rows of damsels, dressed just like their brothers. But they laughed, those little ones, and sang familiar tunes to strangely-sounding words. At a recent prize-giving down at the boys' school, an old boy who had a speech to make was exceedingly practical:—"All I have to say to you fellows who are leaving school is to go right up to Wang Lang (the girls' school), and choose out wives for yourselves, as I have done. I never knew how much good that school was doing till I got one of the pupils to make a home for me. I tell you that not in all Siam will you find such girls as at Wang Lang school."

Part of my time in Bangkok I was the guest of such a couple, both of them former mission pupils, and the sort of quiet Christians it did one good to meet. My host is now a teacher in the Government school. I likewise enjoyed the hospitality of the daughter of the first convert made in Siam after many weary years—a charming old lady—and found most helpful fellowship with her son, Rev. Boon Boon Itt, a man of God before whom lies the widest sphere of usefulness. Adopted by Rev. Dr. House, and educated in America, Mr. Boon Itt was there converted, and after a most creditable college course was ordained, and supplied several churches, who would fain have had him stay with them; but the voice of God was calling him back to Siam, to which he has returned after sixteen years away, a well-read, deeply-thinking and capable man, content to conform as far as possible to the customs of his people, and full of zeal for their souls. Other native Christians I met, one of whom is a captain of police, and has a meeting at his house each Sunday afternoon.

Siam is one of those fortunate countries in which there is no greater interference with Christian work than comes from the sun; but the old workers live and labour. It is, however, often difficult to secure sites outside treaty limits, on account of the trouble caused by the Roman Catholic settlements where they get a foothold. One day I called with Dr. Dunlap on H.R.H. Prince Damrong, the king's half-brother, and the Minister of the Interior, formerly Ambassador to England and America. Of his own accord the Prince broached the subject of a site required for a new station in a distant province, inquiring as to the progress of the work, and promising himself to see the best available site allotted on the occasion of an approaching visit. Then, turning to me, he added, "You will find, Mr. Meakin, that in this country we maintain complete religious liberty. Dr. Dunlap will tell you so, and he is one of the most experienced and best-known missionaries here, whom we all appreciate. But I think that a great many missionaries make the great mistake of abusing the religion already existing. If instead of this they would bring their philanthropic and medical work more to the front, and show what the love of Christ has led them to do for the poor and the suffering, they could not fail to gain the people's real esteem, and then would be the time for them to listen to the words of Jesus." Formerly Prince Damrong had been Minister of Education, and as such had rendered signal service to his country, and in his present capacity he requested Dr. Dunlap to report to him any local abuses observed on his tours, though this had to be refused for fear of prejudicing the work in hand.

Though the Siamese are nominally Buddhists, they are sunk in superstitions and vestiges of Brahminism, too, and their moral condition is very low. The best outlook is among the many thousands of Chinese and the Siamo-Chinese.

COLONEL VON KNOBELSDORFF.

We introduce to our readers this week a devoted worker in the cause of Gospel temperance in Germany.

Colonel Carl von Knobelsdorff was born in Berlin, January 31, 1839. He lost his father, a general in the Prussian Army, when still a child, and was educated in a military school. In 1857 he entered the Guards in Potsdam, and took part in the campaign of 1866 against Austria. In 1870 he was again under arms in the Franco-German War, and fought in the battles of Weissenburg, Wörth, and Sedan, and was present at the seige of Paris. After the battle of Sedan he was the first officer of his battalion who received a decoration; he saw the King of Prussia proclaimed Emperor of Germany at Versailles, and entered Paris with the victorious troops. After the treaty of peace in 1871 he returned with his regiment to its new garrison at Mayence.

A new era in his life began soon after this, during a visit that he paid to Heinrichsbad (Canton Appenzell), a summer health-resort for Christians of all nationalities. For the first time he was taught the meaning of "conversion," and on returning to his garrison he gave himself up to Christ.

This entailed the giving up of many habits of his past life, such as being the leader of amusements at the officers' mess. At the same time the Holy Spirit convinced him that he partook of alcoholic drinks to a greater extent than a Christian ought to do, and following Matt. xviii. 8-9 ("if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off") he gave up beer and wine, trusting to the Lord's sustaining power. After fourteen months of abstinence, during which time he felt better in health than ever before, he rose to the rank of major, and was as such removed to another regiment in Königsberg, in the extreme north-east of Prussia. On leaving Mayence an acquaintance advised him not to abstain from spirits altogether, as by so doing he gave himself the appearance of being an ascetic. His wife also, fearing the effects of the northern climate upon his health, recommended him to take a little wine, whilst he himself fancied he had lost all taste for such things.

On the day of his arrival in his new home his eye fell on the words, Psalm xxiii. 2, "He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters." He very soon experienced that a Christian's only safeguard consists in making sure his standing on Biblical ground. In order to avoid the questioning of his brother officers, Colonel von Knobelsdorff no longer refused a glass of wine when opportunity offered, and very soon he found himself more given to drink than he had been in the past, when the Spirit of God had moved him to cast out his right eye.

A time of hard conflict followed, but without any signal victory over sin. His wife imagined the seclusion of the garrison of Memel, to which they had been removed, to be the cause of her husband's depression of mind, and advised him to ask for a change of place. Even before doing so, he was ordered to Brieg, in Silesia. The change of place, however, brought no change of condition, and beer and wine remained the demons of his existence. At last, in the night of July 10, 1887, the power of everlasting life, into which he had entered at his conversion, conquered the powers of darkness. The Colonel resolved to leave the army, and to consecrate himself entirely to the service of the Lord. God accepted his surrender, and the very desire for drink was eradicated once and for ever.

Colonel von Knobelsdorff at that period stood high in the opinion of his commanding general, and was on the eve of advancement. No one would believe that he seriously intended leaving the army, and his commanding officer insisted on his taking a three months' furlough in order to reconsider the matter. During this time the Colonel took part in the second Conference for the Deepening of Spiritual Life at the Alliance House, Blankenburg, and there he bore witness for the Lord, and told of what He had done for his soul.

In November of the same year he left the army, and went for a time to the mission-house at St. Chrischona, near Basle. On this lonely mountain top he devoted himself to the study of his Bible, and here, on Swiss ground, he became acquainted with the "Blue Cross" movement, headed by Pastor Rochat, of Geneva, who had started it in 1877 in consequence of blessing received during a visit to England.

In 1888 Colonel von Knobelsdorff began work at Berlin, and he now has gathered about 400 persons, of whom one-third were formerly inebriates. His supreme aim is to bring souls to Christ. Abstinence he considers merely as an outward means, though an absolutely necessary one. He conducts four Gospel meetings weekly, at the close of which he relates his personal experiences in temperance work. Daily from 8 till 10 a.m. he receives drinkers and their relatives in his own house, and no one is dismissed without prayer.

Germany is a hard soil for the temperance movement; still, open opposition against the Blue Cross movement has, by the help of God, been overcome among earnest Christians during the last few years. Colonel von Knobelsdorff has been elected the head of a central committee, which has branches in all parts of Germany. He has likewise been elected on the international committee. At the present time 11,364 persons (8,981 Swiss, 2,383 Germans) are adherents of this cause on the continent of Europe.

Besides his work in Berlin, Colonel von Knobelsdorff is constantly invited from all parts of Germany to speak on the subjects which are nearest to his heart. He is a warm and pointed speaker, and well understands how to make his audience share his own enthusiasm. He has never swerved from his purpose of entire surrender, and his years of service under the banner of the Cross he declares to have been the happiest of his life.

This work may yet, by God's grace, be largely extended. The Colonel is surrounded by a large number of former drunkards of both sexes, who have learned to sing the new song. On Sunday afternoons in summer they conduct open-air meetings. During the winter small gatherings take place in private houses. Frau von Knobelsdorff often gathers on Sunday evenings from sixty to eighty redeemed drunkards in her house. She also holds a meeting once a week for female drunkards or wives of drunkards, who by these means make each other's acquaintance, and are able to help one another. The Colonel enjoys the help of a committee of seven, of whom two only are not converted drunkards. When absent from Berlin his place is supplied by friendly pastors.

In consequence of an invitation by the American-German Y.M.C.A. committee, Colonel von Knobelsdorff started, Oct. 9, 1894, for America, on a three months' evangelistic tour, in order to quicken and strengthen the German Y.M.C.A. in that country. He visited Brooklyn, St. Louis, Quincy, New York, Buffalo, Philadelphia, and in fifty-one days conducted eighty-three meetings in the German language, of which twenty-two were held in churches of various denominations. He was very well received, and was everywhere requested to give an account of his own special work. He gathered the impression that the "Blue Cross" (temperance) movement will find many open doors among the Germans in America.

Since Colonel von Knobelsdorff's return to Germany, December 22, 1894, he has had his hands full of work, having, besides his regular work in Berlin, many calls to different parts of Germany, in order to conduct Gospel Temperance meetings. He is much encouraged by the progress made in this cause during the past year, particularly in East Prussia. Doors are more and more opening in Germany, we are thankful to say, for evangelistic work of all kinds, and much prayer is being made among the Lord's people that times of revival may be given us. A. V. W.

BLACKDOWN HILLS MISSION.

A considerable time has elapsed since we sent a short word to the readers of The Christian; not because there is nothing to communicate, but on account of so little time being available for writing. The work of the Lord in its numerous branches in various places fills both heart and hand. Friends will be glad to know that the work on these hills has continued, as it commenced more than thirty years ago, in simplicity and reality, and that it steadily maintains its blessed testimony to the power of God in the Gospel to save, sanctify, and keep.

The day and Sunday schools continue to be seed-beds of Divine truth and life. The souls won and trained for Jesus from these "nurseries" have gone forth to spread the knowledge of his grace into many parts of the land and of the world. Many of them are serving the Lord Jesus in the Gospel as evangelists, missionaries, preachers, and teachers. The ministry of the Word, pastoral oversight, Gospel meetings in mission rooms or tents, house-to-house visitation, day and Sunday school teaching, tract distribution, care for the poor and sick, etc., are the principal features of the work entrusted to us, and we are going on in the old tracks. The Lord has given us to see precious results from the preaching of the Word in its simplicity, both in the conversion of many and the uplifting of believers. Sometimes seed sown in young hearts in the schools has sprung up after years of burial. It was a joy to me a little time ago to meet in a Gospel service with one who had fifteen years ago been a scholar in my own school; greater still the joy to find the seed then sown had been living, though latent. At that meeting it was my privilege to lead that soul to Jesus.

I called at a cottage when it was "washing day." The poor woman apologised for the house being in a muddle, but setting her at ease by saying I was a family man and knew something of family upsets; I added: "I always think of one verse of Scripture when I see a woman at the wash-tub. Would you like to hear it?" "Yes, I should," she replied. "Though thou wash thee with nitre (soda), and take thee much soap, yet is thine iniquity marked before Me, saith the Lord" (Jer. ii. 22). She had never heard of that verse, and was deeply interested. The question of sin in God's sight was gone into from the Word. She wept as her sin came up before her, and said: "I have often longed to know my sins forgiven, but I never seem to know how it can be done." In a few words from the Scriptures the way was made plain. We got on our knees, and while I was in prayer I heard sobs from another who had been listening. Ere we left both were able to rejoice in pardon and peace through the blood of Jesus.

I might add many such cases. Will the reader help us in his prayers that we may spread God's Gospel and live it? Our country districts need this more than anything else. Sacerdotalism and indifference are spreading with rapid strides. Help us to stem the tide in the power of the Holy Ghost by your prayer and sympathy.

W. J. H. Brealey.

Clayhidon, Blackdown Hills, Somerset.

MR. E. TENNYSON SMITH, temperance evangelist, is anxious to get reliable information respecting the connection of the churches with the liquor traffic; especially as to any cases where those holding office in any Christian Church are engaged in the traffic. He may be addressed Rose Hill Cottage, Deganny, near Llandudno, N. Wales.

[662]

MISSIONARIES IN MADAGASCAR.

A letter has reached us from Rev. J. Peill, one of the L.M.S. missionaries in the interior of Madagascar, dated May 14. We give the following extracts:—

Things move slowly with us in Madagascar, and now we hear scarcely anything of the outside world, as all papers are stopped by the French on the coast. At first they allowed The Christian through, and other religious papers, but since Jan. 30 none have come, and even The L.M.S. Chronicle has not come for several months. However, they do send our letters, and for this we are grateful. Now the Malagasy authorities insist on all letters being forwarded to them open, so that they may read them, and so our liberty at this end is also restricted. Even though I knew how things were going on the coast I could not tell you, and in this great silent land, with no posts, no telegraphs, no newspapers, and no means of obtaining accurate information at all, we know and can know nothing.

The English Consul at Tamatave and the Vice-Consul at Antananarivo have strongly urged that all English ladies and children should leave the country. A good many, whose furloughs were due or nearly so, have left. Others may go sooner or later, either to Mauritius or South Africa, till the storm blows over. We are, of course, very loth to leave unless in case of absolute necessity, and at present all work goes forward much as usual, and all seems as peaceful as if war were not. We know that at any time all this may be changed. We men do not mean to abandon our posts in any case, so long as we can do any work here or be of service to the native Christians; but how far we are justified in keeping the ladies here in spite of consular warnings, and the judgment of experienced men like Mr. Bennett Burleigh, of The Daily Telegraph, and Mr. Knight, of The Times, who are here now, and both strongly urge the departure of all ladies, it is hard to know. About A—— we are seeking guidance and awaiting events, hoping against hope that peace may be made without serious fighting. We are in God's hands, and while taking all due precautions, trust in Him to guide us aright as each occasion happens.

As to how things are really going on, I daresay you know much more than we, as you will see from the daily papers, latest telegrams, etc., while we see and hear nothing we can at all depend on as true. We sometimes tremble for the ark of the Lord here as we think of what may be; yet why should we? The Lord knoweth them that are his, and his kingdom here, as everywhere, is surely his care, and so we repose upon Him in confidence again.

Much prayer to the Lord is being made at this time by the Christians here. Regular prayer meetings are being held all through this part of the country. The spirit of the prayers I hear is very beautiful. No cursing of the enemy or praying for evil to befal them, but earnest cries for help and guidance, and prayer that the hearts of the French may be changed, and that God would thus cause bloodshed to be avoided, and the Malagasy left in possession of their own land.

The Congregational Union meetings in April were given up to prayer. As chairman, I led with an address and prayer, and the meeting was almost entirely taken up with earnest petition and entreaty bearing directly on the present state of affairs. God in his own way will doubtless answer these prayers, and the prayers of his people here and with you which are rising to Him day by day.

Last Thursday the new Analakely Church in Antananarivo was opened. Her Majesty the Queen was present, and the Prime Minister and Court. I had been asked to preach the sermon on the occasion, which I did from Rom. xiii. 8-10. I had a very attentive and appreciative audience, although great numbers of them had to stand during the whole service, crowded together most uncomfortably. Three women got into the pulpit, two on one side of my feet and one on the other, so that I could not move my feet at all, but had to stand quite still, as far as my lower extremities were concerned, the whole time I was preaching. When all was over, the Queen graciously waited and shook hands with all the missionaries present, as did also His Excellency the Prime Minister. Her Majesty is a most interested and appreciative listener, and entered heartily into the whole service, turning up and joining in all the hymns that were sung from the hymn-book, and also the various passages read from the Scriptures. She made a short speech in reply to one to her on behalf of the church, which was very modestly and becomingly given. Keep on praying for us and for the Lord's work in our hands here, that we may be kept faithful, whatever comes, and guided aright in all things.

SAILORS' WELCOME HOME.

A large gathering of friends took place at Lady Ashburton's town house on Saturday last on behalf of Miss Child's work among seamen of various nationalities in Ratcliff Highway and elsewhere.

Lord Radstock presided. After prayer Miss Child gave a graphic account of the work now so well known, and concluded by asking prayer that the way may be opened, if the Lord will, for an additional house further down the river.

Mr. Pitt (from the Board of Trade) gave some startling statistics regarding the loss of sailors at sea. The loss per cent. from accidents is one factory hand, three railway men, four miners, and twenty-four seamen, so that the loss of seamen is six times as large as the miners, and eight times that of the railway men. Mr. Faithfull, from Marseilles, and Miss Harris, from the Haven, Bow, highly commended the work, and spoke most feelingly of it. Lady Ashburton recalled with great pleasure her visits to the Home, and bore additional testimony to the good the work is doing. Some of the sailors who were present followed with brief experiences.

Lord Radstock gave a thrilling account of a meeting in the fo'c'sle at the Welcome Home, where several men had been brought in in a half drunken state and kept sufficiently quiet to be retained till they were sobered down; before the meeting closed, they had become seekers for salvation.

PASTOR A. G. BROWN.

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me to let my helpers know that I leave England on Thursday, July 11, to fetch my widowed daughter and her little one from China. I am anxious that the mission work I have carried on for so many years should not suffer. The Girls' Home, the Seaside Home, and all the daily work of the missionaries depend entirely upon the voluntary gifts of friends in all parts of the country. It would be a great relief if during this week I were to receive sufficient to carry on the work during my absence. I trust also that while I am away in "the far East" my work will not be forgotten.—Yours faithfully,

Archibald G. Brown.

22, Bow-road, E., July 1.

THE ABEOKUTA MISSIONS are, according to Rev. S. Doherty, the outcome of the native church there, and are independent, the funds being raised by the natives, and the committee managing those funds being Christian communicants of the native church. There are at present seven stations: Ofada, Afojuba, Asheshe, and Oba being on the east of the river Ogun, and Shuren, Agbawon, and Iro being on the west. These various stations were started, with one exception, by persecuted Christians from Abeokuta.

The Mildmay Conference.

(Continued from page 13.)

earth, let us remember this spot hallowed by the memory of saintly Wm. Pennefather and his widow, who for so many years laboured here. We miss also the beloved Sir S. A. Blackwood. But though these are gone God has shown that this is not William Pennefather's work merely, but his own work, and He will carry it on and on. Let us be fellow-helpers with Him in sympathy and prayer.

Mr. John G. McVicker engaged in prayer. The Chairman read Psalm xlv., and having briefly commented thereupon, called on the first speaker of the morning, the subject being

The Coming King.

BY REV. JOHN RIDDELL.

"Our Lord Jesus Christ, the approaching manifestation of God's perfect King": such is our theme. Among the texts given in the programme the first one is from the Second Psalm. What a marvellous Psalm that is! Paul quotes it in Acts xiii. 33 as a prophecy of Jesus, "As it is also written in the Second Psalm, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten Thee." The Psalmist takes us to the day of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ, and as the First-begotten is raised from the dead, He sees the nations and rulers of the earth raging, unquiet like the stormy sea. But what about God's chosen people? Their religion has become one out of which all reality and power have passed, and they reject their King. Thus the whole world, Jew and Gentile alike, are united in rebellion against the Lord and his Christ. "We will not have this Man to reign over us"; "Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us." This has been the state of things from the morning of the resurrection to that glorious day when our King shall come again.

But mark how from the turmoil of the earth our eye is carried upward to Him who sits above it all, who is calmly observant, who smiles at the impotency of the rage and malice of man. He speaks. Listen. "Yet have I set my King upon my holy hill of Zion." He speaks as if all this hatred and opposition are naught. He has spoken, and it shall be. But He is not to be seated on that hill immediately. He is to sit on the throne in the heavens, there patiently expecting till his enemies be made his footstool. And to his followers He says, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with Me on my throne." He is now there, but soon He will come, and shall not be New York, or London, or Rome, or Constantinople, but the holy hill of Zion. Then, as in the word to Mary, "He shall sit on the throne of his father David." Turning back to Psalm ii. we have the recital of the decree, and the promise that all nations should be his inheritance. And then follows the counsel, "Be wise, O ye kings, be instructed, ye judges of the earth. Serve the Lord with fear, and rejoice with trembling. Kiss the Son, lest He be angry, and ye perish in the way." Thus the subject of the whole Psalm is God's perfect anointed King, the only being in the universe who ever fulfilled God's idea of royalty and rule.

THE CENTRE OF POWER

We are gathered round Him now. Let us look at Him, first of all, as the coming Royal Son of Man, God's appointed deliverer for the earth and all that it contains. The Son of Man is coming in glory to deliver his people and cast down all that opposes, and to say to those that love Him, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you before the foundation of the world." Look on the earth. Man was made in the likeness of God, with dominion over the creatures. That is God's figure for the universe. The Son comes to rule, and fill the earth with gladness and blessing, and so man shall rule the earth according to God's purpose. And now, coming to the Eighth Psalm, you have this royal dominion set forth so wonderfully that the Psalmist exclaims: "What is man . . . that Thou hast made him to have dominion over the works of thy hands?" The Epistle to the Hebrews shows us that this dominion is not on earth only: "Thou hast put all things in subjection to Him." Thus the Son of Man is over all the works of God, in heaven as well as in earth. I have wondered if it was against this sovereign appointment that Satan and his angels rebelled. If so, that might account for their malice against Christ and against men. However that may be, man fell, became the slave of his seducer, and there came the curse, and creation itself was made subject to vanity. There has been rising ever since the moan of woe, the wail by reason of oppression. There is a deep tone of sorrow everywhere—in the moan of the sea, the sigh of the breeze, the murmur of the trees, the wail of the tempest. Is all this mere poetry? Or has some ear been opened to catch the note of nature? Is it not creation groaning and travailing in pain, waiting for manifestation of the sons of God? So earth longs for her Lord.

Now that is the first man, a slave to sin; but look to Jesus. The Second Man was no slave: "The prince of this world cometh and hath nothing in Me." The usurper comes and says, "All these will I give Thee if Thou wilt fall down and worship Me"; but see how Jesus conquered. Look at Him as He came; born a feeble babe, wrapped in swaddling clothes, tended by a mother's care; yet "the brightness of the Father's glory, the express image of his person, by whom also He made the worlds." All through you see this contrast, this picture of for He held the dominion of heaven even while most dependent. He had dominion over the water—as it has been said, "The water looked upon her Lord and blushed into wine"; over the sea, that heard his voice and was hushed in calm; over the vegetable world, when the loaves multiplied at his will; over the animal world, as when for forty days the wild beasts never touched Him; and as, when He rode on a colt on which never man sat, the untrained ass walked gently amid the shouting crowd, for He who rode was Lord of all. So again, He had dominion over the usurper himself when He cast out demons; dominion over the consequences of sin, when He healed diseases, opened blind eyes, unstopped deaf ears, gave power to palsied limbs; dominion over death itself, when He raised at a word the dead. Thus the Second Man had the dominion which sin had robbed us of. Has the time of deliverance come? Are the groanings of men and creation to be silenced? Yes, but not yet. Look at Calvary. The King grapples with the usurper; and it seems as if, instead of the King driving out the usurper, that the usurper drives out the rightful King. See round his brow the crown of thorns—the instrument and token of the curse on creation. See Him as He hangs there enduring for us. Hear Him cry, "It is finished." Satan's power is broken, the curse is exhausted and brought to an end by that very death by which the enemy thought to destroy the Prince of Life. And now He is with the Father, and has all power in heaven and earth. And that power He is about to manifest. His day is coming. We are on the tip-toe of expectation for the approach of the Son of Man. What a glorious deliverance He shall bring to the earth; not in a few isolated instances only, but generally. "The Lord Himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, ... and the dead in Christ shall rise first." The grave shall be abolished, as far as concerns his own. Then shall be blessed restorations. Think of ten thousand times ten thousand such re-unions as that which took place at the gate of Nain? Then shall we be transformed, body, soul, and spirit, into the likeness of the Son of God. Then shall we experience in a fuller sense, that personal walk with God which Adam and Eve knew before sin entered. But not only shall the grave be overcome, but death and hell shall be vanquished, as we are told in Rev. xx. When they set a seal on the grave, they thought they had done with the Lord of life and glory; but they had not; He is coming, and the usurper shall be overthrown and cast into the lake of fire.

FRAILTY AND OF DOMINION,

And what a difference then for the earth. It is blighted to-day by the prince of the power of the air; how different shall it be when, in his place, shall reign the Son of Man; when the Bride, the Church, tells of his power and grace, when death and the curse shall be swept away. This glorious deliverance comes from the Deliverer's hand. What is it? There was a place in Noah's Ark for all orders of creation; and in Ezekiel's vision of the future temple we see the cherubim with the face of a lion, the face of an ox, and the face of an eagle, as well as the human face. What a type of the blessed deliverance for the whole earth and all that it contains, when creation shall be delivered at the manifestation of the sons of God at the coming of the King.

Then look at Him as the Royal Prince, as Son of David, as well as Deliverer, King of men and of the nation. As Son of Man He delivers the earth, but what about man? Let us never lose sight of the three classes shown in the Word—Jew, Gentile, and the Church of God. The coming King has relation to each of these. Look at the first Gospel announcement made, not to man directly but to the usurper—"He shall bruise thy head." Then comes the promise to Abraham, that lonely wanderer of ninety years of age: "In thy seed shall all nations of the earth be blessed." Then comes the promise to Judah that "the sceptre shall not depart from Judah until Shiloh come, and to Him shall the gathering of the nations be." So all through the prophets, rising clearer and clearer, till you come to the announcement to Mary, "He shall be called the Son of the Highest, and the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of his father David." The first half of the verse is literal, how can we change the second half and make it figurative? You notice his kingdom is to be world-wide. In all ages God has given a special place to his people; and when we rejoice in salvation let us remember that it is redemption purchased by one who was a Jew; and every word shall be made good to the children of Israel. In the Gospel according to Matthew you have the record of the great promise. The Gospel opens—not with the genealogy of the Son of Man, which you have in Luke—but with the line of succession as King, and rightful heir of David's throne. In Matthew we do not have the story of his birth, associated with the details of infantile weakness, as in Luke: it is rather the story of one "born King of the Jews." So He is proclaimed and anointed by the Spirit of the Lord, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." Next comes the conflict with the enemy. Then, going up the mountain, He declares the manner of his kingdom. The Sermon on the Mount is

A ROYAL MESSAGE FROM THE KING.

Even the people perceived that "He spake with authority and not as the scribes"—it is the authority of the voice which spake from Sinai long ages before. Then in the next section of that Gospel, He manifests his power in various directions. Even his enemies had to admit his power, although they wilfully misrepresented its source, ascribing it to Beelzebub. He came as King, but that leads Him to the cross. There He hung in our place on the tree of shame. He hung there, not for want of royal power, but in the perfection of royal grace. His kingdom is a kingdom of redemption, and He makes Himself an offering and sacrifice for the sins of his people.

Then as regarding his Church, when the last member has been gathered in, the heavens shall open, and He shall receive us to Himself. To his Church He comes as Bridegroom, to lift her to share his place, his glory, and throne. To the nations He comes as Deliverer; to his people as King, Son of David; to the Church as Bridegroom. Then shall we see Him on his throne, set on God's holy hill of Zion, Christ incarnate, Son of God, reigning over the whole universe. This is coming, God's Word is plain about it. "He became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross; wherefore God also hath highly exalted Him and given Him the name which is above every name; that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth." Then shall every tongue confess that He is Lord and King for ever more.

Mr. Henry Edwards engaged in prayer, and a hymn having been sung, several requests for prayer were read by Col. Morton, and laid before God by Rev. J. B. Figgis. The following address was then given.

Prophet, Priest, and King.

BY REV. D. M. STEARNS, of Germantown, Philadelphia.

It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and I must heartily render thanks to Him for allowing me to be present at this Conference, through the reports of which, as given in THE CHRISTIAN, I have received in the past much blessing. I am thankful, although not permitted to reach you on the preceding days, to be here on the last day, the great day of the feast. I am thankful also for the topic, "Our Lord Jesus Christ as Prophet, Priest, and King." A little less than a year ago I was on the platform at the farewell meeting of the great missionary of the South Seas—the venerable Dr. Paton. What connection has that with our subject? Just this, that unless our study of the Lord Jesus Christ shall give us more of the missionary spirit, our coming together will not have been profitable as it ought to have been. It comes to me more and more that all our Bible study, all our privileges on the Lord's Day, all our Conference blessings, ought so to quicken in us that spirit that when we hear the call, "Who will go for us?" we may be ready to respond: "Here am I, send me." What is there worth living for save making Jesus known to them that know Him not? I cannot tell what you have had in the last two days; but at sea we were praying for you; and in lifting up my heart to God for the word He would have me speak, the word He would speak through me to you, I was led to feel He would have me tell you what Jesus is to me personally as Prophet, Priest, and King.

What, then, is Jesus to me as Prophet? I think at once of Aaron, who was Moses' prophet or spokesman. I remember that Abraham was a prophet, though he predicted nothing that I know of. And Moses was a prophet, "there hath not arisen a prophet since in Israel like unto Moses, whom the Lord knew face to face." And so in Deut. xviii. he tells the people that God would raise them up a prophet like unto him, and that was the Lord Jesus Christ. Now the Lord Jesus Christ is the manifestation of God to us. I am amazed to hear Him say, in John xii. 49, "I have not spoken of Myself; but the Father who sent Me, He gave Me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak." Some of us are very anxious to say something original, to pray in an original way; but Jesus was never original, He used only the words the Father told Him to use. The Father told Him what to say and He said it, and what to do and He did it. So in John xiv. 10, "The words that I speak, I speak not of myself; but the Father that dwelleth in Me, He doeth the works." Now that makes it very easy for us. It is not easy to sit down and write beautiful and great words full of original thought; but it is a great privilege to be a spokesman for the Lord, to read as it were from a book open in heaven, to come to that book and tell out what God says. In this sense we are the Lord's prophets, as in this sense Jesus was a prophet, unknown to the world, and largely unknown to the Church. He was the Light of the world, and we are to be lights. He was the Light of life, and are not we to be lights reflecting the life of God? It is easy to stand and bear testimony, if that be all, and then pass on. But to live out our testimony, that is a different thing. What says James? "If a man seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, ... this man's religion is vain." What an amount of vain religion there is about! How many there are who can bear beautiful testimony, but when they get home cannot bridle their tongue! What is to be done? We must simply learn to say "Lord, I cannot, do Thou it for me." Thus I suggest that each one of us in a certain sense is a prophet of the Lord. What a mighty thing for such as we to be

GOD'S SPOKESMAN TO US,

THE MESSENGERS OF THE LORD.

This is what Haggai was. Haggai has done me a great deal of good, and I have long wanted to see him and take him by the hand and thank him. I will one day, just as I have to-day met another servant of the Lord. I have long wanted to see Rev. Andrew Murray and thank him for his books. Very well, I came on this platform, and saw my name on a chair, and sat down on it. Then looking round I saw Mr. Murray's name on the chair next mine. What a delightful surprise to find myself next one who had been so helpful to me, and when he came in what a meeting it was. So it will be up yonder, by-and-by, when I meet Haggai. I want to tell him, "I am glad you ever wrote that book; it has been the greatest help to me." Some members of my Bible-classes have memorized it, they love it so. Now what was Haggai? One who spake as "the Lord's messenger in the Lord's message." That is his own description of himself.

JESUS AS OUR PRIEST.

Now about Jesus as our Priest. What a Priest we have in Him! By his own sacrifice, offered once for all, we accepting Him become redeemed with an eternal redemption. What a glorious redemption! Every word of Scripture is for our profit; but I have found special help from Eph. i. 6 and 7. "To the praise of the glory of his grace, wherein He hath made us accepted in the Beloved. In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace." What a section! beginning and ending with grace and all in Him; well may I praise Him who did that for me. Our Lord was crucified at Golgotha, "the place of a skull." Is there any meaning in that? I have prayed and pondered over it. What is the meaning of it? Take a skull; look at it: what an empty thing. No brains, no eyes, nothing in it. May it not possibly be that our Lord was crucified at the place of a skull to remind us that apart from the cross of Christ there is nothing? Where the cross of Christ is not, is mere emptiness.

Now He saves us by his sacrifice and having done so He lives for us; and because He lives we live also. What is our life? Simply Christ. How does He become our Priest? "Wherefore in al things it behoved Him to be made like unto his brethren, that He might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people" (Heb. ii. 17). He took on Him our nature, and became one of us, in order to be our priest. Then in ch. iv. 15, "We have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities, but was in all points tempted like as we are, without sin." One who was tried and tempted as we are, He is the one we need.

I have said that we can all be prophets. So we can also be priests to God. When He is manifested on the throne, we shall be kings and priests with Him; but He is training us here and fitting us for it. In my class, a few weeks ago, two ladies stayed behind, seeking an interview. One seemed in great sorrow. The other said, "Can you give my friend any comfort? She is in great trouble,

HAVING LOST A LITTLE CHILD.

I cannot, as I have never been there." Well, I had been there, and I did my best. By-and-by she said, "I thank you, sir, you have done me good." I felt it was worth while suffering, as I had done, the loss of a little one, to learn how to comfort that soul. Now our Jesus, whatever our trouble may be, has been there. He was tried and tempted as we are, and He knows how to comfort when the way is dark and lonely.

JESUS AS KING.

Then comes Jesus as King. It has been very refreshing to hear our brother stand here and tell you things I have tried to tell out on the other side, but many of our people don't like them, and won't hear them. Many doors are shut against me simply because I tell them things concerning the King and the kingdom. Not long ago two churches were closed against me because of teaching with regard to the coming of the King; but the hotel-keeper across the way opened his parlour, saying, "Come right here, and hold your Bible-class." Well, about the King, I can only come back with the same glorious truths you have sent me from this side. Perhaps a word of experience may be helpful. I sat with a clergyman reading the Word on these points, and I said, "Let us see how far we can agree." I took him to Luke ii. 32: "He shall be called the Son of the Highest." "What do you make of that?" I asked. "That is all right. I take it as it reads, for He was." "And the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of his father David; and He shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever: and of his kingdom there shall be no end." "What about that?" "Oh, that is spiritual." "Well," I said, "that is very strange. You begin the verse, taking it literally, and before you come to the end you change and take it spiritually; and this without the slightest indication of any change in form of speech." That is very sad. He will have his eyes opened some day. He will be

A PRE-MILLENNIALIST IN THE MORNING,

I believe. Blessed be his name, Jesus is coming, and He shall reign. At our missionary meetings we look at the great map of the world and feel thankful that the whole earth shall yet be filled with the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea; but we know it is when his feet stand on Mount Zion, when He shall take his great power and reign, King of kings and Lord of lords. There are various ways of holding this doctrine. I looked at it for years in this way: He is coming as glorious King of the Church, as Israel's Messiah; and I, if I live till then, will have a new body. I will cheat the undertaker and take my body with me to be changed and glorified. Now that was a selfish view of the truth. I thought of my family, and how there would be no division. It is quite true, of course. People tell us that death and the Lord's coming are practically the same. Are they? Last year I was over here with my wife and two sons this summer I am here alone, and they are over yonder. That is all the same, is it? My wife don't think so, nor do I. So at the coming of Christ we shall be all together; but death separates—are these both the same? But while this is true and precious, it is selfish, if we only take this view. If we believe He is coming, what are we doing to hasten the coming of the King? It is not enough to say, "Come, Lord Jesus." We know He is waiting for the completion of his Bride, the Church; for the calling out of his members from Africa, China, India, and the isles of the sea. Are we doing our part?

Well now to another practical part of it. "They DWELT WITH THE KING FOR HIS WORK"

(1 Chr. iv. 23). These were potters, humble people dwelling among plantations and hedges; but humble as they were, they "dwelt with the King for his work." That makes it all so easy. At a recent meeting of our council I got this verse, "Thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my lord, the king, shall choose." I have seen Him as King of nations, and King of the Church, but as an individual I like to think of Him as my personal King as well as my Priest and Prophet; and I want to be ready to do his bidding. That beautiful verse is 2 Sam. xv. 15; and now in 1 Chron. xxviii. 21, another beautiful word, which I got, and must pass on; for what we keep, we lose; and what we give out, we gain. The people spoken of in this verse are ready for "all manner of service . . . wholly at thy commandment." A lady who sends us five dollars a month for missions told me how she gets it, for she is not wealthy. One day her husband, who is getting stiff, said as he bent to pull on his boots, "I'd give a quarter (that is about a shilling) to have someone put on my boots for me." His wife saw her opportunity and replied, "I will do it." So she earns her seven dollars a month towards the support of a missionary. She was ready for any manner of service, and it came. Now, I have something to do for that good mission, the China Inland Mission, and lately I had that devoted man John M'Carthy round our classes. One morning when I opened my eyes, there he was up before me, and sitting reading his Bible. "What have you there?" I asked. "Oh, it is fine; 'whatsoever the King did pleased all the people' (2 Sam. iii. 36). I wonder if everything our King Jesus does pleases us always." It pleases God, and it must please us. Oh, yes, what He does pleases us: if it be the King it is all right; but often we think it is the devil, or our neighbours perhaps. But do you forget that not even the devil can touch us, as we learn from the Book of Job, without the permission of the King. When we dwell with the King for his work, we will be found willing for any service, and all He does will please us. How delightful restful service this will be, in full confidence in our King. Let us say, O, Lord Jesus, I am glad, Thou great Prophet, Priest, and King, Thou hast taught me in some little way to be a prophet for Thee, that Thou art training me to be a priest unto God, and that yet I shall reign king with Thee.

Now in 1 Kings xiii. there is a remarkable and significant

STORY OF A MAN OF GOD

—a phrase used fourteen times in this sad story. This man of God was sent to Jeroboam with a message about a certain Josiah, who would arise and burn down the idolatrous altar. This man of God was under certain charges as to turning aside or going to any house. But an old prophet heard of it, met him, tempted him, declaring he had the command of the Lord, and you know the sad result. I'd like to meet that old prophet, and find what he had to say for himself. Have you pondered the meaning of that story, or the application of it? Oh, young men and women, let us remember that story and its end. The lion that killed him is about yet. That lion could not destroy his soul, for I believe he was a true man of God. But the roaring lion is going about—although he does not always roar. He cannot destroy your soul, but he can destroy your usefulness. Beware: give no heed to any prophet, however old, however titled, if he goes against the Word of God. Turn not aside from that Word. God does not contradict Himself, or lie; and no man should be obeyed when God has spoken.

And now one word more. In Zech. iv. we read of self-supplying candlesticks, and on either side a tree feeding the candlestick—a self-supplying lamp stands with two olive trees as feeders. Now the Lord Jesus Christ is the anointed One, that is as Priest and King, for I know of but one prophet (Elisha) who was anointed. He is the Light of the world: and we are separated to be bright and shining lights for Him. We can only be this by keeping our eye on the anointed Priest and King, drawing our supplies from Him. We cannot be bright lights if we only know salvation. He must be to us anointed Priest and King. Let us rejoice in Him, the Altogether Lovely One, as our Prophet, Priest, and King.

THURSDAY EVENING.

Lord POLWARTH presided, and after praise and prayer, Mr. W. R. LANE delivered an address, pointing solemn issues arising from the subjects that had been brought before the Conference. He spoke directly to those who were "not far from the kingdom"; they had attended the meetings, but had not given themselves to Christ. The Conference had presented three great encouragements to those who would commit their hearts to the Lord. He had been brought forward as Prophet, Priest, and King,—as Revealer, Redeemer, and Ruler. In his prophetic work He made salvation plain; in his priestly work He made salvation gloriously possible; and in his kingly work He made salvation powerful and real. As prophet He has spoken salvation to us; as priest He secures it for us; with kingly grace He brings it into our hearts.

Pressing the matter home, Mr. Lane remarked that the word of Christ as a prophet "finds us out," and that is of the greatest importance. It is so easy for us to be mistaken, and to take too much for granted. It is easy to substitute morality for spirituality, to be satisfied with the external and to miss the inward and the vital, to get a body of religion without any soul in it. When the Word of God, from the prophetic lips of Christ, in the power of the Holy Ghost, reaches us, we are discovered to ourselves, and God is revealed to us. Mr. Lane besought his hearers to let God's Word search them as to whether they were self-deceived, whether they really had an interest in Christ. Some men are a good deal better than their reputations, some a great deal worse. A man may carry heaven in his face and hell in his heart. When God shows us we are wrong, it is in order that He may put us right. Then comes in the work of the great High Priest. Look at Him—the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world. The conquering King will give you the victory over bad habits, and bring you into submission to God.

PREBENDARY WEBB-PEPLOE.

Prebendary H. W. Webb-Peploe spoke of our Lord Jesús Christ as the approaching manifestation of God's perfect King. The entire subject of conference suggested deep thoughts to him. God had been pleased to reveal Himself as Father, Son, and Holy Ghost— Trinity in Unity, and Unity in Trinity. Man himself is a reflection of the Deity, being spirit, soul, and body. Moreover, as Christians, we have another trinity in unity in ourselves—the heavenly, being united to God by the Holy Ghost; the earthly, being still flesh and blood, and having by nature a craving after things of earth; the devilish, for the evil one continually tempts and influences us.

When called upon to contemplate Christ Jesus the Lord, it is everything to us to know that to meet our needs, realise our hopes, and fulfil our possibilities, God has given us a three-fold Saviour—Christ Jesus the Lord: Christ, the perfect and wondrous prophet; Jesus, the perfect and magnificent priest; the Lord, the perfect and glorious king. Others will apply the terms differently, emphasising that name of Christ which suits their own particular needs, and that is not surprising, so marvellous is God's provision in his Son.

In Rev. xix. the One riding on the white horse (v. 11) is called Faithful and True; we further read (v. 13) his name is called The Word of God; again (v. 16), on his garment and on his thigh was a name written, King of Kings and Lord of Lords. So, as Christ comes forth from heaven as the conqueror to take to Himself his great power and reign He has three titles; but not until his blood has been shed—"his garment dipped in blood"—could He be King of Kings and Lord of Lords. When He comes from heaven, it is to judge the earth, and to establish righteousness. We have not to deal merely with a tender Saviour who is craving for the love of men, but with one who is a Lion as well as a Lamb. Is there not need for the King? Does not the whole creation groan? the kingdoms of the world must be taken from those who hold them, so to speak, under travesty titles, and must be given into the hands of our Lord and his Christ.

The cry of fifteen hundred millions of people today is, "Give us a deliverer who shall reign over us in righteousness, and abolish iniquity from the face of the earth." Look at the dark places of the earth, full of the habitations of cruelty; and look at the provisions for war throughout the countries called Christendom, 375 millions sterling per annum being spent—that is £1,000,000 per diem, and £10,000,000 besides—all for the purposes of war. Look at the cruelties practised under the name of civilisation, not only in Africa, but in Russia, Turkey, Madagascar, and in some parts of countries under our own protection. Is the yearning cry of the earth always to go unsatisfied? Only Christ can supply the need, and in due time He will fulfil all the prophetic word. "He cometh, and all his saints with Him." He will smite his enemies, and realise the highest hopes of mankind.

Mr. Webb-Peploe elaborated his points in vigorous style, and many were led to echo his prayer, "Come, Lord Jesus." At an after-meeting he delivered an address on "What manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, seeing that ye look for these things?"

[Next week we shall furnish notes of the afternoon gatherings.]

"FRIEDENHEIM."

MISS DAVIDSON'S friends rallied round her on Saturday afternoon, when a meeting on behalf of the Home of Peace for the Dying was held in the lecture hall of the adjoining institution, the School for the Blind. Amongst those present were the Duchess of Bedford and the Dean of Norwich. As our readers well know, the object of this beautiful home is to minister to those for whose restoration to health human aid can do no more, to alleviate the last sufferings of hopeless disease, and to raise the hearts of the sufferers to the immortal hopes which the Lord Jesus Christ by his Gospel reveals beyond death. No case of infectious disease is admitted. From last year's report it appears the year opened with twenty-three beds occupied and a complete staff of nurses, superintended by Sister Jessie. The number of patients admitted was 105, making 128 in all. Of these seventy-six died within the year, and twenty-one were discharged. The general wards are free, but where patients or their friends can afford it, contributions of 2s. 6d. to 10s. per week are received. The Helena ward is for a superior class, the charge being from one to two guineas per week. It has proved that there are many who, while not in poverty, have yet no restful home in which to die, no place in which they can receive tender attention in their last days on earth.

Dr. A. T. SCHOFIELD, who presided, announced that he had received letters of regret at absence and sympathy from Lord Polwarth, the Duke of Bedford (who sent a cheque for £200), and others; and said the importance of the work became more and more evident. Though consumption was the complaint in the minds of those who organised the Friedenheim, every kind of disease was represented. One ward is now thrown open for cancer. A gentleman told him that if they would build a home for cancer patients he would give £5000. Up to the present time 265 had been admitted, 177 had passed away, fifty-one had left, and thirty-seven were still in the Home. The number of beds is forty-two. When Friedenheim was started they asked for £10,000 and got £8000, so that £2000 was still wanted to carry on the work. A trust deed had been executed by which the lease of the property had been handed over to eight trustees, and the Friedenheim was now enrolled as one of the charities of the metropolis. Mr. J. H. Tritton (treasurer) said the balance was on the wrong side. Mr. T. A. Denny moved a resolution pledging the meeting to support the Home. This was seconded by Mr. Hugh M. Matheson, supported by Colonel Morton and Mr. Carlton Baynes. After the meeting, many of the friends inspected the Home, its peaceful wards, and patient inmates.

THE BIBLEWOMEN'S MISSION.—The nurses associated with this Mission have adopted a badge—a Maltese cross with "L.N.R." in bold letters and the motto "Laborare est Orare." There being now many nurses and nursing associations, the committee felt that some such distinguishing mark had become necessary. The Mission has now ninety-six sisters and nurses labouring among the sick poor.

EAST LONDON INSTITUTE.

THE Friday of Mildmay Conference week has for some years been recognised as a Midsummer rallying day by friends of the East London Institute for Home and Foreign Missions. This year's gathering was on an encouraging scale, the afternoon meeting being held in Harley Chapel, and that in the evening in the East London Tabernacle. The occasion marked the completion of the twenty-third year since the establishment of the Institute, and a party of brethren and sisters, leaving for China, India, Central Africa, and other parts of the mission field, were commended to God in prayer.

Dr. HARRY GUINNESS rendered a cheering account of the progress of the work. The theoretical and practical are combined; while being trained for preaching and teaching, the young men and women are exercised in actual work. The agencies in which they assist in East London include works of mercy as well as means of grace. Altogether during last year 100,000 people were reached in thirty-two different centres. The students have averaged 120, and of them forty-four are at the present leaving for various spheres. The Congo Balolo Mission costs between £9000 and £10,000 per annum to carry on, the Institute about £12,000 a year, and the evangelistic work in East London from £1300 to £1400. In conclusion, Dr. Guinness mentioned the loss the work has sustained by the death of Mr. Rattray, who for fifteen years was theological tutor at Cliff College, Derbyshire, where the second and third year men are trained, and the sad illness (cancer) which has befallen Mr. Morris, who has been tutor at Harley House during the past fourteen years.

Those who from time to time had met Mr. Morris at the missionary farewells and other gatherings, heard of his illness with much sorrow. His son attended with a letter dictated to be read instead of a report. Mr. Morris wrote:—"The men have worked well and successfully. There has been much prayer, and I believe deep and true spiritual life in the College. The evangelistic work has been wider spread than in years past, and we have heard of more conversions than in almost any preceding session. My farewell word to the brethren is: 'Preach Christ crucified, and live and die to save souls.'"

Mr. EUGENE STOCK, who presided, spoke some hearty words on the Institute and its operations. Dr. MUIRHEAD followed with an address on the opening up of China and the progress of missions in that great country. Speaking of the Chinese churches, he said that the care exercised in the reception of members is as great as at home. It is not only the foreign missionary who is enabled to lead the devotions of the Christians, and explain the Word of God, but the converts themselves in many instances have risen to the needs of the churches, and there are native preachers, teachers, and pastors eminently qualified for the work. The sermons are not one whit behind what we are accustomed to listen to in England. There was every evidence that many have passed from death unto life; and after nearly fifty years' work in China, he was happy in the prospect of returning to the country which he had made his home. Addressing the outgoing workers, the venerable missionary said: "I congratulate you, and would cheer you with all my heart. You will enjoy advantages which were unknown to those who went abroad fifty years ago; you will not labour in vain." Dr. Muirhead dwelt in a few words upon the obligation of Christians at home in regard to "the messengers of the churches."

REV. ANDREW MURRAY based some helpful remarks on Acts xiii. 2-4. We may well pray for men and money, but still more should we pray for power to work. The Holy Ghost is the great need of the Church; the missionary abroad can d nothing without Him, the minister at home is helpless without Him. Mr. Murray led the meeting in prayer for the Spirit in order to individual life and collective power.

The evening meeting was largely attended. The speakers included Pastor Archibald G. Brown, Pastor D. M. Stearns (of Germantown, Phil., U.S.A.), and Dr. H. Grattan Guinness.

SOCIALISM that comes from above made the believer say after Pentecost, "Naught that I have is my own." Socialism that comes from beneath causes a man to say to his neighbour, "Naught that thou hast is thine own." A vast difference!—Mr. James Wright, Bristol.

A WEEK-END AT NORTHFIELD.

About 100 miles west of Boston is the little station of Miller's Falls, where we change from the Fitchburg line, and a few minutes later Northfield is reached. The drive from the railway station up through the pretty village to "The Northfield" is full of interest. The houses stand well back from the road, without fences of any kind to define their grounds in front, while spacious boulevards on either side of the road give a grateful shade and delightful appearance to the tastefully-built homes of the residents. To the right is the home of Major Whittle; on the left the house formerly occupied by Dr. Pentecost, and that of Mr. Sankey, with its well-trimmed lawn.

The hotel is a spacious building, well placed upon an eminence which commands a good view of the beautiful valley in which Northfield is situated. Quite a number of visitors have come by the same train, and we are heartily received by Mr. Moody himself, who looks strong and active, though his beard is more nearly white than it was when we saw him last at Keswick in 1893.

The view from the piazza at the rear of the house is even finer than the outlook we have had from the front—a spacious hayfield beyond the lawn, in which a number of hands are at work, then a gently rising slope well dotted over with trees, ending in the thickly-wooded hills which rise somewhat abruptly to form the horizon. Few hotels are more beautifully situated, and within we find excellent arrangements for the comfort and well-being of the guests. The hotel was opened on June 12 for the season. This is its eighth year, and we find it to be a valuable adjunct to the other institutions for which Mr. Moody and his trustees are responsible.

In a room adjoining the dining-room Mr. Moody sits down at 1.30 to dine with a company of "the Sons of Hermon," former students of the well-known school, whose interest is maintained and deepened by similar gatherings from time to time. At four o'clock a meeting of the is begun. Mrs. Moody is treasurer, and reports diminished receipts, possibly due to depression of business, but it is suggested that Mr. Moody—who is in the room—may be somewhat to blame, as he has been begging for other objects. When the ladies have discussed he finances and are arranging the number of applicants to be aided in the coming year, Mr. Moody interjects, "Give a little room for faith somewhere," and the ladies are encouraged to wider effort, under the presidency of their graceful and generous president, Mrs. Billings. The report of the Society states its object, "To help poor girls who wish for an education and who desire to do what they can for themselves. The funds of the Society are obtained by donations and membership fees. Money thus obtained is loaned to the students without interest, the loan to be repaid if they are able to do so. 185 students have been assisted by its funds. Forty-six have been graduated from the Seminary, and many of these are the graduates of whom the Seminary has most reason to be proud." The directors are compelled to refuse more than half the applicants for aid.

NORTHFIELD SEMINARY STUDENTS' AID SOCIETY

Most interesting correspondence was read by Miss Hall, the Principal of the Seminary, showing the wide-reaching and helpful influence of the work. Teachers, missionaries, and women in other useful departments of duty have acknowledged the benefits they have received from the Society. Subscribers of two dollars annually become members; of thirty dollars life members; while 100 dollars entitle to honorary membership. Doubtless many ladies who have received spiritual blessing through Mr. Moody and other friends will find this a good opportunity of taking a practical interest in this excellent organisation by sending a donation or annual subscription to Mrs. D. L. Moody, East Northfield, Mass., U.S.A.

A bright morning ushers in the day upon which Mr. Moody is to preach the baccalaureate sermon to the students, before the schools break up for the season. At the regular morning service in the Congregational Church Mr. Moody is on the platform. The building, with sittings for 1100, is crowded, and chairs occupy some of the passages. It is a remarkable audience, and one has the opportunity of seeing the power for good exerted in this district, and the promise of better things for the world at large, through the lives of 700 to 800 students.

Mr. Moody begins by saying he has not a text, but he has chosen a subject suggested by a sermon he had heard upon Isaiah's call for service. He then dwelt upon God's calls to Moses, to Jeremiah, to Jonah, and to Ananias of Damascus, contrasting the different duties to which He called them, and the excuses all made; then pointed out what they would have missed had they absolutely refused obedience, enforcing the need of instant surrender to the Spirit's call to whatever sphere his hearers might be sent. Faithfulness was enforced in the daily routine of work for God, and the position of the worker, as a messenger for God, was strongly emphasised.

The musical part of the service was warmly appreciated. The praise, led by well-trained student voices of both sexes, under the able conduct of Prof. Phillips, was hearty and well rendered.

In the afternoon a meeting was held at the "Round Top," near to the new auditorium. From 900 to 1000 were present. Mr. Moody presided. Addresses were delivered by former Hermonites and others. Questions were asked and answered. Mr. Moody closed with a suitable exhortation to all, and declared that if Hermon was to have any glory it must be through the preaching of the cross. After the benediction, at the request of the speaker, a band of the young ladies went off to sing some hymns to his mother, and a happy throng dispersed in different directions along the beautiful Connecticut valley.

At the evening service in the chapel, Mr. McWilliam presided, and Mr. Silliman delivered a stirring address from the text, "To every man his worth." Both gentlemen are members of Mr. Moody's Board of Trustees, which is composed of well-known business gentlemen from New York, Boston, and the immediate neighbourhood.

MOUNT HERMON SCHOOL.

Next morning we drove over from "The Northfield" with the trustees to the now famous school at Mount Hermon, nearly four miles away. No site could have been better chosen for the preparation of young men for Christian work. Situated on a gently-rising hill on the side of a fertile valley, the students have an opportunity of devoting part of their time to out-of-door work in the midst of beautiful scenery. This does not preclude time for athletic exercises, and yet a large saving in the maintenance expenses of the institution is effected by methods which increase the happiness and develop the physique of the students. From many colleges and universities to which Hermonites have gone strong testimony has been borne as to the physical and intellectual advantages enjoyed in this excellent avenue to the higher reaches of education. The moral and religious tone of Hermon is probably unsurpassed by any institution in the world.

The love of the students for the founder of the school is a feature of their daily life. His earnest spirit pervades every department. A gentleman who came to transact business with the trustees, and who has been acquainted with the schools for many years, said, "Anyone who has any connection with the place does just the best he can." An old Hermonite was asked, "Is there a large proportion of the scholars decided Christians?" The reply was, "Some come to the place unconverted, but I think it would be impossible for them to remain twelve months at Hermon without decision."

The buildings are now insufficient for the requirements. It will be a pity if the progress of the work be hindered from lack of funds. It would seem, from a passing visit, as if the want of means were the only limit to Mr. Moody's usefulness. In many lands during the past twenty years we have listened to expressions of gratitude from God's children for the help they have received through his unstinted service. From this incessant toil he is under medical orders to restrict himself somewhat. Will God's stewards who have wealth in any measure committed to them take this opportunity of investing it where the spiritual dividends are so large, and in a manner which will bring joy to the heart of a man who has been so owned by his Master in faithful labour? Time is hastening onward, and while we have the faith and wisdom of his mellowed experience with us, may his hands not be tied in their efforts to leave the Church a greater legacy than any of the mighty things he has, through the grace of God, been already able to provide.

On our way back from Hermon by a different route we drove through the long street of Northfield, extending more than a mile. There is no public-house in the village, and the inhabitants are responsible for their own behaviour without the help of a policeman.

Near to the hotel we saw the pretty cottage of Mr. G. C. Needham, whom, with Mrs. Needham and their son Albert, we met a few days later on the s.s. Paris on their way to England. Rev. D. M. Stearns and Mr. Needham are proceeding to Mildmay, and afterwards to Keswick. They held services and gave Bible-readings, which were much appreciated by many of the passengers. They will doubtless have a hearty welcome from old friends in this country. W. McA.

S.s. Paris, June 26.

MONEY.

"The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of Hosts" (Haggai ii. 8). These words ought to be stamped upon the memory of every child of God. Our money is the Lord's, and we are only stewards. If our consecration is to be real and thorough, we must hand over to God the keeping of purse and pocket, as well as person.

If it is our lot to be poor, let us not worry and be anxious about money. Some of the wisest, the happiest, the greatest and purest of men have been very poor, as far as this world's goods were concerned. On the other hand, many of the world's millionaires and merchant princes have been spiritual paupers.

It is not money, but the love of money which is the root of all evil (1 Tim. vi. 10). Though we cannot live without money, yet we are not to live for it. "If riches increase, set not your heart upon them" (Psalm lxii. 10). And those who have money are not to be proud of it. "Charge them that are rich in this world," says Paul to Timothy, "that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; that they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate; laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternal life" (1 Tim. vi. 17-19).

In the Sermon on the Mount we are warned against ostentatious charity, "Take heed that ye do not your alms before men to be seen of them" (Matt. vi. 1). I have read that Augustine likens those who boast of their good deeds to the foolish hen, who has no sooner laid her egg than by her cackling she calls someone to take it away. "They have their reward." An old writer says, "If one has served thee, tell the deed to many; hast thou served many, tell it not to any."

After all, the givers, and not the receivers, are the most blessed. To the liberal soul giving is a luxury, and the consecration of the first-fruits fills the barns (Prov. iii. 9, 10). People who have the open and royal heart get good interest on all they invest for God and souls. We gain by giving. "It was never yet loving that emptied the heart, nor giving that emptied the purse." Like the little boy, we shall act wisely if we put our five barley loaves and two small fishes into the hands of Jesus. For as Solomon says, "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth; and there is that holdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty" (Prov. xi. 24).

Dr. Pierson says we want individual, systematic, proportionate, and self-denying giving in the Church of God. Just as we are called to set apart a certain portion of our time to God, so we are to set apart a certain portion of our money. "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him" (1. Cor. xvi, 2). "God's principle is not that the rich should give, not that the poor should give, but that rich and poor should alike give; and every man, woman, and child have part in this consecration of substance." But it must ever be a willing offering, "for God loveth a cheerful giver" (2 Cor. ix. 7), and

God abhors the sacrifice,
Where not the heart is found.

Gosport. W. Monro Collings.

"LIBERATOR" RELIEF FUND.—In many churches and chapels next Sunday, July 7, an appeal will be made on behalf of the "Liberator" sufferers. If any reader should not be afforded an opportunity of subscribing towards the relief of these sufferers, it is earnestly hoped that they will send a donation to Rev. J. Stockwell Watts, Hon. Secretary of the Fund, 16, Farringdon-street, E.C.

THE OLD MUSICIAN.

My friend was taking one of his long tramps into the country which stretches away in green fields and meadows, north of London. Presently, as he neared a group of cottages, he heard a very familiar air given forth in sounds of the strangest description.

"It was neither fish, flesh, nor fowl, if one may speak so," said my friend. He looked about, but could see nobody. "O Rest in the Lord" is one of those songs of supplication which, as he says, "always fetch him." But on what instrument it was being played was a mystery to him.

All at once he caught sight of an old man seated on the doorstep of one of the cottages—he was the musician, and he was absorbed. My friend is of an inquiring turn of mind; he wanted to see upon what the old man was playing, so he went a little nearer, and was seen. "Good day, sir!" cried the old musician. "Ha, ha! You're laughing at my poor work, and I don't wonder; but it pleases her," jerking his thumb over his shoulder towards the interior.

"Indeed, I am not laughing," was the reply, "I was wondering what your instrument could be. I see now. I have never heard 'O Rest in the Lord' on an ivy-leaf before—that is all my excuse."

"Ah," said the old man, "you see, 'tis this way, sir. My missis and I was mighty fond o' music; we'd use to sing that song in our village class together at home, and when we was first wed I played it to her on the flute. Flute's gone, and we be old now; there's but little voice left me, and that's cracked, but I must humour her, sir. You see, she's going to leave me, and this quiets us both."

"I'm sure it means everything to you," said my friend. "Yes, sir, you've hit it—we be both resting in Him; we've got to part, but not for long, and this 'minds us of old days. Could ye recognise the tune, sir, for all 'tis but on an ivy-leaf?" "Certainly!" was the answer, "you play it uncommonly well."

"Well, that's a good hearing. We think like this: She can't sing, and I can't sing; she be bedridden, and I be awkward, but we must praise Him, somehow, together: so we remembered as how I used to play the cornet on an ivy-leaf, when I was a boy, and Sarah says, 'He don't mind what it is you play on, Andrew, so long as your heart be right with Him, and you give Him the glory,' she says."

"And she is quite right," said my friend, as he raised his cap. "When I am ungrateful, I shall come and get a lift from you and Sarah." Which he often does, to his own benefit.

M. B. GERDS.

RAILWAY CONVALESCENT HOME.

DURING the last three years a blessed work has been going on among our railway men in the Convalescent Home at Hastings. Since March, 1892, nearly 400 railway men have been admitted as patients. Of these over 100 professed to be converted during their stay at the home, and many are now witnessing brightly for Christ on the line. Christian men also received much spiritual help during their time of rest and change.

As the home only accommodates twelve patients, it has been found quite impossible to take in all the applicants for admission, so that a larger home is necessary. Miss Dolby, the hon. lady superintendent, who devotes her life to the work, has very kindly purchased a splendid site at St. Leonards-on-Sea, and presented it to the committee, who have decided to erect a new home to accommodate 40 patients. For this a sum of £5000 will be required. The need for the home will be realized when it is stated that about 3000 of our railway men in the United Kingdom, or about one in every 130 employed, are injured every year by accident on the line, in addition to the large number always on the sick list through exposure to all sorts of weather, night and day. It is hoped that these facts will lead friends who travel by rail to help this effort for the physical and spiritual welfare of our railway men, who so admirably and faithfully discharge their difficult and dangerous duties. The Secretary of the Railway Mission is Mr. R. Nixon, 1, Adam-street, Strand, W.C.

TEMPERANCE IN AUSTRALIA.

THE Victorian Alliance for the Suppression of the Liquor Traffic was formed in 1881, the constitution, objects, and methods being the same as the United Kingdom Alliance. Its aim is to educate the public sentiment, so as to give a complete and decisive affirmative answer at the next Parliamentary election to the question, "Shall the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor be prohibited within this electoral district?" Each electoral district would determine the issue for itself. A Bill has been drafted, entitled "The People's Liquor Traffic Veto Bill," which provides for the enrolment of all women over twenty-one years of age as voters in matters pertaining to the drink traffic. It repeals compensation, and extends the veto power to the issue of new public-house and grocers' licences.

Under the present imperfect laws relating to the drink traffic, the Victorian Alliance has been instrumental in preventing the issue of over 300 new licences, and more than 1800 public meetings have been held under its auspices during the past four years. It has also, since its formation, circulated over five millions of tracts, leaflets, and pamphlets on the question of temperance, and the evils of drink. The Alliance Record is also issued monthly, edited by the able and earnest secretary, Mr. John Vale, and has a circulation of about 8000 copies. This periodical was printed bi-monthly till the lack of funds compelled the curtailment, and will be again when possible.

The executive of the Alliance, and many of its members, also work with the Anti-opium League; and so far as Sunday trading is concerned, with the Lord's Day Observance Society. I am sorry to say over 700 Europeans are opium smokers in Melbourne, and a Bill was passed by theLegislative Assembly for the prohibition of the sale and use of opium, except for medicinal purposes. It has yet, however, to pass the new Parliament, including both Houses, before it can become the law of the Colony.

I respectfully ask the influence of temperance friends in Great Britain and Ireland to aid us in the fight, and secure for us, who are of the same "kith and kin" in Victoria, the full liberty of deciding whether we are to have legislation by the will of the people calculated to remove temptation, and ultimately to quench the evils of intemperance, or to have a continuance of our licensing system, which demoralises the community and kills the public conscience by weakening the moral fibre of the Colony. Who will stretch hands across the sea to help to fight the battle of the weak and right, against the strong and wrong?

Every local effort has been tried to wipe out a debt of £500, but it still exists and increases. I need not dwell on the terrible financial disasters the Colony has passed through during the past few years. We have all suffered, and many families who were in affluence are now in poverty. Some who gave with unstinted hand when they had it, are now recipients of favours from friends, but I believe there are those in Great Britain who will show practical sympathy with their co-workers abroad if the opportunity is afforded them. An honoured citizen of Glasgow has responded with a donation of £25, and although I cannot look for such large sums from many, perhaps there are those who will give smaller ones, and gladden the hearts of our committee, who have worked so nobly and earnestly without fee or reward in the years that are past, and still throw all their best endeavours to have the laws of the Colony founded on righteous and just principles. It will give me pleasure to supply any information by letter, and as the honorary treasurer of the Alliance, I know well the urgency of this appeal.

My London address, up to July 22, will be, care of Messrs. S. W. Partridge and Co., Publishers, 9, Paternoster-row, E.C.—I remain, yours truly,

M. L. HUTCHINSON.

MR. McKAY, writing from Ogbomoso (Niger) on May 5, gives us news of Mr. Holt, who is connected with the Central Soudan Mission. Mr. Holt wrote from Bida on March 7, saying that he hoped to leave Bida on the following day for Kano, intending to travel up country with a caravan of donkeys. He was quite well at the time of writing. Mr. McKay further writes:—"I am very busy. The catechist has gone to Lagos for three months, so that I am in charge of this station. I am quite well, and thoroughly happy in the work and surroundings. Pray for us."

THE SALVATION ARMY IN ITALY.

THE report of last year's work of the Salvation Army in Italy bears the title, "From the Alps to the Apennines;" and in its pages Major Greville Thonger, commanding officer, gives an interesting record of labours and successes. The staff, including cadets in training, numbers twenty-eight, of whom fifteen are Italians, nine are of French and Swiss origin, and the remaining four are English. Much satisfaction is felt at the fact that the Italian element is on the increase. The officers live among the people, and content themselves with the ordinary fare of the classes among whom they work.

Describing work in the Waldensian Valleys, the report says:—"Some of the most disreputable characters have been thoroughly converted, and the three corps of Torre Pellice, Fassiot, and San Giovanni have been established. The hopes formed that the valleys might supply a nucleus of Italian officers have been realised, as eight of those now working in our ranks are Waldensians, and two are Roman Catholics saved in the valleys.

"In the summer of 1893 it was felt that the time had come to attack the 'hundred cities of Italy.' Turin, one of the largest northern towns, was chosen as our point of advance. The very first to come out to the penitent form at a meeting a week after the opening was a woman of very small stature, a well-known character in the town, owing to her degraded and drunken habits. It was the first person that the Turinese had ever seen come out to the penitent form, and the audience rose en masse, bending forward to watch the novel spectacle, whilst some brought opera glasses into play.

"Various comments were soon flying about the hall. 'They have paid her 100 francs to go out there!'; 'She's mad!' and similar expressions, were to be heard on all sides. The woman gave up the drink that night, and has ever since gone steadily forward as a good soldier of the Cross. Her husband said to her directly after her conversion, 'Instead of calling you Margheritina [little Margaret] I shall now call you Soldatina [little Soldier],' and this latter name has stuck to her ever since, and is well merited by our comrade, who is never wanting at her post. Since her conversion she has learned to read and write, and has begun visiting a large hospital, and speaking to the patients about their souls.

"It was decided that Florence should be the scene of our next operations. We were most fortunate in securing a portion of an old palace, formerly the residence of the powerful Medici family, on reasonable terms. The premises consist of a large and a small hall, and are in every way adapted to our work. We have in training here five Italian cadets, who give every promise of becoming valuable officers to win their fellow-countrymen to the feet of Jesus. Among these cadets is a journalist from Rome, who, although brought up a Roman Catholic, was converted to the truths of the Gospel through the instrumentality of the Baptist Mission of his native city. Feeling a strong call to become a Salvationist, he was sent on to us with strong recommendations by his pastor. Another of our cadets, a Waldensian by birth, had been a banker's clerk at Bordighera. But perhaps the most striking case of conversion amongst the cadets is that of a young man, who, like so many of the Waldensians, was in the habit of passing the winter as a waiter in some of the hotels on the Riviera."

NORTH AFRICA MISSIONARIES.—The following missionary probationers, most of whom have been spending twelve months in Barking for the study of Arabic, hope to proceed to the North Africa Mission field early in the autumn:—Mr. J. Johnson, Mr. C. T. Hooper, Mr. D. J. Cooper, Misses J. Dowling, E. Mills, G. L. Addinsell, and M. A. Prior. The mission will therefore be needing a considerable sum to provide the necessary outfits and passages for these fellow-labourers.

Y.W.C.A. IN IRELAND.—A conference of secretaries and workers of West Meath and King's County was held on June 20 and 21 at Beechmount, Clara, the home of Mrs. J. C. Goodbody. Mrs. S. H. Smith, president, gave addresses on Judges vi. and vii. in the morning, and the benefits of the Association, to a crowded audience in the evening. Miss Wallace spoke on "Light and Life," "The Story of Hezekiah," and "Worthiness." Miss L. C. Goodbody gave an account of her tour in India. In the afternoon the subject, "A Missionary to India," was discussed, and the secretaries and workers present stated what sum each could guarantee towards her support.

C. MAUD BATTERSBY.

Letters to the Editor.

"THE SPIRITS IN PRISON."

Dear Sir,—No one expects everything spoken in an address to be given exactly in a condensed report. But what I said on Tuesday morning in Mildmay, on 1 Pet. iii. 19-24 has been so entirely misapprehended by your reporter that I will be thankful if you will allow me to give as nearly as I remember the exact words that I used. I would be sorry that even the small number of your readers who know me should take those given in the report as mine :—

"You remember the passage in 1 Peter, where it is said that Christ by the Spirit went and preached to the spirits in prison (a passage, by the way, similar to Eph. ii. 17 : Christ 'came and preached peace').

"How did Christ preach? By his Spirit in Noah (cf. ch. i. 11).

"When did He preach? 'When the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah while the Ark was a preparing.'

"To whom did He preach? 'To the spirits in prison. Who were they? The men on the earth in Noah's time. They are called souls, v. 20. 'Eight souls were saved through water.' Here they are called spirits because it was to the spirit of man that the testimony of the Spirit of Christ in Noah addressed itself. How were they 'in prison'? Because they were shut in by the coming flood as by the impassable walls of a prison-house.

"What was it that Christ by his Spirit in Noah preached to them? That the only way of escape from their prison-house was in the Ark, through the waters, out into a world off which the curse had rolled.

"I know few scenes in the Old Testament so strikingly setting forth our salvation in Christ as this. Peter tells us that our passing through the waters of baptism is 'a like figure.' Both preach salvation by death, burial and resurrection."—Yours faithfully, John G. McVicker.

THE HOLY SPIRIT.

Dear Sir,—With a sincere desire to know more fully the truth, and to see the vitally-important doctrines relating to the Holy Spirit brought out into the clearest light, I would suggest a few inquiries on points which are in many minds involved in ambiguity, if not in obscurity.

1. Is the term "Baptism of the Holy Spirit," so constantly used by many teachers who expound "Scriptural holiness," an appropriate expression wherewith to describe any present-day spiritual experience? It is not once used in the Word of God in any connection that may not be reasonably held to apply to the outpouring of the Holy Spirit at the beginning of the dispensation. Is it not therefore an undesirable thing for Christians to continue to use a term which is taken at the present day to cover widely different spiritual and emotional phenomena?

2. Is there any definite teaching in Scripture which leads to the conclusion that by "waiting on God"—the blessedness of which attitude is acknowledged by all—any enduement can be received which is not possessed by every child of God when he receives the Lord Jesus Christ as his Saviour? If there is, may it be definitely pointed out in your columns? and will the friends who so read the Scriptures differentiate between the new gifts to be obtained by "waiting" and the developed graces and gifts resulting from the indwelling of the Holy Spirit?

3. Is there any Scripture to justify the expression "a fresh anointing" or "a fresh filling," for daily living or special service? Does not this thought lead the heart away from the assurance that the Holy Spirit is always dwelling in the believer in almighty power, and that He is always all-sufficient for every occasion and emergency?

4. Is there any Scriptural authority for the expression "a baptism of love," a "baptism of joy," "a baptism of power"? If there is not, will it not be wise for Christians to cease to use a term which misleads their fellows into thinking that they are to enter into the blessedness of these Christian graces by a sudden, magical transformation, instead of by a steady perseverance in the cultivation of the Christian spirit.

The result of a long course of listening, of study, and of experience has led me to the conclusion that—

1. God gives his Holy Spirit to sinners when they confess the Lord Jesus Christ as Saviour. "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost" (Acts ii. 38). "Now, if anyone have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his" (Rom. viii. 9).

2. That God, the Holy Spirit, dwells in every believer, as He did in the Corinthians, recently converted from idolatry and degradation (1 Cor. iii. 16), and in the "foolish Galatians" (Gal. iii. 2). Many saints, alas! do not know of his indwelling, and few, if any, know the fulness of his mighty power.

3. That what we are exhorted to do is to "hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches" (Rev. iii. 22), to use his grace and power in separating ourselves from sin (2 Cor. vii. 1), and in yielding ourselves wholly to God's service (Rom. vi. 13), to be "filled with the Spirit" (Eph. iii. 18). He is already indwelling; his desire is to fill the whole being of the redeemed child of God.

In common with many others I am devoutly anxious to know if there is any fundamental truth in relation to the sanctifying power of the Holy Spirit, in addition to those enumerated here. The confusing effect and the weakness of much of the testimony on this subject arises from the fact that teachers substitute personal experience and deductive reasoning (the premises of which are too often taken for granted) for the only testimony that can give the hearts of inquirers rest and satisfaction, namely, that of the Word of God.—Yours very truly, Robert Burn.

186, Aldersgate-street, E.C., July 1.

BIBLE INSTITUTE, GLASGOW.

A most interesting meeting was held last week within the Christian Institute, the occasion being the closing of the session of the Bible Training Institute. The hall was crowded. Lord Overtoun, who presided, said it was at an annual meeting of their United Evangelistic Association that Mr. Moody suggested the launching of their Bible Training Institute. It was a good work, and they looked back with thankfulness to God. They had difficulties, but difficulties were not always the worst part of their experience. The aim of the Institute was to undertake work for God at home and abroad. It took two years to qualify the students for the work. He was glad to state that the new site for the Institute had been prepared, and they were not far off from starting to build. The new establishment would contain ninety male students and forty female. They were going to make a departure in the latter direction. Next session Mr. Anderson, the teacher, would have his hands full, for ten of the old students meant to return, while thirteen new students had accepted.

A synopsis of the work done last session showed that the resident students numbered twenty-six, outside students fourteen, and evening-class students 280. The lecturers who had assisted in the classes were Dr. Elder Cumming, Revs. Messrs. Ross, Adamson, M'Intyre, and Riddell, Messrs. W. A. Campbell (Glasgow) and J. J. Kippen (Pitcairn-green). The work had been considerably in excess of previous sessions, as there was a growing demand for the services of the students.

Mr. Anderson said the number of addresses delivered was 4490. The persons conversed with were 1825, and those professing conversion numbered 1070. The students at the outset of their work believed that the Word of God had a great and effective power in developing the whole man in mind as well as in heart, intellectually as well as spiritually.

Dr. Elder Cumming, who next spoke, said that in three years they would find they had made too little provision for the young women who were anxious to take up the work of spreading the Gospel. He gave the students three farewell texts—viz., Acts ix. 6; Numbers xxii. 35; and Numbers xxii. 18. Lord Overtoun then presented diplomas to the students who had completed their course, and the students who were leaving delivered short and pithy addresses.

HELP FOR BRAZIL.—Copies of the little paper, noticed in our last, may be had from the secretary, Campo Vede, Edinburgh. Prayer is entreated that the dark places of Brazil may soon be penetrated by Gospel light. The workers there are but a feeble band, but the eternal God is their refuge, and He delights to do great things in answer to believing prayer.

CONVENTION AT MUSSOORIE.

A convention for the deepening of the spiritual life of holiness was held in Mussoorie, on the slopes of the majestic Himalaya Mountains on June 4 to 6.

The well-known missionary, Dr. Phillips, secretary to the Sunday School Union in India, presided in a very efficient manner. A number of missionaries of various sections of the Church of Christ delivered addresses. The attendance was excellent and the attention good.

The general subject was "The Gift of the Holy Ghost." This was divided into the following course :—

1. The Promise of the Father.
2. The Necessity of the Baptism of the Spirit.
3. The Conditions of Bestowment.
4. Fruit in Christian Living.
5. Fruit in Christian Service.
6. The Abiding Presence of the Spirit.

These topics were introduced in addresses of twenty minutes each. Then a variety of five minute speeches followed. In the short speeches sisters as well as brothers spoke ; there was present a sweet sense of Christian unity and brotherly love, yea, more, a sanctified consciousness of the presence of the Lord and Master, and it is not too much to say that these meetings provide a season of refreshment from the presence of the Holy Spirit. It was to many a time of deep heart-searching, to others a time of renewed joy and consecration, and we hope to some a time of conviction of sin, and of decision to serve the Lord.

It is evident that two vital questions are now coming more and more to the front among all sections of believers, that is the absolute need of the fulness of the Spirit and the advent of the Lord Jesus to gather in his elect. The cry is gone forth, "Behold the Bridegroom is coming!" No doubt there is a stir and a good deal of trimming of lamps. May the oil not fail when most needed!

Thomas Evans.

[As we go to press we learn that a telegram reached England on Tuesday reporting the death of Dr. Phillips, who presided at the above conference.]

SAILORS' ORPHANS IN SCOTLAND.

Sir,—All the friends of our seamen will rejoice to know that Mr. C. W. Cayzer, M.P., has instructed his law agents to make over to the trustees of this Society his beautiful residence and grounds at Cove, to be used for all time coming as a home for the sons of deceased seafaring men. Not only has he made this most handsome and generous gift, but he has arranged at his own expense to furnish it complete for the accommodation of fifty boys, and to hand it over for occupation as soon as this can be done. This gift has come most opportunely. We have for some time felt the need of another home, and have been asking God to send us such. We look upon this as a direct answer to prayer. In every step in the work our needs have been met as they arose, and we go forward into this extension looking to the Lord for all that is required in the future.—I am, etc., Richard H. Hunter.

2, Park-circus, Glasgow.

LOST ON THE MOUNTAINS.

The following extract of a letter from Miss Annie R. Taylor, of the Tibetan Pioneer Mission, dated June 1st, Gnatong, Sikkim :—We are passing under a great trial here. Last Sunday morning I went out with some of the men intending to have a meeting on the mountain top, but the mist came on and we only sang and prayed, and then we lost the way; one of the men, Private Richardson, left us, going another way, and has not been seen since. Search has been made for him in all directions. I followed one of the rivers with my Tibetan coolie, spending a night under a rock, and making our way through the jungle, thinking he might have gone that way, but there was no trace of him. This has cast a cloud over the station, he was one of those who accepted Jesus as his Saviour soon after Christmas.

The Lord is blessing and teaching us, but there are many trials. Pray that we may be kept near to Jesus. I expect to go to Yatong next week, and get the hut made to look like a shop, and then I may have to go to Kalimpong and get some of the boxes with things required for the shop sent on.

IRISH NOTES.

It has been decided that the Methodist district meetings, which used to be held formerly in the third week in August, shall in future be held in the first week in September, and that in connection with each of them a convention shall be held for the deepening of the spiritual life.

Much regret is felt in Dublin and the neighbourhood at the death of Canon Monahan. The deceased interested himself greatly in the welfare of the poor, while many of the Dublin charities seemed to depend altogether upon his exertions. He also took a deep interest in the work of the Christian Union Buildings.

During the past week several provincial towns, including Antrim, Larne, Ballymena, Ballymoney, and Portrush have been visited by Mr. J. B. Wookey and a company of boys from Dr. Barnardo's Homes. In each place the band have been cordially received, and large audiences have listened to the stories told with pathos and power by Mr. Wookey. The performances of the boys have delighted all who have witnessed them.

SHIPWRECKED MARINERS.

The fifty-sixth annual meeting of the Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariners' Royal Benevolent Society, which has removed its London central office to 26, Suffolk-street, Pall Mall East, was held on Wednesday, June 26, at the Hôtel Métropole, Whitehall, the Earl Cadogan presiding.

The annual report stated that, during the fifty-six years since its foundation in 1839, the Society had directly relieved 467,460 distressed sufferers; the number aided within the past twelve months being 9110, embracing 4581 mariners and fishermen, with 4529 widows and orphans or other bereaved dependents, while the ocean-going, fishing, or smaller craft concerned comprised 880 vessels. In relief of the widespread distress involved by maritime disasters and consequent deaths, the Society's aid was administered, through its central office and some 1000 local agencies. Besides this immediate relief, substantial grants had been made during the past year and winter to twenty-seven special funds at different ports and stations. The income of the Society for 1894 was £20,863 and the expenditure £21,824, nearly 40,000 mariner and fishermen members contributing to the provident fund over £6000. The report concluded by quoting the committee's lately-issued public appeal for more adequate funds in furtherance of the Society's benevolent and business-like operations.

DR. PARKER ON MORAL QUESTIONS.

At last Thursday morning's service at the City Temple, Dr. Parker said:—I trust that during the general election the Christian pulpit will not be a party agent either on one side or the other. In the pulpit the Christian minister should concern himself only with religious and moral questions. He should never touch the labour problem, but should never leave the labourer. When the labourer is right, labour will not be far wrong. I regard horse-racing as a moral question. It is one of the chief occasions of gambling. It is worse than useless to talk of gambling as a separable accident. Theoretically it may be separable, but what is it in practice? What is the moral history of horse-racing? Was any man ever made better by it? How many thousands of young men has it seduced from the path of rectitude? I cannot but feel that it would be a national disaster if the chief statesman of any country should be the leading patron of the turf. We may personally esteem and honour him, and politically we may believe in him, but looking at the broadest aspect of his position his example cannot but be harmful in its effect upon many classes of society. Whilst it is not for me to judge the motives of any man, I cannot but hope that Christian England will never have again a horse-racing Prime Minister, and I cannot but further hope that any horse-racing statesman who may be called to high office will so far defer to the Christian conscience of the country as to sacrifice tastes and practices which may have a disastrous effect upon the moral health of the nation.

KESWICK CONVENTION.—Dear Sir,—Through the kindness of some of the Lord's children I have been permitted to assist ten Christian workers to get to this year's Convention. Some of these are returned missionaries, one is preparing for the mission field, and others are home workers. I have still six applicants, four ladies and two gentlemen, for whom as yet I have not been able to make any provision.—Sincerely yours, Wellesley C. Bailey, 17, Greenhill-place, Edinburgh.

THE Y.M.C.A.

The Worksop auxiliary, in which Mr. J. C. Wing, of Scofton House, is manifesting much interest, is holding a successful meeting every week, which is attended by about thirty young fellows.

The Buenos Ayres Association reports a slight increase in membership, and a good year's work. Two Bible classes are held weekly and hospital visitation and other forms of evangelistic work are engaged in, while the physical requirements of the members are also well looked after. The president, Mr. Barnett, is now in England. Mr. Stevenson succeeds Mr. Holder in the hon. secretaryship.

The annual conference of the Y.M.C.A.'s in the Dumfries and Galloway district was held under the presidency of Colonel W. E. Malcolm, of Burnfoot. Mr. John C. Moor, one of the travelling secretaries of the English National Council, attended as a deputation; and among others who took part were Mr. Arthur Giles, one of the early pioneers of the Y.M.C.A. in Edinburgh, and Mr. R. Henderson Smith, travelling secretary of the Scottish executive.

The formal opening of the recreation ground of the Sheffield Association, which has been secured on a seven years' lease, has just taken place. On the morning of Sunday week the midsummer breakfast was held, when the mayor, a leading Christian citizen, spoke warmly of the excellent work of the association. Addresses were delivered by Rev. R. H. Hammond, Vicar of St. Mary's, and Rev. G. Watt Smith, pastor of one of the Congregational churches.

The annual midsummer morning service for young men and young women, under the auspices of the Liverpool S.S. Union and the Y.M.C.A. took place on the 23rd ult., and was conducted by Rev. J. McKinney, of St. Silas Church, Pembroke-place. A great gathering of student workers from various parts of the world will take place at the Liverpool Y.M.C.A. early in January next. Mr. Thomas Jameson, general secretary of the Association, will act as hon. sec. of the Convention.

The principal Bible-class of the Belfast Association, conducted by the general secretary, is attracting a good deal of attention; hundreds of young men are present each Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, and splendid results are reported. The Gospel services, both indoor and in the open air, are growing in numbers from week to week. The annual excursion of the Association takes place on July 12; 1500 members and friends will accompany the party to the Isle of Man. A fine steamer has been chartered for the occasion by the committee.

A special summer conference, in connection with the North Midland District Union of Y.M.C.A.'s, took place by kind invitation of Mr. R. Morris, J.P., in the grounds of Beechfield, Doncaster, on Thursday. There was a large and representative attendance of delegates from the local Association, Sheffield, Hillsbro', Cleckheaton, Derby, Heckmondwike, Huddersfield, Leeds, Lincoln, Wakefield, Bradford, and other centres. The opening service at 10 a.m. was conducted by Canon Tebbutt, vicar of Doncaster, and was followed by an address on "The Young Man and his Bible" by Mr. T. Cheney Garfit, of Kenwick Hall, Louth. Interesting papers were presented upon the questions, "How to Make Association Rooms Attractive," by Mr. A. K. Yapp, Derby; "How the Physical and Educational Departments, etc., May be Utilised to Help the Spiritual Work of the Association," by Mr. H. Whitwell, Birmingham; "The Individual Element in Association Work," by Mr. W. Jervis, Sheffield; "Unoccupied Fields in Association Work," by Messrs. G. H. Sale, Derby; Rankin, Lincoln; Clarke, Scarboro'; and Yapp. The morning session was presided over by Mr. Hugh Wyatt, Lincoln; the afternoon session by Mr. Alfred Haley, Wakefield; and the evening meeting by Dr. A. Christy Wilson, president of the Doncaster Association.

RIO WESSON HARBOUR MISSION.—A new superintendent for this excellent work has been nominated. Mr. Schmidt, of Cliff College, has been chosen, having been a sailor and speaking fluently three languages. On account of the financial difficulties in which the Mission has lately found itself, it will be necessary to send Mr. Schmidt out to Rio with some help towards his salary. The Missionary Bureau, 186, Aldersgate-street, will receive subscriptions and donations towards this object.

BETHESDA MISSION, LONDON FIELDS, now in the seventh year, held its quarterly meeting on June 26. The report showed much good work accomplished. Some hearers have testified to having accepted Christ on the spot at the open-air meetings. Cheering addresses were given by the different speakers, and the meeting was altogether one of an encouraging character. The financial statement still showed a deficit of £48 11s. 6d. The leader of the Mission is Mr. Stephen J. Alexander, Bethesda, 45, Gayhurst-road, Dalston, N.E.

PERSONALIA.

Rev. Dr. Bruce, late of Persia, has been appointed Professor of Persian in University College, London.

Canon Fleming announces in the current number of The Religious Review of Reviews that "from personal reasons, in a busy life, which would not interest the general public," he is resigning the editorship of that periodical.

Rev. Charles Spurgeon arrived at Plymouth by the steamship Dunottar Castle on Friday. He is in very much better health as the result of his tour in South Africa. The church at Greenwich has sent him a warm invitation to return to the pastorate.

Miss E. S. Fox, daughter of Rev. H. E. Fox, vicar of St. Nicholas', Durham, having been accepted by the C.M.S. for missionary work, goes out with Miss Tristram (daughter of Canon Tristram), who is returning to her mission work in Japan in the beginning of the autumn.

Mr. George C. Needham, who has come over for a few weeks' work at the prophetic conference, Keswick, gave an expository address on Monday at the Central Noon Prayer Meeting, Aldersgate-street, on "The Manifold Ministry of the Holy Spirit." Mrs. Needham added a few words on the Holy Spirit as the earnest of our inheritance.

Rev. J. S. Morris, head master of Harley College, Bow, has been laid aside with what threatens to prove a fatal illness, a severe form of internal cancer having recently declared itself. Mr. Morris has performed a very useful ministry in connection with Harley College during the past fourteen years, and mission workers all over the world are blessing God for his teaching and influence.

Mrs. Amanda Smith asks us to inform her many friends among our readers that she sailed for America from Southampton on Saturday last. She is much stronger and better in health than she has been for a long time, but is in need of a season of rest. As many invitations to work in this country have reached her which she has hitherto not been able to respond to, she purposes, if God will, to return to England and meet these engagements. Her address for the next three months will be—c.o. Meyer Brothers, 108, Washington-street, Chicago.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Havant.—The various churches have heartily worked together in a fortnight's tent services, held by Mr. W. Day and being continued. Mr. Thos. Hogben, of Portsmouth, gave last week a Bible-reading to Christians in the Assembly-hall, and Captain Birley, of Gosport, gives a second reading. Prayer is requested. The drink traffic is the greatest hindrance here.

Mr. F. H. Dawe, of Sermon-lane Mission, has recently had some very encouraging tent meetings at Quarry Bank, South Staffordshire. Night after night good numbers gathered to hear the Word of Life, while on some occasions the large tent was crowded. Mr. Lazenby is continuing them for a time, when Mr. Vivian hopes to take up the work again, visiting as many places around as time will allow.

A PASTOR'S DYING MESSAGE.—In reply to correspondents who have written us in reference to this matter (see The Christian, June 20, p. 14), we may say that the aim and work of the Personal Appeal Society may be summed up in the three rules:—(1) That we will ask the Lord for opportunities to speak or write personally to the unsaved. (2) That we will look out for such opportunities. (3) That we will meet once a month for prayer and consultation. This might well form a "section" in connection with the Y.P.S.C.E. or the Y.M. or Y.W.C.A. A secretary would, of course, be wanted to enrol members, and transact any necessary business; but the success of the movement will depend on the personal faithfulness of those who take upon themselves the obligation of the rules.

MORTALITY ON THE NIGER.—The mail steamer Niger, from West Africa, brings bad reports as to the health of the Europeans on the coast. At Old Calabar Miss Miller, one of the missionary nurses, had died. She went out only three months ago, under the joint auspices of the Niger Coast Protectorate and a missionary society at Lagos. The death was also announced of Miss Mary Ann Goodall, principal for five years of the Church Missionary Society's Female Institution. Miss Goodall had been back at Lagos only about a month. Dr. Conran, Government surgeon, died at Cape Coast Castle on June 8, and at Sierra Leone the death occurred of two fathers and one sister of the Roman Catholic Mission, while nearly the whole staff of the mission had been down with fever.

OBITUARY.

M. THEOPHILE ROLLER.

By the death of M. Jean Louis Théophile Roller, the Protestant community of Normandy has been thrown into mourning. Born at Aubusson in 1830, he was educated at Paris and Montauban. He exercised a useful ministry during many years in Italy, first at Naples, then in Rome. He was the author of a valuable work on the Catacombs, and also of a book of Oriental travel.

REV. WILLIAM PEARCE.

At Brockley, on June 27, this servant of God passed away at the ripe age of 79 years. Although for the past few years resident with his son in the suburbs of London, Mr. Pearce was essentially a village preacher and pastor, and many of the villages of Hampshire heard his testimony. Born in Clanfield, Hants, he was converted to God as a young man by hearing some Methodists preach in the open-air. Those were days of darkness in the rural districts and of dense ignorance amongst the population, but the Gospel in Clanfield did wonders, and the fruit abides to this day. Saved himself, he longed that others should know the way of life, so he opened his cottage for services. He built a room adjoining it, from which a chapel arose and then another. Here souls were saved, and a living church formed, of which Mr. Pearce became the pastor, at the same time reaching out from this centre to the villages for many miles around.

Perhaps the most remarkable part of this good man's work was his care for the children. Fifty years ago the villages were so destitute that even if a school existed, it was probably under the care of one who could scarcely read herself, and certainly could not write. Mr. Pearce longed to teach the children, so he gathered them to his house, and, while teaching them the three R.'s was the happy means in God's hands of teaching many of them the fundamental truths of salvation. The writer knew some of these young men and women, who are now preachers of the Gospel, or have lived to adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour.

Waterloo, near Portsmouth, was the place of his latest ministry, from which he only retired when age and increasing infirmity compelled him to do so. Here during some years he did a good work. He found a chapel almost empty, and in a short time had around him a body of earnest Christian workers, the greater part of whom were his own spiritual children. In that village he laboured in the Gospel, and won the love and esteem of all. The vicar was a friend of his, and expressed regret when he left. During these more than fifty years, Mr. Pearce never had a salary or fixed stipend of any sort. He early learned to trust in God for all his temporal as well as spiritual needs. For years he was able to maintain a teacher for his school, as well as set apart a portion of all that the Lord sent him, for the poor.

Of his sudden departure it need only be said that he died as he lived, in loving fellowship with all saints, and "strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might."

MRS. RICKETTS AND THE CONGO.

Dear Sir,—Mrs. Ricketts, "the dear little black woman," is going back to the Congo. Many of your readers will remember my appeal for her some years ago, and the response in money and in outfit for her school was very liberal. Since then she and her husband, after much useful work on the Congo, have been home to Jamaica to see their little boys and other friends.

To-day I get the news that they are again safe in England on their way to Africa, and have promised to collect for their expenses. Will Mrs. Ricketts's former friends kindly help us again? I want £50 at least, and I believe I shall get it. In the meantime, they are at Harley House, Bow, E., and will be glad to help at missionary gatherings, if invitations are sent direct to them. Money or parcels can come to me, or to care of Dr. Harry Guinness.—Yours,

Rebekah S. Hind Smith.

Haywards Heath, June 30.

COTTAGE HOME, KINGSTOWN.—This Home was never in a more efficient state, and never so taxed in its resources, both as to the number of little ones pressing on its space, and as to the income. Every little bed is full. There are over fifty-five mouths to feed daily, as well as bodies to clothe and wash, and minds to teach and train. Last week, Rev. L. Darling, successor to Rev. W. E. Burroughs, held a service in the Home. Thanks to the generosity of an ever kind friend, Mrs. Cairnes, the home has now been completed by the addition of a wing, thus increased support for the increased number of inmates is required. The hon. secretary is Miss Barrett, The Cottage Home, Kingstown, Dublin.

[675]

The Book World.

Ezra and Nehemiah, edited by Rev. J. H. Whitehead, M.A., has been added to "Nisbet's Scripture Hand-book series. The notes and explanations will be welcome to Sunday-school teachers and others. (1s. Nisbet).

Songs for Little Singers, composed by Henry King Lewis. (Simpkin, Marshall & Co.) This is a third edition of a high-class collection of songs for quite young people. Their educative influence will be marked in the case of children with some musical skill and aptitude.

Messrs. Partridge & Co. have made three recent additions to their cheap "Pansy" series of "illustrated stories":—"Those Boys," "Echoing and Re-echoing," and "From Different Standpoints." The tales are both pleasing and profitable, while the illustrations are of excellent quality. (4d. each.)

The Temperance Worker is a capital serial for Band of Hope leaders. The readings and recitations are well selected; and the sketches all bear on temperance life and labour. Volume xxxvii. (covers 1s. 6d., cloth 2s. 6d.) continues the life of John Cassell. (G. H. Graham, "Temperance Worker" Office, Maidstone.)

Joseph Hardy Neesima, LL.D., president of Doshisha University, Kyoto. By Rev. J. D. Davis, D.D. (2s. 6d. H. R. Allenson.) This outline of a wonderful life is in its second edition. The pages should have many readers. Well written and illustrated, the story is interesting and instructive in a high degree.

Humility, the Beauty of Holiness. By Rev. Andrew Murray. (Nisbet & Co.) A most welcome addition to Mr. Murray's shilling series of helps to the sanctified life. The subject is one of great moment to the honest, earnest believer, and it is treated with much simplicity and spiritual insight. We gladly speed it on its mission.

The Phonographer 2d. (Sir Isaac Pitman & Sons.) This monthly serial, beautifully printed in the phonographic character, is a new series of The Scottish Phonographer, and is produced by the "Phono Company," Elgin, N.B. The transfer work is of a high order, and we are not surprised to learn that the magazine has a rapidly increasing circulation at home and abroad.

The Evangelist's Hymnal, compiled by Dr. Wolston, of Edinburgh (various prices, Nisbet & Co.), is a new candidate for the favour of the singing Christian public. It contains many well-known favourites, and other Gospel songs not so familiar. A list of nineteen separate musical collections is given as containing suitable melodies for the hymns reproduced in the book.

God's England or the Devil's. By George Brooks. (1d. Woodford Fawcett & Co., 112, Fleet-street.) This is a reply to Mr. Blatchford's "Merrie England," which has had such a vogue of late. A very able, earnest, and conclusive reply it is, and we trust it will be widely read by the industrial classes, as an antidote to the crude and misleading utterances of the anti-Christian "Socialist" agitator.

Into a neat, well-printed little book, which he has entitled Another Glimpse of England, Home, and Beauty, Rev. H. B. Macartney, of Melbourne, has gathered the correspondence he sent from this country during his recent visit to our shores. His industry and activity were truly wonderful, and his sketchy accounts of work and workers in England make lively and instructive reading. (2s. Partridge & Co.)

Gathered Spoil.—Notes for Bible-readers. By Annie W. Marston. (Marshall Brothers.) Useful for teachers and those who desire to study Scripture typically. This work cannot count as literature; but is of value as an inventory and as a means of stimulating interest in the Word of God, as well as of diffusing evangelical light by sampling the results that accrue from the diligent use of the fan of research.

The Following of Christ: Being Short Exercises from Modern Writers, selected, arranged, and introduced by Rev. Charles L. Marson. These gatherings vary in value almost as much as in the character of their sources. The writings of believers and unbelievers, of various types and shades, have been laid under contribution in the compilation of this little book, to which a preface is supplied by Canon Scott Holland. (Elliot Stock.)

Religious Doubt: Its Nature, Treatment, Causes, Difficulties, Consequences, and Dissolution. By Rev. J. W. Diggle, M.A., hon. canon of Liverpool. (7s. 6d. Longmans, Green & Co.) This is a subject which will be variously viewed by different minds; and few would be likely to agree with all the positions taken up in this substantial volume. Yet the treatment is eminently thoughtful, and those who do battle for truth and certainty as against error and doubt, will find the pages suggestive and helpful.

The Resurrection of Jesus Christ. By John Kennedy, D.D. (2s. 6d. Religious Tract Society.) We gladly welcome a new edition, revised to meet the latest speculations, of this valuable handbook of the historical evidences for the resurrection. The author deals with many conflicting and mutually destructive objections, and sums up that few facts in history are so fully attested and clearly established as that Jesus Christ did rise from the dead. It is a book which should be in the hands of all workers and teachers.

The Report of the Y.M.C.A. Jubilee of last year makes a singularly attractive volume, and is a worthy permanent memorial of a wonderful series of meetings. The large array of finely executed portraits scattered through the pages constitutes a picture gallery in itself, well worth the five shillings charged for the book. The reproduction of the Windsor photograph is a triumph of the printing art. The addresses are ably reported and edited; they embody an amount of instructive information and valuable teaching seldom found in such productions. Altogether it is a credit to the Exeter Hall Council, by whom it is issued.

Sunday Mornings at Norwood. Prayers and sermons. By Rev. S. A. Tipple. Second edition, enlarged. (6s. H. R. Allenson.) The one thing for which we have looked in vain in these sermons is the propitiation of Christ. The teaching in these sermons amounts to this, that we have salvation by Jesus on the lines of personal endeavour, being indebted to Him for the wealth of his pity, and the inspiration of his example. In other words, He saves by the contagion of his presence, and the new hope born of his victory. All this is, no doubt, a lifting up of Christ of a kind, but it is not the lifting up of Him which writes the sentence of death on fallen flesh, and makes the cross of Christ, as a propitiation, the sole and absolute ground of the sinner's acceptance. The preacher's gift is pronounced; it is the preacher's vision that is wanting.

The Higher Critics Criticised. By H. L. Hastings and Rufus P. Stebbins, D.D. (5s. Marshall Brothers.) The questions raised by modern critics are questions for well-balanced judgment as well as expert preference. Experts are generally wedded to theories; spiritual "common sense" commands a wider vision, and takes account of the Divine warp as well as the human woof of history. This volume may be overlooked by experts, but to the careful Bible student its pages will prove at once reassuring and instructive. Dr. Stebbins's part is a carefully-conducted Study of the Pentateuch, an inquiry into the age of the earlier books of the Bible, with an examination of Kuenen's "Religion of Israel." Mr. Hastings contributes racy and useful chapters on the Higher Criticism, and a substantial appendix on "The Wonderful Law." This last is a treatise of particular interest and sterling value.

Thomas Boston of Ettrick: His Life and Times. By Rev. Andrew Thomson, D.D. (T. Nelson & Sons. 2s. 6d.) Thomas Boston's writings are regarded in Scotland as among its Evangelical classics. Born in Duns, he had hard a struggle to reach the ministry. His first charge was at Simprin, near his native town, and latterly at Ettrick, among crofters and shepherds in the uplands of Selkirkshire. The work by which his name is perpetuated, more so than "The Crook in the Lot," or other theological books, is "The Fourfold State," which appeared in 1720, and proved to be an epoch-making book. Sent out from the seclusion of a rural parish, far up among the hills, it had a marvellous effect upon the religious thought and life of the century. Even in this age, which recoils from dogmatic and systematic theological literature, the writings of Boston are not only nutritiously wholesome, but spiritually appetising. Dr. Andrew Thomson, of Edinburgh, who has for nearly sixty years been identified with all the religious movements of the time, has given in this biography a very fine bit of literary work, with Boston in the foreground and "his times" in perspective. Apart from its literary excellence, we hail this biography as a distinct and valuable contribution to Evangelical literature, every page being imbued with the aroma of the author's sympathy, with the Gospel of Jesus Christ as the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth.

Miss Charlotte Murray has issued, under the title The Home-call of a Dear Sister (H. Randle, Hastings), a brief memorial and a poem by her sister, Miss Emily Murray, whose falling asleep we noticed in our last issue.

Now that much is being said and written about spiritualism, many will be glad to know that the booklet, Familiar Spirits: Their Workings and Teachings, by W. Ramsay and H. L. Hastings, is published in this country by Marshall Brothers. (3d.)

REQUEST FOR PRAYER.—A widowed mother begs urgent prayer for her son, who has lapsed into Romanism, that he may be restored to the true faith, and that his young wife may be kept from following his evil example.

AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

FOR GRATUITOUS DISTRIBUTION.

The Pilgrim's Progress.

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S ILLUSTRATED EDITION.

96 pages. Imperial 8vo size.

In Tinted Covers. PUBLISHED AT 6D. OFFERED FOR 3/- PER DOZEN NET. CARRIAGE PAID.

In Leatherette Binding, with Handsomely Gilt Side, PUBLISHED AT 1/6 OFFERED FOR 7/6 PER DOZEN NET. CARRIAGE PAID.

Not less than One Dozen of either Style supplied at these rates.

100 Copies for 20/- net, Carriage Extra. | Sample Copy, 3d. If sent by post, 4½d. | 40 Copies for 20/- net, Carriage Extra. | Sample Copy, 9d. If sent by post, 11½d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bdgs., E.C. May be ordered of any Bookseller.

TRACTS

At 4d. per 100 (Post Free, 5d.) or 2s. 6d. per 1000 (Post Free, 3s.)

WORDS FOR WAYFARERS.

16 varieties. 8vo size, on tinted paper. By D. L. Moody, Sir Arthur Blackwood, Reginald Radcliffe, and others. Suitable for presentation to the careless and unawakened.

THE SCRIPTURE SAITH.

16 varieties. 8vo size, on tinted paper. Giving the words of Scripture, with illustrative incidents.

BUNYAN LEAFLETS.

16 varieties. 8vo size, on tinted paper. A series of stirring appeals selected from the works of John Bunyan.

PLAIN QUESTIONS.

16 varieties. Attractively printed in colour, on tinted paper. A series of pointed appeals in the very words of Scripture.

100 of any one of the above sent post free for 5d.
1000 " " " " " " " 3s.

OR

1000 of the above 4 series assorted, 64 varieties in all, sent post free for 3s.

A List of Tracts supplied at greatly reduced prices, with specimens, sent post free.

London: MORGAN and SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

TRACTS for CHILDREN.

By EVA TRAVERS EVERED POOLE.

LITTLE TRACTS for LITTLE READERS.

A Series of Interesting Narratives.

16 Varieties. 4pp. each. Tastefully printed on Tinted Paper. Each with an Illustration.

Packets of 100 assorted, 6d. post free.
" 1000 " 3/6, postage, 7½d. extra.

LAMPS for LITTLE FEET.

A Series of Brightly-written Narratives.

16 Varieties. 4pp. each. Tastefully printed on Tinted Paper. Each with an Illustration.

Packets of 100 assorted, 6d. post free.
" 1000 " 3/6, postage, 7½d. extra.

If desired, a Packet of 1000 Tracts containing 500 "LITTLE TRACTS FOR LITTLE READERS," and
500 "LAMPS FOR LITTLE FEET,"
32 Varieties in all, will be supplied for 3/6 (Postage, 7½d. extra).

London: MORGAN and SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

A Series of 4-page Illustrated Tracts. 32 Varieties. F'cap 4to size.

Pictorial Papers.

Each paper contains Four Pages of interesting and profitable reading, both in Prose and Poetry, calculated to impress the minds of the careless and unawakened. The front page of each contains a striking illustration. The price has been

REDUCED FROM 15/- per 1000 net
TO 10/6 per 1000 net.
(If sent Carriage Paid, 11/10½ per 1000 net.)

SPECIAL OFFER.

On receipt of remittance for 52/6, Messrs. Morgan and Scott will send 5000 copies Carriage Paid to any Railway Station in Great Britain. On smaller quantities, carriage is payable by the purchaser.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT

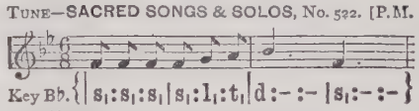
Hymn Sheets

FOUR NEW SHEETS (Nos. 35-38),

NOW READY, SPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR

OPEN-AIR MEETINGS AND OTHER EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

Well printed in clear readable type, on good paper.
Two pages each, 9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Post Free.



Nos. 1-34 (Two pp. each) may also be had at the same price.

The first line of the Music (air) is printed at the head of each Hymn, in Old Notation and Tonic Sol-fa.

SPECIMEN OF TYPE.

8 "There shall be showers of blessing." (Ezekiel xxxiv. 26.)

Tune—SACRED SONGS & SOLOS, No. 522. [P.M.

Key B♭. | s₁:s₁:s₁ | s₁:l₁:t₁ | d:- :- | s₁:- :- |

"THERE shall be showers of blessing:"
This is the promise of love!
There shall be seasons refreshing
Sent from the Saviour above.

CONTENTS OF THE NEW SHEETS.

No. 35.

When He cometh.
One there is who loves thee.
We are but little children weak.
I will sing of my Redeemer.
I hear thy welcome voice.
Oh! what will you do with Jesus?
A blessing for you.
There shall be showers of blessing.

No. 36.

Saviour, like a Shepherd lead us.
Only a step to Jesus.
Come, ye sinners, poor and needy.
Jesus, my Lord, to Thee I cry.
Jesus loves me! This I know.
While the silv'ry moonbeams fall.
"Whosoever heareth!"
Hark, sinner, while God.
Sun of my soul.

No. 37.

There is life for a look.
How solemn are the words.
Here from the world we turn.
Come, ev'ry soul by sin opprest.
God loved the world of sinners lost.
Oh, what a Saviour.
Jesus bids us shine.
Oh, do not let the word depart.
I think when I read that sweet story of old.

No. 38.

Rock of Ages, cleft for me.
Weary wand'rer, stop and listen!
Are you coming home, ye wand'rers?
Jesus bids us shine.
Behold Me standing at the door.
Have you any room for Jesus?
Oh, turn ye, oh, turn ye.
I love to hear the story.
A Ruler once came to Jesus by night.

Hymn Sheets: 4-Page Series.

JUST PUBLISHED.

TWO NEW SHEETS (Nos. 18 and 19).

Price 1s. 6d. per 100; 12s. 6d. per 1000. Post free.

Nos. 1-17 (4pp. each) may also be had at the same price.

The contents of No. 18 are the same as Nos. 35 and 36 of the 2-page series } see
" " " 19 " " " 37 " 38 " " " } above.

A complete List of the Hymn Sheets published by Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, giving the titles of the Hymns on each Sheet, will be sent post free on application.

The full music for the Hymns on the various Sheets will be found in "Sacred Songs and Solos," 750 Pieces. Prices, in either Old Notation or Tonic Sol-fa, 2s. 6d. and upwards.

A NEW HYMN SHEET

FOR

Seaside Services,

Fishermen's, and Sailors' Meetings, etc.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

Well printed in clear readable type, on good paper.
Two pages each, 9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Post Free.

The first line of the Music (air) is printed at the head of each Hymn.

CONTENTS.

Throw out the Life-line across the dark wave.
Eternal Father! strong to save.
Star of Peace!—to wanderers weary:
"Master, the tempest is raging!"
We are out on the ocean sailing.
Light in the darkness, sailor, day is at hand!
Fierce and wild the storm is raging
Brightly beams our Father's mercy from His lighthouse evermore.
Tossed upon life's raging billow.

London: MORGAN and SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Forthcoming Meetings.

[Communications respecting forthcoming meetings cannot be inserted unless received by Tuesday morning at the latest.]

THE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, or Wales, on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, London, W.C.; or, The Sec. Evangelisation Society, Scottish Branch, The Grove-street Institute, Glasgow.

THE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

THE CHURCH ARMY will send evangelists (working men) to any clergyman on due notice, for short or long missions. Address, Hon. Sec., 128 and 130, Edgware-road, W.

THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send evangelists to any Evangelical denomination within the London postal area. Apply, Hon. Sec., 64, Kennington-oval, S.E.

THE COUNTRY TOWNS MISSION supplies qualified missionaries for temporary or permanent work in our villages and country towns. Apply to Mr. G. H. Mawer, secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, E.C.

THORNE EVANGELISTIC MISSIONS.—Friends desirous to arrange for mission services, to be conducted by Mr. Thorne, should make early application to the secretary, Mr. James Pearce, Exeter Hall, Strand, to whom subscriptions for the Mission may be forwarded.

THE KING'S OWN MISSION, ST. JAMES'S HALL, ROYAL-ROAD, KENNINGTON, S.E.—Sun., Mr. John Langsford, 7 p.m; 3.15 p.m., P.S.A., Mr. O. L. Heatley.

HOUSE OF REST, 10, FINCHLEY-ROAD, N.W.—Friday, July 5' addresses by Rev. F. B. Meyer, Mrs. Major Harding and Mrs. Bramwell Booth on the Salvation Army Rescue Work.

BILLINGSGATE CHRISTIAN MISSION.—Annual meeting in the Mission House, Billingsgate, July 9, 4 p.m., Mr. F. A. Bevan in the chair.

LORD RADSTOCK and others will speak in the Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, Sundays, at 3.45 and 7 p.m. Meetings of Christians, Fridays, at 8.

GREAT ASSEMBLY HALL, MILE END-ROAD, E.—Week nights, at 8; Sundays, at 11 and 6.30, Mr. Charles Inglis, CLAPTON HALL, UPPER CLAPTON, N.E.—Mr. H. W. Taylor, Sundays at 6.30, and Thursdays at 7.30.

THE CONFERENCE HALL, MILDMAY-PARK.—Sun., 3.30 and 7 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch.

CHRIST CHURCH, WESTMINSTER BRIDGE-ROAD.—Minister, F. B. Meyer, B.A.; Sunday, 11 and 6.30; Thursday, 11.30. (lunch, 12.30, 1s.); Friday, 8, Bible-reading.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place.—Sundays, 11 a.m., Dr. M'Killiam; 7 p.m. Mr. Trevor Francis.

TALBOT TABERNACLE, NOTTING HILL.—Mr. S. A. McCracken, Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

HOLIDAY SUMMER SCHOOLS, CLIFF COLLEGE, DERBYSHIRE. —Dr. Grattan Guinness' Missionary Institute, July 1 to 15 and 15 to 29, especially designed for young men. For particulars, send two stamps to secretary, Summer School, Harley House, Bow, London, E.

WEST LONDON MISSION.—St. James's Hall, Sun., 11 a.m., Mark Guy Pearse; 7 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price-Hughes.

SPECIAL RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN THEATRES, HALLS, ETC.—For July 7.—Grand Hall of Varieties, Clapham Junction, at 3, Mr. Bailey, at 7, Mr. Coates; Morley Hall, Mare-street, Hackney, at 7, Mr. Job Williams; Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, at 3 and 7. Mr. Chas. Button; Agricultural Hall, Upper-street, Islington, at 3.30, Rev. Thomas Jones, at 7, Mr. Brett

POLICE INSTITUTE, 1A, ADELPHI-TERRACE, ADAM-STREET, STRAND, W.C.—Quiet day for Christian Workers, Wednesday, July 10, 3.30 and 6.

COMING CONFERENCES.

PROPHETIC TRUTH AND INSPIRATION.—Keswick, July 15-19; Dunoon, July 30 to Aug. 1.

DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE.—Keswick, July 22-27; Carlisle, Sept. 2-6; Glasgow, Sept. 26-28; Hastings, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4; Blackheath, Oct. 1-4; Star Hall, Manchester, Oct. 6-13; Wakefield, Oct. 8-10; Ealing, Oct. 15-18; Oxford, Oct. 28-31; Norwich, Oct. 28 to Nov. 1; Belfast, Nov. 4-8; Bradford, Nov. 5-8; Edinburgh, Nov. 11-16.

BLANKENBURG, THURINGIA, GERMANY,—Sept. 2—6.

PERTH.—Sept. 10—12, Rev. Dr. Bannerman, Perth, Hon. Sec.

WESTERN PONDOLAND. — Mr. Cyril Green writing of a new missionary among the Pondos in Nkanga, states that Jerumiah, a native builder, who is a Wesleyan local preacher, has already of his own accord been holding services amongst them, to which many have readily come. These people are raw heathen, who have practically never heard the Gospel before, except on rare occasions from a Wesleyan Evangelist. Whilst there are many heathen close at hand, others can only be reached by riding.

"ONE THING I DO."—We are learning day by day with increasing clearness that, whatever it may be at home, here, certainly, there is no question that life must be just simply a doing of one thing, one thing, a following hard after God in heart for oneself, and in life for the perishing ones around us. Here there is only time, only strength for the one thing, to learn of Him and to make him known. Oh, to be amongst those who, mighty in faith and prayer, move the arm of God, and bring down the flood upon the parched land! MRS. HOWARD TAYLOR.

THE BRITISH AND FOREIGN EVANGELICAL TRACT SOCIETY (26, Paternoster-row, E.C.) enables tract-distributors to help one another. Tracts are supplied monthly to each worker according to his using, for though one needs many more tracts than he can afford to buy, the balance is maintained by another contributing beyond the cost of the tracts he takes. A letter is sent to all members once a month, containing items of interest concerning the work, and requests for praise and prayer from workers. Applications for supplies of tracts will always receive attention. A foreign worker, well acquainted with the needs and the importance of the work, offers a donation equal to forty per cent. of all that is given up to £50 before August 20. Communications should be addressed to the superintendent, Mr. L. E. Roberts, 26, Paternoster-row, E.C.

[676]

CONSUMPTION.

THE GRAND OLD MEDICINE OF NEARLY 70 YEARS has maintained its position as the first medicine in all CHEST COMPLAINTS.*

As a preventative of mischief, it should be taken at the first appearance of COUGH or COLD. As a safeguard against INFLUENZA, and in subsequent weakness of the lungs, it has been used with wonderful results.

But the renown of this celebrated medicine in all these cases has been eclipsed by its success in cases of

PHTHISIS, PULMONALIS, or CONSUMPTION, Aptly called the Scourge of England.

Interviews with patients, new and old, by Mr. Congreve's Commissioner, are published every alternate week in most of the weekly journals.

Mr. CONGREVE'S book on CONSUMPTION and Chest Diseases may be had post free for ONE SHILLING, from the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, London, S.E.

* Congreve's BALSAMIC ELIXIR may be had of all Medicine Vendors in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and large bottles at 11s. and 22s. The smaller sizes are of little use except in slight cases of Cough or Cold.

Notice.

PERSONS subject to eye disorders should know that any affliction can be cured by Singleton's Golden Eye Ointment, but it must be Singleton's. Of all chemists and drug stores at 2/- per pot. 300 years' reputation. "How to preserve the Eyesight," a little book of value to every family in which there is a case of weak eyes, will be sent free to any address by Stephen Green, 210 Lambeth Road, London.

WORKS ON ROMANISM.

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S ILLUSTRATED EDITION

Foxe's

Book of Martyrs.

A complete and authentic account of the Lives, Sufferings, and Triumphant Deaths of early Christian and Protestant Martyrs in all parts of the world.

Complete in One Vol. Cloth bevelled boards, 10s. 6d.
Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 12s. 6d.

"Only let this book have a place in every British home and we may smile at the efforts of Rome and of the Anglican Ritualists to undo the blessed work which was achieved for our nation and the world by the thousands of faithful witnesses to the truth, who, in dark days of priestly domination, resisted unto death."—Christian Leader.

The Catacombs at Rome.

Their Contents and Teachings.

BY THE LATE BENJAMIN SCOTT, F.R.A.S.
Fourth Edition. Revised and Improved.
Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.
Bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

A Vindication of Pure and Primitive Christianity; and an Exposure of the Corruptions of Romanism; Derived from the Sepulchral Remains of the Early Christians. With many Illustrations.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

CURES PIMPLES BOILS, BAD LEGS, ULCERATED SORES, SCROFULA, ERUPTIONS, ECZEMA, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, AND OTHER DISEASES OF THE BLOOD AND SKIN.

Procure through Chemists, 1s. 1½d. per bottle, or from DR. TIBBALD'S BLOOD TONIC COMPANY, TAUNTON.

MORGAN and SCOTT'S TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

JOHN B. GOUGH'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.
Copyright Edition. Revised by himself. With additional matter completing the narrative to time of Mr. Gough's death.
With life-like Portrait and three full-page Illustrations.
Cloth Bds., 2s. 6d., Cloth, Bev. Bds., Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d.
SPECIAL CHEAP EDITIONS:
With Portrait. Tinted Covers 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.

CHEAP EDITION FOR DISTRIBUTION.

JOHN B. GOUGH.
THE GREAT TEMPERANCE ORATOR.
Quarto size. Illustrated Cover. ONE PENNY.

THE ORATIONS OF JOHN B. GOUGH.
Can be had complete in One Volume, with Portrait; Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, Bev. Bds., 2s. 6d.; or, separately (11 varieties), in attractive Tract form, 16 pp., with portrait, One Penny.

GOSPEL TEMPERANCE TRACTS
SELECTED FROM THE ORATIONS.
In packets of 100 Tracts (16 varieties), One Shilling. 1000 Copies, assorted, 7s. (post free 8s. 1½d.)

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

"OUR HOMES."
Small Books on Christian Temperance. Packet of Twelve (all different), 6d. 3s. 6d. per 100 (postage 6d. extra).

FRIENDLY WORDS ON EVERY-DAY LIFE. A Series of Narrative Tracts on Every-day Duties and Every-day Experiences. Assorted Packet of 50, 1s.; or 2s. per 100. Eight Varieties.

LIFE SCENES AND LIFE STORIES.
I. Prayed Home. II. Timothy Kitt's Story. III. She Never Keeps Her Servants. 1s. per doz., assorted, post free.

6d. per doz. 3s. 6d. per 100.

"I NEVER THOUGHT OF IT."
A Striking Booklet on the Evils of Thoughtlessness on the part of Non-Abstainers. By Mrs. W. HIND SMITH.

THE BLUE RIBBON ARMY.
A Rousing Call to Christians. A Poem. By CHARLOTTE MURRAY. Tinted Paper, 1s. per 100.

"THAT LITTLE BOW OF BLUE."
A Poem. Tinted Paper, price 1s. per 100.

CHRISTIAN ABSTINENCE.
By HUGH M. MATHESON. 1s. 6d. per 100.

SHEET HYMNS FOR TEMPERANCE MEETINGS
(OVER 30 VARIETIES).
9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Specimens and Price List post free on application.

PLEDGE BOOKS AND CARDS.
"THE CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE BAND" PLEDGE BOOK AND CARD.
The Special Pledge used by the late Miss F. R. Havergal. Books: Tinted Covers, 6d.; Cloth, 1s. Cards: 1s. per 100.

GIVE THE CHILD A CHANCE!
By G. E. MORGAN, M.A. An Illustrated Four-page Card. For Distribution in Neighbourhoods where Children are sent to the Public-house for Beer, etc. In neat packet, 50 copies for 1s.; 1000 copies for 17s. 6d. (net).

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN & YOUNG PEOPLE.

MR. RUSKIN
writes:—"The book on Birds seems to me entirely charming."

BIRDS OF THE BIBLE.
Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By JAMES BOWKER. With Coloured Frontispiece and numerous engravings. Cloth, Bev. Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s.

ALICE; or, The Early Crown.
By REV. H. BURTON, B.A. Tinted covers, 6d.
Presentation Edition: Cloth, 1s.
"An admirable reward book for thoughtful Sunday-school scholars."—Methodist Family.

LITTLE KATHLEEN.
Sunny Memories of a Child-Worker. By ANNIE R. BUTLER. With two striking portraits.
Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Red Edges, 1s.
Tinted covers, 6d.
"We commend it as a charming gift-book for children, whom it will be sure to interest."—Footsteps of Truth.

London: MORGAN AND SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

No. 1328.] # The Christian. [July 11, 1895.

PRINCIPAL CONTENTS.

PORTRAIT AND SKETCH OF THE LATE DR. S. R. WEBB.

Partial Views of God 8
Carnal Christians 8
Dr. Barnardo's Jubilee 9
International Missionary Union 9
Mildmay Conference—
Addresses by—Rev. Andrew Murray 10
Rev. F. B. Meyer 11
Afternoon Gatherings 11
...ionary Meeting... 12
en Y ...rs in Malaysia 13
Notes on Daily Readings 14
International S.S. Lesson 15
For the Young—Mistakes, and How to Correct Them 15
Unconscious Influence 15
Outside the House and In. By Rev. F. B. Meyer 16
The Evangelist—Sin 18
The late Lady Smith 18
Story of Two Ceylon Boys 19
Reaping after Patient Sowing 19
Bridge of Allan Convention 20
The Satisfied Soul (poem) 20
The Gospel in the Open Air 20
Exciting Scenes at Budapest 21
Barbican Mission to the Jews 21
An Ex-Monk on Popery 21
Conflict of Interpretation 22
"The Worship of Angels" 23
The Rescue Society 24

INSTITUTIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS AND MISSION.
HIGH STREET, WHITECHAPEL, E.

GEORGE HOLLAND thankfully acknowledges £1 for the Girls' Training Home.

Rations of food to hungry children. Infant Day-Nursery. Day and Sunday Schools. Children's Services. Band of Hope. Evening Classes for Boys and Girls. Classes, Meetings, and Institute for Young Women and Elder Girls. Various Meetings, Classes and Parlour for Young Men and Lads. Bible Classes. Evangelistic Services. Lodging House Meetings. Temperance Work and Meetings. Mothers' Meetings. Clubs for Clothing, Coals, Bibles, &c. Prayer Meetings. Country Homes for Men, Women, and Children. Training Home for Motherless Girls, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 72, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E. c6089

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, Whitechapel, E.—Poor Children's Day in the Country Fund. Received with many thanks from "G.S.W.," 4s.; "A Lover of the Country," 4s; "R.," £2.—GEORGE HOLLAND, George Yard Ragged Schools, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E. c6040

THE BOYS' HOME, SOUTHWARK.
Branches: Greenwich, Ramsgate, Toronto.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT,

To receive really destitute boys from 6 to 18 years of age without payment or recommendation beyond ABSOLUTE NEED.

Urgent cases are considered at any time, but Mr. Fegan may be personally consulted about Orphan, Homeless, or Erring Boys at the Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E., on Mondays, from 10 till 2.

All communications should be addressed—

J. W. C. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home.
95, Southwark-street, London, S.E.

Poor Jewish Children in Whitechapel, Stepney, and Mile End.

The Jewish Missionaries of the London City Mission wish to give 1000 poor Jewish Children a Day in the Country. The cost will be about £50. In addition, if funds permit, it is desired to send away, for one or two weeks, many of the sick and ailing Jewish children. But for the efforts of the Missionaries these little ones will get no change from the dreary courts and alleys of East London.

For 10s. a child can be sent to the country for two weeks.

Will Readers of THE CHRISTIAN give these little ones a sight of the beautiful country?

Contributions will be thankfully received by MESSRS. MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, or by the Secretary, Mr. G. R. COLE, 3, Bridewell-place, E.C. c5221

FRESH AIR FOR POOR CHILDREN.—For 10s. subscribed, a pale-faced child can enjoy a country holiday for a fortnight. Help very greatly needed this season for 500, in this, the third Poorest District in London.—A. STYLEMAN HERRING (for Local Committee), Vicar, St. Paul's, Clerkenwell, 45, Colebrooke-row, N.—Bankers: London and County. c5181

FOR EVERY SHILLING sent a Day in Epping Forest, including rail and substantial meal, can be provided for a poor and often sickly East London Child. Ten thousand waiting to go. Every gift, great or small, promptly acknowledged, as usual, by Rev. J. W. ATKINSON, Claremont, Cawley-road, London, E. Parcels of clothing welcome also. Balance-sheet by chartered accountants to every donor. c5293

DAY IN THE COUNTRY for adults and children. Also fortnight for the weak and suffering out of St. Luke's and Clerkenwell. Pastor Philip Gast, of Spencer-place Chapel, Goswell-road, 12, Noel-street, Islington. For over a quarter of a century help has been sent. c5233

CAREY HOUSE Baptist Deaconess Training Institute, Chester.—We now receive applications from Godly young women desirous of devoting themselves to Christian Work.—Address, Mrs. JONES, 4, Chichester-street, Chester.

THE LONDON BIBLE WAREHOUSE.

ORDER AT ONCE. SPECIAL SALE OF SALVATION BIBLES, Only a few Copies of each.

ALL BOUND IN RED LEATHER, WITH THE WORD "SALVATION" STAMPED IN GOLD ON COVER.

Bagster's Facsimile Editions in French Morocco, Yapp, round corners, Pearl Type, 2s. 9d.; Ruby Type, 4s. 4d.; Nonpareil Type, 5s. 1d.; Emerald Type, 6s. 6d.

Also in superior Paste-grain Limp, round corners, red under gold edges, Ruby Type, 4s. 4d.; Emerald Type, 6s. 6d. These prices are for cash and include postage.

THE LONDON BIBLE WAREHOUSE, 53, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON, E.C.

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY,
56, Paternoster Row, London.

For HOLIDAY Distribution.

TRACTS

For HOLIDAY Distribution.

Tracts in all the Continental Languages, Welsh, and Gaelic.

Please Write for the Society's NEW TRACT CATALOGUE, Post Free on application to the Publisher, 56, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

150 SIXPENNY PACKETS.

TEACHER'S BIBLE.

NEW EDITION with illustrations.

Special Purchase of 500 Copies.

RUBY TYPE,

Red-gold Edges, French Morocco, Yapped. Size, 6¾in. by 4½in. by 1½in.

Usual price 10/-

Offered at 5/6 Post Free.

List of Bibles, Books, Texts, &c., on application.

WALTER G. WHEELER, 51 & 52, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

THE BENEVOLENT OR
Strangers' Friend Society.
Treasurer, Alderman Sir JOSEPH C. DIMSDALE.
Chairman, J. H. ANDERSON, Esq.

Founded a hundred and nine years ago. GREATLY STRAITENED FROM WANT OF FUNDS. There are 188 Christian men and women unpaid visitors engaged in the Society's work of BEFRIENDING THE SICK POOR of London. Kindly remember it in testamentary arrangements.
Office, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C. c5153

St. Leonards.—Eversfield Hospital and Home for Chest and Throat Diseases.

General Wards: Inclusive Terms, 18s. per week (with Subscriber's letter), 17s. without.
Eight Private Wards, from 2 guineas.
THOS. GAMBIER, M.D., Resident Physician.
S. O. GREENHILL, Secretary. c5034

BRITISH AND FOREIGN EVANGELICAL TRACT SOCIETY and Prayer Union (Established 1882). President, Pastor Frank H. White; vice-presidents, Pastor Archibald G. Brown, Mr. Finlay Gibson, Rev. John D. Kilburn, Mr. W. Luff, and Rev. F. B. Meyer. The committee, desiring to extend their operations to include those towns and villages where no regular tract distribution is carried on, and to increase such effort in London, and wherever the existing agency is inadequate, cordially invite Christian people who are drawn to such work to become members and partake in a sustained, prayerful, and associated effort to spread the light of testimony to a crucified and risen Saviour. Members are supplied monthly with assorted parcels of carefully chosen Gospel tracts in quantity as required, for personal distribution only, and contribute to the funds by monthly freewill offerings, according to ability.—Secretary, S. E. ROBERTS, 26, Paternoster-row, London, E.C. c5324

KESWICK CONVENTION.—The Twenty-first Annual Convention for the Deepening of Spiritual Life will be held (D.V.) July 23 to 27.—For the Trustees of the Keswick Convention, ROBERT WILSON, Broughton Grange. (N.B. 5)

EDUCATIONAL.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ROSEBERRY, Western-parade, Southsea, facing sea and common. Christian home school for gentlemen's daughters. Thorough and successful teaching, careful godly training, refined happy home. Resident English and foreign governesses. Highly recommended. Principals, the Misses ROBINSON. c5105

SOUTH-WEST LONDON COLLEGE.
High-class School for Young Ladies.
1, CARLTON MANSIONS, CLAPHAM-RISE, LONDON, S.W.
Principal—Mrs. HALE, A.C.P.

Modern system of teaching. Visiting masters in daily attendance. Resident certificated governesses. Careful personal supervision, home comforts, and Christian training. Preparation for any examination if desired. Good garden and tennis.

Highly recommended by the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, Rev. D. MacEwan, D.D. and parents of former and present pupils.

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, East Tytherton, Chippenham.—Christian training. Preparation for examinations. Moderate terms.—Principal, Miss HOLLIS. c2817

SUPERIOR FINISHING SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate professors.
DELTA, Ward's Library, 112, Kensington-pk.-rd., W.

MALVERN HOUSE, BLOCKLEY,
WORCESTERSHIRE.

Principals, the Misses JUDSON. Home school for girls in a lovely and bracing village on the Cotswold Hills. Resident foreign and English governesses and visiting masters. Earnest Christian training. Terms moderate and inclusive. References kindly permitted to the Rev. John Wilkinson, Mildmay Mission to the Jews, and to parents of pupils. Summer term begins (D.V.), May 2, 1895. c3068

FRANCHE, GREAT MALVERN.—Principal, Miss GRIGG. High-class home school for girls. Special arrangements for Indian and Colonial pupils. c5206

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Lenten House, Alton, Hants. Principal, Miss Chinn, daughter of the late Rev. S. Chinn. Very successful preparations for examinations. References, Dr. Stewart, Alton; Rev. W. Houghton, Guildford; Rev. R. A. Davis, Ventnor. c5131

REV. D. B. HANKIN, Mildmay, kindly recommends good home school, two hours from London. Spacious detached house. Thorough education. Fees from £25.—Miss LARTER, Nene House School, Thrapstone, Northamptonshire. c5130

ALLAN BANK, OWLS ROAD, BOSCOMBE.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS. Thorough education. Success in public examinations. Care of delicate girls. House near sea among pines. Terms moderate. References to Evangelical Clergymen, and to Ministers.—Apply, Miss COCKS, Principal. c5301

SIX GUINEAS.—Two girls can be received into a good home school to fill vacancies. Certificated governesses. English, French, music, singing, drawing, drill.—Miss WEBB, Prospect House School, Rayleigh, Essex. c5247

BURLTON HOUSE, READING.—High-class Ladies' School. Principal, Miss EYECLIFFE. Old established. Thorough teaching. Modern educational advantages, examinations. Finishing masters. Well-appointed home. Highest references. c5271

EDUCATION NEAR LONDON.—Good professors. Christian training. Highly recommended by Miss Leicester, Head Mistress Wyggiston Girls' High School, Leicester, and parents of pupils. Governess-student wanted. Fee, 8 guineas per term. —c5985, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c5985

TO PARENTS.—Girls of any age instructed in practical housewifery, superior economical cookery, intelligent catering and marketing. Laws of health and sanitation studied. Business training, book-keeping, etc. Fee from ten guineas, including twelve weeks' board and tuition as above in experienced lady's well-appointed home, S.E. References to parents of pupils.—c5986 Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c5986

KINDERGARTEN AND PREPARATORY SCHOOL 7, St. Vincent-street, Edinburgh. FRAULEIN EDELMANN receives a few children as boarders. Great success with backward children. Terms moderate. Particulars on application. c5912

VACANCIES OCCUR in high-class school for girls. Pupils received whose parents are abroad. Christian training. Home comforts. Special attention to backward pupils. Terms 30 guineas.—PRINCIPAL, 10, Clapham Common. N.B.4

LADIES' SCHOOL, HAMPDEN HOUSE, BRILL, near OXFORD.—Established 1854 by the Principals, the Misses CLARKE, daughters of the late Rev. P. Clarke. Terms, strictly inclusive, £26, for board, English, pianoforte, singing, French, school books, stationery, and laundress. No extras whatever. In addition to the above-named subjects the course of instruction includes drawing, painting, harmonium, and organ, violin, and drilling. The house is delightfully situated on a hill commanding an extensive scenery, and the locality is exceedingly healthy. Within one mile is Dorton Chalybeate Spa. Prospectuses forwarded on application, with references to parents of present pupils. Resident English and French Governesses. Visiting Masters.

UPPER MOUNT, SOUTHSEA.—High-class Home School for the daughters of gentlemen. Autumn term, September 17th.—For Prospectus, etc., address, PRINCIPAL. N.B.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL
To the Public Schools and Royal Navy, or Gentlemen's Sons, aged 8 to 14.

The Old Hall, Wellington, Shropshire.

(Founded 1845.) Very healthily situated, 370 feet above the sea, near the Wrekin. 33 hours from London, by L. & N.W. or G.W.R. Beautiful grounds, playing fields, &c. Illustrated Prospectus on application to the Head Master, G. E. W. CHANNELL, M.A. (Shrewsbury School and Trinity College, Oxford); or Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c4984

STANLEY HOUSE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Thorough education, with decided Christian training. The premises include workshop, chemical laboratory, covered and open playgrounds, tennis courts and cricket field. Delicate boys receive special care. Fees moderate and inclusive.—For prospectus, apply PRINCIPAL. c2602

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL where the constant aim of the principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class education.

The premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the south coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectuses and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application. Several wards in Chancery have been appointed as pupils in the school. Terms moderate.—DR. THORN (not Thorne), Paddington, London. c4668

FOLKESTONE.

MR. J. W. C. FEGAN desires to recommend to Christian parents a high-class school for sons of gentlemen, in the best part of Folkestone. A thoroughly good education with real Christian influence, home comforts, and close individual attention to each boy. Highest references.—Mr. J. W. C. FEGAN, Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-st., S.E. c1574

FOLKESTONE.—Penfillan House. Mr. Toke, B.A., and Mr. Vaughan Wilkes, B.A. (assisted by specialists), receive eight pupils to prepare for the University, Army, and other exams. Individual tuition. Careful supervision. Four successes in 1894. c4787

MR. W. ERNEST MATTHEWS, B.A. (honours), assisted by efficient masters, prepares for the Army, Navy, Universities, Public Schools, etc. Pupils under Christian influence. Excellent situation.—10, Worcester-terrace, Clifton, Gloucestershire. c4991

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL for boys. Thorough education. Every home comfort, with unlimited diet. Health resort. Medical reference. Careful Christian training. Terms inclusive and very moderate.—PRINCIPAL, Lucton Scho.l, Henfield, Sussex. c5134

Huntingdon House School,
TEDDINGTON, Middlesex.

Christian training. First-class masters. Thorough teaching. Moderate fees. Preparation for professional and business life, and for examinations (over 150 certificates gained). Recommended by Rev. Evan Hopkins, Kensington, and many Christian parents. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.

Principal—Mr. GEO. CUMES, F.R.G.S., F.R.A.S.

YOUR BOYS have Christian home and education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Gordon School, Kingston-on-Thames. Established eleven years. Beautiful district, near Richmond Park. References. 20 to 25 guineas yearly. c5350

NEW COLLEGE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Head Master: Rev. G. Hugh Jones, F.A.S.

High-class School for sons of Christian gentlemen. Inclusive Fees, £45 per annum; under eleven, £40.

PRIVATE HOME SCHOOL for sons of gentlemen (10—16). Individual teaching and care. Most healthy locality. Great success with backward or delicate boys. Preparation for public schools and all exams. Very highly recommended.—Rev. W. DUKE-BAKER, M.A., M.C.P., West Leigh, Botley, Hants. c6143

WILL ANYONE help Armenian youth to a Christian education? Willing to work. Well recommended.—S. S., 76, Elsham-road, Kensington. c6113

WANTED, BY A MINISTER'S DAUGHTER, an engagement as governess to children under 14. Christian home. English, music (piano, violin), rudimentary Latin.—c6132, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6132

GOVERNESS-COMPANION (29), experienced, seeks re-engagement in Christian family. Thorough English (certified), French (abroad), German (good), music, dancing, drawing, needlework, elementary Latin, calisthenics. Excellent English and French testimonials and references.—c6103, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6103

GOVERNESS SEEKS RE-ENGAGEMENT in school or family. Usual English subjects. French and music. High school system. Knowledge of Kindergarten. Good references.—PENNINAH, c.o. Mrs. Reader Harris, 51, Clapham-common, S.W. c5066

A FRENCH PROTESTANT young lady, age 17, diplomée, desires a situation as nursery governess.—Apply, Pasteur SOULIER, 8, Rue Beaumur, La Rochelle, Charente Infre., France. c5097

NORTH GERMAN LADY, kindergarten, seeks situation as nursery governess or lady nurse. Children above two. Country preferred. Takes entire charge. Excellent references.—FRAULEIN VON GRUCHOW, Maddox-place, W.C. c6117

HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT.—Protestant Swiss lady, with good experience in schools, desires engagement as above. German and French (conversationally and grammatically), classics, violin. Free August to end of September. Terms £2 a week. References.—OMAR WEEBER, Cothill, Abingdon, Berks. c6141

A LADY WISHES to recommend her nursery governess as thoroughly understanding the care and training of young children, and able to teach English, French, music. Disengaged in September.—A. B., 8, Oxford-road, Finsbury Park, London, N. c6125

EARNEST CHRISTIAN GOVERNESS wanted for three children, ages seven, eight, and nine. Must be fond of children. Good needlewoman, able to teach.—REEVE, National Provincial Bank, Dartmouth, Devon. c6059

A GOVERNESS-STUDENT in good girls' school next September. To prepare for advanced exams. and teaching. Between 20 and 30 years old; two hours' teaching daily. Salary £10 first year. Non-student. Mutual terms. Disengaged.—c6009, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6009

A CAMBRIDGE MASTER OF ARTS (and occasional examiner) desires to read with pupils preparing for university and other examinations. French taught conversationally.—M. A., 48, Waddon New-road, West Croydon. c6114

The Valley of Engelberg, near Lucerne, Switzerland, 3400 feet high, with its Kurhaus and Hotel Sonnenberg, the property of Mr. HENRY HUG. Summer stay, unrivalled for its grand Alpine scenery, as well as for the curative efficacy of the climate against lung and chest diseases, coughs, nervous ailments, etc. Clear, bracing air, equable temperature. Recommended by the highest medical authorities. The Hotel Sonnenberg, in the finest and healthiest situation, facing the Titlis and the Glaciers, is one of the most comfortable and best-managed hotels in Switzerland. Beautiful, varied, and interesting excursions. Shady woods. Alpine Flora. English Chapel. Resident Physician. Season, May 15 to September 30. Terms for pension, from £2 6s. a week upwards. c5734

CLEVEDON HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT.

A "Curative Establishment" and pleasant "Health Resort," beautifully situated in its own grounds, which extend to the sea, bracing, clear, dry, and sunny.

TURKISH, RUSSIAN, PINE, BRINE, and other BATHS, MASSAGE (Wein-Mitchell Method), and SCIENTIFIC HYDROPATHY.

Highly recommended by the following:—Miss Krauth, Government House, Calcutta; The Rev. H. Gammidge, Essex House, Clevedon; Opie Rodway, Esq., Stroud; W. Alexander, Cotswold, Reigate; also the late Rev. T. Victor, Clevedon: the late W. Saunders, Esq., M.P., L.C.C., Walworth; and the late Dr. J. W. Moore, 326, Moseley-road, Birmingham.

Letters and Telegrams—Secretary, Hydro, Clevedon, Somerset.

YOUNG GENTLEMAN, 20, leaving public school, would take care of young boys during holidays, and coach them, or act as travelling companion, if expenses paid. Excellent references.—S. G. O., Oakfield, Chudleigh. c6131

STUDENT-TUTOR wanted for little boys, after vacation, in high-class school. Mutual terms. Fond of teaching and athletics. Evangelical Church of England.—Address, PRINCIPAL, High Park Hall College, Ryde. c6326

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES

(English and Foreign), recommended GRATIS by Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governesses' Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. Established 1879. BOARD AND RESIDENCE from 13s. weekly. No fee to Governesses until placed. Schools recommended and transferred. c5241

SITUATIONS, ETC., WANTED.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

TEMPORARY EMPLOYMENT desired by Christian worker for three months. Unsectarian. Travelling expenses.—Particulars forwarded on application to BETA, Garfield House, Ryde, I.W. c6075

YOUNG MAN (25), leaving the army as sergeant, requires situation in Christian work, or place of trust. Good writer. Earnest Christian.—Address, F. F., Soldiers' Home, William-street, Woolwich. c6081

YOUNG MAN seeks situation in any place of trust. Age 32. Christian. Single. Knowledge of music. In previous situation as clerk about fourteen years.—CHRISTIAN, 34, Westerfield-road, South Tottenham. c6072

GROOM OR STABLE HELPER.—A lady recommends a young man, aged 20. Good character.—Miss TRITTON, Lyons Hall, Great Leigh, Chelmsford. c6078

GARDENER WISHES SITUATION, head or single-handed. Highest references. Three and a-half years in last situation as foreman. Total abstainer. Age 29. Married when suited.—JAMES GLOAG, Pitt-street-lane, Portobello, Scotland. c6076

CHRISTIAN YOUNG MAN, with artificial leg and partially withered hand, desires position as watchman, timekeeper, or with other light work, for food, bed, and clothing. No salary.—G. D., 3, Ablett-street, S.E. N.R.

INDOOR SERVANT wants situation in Christian family. Thoroughly experienced. Single.—H. F., 41, Castle-street, Derby. c6128

MAN AND WIFE (superior) require in September management of temperance hotel, coffee tavern, or any position of trust. Can be highly recommended.—S. D., 2, Offley-road, S.W. c6083

CHRISTIAN LADY DESIRES holiday engagement (August) for Christian work, country or seaside.—L. C., 6, Slaithwaite-road, Lewisham. N.R 1

AS AMANUENSIS or lady clerk.—Re-engagement desired. Experienced, Well educated. Good typist and shorthand writer. Excellent refs.—Apply, in first instance, c6050, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6050

LADY OFFERS her services as secretary or superintendent in mission work in return for furnished rooms and board. Knows French and Spanish.—M., 76, Elsham-road, Kensington. c6114

WANTED BY TWO YOUNG LADIES (deaconesses), work together, either in institution or parish. Children preferred. Good testimonials and references. Salaries required.—Apply, N. or M., Mytholmroyd Vicarage, Hebden Bridge.

CHARGE of Home, Public Institution, or care of children wanted by an experienced matron for one month from the second week in August. Excellent references.—MATRON, Hurst Court, Ore, Hastings. c6042

MATRON, ASSISTANT OR WORK-ROOM. Experienced. Industrial school, home, or orphanage for girls or boys. 8½ years in present situation. Age 37.—Address, Miss SCOTT, Girls' Industrial School, 17, Tatham-street, Sunderland. c5321

AGENTLEWOMAN, educated, motherly, seeks position of trust as matron of scholastic or philanthropic institute, has had long, successful experience in the education and forming of young people. Librarian or lady housekeeper. Would be found invaluable to elderly couple. Moderate salary. References Mrs. Mark Guy Pearse, 11, Bedford-place, and others.—VERITAS, Letts' Library, Crouch Hill, N. c6127

HOUSEKEEPER.—LADY SEEKS re-engagement, where servant kept. Good practical economical manager, business or private. Any position of trust. Middle age. Nominal salary if comfortable home. Good references.—E. F., care of 30, Denbigh-place, Warwick-square. c6065

LADY BY BIRTH and education desires situation as useful companion or housekeeper to invalid lady or gentleman. Experienced with children. Has no objection to travel.—Address, H., 81, Fetherton-road, N. c6062

A NORTH GERMAN young lady wishes for a holiday engagement. Highly recommended.—Apply, FRAULEIN, care of Miss Fletcher, West Coombe House, Hornsey Rise. c6025

THE DAUGHTER OF A WELL-KNOWN medical man seeks situation as housekeeper or similar position of trust. Has had much experience in household management. Highest references, musical, artistic.—B., Alexandra Pharmacy, Blackheath. c6129

TWO YOUNG LADY FRIENDS are desirous of hearing of an opening where they could be useful together. Both are well connected, and thoroughly domesticated. Could take charge of house, or act as companions to lady or ladies, or any other position of trust. Both Christians. Ages 18 and 20. Good references given.—c6126, care of Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6126

WANTED, by Christian lady, re-engagement as companion to elderly lady. Can read aloud. Abstainer. Good references.—Address, H. E. H., Miss DAWE, Long Ashton, near Bristol. c6110

WANTED, IN CHRISTIAN HOME, situation as companion-help, housekeeper to invalid lady or others, or care of one or two children over three.—MARIAN NOTLEY, 5, Pellatt-road, Sutton, Surrey. c6118

A CHRISTIAN desires light situation in quiet Christian home. Thoroughly domesticated. Good plain needlewoman. Age 34. Excellent references.—E., 3, Turner-road, Dacre Park, Lee, S.E. c6071

YOUNG LADY requires situation as useful help in comfortable Christian home. Moderate salary.—Address, Miss D., 52, High-street, Sevenoaks. c5145

YOUNG LADY DESIRES engagement in Christian family. Companion or mother's help. Musical. Has had experience in household work. Simple cooking. Can do washing. Would help in parish work.—Address, Chacely Vicarage, Tewkesbury. c6044

AS USEFUL COMPANION, housekeeper, assistant matron, or mission worker. Young lady, highly recommended, bright, domesticated, musical, good reader and needleworker. Excellent references.—G., 77, Hazelville-road, Hornsey Rise, N. c6055

A LADY WISHES to recommend young lady as useful companion to Christian lady. Cheerful, domesticated, good needlewoman. Desirous of working for the Master.—R., 48, Weston Park, Crouch End, London. c6060

USEFUL HELP.—Thoroughly domesticated. Good needlewoman. Fond of children. Church of England.—A. G., 171, Bow-road, E. c6135

SITUATION AS NURSE wanted to one child. From the month, or otherwise. Good needlewoman. Near London preferred. Age 28. Wages £18 to £20.—Address, R. D., Bethany Cottage, 83, East Hill, Hastings. c6134

RE-ENGAGEMENT AS NURSE or housekeeper. Accustomed to children. Can take baby from the month. Needlewoman. Abstainer. Wages £20 to £24.—C. D., care of Miss White, Shaftesbury House, Circus-street, Greenwich. c6076

UPPER HOUSEMAID (tall), where two are kept. End of July. Christian home desired. Over four years' character. Good references.—H., St. Chad's, Beacon-street, Lichfield. c6091

GENERAL SERVANT.—Will any lady help a young woman to redeem her character (age 20)? Christian home desired (not London). Please state wages.—Address, Rescue Home, 20, Walcot-parade, Bath. c6140

SITUATIONS, ETC., VACANT.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.

HAIR-DRESSER.—Wanted, a trustworthy man for city saloon. English.—State salary, experience, etc., by letter only, to H. B., 25, Walton-street, Chelsea, S.W. c6092

FOR COUNTRY HOUSE in Cheshire competent indoor servant. Must be well up in all his duties. Abstainer, and single preferred.—Mrs. MEWBURN, Warford Hall, Alderley Edge. N R 3

MAN AND WIFE wanted for clergyman's small family. Wages £35 (to include washing). No other servant kept. Good references required.—Address, Rev. A. HOWELL SMITH, St. James's Rectory, Dover. c6093

WANTED AT ONCE, respectable married couple (no children), to take charge of pony and trap, and laundry of private family. Cottage and good wages.—Write, C. J. PEER, 803, Regent-street, W.

A SUPERIOR RELIABLE WOMAN wanted to work under a matron in a private Home for children.—Address, F., Roby, Sydenham Hill, S.E. c6084

MOTHER'S HELP.—Wanted, a respectable domesticated young person, about 20 to 25, for three children, ages 4, 5, and 7. Needlewoman. Fond of children. Comfortable home.—Apply, S. G., North Devon House, Upper Clapton, London. c6061

CHRISTIAN YOUNG WOMAN wanted as mother's help. Two children. No servant kept.—Mrs. GREGORY, 25, Hillingdon-road, Uxbridge Middlesex. c6041

QUIET CHRISTIAN HOME offered to old servant in exchange for light services to elderly lady. Abstainer. Two servants kept. Only light duties.—Enclose references to 35, Fordwych-road, Brondesbury, N.W. c6073

CHILDREN'S MAID wanted, for two children, nine and six years, also to assist in the housework. Must be a very good needlewoman.—Apply, DARTHOLM, St. John's-road, Clifton, Bristol. c6044

CHILDREN'S MAID wanted, who is a thorough needlewoman, and has some knowledge of dressmaking. Good character indispensable.—Apply first by letter to Mrs. W. C. BOYD, The Grange, Waltham Cross. c6142

A THOROUGHLY EFFICIENT matron required, one who understands laundry work in all its branches.—Apply to Miss ELGARI, Deaconess House, Mildmay Park, London, N. c6124

EXPERIENCED LAUNDRY MATRON wanted in strictly Evangelical home, where washing is taken for the object of teaching and training girls for service. Comfortable post for one interested in the work. Must be total abstainer, clean, neat in person and dress, have a kind but very firm and gentle Christian influence. References and age.—c6093, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6093

AN ASSISTANT LAUNDRY MATRON wanted, and a wash-house matron, in a home for girls in the country.—Apply, Miss STACEY, 80, Calthorpe-road, Birmingham. c6104

LAUNDRY MATRON required at once in Industrial Home for Girls. Must be met with. A good disciplinarian, experienced in the management of a laundry, and be able to produce satisfactory references as to competency and character. Abstainer and Christian desired.—Applications, giving full particulars, to be addressed to "BETA," care of J. G. King and Son, 10, Bolt-court, Fleet-street, E.C.

COOK, GOOD PLAIN, wanted, trustworthy and reliable in her duties. Good character. About 25 years of age. Wages £18 to £20.—Address, Mrs. NICHOLSON, Stanley House, Gosport, Hants. c5066

WANTED, EARLY IN SEPTEMBER, in a gentleman's family at Tunbridge Wells, a good plain cook and a parlourmaid. Must be total abstainers. No fringe, no finery.—Address, Mrs. M., 25, Grange-road, Eastbourne. c6008

PLAIN COOK, also housemaid, wanted, in family of six (youngest 17). Many years with brethren. Good quiet home for suitable applicants of irreproachable character.—93, Upper Tulse-hill, London. c6070

WANTED IN COUNTRY RECTORY, Devon, five miles from Tiverton, reliable good plain cook, over 30. Small family. Comfortable place. Four maids kept. Wages not over £20.—RECTOR, Uplowman, Tiverton. c6121

HOUSE-PARLOURMAID wanted to wait on lady, about July 20. Man-servant kept. Two in family. Experienced. Thoroughly reliable. Good needlewoman. Age about 25 preferred. Wages about £23, according to capabilities. First-rate character indispensable.—Write, B., Bryn Elrias, Colwyn Bay. c6095

HOUSEMAID wanted, for country. One willing to assist with children, also help with ironing. No washing. Good wages and comfortable home.—Apply, CARPENTER, Shoreham, Sevenoaks. c6043

HOUSE-PARLOURMAID wanted for small family (cook and nurse kept). Good personal character.—Reply, first by letter, Mrs. HARRISON, Harley Lodge, Stonebridge Park, Willesden. c6023

WANTED, an experienced and trustworthy general servant, who can do plain cooking, in a clergyman's family (2) in a London suburb. Good wages.—Address, Miss CORVAN, 12, Dacre Park, Blackheath, S.E. c6032

A GOOD GENERAL wanted. Also housemaid in small family. Christian and abstainer.—Mrs. COLWELL, 114, Bethune-road, Amhurst Park, Stamford Hill, N. c6115

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, about 28. Quiet Christian family of three. No children. Good personal character.—Apply to M. W. ETHELDENE, Mitcham-lane, Streatham, S.W. c6067

CHRISTIAN SERVANTS' AGENCY for supplying cooks, housemaids, parlourmaids, and others. Kindly recommended by the Rev. E. G. Gange.—Apply, Mrs. J. DUNSFORD, 6, Gt. Quebec-street, Montague-square, W. c6064

LADIES WANTING SERVANTS and servants seeking situations, should apply to Miss MAULDEN (late missionary), 97, Harrow-road, Paddington Green, whose office is well known and kindly recommended by the Rev. G. F. Pentecost, D.D. Stamps for reply. c6100

7s. 6d. A WEEK SALARY and upward offered to both sexes (for spare moments) everywhere. The work may be done evenings.—Apply, enclosing addressed envelope, to M. TRUSCOTT AND CO, 5, Sherwood-terrace, Chelston (105), Torquay. c4340

TO LET, APARTMENTS, ETC.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.

MIDLAND TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 76, Guilford-street, Russell-square, W.C.—A first-class Hotel for Visitors to London. Central and pleasantly situated. A thoroughly clean and quiet home, with every comfort and convenience. Highly patronised and recommended by the clergy and ladies and gentlemen. Bedrooms from 1s. 6d., breakfast or tea from 1s. 3d., service 9d. Full tariff, with testimonials, free on application to J. W. TURNER, Proprietor.

W. TAVERNER, TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 41 and 43, Judd-street, Euston-road, London, W.C. Five minutes from Great Northern, Midland, and North-Western Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Silent roadway. Ten minutes from British Museum. Tariff on application. c6034

AT LONDON.—TRANTER'S TEMPERANCE HOTEL, Bridgewater-square, Barbican, near St. Paul's Cathedral, G.P.O., and all places of interest. Quiet, clean, economical.—Write for "Visitors' Guide," showing "How to Spend a Week in London," with tariff and testimonials, post free.

BETTWS-Y-COED, North Wales.—The Pont-y-Pair Temperance Hotel very comfortable. For terms, which are extremely moderate, apply to the MANAGERESS. c5097

The Christian.

☞ To avoid delay it is requested that all letters relating to business matters should be addressed to the firm, Messrs. Morgan and Scott, and not to its individual members. Communications for THE CHRISTIAN should be addressed to the Editor, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, E.C. Letters of a personal nature should in every case be so marked.

All Advertisements for The Christian should be sent to Messrs. John Haddon and Co., Central Advertising Offices, Bouverie House, Salisbury-square, London, E.C., accompanied by remittance. (For Terms, see Page 1 of cover.)

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

☞ The Publishers request that all orders for The Christian by post, and remittances for same, be addressed to "The Christian" Postal Department, Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, London, E.C.

Cheques and Post Orders to be made payable to Messrs. John Haddon and Co. at that address.

The subscription for one year, including Postage and Coloured Almanack, is as under :—

For Great Britain and Ireland ..	6s. 7d.	per annum
For India, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, France, Germany, and other European Countries	8s. 10d.	„ „
For United States and Canada .. Or including Monthly Copy of Herald of Mercy	2½ dols.	„ „

Subscriptions for The Herald of Mercy.

4 Copies monthly	2s.	per annum
8 „ „	4s.	„ „
12 „ „	6s.	„ „
24 „ „	12s.	„ „

Post free to any address at home or abroad.

Remittances to be sent as above. Postcard should be enclosed for receipt or extra stamp to cover postage of same.

Notes and Comments.

Many relatives and friends of the Madagascar missionaries have been inquiring what has been done to facilitate the departure of the wives and children of missionaries, who have been earnestly exhorted to leave by persons on the island and by acquaintances at home. We understand that the Government would willingly send out a man-of-war, but such a proceeding would involve much difficulty and trouble on the part of the mission families, who would have to be collected at the coast and then to wait for the ship. As to the L.M.S., we believe it has intimated to its workers that they are free to come home or to send their families; in fact, some are sending their wives and children by the steamers of Donald Currie and Co. In other cases, the missionaries' families will retire from the capital during the present distress.

Rev. G. Hadfield writes to The Chronicle of the L.M.S. saying that there has come to Lifu, New Caledonia, a great and unexpected wave of blessing, as a result of revival services held throughout the island by four native pastors. Hundreds of natives have decided for Christ, and the whole island has been roused to renewed faith and zeal. While our brethren are inexpressibly thankful to God for so rich a blessing, they yet feel rebuked for having been so unprepared. Mr. Hadfield writes:—

According to the old people, no such season of blessing has ever before been granted to the island. One of the revivalists (the pastor of this village) describes it as a true "Penetekosa." While he was working a district about fifty miles away, a somewhat severe hurricane came on, but it was not allowed to interfere with the meetings, the people earnestly protesting that it was no hurricane, but simply the rushing of a mighty wind to accompany the descent of the Holy Ghost. In some of the villages there are no young men left to join in night dancing, and in some even there is scarcely one left who is not either a church member or a candidate for admission.

It will be a remarkable event should there come from afar, in this Centenary year, a wave of blessing to our home churches. The L.M.S. missionaries began their labours in the islands of the South Seas, and there God is working marvellously after a hundred years of sowing and reaping.

An esteemed correspondent calls our attention to Rome's influence in the sphere of education in Scotland. He says:—

Forty years ago £36,000 were voted annually to Roman Catholic schools in Great Britain; now twice that sum is handed over to these schools in Scotland alone. Rome is represented on a number of the more important School Boards, while the priest has his own school under his exclusive management.

Is it known that there is on the statute book a provision by which a handful of Romanists in any parish may have a separate school, and insist on a grant in aid? Already there are 17 Free Church, 46 Church of Scotland, 74 Episcopal, and 177 Roman Catholic schools, with grants in proportion. What may not another score of years effect in Scotland!

This comes of allowing aid to Denominational as well as Board Schools. Another significant statement by the correspondent, from whose letter we have quoted is :—

Negotiations have been proceeding between a committee representing a certain university and the authorities of a Roman educational institution in the north. A noble lord is ready to rebuild this institution on a site within the ancient University city. Suppose this committee should give in a favourable report, and effect be given to their recommendations, we may some day see the priests of a Roman college elevated, to their own great surprise, to the position of professors in a national University, and, as ecclesiastics, demanding precedence over most of the other professors.

Maynooth Roman Catholic College is now a century old, and has 600 students. In its early days it had a parliamentary grant of £8000 a year, but about fifty years ago Sir Robert Peel raised the amount to £26,000. In 1869, when the Irish Church was disestablished, the capitalised value of the vested interests at Maynooth reached the sum of £346,000. From this and other Roman Colleges in our country priests are sent forth to minister to English-speaking Roman Catholics all over the world. The Guardian has not a very high opinion of the quality of the training at Maynooth. It observes :—

It is a singular fact that, despite the generous support that has been given to Maynooth both by the State and by the Roman Bishops, not a single man of real eminence as a scholar or a theologian has been reared within its walls during the hundred years of its existence. The names of the present professorial staff are not names of distinction; indeed, we do not recognise even one name as known to the literary world.

Evangelical Christendom gives some interesting facts with regard to Roman Catholicism in France. Thus the people of that faith have provided schools for the education of children free from Government control, in ten years spending more than thirty millions of francs. In Paris there are more than 200 such schools, with 76,000 scholars. In the whole of France there are 1200 monasteries and nunneries, containing 30,000 men and 130,000 women. As home missionaries there are in France 8500 priests, 33,600 nuns, and 3600 friars. And yet France is honey-combed with infidelity and stained with immorality of the worst kind.

The High Church party and the Romanists are determined to use the approaching election for denominational ends; nothing short of an enormous endowment of so-called religion, but what we call superstition, is being aimed at. Romanists are bent on having their schools supported out of the rates, while they retain the management. Another scheme, which would give enormous power to the High Church priest, would saddle the taxpayers with a burden of at least two millions of money. The struggle is for the child and the school. If they are lost, how long will England remain a Protestant country? Much as we deprecate the personal hatred which often found expression in the cry, "No Popery," we believe that that cry was never more appropriate than now.

Rev. Alfred Rowland has been saying some things on the temptations of ministers which we have heard many times before, but which are none the less important on that account. His words to students on indolence should be deeply taken to heart :—

In looking at the ethical and spiritual dangers which surrounded ministers, he remarked that indolence was a sin which required special watchfulness on the part of a minister. He ventured to say that for one man who failed in ministerial work for lack of ability, half a dozen failed from sheer laziness. Unlike men of other professions who are in business, a minister could work at any time he chose, and it was proverbial that what could be done at any time was apt to be done at no time. They would find it necessary for their own salvation in this matter to lay down rules for themselves at the beginning of their pastorate, dividing their time so as to have certain periods for reading, for pastoral visits, for direct pulpit preparation, and, not least, for personal devotion.

If ministers and missionaries have exceptional temptations to indolence, they also have corresponding opportunities for living the most laborious of lives. We are glad to know that a large number enter into their privilege of service joyfully.

While we cannot agree with Canon Barnett in his views on the Sabbath and on the way in which he would have it observed, we note with entire approval what he says on the division between the classes :—

The gulf between the educated and the uneducated is one of the most dangerous which has ever divided society. On one side of the gulf the educated classes grow in selfishness. On the other side of the gulf the workmen tend to become brutal, they feel a pleasure in destroying beauty, which seems to be the plaything of vice, and in offending prejudices which seem to be the cloak of selfishness.

All this points to the necessity for bringing men together in the unity of the Spirit, and binding them with the bond of love. There is no power so mighty as the Gospel to dissolve class hatred, and to blend men together in common hope and effort.

The conditions which are helpful to a higher life, or which lead to a lower life, are always worth careful attention, although we firmly maintain that the new man is born of the Spirit, and is created in Christ Jesus. For example, it is worth noting that Mr. Charles Booth, in his "Life and Labour of the People of London," says it is the badly-paid, non-organised, intermittent workers who drink most. Drinking increases with irregularity of work. Idleness, hopelessness, and the influence of one man on another are the powers which degrade the poor out-of-work.

God's works in the realms of space declare his glory. The firmament sheweth his handiwork; the earth is full of his riches (Ps. xix. 1, civ. 24). "Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech nor language; their voice cannot be heard." (Ps. xix. 2, 3, R.V.) All do not hear the noiseless speech, but the more we explore the heavens and penetrate the earth, the more we learn of the greatness and goodness of God. Impressed with this conviction, a rich man (M. J. Freitl) has just bequeathed to the Academy of Sciences of Vienna the sum of 800,000 florins, the revenues from which are to be devoted to the furtherance of the study of the terrestrial globe and the celestial bodies. In his will the testator expresses a hope that his foundation will "glorify God in advancing the knowledge of his marvellous creation in all its parts."

Partial Views of God.

Complaint is frequently made of "the feebleness of the modern pulpit." May not the explanation be found in the partial views of God which prevail? Within these limits it is only possible to treat such a large subject in a disjointed manner, but I commend the following remarks to the prayerful consideration of the reader:—

1. Modern theology exhibits a defective portrait of God. God revealed Himself through Moses as the Supreme Ruler, the Almighty, the Self-Existent, the Holy One, the Righteous One, the True One, and the Jealous One. These attributes belong to the strong and sovereign side of God's nature. God revealed Himself by his Son Jesus Christ as the Father, the Redeemer, the Loving One. These attributes belong to the tender and parental side of God's nature.

The main features of the first revelation are the sovereignty of God, and the holiness and righteousness of God. The strictness and the sovereignty of God are especially set forth by the term, jealous, which signifies that God is a strong Ruler, who will permit no rival in authority, but will firmly maintain his sovereign rights, being resolved to govern and determined to be obeyed. The main features of the second revelation are the fatherly love of God. The two revelations are the complement of each other; and they make it comparatively easy for us to apprehend the dual nature of God.

2. Modern theology, by the presentation of the tender and merciful aspect of God's character as the whole of his character, nurtures a religious sentiment devoid of moral principle. The summary of religion under the First Testament was the fear of God, and under the Second Testament it was the love of God, but both are incomplete, and we must join them if we would have a complete definition. God is love.

Christ honoured the Law and declared it should not pass away, and said He had come not to destroy the Law but to fulfil. Both the Law and the Gospel were given by God, and we discredit or dishonour either at our moral peril. God is light and love. We shall sing the song of Moses and of the Lamb. The Christian graces should be wedded to the legal virtues. The doctrine that God can change in his character cannot do otherwise than reduce moral truth to chaos; yet modern theologians teach inferentially that God has changed in his nature since he revealed Himself through Moses, and that we should not regard Him as the strict, holy, and righteous Being He has declared Himself to be.

3. Modern theology supplies a partial and misleading explanation of the doctrine of the Cross of Christ. In the cross of Christ God seeks to restore a fallen race to his allegiance. The Cross speaks of Mount Sinai and of Mount Zion, of law and of love. Whilst it manifests a love on the part of the Father as great as that shown by the Christ, by the surrender of his Son to death for us, the cross displays equally the holiness of God's nature, which caused Him to withdraw and separate Himself from his Son during the three hours that He hung on the cross as the representative and the substitute of guilty men. The cross, therefore, proclaims inferentially the awful truth that God will withdraw altogether from the impenitent and disobedient, and will cast them off for ever.

4. Modern theology, by teaching universal love, emasculates virtue, and impairs moral distinctions. This teaching is deficient in moral quality, tone, and stamina. The law of the universe is the expression of the righteous will and holy nature of God, and there can be no strong love of right without a corresponding hatred of wrong, and no strong love of good without a corresponding hatred of evil. The holiness of God is described in his Word as separation from and opposition to moral evil, and we should be careful to distinguish between the love of pity, which is limited and temporary, and the love of complacency, which is eternal.

5. The modern pulpit addresses itself too exclusively to the affections. The fear of God is not a servile feeling, as simple fear. It is a composite sentiment made up of fear, respect, esteem, loyalty, and devotion, and it would be set forth more accurately by the term "reverence" than "fear." The fear of God, or reverence, restrains from evil and impels towards goodness. God in his Holy Word recognises the moral forces of fear, gratitude, affection, esteem, reverence, loyalty, duty, and others, and appeals to them all. The emotion of love is readily stirred, but it is partial and changeful, and is susceptible to evil influences as well as good; and in fallen human nature the love of evil is as strong as the love of good. The motor of duty is as unselfish as the motor of love, and is more reliable.

The great religious revival of the eighteenth century affords an illustration of this truth. The sermons and addresses of Wesley which produced this religious awakening and moral revolution, were calm statements of the holiness of God's nature, the righteousness and strictness of God's government, and the certainty that God will severely punish every transgressor of his holy law who does not repent and forsake his sins.

When the pulpit testifies to the whole truth, and asserts and proclaims the Sovereignty as well as the Fatherhood of God; the holiness, strictness, jealousy, and righteousness, as well as the mercy and compassion of God; the severity as well as the love exhibited in the Cross of Christ; the limits in God's holy nature to the love of the sinner; the indispensable condition of godly character and virtuous conduct; and urges the claims of God to man's submission and obedience by forceful appeals to the conscience, then shall the pulpit be clothed again with power, and sinners shall be converted to God in multitudes.

A. W. S.

St. Leonards.

CHESHAM, BUCKS.—A new Gospel Hall was recently opened here to accommodate over 600 people. The opening services were much blessed. We have to thank God for blessing and conversions at almost every meeting. The new hall and ground cost £1100, towards which we have raised £459 16s. 1d. We are all working people, for the most part engaged in brush and boot factories. Freewill offerings would be gratefully received.

Wm. Young and George Marshall.

Gospel Hall, Chesham, Bucks.

CONVALESCENT HOME, STANMORE.—Sir,—For the first time since the opening of this Home, eleven years ago, I am unable to pay the tradesmen's monthly accounts without borrowing from the bankers. This step has never been resorted to unless for exceptional expenditure of building additions or improvements, etc. I have never received so little in donations during the same period as during the past half-year. I attribute this partly to an accident which laid me aside from active work during the greater part of last summer, and to an attack of influenza followed by pneumonia in the winter. I trust that these times of anxious responsibility are sent in love to test and strengthen faith, and that the Master who called me to this branch of work for Him will supply the needful means of support. In a work such as mine, it is impossible to know what money is required beforehand, nor is it easy to stint supplies to hungry convalescents because the exchequer is empty.—Yours very faithfully,

Stanmore, Middlesex. (Miss) Mary Wardell.

CARNAL CHRISTIANS.

REV. A. MURRAY ADDRESSES MINISTERS.

A deeply interesting meeting was held on Friday evening in the Lecture Hall of Marylebone Presbyterian Church. At the suggestion of a gentleman, who is generally recognised as a leader in evangelistic activity, invitations had been sent out to ministers, preachers, and Christian workers to meet Rev. Andrew Murray on this occasion. The invitation was heartily responded to, and representative men gathered from many centres of Christian effort, and belonging to various Evangelical denominations. A social hour was spent over the tea table, after which Dr. Pentecost opened the proceedings, and read of 1 Cor. ii.

Rev. Andrew Murray said that he felt it to be a great privilege to be allowed to speak to so many ministers and workers actively engaged in the Lord's service. His own thoughts had been led to the opening verses of 1 Cor. iii., as giving a picture of the state of the Corinthian Church, and as applicable, doubtless, in England to-day, and to many in the congregations over which the brethren present had oversight. Paul sees amongst the Corinthians believers of two classes—spiritual and carnal. One of the leading features of this carnal state is that of permanent infancy, retarded growth, and this as the result of disease. Natural infancy is beautiful; but when a child of twelve or twenty years old is still a babe as regards food and intelligence, then we regard it as suffering from disease. So in this case; spiritually, these believers are just what they were at conversion, they have not grown, and need milk as babes, instead of the strong meat of the Word. Evidence of this childishness is found by the Apostle in their envies, strifes, and divisions. Are there no such tokens around us to-day? Alas, we have to confess it is so with many in our congregations, for, as we find from the epistle, this carnal condition is quite compatible with religious zeal and a considerable amount of activity.

Now the Apostle sets himself to deal with this state of things; even as every true minister of Christ must seek to do. How does he deal with it? He seeks first of all to convict them of their carnal state. Then he seeks to lead them to willing surrender, to readiness to give up all, that the power of Christ may rest on them and his new life flood their souls. When worldliness and merely carnal desires and longings are abandoned, and the soul seeks its satisfaction only in Christ, then we are in a position to receive Him. And this is the next step, we must understand what spiritual life is, the incoming of the Holy Ghost to abide in the soul, making us the temples of the Holy Ghost.

Now ministers who really seek to do God's work must be exercised as to the state of their congregation. They cannot help seeing an inner circle of godly men and women, who are spiritual, or are aiming at it. Then there is a second circle, yet larger, of converted men and women, who are still carnal. There is much struggle, but little victory. There is a third circle of worldly Christians, and a still larger circle of unconverted. It is well to bear these facts in view, and to seek so to minister the Word as to lead people to see where they are, and to set them longing for fuller and deeper life. But let us remember we cannot preach what we do not believe and experience; hence the importance of facing the definite question, Have we, who serve in heavenly things, been ourselves delivered from the carnal? Do we for ourselves know what it is to be filled with the Spirit? Is that Holy Spirit giving reality and power to our service?

NORTHERN LABRADOR.—Not content with aiding the fishing folk of Battle Harbour and Indian Harbour, Dr. Willway, of the M.D.S.F. (who has spent the winter in Labrador), travelled to the far north, calling at the following places, visiting most of the people and prescribing for those in need:—Fox Harbour, William's Harbour, Frances Harbour, Frances Harbour Bight, Lake's Bay, Venison Tickle, Caplin Bay, Long Pond, Seal Island, Black Bear Bay, Porcupine Bay, Reed's Pond, Rocky Bay, Sandy Hill, Table Bay, Goose Cove, Cartwright, Sandwich Bay, Paradise, Separation Point, and Dovebrook. "I had some very bad travelling getting along here; some days I could only cover six miles, and had to have men to beat a path through the woods with snow-shoes. The glass registered 15° F., and we had to stem a strong wind with a slight drift on the day, and I can tell you it was 'something cold,' and my cheeks and nose quickly succumbed to the frost. It was the wind that made it so bitterly cold."

DR. BARNARDO'S JUBILEE.

FOR nearly thirty years the well-known work of Waif rescue associated with Dr. Barnardo has been making its mark in social history, and it comes perchance to many people with a shock of surprise to learn that Dr. Barnardo is only just celebrating his fiftieth birthday. Yet so it is. Like many energetic workers he began early: he was a medical student, barely out of his teens, when he captured his first waif, and set open that little door in Stepney-causeway which has never since been closed, night or day, to the knock of the destitute.

It was fitting, therefore, that "Founders' Day" on Thursday, July 4, marking the jubilee birthday of a crowded life, should have drawn to the vast Waif Training College, which now nearly monopolises Stepney Causeway, a crowd of friends and well-wishers. The Homes were en fête for the occasion; there was a delightful programme of work and play by some hundreds out of the thousands of boys and girls now composing Dr. Barnardo's family. But, alas! a great disappointment awaited the visitors. The hero of the occasion and of the day was absent; and, still more depressing, he was detained under medical orders. For some time past Dr. Barnardo's health has given grounds for anxiety, and during the whole of June it has been impossible for him to give his wonted attention to the management of his great work; but it was confidently anticipated that on the red letter day of July 4 he would have been able to greet his visitors and receive their congratulations. But it was not to be. A message was read from Dr. Barnardo, however, in the course of the proceedings, from which we quote the following extract. It will be pleasant tidings to all our readers to note the hopeful terms in which it is couched:—

"I desire, for the information of all who are interested, to add that although the suddenness and alarming character of the attacks from which I have suffered during the last two months compelled me to relinquish my share in my beloved work for a season, I am assured by each and all of the three medical men under whose care I have been and still am, that I may confidently expect, by the blessing of God, to be able to resume my usual duties after a while, and that if certain changes are effected in the hours of daily labour and in other matters relating to the management of my health, I may hope for some years to come, if it be God's will, to continúe to occupy the position it has been my privilege and joy to hold for so long."

Somewhere about a thousand friends invaded the Stepney headquarters of the work in the course of the afternoon. Though their disappointment was keen at the absence of the man whom they delighted to honour, there was a long programme drawn up for their delectation, and a thoroughly interesting afternoon was spent. The daily life of the Homes was laid bare for the occasion. After an inspection of the dormitories, kitchen, dining-room, and lavatories, in which cleanliness, comfort, and convenience were clearly carried to the pitch of a fine art, the visitors slowly filtered through that long succession of workshops which form such a prominent feature in the Stepney Homes. The boys were as busy as bees at a dozen separate trades—tinsmiths, carpenters, printers, tailors, bakers, etc., and the visitors followed with curious and kindly eyes the young fellows who were learning more than they knew of at bench and table. Advancement is the watchword of the Homes, and enlargements of these workshops are in active progress, the old premises having for the third or fourth time become too strait for the ever-increasing stream of lads under training. The schoolrooms were also open; and so was over the way—Her Majesty's Hospital—where the young patients in their beautiful palace of pain looked as if hospital life was the most enviable form of existence. Then in the large swimming bath the boys greatly delighted the visitors by two exhibitions of their powers.

A pleasant little al fresco meeting was arranged in the playground, under the chairmanship of Mr. Samuel Gurney Sheppard. The visitors grouped themselves on chairs round the yard and under the railway arch, while in the central space successive groups of Home boys and girls showed an attractive series of games and drills which elicited loud applause. The speaking was commendably brief, for friends had assembled to see and to congratulate. The letter from Dr. Barnardo read by the chairman was heartily received, and in reply a telegram of congratulation and condolence was dispatched to the doctor from the meeting. A few words followed from Rev. F. B. Meyer and Rev. A. Downes-Shaw, both of whom carried their audience with them in the sympathy they expressed for Dr. Barnardo, and in their cordial wishes for his speedy recovery.

Mrs. S. G. Sheppard had then the pleasant task of presenting prizes to some 350 former inmates of the homes, lads and lasses who for periods of from one year up to nine years had retained their situations with credit. It will be remembered how striking in previous years was this function at the annual meeting of the homes in the Albert Hall; and, indeed, hardly anything could with equal force bring home the value of the work than such a long procession of stalwart youths and bright-eyed girls testifying by their manner, bearing, and record alike to the social salvation which the Homes had brought them. All classes of the working community were represented — soldiers, sailors, policemen, clerks, and respectable mechanics. All the girls wore snowy cuffs, caps, and collars.

Item No. 7 on the programme was described as "A Striking Episode, introduced by a few words from Rev. Walter J. Mayers." It turned out that Mr. Mayers had a difficult task set him. A jubilee gift by the united staff of the institutions had been prepared for Dr. Barnardo in the shape of a valuable and exceedingly handsome "grandfather's clock," beautifully inlaid, and with a triple set of chimes (made by Messrs. Bendon and Co.). The clock, which was on view in the schoolroom during the afternoon, was the centre of much interest and admiration. Mr. Mayers, under the circumstances, had to make his presentation speech under difficulties. He found an appropriate allegory, however, in the gift, and in Dr. Barnardo's absence the clock was consigned to the safe keeping of the secretary. Doubtless Dr. Barnardo will value such a token of esteem and affection from his numerous colleagues.

Altogether the day was as pronounced a success as it well could be in the absence of the Founder and Director. "An Institution," said Emerson, "is simply the shadow cast by a great man." Dr. Barnardo's fifty years have cast a splendid shadow, and we are sure that every one who has Christ's work at heart, especially as displayed among outcast and destitute little ones, will join in cordial congratulations and in prayerful good wishes that such a well-spent life may be prolonged for many a year to come, and that even greater success may attend the noble work of "Dr. Barnardo's Homes."

We understand that the funds of the Institutions are just now at their lowest summer level, and it may be well to remind our readers that Dr. Barnardo, through his colleagues, sits daily at the receipt of custom at 18 to 26, Stepney-causeway, London, E.

THE work associated with the name of Dr. Barnardo has long been recognised by all who are interested in social and philanthropic agencies. For twenty-nine years "Dr. Barnardo's Homes" have kept open doors for waif, orphan, and destitute children, without distinction of age, sex, creed, birthplace, or physical condition. The results attained have contributed to the diminution of crime, to a larger recognition of the claims of childhood, and to that broader spirit of sympathy in dealing with the young which happily now prevails.

Over 26,000 children have been rescued by the Homes from undoubted misery and degradation, and trained for useful and honourable lives, while 7500 selected emigrants, whose subsequent careers have been highly successful, have been sent out to the Colonies. Nearly 5000 boys and girls are now under training in the institutions. This year Dr. Barnardo reaches his jubilee birthday, and it is felt that the occasion should not be allowed to pass without some recognition of the services which Dr. Barnardo has rendered to the cause of humanity, and more especially to waif and destitute children. With this object in view, a movement has been set on foot to promote a Jubilee Testimonial to Dr. Barnardo.

Cheques may be made payable to "The Barnardo Testimonial Fund" and forwarded to the bankers, Messrs. Barclay, Bevan and Co., 1, Pall Mall East, S.W., with whom an account has been opened by the committee, whose names are as follows:—

LORD BRASSEY,	COL. HOWARD VINCENT, M.P.,
LORD KINNAIRD,	MR. S. GURNEY SHEPPARD,
LORD POLWARTH,	MR. HOWARD WILLIAMS.

THE ARCHDEACON OF LONDON,

INTERNATIONAL MISSIONARY UNION.

THIS Union has recently been holding its twelfth annual meeting at Dr. Henry Foster's sanitarium, Clifton Springs, New York. The Union is simply an annual gathering of such foreign missionaries as happen to be in the States and Canada in the month of June, and as can be reached by circular and have the convenience to come. Clifton Springs is 354 miles from New York City, on the New York Central, and also on the Lehigh Valley railroads, and is just across Lake Ontario from Canada, or about 100 miles from Niagara Falls. The Union, while it has no connection with any ecclesiastical or other authority, is in friendly relations with the foreign missionary boards of all the Evangelical denominations. This year friends assembled from points as distant from each other as Manitoba and Virginia, Texas, Vermont, Java, etc.

The programme of the meeting is made flexible, to accommodate late arrivals and early departures, that every missionary, man and woman, present may so far as possible be heard by all. The first evening everyone is asked to rise and mention his or her name, field, denomination, etc.; there is a social afternoon on the lawn adjoining the tabernacle where the sessions are held. There are three sessions daily through the week, so arranged as to give four evenings and three afternoons to addresses on mission fields, with kindred discussions; mornings to technical missionary topics; one session on women's work, one session on the home churches as related to foreign missions, when practicable one session on medical missions; a devotional hour or more every day, and a sermon on Sunday morning. The Union has never been embarrassed by "isms" of any kind. Baptists, Episcopalians, Independent missionaries, China Inland brethren, missionaries of authoritative boards, Calvinists, Arminians, Friends, have all met in unrestrained freedom and with absolute harmony from all parts and divisions of the missionary world.

This year there were 133 missionaries present, who have been labouring in China, India, Japan, Turkish Empire, Persia, Bulgaria, Siam, Assam, Micronesia, Congo, Gaboon, Ceylon, Burma, Laos, Liberia, Greece, Italy, Hawaii, Malaysia, Arabia, Zululand, Mexico, Brazil, etc.

A profound spiritual atmosphere pervaded the week. The first morning was given to prayer and devotional speech, very many participating. Dr. William E. Witter's sermon on Sunday morning on the Holy Spirit was wonderfully accompanied with the Divine witness. The present financial stress which is generally felt by all the missionary boards was the subject of constant fervent prayer and many speeches, pushing aside more special consideration of this or that field.

The Union and the onlookers particularly enjoyed the remarks of Dr. Ashmore, veteran Chinese missionary; Dr. Jessup, the statesman-missionary in Syria; Dr. C. C. Penick, of the Episcopalian work in Liberia, and now among the negroes of the United States; and Mrs. Hepburn, of China, who made every day redolent of the sweetest motherly memories of a long life among the Chinese and the Japanese. Strong resolutions were adopted denouncing the evils of opium in China and rum in Africa; urging upon Christians in England to promote relief to Christians in Turkey; expressing sympathy with delayed volunteers, young men and women, for the foreign fields; etc., etc.

The secretary of the Union is Rev. W. H. Belden, Clifton Springs, N.Y.

THE HAVEN in the Borough, Southwark.—The Deaconess-in-charge writes:—"We are very anxious to send some of the delicate and invalid girls who are too weak for service into fresh country or seaside air. If a suitable cottage was offered to us we should be thankful to send some girls to recruit. Remember these helpless, friendless girls? Address, Deaconess-in-charge, 60, Trinity-square, Borough, S.E."

AN ENGLISH CHAUTAUQUA.—A two weeks' combination of rest, holiday, recreation, and study for Sunday-school teachers has been arranged at Pwllheli North Wales, for August 10 to 24. The design is to form an English Sunday-school "Chautauqua," and the project seems to have all the elements of success. Friends may attend either for a week or the full period of two weeks. All particulars as to terms, etc., can be had from the secretary of the Association for the Promotion of Home and Foreign Travel, 41, Gracechurch street, E.C.

THE MILDMAY CONFERENCE.

(Continued from last week.)

The Completion of Priesthood.

By Rev. ANDREW MURRAY.

In Hebrews viii. 1 (R.V.), we read: "Now in the things which we are saying the chief point is this: We have such a High Priest, who sat down on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens, a minister of the sanctuary, and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, not man." Again, in verse 6: "Now hath He obtained a ministry the more excellent, by how much also He is the Mediator of a better covenant, which hath been enacted on better promises." Mr. Macgregor has spoken more especially of the completion of sacrifice; I want to speak in particular of the completion of priesthood. What is the object of priesthood? The object is the restoration of fellowship with God. The priest is to take the sinner into God's presence. What is religion? We have just as much of religion as we have of God. An increase of religion, a revival of religion, means nothing but this—to get more of God into our hearts and lives, more of God's will, more of God's presence, more of God's life and person. Priesthood means bringing into perfect fellowship with God.

See this in the story of Israel. In Exodus xxv. we read God's command to Moses regarding the Tabernacle and priesthood. After speaking of the freewill offerings, the Lord said: "Let them make Me a sanctuary, that I may dwell among them." God wanted to live near, to live with, to live among his people, and He wanted his people to live with and near Him. In chapter xxix. 44 we read, "I will sanctify both Aaron and his sons to minister to Me in the priest's office. And I will dwell among the children of Israel and will be their God." And then in the New Testament, the great object of priesthood is that we may dwell with God every hour of our lives, and that God may dwell with us and in us.

It is well that we should ever go back to Calvary, to the atonement on the cross, to the precious blood, for there and then was laid of our hope. But when a man has laid a foundation he does not ever abide there, but up and up he builds until the superstructure is complete. Calvary and the cross are our foundation, but what is the house, the superstructure, which God builds upon it, but the life into which He leads us through the Cross and Calvary? Let me speak to you, first of all, about Jesus the High Priest Himself, then of his work as High Priest in heaven, and thirdly, of the work He accomplishes for his people.

THE EVERLASTING FOUNDATION

To begin, what is it that constitutes Jesus such a perfect High Priest? The Epistle to the Hebrews tells us that it consists in this—that He is God and man. As God He is the omnipotent Creator, not only holy and righteous, and able to conquer sin, but having access to our innermost being, so that He can cleanse us and bring our hearts into fellowship with God. And then, He is not only God but man. You read in Hebrews v. two great thoughts on this. First, He Himself was perfected in obedience by his sufferings and struggles—He "learned obedience," and so, as our High Priest, He can keep us obedient. When, as High Priest, He gives us his Holy Spirit, the spirit that He gives us is the spirit of Him that has learned obedience. The very essence of Christ's work on Calvary is obedience to God. He did not his own will, but the will of his Father. And when Christ brings me unto God, it is this spirit that He seeks to put into me.

The other thought is: In his humanity we see the deep tenderness in which He sank down into perfect conformity to us in our tears and prayers; so that there is no circumstances in which I may be, no condition in which I suffer, but He as High Priest will come unto me and make Himself one with me, and lift me up to God. Christ is God; mystery of mysteries, Christ is also man! One of the most glorious subjects dealt with in the Epistle to the Hebrews is this, that Christ, as man, having finished the sacrifice for us, has now a heavenly priesthood, which He carries on in Divine and everlasting power. Christ's heavenly priesthood is what we would now consider. This is "the chief point" of what is written in this Epistle.

What is the work of the Great High Priest? He brings us nigh unto God. There is a double work of which this eighth chapter of Hebrews speaks. Christ bears there two names: one is the Minister of the Sanctuary; the other the Mediator of the Covenant. These two names are linked together, and these two offices just meet our need. What do I understand by

MINISTER OF THE SANCTUARY?

In every temple there was an unseen god to whom the temple was devoted. The priest of the temple was to receive the petitions of worshippers and get the answer back from the god. So it was with Aaron: "Thou shalt stand in my presence to minister, and shalt come out and bless in my name." There is a Godward and a manward relation. Jesus stands as a minister in his Godward work, and as a mediator in his manward work.

As Minister of the Sanctuary, Christ has done these things: He opened and entered the sanctuary by his blood. When He ascended to heaven, with his own blood, He opened the Holiest of all; and with the blood the heavenly things were all cleansed. Then He gave us complete and perfect access to God's presence. As Minister of God's Sanctuary, He bears us up before the Father. His presence before God is one unceasing intercession. Without intermission there rises from Him to the Father a cry for more of the Spirit and life and blessing and love of God to be manifested to the Church of God on earth; and there flows back from the Father, who delights in the Son, a stream of blessing as the fruit of that intercession. It is flowing even now. Just as the sun in the heavens does not exist one moment without shining, and shedding abroad its light and warmth, so there continually pours forth through the Son the light and love and power of the Spirit of God. And if we believed and realised it, what lives we should live, and what songs we should raise to Him who loveth us, and loosed us from our sins in his blood!

The priest does more than this. We are to live in the Holiest of all, "Having boldness to enter into the holiest, let us draw nigh." But our hearts are so foolish and feeble, and ready to faint; and so many think that they cannot enter into the holy place, and even then they never could abide there. Then comes the blessed thought—Christ is the Minister of the Sanctuary. He is empowered to bring us in, to conduct us ever deeper into the tabernacle, to instruct us, and watch over us every hour. "Having boldness to enter into the holiest of all, having a great Priest over the house of God,

LET US DRAW NIGH."

Once more, it is He who is to communicate to us all the blessings we are to receive, as we tarry in the Holiest of all. There I am to learn what worship is—what it is to sink down into even deeper humility before God. There I am to be clothed upon with the likeness, and the spirit, and the body of Jesus. There I am to receive, fresh every day, the outflowing and the inflowing of the Holy Spirit from my beloved High Priest. See, you have a living High Priest, who waits every moment to do his perfect work in you; all that you long for, you can count upon it, Jesus is doing for you. The work of Christ is expressed in the verse: "He died, the just for the unjust, to bring us to God"; as we read in the Epistle to the Hebrews, He "brought in a better hope, whereby we draw nigh unto God." Nearness to God is the great object of the priesthood of Jesus, and you know as much or as little of that priesthood as you have little or much of nearness to God.

Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee.

The High Priest, the God-man, Jesus, is to bring and keep me near to my God. I can count upon it. Let every heart say "Amen!" I will trust Jesus to keep me near to God. Whatever desire you have, whatever need, depend upon it, Christ will and can fulfil them all. That is the meaning of the statement that He is "a minister of the sanctuary" of that heavenly place into which we are to go, and where we are to live.

Now comes a great difficulty. Alas! my sinful heart, how can I hope to live there all the day through! Here is my evil nature, and my evil heart, and for hours and hours I am compelled to concentrate my attention upon worldly business. Listen while I tell you of the other name of Jesus. He is the Mediator of the New Covenant. He is not only the Surety of the covenant. He was my Surety when He paid my debt. He is my Surety that the covenant will be fulfilled in me. And He is that because He is the Mediator of the New Covenant. You all know the terms of the covenant in Heb. viii., taken from Jeremiah's prophecy. First, free grace blessings are promised: "Their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more." Secondly, "I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts." Thirdly, "They shall not teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying 'Know the Lord,' for all shall know Me from the least to the greatest."

It is the work of our High Priest to see that the covenant is fulfilled to us. He is to mediate, to pass down, to make real in us these blessings. Christ is able to give me much more than just the thought that I have been pardoned and can also be pardoned when I fall. He is able to make the power of his blood such a reality, that the light of God can shine uninterruptedly into our poor hearts. In Heb. ix. we read that Christ entered the tabernacle with his own blood, and then there follows the question, "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the Eternal Spirit offered Himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works, to serve the living God!" There is not a word in God's book that is to me a deeper mystery, and that fills me with more admiration than that—

THE BLOOD OF CHRIST.

Let us believe in its power; I do not know a thousandth part of its power in bringing us near to God.

The second blessing is: "I will write my law in their heart." Praise be to God! But what does it mean to have the knowledge, and will, and power of God's law inscribed in your heart and mind? When I have an acorn, how do I know it can stand as an oak for a hundred years? Because the law of the oak is in the acorn. Even so, Christ, the Mediator of the Covenant, puts his law in us. He is one on whom I can depend to make the covenant true to me. He has engaged to see to it, and the Spirit and the law of God shall dwell in me, and work out all his blessed purposes. Christ does this blessed work as Mediator of the Covenant.

Thirdly, Christ's mediation brings about unbroken fellowship with God. "All shall know, from the least to the greatest." That is, there is direct and immediate personal communication between God and the soul.

Think why these offices should be combined in our great High Priest. Every creature is constituted according to the kingdom to which it belongs. I must have a nature in harmony with the presence of God, or I cannot dwell with Him. Many have read the promise, and said, "This fellowship with God is not for me; my heart is not fit for it." Jesus taught us to pray, "as in heaven, so in earth." As Minister of the Sanctuary He keeps heaven open for you every moment; as Mediator of the Covenant He fits you for heaven. Let his Spirit breathe the law of life within you, and make the covenant a reality in your lives.

I am afraid we think too exclusively of Jesus as an outward Saviour. We think of Aaron, and then multiply his work. My Lord Jesus is in the inconceivable glory, but by his Divine grace He is the Mediator of the Covenant. I could not go into his presence, but by the Holy Ghost He does his precious work and fits me, poor sinful child of the dust, to walk with God, and enjoy fellowship with Him—to dwell near to God and in the love of God. These words are too high and wonderful for us to understand in their fulness, but we use them all the same.

What is this all to end in, what is the object of all this? Is it that we may be very happy and holy? No. These are but

MEANS TO AN END.

It is that we may realise fellowship with God. Remember that when God made Aaron priest, his life carried the blessing, for he and his sons were all in the priesthood. Do you think that the life of Christ carries less high priesthood than that of Aaron? No. Therefore, we are told, how deep is the meaning of the priesthood of Melchizedek, who never dies, but lives in the power of an interminable life. In Heb. v. we read that Jesus did not exalt

Himself to be high priest, but He that said unto Him, "Thou art my Son; to-day have I begotten Thee." Hence the priesthood of Christ rests in his Sonship. That is the very root of the glory of priesthood. That means that when we are made partakers of Christ, we do not merely get a pardon outside, but a renewal of the Holy Ghost within us. He gives us his own life.

If we understand that we have the life of the Holy Spirit in us, that brings a very solemn thought: Why have you come to Mildmay, to listen to what is said about the priesthood of Jesus? Is it to know better how you can enter into the holiest and dwell there in the full light of God's love? Then you have never understood what priesthood means. It means self-sacrifice, even unto death, for God. That was the spirit of Jesus, and that is the spirit that Jesus wishes to breathe into every heart that wants to give itself up. "He, through the Eternal Spirit, offered Himself without spot to God"; and when I receive of that Eternal Spirit, the priesthood of Jesus becomes a reality to me. And what is the work? To go into the holiest as an intercessor. Ah! the need there is for Christians getting more definite training from Christ in the work of intercession! You who have command of your own time, have you ever thought that Jesus, in heaven spends his time in unceasing intercession? He ever liveth to intercede. And if this day afresh you claim the priesthood, then claim also this spirit of intercession, and pray for the perishing world around, for Christ's feeble, sickly Church, for God's servants in Christendom and heathendom. Learn that you are united with the High Priest, who has given you a priestly heart in order that intercession may unceasingly flow therefrom. "And He shall come out and bless the people." So Christ intercedes above and sends the blessing down. There is a place for us with Him and beside Him.

Bible Reading.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER.

In pursuance of the general subject for Tuesday, namely, "Our Lord Jesus Christ, the burden and fulfilment of the Prophetic Word," Mr. Meyer addressed an afternoon gathering in the Great Hall. Referring to Rev. v., wherein the Lamb prevails to open the sealed book, the speaker offered the passage as an illustration of the way in which our blessed Lord breaks the seals of the Old Testament to his disciples by the Holy Ghost. Every book and chapter of the Bible converges upon Jesus Christ. In the Old Testament, He is latent; in the New—separated from the Old by a lapse of 400 years—He is patent. In the Old Testament, the reference to Christ is implicit; in the New, it is explicit. In the Old Testament, we have foresight; in the New, insight as regards Christ. The one Testament is prophetic, the other historic. There are no less than three hundred and thirty-three predictions and references of the Old Testament alluded to in the New. Study of the Old Testament will be futile indeed unless we find our Lord in every veiled type, symbol, history, and character, as well as in the direct words of prediction.

Of 22 verses in Peter's sermon (Acts ii.), eleven are Scriptural quotations, a proportion which would probably meet with objection on the part of present-day hearers. Still, it is worthy of notice that a discourse used by the Holy Ghost in the conversion of thousands, was largely a mosaic of Scripture, and to the absence of this characteristic in modern sermons their uselessness is probably largely due. Mr. Meyer proceeded to trace similar abundant use of Old Testament quotation and reference, in Acts iii. 18, 21, 22, 24, 25; iv. 11, 25; vii.; x.; in some eight verses of Paul's first recorded sermon in Acts xiii.; also in xvii. 3, xviii. 28, xxvi. 27, and xxviii. 23.

The lesson of these things is, first, that in our own reading of the Old Testament we search for Christ; next, that in dealing with young folk troubled by modern doubt we show them that the Bible is its own best witness by wonderful correspondence between the prophecy of the Old and the portraiture of the New Testament in the numerous instances which must be multiplied into one another ere we can have an adequate conception of the immense wealth, volume, and might of Old Testament reference.

The field of such quotation was so vast that Mr. Meyer found himself compelled to limit the present view to a handful of Old Testament paradoxes. In explaining the nature of a paradox, he instanced the apparent contradiction that, on the one hand, men are saved solely by the grace of God, but that, on the other side, it is necessary for every soul to act for itself in fleeing to Christ as a refuge for condemnation—two statements which will probably be fully harmonised only by some deeper truth which is at present veiled from mortal sight. In the same way there were a number of apparently contradictory Old Testament statements which awaited the advent of Jesus Christ, in the fulness of time, to harmonise them.

Prediction, type, history, each has its paradoxes. In regard to the first we may contrast Psalms xxii. and xlv. Could a Jew do aught else than wonder how the two Psalms were true of the same Messiah? Then take the cluster of apparent contradictions in Isa. liii. Therein the Messiah is cut off, yet prolongs his days; He is as a root out of a dry ground, yet He sees his seed; He makes his grave with the wicked, yet divides a portion with the great; He is numbered with the transgressors, yet makes intercession for them; He pours out his soul unto death, yet the pleasure of the Lord prospers in his hand. Small wonder that the Jews have invented two Messiahs in order to satisfy that wonderful chapter.

In regard to paradox of type, Christ is represented in the pigeon killed over running water, and in the one which winged its way as a picture of resurrection; in the slain goat and in the one sent into the wilderness; in the victim and in the sacrificing priest. This is but a passing touch on a vast subject.

As to paradox in history, Christ is seen in Elijah's sweeping ascension, and in Elisha's milder ministry; in David the great conqueror, and in Solomon the man of peace; in Moses the lawgiver, Aaron the priest, and Joshua the forerunner; in Adam and in Abel; in Noah and in the ark; in the man who led the people into the promised land, and in that land itself.

Beneath all these paradoxes, of which the Old Testament is so full, we must implicitly find our Blessed Lord as the only nexus between what seems contradictory. Is not this true of all the perplexities and anxieties of our life? Underneath all is the one loving purpose of God concerning us, in Jesus Christ our Savour.

As Jesus underlaid the Old Testament it was necessary for those who lived immediately after his death by faith to extract from those writings the grace and truth which centred in Him; just as it is incumbent upon us who know that He underlies the New Testament, by faith to derive all the spiritual blessing which awaits us therein. The Corinthian Christians were regarded by Paul as his commendatory letters, because upon their hearts the Spirit had engraved the character of Jesus. In 2 Cor. iii. he compares the Jew upon whose heart the veil had fallen from Moses's face, with those whom he addressed, and of whom he was jealous lest the same veil might hide from them the glory of the Lord. The Old Testament did not profit the Jew because it was as a veiled mirror; but "we all, with unveiled face reflecting the glory of the Lord, are transformed into the same image."

Perhaps Jesus Christ has not profited some of us. Is there any veil upon our faces? Has there ever been in your lives a rending of the veil between the spirit and the soul, so that your individuality has been overshadowed and penetrated by the light and glow of the Holy Ghost? Has there ever been a moment in your existence when there has been the rending in twain of some prejudice, uncharity, or inconsistency, in heart or life? Pray that whatever comes between you and the perfect vision of Christ may be rent so that you see eye to eye with God.

There must be also the constant reception of the Holy Ghost who wrote the word, and who alone can reveal Jesus to the soul. Have you ever definitely received the Holy Ghost into your life as a spirit of revelation?

Lastly, in order to appreciate Christ in the Old or in the New Testament, there must be reflection. People go away from conventions and conferences with full notebooks; but it does not follow that, having secured the words of the speaker, they have the truth to which he gives utterance. We have only as much truth as we are obeying and living. Blessed are those who do. If you really wish to find Jesus in the Bible, you must live Him in daily life. When you see some sweet trait of Christ's character in the Word, ask that, by the grace of the Spirit, you may reflect it among men. Transfiguration comes not only to the man who, with rapt vision, beholds the glory of God in Christ Jesus; but to him who, day by day, tries to translate the character of Jesus into his daily life, to repeat Jesus in thought, word, and deed. Be a Bible yourself, and you will understand the Bible. Thus shall we find the whole Book, to be like the cloth of gold, the garment of our King.

AFTERNOON GATHERINGS.

CONTINENTAL EVANGELISATION.

The Foreign Evangelisation Society held a meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the South Tent, Mr. Donald Matheson presiding.

Pastor Julius Rohrbach spoke of Germany as Protestant, but largely cold and formal, although here and there true servants of God are bearing faithful witness. His own work in Berlin, commencing at Moabit, had spread out to Charlottenburg and Potsdam, the imperial suburb. God has been pleased to bless the Mission in a very marked degree, both the indoor meetings in the halls, and the testimony borne in some beautiful woods whither large numbers of holiday makers resort. The whole account showed that in Germany, as in our land, God is ready to own and bless the faithful setting forth of his Gospel.

Mr. C. Faithfull came next, referring to the call which he felt to be of God to leave Marseilles for Madrid. This, however, left the Seamen's Rest at Marseilles without a leader, and he was earnestly waiting on God that He would be pleased to raise up and send forth a suitable and right-minded worker.

Miss Grant Brown followed with a modest but moving account of pioneer service in Corsica (where, it appeared, she is known as La Papiette, "the little Pope"). Great as the difficulties have been, souls have been saved; and our sister showed copies of La Corse Libre, the first Protestant paper in the island, now being issued by the converted Corsicans. These are greatly hated and much persecuted; surely many will pray for them, and for poor dark Corsica.

Lord Radstock spoke of the distinct backward feeling toward God to be observed in France and other continental lands; not exactly faith, but a willingness to hear of God. He quoted Pasteur Monod as bearing strong testimony to this fact. He also urged the importance of effort for the thousands of Spaniards working in Pau and other French towns near the frontier. These, while away from the influence of their own priests, are open to listen. Some ladies have already done useful work among them, but more are needed. All over the Continent, but especially perhaps in France, there are openings for quiet, faithful workers to go and settle down and labour in the towns and village. Such might meet with some opposition; but they would certainly find many ready to hear the Gospel.

Mr. Webber, of Cannes, spoke of the work of the McAll Mission, and told of Anarchists and others won to the Saviour by its means. Rev. J. D. Kilburn added a few words on personal testimony while travelling abroad; much more might be done in this way were the Lord's people fully awake to their opportunities. Rev. Horace Noel closed with a brief account of the Foreign Evangelisation Society, of which he is secretary, and of its work in aiding and cheering scattered labourers for Christ on the Continent.

MEDICAL MISSIONS.

The following hour, in the same tent, was devoted to Medical Missions at home and abroad. Dr. J. L. Maxwell presided, and opened with a few words on the scriptural basis of Medical Missions, and our Lord's example and precept in healing the sick and preaching the Gospel.

Dr. Harford Battersby urged that medical missionaries should be fully qualified, seeing they are cast on their own resources in foreign lands. At the same time he himself is now responsible for the Livingstone College, whose aim is to give ordinary missionaries some knowledge of medicine, sufficient, at least, to enable them to take care of their own health. This college was described in our last issue, and is well-known to our readers.

Dr. Gauld then spoke of Mildmay Medical Missions, and of the Bethnal Green Hospital in particular. For this work in a very poor district he claimed special prayer and sympathy. After dwelling on some spiritual results, he confessed that he had been much struck lately by the marked way in which the quiet ministry and testimony of the nurses had been used of God to win souls. The convalescent home at Highgate (supported by Lord and Lady Tankerville) has also been the means of the conversion of not a few.

Dr. Paterson, of Hebron, gave some account of work and witness in that ancient but remarkably bigoted Moslem town. Were it not for faith in God the workers might retire in despair, but it is marvellous to note how the medical ministry has been used to gain a hearing and open doors in unexpected ways.

Dr. Mather, of Tanganyika, told of medical work in Central Africa, and showed how Dr. Laws and others had won their way by means of the healing art. He held that God has great things in store for the poor benighted tribes of Central Africa.

Dr. Piper, who is shortly going to Aleppo, concluded the proceedings with a brief narration of what he has seen of the Lord's work in Walworth, where, among poor and indifferent, the medical missionary has been able to do a fruitful work.

The combined testimony of these various medical missionaries afforded gratifying evidence that God is greatly using this double ministry in spreading a knowledge of the Gospel.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

This is always a deeply interesting occasion. In recent years there have been heard at it the voices of well-known workers among the heathen who are now at rest from their labours. This year the numbers attending the meeting were scarcely up to the normal mark, owing, no doubt, to the fact that at the same hour Rev. Andrew Murray was giving a Bible reading in the large hall.

The meeting, which was held on Wednesday afternoon in Room No. 4, was presided over by Mr. J. E. Mathieson. He referred to the growing disproportion of heathen populations as compared with professing Christians. In 1810 the excess of heathen was 276 millions; in 1890 it was 500 millions. During the last century, three millions of people have been converted to Christ. What is the moral that we derive from this awfully black condition of things? Surely it is a greater urgency, and a greater haste in the work of missions. We are to "go out quickly" and gather in the lost, that the number of Christ's Church may be completed and his return hastened. Then shall all the nations be blessed.

PERSIA.

The first missionary to speak was Rev. C. H. Stileman, who represented work in Persia. He came, he said, from an interesting land, the land of Daniel, of Cyrus, of Esther, of Mordecai. They have not always been such dark lands as they are to-day. In the third century there was a strong flourishing Christian Church in Persia. At the Pentecost we read of the presence of Parthians, Medes, Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesopotamia—representing the four divisions of modern Persia. These men, we may be sure, went back to spread in their own lands the knowledge of the glorious Gospel. Persecutions arose early in the history of the Persian Church, and it is stated that more than 16,000, including many of the pastors, suffered death during these persecutions. Then came the Mohammedan conquest which barred the door against the entrance of the Word of God. It was not till 1811 that any one went to give the Persians the Scriptures; Henry Martyn lived there for a year, and translated the whole of the New Testament into the Persian language. It is a dark blot on the Church of Christ that no one has yet gone to the place where he lived and worked as a resident missionary for Jesus Christ, yet the door is open now as never before during the last twelve centuries. Others have followed Martyn in the work of Bible translation. Only last month the whole of the Persian Bible in its revised form passed through the press. Remember that Persia is three times the size of France. God has wonderfully opened the doors of that land to the Gospel, and when He opens no man can shut—neither Mohammedan Governments nor any other Power. Some half a century ago a new prophet arose in Persia, claiming to be the only true representative of God. Many Mohammedans were dissatisfied with their own religion, and they gathered round this prophet, who has to-day 800,000 followers, notwithstanding Government persecutions and imprisonment. The chief difference between the orthodox Mohammedans and the new sect is, that while the former say the Bible is not reliable, the latter admit the New Testament to be the Word of God. Most of them believe that Jesus Christ has come again in the person of their prophet. There is much in the new teaching that is sad, but it has opened the door to the Gospel as nothing else has done. The whole nation is dissatisfied with Mohammedanism, and many have accepted the truth as it is in Jesus. Bible circulation is almost doubling every year. The country is open to the itinerant missionary, and the great need is for men to take up the work. As yet, in connection with the C.M.S. there is only one such itinerating mission in the whole of that vast empire. Thank God for the work of the American Presbyterians. They are working mostly on Turkish frontier, and the whole of Central and Southern Persia is virtually in darkness. Then beyond the boundaries of Persia we have to look away 500 miles one way, 900 miles another way, and 1000 miles in a third direction before we come to a single Christian missionary. Let the Church of Christ awake to these solemn facts.

CHINA.

This great mission field found an earnest advocate in Mr. Orr-Ewing, who recently returned from work in the province of Kiang-si. He asked special prayer for those missionaries in different parts of China who are in peril. One hardly knows the real truth about the recent troubles in the Empire, as it is believed the Chinese officials are withholding information. God has protected his workers there in the past in a wonderful way. There are now in connection with the China Inland Mission some 600 missionaries, and not a single life has been lost out of all these. Referring to the work in Kiang-si, Mr. Orr-Ewing said that the authorities often seek to hinder the work by persecuting the native Christians. Notwithstanding all hindrances, the work has never been so prosperous as now. The native Christians are becoming more desirous that their fellow-countrymen should have the Gospel. They are very real in their devotion to Christ and are ready to suffer for his sake. Many are coming forward for baptism and thus openly confess Christ before their friends. The needs of the work are tremendous; would that God would lay on all hearts the claims of vast China and its perishing millions. Those who sacrifice home comforts and possessions for the Gospel's sake will assuredly receive a hundredfold blessing in this life and in the world to come life eternal.

Miss Gollock, who has lately had a tour of visitation among missions in India, gave a very solemnising and stirring address, directing attention to Acts xvi. 9, the cry of the unreached; Luke v. 7, the cry for help that comes from the unaided; and Isa. vi. 8, the call of God Himself. This three-fold call to the white harvest fields of the world was emphasised by Miss Gollock's own observations of the pressing needs of the work in India. Her words were an impressive conclusion to a very stimulating occasion.

THE Y.W.C.A.

A meeting in the interests of this Association was held on Wednesday afternoon in the tent, Mrs. J. H. Tritton presiding. Hon. Mrs. Waller enlarged on the needs of the foreign work, especially in India, where there are so many young English women and Eurasians for whose spiritual welfare little is done through the usual missionary channels.

A number of brief but interesting addresses followed from workers abroad. A lady told of the needs of Gibraltar, and of work among Spanish girls. She appealed for consecrated workers to live among and influence for good the English girls resident on the Rock. Mrs. Unite feelingly pleaded the claims of Spain; Miss Gollock had some telling things to say about the condition of Eurasian girls in India; Rev. C. Faithfull represented Madrid, where he is soon to settle for Gospel work. Miss Cox, of Milan, was very earnest and emphatic about the necessities of the work in Italy; Sister Lucy outstripped all previous speakers in her pathetic urgency as to the claims of Ceylon, where she labours; and a young lady from Cashmere referred to the openings and opportunities in that part of our great Indian Empire.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

A meeting in the interests of the work of this Society was held on Thursday in the tent. Colonel R. Wilmot Brooke occupied the chair. Regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence of Captain James Kearney White, secretary of the Society.

After some cordial words of testimony from the chairman an address was given by Rev. Dr. Spence, of St. Mary's, Belfast. Dr. Spence stated the needs of the Society, and the undoubted good work, under God's blessing, it was enabled to do. Though delighted to attend the Conference, nothing would have taken him from pressing duties in his own parish except the desire to speak in praise of the splendid work of the Society, and to express his personal gratitude for all that it had done both in his present and late parishes. The father of their chairman and some other gentlemen were the means, under God's blessing, of forming the Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland. These earnest men had been struck with the density of the moral and spiritual ignorance and superstition of the people in the South and West of Ireland. The outcome was the formation of their Society. Humble Christian men, well versed in the Scriptures, visited the people from house to house, reading the Bible. The Readers were invariably placed under carefully-selected, Christian superintendents. Itinerant Readers also were sent at certain periods throughout Ireland, the work being carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy. The work was extended to all denominations throughout Ireland, and not exclusively directed to the Roman Catholic population, or to the needs of any other particular denomination. The work was, to all intents and purposes, a spiritual one. The men were chosen because they were believed to be men of God, and day by day they looked for a spiritual harvest. They were attached to no sect, but in the Master's name they went forth to read and distribute freely the everlasting Truth to Roman Catholic, Protestant, infidel, indeed anyone with whom they were brought in contact. The speaker went on with much earnestness to speak of the darkness of the people, and gave several incidents testifying to the blessed influence of the organisation. There was a large class in Ireland ready and receptive for the work of the evangelist—no country more so. He pleaded with those present for their prayers, sympathy, and material offerings on behalf of the society.

Mr. R. C. Morgan said that when staying with Captain Kearney White he had heard the Scripture-readers tell their interesting story at his house in Dublin, as well as in the island of Achill and elsewhere. They were real ministers of Jesus Christ. He would not term them laymen, for he believed they were ordained men ordained by the Holy Ghost for the labours they were doing. He very cordially recommended the Society to the prayerful and loving attention of all.

Col. Morton alluded in high terms to the character of the Irish people, and said the English people owed a debt of gratitude to the Irish. Those who loved the Lord Jesus Christ ought to be the first to repay by love the cruelty inflicted on the Irish by former generations of English people. General Hatt-Noble heartily endorsed all that the previous speakers had said in regard to the splendid work of the Society.

SOUTH AMERICA.

On the last day of the Conference, a meeting was held in the tent on behalf of South America Mission fields. The chair was taken by Mr. Wm. Barnett, for many years a resident in South America, and who has recently returned from Rosario, Argentine Republic. In a few opening remarks the chairman made mention of a school and mission work under his care, which is carried on among poor people at some distance from the city of Rosario. He also read paragraghs from a letter received from Mr. Torre, Buenos Ayres, telling of the founding and progress of an orphanage work at Quilmes, the first of its kind in the country. He earnestly urged upon all the need of sympathy and prayer for hitherto almost-forgotten South America.

Mr. Wm. C. Morris, of the Boca Mission Hall and schools, said that, although South America is nominally Christian, the pretended Christianity of these lands is the cruelest travesty which Romanism has ever practised. The social corruption, immorality, and infidelity which everywhere prevail are the inevitable results of the awful system which strangles the conscience and crushes the vitality of the soul. Many of the educated and thoughtful are turning in deep disgust from this Church, declaring that if this be Christianity they will have none of it. The present is the most opportune time for urging forward all evangelistic work. Romanism still prevents the entrance of the colporteur and the missionary to the Republic of Ecuador; this country is, therefore, about the only country quite closed to the Gospel. Interesting details of the Boca Mission work were given by the speaker.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. Edward Matthews, of the British and Foreign Sailors' Society.

UNDER THE MULBERRY TREE.

This first meeting, under the historic tree, on Tuesday afternoon, was for University students, and was presided over by Mr. EUGENE STOCK. Hon. and Rev. TALBOT RICE gave a bright, cheery, interesting, and fresh address from Hebrews xiii. 20, 21. It was noticeable that there were more ladies present than students. Rev E. J. KENNEDY followed, speaking from the words, "We love Him because He first loved us" (1 John iv. 19). By anecdote, incident, and illustration the truth was enforced.

CAMPS FOR SCHOOL BOYS.

Major SETON CHURCHILL and others interested a goodly company with some account of what university undergraduates are doing for God by bringing Christian influence to bear upon the boys of our great public schools, while encamped by the sea and elsewhere for holidays, the novelty of which constitutes a great charm for the lads. The importance of such intercourse is great in its bearing upon the future of those who are being educated to fill influential positions. The idea originated at Cambridge, three years ago, and the growing popularity of the movement with those for whose benefit it is designed, has increased the camps from one to four, with an accommodation for 308 youngsters last year, of whom it is said that 75 per cent. were converted to Christ. Many letters have been received from parents and others, and from some of the boys themselves, testifying to spiritual blessing, which, in some instances, has extended to persons who have no immediate connection with life in the camps. Communication is kept up with boys who, attracted to the camps by the delights of boating, bathing, fishing, sailing, cricket, etc., have also there learned to love the Saviour. The work is self-supporting.

Major LIEBENROOD said he had been forcibly impressed with the hopefulness of such work when compared with testifyings for Christ among the aged in workhouses. While the camps were much on Church of England lines, there was nothing "churchy" about them. Experience showed that the boys were able to stand for Christ on their return from camp to school. He hoped for a great increase of such blessed work, and invited all who wish for further details to communicate with Major Seton Churchill, White Hall, Lichfield.

Colonel MORTON, who, like the previous speaker, had been in charge of one camp, added some interesting reminiscences, and quoted from the letter of a parent, who wrote:—"What a wonderful influence you seem to have had upon my boy. I see I have been living a false life, but now I choose the true one." In his own camp, out of 44 boys, 38 stood up in a meeting to confess Christ.

Mr. TALBOT RICE mentioned that the camps are worked in connection with the Inter-Collegiate Unions of Oxford and Cambridge, which are undenominational; also that a properly-qualified doctor is attached to each camp.

Immediately following came some words from Mr. GRAYDEN EDMUNDS concerning the STUDENT VOLUNTEER MISSIONARY UNION,

from which it appeared the organisation took its rise in a tour undertaken by "the Cambridge seven" in 1884-5, previous to their departure for China. The effects of the visit of Stanley Smith and his brethren to Edinburgh spread to the Universities, and even to America, and took organic form at Mr. Moody's school in 1886. Then began a forward movement for God among the universities and colleges of America, having a reflex action upon England's colleges. The movement had grown consistently since, in 1892, the representatives of eight colleges came together in Edinburgh to consolidate this missionary revival. There are now nearly 1000 men on the roll, who purpose camping together at Keswick. A travelling secretary goes from college to college to foster the missionary spirit; while a magazine devoted to the movement, affords information and guidance. It is proposed to hold a Missionary Conference in Liverpool in April, 1896, for which much prayer is desired.

Mr. TALBOT RICE gave expression to the conviction that there was ample scope for an extension of the movement among the 40,000 students of our country, and he thought it was calculated to have a tremendous reflex influence upon home missions.

"Work among the young" was the subject on the programme for Wednesday. Among the speakers were Mr. Kirk, of the Ragged School Union, Mr. Orsman, Dr. James Spurgeon, and Mr. N. Jones, of the Sunday School Union. This meeting was greatly helped by the sweet singing of a choir of boys from Stockwell Orphanage, under Rev. Vernon Charlesworth. The last speaker was Rev. W. J. MAYERS, who spoke on behalf of Dr. Barnardo, whose absence through ill-health was lamented by all.

A goodly company assembled under the tree for the closing afternoon, when evangelistic addresses were to be given. The speakers were Mr. W. R. Lane, Mr. Charles Inglis, Ned Wright, Mr. J. E. Taylor, Mr. Chas. Cook, and Rev. G. H. C. Macgregor.

TEN YEARS' WORK IN MALAYSIA.

THE Malaysia Mission of the Methodist Episcopal Church has been in existence only ten years, but it has already been granted remarkable success, and its growth has been very rapid. When Bishop Thoburn brought Rev. W. F. Oldham to Singapore from the Bengal Conference in February, 1885, he brought no salary with him. Self-support and trust in God were the watchwords of the Mission from the first, and this perhaps is the secret of its success. After holding a series of meetings in the Town Hall, and organising a church of about ten members from those who were thus gathered in, the Bishop sailed again for India, and left Singapore's first Methodist preacher without any visible means of subsistence. But Dr. Oldham was not the man to let the grass grow under his feet. His whole training having been for educational work, he at once began to support himself by teaching, and he shortly opened a school, which has had a wonderful development, and is said to be now the

LARGEST MISSION SCHOOL IN THE FAR EAST,

the average daily attendance being over 500.

For the first few years the whole life of the Mission centred around this school. The scholars were mainly from the well-to-do class of "Straits-born" Chinese, and it was through the liberality of the parents and other patrons of the school that the first school-house was built, in which the missionaries and boarding-school boys and one or two teachers all lived under one roof. At the beginning of 1888, three years after the arrival of Dr. Oldham, the school was paying the salaries of two additional married missionaries, who had just arrived on the field. These new workers taught in the school all day, and studied the native languages as best they could in their spare time. The spiritual work among the English-speaking population of Singapore had in the meanwhile been granted such success that there was a fully-organised church, prepared to support its own pastor, and a minister was sent out from America in the following year for this congregation, which to the present time continues to support a pastor.

During the first four years little or no direct evangelistic work was done among the natives, and it was not until 1890 that statistics were published for the first time. There were then only ten natives connected with the Mission, all of whom were Tamils—natives of South India. In that year, however, fruit began to appear from the work of our medical missionary, Dr. West, among the labouring class of Chinese, which he had been carrying on for the past twelve months; and in the following year thirty-one adult Chinamen were recorded as members of our church. This work among the Chinese coolies at Singapore has been wonderfully blessed, and the increase in membership has been rapid, being recorded as follows in successive years: 31, 46, 63, 147, and this year 182. And this in spite of the fact that our members are leaving us in great numbers every year to return to China, no less than sixty-three having left us in that way during the past year. The total membership of the Malaysia Mission is now 413, of which number about 100 are Europeans and Eurasians, about eighty are Tamils, thirty-one are Malays and Malay-speaking Chinese, and nearly all of the remaining 200 are of the labouring class of Chinamen.

Five years ago the mission consisted of little else than the Anglo Chinese School at Singapore and the English-speaking congregation, with a membership of about eighty persons. At that time one lady missionary and four male missionaries, two of whom were married, were working at Singapore, but only one of these could then preach in a native language; only one native preacher was employed, and the native church numbered ten; no attempt had been made to extend the work beyond the town of Singapore; there were four day schools at which 510 scholars were enrolled, but there was only one Sunday-school with an enrolment of about 100 scholars.

Note carefully the change that has taken place in the brief period of five years. The staff of the Mission now consists of three lady missionaries, (deaconesses), ten wives of missionaries, and fifteen male missionaries who are members of Conference; and out of these twenty-eight workers at least sixteen are already sufficiently acquainted with one or more of the native languages to preach and do other direct evangelistic work among the natives. There are now five native preachers regularly employed, and two or three natives are studying for the ministry. Two new mission stations have been opened during the five years, namely. Penang, where three married missionaries are now at work, and Ipoh, in the native state of Perak, where one married missionary is stationed; two other stations in the vicinity of Penang will be opened during the year if possible. No less than sixteen day schools are now reported, and the number of scholars has increased from 510 to 1668. The number of Sunday schools has increased with even greater rapidity, fifteen new schools having been added to the one existing five years ago, and the number of Sunday-school scholars has increased from 100 to 556.

But even this record does not represent all the progress that has been made: land and houses have been purchased, additional buildings have been rented, and new institutions have sprung into existence, and developed with startling rapidity. The Mission press, established four years ago, now employs about twenty hands, and turns out some

TWO MILLION PRINTED PAGES ANNUALLY.

It is entirely self-supporting, and there is now in connection with the press, a book room for the sale of religious and school books. The Deaconess Home, which came into existence about the same time as the press, is a wonderful centre of Christian influence; twenty-nine native girls have been boarded at the Home during the year, but those who know anything of Deaconess' work will understand that this represents but a very small proportion of the good work which is being done by the ladies who make the Home their headquarters.

The boys' orphanage is a similar institution for the young people of the opposite sex. It was commenced two years ago, and twenty-three boys are now accommodated, their parents or guardians paying about half the current expenses of the Orphanage. The Soldiers' Home has also been in existence for two years. It is doing a most successful work, and, being supported by local contributions, is in no way chargeable to the Mission funds. Among the new schools which have sprung up, special mention should be made of the Anglo-Chinese School at Penang, which was begun in a very humble way just four years ago. It is now one of the chief schools of Penang, and the attendance is over 300. Lastly, we must not forget to mention that the Mission publishes a monthly organ, The Malaysia Message, which is the only religious journal in the English language devoted to the interests of Malaysia.

If our work is to continue to spread during the next few years, as we trust it will, all over the Malay Peninsula and neighbouring islands, we must look for special contributions towards those special developments of the work which the rapidity of our growth makes it impossible for our missionary society to meet. And in the evangelisation of these British colonies, deserted in the middle of the century by the L.M.S., and so long neglected by the missionary societies of this country, to whom could we more naturally look for assistance than to the Christian people of England? Already we have had some tokens that the Lord has moved a few of his people to interest themselves in Malaysia, and we pray that many more of those who cannot come over and help us will at least give us their practical sympathy and financial support.

W. G. SHELLABEAR,
Missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
Ashley House, Gosport.

NOTES ON DAILY READINGS.

SUNDAY, JULY 14.—REV. XIV.

The Lamb and His Followers (1-5).—Oh, glorious spectacle! The Lamb and his saints with Him. On their foreheads the imprint of his character, on their lips the song of heaven, learnt from heaven itself. Bought to be Christ's; the bodyguard of the Saviour; the first-fruit sheaf of the harvest of the redeemed. Purity is even better than innocence, and there is no reason why, according to our measure, we should not resemble them in their characteristics. By the power of the Holy Ghost, let us all resolve to live that life!

The Three Angels and their Message (6-13).—First, an eternal Gospel (R.V.). The message of God's love in Christ will never grow old; it is for all the world; and it brings men to the true worship of the Creator. Second, the fall of Babylon. Third, the punishment of the followers of the Beast. These symbols stand for realities which may well excite the dread of those who are not identified with Christ's Gospel lest they should come into this place of torment. Notice the definition of God's saints (12), and their reward (13), especially as affirmed by the Holy Ghost, by that emphatic "Yea." The Spirit of God always affirms the voice from heaven.

Harvest and Vintage (14-20).—Surely the first picture refers to the ingathering of the saints like sheafs of precious corn borne to the barn, whilst the second foreshadows the awful lot of the ungodly. It is interesting to remark the ministry of angels fulfilling the punitive and beneficent purposes of God; they obey, hearkening unto his voice, and their ministries enable us to understand the universal prevalence of God's helpfulness for his saints.

MONDAY, JULY 15.—REV. XV.

The Glassy Sea (1-4).—Before considering the judgments of the following chapter our attention is directed to the victors, in imagery borrowed from the triumph of the Red Sea. The placidity of that ocean, saturated with the light of the morning sun, must have suggested the idea of a glassy sea mingled with fire. How true our Lord's words, "After that there is no more that he can do." Satan may pursue us with persecution to the very borderland, but he cannot follow beyond. As the morning of eternity breaks, the saints will see the forms of their foes stretched upon the shore. All dispensations will meet there in one common joy. The wonder of God's works and the rightness of his ways will then become apparent. He will be esteemed as He deserves, and the mists that obscure his character and ways will be dissipated. How certainly those who are now perplexed at the ways of God will be compelled to admit them to be right and true! It will be a great day when God explains to the individual and the mass the reasons which have actuated Him in many a strange providence. Judge nothing before the time.

The Seven Last Plagues (5-8).—We see here how absolutely necessary for the right ordering and stability of the universe it is that evil should be judged. We speak about the love of God, forgetting how stern and strong love may be. Let us beware lest we be froward, and experience the froward side of God's love. Let us kiss the Son, ere He be angry, and his wrath is kindled against us. Fly from God, to God.

TUESDAY, JULY 16.—REV. XVI.

The Seven Vials (1-21).—We gladly note the adoring admissions of the angels and saints that what is done is consistent with the righteousness and truth of God. It is only when from the land of light and glory we shall understand what sin is, what it has involved, that we shall be able to join in that music. In the meanwhile, by our faith, we may dare to say, "Yea, O Lord God!" (13) These evil spirits may already be at work in literature and society, leading up to the outbreak of wickedness with which this age shall close. It becomes us to watch and pray, to walk with unspotted robes, to abide in Christ, that we may not be taken unawares at his appearance. (17) The judgment of Babylon, whether it stand for the Papacy, or for any other combination of man against the truth of God, is sure. Evil, since the days of Babel, has formed itself into confederacies, Babel, Babylon, Babylon the Great. But as the two former have perished, so shall the latter. The injustice and cruelty of the tyrant and the priest shall yet be requited, and the vast erections of human pride shall crumble before the overflowing waters of Divine destruction. It is necessary to come out of Babylon to become a citizen of the New Jerusalem! Only so can we be saved from the overthrow of the wicked. Day by day the clarion summons rings out, "Come out and be separate, and I will receive you."

WEDNESDAY, JULY 17.—REV. XVII.

The Judgment of Babylon (1-18).—All Protestant commentators hold this to be papal Rome. The courtesan is contrasted with the bride, Babylon with Jerusalem, the Beast with Christ. The mingling of the spiritual with temporal power, the seven heads of cunning, the ten horns of strength, the gorgeous decking, the impurity, the intoxication with the blood of martyrs, all tally significantly with what we know of Roman Catholicism. (8) If our name is in that book, there will be no fascination in the meretricious attractions of Babylon. Mark the age of that book, older than the foundations of the universe. God knew his children before He built a home for them, they alone have life through the death of the Lamb, who keeps that record. (14) If you are one with Christ you share his victories. Mark the threefold appellation, and let us seek to deserve it—called, chosen, faithful. (17) It is thought by many that these kings refer to the nations of Europe who are slowly being evolved amid the political combinations of the present day. This gives an interest to our daily newspaper. We open it, morning by morning, to see how events are leading up to the final manifestation of Messiah's kingdom; though, thank God, our entrance into blessedness does not depend on the completion of any political organisation. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, the Lord will summon his saints to the bridal feast, and they will be caught up to meet Him in the air, and be for ever with Him.

THURSDAY, JULY 18.—REV. XVIII.

The Desolation of Babylon (1-24).—God's great angels still go about the world doing his behest, whether to destroy Babylon, or to minister to those who shall be heirs of the Kingdom. (3) Whatever Babylon stands for, the spirit of worldliness, or the great Roman Catholic system, we must come forth from it. But whilst we carefully guard against outward complicity with the evils around us, let us watch and pray that our hearts may never become the habitation of demons, and the hold of unclean spirits and foul birds. (8) The city seems to indicate a great mart of commerce, doing business with all the world, bringing great revenues to merchants, who purvey goods for her consumption from all countries. In a spiritual sense this may be true of the close association between the powers of the world and the influence of the false priests with whom they have been in alliance. More of the nations of Europe than are generally supposed owe their stability to a compact with Rome. (20-24) Let the saints of God possess their souls in patience, their vindication is sure. Their blood cries to God from the earth. He bears long, but He will avenge them. Would that we all would learn the secret of committing our cause to God, not avenging ourselves, not fretting, not answering back, but patiently waiting till the Lord shall arise on our behalf. Let us, in the meanwhile, wear the white robes of stainless purity and innocence.

FRIDAY, JULY 19.—REV. XIX.

The Hallelujahs (1-10)—Yes, we shall hear them, in billows of music, as they roll from the gathered saints to the furthest shores of the universe. Not inspired by vindictiveness or desire of revenge, but with the thought that God has vindicated his saints, and has shown the ultimate supremacy of right over wrong, of good over evil. This is one of the dearest of our anticipations, that we shall see Truth, Righteousness, Purity, supreme. The Almighty shall reign, and beside his throne the saints will gather, elate with joy, flushed with victory. (7) The fall of Babylon will be contemporaneous with the marriage of the Lamb. Before He descends with his saints to the millennial reign, the union of supreme love will have been consummated, and the marriage supper will have been filled with guests. Blessed are they that shall be bidden to it, but thrice blessed they who shall have been included in the Bride. (10) The strong angels are our fellow-servants; let us make more of their loving comradeship. And let us hold and maintain more constantly the testimony of Jesus.

The Last Great Conflict (11-21).—The heaven is always opening to let forth the armies of light. On viewless steeds they ride to the conflict against sin. To them we must attribute all the great victories of right over wrong. The balance of power is not with political parties, but with Christ and his legions. There is, however, one final issuing forth of the celestial hosts, a last charge, led by the Word of God. Then shall be fulfilled the majestic anticipations of Psalm ii. 17. This battle field strewn with slain, is significant of the final overthrow of superstition, error, and idolatry. Many systems of falsehood, such as Roman Catholicism, Mohammedanism, Buddhism, are but incarnations of the evil one, and shall be swept away for ever, like mists before sunrise, like an annihilated army before the onset of victorious hosts.

SATURDAY, JULY 20.—REV. XX.

The Binding of Satan (1-3).—This does not mean the conversion of the world, but that a restraint will be put on the manifestation of the forces of evil. While Satan is shut up in the bottomless pit, he will have opportunity for reflection, but he does not repent.

The Reign of the Saints (4-6).—When Jesus comes in the air, his saints will rise and meet Him, and when He returns to introduce the golden age, they will accompany Him. In fellowship with Christ, they will exercise a holy spiritual influence on men, in the same way as the rulers of the darkness of this world exert a malign one. Oh, blessed day, hasten, fly on the wings of to-morrow morn, break on this world with its weary conflict, and bring in heaven's supremacy.

The Close of the Thousand Years (7-10).—During that blessed period we must not think that everyone will be regenerate, but that the prevalent influences will make for righteousness. Hence, it will be possible for Satan to reassert his influence, assisted by the evil tendencies of the human heart. But God will defend his own, as in the old days, when Sennacherib and his legions encamped against Jerusalem.

The Great White Throne (11-15).—Great because of the causes that shall be laid before it and determined by its decisions; white, because of its awful purity; a throne, because thence the great King will address the assembled universe. The books of remembrance, conscience, Scripture, life, will be opened and read, and the dead will be judged from their contents; but those who are written in the Lamb's book of life shall not come into judgment, but are passed from death unto life.

KINGSDOWN ORPHANAGE.—On Saturday Kingsdown Orphanage attained its majority, the inmates of its three homes—two at Holloway, one at Broadstairs—and many friends celebrating the event by meeting together at a garden party, kindly given by Mr. and Mrs. Rackstraw, in the grounds of their Highgate residence, Copley Dene.

SEAMEN'S CHRISTIAN FRIEND SOCIETY.—On Thursday evening the Christian Harbour Lights, with other seamen from the docks, wharves, and boarding-houses of the East-end, mustered at the Society's headquarters to hear an address by Mrs. W. H. Maynard, of Wimbledon. Other friends spoke. The sailors were much impressed by these speeches, and particularly by Mrs. Hill's remarks upon the subtle advancement of Popery. At the conclusion of a helpful meeting a number of pledges were taken.

THE EVERSFIELD HOSPITAL AND HOME for consumption and diseases of the chest and throat, West Hill-road, St. Leonards-on-Sea, can accommodate fifty-five patients, forty-seven in the general, and eight in the private wards. During last year 230 were admitted, of whom 128 were discharged well, and fifty-six greatly benefited, while ten derived some benefit, and twenty-five were still in the hospital at the end of the year. The report says:—"Patients are received from all parts, irrespective of creed or nationality. The current expenses are met by the payment of the patients, and from subscriptions and donations. Besides the fear of God being upheld in the hospital, there are daily prayers, and every patient well enough to leave the wards is expected to attend the preaching of the Gospel, which has, through the Lord's mercy, been proclaimed in the dining hall every Lord's Day evening. The Lord has owned the services of his people in this work, and many a one has come down for bodily help, and has been turned from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God; and some have passed away to be for ever with the Lord." The income for the year was £1403, of which £1231 was from payments made by patients. The accounts show a deficiency of £94. Particulars as to terms of admission may be had from the secretary at the hospital.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSONS.

JULY 21.

NADAB AND ABIHU.—Lev. x. 1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Verse 9.

THIS incident took place while the people were still encamped before Mount Sinai, and about nine months after the making of the golden calf. In the interval the Tabernacle has been set up, and the priests—the family of Aaron—have been consecrated to their service. The conclusion of the ceremonies connected with their consecration was marked by the descent of fire "from before the Lord" (ix. 24). In this way God testified his acceptance of their offerings, and confirmed their appointment to the priesthood. Then followed the story of failure and sin.

I. A SOLEMN JUDGMENT (1-3).—To realise the scene we need to pass into the Court of the Tabernacle, beyond the brazen altar and the laver, through the first vail into the Holy Place with its Golden Candlestick, its Table of Shewbread, and its Golden Altar of Incense. This altar stood immediately before the second vail, behind which God dwelt in Shekinah glory upon the Mercy Seat. At this altar, in the midst of symbols full of deepest significance, this act of judgment took place.

It fell upon Nadab and Abihu (1), the two eldest sons of Aaron, who had but lately been consecrated to their office, and upon whom the anointing oil had been poured. Their sacred and exalted position did not excuse their sin, but greatly aggravated it. To tolerate any act of disobedience in them would be an encouragement to disobedience in others.

Their sin appears to have been mainly in neglecting one direction in connection with their sacred service. There was nothing wrong about the time and the place of their service, nor about the censers, nor the incense they used, nor about the dress in which they ministered; but instead of taking the fire which God had kindled on the brazen altar, they took common fire, and burned the sacred incense with that. It seems a small matter, yet immediately they attempted to offer it, a flash from the fire that burned within the vail shot forth and devoured them, while leaving their garments unconsumed (5). There is a purpose behind God's minutest direction, and this act of disobedience meant more to Him than we may understand. Since the brazen altar represented atonement, did not the neglect of the fire from that altar imply an attempt to offer worship which had not the atonement for its basis? The sin is repeated by all who seek to worship, while rejecting the work done at the Cross.

Aaron, though sorely stricken with grief, meekly acquiesced in the judgment. "He held his peace" (3). No murmur fell from his lips. He was dumb because the Lord had done it (Psa. xxxix. 9). His silent submission under such a terrible stroke of judgment raises him in our esteem. He never seemed so great a man as here.

II. A FUNERAL (4-7).—Again picture the scene—the entrance of the two relatives into the Holy Place, the removal of the two bodies amid the silent grief of Moses and Aaron, the burial without the camp (5), and the lamentation of the people (6). All must have served to impress the priests and the people with the importance of rendering full obedience to God. To Aaron and his sons the usual expressions of mourning were forbidden (6-7). Their position and service were necessary for the whole assembly. Private grief must not interrupt duties so important, nor be an excuse for further neglect of any of God's commands.

III. A WARNING (9-11).—There is evidently some connection between the sin of Nadab and Abihu and the use of strong drink. One of the Jewish paraphrases reads into verse 9 the words, "as thy sons did who died by the burning fire." And this warning is repeated in Ezek. xliv. 21. An ancient tradition says "that Nadab and Abihu had partaken too freely of the drink offering, and performed their service in a state of intoxication, when they could not distinguish between what was legal and what was illegal."

The prohibition must not be confined to the priests of that dispensation. A clear judgment to distinguish between "the holy and the unholy" (10) and to qualify for teaching others the word of the Lord (11) is needful still. And it is implied that the use of strong drink destroys or perverts the judgment. The New Testament repeats the exhortation in other words (Eph. v. 18).

THE ANNUAL SUMMER SALE for the benefit of the Society for the Assistance of Ladies in Reduced Circumstances will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, July 24 and 25, at the Assembly Rooms, Great Malvern. The secretary, Miss E. Smallwood, The Lees, Great Malvern, writes:—"The Society is much in need of help. There are so many sad cases of long standing that must not be given up. Help will be gladly received."

For the Young.

MISTAKES, AND HOW TO CORRECT THEM.*

Confess your faults one to another.—James v. 16.

EVERYONE makes mistakes, and no one is without faults.

It is far better when we have made a mistake to confess it, than to try to make people believe we have not been in error. When we find we have taken the wrong road and are going out of our way we turn back and get into the right one; and so when we are at fault let us confess it and seek to do what is right and good.

It is a little uncomfortable at times to have to tell ourselves and those about us we have been in the wrong, but it is much the easiest and pleasantest way in the end.

Let me tell you three stories about Queen Victoria when she was a little girl, to show how a princess was not ashamed to confess her faults.

She was once paying a visit to a nobleman, and in walking round the grounds ran on in advance of the royal party.

One of the gardeners told the little princess that the path she was walking on was very "slape."

"Slape, slape!" said she, quickly, "And pray what is 'slape'?"

The man explained that "slape" meant slippery.

But not heeding the warning the little girl went along the path and fell down.

Seeing what had happened the nobleman said to her:—

"Now your royal highness has an explanation of the term 'slape.'"

"Yes, my lord," she replied, "I think I have. I shall never forget the word 'slape.'"

On another occasion Princess Victoria had been advised not to play with a dog which had a bad temper.

But she did play with it all the same, and the animal made a snap at her hand.

The person who had warned her was in a great fright, and ran up asking if she had been bitten, but the princess replied—

"Oh, thank you! thank you! You're right, and I am wrong; but he didn't bite me, he only warned me. I shall be careful in future."

Once the princess rebelled against her music-lesson; she found practising scales so irksome!

But she was told that it was necessary if she would become mistress of the piano.

"What would you think of me if I became mistress at once?" she asked.

"That would be impossible," was the reply; "for there is no royal road to music."

"Oh, there is no royal road to music, eh?" said the little girl. "No royal road, and I am not mistress of my pianoforte? But I will be, I assure you; and the royal road is this"—saying which she shut up the piano, locked it and took the key.

But—I have put this "but" in big type because it is so important—having had her bit of fun she immediately unlocked the piano and went on with her lesson.

There's no royal road to avoiding faults; the only way is to confess them to one another, and to tell them to God, who will forgive all, for Christ's sake, if we are really sorry.

UNCONSCIOUS INFLUENCE.

Then went in also that other disciple.—St. John xx. 8.

PETER and John had run to the tomb where the body of the Lord Jesus had been placed.

John, being the younger man, had outrun Peter, and stooping down, had looked into the sepulchre, and seen to his surprise only the garments which Jesus had worn; yet he went not in.

But when Peter came up and entered the tomb, John followed his example, and he saw and believed.

Let me tell you of one or two instances of those who powerfully influenced others without knowing it.

Once upon a time, nearly two hundred years ago, there lived in America a little boy named David Brainerd. He was rather a peculiar child, as he liked to leave his companions and sit all alone by himself in the woods, thinking about the love of God, and how he could best prepare for the time when the Lord would call him home. It was here he got his first bright thoughts of the risen Christ; and so beautiful were they that he felt he must give up his whole life to serve Jesus.

He was not a strong, hearty youth by any means; and when he was twenty-one years his health entirely gave way, and it was thought he was going to die. But he recovered, and devoted his life to teaching the Indians.

He loved these poor people so much that he left home, friends, comforts, and went to live amongst them.

It was a hard life. He had to walk ten or fifteen miles for his bread, and often it would get mouldy; and then for days together he would be almost starved. The Indians listened to him, but did not pay much attention at first; still he went on teaching, and after a time they came wanting to know about Christ, and asking what they should do to be saved.

But from sleeping in woods, and enduring many hardships, Brainerd's health was ruined, and before he was thirty years old he was called to the home above. Though he had died young, he had done a good work for the Indians, and his influence reached all the way to England and India.

This is how it happened.

Many years after his death there was at Cambridge University a young man named Henry Martyn. He was very clever, and took many honours. He thought at first he would like to be a great lawyer; but when he read of Brainerd's love for the American Indians he resolved that he would give up his ideas of making a name and fortune, and spend his life in telling the story of the love of Jesus.

So, leaving all he loved, he started for India, and was soon busy preaching to the Hindoos.

Sometimes he taught the children, sometimes men and women. He had what we may call an infant school at Cawnpore; the little urchins came to it, well greased with cocoanut oil, or mustard oil, and squatted on the dusty floor at his feet. The only clothes they wore were a skull cap and a bit of cloth round their bodies; no coat, no trousers, no shoes! Yet he taught them as tenderly as he would have instructed the dearest little English boys and girls.

On Sunday evenings, in the same town, he preached to the grown-up natives. Martyn was very weak in health, and it was terribly tiring work to give addresses in the intense heat; but he persevered, though by the time he got home after the service he often fell exhausted on the couch.

And with all this hard work, Martyn only knew of one poor woman who was converted! But amongst his hearers was a young native of good family (Sheik Salah), who was so attracted by Martyn's preaching that he became a Christian, and by his own efforts brought thirty-nine Hindoos into the Christian Church.

Martyn had become a missionary by Brainerd's example; Sheik Salah had become a convert and fellow-labourer from hearing Martyn preach.

And even the smallest children may, without knowing it, be drawing others to Jesus, if they are real "followers" of Christ.

---

* Extracted from GOOD MORNING! GOOD NIGHT! Morning and Evening Readings for Children. By the author of "Beneath the Banner." (1s. and 2s. Cassell & Co.) A capital volume, fully illustrated, and remarkable for the number of true stories woven into the readings. The selections which we give are a fair sample of the bulk.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. T. Lewes Sayer, Lordship-lane, July 13; Mr. J. H. P. Cutting, with Caravan, Ashill, to July 15; Swaffham, July 16-23; Mr. H. Hutchinson, Beechwood, Highgate, July 12; Keswick (tent), July 21-28.

SEASIDE SERVICES.—The following are the arrangements which, up to the present date, have been made for the Children's Seaside Services during the present summer. All are for August unless otherwise stated:—Ayr, Mr. Josiah Spiers (July); Bournemouth, Mr. J. Reginald Naylor; Boscombe, Mr. G. Askwith; Bridlington, Mr. H. Hutchinson (August 6 to Sept. 6); Blackpool, Rev. T. Longstaff, M.A.; Carnoustie, N.B., Mr. B. L. Livingstone-Learmouth; Colwyn Bay, Mr. W. H. Wilson; Eastbourne, Mr. A. G. Dodderidge (from August 6); East Preston, Mr. Middleton; Exmouth, Mr. Phillips Welch; Herne Bay, Mr. J. S. Tyler (in July); Hunstanton, Mr. Edwin Arrowsmith; Ilfracombe, Mr. W. R. Moore, B.A.; Kemp Town (Brighton), Rev. Maltby C. Brownlow, and Mr. R. H. Keable (August 5 to 26); Littlehampton, Mr. J. S. Tyler and Mr. G. A. King; Llandudno, Mr. Frank Anderson and others (from August 6); Llanfairfechan, Mr. J. Russell Hill (from August 3); Minehead, Mr. A. C. Jewell; Paignton, Mr. L. M. Miller; Pensarn, Mr. E. Collier; Penzance, Mr. H. B. Claxton (August 20 to 31); Portrush and Portstewart, Mr. A. G. Dodderidge (July); Rhyl, Mr. George Goodman; St. Leonard's, Rev. W. W. Martin; Saltburn, Dr. Frederick Churchill; Scarborough, Mr. Bernard Herklots; Southend, Mr. J. Waters Coldicott; Southsea, Mr. S. M. Warner; Southwold, Mr. Livesey Carrott; Towyn, Mr. E. Hughes and Mr. H. T. Sayer; Westward Ho, Rev. G. C. Williamson; West Brighton, Rev. Norman Bennet; Whitby, Mr. E. T. M. Dennes; Weston-super-Mare, Messrs. W. Stuart-Fox and N. Thwaites; Worthing, Rev. C. E. Haynes.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for week ending July 20, 1895.—Sun., July 14, Genesis xxxii. 17-32; Mon., 15, xxxiii. 1-16; Tues., 16, xxxv. 1-15; Wed., 17, xxxvii. 1-18; Thurs., 18, xxxvii. 19-26; Fri., 19, xxxix. 1-9, 19-23; Sat., 20, xl. 1-11.

Outside the House and In.

Psa. lix. 9-17.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER.

In the Hebrew the difference between the words "wait" and "sing," as appearing in this passage, is very slight. They are spelt, indeed, alike, with the exception of a single letter. The parallelism, therefore, between these two verses is very marked.

9. Upon Thee, O my strength, I will wait,
For God is my high tower.
17. Unto Thee, O my strength, I will sing,
For God is my high tower.

The inscription indicates the occasion on which this Psalm, one of the oldest, was written. "A Psalm of David: when Saul sent, and they watched the house to kill him." The allusions of the Psalm substantiate this title, especially that of the sixth and fourteenth verses, in which the Psalmist compares the troop of soldiers, bitten with their master's spleen, who encamped around his house, belching out their curses and threats to the vicious curs of an Eastern city, that prowl the streets by day and night, clearing them of their offal and refuse, and filling the night with their uproar. "They return at evening, they make a noise like a dog, and go round about the city; behold, they belch out with their mouth." But meanwhile David is in his house, waiting upon God, and singing aloud of his mercy in the morning.

I.—The events which led up to this assault on David's house.

As the victorious army returned home from the valley of Elah, the whole land went forth in greeting. The reapers stayed their labours in the field, and the vineyards were depleted of the women that plucked the grapes, and the men that trod them in the presses. From village to town the contagious enthusiasm spread, and the women came forth out of all the cities of Israel, with song and dance, with timbrels and sabrets, to meet King Saul. To the song of victory there came this refrain, which was strikingly discordant to the soul of the king.

Saul hath slain his thousands,
And David his ten thousands.

In that hour the first jealous thought awoke in Saul's heart; the pitted speck became visible in the goodly fruit of his character, which was destined to rot and ruin all. Happy had he been if he had trodden the hell-spark beneath his feet, or extinguished it in seas of prayer. But he nursed it, till, to change the simile, the trickling stream undermined the sea-wall, and became a raging turbid flood. "Saul was very wroth, and this saying displeased him, and he eyed David from that day and forward."

But Saul was more than jealous. He deliberately set himself to thwart God's purpose. Samuel had distinctly told him that the Lord had rent the kingdom of Israel from him, and had given it to a neighbour of his, that was better than himself. And, without doubt, as he saw the stripling return with Goliath's head in his hand, and as he heard the song of the Israelite women, the dread certainty suggested itself to him that this was the divinely designated king. "What though he be," said Saul to himself, as Herod in after days, "I am king, and will see to it that this prediction at least shall not come true. A dead man cannot reign; and there are many ways by which a man's life can be taken, short of direct murder. But this is what it must come to." He supposed that if only he could take David's life, God's purpose would miscarry, and Samuel's predictions be falsified. He is not the last man that has descended into the arena to match himself with God and been crushed in the attempt. No student of history is likely to forget the cry of Julian the Apostate, which mirrors the experience of thousands more, "Thou hast conquered, O Galilean."

His murderous passion sought to fulfil itself in many ways. On the following day, as David sought to soothe him with his harp, he twice hurled his javelin at the minstrel, in the hope that if it pinned him to the wall the act might be imputed to insanity; but on each occasion the weapon sped harmlessly past to quiver in the wall behind, instead of that young heart.

Next, Saul gave him an important military commission, and made him his captain over a thousand, in the vain hope that this sudden elevation into the slippery place of worldly prominence and power might turn his head dizzy, and lead him to some traitorous deed, for which death would be the obvious penalty. But David behaved himself wisely in all his ways, avoiding every pitfall, eluding every snare, so that the king, who watched closely for his falling, became more than ever convinced that he was God's ward, and stood in awe of him.

Then he offered the young soldier the hand of his eldest daughter in marriage, and treacherously withdrew the offer as the time of the nuptials approached, the intention being to arouse his ardent spirit to retaliate, and so to become liable to the charge of treason; but all his efforts failed to arouse even a transient impulse for revenge.

Again, by the lure of his second daughter Michal as prize to be won by the evidence of two hundred Philistines having been slain, he sought to involve his rival in frays out of which only a miracle could bring him unhurt. But David returned with his trophies unscathed, and the love of the people grew.

Thwarted thus far, the God-forsaken monarch, driven by the awful fury of his jealousy, spake to Jonathan and to all his servants that they should rid him of David's tormenting presence, but of course this plot failed, for Jonathan delighted much in David, whilst all Israel and Judah loved him, for he went out and came in before them. Jonathan indeed stood in the breach to turn away his father's anger, and elicited from him the promise that his friend should not be put to death. But his pleadings and reasonings had only a temporary effect, for shortly after, as the young minstrel endeavoured to charm away the spirit of melancholy, the javelin again quivered past him from the royal hand and would have transfixed him to the wall, but for his lithe agility. It was the evening, and David fled to his young wife and home. "And Saul, intent on murder, sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to slay him in the morning." These were the men whom he characterised so vividly, as we have seen.

Michal's quick wit saved her husband's life. She let him down through the window, and he went and escaped, whilst an image, covered with a quilt and placed in the bed, led Saul's emissaries to suppose that he was sick. There was no real occasion, however for her to resort to either teraphim and deceit, to secure his safety from her father's murderous rage, for when, shortly after, the king proposed to snatch his prey from the midst of the sacred college, and from the very presence of Samuel, three sets of messengers were rendered powerless by the sacred afflatus, and an arrest was put on Saul himself, who was prostrated before the mighty impression of God's Spirit, and lay helpless on the earth (1 Sam. xix. 24).

That must have been a marvellous experience for David. To the eye of sense there was absolutely nothing to prevent the king's messengers, or the king himself, from taking him. But by faith he knew that he was being kept within the curtains of an impalpable pavilion and hidden beneath an invisible wing. As the air, itself invisible, fills the diving bell and saves the inmates from the inrushing water; as a stream of electricity poured over a heap of jewels protects them from the hand of the plunderer, as the raying forth of Christ's majesty flung his captors to the ground, so did the Presence of God environ and protect both Samuel and David. And thus our God will still do for each of his persecuted ones. "In the secret of his tabernacle shall He hide them, and set them up upon a rock."

II.—David's composure amid the assaults of his foes.

This hunted man is a lesson for men and angels. Saul is his inveterate foe; traps and snares are laid for him on all sides. Sometimes the sun shines on his golden locks, but more often the skies are thick with cloud and storm. Now the women of Israel welcome him, and again he is torn from his wife, and driven forth from his home to go whither he may. Yet all the while his heart is tranquil and reposeful—yea, it actually breaks forth into praise, as the closing verses of this psalm prove. What was the secret of his serenity?

It lay, first, in his conviction of what God was. God was his strength—that was God within him; God was his high tower—that was God without and around him. He was God-possessed and God-encompassed. God dwelt in him and he in God; there was no demand for which he was not sufficient, no peril which he could not keep at bay.

What a blessed conception is here! You are all too weak for some great task which has been entrusted to your care. In your judgment it would task the energies of the best and wisest you know; but, lo! it has been placed in your hands. "Oh, Lord," you cry, "wherewith shall I save Israel? Behold my family is the poorest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house." Then the Spirit of God reveals God as strength, that He may be so received into the heart as to become the principle of a new and heaven-born energy, which shall rise superior to every difficulty, and breast the mightiest waves that would beat the swimmer back. Listen to the laughter of the Apostle's soul, as he surveys herculean tasks on the one hand, and enormous opposing obstacles on the other, and says with unhesitating assurance, "I can do all things through Christ that strengtheneth me." Oh, weakest of the weak, remember Jesus Christ, and take Him to be the strength of thy life; be strong, yea be strong, in the grace that is in Christ Jesus.

Or turn to the other conception. See those fugitive soldiers, hotly pursued by their enemies as clouds before the Biscay gale; on yonder cliff is perched a fortress, whose mighty walls and towers, if only they can be reached, will ensure protection. Breathlessly they scale the ascent, rush across the drawbridge, let down the portcullis, and fling themselves on the sward, and know that they are safe. All that God is to the soul which has learnt to put Him between itself and everything. We have not even to flee to God, for that implies that we have been allured out of Him; but we are to abide in Him, to stand fast in the liberty wherewith He has made us free, to reckon that, whatever Satan may say and however he may rage, that we are absolutely secure, so long as we abide in God.

When we realise these things, and add the further conception with which the Psalm closes, that God is the fount of mercy; when we dare to believe that there is mercy in Saul's hate, mercy in the difficulties of our lot, mercy in the clouds that veil our sky and the flints that line our path, mercy in the sharpest, bitterest experiences, then we can sing, we can say with David, "I will sing of thy strength; yea, I will sing aloud of thy mercy in the morning, for Thou hast been my high tower, and a refuge in the day of my distress."

It lay, next, in his attitude towards God. "O, my strength, I will wait on Thee." The word so translated, is used in the Hebrew of the shepherd watching his flock, of the watchman on the tower, of the sentry passing to and fro upon his beat. Is this our habitual attitude? Too many direct their prayer, but do not lock up the ladder for the descending angels, laden with the heavenly answer. Many a ship passes in the night, touching at our wharf with the precious freight which we have been praying for, but we are not there to receive it. Many a relieving force comes up the pass with glittering spears and flashing helmets, but our gates are closed. Many a dove comes to our window from the weltering waste of waters, but we are too immersed in other things to notice its light tap. We pray, but we do not wait; we ask, but we do not expect to receive; we knock, but we are gone before the door is opened.

This lesson is for us to learn. To reckon on God, to tarry for the vision, to wait till Samuel comes, to believe that He who taught us to trust cannot deceive our trust, to be sure that none of them that wait on Him can be ashamed, to appropriate by faith, and to know that we have the petitions we desired; nay, to do more, to take them and count them ours, though we have no responsive emotion, no sense of possession—this is waiting upon God, this will keep us calm and still, though dreaded evils frown around our homestead, this will change our waiting into song.

COASTING MISSION.—The mission steamer Good News has visited the port of Emsworth. Services were held on board for eight days with marked success. Nightly the cabin has been crowded with earnest seekers, and on Sundays we have not been able to find accommodation for all who wished to go below. I am accompanied by Miss Fuller Gooch. Will your readers pray for blessing on our tour round the east coast.—S. A. Cook.

THE LATE

Sidney Roberts Webb, M.D.

This young missionary was born in London on February 19, 1867. He was educated at Mill Hill School and the University of Edinburgh, where he took his medical degree. He married, in 1892, Miss Phœbe Goadby, a lady like-minded with himself, and in the following January they sailed together for the Congo, bound for Wathen, one of the stations of the Baptist Missionary Society on that river. They were on the way home last April for their first furlough, when both fell ill of fever, and Dr. Webb died on board the steamer Boma off Ambrizette, on the African coast. It was a short life, but not an incomplete one. Throughout, a Divine purpose can be traced, and a steady progress; and all was a training for nobler service in the world to come.

Sidney Webb grew up under the roof of his father, Mr. Conrade E. Webb, at Hampstead; and the influences which surrounded him were all favourable to religious decision. When he was a boy of eight years old, the desire to be a missionary was already formed. At fourteen he was baptized, and became a member of the church at Heath-street Chapel; almost immediately afterwards he wrote to his father a little note, still preserved, making known his purpose. From that time the winning of souls became his aim in life. He began with English boys; and it was with African boys that in after life he was to be chiefly concerned.

The first field of service opened to the young disciple was in connection with the excellent Bible-class for young people conducted by Mr. Gibbard Hughes. Sidney Webb was a typical English boy, fond of games and gymnastics, and thoroughly manly and modest. Every one in the class came to love him; and he used all his influence for his Master. Not a few owe their souls to his frank appeals and patient correspondence and earnest prayers. "A walk and a talk" on the Heath, or on the way home from the cricket field, were the usual means which he adopted; and then followed letter after letter till the end was gained. "What struck me about Sidney," writes Mr. Hughes, "was first his constancy, then his childlike humility, and his consuming love for the souls of the boys. He was also eminently a boy of prayer."

The life of the University supplied him with new and interesting openings for service. He became an active member of the Students' Christian Association, and he took frequent part in the Gospel Services conducted by students in the Infirmary. A characteristic passage in one of his Sunday letters tells of a rather serious football scrimmage on the Saturday:—"I charged one man head to head, and I have a bump on mine that would puzzle any phrenologist;" and then, "Was at ward service this morning." Shakes and aches were not allowed to hinder that! "Some men misunderstood him," writes his fellow-student, Dr. George Newman; "there was nothing showy or startling about him; but he followed the dictates of his conscience with an almost terrible determination, and the men who once knew him loved him with all their hearts."

During the intervals of his course of study, Sidney Webb took a very energetic share in the seaside services for children, especially at Penmaenmawr. There he carried out the same method of earnest and repeated personal conversation and correspondence which he had tried in his earlier endeavours, and with conspicuous success. Games and excursions blended with the happy services on the beach or in the schoolroom; and all were made to combine "towards the great end," as he puts it, the salvation of the soul.

One more sphere of preparation for his future work was found in the Mildmay Mission Hospital at Bethnal Green. Here, after taking his degree, Dr. Webb remained for some months as resident medical officer. He was untiring in his duties. "I sometimes wondered," says Dr. Gauld, "that, brought up as he had been with every comfort, he should so cheerfully submit to the hardships of life at the East End, among the poorest of the poor. It was grace in his heart, and the constraining love of Christ that enabled him to do it." The writer has accompanied Dr. Webb in his rounds among the people of that dreary district, and has a vivid remembrance of the smiles with which he was welcomed, and the cheerful and courteous attention which he paid to the needs of the poorest and most degraded.

(From Photograph by Mr. Alex. Ayton, 43, N. Bruntsfield Place, Edinburgh.)

It will be seen that when Dr. Webb reached his missionary post on the Congo, he came to it well prepared. His young wife brought, on her part, as a "Mildmay Sister," equal qualifications for service. Two years only were still in store for them together; but they were years of fruitful and unsparing labour.

Medical work occupied the forenoon of every day, and often the afternoon as well; and there would be sometimes as many as 120 patients in one day. Dr. Webb gave simple lessons in physiology to the older boys, and was translating a small handbook on the same subject for the benefit of the native evangelists. The school, and the boys who formed it, were of the greatest interest to him; and it was there that he found a most congenial missionary sphere.

The ordinary lessons took him only a couple of hours each afternoon; but he was not merely a teacher of boys. He was like an elder brother among them. "We are inundated with boys," he writes. He encouraged their presence at all hours. He interested himself in their games, and tried to answer their incessant questions. It was not long before he was able to talk to them in their own language, and the talk always led up to Jesus Christ. The first public address which he gave without assistance was on the last Sunday of 1893. That address touched the hearts of many of the boys, and one in particular, baptized the following year, traced his decision to its impressive appeals. "We are having good times," he writes home in 1894, "and better are coming. There is a spirit of inquiry abroad. I like them as much as I like English boys, and that is more than I expected. My twist in the direction of boys holds good for black as well as white." He was indeed passionately desirous to see them follow Christ. The desire was gratified to some extent even before he died. Beside the blessing already referred to, Dr. Webb had the joy, shortly before his departure, of himself baptizing Ntinani and Mabika, two of the older boys, and of knowing that they, with others, were already engaged in carrying the Gospel to their heathen countrymen.

Dr. and Mrs. Webb left Wathen at the end of last March, on their homeward journey, in good health and spirits. The fatigue and exposure of the long march down the river brought an attack of fever on them both, and when they reached Underhill both were in a condition that caused intense anxiety. An English steamer was just about to sail for home, with an English doctor and missionary friends on board, and it was thought wisest that they should at once proceed in her. Mrs. Webb gradually began to rally; but her husband grew worse, and, notwithstanding every effort, sank to rest in the early morning of Good Friday, and was buried the same day, according to his desire, in the bosom of the "grand old sea."

Dr. Webb had been tenderly cared for at Underhill by Mr. and Mrs. Forfeitt, and Mr. Pinnock, the missionaries on the station; and on board the steamer, Mr. Woodcock, of the International Missionary Alliance, was with him till he died. Mrs. Webb was herself too ill to be always in his cabin: but she was there as often as she could. The last day they were much together. "He then told me what little chance he had of living," she writes in the letter which brought the sad details. "He wanted much to recover, and to go home once more, but he wished God's will to be done. He sent messages to his father and mother, and others whom he loved. He said that he had always been afraid of death, but now he had no fear. Toward evening I sang to him, 'Abide with me.' At the end of the first verse, he said, 'He is abiding with me.' When I came to the words, 'I triumph still,' he joined in, and went on through the first two lines of the last verse. After a while, I sang, 'Jesus, lover of my soul'; he lay quiet, and said, 'Amen,' again and again. Then he quoted Psalm xxiii., about the valley of the shadow of death. He kept saying, 'My Father, my Father!'"

Sidney Webb died as he lived, a true Christian man, in the spirit of simple faith and submission. Africa had been his chosen field; and among his boys at Wathen he had hoped to live and labour for years to come; but he had no will except as God willed. "I used to have a low idea of any other work," he says in one of his earlier letters, "and I always said, 'Africa,' Now, thank God, I say, 'anywhere, in this country or abroad.'" So, when the call came, "Friend, go up higher," he was ready, and, without a murmur, went. Those who are left behind are comforted by the thought that he is with the Lord whom he loved to serve.

THE WOOLWICH POLYTECHNIC have again arranged summer tours to Switzerland at remarkably low figures. A fifteen-days' tour begins July 26, and another, lasting sixteen days, commences on August 16. Full particulars can be had from the secretary, Polytechnic, William-street, Woolwich.

The Evangelist.

SIN.

By ROBERT P. WILDER.*

Our age is one of transition. Opinions vary daily, and men delight in investigation and in discoveries. Science unfolds new truths, and abounds in new theories. Religion also is the object of research, and the ground of controversy; but both science and religion have basic truths which research cannot alter, nor discovery change. The foundation truth in religion is sin. It is found wherever man exists. Sin is the common ground of all religions, the object of attack in all faiths, and the disease which all creeds profess to cure. Let us seek to understand the malady. In this search I ask all to join me; for all recognise the existence of sin.

1. Though sin is as universal as man, the sense of sin varies. Cannibals do not think it criminal to kill and eat a captive taken in war. Civilised man regards this act as revolting, horrible, and deeply sinful. Why the difference in standard? If my room be curtained so that the light cannot enter, I am unable to detect uncleanness within it. But if the curtains be slightly drawn aside I can detect dust on tables, chairs, and larger objects; but it is impossible to ascertain whether the corners are clean. When the doors and windows are thrown wide open so that the light streams in, flooding the room, then I can see clearly cobwebs in remote corners, and dust in distant crevices. So it is with man. The cannibal has so shut out God's light from his heart, that he neither sees nor feels sin as we do. We have sufficient light to reveal to us grosser sins, such as cannibalism, adultery, murder, and theft. But before we fully realise the uncleanness of our lives we must throw open the windows and doors of our souls to God's searching light. If this be done each one of us will cry out with the prophet Isaiah: "Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts."

Before God's searching glance the righteousness of the best men is "as a polluted garment." The sinlessness of our hearts does not depend upon our feelings any more than the cleanliness of a room depends upon the feeling of its owner. If the room be dark the owner may say "it is clean," because he neither sees nor feels the filth, but he is not a competent witness until light illuminates the darkness. One says, "I am not a sinner, because I feel and see no sin in me." Let in the light, and then you will see enough to prostrate you, for if the light of God's Spirit enter, conviction of sin will follow. Light will enter the darkest heart if its doors and windows are not wilfully shut and barred.

2. You have heard it said that it is safe to sin if one is not found out, and sin is undetected. Had Charles S. Parnell died without being detected in his crime of adultery, would he have been any less a sinner? Men would have praised him and have spoken of his pure personal and political life; but he would have been a sinner all the same, whether detected or not. There may be men who are living in sin, and yet are clever enough to cover that sin. Such men are double-dyed sinners; being guilty of the carefully concealed sin and being guilty also of hypocrisy—that is pretending to be pure when the life is impure. "Woe unto you. . . hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which outwardly appear beautiful, but inwardly are full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness. Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but inwardly ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity." Let us not regard ourselves good because our neighbours call us blameless. Character is more important than reputation.

3. Again, sin is not to be restricted to the realm of actions. To be sure, actions are the manifestations of sin to the world; but its seat is in the heart. Human law judges a man to be a murderer when the blow is struck and another's life blood ebbs away. God says "Whosever hateth his brother is a murderer," 1 John iii. 15. God also says, "Every one that looketh on a woman to lust after her committed adultery with her already in his heart." Matt. v. 28. Men cannot judge thoughts, because they cannot see thoughts. "The Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." God sees thoughts as well as actions. Men judge by actions. God judges by thoughts, which are the sources of actions. Men judge by effects. God, and God alone, judges causes which produce effects. Men judge the streams. God judges the fountains from which the streams flow. Hence He says, "Blessed are the pure in heart." "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life."

In crossing the Atlantic Ocean one sometimes sees cone-shaped icebergs which tower above the horizon like temple spires. Every foot of ice in this mass above the water's surface represents many feet out of sight below the water line. So the sins we see in human actions are as the discerned peaks of the hidden icebergs—each represents many sins of thought, which lie hidden in the heart.

In Calcutta I have had several hundred interviews with Bengalee gentlemen, and have asked several if they are willing to have their thoughts for a year published in book form for the perusal of their friends. Not one consented. If our thoughts cannot stand the test of our fallible fellow-men, how can they stand before the infallible God who "searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts?"

4. Sin is not merely a matter of wrong actions or wrong thoughts to our fellow-men. A Robinson Crusoe may have no companions whom he can injure by thought or deed; but yet he can sin, for he can injure himself by impurity. Some men flee to the jungle in the hope that they may escape from sin by escaping from Society. In solitude the ascetic learns that his worst foes are within his heart, and that he cannot run away from himself.

5. Sin is in its essential character pre-eminently religious. If sin violates the laws of a state, or society, it is crime. This is a legal term. If we mean that which wrongs our nature, then sin is vice. This is an ethical term. In still another aspect sin interferes with our happiness and is therefore evil. This is a philosophical term. But sin has to do with our Maker; and hence its primary signification is religious. He who created me has a greater claim upon me than society, or even than I have myself. If a slave injures himself he wrongs the master whose property he is. If a sentient creature injures himself or his fellow-creatures, he wrongs the Creator. The Psalmist David struck at the root-principle of sin when he exclaimed, "Against Thee, Thee only, have I sinned, and done that which is evil in thy sight" (Psalm li. 4). Joseph also understood the essential quality of sin, as is seen in his answer to Potiphar's wife. "How then can I do this great wickedness, and sin against God?"

As is sin, so must be salvation. If sin were something superficial, like a wart, we might risk being careless about it; but since it is a malignant cancer, how dare we ignore its poisonous presence? Let us rather employ drastic measures for its removal. The cure must be adequate to the disease.

* From a letter to the Young Men of India. In another letter Mr. Wilder sets forth Christ, the Great Physician, as the only means of healing.

[688]

THE THEATRICAL MISSION.—Owing to the hasty closing of the great "Olympia" show at Kensington, the girls who have taken part in the spectacle (over 2000 in number) are thrown out of work. Of these very many have been thankful to make use of the comfortable home provided for them by the Theatrical Mission and Institute at Olympia House, 33, Maclise-road, Kensington. These poor girls are now without any means of support. We would gladly help them to bridge over the long interval which may elapse before they are again in employment; but unfortunately we have no means of doing so. We should be exceedingly sorry to have to close the house, but if help be not forthcoming it looks as if that would be our only course. This is a moment of special need.

Alfred B. Harding, Director.

Macready House, Covent Garden, W.C.

THE LATE LADY SMITH.

Lady Smith, who recently died at 30, Berkeley-square, W., was the daughter of Mr. J. F. Pinney, of Somerton Erleigh, Somersetshire, and married, in 1828, Sir J. J. Smith, third baronet, of Sydling, and Down House, Dorsetshire. Her intellectual powers were of a fine order, and her memory wonderful. One of her nieces will never forget how she entertained her for more than an hour, when she was much past 80, with an account of "London in the olden days," long before Belgravia was in existence—depicting vividly everything as she had seen it herself, the account of the Thanksgiving Day for the temporary recovery of George III. being a striking incident in the recital.

Truly her charity and loving-kindness began at home, as it always should, but from thence extended to the uttermost parts of the earth. There was scarcely an evangelical work brought under her notice that she did not assist with money and sympathy. For years her drawing-room was at the disposal of many a needy and deserving society, among which was the British Syrian Mission, whose birthplace was in her house. She was an intimate friend of the late Mrs. Bowen Thompson, and together they sowed the little seed which has now become a great tree, spreading its branches throughout the whole of Syria, the most powerful and regenerating influence amongst the women of that land.

Mr. Meredith's Prison Mission and the Princess Mary Village Homes had also her tenderest sympathy and support. Among other societies she greatly cared for was the Missions to Seamen, with which she was associated from the very beginning. She was an active worker for the C.M.S. and the C.P.A.S. The Ashley Mission at Bethnal Green, which was carried on for twenty years by one of her personal friends, also owed a great deal to her loving sympathy, and she took great pleasure in visiting the members and being present at their annual gatherings. She took personal interest in Miss Emily Weston's work, carried on for about thirty years among the men of the 2nd Somerset Militia (for many years under the command of her brother, Colonel Pinney), during their training and camping out, both at Bath and Taunton, constantly visiting and encouraging the workers.

Miss Weston's work for the Royal Navy, Miss Daniell's work among soldiers at Aldershot and elsewhere, the work carried on at Mildmay, the London City Mission, the Homes for Little Boys at Farningham, Missions to the Jews, Zenana Missions, Temperance Work, Missions to Deep Sea Fishermen, Y.W.C.A., work amongst lepers, and many hospitals were much helped by her. Lady Smith was also greatly interested in the Pure Literature Society, she herself being most earnest in the distribution of good books to all with whom she came in contact. In regard to her more direct personal work, she never failed to give a copy of "Daily Light on the Daily Path" to every bride of her acquaintance, praying that it might be a help to her in her new life.

She took the greatest interest in both the day and Sunday-schools in her early home at Somerton, afterwards during her married life at Sydling and the Down House, and again for the last thirty-two years at Somerton, teaching in the Sunday-school till she was about eighty years of age, often conducting a teachers' meeting, also a mothers' meeting, till within a very few years of her death. She was ever ready to give her loving sympathy to all, whether rich or poor, in times of joy and sorrow. Her strong affectionate nature made her ever ready to listen to any deserving case of distress, while she would counsel the sufferer to look upwards to Him who is able to help in every time of need. She was exceedingly kind to governesses, feeling the great responsibilities which rested upon them. Many poor ladies and orphans will miss her help. For about forty years she was a regular attendant at both Sunday and week-day services at Portman Chapel, Baker-street, and at the meetings connected with the church.

THE JEWS.—An association has been formed in Liverpool, under the title of "The Lord's Remembrancers," for the purpose of prayer on behalf of God's ancient people, the Jews, and the study of prophecy relating to them. Meetings are held monthly in the small lecture-hall of the Y.M.C.A. in Mount Pleasant, Liverpool.

STORY OF TWO CEYLON BOYS.

By MARGARET W. LEITCH, JAFFNA.

EARLY one dewy morning in Ceylon, when the astern horizon was beginning to glow with the ays of the rising sun, and the little song birds in he tamarind and mango trees near the Mission ouse were filling the air with sweet songs, my ister and I were taking our morning tea, prepara- ory to a brisk walk and a breath of the fresh balmy ir before the great heat of the tropical day should e upon us.

While thus seated by a little tea-table on the back erandah of the Mission House, enjoying the hot risp delicious rice cakes, and planning together bout the village schools we were going to examine hat day, and the moonlight evangelistic meeting re were to attend that evening, we chanced o glance up and saw two young native boys stand- ng near us, and regarding us with shy, startled, et eager looks. They appeared to be about hirteen and fourteen years of age respectively. hey were dressed as boys in the country usually re, with four yards of white cotton cloth wound round the lower part of the person and reaching rom the waist to the ankles, and as many more ards of the same material draped across the houlders and chest, the whole forming a simple, ool, and sufficient covering. Like other boys of heir age, they wore no head-dress or foot cover- ng. According to the custom of the country heir heads were shaven, all excepting a small ound portion on the crown, where the hair was llowed to grow long, and was done up in a tight not without the aid of hairpins. Their complexion as that of a good strong cup of coffee with plenty f rich cream stirred in. They looked heir large, soft, dark eyes seeming to regard us ith timidity and yet with trust.

LIKE TWO STARTLED FAWNS,

We called them to us, and learned their story. hey had been pupils for some years in the mission chool in their village, Usan, seven miles distant rom the mission station. They had not only com- itted to memory the prescribed Bible verses, olden texts, and hymns, and learned to tell in their wn language the stories of the four Gospels, but the eacher and his warm-hearted wife (who is a Bible- oman) had often spoken and prayed with them, rging them to give their hearts to Christ and be- ome his followers. "The prayers of the teacher's ife, which were offered with tears, melted our earts," they said to us, "and now we have given urselves to Christ, and are trying to follow Him ccording to the truths taught in the Scriptures."

They told us that their elder brother and they ad ceased to worship idols, or to perform any of he Hindoo ceremonies, and that they had for some ime been regularly praying and reading the Bible aily, and keeping the Sabbath holy, and attending he Sabbath-school and the preaching services. hey were also accustomed now and then, when heir garden and fields had all been watered, and he work of the day was done, to go to the house of he teacher, and, together with some other young eople who had also become interested in Chris- ianity, to spend a little time in Bible study and rayer and the singing of Christian hymns.

One day there was a festival held in connection ith one of the Hindoo temples, a temple to the god Kantha-swamy, near their house. All the people of he village were going to attend in order to make fferings, enjoy the excitement, and listen to the nusic; and the other village boys asked these three oys to go along with them, but, to the surprise of ll, these boys absolutely refused to go.

As the annual festival at the village temple is the reat excitement of the year for the people of that illage, it can be easily understood that, when the ther village boys asked those three boys to go long with them and they utterly refused, those ho had asked them were very much astonished, nd asked their reasons for such singular behaviour. he three boys replied that they had come to elieve that there was one true God, and that idols ere only pieces of brass, wood, or stone.

This conversation was reported by the village hildren to their parents, and they in turn reported t to the manager of the temple, who, when he eard it, was very angry indeed, for he saw that if eople began to believe that idols had no power they ould soon cease to worship them, and then he and is priests would lose all the money and the offer- ings which now the poor people were giving so freely, and on which he and others were living in great comfort.

So the manager of the temple went in a great rage to the father and mother of these boys, and said that unless they discontinued going to the Christian meetings, and unless they came to the temple and worshipped the idol, he would not allow the family any longer to draw water for watering their garden as they had been accustomed to do from the temple well.

In this part of Ceylon there are no springs or running brooks, for the whole peninsula is a wide plain, covered with rice fields, gardens, and groves of fruit and shade trees. It rains off and on for three months, during which time the rainfall is about 40 inches. During the remaining nine months there is little or no rain, and all the water must be obtained from deep wells, often 40ft., 60ft., or even 70ft. in depth. As it costs a considerable sum of money to dig one of these wells, it is customary for rich native men to dig wells, and then rent out the privilege of using them to the people round about, who cultivate gardens, and who draw water daily for watering their plants.

One of the great strongholds of the Hindoo religion, as you know, is caste. The low caste people cannot enter into the house of a man of higher caste, or touch his property, as his furniture, food, cooking utensils, etc., without causing these things to be defiled. Especially the lower caste people cannot draw water from the wells used by the higher castes.

As these three boys had publicly spoken of the folly of idol worship, and of their faith in Christ, the manager of the temple threatened to call a meeting of the high caste people, and to out-caste the whole family unless the boys should publicly retract their statement.

If the family, which was one of the Verlalah caste (cultivator caste), should be out-casted they would not be able afterward to enter the houses of their neighbours, or have any social intercourse with them or with their relatives, or secure any help from them in times of sickness or misfortune, neither would they be allowed to draw water from any of the village wells. The result would be not only that they would be except the handful of native Christians, but they would suffer very serious inconvenience and loss.

DISGRACED IN THE EYES OF ALL

The relatives came and tried to persuade or compel them, but all in vain; the boys stood firm. The persecution which they suffered, and the abuses which were heaped upon them cut them to the heart. One evening the eldest boy went to a neighbouring village on some business, and the two others went to the house of the teacher and his wife to tell them of their troubles, and to have a little prayer together. The father went after them and brought them home, abusing them for forsaking the religion of their forefathers. The following day, being the Sabbath, the boys were told by their father to go to work in the fields, and when they expressed their unwillingness to work on the Sabbath, and their desire to go as usual to the Sabbath-school and the preaching service, saying that they would gladly work early and late on the other days of the week to make up for lost time, the parents indignantly refused, and took away and locked up a part of their clothing, so that it would be impossible for them to attend the Christian services.

When the catechist and the teacher missed the boys from the service they went to their house to inquire for them. The father, seeing these men approaching the house, thrust the boys into one of the rooms and locked the door upon them, and then sent the Christians away with angry words, accusing them of seeking to ruin the boys and the whole family, and asking them never again to come to the house. That night the grief and anxiety of the two young boys was so great that they knelt together and began praying aloud with tears for the conversion of their father and mother. The parents were alarmed at this, for the belief is very general among the Hindoos that when the Christians pray their prayers will be answered, and for this reason it happens that when our catechists and Bible-women are visiting the homes of the village people, they find the people, as a rule, quite willing to listen to the reading of the Bible and the singing of Christian hymns, but when they speak of offering prayer the people object, as they fear that the Christian's God will certainly hear, and as a result their mind will be influenced, and they will be obliged to become Christians.

So when the boys were praying aloud, the father burst in upon them, and, seizing them, dragged them out, and having beaten them, hurled them from him off from the verandah out into darkness, saying that he would have no praying Christians in his house, and if they had become Christians they need no longer consider themselves as his sons.

He expected that they would be subdued by this treatment, and that they would soon return, begging his pardon and promising to obey his wishes, for obedience to parents is a beautiful and almost universal characteristic among Hindoo youths, and the parents had not as yet come to understand that their sons were disobeying them —although it caused them the keenest sorrow to do so—because they believed that they must first of all obey God.

But the boys believed that their father spoke in earnest, and that he really disowned them, so in the darkness they made their way through the narrow lanes toward the house of the catechist, fearing all the while least they should tread upon some serpent or other venomous beast. Centipedes, scorpions, tarantulas, and many kinds of poisonous snakes are to be found in this country, and when the people go about in the night time they are very careful to carry a torch with them, in order to avoid treading upon these with their bare feet. The boys had no torch, but they prayed to God to take care of them, and they reached the house of the catechist in safety.

The catechist took them in, and the next morning brought them walking to our house. The people are early risers and good walkers, and they quickly accomplished the seven miles' walk and arrived just as we were taking our morning tea.

(To be concluded.)

REAPING AFTER PATIENT SOWING.

WE are once more among our children on this side of the Atlantic. Our hearts overflow with joy at the wonderful transformations, as we recall the sad surroundings from which it has been our privilege to rescue the little ones. We are living an almost out-of-door life here, a vast contrast to the shut-in life in murky East London these past nine months. Day by day we are coming in contact with our boys and girls growing up in this free, happy country, away from the demoralising influences of drink in the old land.

The last visitor was a lad about fifteen years. At the age of eleven he was rescued by a friend from a drunken mother. After a few months of happy home-life with us, this mother insisted on his returning to her, and for two years he was again subject to all the baneful influences of a mother who was unworthy of the name. But the lessons learned with us he never forgot, and the dear boy yearned all the while to come back to us. Prayer was heard on his behalf. At length the mother's consent was won, and he was allowed to return and go out with one of four parties to Canada. In this land he has been well cared for, has given his heart to the Lord, and his visit has greatly encouraged us.

Many who are unable to pay a visit, send letters full of thanksgiving for the care that was bestowed on them in their childhood, when we took them from the sorrows of bereavement and perilous surroundings. One such writes that she has just completed her medical course, and is fully qualified to practise as a doctor. A young man also writes most gratefully. He is a Baptist minister over a little flock. Another cause for praise is the missionary interest which is increasing among our Christian young men and women. A number have banded themselves together to support their representative in Zululand; others hope soon to be in active service in the foreign field.

Our hearts are made glad by the tidings that precious souls are being gathered in from among the surging masses around the old Home in Bethnal Green. Would that it were thousands arrested by the power of God, before the day of grace is past. With grateful thanks to all the kind friends who have contributed to the work through THE CHRISTIAN, we beg a continuance in prayer.

ANNIE MACPHERSON.

Stratford, Canada.

BRIDGE OF ALLAN CONVENTION.

[From a Correspondent.]

The Convention proved to be a larger blessing even than I ventured to anticipate in our former article. In regard to numbers, if we except Thursday, it was probably not more numerously attended than in former years, but in respect to tone and teaching and results we believe it was far in advance of anything heretofore experienced on Scottish ground.

The object of the gathering was well stated by Dr. Elder Cumming at the opening meeting—namely, "That they might grow in holiness and Christlikeness," and to this end everything that tended to hinder the blessing must be laid aside without reserve. Professor Laidlaw, who followed, referring to the Epistle of James, said it was written to halfhearted believers who tried to follow Jesus and still to maintain their position in the world. On the following day the believers' position as belonging to God was admirably set forth from 1 Cor. vi. 19. The claims of God were very fully and conclusively stated. His love planned our redemption and He redeemed us, so that by his Holy Spirit He might possess us. He exhorted his hearers to yield themselves to God that they might experience the calm and comfort of those who have given themselves up, body, soul, and spirit to Him to whom they belong. He was followed by Rev. Charles Inwood and Rev. G. H. C. Macgregor, both of whom, in characteristic fashion, dealt with the conscience and handled the truth in a very effective way. Mr. Inwood's second address from Philippians i. 21, "For me to live is Christ," was very telling, and not less so his testimony as to how God had blessed him wonderfully since he entered the life of faith. This had been to him the cause of not the very least regret, but a great joy.

There were hundreds present who had not personally seen Rev. Andrew Murray. It was therefore with considerable emotion and great expectation that the multitude heard his name announced as the next speaker. They were certainly not disappointed as they heard of "the motive, and method, and the devotion of the higher life," and "to be led by God through the Christian life till the Lord calls us to meet Him and be with Him for evermore." Mr. Macgregor's address on "Separation" and Mr. Murray's addresses to the ministers and the women, as well as at the general meeting on Wednesday evening, were productive of profound impression, and many had thought that that evening the climax had been already reached—the feeling having been about as intense as is usually the case on the Friday evening. To the advanced state of feeling several things contributed, and amongst others, very specially the clearness and definiteness of the teaching and its immediate results produced by the addresses of Rev. C. G. Moore and others.

Thursday, however, revealed that the climax had not been reached. There was an expectancy and desire that had not yet been fully satisfied. Accordingly the addresses of Rev. F. C. Spurr on the "Magnificence of God," and of Rev. Andrew Murray on "Be filled with the Spirit" were more than cordially welcomed. Any ordinary speaker in ordinary circumstances might seem to be a failure after the experience of the previous evening. Mr. Spurr was so wonderfully helped that, as he united link after link to the chain of Divine unfolding, and came to the last in the personal possession of the Holy Ghost, his entire audience seemed to feel that "they were poor, and blind, and miserable, and naked" in the presence of untold wealth and unsearchable riches. His reference to his own life, and specially the period of sixteen years between his conversion and his being filled with the Spirit, was very telling, and helped many a one to realise that it was possible for the humblest Christian to rise to heights hitherto unperceived. Mr. Murray's address, following immediately upon that of Mr. Spurr, was of the simplest and most practical kind. He led his hearers step by step from the moment that he confesses not to have got the blessing until the moment that he accepts and claims and holds it fast. This he did with such minuteness and care that everyone felt as if he were describing their own case.

When the consecration meeting met in the evening, and was addressed by Mr. Macgregor and Dr. Elder Cumming, each of the speakers felt that the work had been already largely accomplished, and that they had only to take the people by the hand and just lead them into the liberty of the children of God. Dr. Elder Cumming handled the meeting admirably, and specially when he came to the conditions of obtaining the blessing. "Barnabas was called upon to part with his estate; John the Baptist to meet persecution, and within six months' ministry to be beheaded." "The three children had a fiery furnace." "Some there were who were not seeking the blessing in a right way. They did not wait God's time and God's giving. The things which he had stated already brought with them the awful reality of meeting with God. But it is when God leads men through the fire that He Himself is with them, and when we are willing to be entirely at his disposal, He gives Himself fully to us."

During the evening the silence and calm were almost oppressive, and the intensity of feeling was very great. It was not a surprise to many when larger numbers than had ever been seen before in Scotland stood up in token of their heart's desire to be there and then filled with the Holy Ghost. It has verily proved a remarkable season, and one of great refreshing from the presence of God, and the closing missionary meeting and thanksgiving services only served to confirm previous impressions to move all present to praise the Lord for the showers of blessing given to the Convention of 1895.

There were people present from all parts of Scotland—Christian workers, office-bearers in the churches, and the ministry being very largely represented. They have now returned to their homes and their work, carrying with them a personal possession and an impulse in the strength of which they shall labour for the Lord for many days to come. "If ye abide in Me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be given unto you." One of the results of the Convention has undoubtedly been a great strengthening to an already prevalent desire for a national awakening in Scotland.

THE SATISFIED SOUL.

"Shall never thirst again" (John iv. 14).

Who proposes such a blessing?
Who can offer such a prize?
Where, oh, where the stream perennial,
Which such perfect bliss supplies?
Bliss insuring full exemption,
From the curse of Satan's reign,
Telling me in loving accents—
"I shall never thirst again."

These are words, sweet words, once spoken
By the Christ at Sychar's well,
There upon the ears, attentive,
Of an outcast soul they fell;
One who had been daily drawing
From the earth-spring well with pain,
Now was told of what—if drinking—
She should never thirst again.

'Twas Himself—the "Living Fountain,"
"Life Eternal," "Good Supreme,"
All poor nature's thirst is over
When the soul but drinks of Him;
To be satisfied without Him
Is a groundless hope and vain,
Only they who know his fulness
Never, never, thirst again.

Know his fulness—their demerit,
Know his goodness—their dismay,
Know the precious blood which cleanseth,
Purging all sin's guilt away;
These, in Him alone reposing,
From Him life and joy obtain,
Present grace, and future glory,
These shall never thirst again.

Albert Midlane.

MONTORFANO, ITALY.—A correspondent writes:—"I had the happiness recently of visiting Montorfano, the place where the first Italian church has attempted to sever its connection with the Papal power. I found the people despoiled of their meeting place by the strong arm of the law, and reduced to the necessity of worshipping in the open air. This, however, pleasant in the summer time, must in the winter prove a serious difficulty. I found the people simple, earnest, and devoted in their attachment to New Testament principles. May I suggest to Christian tourists that they should give Montorfano a passing visit? They will be delighted with the place, which is one of the loveliest spots in Northern Italy, directly situated on the shores of the charming Lake Maggiore. The church will be encouraged by such proofs of interest and sympathy. It is extremely desirable to have the little church built before the winter sets in."

DR. JOHN G. PATON.

In a letter published in the current issue of "Quarterly Jottings" of the mission fund bearing his name, Dr. J. G. Paton wrote from Melbourne:—

The Lord used me to give the first mission ship Dayspring to our Mission, and after she was wrecked to give the second sailing Dayspring to our Mission; and now, after eleven years' praying and pleading, you can think of my gratitude and joy in being the instrument in raising, through his stewards, what has enabled us to order the building of our third Dayspring with auxiliary steam power—to cost about £7000 in building, etc., and from £2500 to £3000 yearly to keep her.

Having visited and addressed nearly all the congregations of the Tasmanian Church since my return, and also gone through much hard work in Victoria, and seen our church giving the order for the new mission ship, in March, with a heart full of praise to God, I return to the islands with the two new missionaries, and expect other three to follow within a year. I intend to visit the whole group, and then spend my remaining time on Aniwa, advancing the educational and spiritual life of my dear people there. Having seen the present condition and wants of the group, on my return I hope, if the Lord provides the men, soon to see all enjoying Christian teaching. As my dear wife is far from being strong in health, she will not be able to accompany me this time.

THE GOSPEL IN THE OPEN AIR.

The report of the Open-air Mission states that last year was one of much trial as regards funds. The work is conducted with great economy, and vast results are attained even with the present diminutive income. But the great task of evangelising the people at country fairs and races, and of carrying on the ordinary operations of the Mission, cannot be overtaken on such slender resources. There are now 1114 members, who last year held 2088 outdoor services, and attended and evangelised at 743 races, fairs, etc.

An examination of the reports of the agents at these special gatherings contained in some 500 documents leads to these conclusions—that multitudes of people are still lamentably ignorant of the Gospel; that the churches, unaided, are less and less able to cope with the tremendous task of evangelising England's masses; that the people can be reached and are often won for Christ under the unlikeliest conditions from a merely human standpoint; and that the Gospel alone, unsupplemented, is supremely able, in the mighty power of God, to subdue and change the hardest heart and the most degraded life. That no less than 743 such great gatherings as those named above have, during the year, received visitation by the agents is cause for profound gratitude. But this is little compared to the vast need which exists for the visitation of every important race and fair in England—a task comparatively easy of accomplishment if the income of the mission were doubled. A large number of incidents and extracts are given showing how God has again and again blessed his Word to the worst and most hopeless of characters.

As to village work one agent writes:—During the year I have sold 150 Bibles, and am thankful to God for having visited so many villages—about fifty in Kent and Sussex, and many in Wiltshire, Gloucestershire, Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire. No one will question the need and importance of visiting the villages. The need increases every year. It is true the people sin against themselves by neglecting their Bibles and their souls. It is also sadly true that the people are sinned against by those who profess to be guides in spiritual matters. The masses of the people do not want and do not care for the burning of incense, the setting up of confessional boxes, the teaching of baptismal regeneration and priestly power, and choral services—which things are fearfully on the increase, but which can never lead the soul to Christ. Hence I am the more thankful to God that his Word can be, and is, preached in the open-air. Preach Christ, and the people will gather round you and listen; and thankful indeed they are. Hundreds during the year have thanked me for the Word spoken and the Word printed.

Accounts follow of the more ordinary but most blessed outdoor work in London, in parks and at street-corners, some notice is taken of such work in other lands; and the whole concludes with a strong plea for increased support. The secretary is Mr. F. Cockrem, 11, Adam-street, W.C.

EXCITING SCENES AT BUDAPEST.

Recalling with pleasure the recent visit to Budapest of Rev. D. Baron and other friends of missions to Israel, Rev. Andrew Moody sends us a brief description of a meeting in the Hall on the Elizabethring, at which addresses were delivered by Messrs. Goldstein and Davidson, of the Mildmay Mission to the Jews. He writes:—

The brethren intimated the subject, "Salvation is of the Jews," by means of circulars, and the announcement proved attractive in an unusual degree. The hall was crowded, so that there was even little standing room left. Mr. Goldstein spoke in a simple, interesting, and winning way, and although from the first we heard murmurs from some quarters, he was allowed to proceed without serious interruption for about twenty minutes. Waxing warm with his subject, he told them how he had himself been subdued by Christ's love; and when he spoke sorrowfully of Israel—wandering, despised—the audience became restless beyond control. "They gave him audience to this word" despised; but "when they heard that, they lifted up their voices," and began to shout, "We are not despised, we are free men, we are in Hungary free." 'Some cried one thing, and some cried another," and the scene became one of intense excitement, and almost indescribable confusion.

I spoke once and again calmly from the chair, asking the disturbers to leave, but the noise they made was overpowering. A gentleman near the platform rose, and, standing in the passage, endeavoured to make himself heard on the side of order, but the voices of those opposing prevailed. Mr. Davidson mounted a chair in the middle of the hall and tried to speak, but this proved only the signal for a new outburst; they mocked him as a baptized Jew, and some of them, I understand, spat upon him. My Hungarian assistant, Mr. B. Szász, hearing some of them calling out for Hungarian, thought a few words in that tongue might have some effect, and he began to speak, but could not proceed far. At length the police had to be called in. No one was given in charge, but the ringleaders had to give way and leave the hall. When order had been restored, I put the question from the chair whether any occasion had been given for the uproar, and the answer came from various parts of the hall, 'No! No!" We then joined in singing a hymn, and I "dismissed the assembly." The general feeling among us was as if we had witnessed a scene from the Acts of the Apostles (xix.). Next morning the newspapers contained exaggerated accounts of what had taken place, most of them reporting that it had come to a conflict with sticks and umbrellas. One newspaper reported that a doctor in the house had rendered the first assistance to the wounded!

The Jews were much excited, and on the Lord's Day appeared in considerable force in the Mondgasse at our Hebrew meeting. By this time the visiting brethren had left us for other cities. Among those who appeared were, to our amazement, some of the ringleaders of Friday's disturbance. I asked them to be seated, and proceeded to the subject for the day, Psalm cxxxiii., in Hebrew: "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." They were disarmed, partly by the striking subject itself, and partly by the first words of explanation and exposition. I told them that, as they knew well, we were not anti-Semites, but the reverse. I said that Israel was the first-born son, and ought to have taken his place in the front among the nations, that he had lost his place by rejecting Christ, his King, but that he was called to claim his privilege again, and now. This took them apparently rather by surprise, so that the leaders had difficulty in striking the note of opposition. One man, however, rose to make the formal proposal that as they had the Hebrew text before them they should put on their hats. He expected, I think, that I would oppose this, but I said that, while at the Tuesday and Friday lectures I could not allow this, I had no objection at the Hebrew hour that any Jew should put on his hat who chose to do so. A few of those present then put on their hats. After the lapse of about a quarter of an hour the same man rose to propose that those of his brethren who had not put on their hats should be obliged to do so. Now I said "No! Everyone must be allowed in this matter to act according to his own wish." The matter dropped, and we had some very interesting conversation and discussion. When we were drawing to a close I was moved to say, turning to the ringleader of Friday, "Jesus was truly the best Friend the Jews ever had." This brought them to their feet, and there was a movement towards the door. Our meeting was a very remarkable one, and our earnest prayer is that those who are still "breaking the bonds asunder," and "casting from them the cords" of Immanuel's love, may be speedily brought to sit at his feet.

BARBICAN MISSION TO THE JEWS.

In his report of last year's work Herr C. T. Lipshytz gives some remarkable narratives of Jews confessing the name of Christ. One of them, a native of Silesia, in Prussia, since his baptism has been apprenticed to a trade which he is learning with praiseworthy diligence. In a letter to the missionary, announcing his belief in Christ, he wrote: "When I first attended your meeting it was with the express desire of showing how wrong and misleading are your objects and methods of work. But how wonderful are the ways of God, as I now see them so clearly! The very means which I intended to use as a weapon against Christian teaching and preaching became, by God's grace, instrumental in my enlightment as to the way of salvation. Though I have for some time hesitated, I must now tell you that my heart has been renewed through faith in Jesus my Lord. I pray that I may be Divinely helped, so that I may be faithful to the end."

Another convert, the son of a landed proprietor in Austria, had singular experiences. While still young he lapsed into reckless courses, and ceased to believe in God or revelation, salvation or judgment. His case was not simply a revolt against the galling yoke of Rabbinism, but an instance of rebellion against his Maker and contempt for his fellow-man. Being, like thousands of Jews, of a roving disposition, he travelled in Germany, and then made his way to England. Mr. Lipshytz writes: "He came in our way, and we introduced the Gospel to his notice. He laughed, and had no better name than 'rubbish' for the glad tidings of salvation. Parting from him, we said: 'Be sure of one thing—God is not mocked.' Shortly afterwards the young man took ill, and was conveyed to a large hospital. His case was serious; in fact, the doctors pronounced it hopeless.

"With death staring him in the face, the once wild youth became serious; as he reviewed his past life, he was in despair. Over and above these feelings, he was haunted with our warning words, 'God is not mocked,' and he began to pray. He was dismayed as he asked the question, 'How can I meet God?' and he implored the Almighty to give him time in which to prepare for eternal judgment. The chaplain of the hospital spoke kindly to him, and prayed with him. After three or four days of feverish delirium, to the surprise of all, the crisis was passed, and the young man recovered.

"He looked upon this as of God's peculiar mercy, and in order to his repentance. He visited us as an inquirer, and was instructed in the way of salvation. He accepted Jesus as his Saviour, and confessed Him in baptism. In due course he wrote to his friends, telling them of the grace of God. By way of response, he was covered with curses, and cast adrift in the world. He received grace to stand fast in his profession; was taken in hand by the Mission, and apprenticed to a business, in which he is conducting himself with satisfaction."

Mr. Lipshytz and his helpers report much encouragement in their work—evangelistic, educational, benevolent. The Bible class, held every evening, is an agency of special value, affording opportunities for questions to be asked and difficulties discussed. The Converts' Home department exists for the shelter and training of inquirers and confessors of Christ who have been cast off by their friends, and during the year thirty-one enjoyed its hospitality until enabled to get their living in an honourable way. House to house visitation leads to much conversation on the Gospel, and some very interesting specimens of the subjects discussed are given in the report, copies of which may be had from the director of the Mission, 33, Finsbury-square, E.C.

THEATRICAL TEA MEETING.—As Olympia was closed on Saturday, Mr. William Forbes held his last tea meeting for the employés on Friday in the Iron Room, Edith-road, Kensington. After tea solos and hymns were sung, and addresses were given by Rev. G. E. Thorn and Mr. Forbes.

AN EX-MONK ON POPERY.

Father Martin, for fourteen years a Roman Catholic priest, and a member of the Order of Trappists, has renounced Popery and professed Evangelical Christianity. He has lived in Ireland and Rome, Australia and South Africa, in the last-named region engaging in mission work among the Zulus. Last month, at a meeting in the Chapel of Christ's Mission, New York, presided over by Father James O'Connor, the convert briefly related his experiences. In the course of his statement, as given in the July issue of The Converted Catholic (142, West Twenty-first Street, New York), he said:—

"It is a remarkable fact, and one which Protestants can scarcely understand, that no matter how much a priest may hate and loathe the errors and corruptions of Popery, no matter how spiritually-minded he may be, no matter how much he may desire to enjoy the light and liberty of the Gospel—yet, owing to the witchery of superstition, he cannot without the greatest effort tear himself away from the magic influence of Rome. It is a hard thing to face the opposition, abuse, and persecution of that ubiquitous system that dogs his steps and haunts him wherever he goes.

"Rome's evil eye is constantly upon him. Her curses and excommunications are hurled at his head, and even in death his grave is desecrated and his ashes scattered to the four winds of heaven. I know Catholics make out that Popery is the salt of the earth, and the panacea for all the ills of humanity. Every one has a right to his own opinion; but my candid idea of Romanism is that it is the great extinguisher of talent and genius, the foe of civil and religious liberty, and the oppressor of the human race."

Father Martin, after describing the Trappist rules—poor living, with little or no regard for cleanliness, hard work in wearisome routine with enforced silence, said:—"It is a painful and gloomy thing to see pale-faced monks and nuns move about in silence, more like ghosts than living persons. Yet by a strange fascination, they think it is the will of God for them to live and die in that way. I know it for a fact, that many of them believe, and their confessors are continually harping it into their ears, that if they were to run away they would hardly be out of the monastery when the devil would carry them off, body and soul, to hell!

"Monasticism is calculated to weaken the intellect and degrade man. If you only roll your eyes in a monastery, it is a sin. You must have permission to come in and go out, to rise up and sit down, otherwise you are sinning against obedience. When will our Roman Catholic brethren see that works cannot save, but that the just shall live by faith; when will they ascend into the higher atmosphere of faith which alone can satisfy the soul and make them truly Christians?"

TIBETAN PIONEER MISSION.

Miss Taylor has sent home proofs of an Occasional Paper she is about to issue, giving an account of Sikkim, and of the death of Mr. Anders Jensen. Her work at present lies chiefly amongst the numerous parties of Tibetans that nearly every evening encamp here on the mountain sides. Gnatong is situated on the high trade-road to and from Tibet, for wool and other produce. Every evening there are from four to fourteen fresh encampments, with an average of six Tibetans to each camp. "I go out and bid them welcome, and they invite me to sit with them around the fires, which I do; and then after giving each of them one of Mrs. Grimké's text-cards, I tell them the old old story of Jesus and his love for poor lost sinners.

"They generally listen most attentively, and as they come from all parts of Tibet with the wool, the message is carried on far and wide into Tibet. I have given nearly three thousand of Mrs. Grimke's texts, and they are much appreciated. I have also been able to give away over five hundred copies of the Gospels in Tibetan, which I hear are being read by the lamas in various monasteries, even at Lhassa. There is now a great demand for them, and I frequently get requests brought by the merchants from chiefs over the border to send them one of the Gospels in Tibetan. Thus making friends with the Tibetans, and distributing God's Word."

Having at length received permission to reside in Tibet, Miss Taylor has moved forward. Her address is now Yatong, Tibet, viâ Darjeeling, India.

Letters to the Editor.

CONFLICT OF INTERPRETATION.—I.

By Rev. Nathaniel West, Syracuse, N.Y.

Your issue of June 13, 1895, just here, with the earnest words from different contributors in reference to the conflict of prophetic interpretation, has induced me, after some reluctance, to venture the communication herewith sent.

If there is an obligation of any kind laid upon the conscience and heart of the Church by the Lord Jesus and his Apostles, it is, in the unity of the Spirit, to strive after the unity of the Faith. The outcropping indications of a strong desire for this, on the part of many who love the doctrine of the Lord's coming, and believe no millennial glory possible till the King Himself appears, are matter of devout gratitude to God. A patient student of the prophetic Scriptures for fifty years, and conversant with all the systems of interpretation which have been employed to expound the Old and New Testament apocalypses, including the great Olivet Discourse, and having watched closely the development of study and publications in Europe during the last thirty years, and familiar with the pages of the later magazines and religious papers, and the honoured names that appear so often in The Christian and The Morning Star, I do not feel among strangers, although undoubtedly a stranger to most. I therefore speak freely, and I hope kindly, although plainly, and yet, as I trust, respectfully and in a Christian spirit—by which I mean such a spirit as Paul, and John, Peter, Jude, James, and the faultless Lord Himself, showed when correcting error and defending truth.

The obstacles that impede the union and harmony of prophetic students are many. I do not now allude to imperfect education, incompetency on the part of some, a thoughtless and unreflecting enthusiasm on the part of others, or a clear misunderstanding of the organic unity, relation, structure, and interdependence, of Old and New Testament prophecy, and of the fixed laws that govern its exposition. I refer to but two immense impediments, manifest transparently in the United States, and, may I be allowed to add, manifest here only because imitated from "across the seas"—most following "current views on the other side" during the last thirty years, doing little else than repeating here what there has been taught, and either citing names in support of the views advanced, or citing none. I do not speak this in any spirit of disparagement, but simply as fact.

THESE TWO IMPEDIMENTS ARE:—

1. So-called "conferences" of brethren to "study" and "examine" God's Word "for the honour of Christ," and as a testimony against "error," with "fraternal interchange of views" and "mutual love," the conferences controlled by a "management," committed by mutual understanding to the propagation of peculiar views on prophecy, and denying to ministers of the Gospel and others every way evangelical, the same right of free utterance, or liberty of speech, claimed and exercised by the management itself (and those like-minded) for the propagation of its own views. In like manner the publication of "monthlies" committed to the same end, and for a quarter of a century allowing no expression or discussion contrary to the view they defend.

I know of nothing more injudicious, or opposed to the first principles of natural justice and the precepts of Christ, or more destructive of brotherly fellowship and love, of equity and honesty, or more promotive of error, self-confidence, and narrowness, exclusiveness, and spiritual pride, or more calculated to repel the mass of intelligent ministers and Christian people who take knowledge of it, or more fruitful of disregard for the study of prophetic truth. It has turned away thousands of God's true people from the consideration of the doctrine of the Lord's Coming. If Christian ministers and teachers of the Word cannot meet together and discuss their differences with the same "freedom" and "goodwill" which unconverted legal gentlemen practise, or non-Christian scientists so happily illustrate in their conferences and papers read before the public and given to the world; if a sectarian sensitiveness must rule, and the presence of the Holy Spirit be measured and determined by the success of "my position," the quicker all such communion is suspended the better. There are godly men, devout men, learned men, just men, and true men enough, who love the truth more than a self-regarding spirit, or the foremost personality, and there are hundreds and thousands of God's dear children who sincerely desire to know the truth, who are as competent to judge of the merits of a system as any in the world, and long to see God's ministers come to unity as they should, on the great outlines of prophetic truth, and not remain divided and unlovingly antagonistic, to the reproach of religion.

Truth cannot exist without discussion. Nor does she fear discussion. You know the sublime words of your own Milton, and the splendid illustration your own Cudworth have given of her mangled form, and yet of her divine and triumphant power, when given an "open field," and you know the majestic words of your own Lord Bacon, the instaurator of modern inductive science, concerning the sweeping of our "idols" out from the "den," the "tribe," the "market," and the "theatre" of the mind, in order to clear the way for the entrance of the truth. And with what profound humility, and absence of all dogmatism and offensive personality he closes his great "Advancement of Learning" no true student has forgotten. Even as your Newton deemed himself a child gathering pebbles on the shore, while the great ocean of truth lay unexplored before him, and this after his fame was universal, so did your Bacon feel only like a musician tuning his instrument that those who follow after might the better play on its strings. Oh that God, whose ocean of Divine truth is bigger than all critics and commentators, would pour upon us a Christian humility and modesty such as adorned the life and beautifies the memory of the great Englishmen I have named.

2. The second immense impediment to the union and harmony of students of prophecy is the refusal to recognise the merits of each of the three competing systems of interpretation, as well as the inability, in most cases, to detect and avoid their errors. I think it is Dr. Anderson who says, "Narrowness is the bane of all interpretation." That speaks well as evidence that the writer of it has a larger conception of the truth than any one exclusive system will allow, and might be ready to admit that, if the Historical, or Preteristic views need correction in some points deemed fundamental to each, yet not really so, the Futuristic view is amenable to no merely superficial revision, but needs a radical restatement.

The Apocalypse of John, like all other Old and New Testament apocalypses, is from One who expressly calls Himself a Preterist, a Presentist, and Futurist—One who "WAS," and "IS," and "IS TO COME," and who covers, in his communications, the Ends of two distinct Ages, and all the way between. The personal antagonist of Christ—the Antichrist—is also a Preterist, a Presentist, a Futurist, of whom it is said that he "WAS," "IS NOT," and "SHALL COME UP OUT OF THE ABYSS," and "BE PRESENT" in his proper personality—the ape, the mimic, the counterplay of the Son of God in his incarnation, life, death, resurrection, second advent, miracles, throne, kingdom, and worshippers. The Book that reveals these things, and assures us that the beginning of the anti-Christian development contemporated with the beginning of the Christian development, the conflict of the Seed of the woman and the serpent running pari passu with the onrunning age, cannot, in the nature of the case, be limited exclusively to any one of the three great systems just named. That would be to annihilate the prophecy and its author alike.

The Word of God is not only of exact and precise meaning, but it is of mighty comprehension and plasticity. Yet we must ever remember the words of the scholarly and sainted Delitzsch: "Application is not interpretation—Anwendung ist nicht Auslegung." No man in his senses will deny that Nero was the first Imperial Roman Antichrist, though not the last. It is folly to reject this truth because it is "Preteristic." And, were this the place and time, it could be demonstrated triumphantly that this admission, and the inevitable reflection of that fact in the Apocalypse, in no way commits the Book to dependence on the "Nero-fable," which the Book itself demolished to make room for a true faith concerning Nero, past, present, or to come, nor in any way proves that it was written before the destruction of Jerusalem. The whole Early Church for 500 years, without exception, held that Nero was the Antichrist; and if ever a "man," "beast," "devil," "god" could be one, he was the one! There was no other view to take, for Popery had not yet heaved into history.

But it is just as true that the Pope of Rome is "Antichrist," although in different relations, as it is that Nero was "Antichrist." It is not true that the Scripture knows only of one "Antichrist," and he a future one. Every Church Father rises up to protest against this, and were Paul alive he would leap to the platform to oppose it. A "Vicar of Jesus Christ," whose title carries in it Antichrist's monogram, "VICARIUS FILII DEI," as truly as does "NERO CÆSAR," and whose system not only assigns to him the name of "Father," but assails the three mediatorial offices of Christ—his prophetic, by denying the sole infallibility of the Scriptures; his priestly, by creating new mediators, a new sacrifice, and new intercessors; and his kingly, by claiming authority over kings, angels, and even God Himself, is Anti-Christian to the core, and the personal, visible head of it is as truly a denier of the Father and the Son, while confessing both, as is the last Antichrist who more openly will deny, without any hypocritical mask of Christian profession. It is utterly wrong to contest this, and in our exclusiveness to impeach the judgment of the Reformers, some of whom surpassed in grandeur of intellect, knowledge of the Scriptures, and devotion to Christ, the greatest of the Church Fathers.

The year-day theory is not essential to Presentism. The Reformation of the sixteenth century does not need to stand upon it. The idea that the structure of the Apocalypse is one of unbroken chronological continuity is an error. But neither of these, nor the disposition to limit the symbols of the Book to certain specified events of history, are to be compared for a moment with the excesses of an extreme Futurism which runs almost the entire volume of prophetic truth into the ground.

In like manner, there is a future Antichrist, who plainly cannot be the Pope, but is the destroyer not only of the whole papal system, but of Rome herself. Nothing is more certainly revealed in God's Word. It is said of him that he had a personal existence here on earth as a persecutor of God's saints; he "was." It is further said of him that he "is not" now upon the earth, but in Hades, the region of the dead. It is still further said of him that he will, like Jesus Christ whom he imitates and opposes, have a Parousia, or second advent; he "shall come up out of the abyss" and "be present." It is said, finally, he "shall go into perdition." Here is his whole career, his entire personal history.

Who he is, is the question. He cannot be Antiochus, for Antiochus was only his type, and but partially so, and belonged to the Greek, not Roman empire. He is one whose history covers the whole time from Nero to the second coming of Christ, (1) as existent, (2) as non-existent, (3) as re-existent. We cannot explain this spiritually, or merely collectively of the "empire." It is of a person this is predicated.

Futurism has its truth, just like Presentism and Preterism. But it needs to be guarded more than either of the other systems, for while the ablest and grandest Preteristic scholars of modern times hold to their view, many of them never have denied the possibility of a truth in either of the other views, yea some strongly assert it. Futurism, on the other hand, overleaps the whole past, save in the seven Epistles to the seven Churches of Asia, and throws all from Revelation, chapter iv. inclusive, into the future absolutely, as if the Apocalypse were a book which, in the seven Epistles covers the whole time from John to the Advent for the Church; but in the Seals, Trumpets, and Vials, only the time following the Advent, or else that the entire book—Epistles, Seals, Trumpets, and Vials—belongs only to the remote End-Time.

Thus, these three great systems have each their merits and demerits. The refusal to recognise to the full the truth involved in each of them, and to exclude the error and one-sidedness of each, is the second immense impediment in way of union and harmony among the students of prophecy. It is here just as it is in all human systems attempting to explain God's work or God's way. The great Leibnitz saw it, and said of all philosophical systems, "They are true in what they affirm, false in what they deny." It is the same with theological and prophetic systems.

Y.M.C.A. CONVENTION AT SPRINGFIELD.

DEAR SIR,—The correspondent who sent you the excellent account of our recent International Convention could hardly have been present when I spoke, or he would not have written that "Dr. Cuyler made the opening address, and presented the congratulations of the Jubilee Conference of last year." It would have been impossible to offer the congratulations of a body that ceased to exist a year ago. The committee of arrangements assigned to me the topic, "The Message of the Jubilee Conference," and urged me to "strike a key-note" for the Convention. That I aimed to do by pressing upon the Convention that the great duties laid upon the Y.M.C. Associations are (1) to maintain Christian unity in the One Lord and Master; (2) to stand by our One Book against all the scissors of the critics; (3) to depend for power on the One Holy Spirit; and (4) to labour chiefly for the salvation of souls, and building up young men in the Christian life. All social, athletic, and literary benefits were subordinate to this great purpose which was in my beloved brother Sir George Williams's heart when God inspired him to form the noble organisation fifty years ago. To this central idea of my address the Convention cordially responded.

Please make this brief correction, for I do not wish my British brethren in the Y.M.C.A. to suppose that I would travel two hundred miles for the purpose of "offering the congratulations" of a conference no longer in existence.—Yours most heartily,

THEODORE L. CUYLER.

Brooklyn, U.S.A., June 24.

"THE WORSHIP OF ANGELS."

DEAR SIR,—Does not the letter of "Iconoclast," in your issue of June 27, get somewhat beyond the warranting even of that letters uncompromising signature? The "sensuous beauty of sacred tenderness in its sweetest of human moods," may be open to grave objection, in church reredos or window, for the mere possibility involved of its awaking unsanctioned devotional emotions, but it is not easy to perceive an "idolatrous meaning" or feel apprehensive of falling into Mariolatry, in contemplating the mother-gladness of a Madonna and child upon the walls of a house. "Iconoclast's" association of such with satyrs, nymphs, and fauns, seems scarcely reverent. Assuredly the good taste of the category is non-evident.

We may, I think, charitably believe that Raffaelle or Guido painted with solemnised and reverential hand, the subjects so strangely companioned by your correspondent, and described by him as "Symbols, however beautiful they may seem to us, of that which has always been an abomination" in the sight of God! Pictures and engravings of varied scenes in our Lord's life—his miracles, his transfiguration, the Last Supper, even of that most solemn, awesome closing scene on Calvary, have not been deemed unbefitting as Bible illustrations, and in Christian homes. Why is the Saviour, who was a babe, as He was a "Man of sorrows," for us, to be so regarded in his mother-clasped human feebleness? Why should a thought of divided worship attach more to "the Holy Child Jesus" in that mother's arms than when she sat by his side at the Cana-feast, or stood beneath his cross? What Satan-given "glamour" rests on either? Stout John Knox, methinks, had scarcely torn such from the manse's walls, nor saintly Bonar turned his face away.

Of the "insidious danger" through music and song, "Iconoclast" writes wisely, but in all the recent correspondence in your columns on this question, has not the simple point been lost sight of, that in the familiar beautiful Handel song, the idea, so far as I recollect, is not directed towards "Angels ever bright and fair," as objects even of reverential approach, but holds simply a longing appeal to the 'ministering spirits," suggested, it may be, by their carrying of Lazarus into Abraham's bosom—to bear the Christ-saved soul to this bliss. I may be wrong, but is it not possible that "Iconoclast's" indiscriminating hammer may knock down more than it strikes at?

With the preceding letter from Mr. Fenton, we all must be in sympathy; it rings out a healthful, truly valuable note of warning; here indeed, 'abomination" is not too strong a word. And both protest and prayer may well be raised that so hateful a performance as Rubinstein's "Opera" may not be presented on an English stage, though no doubt the attempt will be made to produce the blasphemous work.—Yours faithfully,

Braunton. S. G. PROUT.

"THE WORK OF THE EVANGELIST."

DEAR SIR,—I have been waiting for an abler pen than mine to take up this great subject, but beyond an occasional comment from yourself no one seems to touch it.

Do the churches of Christ fully grasp the true meaning of "an evangelist," when they refuse to give help and welcome to this servant, male or female, who comes to them in the power of the Spirit, seeking to lead home God's straying sheep, because he declines to preach up the special church to which they belong?

As I understand the word, he is simply an ambassador, a bringer of good tidings of God's power and willingness to save sinners.

Though, privately and personally, he may prefer one section of the Church of Christ, he never forces it on his hearers' attention, nor, if possible, lets it appear.

Missions in furtherance of special churches may be held, but that is not the business of the evangelist. His message of love and mercy being delivered, he passes on, and leaves the churches benefited by his visit, to gather up and shepherd the souls brought into Christ's flock. No one church is hindered by his visit, but all ought to be blessed.

After many years of experience in City Mission and other work of the like kind in London, and in close watching of the effects of children's services, my settled opinion is, that the converts join eventually some one of the churches to which the special mission at which they heard the truth was attached for the time being.

Let us therefore welcome the evangelist and give him or her liberty in the name of his Master.—Yours in his service, A. E. PITT.

June 22.

THE HOLY SPIRIT.

DEAR SIR,—Mr. Robert Burn's timely letter in your issue of this week deserves more attention than it is likely to receive. I am glad that he deprecates the use, now so frequent, of unscriptural terms in speaking of the Holy Spirit. The last paragraph in Mr. Burn's letter induces me to write and ask whether we are justified in expecting the Holy Spirit to work apart from the Word? Is it not by means of the truth that He operates on the hearts and minds of men both for salvation and sanctification? (see John xvi. 13-15; xv. 3).—Yours faithfully, GEORGE T. HUNT.

5, St. Ann's-terrace, St. John's Wood, N.W.

DEAR SIR,—I am much in sympathy with Mr. Burn's comments upon the present-day ambiguous expressions, expressions which convey ideas apparently born of misguided zeal, and contrary to the true teaching and guidance of the revealed Word, employed by many of our Christian brethren around us. To those quoted by Mr. Burn I may add another, viz., the frequent prayer for a "double portion of the Holy Spirit," a prayer that cannot be answered and ought not to be offered, as it is impossible for God to give a double portion of Himself.

I will not venture to answer Mr. Burn's questions, but I should like to say that it would be well for all believers to remember that there is no need for them to pray for the Holy Spirit to be sent down, as He is verily amongst us now, and has been since the place was shaken where the Early Church assembled on that memorable day; but it is right for us to "wait upon God" for a fuller manifestation of the Holy Spirit's presence and power, both in our own hearts and lives as individuals, as well as among our churches and Christian communities in general.

I fear that, with the best possible motives, many brethren are holding up before believers prospects of "a second blessing," which have no warrant from God in his Word, and which tend to puff up, and lead to the engenderment of spiritual pride rather than to the weakness of heart and to the trembling at his word, to the possessors of which He has declared that He will look.

Perhaps I may be allowed to quote upon this subject a few words of the great George Whitefield in his sermon on "Walking with God." He says:—"Walking with God implies a settled, abiding communion and fellowship with God, or what in Scripture is called 'The Holy Ghost dwelling in us.' This is what our Lord promised when He told his disciples that 'the Holy Spirit should be in and with them'; not to be like a wayfaring man, to stay only for a night, but to reside and make his abode in their hearts. This I am apt to believe is what the Apostle John would have us understand when he talks of a person abiding in Him, in Christ, 'and walking as He Himself also walked.' And this is what is particularly meant in the words of our text, "And Enoch walked with God," that is, he kept up and maintained a holy, settled, habitual, though undoubtedly not altogether uninterrupted communion and fellowship with God, and in and through Jesus Christ. So that to sum up what has been said on this part of the first general head, Walking with God consists, especially in the fixed habitual bent of the will for God, in an habitual dependence upon his power and promise, in an habitual voluntary dedication of our all to this glory, in an habitual eyeing of his precepts in all we do, and in an habitual complacence in his pleasure in all we suffer."

We can have no shadow of doubt of the mighty pentecostal blessing that God gave to this devoted man two hundred years ago, and I am convinced that if we are to look for a similar manifestation of the Holy Spirit's work among us to-day—and God grant we may—we must look for it on these lines, and in conformity with the Word of God.—Yours truly, C. FORD.

Brixton, July 7.

DRINK AND TAXATION.

SIR,—You call attention in your issue of to-day to the fact that all good sober citizens are compelled, to the extent of having the means to do so forced from them, to "keep drunken paupers, their wives and children." Is this thing right, or is it the endowment of vice under the penal coercion of well-doing? The question may surely well be asked, and it demands an answer. Unquestionably the fact is, in degree, as you have stated. Should no effort be made to alter this condition? Is every and any attempt to do so hopeless? Convinced that the weakness is in measure owing to the incompleteness and merely partial apprehension of the character and extent of the injustice and the evil, I ask you to allow it to be more fully stated. I believe the temperance power and interest would be largely and probably triumphantly served and advanced by a full and complete exhibition and exposure of the root and foundation of this unquestionable and wholly indefensible evil. For the drunkard is not entitled as such to support at the national expense. He is not entitled as a drunkard to throw the burden of the support of his wife and children on the rates. He is so as a pauper. The boon is attached to the consequences of the habits which by all analogy are thus encouraged. As a drunkard merely, he is subject to penalties and punishment which accelerate the consequences. Idleness is probably the most potent factor in spreading drunkenness, as unquestionably it is also the outcome of all drunkenness. But it is in the form of pauperism, the result of idleness, that drunkenness finds its national endowment.

It is to provide this most unreasonable and unjustifiable endowment that every industry, without exception, and all the industrious alike, are now penally mulcted in a fine penally enforced and collected with an ease and completeness existing in no other case. If temperance endeavour were directed with all the energy of its activity to end this surely criminal absurdity, a fatal blow would be delivered to nearly all drunkenness. The shame of its national support at all events would wholly cease. Surely the monstrous folly, to say no worse, of FORCING the industrious to labour for the taxed support of the idleness of vice, may hope for and have an end. The legislative aim should be that no able-bodied vagrant shall receive food or relief until he has in profitable labour set before him earned its value. Meanwhile labour bureaux and labour colonies offer the very best form of remedial measure for the drunkard as well as for the idler, if the one be not always also the other.

I cannot ask for space in your columns for the discussion of methods and details, but I do plead, not merely in the true interests of the poor drunkard and the downward vagrant, and for the sake of the cause of all sobriety, but also in that of those who, in ever-increasing numbers, are in danger because of these things of being themselves engulfed in the perils of poverty and pauperism by no fault of their own, that you will allow attention to be drawn through the channel of your columns, so influential among the benevolent, to this important subject. Will it not be a sorrow to all such, and little if at all short of a national reproach, if another winter steal upon us, and find the country no better prepared to meet its helpless workless multitude than did the past?—Your obedient servant,

M. H. Synge.

24, Landport-terrace, Southsea, July 4.

THE BROUSSA ORPHANAGE.

Cholera, earthquake, and famine have immensely increased the number of orphans in Asia Minor. The Broussa Orphanage had a very hard time last year. During the cholera the Kindergarten and the school were closed, and the school confined to the orphans. The report says:—

"Although the epidemic has not entered our house, still we had to stand three times at open graves—two crippled girls, one with a burned hand and another with broken hip, caused by the fall of a wall, which killed her mother. The third was the youngest son of the principal, a pretty flower, which the Divine Gardener picked up to adorn with it the crown of the Lord. The most impressive sermon comes from the pulpit of an open grave, and these three graves were not fruitless for the inmates of the Home. Some undecided ones have begun to plead for remission of sins and salvation of soul.

"We keep all the inmates busy at work. We sent out many during the year, and took in others in their places. Those who left us in former years are nearly all married; some are serving in Christian families, and others are teaching in Protestant or Armenian schools. We are often asked to send teachers into village schools, and some of our former orphans have succeeded very well in such spheres. We therefore give them such a training and education that they may be able to lead a common village school, should the hand of Providence direct their steps to such a situation.

"Our large family has been mercifully provided for. More has been contributed by native friends than during any one year since the Orphanage came into existence twenty years ago. With the additional help from England, Germany, Switzerland, and America, all our needs were supplied. We most urgently need a small hospital with ten beds; £200 is enough to supply the want."

The Principal of the Orphanage, M. Baghdasarian, writes to us:—"We have fifty orphans in the Home at present, from nearly all parts of Asia Minor, chiefly Armenians. There are some day scholars, and a kindergarten with a special teacher. Two of our three teachers came to us as orphans; with the aid of these we train the little ones in the fear of the Lord. Many children are waiting for admission to the Home, the only Protestant orphanage in this part of Asia Minor; but the funds do not allow of expansion."

COLLINGWOOD-STREET MISSION.

The Working Men's Mission, started eighteen years ago in the New Cut, has grown and prospered. The new report states that "There is now gathered together a large number of men and women who have been greatly benefited by the efforts of the Mission, and now these in their turn seek to be a blessing to others. Our workers recognise the fact that they have been saved to serve." Gospel meetings are held on Sundays and Thursdays. The open air is still resorted to all the year round, meetings being held in the New Cut on Sunday mornings and evenings, and also on Thursday evenings. The indoor Gospel services are comparatively well attended, being made bright with singing and earnest with entreaties to come to Christ and "abhor that which is evil, cleave to that which is good." Many have professed to find the Saviour during the past twelve months. The details of the various branches are full of interest. There is evidently an open door set before these earnest workers.

The Sunday-school has 494 on the books, and about an average of 350 wend their way to the Mission Hall, where there are twenty-six teachers to meet them. The Lord has given many tokens for good in connection with this work, many being now workers in the Mission, and some of the present teachers were once scholars. In connection there are senior Bible-classes for lads and girls. The superintendents are the Brothers T. and J. Young, 33, Nelson-square, Blackfriars-road, S.E.

THE RESCUE SOCIETY.

The Rescue Society exists for the purpose of giving hope to the despairing, and delivering the fallen from the slavery of vice and degradation and shame. Above all, with the help of the Holy Spirit, its workers aim at inducing true repentance of sin and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ on the part of the girls and young women who are gathered in the Society's Homes. The forty-second annual report shows that encouraging success has attended these efforts, at once Christian and humane. The work is not all transient; the lost are found, and the ruined have, through Divine grace, been made new creatures in Christ Jesus.

The report says: "The principle on which the Society was formed in 1853 is still maintained, viz., that it is only by true conversion to God that the girls can be truly and really rescued; and the hundreds of young women in various parts of England and in the colonies, who, after a period of many months in the Society's Homes, are now living honourably, many as members of Christian churches, prove conclusively how abundantly God has honoured these efforts.

"The year 1894 was not marked in any special manner by any change or remarkable occurrence. At each Home the work was pursued with energy and self-denying devotion. Four hundred and seventy-four girls and young women have been fed, clothed for the most part, trained for service, and taught the way of eternal life, and of this number 327 have again gone forth to fight the battle of life, and, it is hoped, to contend more earnestly against sin, especially that form the effects of which this Society is formed to combat or save from.

"The number of preventive cases during the past year has been 243, or thirteen in excess of the fallen. As an adjunct to the preventive work of the Society, the Servants' Homes have ever been regarded since 1857. No less than 815 young women and girls—who have either no home or unsuitable ones in London—have in the short space of twelve months found safe, happy Christian homes at the dangerous time of being "out of place," have been helped to obtain suitable situations, and have been encouraged by rewards to remain therein. It is not easy to over-estimate the value of such places for girls to lodge in. The sad fact that about 90 per cent. of those who become inmates of homes for the fallen are from the servant class, shows conclusively how great the needs-be that they should have some safe place to go to when seeking a fresh situation.

"The total work of the Society, the support of the various homes, with all the staff of workers and the management of the Society generally, with help rendered to the Servants' Home, cost but £5143 14s. 2d., or deducting the earnings of those aided, with payments by relatives, donation towards particular cases, etc., the sum of £3140 12s. 7d."

The secretary of the Society is Mr. C. Stuart Thorpe, 79, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

A MISSIONARY GARDEN PARTY.

On Saturday afternoon a garden party, arranged by the Young Men's Baptist Missionary Association, was held in the grounds of the Stockwell Orphanage. After an entertainment by the children, the Chairman introduced Rev. J. H. and Mrs. Williamson, and Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Anderson, from Calcutta; Mrs. Allen, from Ceylon; Rev. J. J. Fuller and his wife, from the Cameroons; Rev. W. and Mrs. Hill, Revs. A. Long, W. and Mrs. Miller, and J. G. Pike, of Orissa; Mrs. Turner, of Shansi; Mrs. Watson, M.D., Rev. W. A. Wills, of Shantung, China; Mrs. Williamson, of Barisal; and Misses Way and Williamson, of Calcutta. In the evening a meeting was held in the Memorial Hall, presided over by Rev. F. B. Meyer. The secretary (Mr. J. Everitt) read letters from missionaries and others unable to attend. The Chairman said it was hoped the result of the meeting would be to create a missionary spirit among young Christians and lead many to dedicate themselves to the service of their Master. Mrs. Watson spoke of the school work, which was felt to be the one great important thing in China. Rev. Herbert Anderson referred to native literature in Bengal, which proved the influence the Gospel had upon the people. Miss Annie Ryall sang "He wipes the tear from every eye." Miss Way, of the Zenana Mission in Calcutta, made a strong appeal for sister missionaries among the native women. Rev. G. B. Farthing, of Shanzi, showed how God was working miracles among the Chinese in helping the Christians to overcome the awful power of opium. Rev. J. G. Pike described a missionary's day's work in Orissa.

FRUITFUL COLPORTAGE.

The twenty-eighth report of the Metropolitan Tabernacle Colportage Association tells of much excellent work. The colporteurs employed number 73, which is 18 less than in the preceding year. The value of the sales amounted to £8125, representing over 815,000 publications. Copies of the Holy Scriptures form an encouraging proportion of the aggregate. The colporteurs have been much blessed in their visiting among the people, and have conducted 8490 Gospel services. This useful agency is not supported as it should be, so the year closed with a deficit of £464.

From Swadlincote one colporteur writes that when going round a pottery works he was informed that Horner's Penny Stories and wholesome periodicals had "completely knocked a lot of bad books out of time." Mr. Bignell, of Orpington, shows how some of the books travel. He says:—"Twelve months ago a woman asked me if I had a book I could recommend that would do for her son, a soldier in India. I told her that 'John Haggerly,' price 6d., by Jackson Wray, would, I think, just suit. On meeting her, a few days ago, she said she had just received a letter, in which her son said he liked the book very much, and had lent it to over fifty of his companions, who had read it also. Six months ago I sold a book, called 'Mike Healy,' to a housekeeper; after reading it she sent it to a man she knew working on the railway; he read it in his dinner-time, then lent it to his fellow-workmen, till over five hundred of the men had read the same story. I trust it will bring forth a large harvest. A few months ago I met with a footman, who lives outside my district, and I sold him a copy of C. H. Spurgeon's sermons on the text 'Christ Crucified.' On meeting him this week he told me that he had read the sermons to the servants in the servants' hall; the housekeeper, overhearing the sermons read, asked him to read them to her, which he did. Some time ago, in calling at a cottage, the woman said, 'Come in; I have some good news to tell you.' I said, 'What is it?' She said, 'I have this morning found the Saviour.' For some time past she had been dissatisfied with herself, through reading Horner's Stories. This led her to go to chapel. Here she was led to see herself a lost sinner, and she could find no rest until she had sought and found the Saviour."

Communications regarding the work should be addressed to the Secretary, Colportage Association, Pastors' College, Temple-street, St. George's-road, Southwark, S.E.

THE ARABIAN MISSION, ADEN.

The late Ion Keith Falconer did more than found a mission. He gave it the impulse of his own conspicuous whole-hearted devotion. The Mission at Sheikh Othman, Aden, has had its trials. It deals with a notably difficult field, and, apart from the early death of its founder, it has had the discouragement of a good deal of sickness and change in its staff. But, thank God, it goes on, and on improved lines. The Free Church of Scotland has withdrawn the ministerial brother, and is supplying his place with a second medical missionary. It is the conviction of experience that there is no room at present for any other kind of work among the Arabs of that region than medical mission work. Dr. Young writes on June 5: "My work in Sheikh Othman goes on increasing. Since the New Year I have had over 4500 attendances at the dispensary. Many of the patients come long distances, several from Sanaa, and many from other parts of Yemen. In the month of May, the number of patients was 1004, and as I hope Dr. Miller will join me towards the end of the year, the number of those who hear the Gospel will be further increased, as one or other of us will always be touring during six months of the year, and there remaineth yet much land to be possessed."

INTERNATIONAL PENITENTIARY CONGRESS.—The fifth and most important of International Penitentiary Congresses, which have been held at intervals of five years during the past quarter of a century in various capitals of Europe, was held last week at Paris. Since the first conference in London in 1872, the ground covered by the Congress in its deliberations has been gradually extended, and to the three sections into which it was formerly divided, dealing with penal legislation, penitentiary questions, and preventive measures respectively, a fourth has this year been added, whose province it is to consider the best methods of treatment for children and minors.

OUTLINE BIBLE STUDIES.

III.—BIRDS OF SCRIPTURE.

EVERYTHING in God's creation has its place assigned it by the Lord Himself. Everything has its own sphere of action and service, and everything has its existence for the glory of the Creator, and the instruction, comfort, and blessing of man, the fish in the sea, the beasts in the field, and the birds in the air, all speak of God to man. Let us hear what the birds say to us, of God's wisdom, goodness, and love.

1. THE RAVEN speaks to us of God's Providence.

The supply of Providence (Job xxxviii. 41, Ps. cxlvii. 9.) The mystery of Providence (1 Kings xvii. 1-6.) The God of Providence (Luke xii. 24.)

2. THE SPARROW speaks to us of Trust.

There are two lessons from the sparrow.

The value of life (Matt. x. 22), and the use of little things (Luke xii. 6-7.) All who trust God He supplies.

3. THE DOVE speaks to us of Peace.

This, I think, may be called the favourite bird in Scripture, and is a guide to anything that is gentle and good.

The emblems of peace (Gen. viii. 8-12). The means of mercy (Lev. i. 14).

The illustrations of safety (Song of S. ii. 14). The symbol of the Holy Spirit (John i. 32).

The lesson for the Christian (Matt. x. 16). We need wisdom and simplicity.

4. THE EAGLE speaks to us of Strength.

This remarkable bird is often mentioned in Scripture, and is used by the Lord to illustrate spiritual things.

The eagle is strong on the wing (Is. xl. 31). Faith.

The eagle is strong in the eye (Ezek. i. 10). Intelligence.

The eagle is strong in its grip (Prov xxx. 19). Power.

The eagle is strong in affection (Deut. xxxii. 11). Love.

THE BIRD A TEACHER.

"One warm Sabbath morning the doors of a church were open. During the progress of the service a bird entered, and flew up to the vaulted roof, and tried with every effort it could to make its escape. There sat in one of the pews a woman who had been under deep conviction of sin for many months. She watched the bird, and thought how silly it was not to go to the open door of the church and enjoy its liberty at once. When its wings were weary it lowered itself into the body of the church, saw the door open, and flew out in a moment, and was soon singing outside. After the bird had gone this poor woman thought, 'that is just what I have been doing. I have been trying and trying, and the door of mercy is open all the time,' and at once she looked away to Jesus and was saved."—(Information and Illustration).

Soldiers' Home, Winchester. C. EDWARDS.

THE M.D.S.F. IN THE NORTH SEA.—Here is the record of the skipper of the Clulow for one voyage (eight weeks) with the Great Northern fleet:—"What a great many serious accidents we have had in the fleet this last voyage! Besides sickness, I see we have had 343 out-patients and 15 in-patients. One now lies in Yarmouth Hospital, burnt on the vessel on fire, and two lie in the London Hospital; while one, after a week at Yarmouth, was enabled to return to his home at Hull, his fare being paid by the Mission. Truly the mission ship has been a blessing in this fleet to many poor suffering men and lads."

THE BIBLE IN GERMAN SCHOOLS.—The Berlin correspondent of Evangelical Christendom writes:—"The conference of pastors, which meets here every year in the week after Trinity Sunday, this time also occupied itself with the question of a Biblical reading-book to supplant the Bible in the schools. The fact that there are expressions in the Bible which many parents do not like to have read by their children, has always, from time to time, raised the question of printing a kind of 'family Bible,' where these expressions are left out. On the whole, German Christians have opposed such a mutilation of the Bible, and a 'family Bible,' which was once published in Switzerland, met with no sympathy here; but in Bremen a 'school Bible' has been published, and introduced into all schools by authority of the Senate. The speaker at the conference who read the introductory paper, a schoolmaster and layman, decidedly opposed the 'school Bible,' which would only tend to deprive our people of the full Bible. In fact, the respect we owe to the Word of God ought to prevent any such change or abridgment of the inspired text. Another question is, whether Bible stories are to be written for children, and whether portions of Scripture are to be inserted in reading-books. This is quite harmless, and may prove useful."

THE Y.M.C.A.

THE Cheltenham Y.M.C.A. is about to move into new and enlarged premises in which accommodation will be provided for boarders.

The Clapham Junction Association commenced work in its new premises, the old Vestry Hall, Battersea Rise, on Sunday afternoon, 7th inst.

The Central Association (London) is arranging for a fortnight's mission to men at Exeter Hall in September next, to be held by Rev. Frank Webster, of Birmingham.

The committee of the new Association at Gloucester have secured excellent premises for the work, which they contemplate opening in about a fortnight's time.

The Buenos Ayres Y.M.C.A., 587, Avenida de Mayo, is greatly in need of Spanish and Italian tracts for prayerful distribution at the Spanish Gospel meetings.

The new premises secured for the Wednesbury Association through the kindness of Mr. W. H. Lloyd are now ready for occupation, and will shortly be entered upon.

Gratifying response has been made at Totterdown, Bristol, to the appeal of the local Y.M.C.A. for funds for a new building. Much spiritual blessing has recently attended the work.

The increased attendance at the Tuesday evening Bible-class of Clapham Y.M.C.A. is a source of much thankfulness, these meetings being marked by the conversion and building-up of young Christians.

Mr. R. F. Crosland, of Cleckheaton, has consented to aid the Associations throughout the North Midland District during the approaching autumn and winter by conducting evangelistic missions for young men.

Mr. Geo. Henry, of Hastings, has been appointed a vice-president of the National Council. The names have also been added of Mr. Alfred Haley, of Wakefield, and Mr. J. Compton Rickett, of London.

Flashes, the organ of the Sunderland Association, reports that success has attended the open-air meetings since their commencement on Whit Sunday, and eight young men have received definite blessing.

In connection with the Derby Association, a very successful "camp" has been stationed, for the past three weeks, at the pretty village of Duffield. Much interest was manifested by the villagers and others in the camp services on the Sunday afternoons.

At the opening of the Hillsbro' (Sheffield) Association, five ministers took part in the proceedings, two of whom testified that the Association had been the means both of their conversion and of their introduction to and early training in Christian work.

Messrs. J. R. Mott and R. E. Speer, who have been so greatly used among students, intend visiting India next winter. The special work of Mr. Mott will be in connection with the colleges of the East. He is expected to reach Ceylon early in December. He will give about three months to Ceylon and India.

The annual report of the Calcutta Association, just published, shows a membership during the year of 300. Six young men have confessed Christ since the work began, as the direct result of the meetings, and upon several others the Association was one of the main influences leading to their decision. On the whole the year has been very encouraging.

A united conference of the Plymouth, Devonport, and Laua Associations was held on July 3, in the garden of Mr. Henry Hurrell, of Plymouth. A most helpful time was spent. Mr. Albert E. Bull opened a conversation on "members' responsibilities," which was very heartily entered into by the friends present. Mr. Roberts followed with a brief account of his American tour.

Quiz, a weekly Adelaide paper, gives a sketch of the Sunday-night meeting held in the Theatre Royal by the Y.M.C.A. The writer, evidently not a frequenter of Gospel services of this kind, writes fairly. There was an attendance of between 600 and 700, composed of "all sorts and conditions of men, women, and children. Some had the appearance of regular church-goers; others looked as if they were not accustomed to worship in any shape or form, but these latter were largely in the minority."

The Y.M.C.A. at Stockholm was formed in 1884, and at the end of that year the total number of members amounted to but 40. Through many difficulties and obstacles, particularly from the High Church party, the Association has now worked its way to a point of development, when larger and more suitable premises have become indispensable. Half-a-dozen small and ill-ventilated rooms are all that the Association at present can offer to its 1200 members and the numerous friends from foreign countries, who in summer-time visit the beautiful capital of Sweden, and it has therefore been decided to collect means for a new building. At a drawing-room meeting kindly convened by Louisa Lady Ashburton at Kent House last summer, for the purpose of forwarding this good work, it was attempted to raise £1000 for a "British Floor" in the proposed building, and up till now about £600 has been collected towards that sum. The secretary to the fund is Mr. Alexander Welin, 9, London-street, E.C.

The monthly meetings of the National Council were held at Exeter Hall on Friday, under the presidency of Sir George Williams. The Council had the great pleasure of welcoming the Hon. Jno. Wanamaker, who is a warm friend of Association work in America and in all the countries of the world. In the course of a brief address, Mr. Wanamaker said:—"We have come to realise in America that the way to take care of the country is to take care of the young men; and there has come into the work a good deal of solemnity, a good deal more of organisation, a good deal more that is practical; a good deal less of debt—which at one time hampered the Association very much. They are building a good many good buildings, and they have the confidence of people to a degree that they never had before." Referring to the recent Jubilee celebration, in which he sustained so prominent a part, and to the world-wide character of the work, Mr. Wanamaker said:—"The next ten years will show the growth of the past fifty years. That seems a large thing to say, but I believe it."

EDITH-ROAD MISSION, STRATFORD.

OVER a dozen years ago a few devoted men and women opened a mission centre in Chandos-road, Stratford, hoping thereby to reach some of the many residents who were neglecting public worship and to influence the large numbers of children in the district. Though working in a ramshackle building, under very unpleasant conditions, preachers and teachers were encouraged by fruit of their labours. Friends who knew the need of the district commended the effort, and the late Mr. Spurgeon frequently allocated students from the Pastors' College to supply the pulpit. In due course the mission was affiliated with Cann Hall Baptist Church, Leytonstone, a connection which has been in the highest sense helpful. Although the church, with its working-class membership and building debt, was not free to extend much financial aid, it cordially fostered the mission, and comforted the workers by the comfort wherewith it was itself comforted of God.

At length the work outgrew the room which, by accommodation of speech, was called a "hall," and it was determined to build a more suitable place. A site was secured not far from the old quarters, and on Thursday last a capital iron hall, to seat 250 people, was opened in the Edith-road. The inaugural meeting was presided over by Mr. F. L. Edwards, of Loughton, and addresses were delivered by Pastor G. T. Ennals and other friends. The work is self-supporting, but over £350 is still owing on the new building. Confident in their spiritual aims and Scriptural methods, the workers have made an admirable beginning, and their undertaking is earnestly commended to the sympathy of those who are interested in the evangelisation of East London. The treasurer of the building fund is Mr. C. H. Lake, Aldersbrook, Wanstead, E.

A NEW MISSION VESSEL.—Mr. Stephen Burrows writes that the Mission is adding the St. Paul, with a steam launch, to the present Mission fleet. The Hope and the St. Paul cruise from Malta to Civita Vecchia, and do mission service in the Bay of Naples and elsewhere. The work is growing and God is giving blessing. Address, the Sailors' Rest, 7, 2°, Vico del Piliero, Naples.

TURIN.—In the Gazzetta del Popolo the statement has been made that the inhabitants of Marentino have made certain complaints to the civil and ecclesiastical authorities, but without success. They have therefore resolved to wipe their hands of the Roman Church, and place themselves under the ægis of the Waldensian body. On May 24, Signor G. Ribetti held a conference on the "Gospel of Christ." More than 400 persons gathered around him in the open piazza, who listened with the greatest attention, and applauded him to the echo. Probably his address led the people to the decision above alluded to.—Evangelical Christendom.

SAILORS' WELCOME HOME.—The July muster of the Christian Lifeboat Crew took place last week at the Welcome Home, Ratcliff-highway, under very auspicious circumstances. The Fo'c'sle was crowded with representatives from Russia, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Holland, America, Africa, as well as from our own country. Miss Child gave out the text for the month, Psa. x. Mr. Jay and Colonel MacGregor followed with instructive addresses. Sailors gave their practical experience as to God's dealings with them. A brother from the Canary Islands and a Dutch undergraduate also took part.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND

The report of St. John's, Upper Holloway, shows good and satisfactory work.

Rev. George Robert Bell has been given the vicarage of St. Peter's, Battersea.

Rev. T. T. Griffith, rector of Seale, Surrey, has announced his intention of resigning in August.

The ancient parish church at Callington, near Plymouth, was partially destroyed by fire last week.

The Church Missionary Society is anxious to build a new mission hospital and dispensary in Old Cairo.

General sympathy is felt with Rev. C. J. Ridgeway, vicar of Christ Church, Lancaster-gate, who has lost his wife under distressing circumstances through misadventure in taking an anæsthetic.

The Bishop of Liverpool has already fixed upon the last Sunday in January, 1896, as the date for the observance of the Diocesan Temperance Sunday. It is expected that the Bishop of Carlisle will take part in these proceedings.

Rev. A. Lukyn Williams, of the London Jews Society, has accepted the charge of Guilden Morden, Cambridgeshire. The strain of work at Palestine-place during the last four years has told upon his health, and the comparative rest of a small country living will be very welcome.

Dr. Rayson has consented to read a paper at the approaching Liverpool Diocesan Conference on Foreign Missions, and it is anticipated that the bishop's past experiences in missionary enterprise will greatly augment the interest in this important discussion.

Rev. J. M. Laycock having resigned, through ill-health, the living of St. Peter's, Colchester, has issued an address to his sorrowing parishioners and friends. There is in it a faithful declaration of Evangelical principles, and it breathes a spirit of toleration and brotherliness, especially towards the Nonconforming churches.

The Girls' Friendly Society, which has held its annual conference, has for its President the wife of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and amongst its numerous associates and members all ranks and ages are represented. Starting from the idea of providing a friend for each working-girl member when absent from home in a lady of suitable age and experience, it has steadily aimed at raising the standard of morals among all who belong to it, and of increasing their stock of innocent pleasures. Its associates belong to the Church of England, but it admits members of all religious denominations and of all callings and occupations, a virtuous character being the only condition of admission to its ranks.

CONGREGATIONAL.

A new chapel has been opened at Lavendon, near Northampton.

Rev. J. T. Camm has closed his pastorate at Golborne, near Wigan.

Lion-walk schools, Colchester, report nearly 1000 children and sixty-five teachers.

Rev. Harcourt J. Just has been recognised as pastor of Oak-street Chapel, Accrington.

Dr. Amory Bradford will preach at Carr's-lane Chapel, Birmingham, on July 21 and 28 and August 11 and 13.

Fulham Church reports eighty-nine members added during the first year's pastorate of Rev. H. J. Shirley.

Principal Fairbairn has sailed for New York en route for the Summer School of Theology at Cleveland, Ohio, and Chautauqua.

Miss F. A. Williams, of Didsbury, has been accepted by the directors of the London Missionary Society, and appointed to the Bellary Mission, South India.

At the close of service on Sunday night in St. James's, Newcastle, the young pastor, Rev. J. H. Jowett, intimated his acceptance of the call to Carr's-lane Church, Birmingham, as successor to the late Dr. Dale.

Rev. Gilbert Ellis Ireland, of the Christian Church, Montana, U.S.A., formerly of the Pastors' College, is on a visit to England, and will occupy the pulpit in the Whitefield Tabernacle, Finsbury, every Sunday in July.

Rev. R. Balgarnie has been preaching at the Bar Church, Scarborough, where he commenced his ministry in 1851. The open-air services on the foreshore, which were commenced in 1885, have been resumed for the season.

A special mission for young people is being conducted at Abbey-road Baptist Chapel, St. John's Wood, by Rev. John Mitchell. The attendance has been fairly large, and the good proportion of young men at the services has been an encouraging feature.

Rev. R. M. Davies has concluded his pastorate at Hope Chapel, Oldham, where he has been minister for fifty-two years. The church at his settlement numbered thirteen persons. "Mr. Davies," writes a correspondent, "with unwavering constancy, has laboured to the verge of four-score."

On Saturday no less than fifteen benevolent and missionary societies received an equal share of £12,008 railway stock under the will of the late Mr. Richard Ash, of Bristol. Among the societies benefited are the London Missionary Society, Church Aid and Home Missionary Society, Irish Evangelical Society, Colonial Missionary Society, together with the Colleges at Hampstead, Oxford, and Plymouth.

The annual floral festival at Christ Church, Westminster Bridge-road, was held on July 4. The decorations were very tasteful and beautiful, and the attendance one of the largest on record, the floor of the spacious church being filled. The reports were full of thanksgiving and joy for the wonderful manifestations of God's goodness during the past year. Addresses were given by Dr. Newman Hall, Dr. J. S. Spurgeon, Rev. G. E. Asker, and Mr. J. W. Benn, M.P. During Dr. Newman Hall's speech, an allusion to the present pastor, Rev. F. B. Meyer, led to a long-continued outburst of applause, which culminated in the whole congregation standing up and singing the Doxology. The congregation is evidently closely attached to their minister.

Calls.—Rev. W. H. Bradford, of Needham Market, to Trinity Chapel, Brixton (accepted); Rev. H. Webb, of Allerton, to Queen-street, Leeds; Rev. H. M. Sime, of Edinburgh, to Holloway, London; Rev. C. Sales, of Limehouse, to East Parade, Leeds.

Resignations.—Rev. J. F. Lepine, of Trinity Chapel, Croydon; Rev. S. E. Dodge, of Bassingbourn; Rev. T. S. Ross, of Charlotte-street, Carlisle; Rev. Robert Russell, of Shotts, N.B.

BAPTIST.

New chapels are being built at Bacup and Long Eaton.

Rev. C. T. Johnson has been elected president of the Cornwall Union.

Rev. E. G. Laurence has resumed his duties at Rosebery-park Chapel, Pokesdown.

The resignation of Rev. W. E. Blomfield, pastor of Turret Green, Ipswich, has caused widespread regret.

Dr. Maclaren has undertaken to deliver a course of theological lectures to the students of New College, Manchester.

Mr. H. Youlden has commenced his ministry at Unthanks-road Chapel, Norwich, which was severely damaged by the late gale.

Rev. T. R. Matthews has been welcomed home at Mundesley on his return from a voyage to Australia and Tasmania for the benefit of his health.

As a result of a mission conducted for the past three years at Early Rise by the young men's Bible-class at Wycliffe, Reading, a new mission chapel is being erected.

Successful Sunday-school anniversary services have been held in connection with the Willesden-green Baptist Church. An early "midsummer Sunday morning service" was conducted by the pastor, Rev. William J. Sears.

Rev. W. R. Bowman, of Southport, assistant district secretary of the B. and F. Bible Society for Lancashire and Cheshire, is about to return to London, having been appointed Assistant-secretary of the Society for the North Metropolitan District.

The committee of the Baptist Missionary Society has accepted offers of service from Mr. John Bell, of Regent's Park College, and Mr. F. W. Jarry, of the Pastors' College, the former for work on the Congo, and the latter as a missionary to India. Revs. G. B. Farthing from China, S. J. Jones from Dinapore, H. E. Barrell from Bombay, and Mrs. Timothy Richard from Shanghai have been welcomed.

Five missionaries will be leaving in the autumn to reinforce the staff in India. Three of these are going out for the first time—Misses Edith Mannington, Calcutta; Edith Clare, Bankipore; and Phillips, Agra. Misses Way and Annie Williamson will resume work in Calcutta. The committee have accepted "Sister Ruth," Miss Edith Greig, for work in China. She will probably leave England early next year, with Mrs. Dr. Watson, travelling with her to Tsing-choo-fu.

Calls.—Rev. W. E. Blomfield, of Ipswich, to Queen's-road, Coventry (accepted); Rev. P. Lewis, of Chipping Camden, Rev. Ernest Hughes, to Fraserburgh, N.B.

Resignations.—Rev. J. Bailey, of Glossop-road, Sheffield; Rev. C. A. Ingram, of Leafield.

METHODIST.

New chapels are being built at Aspatria and Amington.

Rev. Thomas Cook, on leaving Melbourne, goes to Queensland, and will then proceed to Ceylon.

Rev. William Arthur, who is now in England, hopes to attend Conference. His health has considerably improved.

Clifford-street Chapel, Hereford, having become inadequate for the needs of the church, a site has been purchased on which it has been decided to build.

A two days' convention at Brampton for the deepening of the spiritual life was addressed by Revs. W. Keating, J. E. Page, G. Jackson, F. Inwood, and E. J. B. Kirtlan.

Rev. Jabez Bell, at present stationed at Dartford, continues on furlough, and after serving the churches as missionary deputation will return to Banni, Fernando Po.

A convention to promote Scriptural holiness has been held in Southport, sermons being preached by Rev. Dr. Jenkins, who has conducted the opening services of these conventions for several years. Two or three meetings were held each day last week in a large tent.

The annual assembly of the United Methodist Free Churches is holding its meetings this week in Calvert-street Chapel, Norwich. The retiring president is Alderman James Duckworth. It is generally believed that Rev. W. R. Sunman, of Burton-on-Trent, will be his successor. The increase of members to be reported this year exceeds any that has been realised since 1883.

Letters dated March 12, April 1, and April 9, have been received from Rev. H. Buckenham, of the Zambesi Mission, Central Africa. Mr. and Mrs. Buckenham had been recalled on the ground of ill-health, but they now report their health so much improved, and the openings for missionary labour so numerous and promising, that they ask to remain. Mr. and Mrs. Pickering, sent out to succeed them, will become their colleagues in a work which, after weary waiting, gives promise of splendid success.

The committee of the Wesleyan Missionary Society has reached a very important decision in resolving to ask the Conference to sanction an immediate attempt to raise £50,000 for foreign missions. The present accumulated debt is £30,478 15s. 10d. Toward this amount £4,760 have already been raised. Further considerable sums have recently been promised on three conditions—first, that a sum at least sufficient to wipe out the debt be raised; second, that debt be not allowed to accumulate in the future; and, third, that the balance contributed beyond the amount of the debt shall be applied to the consolidation and extension of the work abroad.

PRESBYTERIAN.

A fine new church has been opened at Fisher-street, Carlisle.

The opening of the new churches at Bromley and Finchley proved very successful.

The foundation stone of the new mission hall at Willesden Green is to be laid on Saturday, July 13.

The London Presbytery, South, has sanctioned a grant for mission work among hop-pickers in the Edenbridge district.

The 223rd anniversary of the church at Great Salkfield, built originally under the "Five Mile Act," was celebrated last week.

The Christian Evidence Society has held an interesting meeting at the Caledonian Christian Club, in order to interest Presbyterians in the work. Mr. Samuel Smith, M.P., presided, and spoke vigorously.

Dr. Pentecost sailed for America on Wednesday in the Spree, for a two months' holiday in the United States. He leaves his church in a most satisfactory condition in all branches of its work, and these are constantly increasing.

Rev. George C. Lorimer, D.D., pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass., U.S.A., will occupy the pulpit at Marylebone Presbyterian Church, next Sunday, and on all the rest of the Sundays of July and August. Crowded audiences attended his ministrations during the two Sundays he ministered in the same church last August.

Calls.—Rev. W. P. Jones, of Bettws, to Seion and Horeb, Flintshire; Rev. H. E. Michie, to Stonehaven (accepted); Rev. R. T. Jack, of Stonehaven, to Penicuik; Rev. J. H. Miller, to Elie; Rev. E. S. Gunson, of Paisley, to Clydebank, Glasgow.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

There are now 11,585 S.A. officers preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ throughout the world.

6000 persons were present at General Booth's meeting in the King's Gardens, Copenhagen, on Sunday.

The Yarmouth Beach Concert Ring, enclosed and fitted with stage seats, has been placed at the disposal of the Army for Sunday afternoon meetings.

Mrs. Ballington Booth has been granted a licence to perform the ceremony of marriage, being the first woman officer in the Army to receive this power.

Dr. Parker has lent the City Temple for the final farewell meeting of the party of officers bound for Japan, which is to be conducted by General Booth on the 15th inst.

The extension of Social operations in the Metropolis has necessitated the leasing of a third wharf situated at Millwall Docks; 1500 tons of wood for chopping has just been received there.

The Social scheme is operating in seventeen different countries and colonies, and now includes seventy-one food depôts, twenty-one workshops and factories, eighty-one slum-posts, fifty-seven rescue homes, two hospitals, twenty-nine labour bureaux and registry-offices, eleven prison-gate homes, six farm colonies, and three crèches.

FALLEN ASLEEP.

At Timperley, Cheshire, on 2nd inst., Mr. Roderick Forbes, for a quarter of a century a devoted Sunday-school worker at Northowram, Halifax.—At Chale, Isle of Wight, Miss Jane Russell, a member and worker with the Methodists for sixty years.—At Cwmtwrch, Swansea Valley, on 29th ult., Rev. Thomas Evans, a Wesleyan minister.—At Bourne, Lincoln, on 1st inst., Mrs. Parker, wife of the Rev. T. H. Parker.—Near Whatsandwell, Chesterfield, on the railway (by an accident), on 29th ult., Rev. G. R. D. Austin, aged 47, a valued Primitive Methodist minister and superintendent.—At the Lawn, Battersea, on 30th ult., aged 76, Mr. Robert Miller, a faithful servant of Christ, and a liberal giver.—At Burslem, Mrs. Medicraft, wife of the well-known Rev. J. Medicraft, and herself an esteemed worker.—At New Quay, on 1st inst., Rev. John Jones, aged 82, an honoured Welsh minister.—At Fenny Stratford, Mr. James Bailey, a leading Baptist official.—At the Heath, Uttoxeter, Mr. F. Gregory, for thirty years a preacher of the Gospel.—At Bury, Councillor T. Thornley, aged 45, an active Sunday-school and Bible-class leader.—At Neath, Mr. H. Revel, a devoted preacher, Sunday-school, and foreign mission worker.—At Heckmondwike, Mr. John Oxley, an earnest worker, and one of the pioneers of temperance in the district.—At Warthill, near York, on 3rd inst., Rev. S. B. Craig, for fifteen years vicar of the parish.—At Potmore, co. Antrim, Wm. Sutton, a devout Christian worker, aged fifty-nine years.—At Kingstown, Rev. John Lynch, incumbent of Monkstown, co. Dublin, aged seventy-five years.

Notices.

Communications Received with Thanks.—E.S. W.J.H. E.J. S.G.P. B.W.M. E.M. J.M. J.B. C.E. J.K. N.W. B.S.M. W.K. M.J.J. R.C. G.B. W.J.H.B. M.M. H.J.E. W.H.P. J.D.R. W.H.B. T.H. W.A. G.S. M.H.S. M.C. M.G. C.R.H. R.H. W.C. M.H.S. A.M. F.C.S. G.E.P. J.J. W.C.T. W.M.C. H.B. O.M. W.D. B.W. D.J.T. F.G.D. F.A.S. J.F.T.H. G.T.H. C.M.B. R.P.W. F.G.T. N.H. B.B. M.R. J.W.C. J.A.H. D.M.D. C.F. R.P. J.G.K. P.G. W.W. C.S.T. S.M.S. E.H. B.S. A.A. G.M.M. A.H.M. A.C.M. J.C. J.B. M.B. C.H.A. J.W.A. S.D.W. J.O.W.

Applicants for Tracts.—J. Smith, Colporteur, 58, Kingsbury, Aylesbury; William Robinson, 2, Clarence-court, Muslin-street, Hope-street, Salford; Miss Beswick, 10, Northgrove, Urmston, near Manchester; Miss Wilkinson, 191, Princess-street, Manchester; L. Pridmore, 17, Ann's-street, Union-square, Islington, N.; Mr. M. Shuttleworth, High-street, Crawley, Sussex; T. Patterson, 4, St. George-place, Blackill, co. Durham; Chas. R. Weller, 14, Ausdell-road, Peckham, S.E.; H. A. Rowland, 80, Cadogan-terrace, Victoria Park; E. J. Snow, 14, Packington-street, Islington; C. Wilson, 33, St. Paul's-crescent, Camden-square, N.W.; J. W. Julier, 10, Pickard-street, City-road, E.C.; Warwick Bishop, Port Isaac, Wadebridge; Wm. Rowe, Medros, Cornwall; Robert V. Orr, 81, Rotten-row, Glasgow; Wm. Rosvear, St. Teeth, Cornwall; George E. Pearce, Free Lending Library, Camelford; J. Jackson, 23, North King-street, North Shields; Henry Haswell, 39, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury; A. Granger, Ashleigh, Cliftonville, Margate; W. Burgess (for seaside), Benhill-street, Sutton, Surrey; Private J. Fawcett, G Company, 2nd Durham Light Infantry, Mhow, India; A. W. Gould, Denmead, near Cosham, Hants, parcels per Cosham; Sidney T. Cooke, 19, Coptic-street, Chambers, Bloomsbury, W.C.

☞ As it is found that infidels and others send papers to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers should be carefully read before being given away.

THE EVANGELISTIC MISSION.

The new Pier Pavilion, St. Leonards, has been taken for Sunday evenings during the remainder of the summer for special services in connection with the Evangelistic Mission. Mr. J. J. Sims, of Canada, is the preacher for the next two weeks, and he will also conduct open-air services on the Carlisle Parade, Hastings, each week night. Christian workers resident in or visiting this watering-place are invited to assist in these services.

Mr. J. J. Sims has paid another visit to Boston, holding meetings in various halls. Arrangements have now been made to erect the large marquee of the Evangelistic Mission in the centre of the town for a six weeks' mission, commencing Lord's Day, July 21.

Earnest prayer is asked on behalf of all these special efforts.

Eastbourne.—Bible readings on the deepening of spiritual life will be given, during July and August, in a tent on the upper lawn at Rev. Dr. Brewster's, Villa Flora, Upperton-road, Eastbourne, every Friday, at 3.30 p.m. All are invited. The speakers will be Revs. C. G. Moore, J. B. Figgis, W. Houghton, Captain Baring, etc.

Colour Photography.—From the Photochrom Company, Ld., 61, Ludgate hill, we have received some beautiful samples of their views of Palestine, coloured by the Zurich process. How the results are brought about we cannot say, but the photographs in their finished state are marvellously beautiful, and, so far as we can judge, faithful to nature.

A BRAZILIAN RAGGED SCHOOL.—Rev. E. Vanorden writes from Sao Paulo, May 4:—"We have the largest ragged Sunday-school in Brazil, in the poorest and most disorderly suburb in Sao Paulo. We can no longer accommodate the many children who come to our small room, which can hardly contain fifty, when as many as 125 have been there. We need £500 to purchase the building and enlarge it. Will some friends advance this amount on a mortgage on the building for five years? Property is rising steadily here, and within five years it would be worth at least double. Mr. M. H. Hodder, 27, Paternoster-row, will receive communications."

The Attention of OPEN-AIR WORKERS, TRACT DISTRIBUTORS, EVANGELISTS, COLPORTEURS, SABBATH SCHOOL TEACHERS, and all other CHRISTIAN WORKERS is called to the following announcements:—

Tracts

AT SPECIALLY ADVANTAGEOUS PRICES.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

A Parcel of 10,000 Tracts, about 700 Varieties, for £2 12s. 6d. net.
" " 20,000 " " " £5 0s. 0d. net.

			If sent Carriage Paid,
1,000	PLAIN QUESTIONS. 16 Varieties. In the Words of Scripture.	for 2/6 net.	2/9 net.
1,000	"THE SCRIPTURE SAITH." 16 Varieties. Giving the Words of Scripture with Illustrative Incidents.	for 2/6 net.	3/- net.
1,000	BUNYAN LEAFLETS. 16 Varieties. A series of Rousing Appeals selected from John Bunyan's Works.	for 2/6 net.	3/- net.
1,000	WORDS FOR WAYFARERS. 16 Varieties. Addressed to the Unconverted.	for 2/6 net.	3/- net.
1,000	HERALD OF MERCY TRACTS. 64 Varieties, 8vo size. With small Illustrations.	for 3/6 net.	4/1½ net.
1,000	HERALD OF MERCY TRACTS. 64 Varieties, 16mo size, 4 pp. each. With small Illustrations. Tinted paper.	for 3/6 net.	4/1½ net.
1,000	LITTLE TRACTS FOR LITTLE READERS. 16 Varieties. Chiefly Narratives; for Presentation to Children. Tinted paper.	for 3/6 net.	4/1½ net.
1,000	LAMPS FOR LITTLE FEET. 16 Varieties. Interesting Narratives for the Young. With Illustrations. Tinted paper.	for 3/6 net.	4/1½ net.
1,000	BLACKDOWN TRACTS. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each. 8vo. Narratives, &c.	for 5/- net.	5/10½ net.
1,000	NARRATIVE TRACTS. By the late Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Gosse. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each. 8vo. Tinted paper. Illustrated.	for 5/- net.	5/9 net.
1,000	TRACTS BY BROWNLOW NORTH. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each. Artistically printed in old faced Type, on Tinted paper.	for 5/- net.	5/9 net.
1,000	PICTURES OF LIFE. 8 Varieties, 4pp. each. Illustrated. A series of Striking Narratives.	for 5/- net.	5/9 net.
1,000	HERALD OF MERCY LEAVES. 150 Varieties, 2 pp. each. Quarto size. Illustrated.	for 5/- net.	6/1½ net.
1,000	WORDS OF GRACE AND TRUTH. 16 Varieties. Printed in Chocolate and Blue.	for 5/- net.	5/9 net.
1,000	ILLUSTRATED HERALD OF MERCY TRACTS. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each. In large type.	for 7/- net.	8/- net.
1,000	GOSPEL TEMPERANCE TRACTS. 16 Varieties, 4 pp. each. Illustrated. By J. B. Gough.	for 7/- net.	8/1½ net.
1,000	HERALD OF MERCY LEAVES. About 75 Varieties, 4 pp. each. Quarto. Illustrated.	for 10/- net.	12/- net.
1,000	CHOICE SAYINGS. 40 Varieties. Tastefully printed on Tinted Paper. By Robert C. Chapman, of Barnstaple.	for 10/6 net.	11/3 net.
1,000	PICTORIAL PAPERS. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each, 4to size. Each with a large Illustration.	for 10/6 net.	11/10½ net.
1,000	ILLUSTRATED QRTO. SERIES. 5 Varieties, 4 pp. each. 4to size.	for 10/6 net.	12/- net.
20,000	TRACTS (If ordered in single 1000's will cost)	£5 9 6	£6 6 6

SPECIAL OFFERS.

20,000 TRACTS.
(1000 each of the above 20 Series), about 700 Varieties, will be sent in One Parcel on Receipt of Remittance for £5.

10,000 TRACTS.
(500 each of the above 20 Series), about 700 Varieties, will be sent in One Parcel on Receipt of Remittance for
£2 12s. 6d.

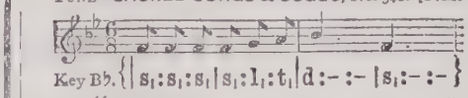
PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

Hymn Sheets

FOUR NEW SHEETS (Nos. 35-38),

NOW READY, SPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR

OPEN-AIR MEETINGS AND OTHER EVANGELISTIC SERVICES



Well printed in clear readable type, on good paper.
Two pages each, 9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Post Free.

Nos. 1-34 (Two pp. each) may also be had at the same price.

The first line of the Music (air) is printed at the head of each Hymn, in Old Notation and Tonic Sol-fa.

SPECIMEN OF TYPE.

8 "There shall be showers of blessing." (EZEKIEL xxxiv. 26.)
TUNE—SACRED SONGS & SOLOS, No. 522. [P.M.

Key B♭. | s₁:s₁:s₁ | s₁:l₁:t₁ | d :- :- | s₁ :- :- |

"THERE shall be showers of blessing:"
This is the promise of love!
There shall be seasons refreshing
Sent from the Saviour above.

CONTENTS OF THE NEW SHEETS.

No. 35.

When He cometh.
One there is who loves thee.
We are but little children weak.
I will sing of my Redeemer.
I hear thy welcome voice.
Oh! what will you do with Jesus?
A blessing for you.
There shall be showers of blessing.

No. 36.

Saviour, like a Shepherd lead us.
Only a step to Jesus.
Come, ye sinners, poor and needy.
Jesus, my Lord, to Thee I cry.
Jesus loves me! This I know.
While the silv'ry moonbeams fall.
"Whosoever heareth!"
Hark, sinner, while God.
Sun of my soul.

No. 37.

There is life for a look.
How solemn are the words.
Here from the world we turn.
Come, ev'ry soul by sin opprest.
God loved the world of sinners lost.
Oh, what a Saviour.
Jesus bids us shine.
Oh, do not let the word depart.
I think when I read that sweet story of old.

No. 38.

Rock of Ages, cleft for me.
Weary wand'rer, stop and listen!
Are you coming home, ye wand'rers?
Jesus bids us shine.
Behold Me standing at the door.
Have you any room for Jesus?
Oh, turn ye, oh, turn ye.
I love to hear the story.
A Ruler once came to Jesus by night.

Hymn Sheets: 4-Page Series.

JUST PUBLISHED.

TWO NEW SHEETS (Nos. 18 and 19).

Price 1s. 6d. per 100; 12s. 6d. per 1000. Post free.

Nos. 1-17 (4pp. each) may also be had at the same price.

The contents of No. 18 are the same as Nos. 35 and 36 of the 2-page series } see above.
" " " 19 " " " 37 " 38 " " " }

A complete List of the Hymn Sheets published by MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, giving the titles of the Hymns on each Sheet, will be sent post free on application.

The full music for the Hymns on the various Sheets will be found in "Sacred Songs and Solos," 750 Pieces. Prices, in either Old Notation or Tonic Sol-fa, 2s. 6d. and upwards.

A NEW HYMN SHEET FOR

Seaside Services,

Fishermen's, and Sailors' Meetings, etc.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

Well printed in clear readable type, on good paper.
Two pages each, 9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Post Free.

The first line of the Music (air) is printed at the head of each Hymn.

CONTENTS.

Throw out the Life-line across the dark wave.
Eternal Father! strong to save.
Star of Peace! - to wanderers weary.
"Master, the tempest is raging!"
We are out on the ocean sailing.
Light in the darkness, sailor, day is at hand!
Fierce and wild the storm is raging.
Brightly beams our Father's mercy from His lighthouse evermore.
Tossed upon life's raging billow.

London: MORGAN AND SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C. And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Forthcoming Meetings.

[Communications respecting forthcoming meetings cannot be inserted unless received by Tuesday morning at the latest.]

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, or Wales, on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, London, W.C.; or, The Sec. Evangelisation Society, Scottish Branch, The Grove-street Institute, Glasgow.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Church Army will send evangelists (working men) to any clergyman on due notice, for short or long missions. Address, Hon. Sec., 128 and 130, Edgware-road, W.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send evangelists to any Evangelical denomination within the London postal area. Apply, Hon. Sec., 64, Kennington-oval, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for temporary or permanent work in our villages and country towns. Apply to Mr. G. H. Mawer, secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Thorne Evangelistic Missions.—Friends desirous to arrange for mission services, to be conducted by Mr. Thorne, should make early application to the secretary, Mr. James Pearce, Exeter Hall, Strand, to whom subscriptions for the Mission may be forwarded.

The King's Own Mission, St. James's Hall, Royal-road, Kennington, S.E.—Sun., Mr. John Langsford, 7 p.m; 3.15 p.m., P.S.A., Mr. O. L. Heatley.

The Missionary Bureau.—Valedictory meeting, Friday, July 12, at 186, Aldersgate-street, 7.30 p.m. Mr. A. W. H. Boram from Java, Mr. C. T. Collyer from China, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Halliwell (sailing the day following for Nyassaland) and others will speak.

S. S. Anne and Agnes, Gresham-street, E.C.—A special course of lectures on Wednesdays in July, at 1.15 p.m.:—July 10, "Authenticity of St. John's Gospel," Rev. C. Lloyd Engström; July 17, "Unique Character of Christ," Rev. Canon Benham; July 24, "The Harmony of the Fourth Gospel with the other Three," Rev. Harold Smith; July 31, "The Battle of Documents and Doctrines," Rev. F. Relton.

Edinburgh Castle, Limehouse, E., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. De Burgh Rochfort; 3 p.m., Pleasant Sunday Afternoon.

Islington and Highbury Y.M.C.A., 198, Upper-street, N.—Young men's missionary meeting, Thursday, July 18, at 8.30 p.m.; address by Mr. P. A. Bennett, on "Narratives from the Niger." Sunday, July 14, 8 a.m., young men's missionary breakfast. Address by Mr. H. W. Fry.

Home of Industry, 29, Bethnal Green-road.—Monthly meeting for Christian workers, Wed., July 17; tea at 6 o'clock, meeting at 7.

Special Religious Services in Theatres, Halls, etc.—For July 14.—Grand Hall of Varieties, Clapham Junction, at 3, Mr. Bailey, at 7, Mr. Coates; Morley Hall, Mare-street, Hackney, at 7, Mr. Job Williams; Agricultural Hall, Upper-street, Islington, at 3, Mr. Wm. Cailey, Mr. C. Button; Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, at 3, Mr. Chas. Button; at 7. Mr. George Allen.

The Evangelistic Mission.—Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate, N.W., Sunday, at 7, Mr. Geo. Hucklesby. Malden Hall, Queen's Crescent, Haverstock Hill, N.W., Sunday, at 7, Mr. C. Russell Hurditch.

Lord Radstock and others will speak in the Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, Sundays, at 3.45 and 7 p.m. Meetings of Christians, Fridays, at 8.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Week nights, at 8; Sundays, at 11 and 6.30, Mr. Charles Inglis,

Clapton Hall, Upper Clapton, N.E.—Mr. J. G. McVicker, Sundays at 6.30, and Thursdays at 7.30.

The Conference Hall, Mildmay-park.—Sun., 3.30 and 7 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch.

Christ Church, Westminster Bridge-road.—Minister, F. B. Meyer, B.A.; Sunday, 11 and 6.30; Thursday, 11.30. (lunch, 12.30, 1s.); Friday, 8, Bible-reading.

St. George's Hall, Langham-place.—Sundays, 11 a.m., Dr. M'Killiam; 7 p.m. Mr. Trevor Francis.

Talbot Tabernacle, Notting Hill.—Mr. S. A. McCracken, Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

West London Mission.—St. James's Hall, Sun., 11 a.m., Mark Guy Pearse; 7 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price-Hughes.

Coming Conferences.

Prophetic Truth and Inspiration.—Keswick, July 15-19; Dunoon, July 30 to Aug. 1.

Blankenburg, Thuringia, Germany,—Sept. 2—6.

Perth.—Sept. 10—12, Rev. Dr. Bannerman, Perth, Hon. Sec.

Deepening of Spiritual Life.—Keswick, July 22-27; Carlisle, Sept. 2-6; Glasgow, Sept. 26-28; Hastings, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4; Blackheath, Oct. 1-4; Star Hall, Manchester, Oct. 6-13; Wakefield, Oct. 8-10; Ealing, Oct. 15-18; Oxford, Oct. 28-31; Norwich, Oct. 28 to Nov. 1; Belfast, Nov. 4-8; Bradford, Nov. 5-8; Edinburgh, Nov. 11-16.

THE LATE GIPSY W. SMITH.

Dear Sir,—No doubt there are many who knew and loved this honoured servant of God who will be glad to know that a fund has been opened to assist his widow in her effort to maintain herself and boy. When they were converted in 1880 they were absolutely penniless, and all who know what an evangelist's life is in these days are aware how difficult it is to save anything. I shall be happy to receive contributions to the fund.—Yours faithfully, W. Hodson.

North Tadworth, Epsom.

SWITZERLAND.—The Berne correspondent of Evangelical Christendom writes:—"Generally speakings, things do not go very well in our country. We shall have a federal bank, for the friends of the Freemason party; we shall have Government railways; of course, Freemasons will have the best share in the higher employments; and, last, the Federal Government wishes to govern all the public schools, in order to prevent Christian knowledge being propagated in the country. What we have to do is to fight for religious liberty first, and then we will also keep our political liberty."

[702]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

Quickly relieve Bilious Attacks,
HEADACHES,
FITS OF DEPRESSION,
NAUSEA, GIDDINESS, LANGOUR,
Etc.

They possess three grand qualities, being

SPEEDY, SAFE, AND CERTAIN.

CONSUMPTION,
AND
ALL CHEST DISEASES.

INTERVIEWS WITH OLD PATIENTS, AND NEW CASES.

By MR. CONGREVE'S COMMISSIONER.

NINETY-THIRD INTERVIEW,

With Mr. J. W. PICKLES, 22, Turf-lane, Heys'de, near Oldham, relative to the cases of his Son and of his Wife's Father.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS AND BRONCHIAL ASTHMA.

This has not been published before.

Mr. Pickles, whose address is given above, is engaged as a master at one of the large day-schools in Oldham. Kindly he gave me a portion of his brief mid-day interval to tell me of the wonders wrought by Mr. Congreve's treatment of chest disease.

"About seven years ago," Mr. Pickles said, "I was led to apply to Mr. Congreve on behalf of my little boy. He was suffering very much from bronchitis, with great wheezing. He had been ill for a year, under four different doctors, who did him no good. His case seemed hopeless. Mr. Congreve sent us one of his largest sized bottles of medicine, and before the boy had taken it all he was quite cured. From that time—seven years ago—he has had no return of the complaint."

"I believe, Mr. Pickles, another relative of yours has also taken the Elixir?"

"Yes—my wife's father, who suffers from broncho-asthma. He finds it gives him wonderful relief, and he resorts to it whenever he has an attack. Besides, I have known of many other cases where I have recommended the treatment, and great benefit has resulted; indeed, I only know of one case where recovery did not follow, and that was a man who was in the very last stage of Consumption when he commenced, With that one exception, the treatment has been successful in every case that I have known."

MR. G. T. CONGREVE'S work on CONSUMPTION, &c., in which are detailed THE CAUSES, SYMPTOMS, PROGRESS, AND SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT OF THIS SCOURGE OF ENGLAND.—WITH NEARLY FOUR HUNDRED CASES OF CURE. ALSO ON COUGH, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c., &c. The Book will be sent, post free, for ONE SHILLING by the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, London, S.E.

TOWER TEA

"A DAILY TREAT"

SOLD IN PACKETS ONLY 2/4, 2/-, 1/7, 1/4, 1/-
PER POUND.

REGISTERED TRADE MARK — THE GREAT TOWER STREET TEA COMPY LIMITED — STRENGTH — LONDON

NONE GENUINE WITHOUT THE REGD TRADE MARK AND SIGNATURE.

AGENTS Tower Tea EVERYWHERE.

THE GREAT TOWER ST TEA Co LTD
5, JEWRY STREET. LONDON. EC.
Will send sample of tea and name of nearest agent on application.

CURES HEADACHE INSTANTLY

BISHOPS CITRATE OF CAFFEINE

Removes fatigue. Highly commended by the Lancet and British Medical Journal. Highest award Paris, 1889. Of all chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 6d.

WORKS ON ROMANISM.

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S ILLUSTRATED EDITION

FOXE'S BOOK OF MARTYRS.

A complete and authentic account of the Lives, Sufferings, and Triumphant Deaths of early Christian and Protestant Martyrs in all parts of the world.

Complete in One Vol. Cloth bevelled boards, 10s. 6d.
Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 12s. 6d.

THE CATACOMBS AT ROME.

Their Contents and Teachings.

By the late BENJAMIN SCOTT, F.R.A.S.
Fourth Edition. Revised and Improved.
Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.
Bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

A Vindication of Pure and Primitive Christianity; and an Exposure of the Corruptions of Romanism; Derived from the Sepulchral Remains of the Early Christians. With many Illustrations.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN & YOUNG PEOPLE

MR. RUSKIN

writes:—"The book on Birds seems to me entirely charming.'

BIRDS OF THE BIBLE.

Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By James Bowker. With Coloured Frontispiece and numerous engravings. Cloth, Bev. Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s.

ALICE; or, The Early Crown.

By Rev. H. Burton, B A. Tinted covers, 6d.
Presentation Edition: Cloth, 1s.

"An admirable reward book for thoughtful Sunday-school scholars."—Methodist Family.

LITTLE KATHLEEN.

Sunny Memories of a Child-Worker. By Annie R. Butler. With two striking portraits.
Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Red Edges, 1s.
Tinted covers, 6d.

"We commend it as a charming gift-book for children, whom it will be sure to interest."—Footsteps of Truth.

London: Morgan and Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

LAZENBY'S

PREPARED FROM THE ORIGINAL RECIPE
BEARS THE WELL KNOWN LABEL
Signed Elizabeth Lazenby

HARVEY'S SAUCE

LAZENBY'S PICKLES
LAZENBY'S SOUPS
LAZENBY'S SOUP SQUARES
LAZENBY'S TABLE JELLIES
LAZENBY'S POTTED MEATS
LAZENBY'S BAKING POWDER

No. 1329.] # The Christian. [JULY 18, 1895.

PRINCIPAL CONTENTS.

PORTRAIT AND SKETCH OF THE LATE REV. JOHN HART.

Notes and Comments 5
Missionary Methods 6
A Protestant Crisis 6
Hannah's Song of Praise 6
Christians Kept from Falling. By Rev. Theodore Cuyler, D.D. 7
London Parks 7
Quiet Days 7
The Message of the Arrows. By Rev. F. B. Meyer 8
Story of Two Ceylon Boys 9
Call the Weary Home (poem) 9
Our Daily Homily 10
International S.S. Lesson 11
For the Young—The Angel in the House 11
The Evangelist—"I know whom I have believed" 11
The Food of the Soul. By Rev. Andrew Murray 12
Billingsgate Christian Mission 13
The Neglected Continent 14
Manchester Wesleyan Mission 14
The Backwater of Life. By Rev. E. Griffith Jones 15
Conflict of Interpretation.—II. 16
Bible Classes at Keswick 17
Salvation Army Rescue Work 17
Pastor A. G. Brown 17
From Rev. Oscar Michelsen 17
Obituary Notices 18
The Scriptures for the Jews 19
Among the Churches 19

INSTITUTIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS AND MISSION.
HIGH STREET, WHITECHAPEL, E.

Received with much thankfulness from W., 10s 'A Mother."—Yes, we have a Mother's Meeting nearly 500 members.

Rations of food to hungry children. Infant Day-Nursery. Day and Sunday Schools. Children's Services. Band of Hope. Evening Classes for Boys and Girls. Classes, Meetings, and Institute for Young Women and Elder Girls. Various Meetings, Classes and Parlour for Young Men and Lads. Bible Classes. Evangelistic Services. Lodging House Meetings. Temperance Work and Meetings. Mothers' Meetings. Clubs for Clothing, Coals, Bibles, &c. Prayer Meetings. Country Homes for Men, Women, and Children. Training Home for Motherless Girls, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 72, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E. c6166

CHILDREN'S DAY IN THE COUNTRY.—GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, WHITECHAPEL.—Received with many thanks from K., 10s.; R., 6s. 6d. GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George Yard High-street, Whitechapel, London, E. c6167

THE SOUTHWARK. BOYS' HOME,
Branches: Greenwich, Ramsgate, Toronto.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT,

To receive really destitute boys from 6 to 18 years of age without payment or recommendation beyond ABSOLUTE NEED.

Urgent cases are considered at any time, but Mr. Fegan may be personally consulted about Orphan, Homeless, or Erring Boys at the Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E., on Mondays, from 10 till 2.

All communications should be addressed—
J. W. C. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home,
95, Southwark-street, London, S.E.

POOR JEWISH CHILDREN IN EAST LONDON.

The Jewish Missionaries of the London City Mission wish to give 1000 poor Jewish Children a Day in the Country. If funds permit, it is desired to send away for one or two weeks, many of the sick and ailing Jewish children.

Contributions will be thankfully received by Mr. G. R. COLE, 3, Bridewell-place, London, E.C.

FRESH AIR FOR POOR CHILDREN.—For 10s. subscribed, a pale-faced child can enjoy a country holiday for a fortnight. Help very greatly needed this season for 500, in this, the third Poorest District in London.—A. STYLEMAN HERRING (for Local Committee), Vicar, St. Paul's, Clerkenwell, 45, Colebrooke-row, N.—Bankers: London and County. c5181

DAY IN THE COUNTRY for adults and children. Also fortnight for the weak and suffering out of St. Luke's and Clerkenwell. Pastor Philip Gast, of Spencer-place Chapel, Goswell-road, 12, Noel-street, Islington. For over a quarter of a century help has been sent. c6233

WILL KIND FRIENDS contribute towards £20, required to take the children of the poor parish of St. Paul's, Southwark, for a day in the country?—Rev. ARTHUR ALLWORK, 94, Lambeth-road, S.E. c6194

St. Leonards.—Eversfield Hospital and Home for Chest and Throat Diseases.
General Wards: Inclusive Terms, 18s. per week (with Subscriber's letter). 17s. without.
Eight Private Wards, from 2 guineas.
THOS. GAMBIER, M.D., Resident Physician.
S. O. GREENHILL, Secretary. c5034

SOUTH AMERICAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY
(The CHURCH of ENGLAND MISSION to SOUTH AMERICA).

All who desire to see the Gospel preached to the millions of Indians in South America, and are interested in the spiritual well-being of our fellow-countrymen scattered throughout that vast continent, and who also desire to see its Spanish and Portuguese speaking people brought to a knowledge of the truth, are invited to GIVE THEIR SUPPORT TO THIS SOCIETY, which sends out its Bishop and Clergy and Lay Missionaries to effect these blessed and important objects. Its work at the great ports AMONGST THE SAILORS is deeply valued.

THE MISSION BAND TO THE INDIANS OF ARAUCANIA
Now consists of a Clergyman and Three Laymen.

All who desire that this finest of all the Aboriginal races of South America should be brought to a knowledge of the Gospel of Christ, are asked to further the rapid extension of the work by their believing prayers and willing offerings. The door is open. The Leader is a tried Missionary, and the band includes a medically trained Assistant. Much blessing is anticipated through the power of God the Holy Spirit. There are other open doors the Society is waiting to enter. MEN AND MEANS ARE NEEDED.

Cheques and Money Orders should be crossed "Messrs. BARCLAY AND Co.," and made payable to Captain E. POULDEN, R.N., Lay Sec., at the Society's Offices, 1, Clifford's Inn, Fleet-street, London, E.C.

BARNET CONFERENCE.
To Commemorate the Jubilee of Christ Church, Barnet.

A Conference for the Deepening of Spiritual Life will be held October 8th, 9th, and 10th. Full particulars will be announced later on. Subject: "The Love of Christ in Salvation, Sanctification, and Service."

Please keep the date free.

KESWICK CONVENTION.—The Twenty-first Annual Convention for the Deepening of Spiritual Life will be held (D.V.) July 22 to 27.—For the Trustees of the Keswick Convention, ROBERT WILSON, Broughton Grange. (N.B.5)

FINCHLEY BAPTIST CHAPEL.—A Sale of Work will be held at Grass Farm, Church End, Finchley (by kind permission of Mr. Frank Heal), on Friday and Saturday, July 19 and 20, on behalf of the above Chapel Fund. To be opened at 3 o'clock on Friday by I. C. Johnson, Esq., J.P., of Gravesend, supported by Revs. Thomas Hill, A. E. Realff, and others. And on Saturday at 3 o'clock by Mrs. Crisp. Admission, 1s.; after 6 p.m., 6d. Tickets can be had of Mr. Battson, Bookstall, Finchley Station; Mr. Jackson, Post Office, Church End; and Mr. J. R. Connor, The Parade Library, North Finchley. c6271

THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY TRAINING INSTITUTE OF THE FREE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND

Has been established to prepare missionaries mainly for the foreign field, and is open to candidates of any Evangelical denomination. The Superintendent is Miss A. H. Small, formerly of Poona.

The ordinary course extends over two years, each with a Winter Term of six months, and a Summer Term of fully three months. The whole charge for the year, including board and instruction, is £50.

The next Winter Term will begin on October 1. The course will embrace Class Studies in Scripture, Lectures on Christian doctrine, Evangelistic Theology, Non-Christian Faiths and Christian Missions, Sabbath-schools, etc. Provision is also made for the teaching of Indian languages, singing, etc.

Practical training in Home Mission work is acquired in a mission district under an experienced minister.

Intending candidates are requested to apply as soon as possible to Rev. WM. STEVENSON, Free Church Offices, Edinburgh; or to Miss SMALL, 31, George-square, Edinburgh.

ZENANA MEDICAL COLLEGE, 58, St. George's-road, Belgravia, S.W., trains ladies for MEDICAL MISSION WORK in Eastern lands. Vacancies for pupils. Next term begins October 1. Partially free studentships granted. Funds needed.

DESPAIRING AND DESTITUTE.—Hundreds of thoroughly reclaimable young men might be permanently benefited by the numerous Labour Homes and Emigration Training Farms of the Church Army if funds permitted. Nearly one million meals served yearly, irrespective of creed, with labour test and Christian sympathy. Donors of 5s. and upwards supplied free with tickets for giving to beggars. £4000 pressingly required for food, clothing, and maintenance.—Remit, Rev. W. CARLILE, Hon. Chief Sec., Headquarters, 130, Edgware-road, London, W. c6178

CONVALESCENT HOME FOR SCARLET FEVER, Stanmore, Middlesex.—Miss MARY WARDELL thankfully acknowledges £3 from John Groom, Esq., in answer to her appeal for funds.—Further donations urgently needed. c6227

SOCIETY FOR THE ASSISTANCE OF LADIES IN REDUCED CIRCUMSTANCES.

GIFTS of money are earnestly solicited for the poor, old, and infirm of this Society. £6 will provide one lady with comforts for a year. Will several people combine to raise that sum, which will be gratefully received by the Hon. Sec., Miss SMALLWOOD, The Lees, Gt. [illegible] c6293

A FORTNIGHT IN THE PURE AIR of the country, and under the healthy influence of a Christian household. The Rev. J. M. H. Du Pontet-de La Harpe will feel grateful to Christians in Great Britain for kindly enabling him to secure the above for 100 of the poor little French-speaking foreigners attending his schools in Bedford-passage, Fitzroy-square. Ten shilling swill cover the expense of a child under twelve for a fortnight, twelve shillings that of a child over twelve. Contributions thankfully received at the French Parsonage, Bayswater, W. N. B. 5

EDUCATIONAL.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ROSEBERRY, Western-parade, Southsea, facing sea and common. Christian home school for gentlemen's daughters. Thorough and successful teaching, careful godly training, refined happy home. Resident English and foreign governesses. Highly recommended. Principals, the Misses ROBINSON. c5105

SOUTH-WEST LONDON COLLEGE.
High-class School for Young Ladies.
1, CARLTON MANSIONS, CLAPHAM-RISE, LONDON, S.W.
Principal—Mrs. HALE, A.C.P.

Modern system of teaching. Visiting masters in daily attendance. Resident certificated governesses. Careful personal supervision, home comforts, and Christian training. Preparation for any examination if desired. Good garden and tennis.

Highly recommended by the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, Rev. D. MacEwan, D.D. and parents of former and present pupils.

SIX GUINEAS.—Two girls can be received into a good home school to fill vacancies. Certificated governesses. English, French, music, singing, drawing, drill.—Miss WEBB, Prospect House School, Rayleigh, Essex. c5247

SUPERIOR FINISHING SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate professors.
DELTA, Ward's Library, 112, Kensington-pk.-rd., W.

MALVERN HOUSE, BLOCKLEY,
WORCESTERSHIRE.

Principals, the Misses JUDSON. Home school for girls in a lovely and bracing village on the Cotswold Hills. Resident foreign and English governesses and visiting masters. Earnest Christian training. Terms moderate and inclusive. References kindly permitted to the Rev. John Wilkinson, Mildmay Mission to the Jews, and to parents of pupils. Summer term begins (D.V.), May 2, 1895. c3968

FRANCHE, GREAT MALVERN.—Principal, Miss GRIGG. High-class home school for girls. Special arrangements for Indian and Colonial pupils. c5206

ALLAN BANK, OWLS ROAD, BOSCOMBE.
HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.
Thorough education. Success in public examinations. Care of delicate girls. House near sea among pines. Terms moderate. References to Evangelical Clergymen, and to Ministers.—Apply, Miss COCKS, Principal. c5301

BURLTON HOUSE, READING.—High-class Ladies' School. Principal, Miss RATCLIFFE. Old established. Thorough teaching. Modern educational advantages, examinations. Finishing masters. Well-appointed home. Highest references. c5271

TO PARENTS.—Girls of any age instructed in practical housewifery, superior economical cookery, intelligent catering and marketing. Laws of health and sanitation studied. Business training, book-keeping, etc. Fee from ten guineas, including twelve weeks' board and tuition as above in experienced lady's well-appointed home, S.E. References to parents of pupils.—c5986, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c5986

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Lenten House, Alton, Hants. Principal, Miss Chinn, daughter of the late Rev. S. Chinn. Very successful preparations for examinations. References, Dr. Stewart, Alton; Rev. W. Houghton, Guildford; Rev. R. A. Davis, Ventnor. c5131

REV. D. B. HANKIN, Mildmay, kindly recommends good home school, two hours from London. Spacious detached house. Thorough education. Fees from £25.—Miss LARTER, Nene House School, Thrapstone, Northamptonshire. c5130

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, East Tytherton, Chippenham.—Christian training. Preparation for examinations. Moderate terms.—Principal, Miss HOLLIS. c2317

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL.—A clergyman's daughter offers the above. Loving care. Good education. Every attention. Terms £2 monthly, or 20 guineas yearly. Healthy, open neighbourhood.—Tredegar House, East Dulwich-road, S.E. 5332

WIDOW LADY (certificated), having private high school, undertakes the entire charge of children along with her own family. Healthy and beautiful district. Clerical, legal, and medical references.—PRINCIPAL, Woodlands, Penrith. c4999

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Rugby House, Leamington, Principal, Miss Arnold, assisted by certificated masters and mistresses. Highest educational advantages. Preparation for exams. Special care of delicate girls. Vacancy for governess-student. Premium. Referees: Rev. J. Stockwell Watts and others. c6151

BOURNEMOUTH.—Lady warmly recommends school where her daughters are, and have been four years. Every care given to delicate girls. Best professors. Garden, tennis. Near sea. pines.—c6250, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square E.C. c6250

VACANCIES OCCUR in high-class school for girls. Pupils received whose parents are abroad. Christian training. Home comforts. Special attention to backward pupils. Terms 80 guineas.—PRINCIPAL, 10, Clapham Common. c6167

EDUCATION NEAR LONDON.—Good professors. Christian training. Highly recommended by Miss Leicester, Head Mistress Wyggiston Girls' High School, Leicester, and parents of pupils. Governess-student wanted. Fee, 8 guineas per term.—c6162, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6162

UPPER MOUNT, SOUTHSEA.—High-class Home School for the daughters of gentlemen. Autumn term, September 17th.—For Prospectus, etc., address, PRINCIPAL. c5337

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.—The Misses BALCH and EDMEADES, Clevedon Lodge, Reading. Pupils prepared for Oxford and Cambridge Locals (higher, senior, junior), and Trinity College Exams. Vacancy for student-teacher (premium). c6265

THE MORAVIAN SCHOOLS, Fulneck, near Leeds.—A thorough, advanced, and Christian education. Boys' School, Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON. Ladies' School, Rev. M. B. O'CONNOR. c5341

BOARD AND THOROUGH EDUCATION for two children only, in the house of trained teacher. Christian home. Very healthy. Sixteen miles from London. Highest references.—c6288, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6288

STANLEY HOUSE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Thorough education, with decided Christian training. The premises include workshop, chemical laboratory, covered and open playgrounds, tennis courts and cricket field. Delicate boys receive special care. Fees moderate and inclusive.—For prospectus, apply PRINCIPAL. c2602

FOLKESTONE.

MR. J. W. C. FEGAN desires to recommend to Christian parents a high-class school for sons of gentlemen, in the best part of Folkestone. A thoroughly good education with real Christian influence, home comforts, and close individual attention to each boy. Highest references.—Mr. J. W. C. FEGAN, Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-st., S.E. c1574

MR. W. ERNEST MATTHEWS, B.A. (honours), assisted by efficient masters, prepares for the Army, Navy, Universities, Public Schools, etc. Pupils under Christian influence. Excellent situation.—10, Worcester-terrace, Clifton, Gloucestershire. c4091

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL for boys. Thorough education. Every home comfort, with unlimited diet. Health resort. Medical reference. Careful Christian training. Terms inclusive and very moderate.—PRINCIPAL, Lucton School, Henfield, Sussex. c5134

Huntingdon House School,
TEDDINGTON, Middlesex.

Christian training. First-class masters. Thorough teaching. Moderate fees. Preparation for professional and business life, and for examinations (over 100 certificates gained). Recommended by Rev. Evan Hopkins, Kensington, and many Christian parents. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.
Principal—Mr. GEO. CUMES, F.R.G.S., F.R.A.S.

Make your Boys Men of Business.

A sound COMMERCIAL EDUCATION is afforded at

WEST CLIFF SCHOOL, RAMSGATE.

(Founded 1864.)

Particular attention given to Book-keeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Modern Languages, Athletics, &c.

THE HEALTHY SITUATION

of the School is unrivalled. Evangelical Teaching. Special care of delicate and backward boys. Liberal Diet. Prospectus free.—Apply to HEAD MASTER.

Highest references to Ministers, Old Scholars, and present Pupils' Parents. c4895

MANY CHRISTIAN PARENTS who at the present time are seeking a school at which to place their sons, are invited to write to the under-mentioned, who is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, where the constant aim of the principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class education.

The premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the south coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectus and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application. Several wards in Chancery have been appointed as pupils in the school. Terms moderate.—Dr. THORN (not Thorne), Paddington, London c5199

NEW COLLEGE,

CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Head Master: Rev. G. Hugh Jones, F.A.S.

High-class School for sons of Christian gentlemen. Inclusive Fees, £45 per annum; under eleven, £40.

A PASTOR ON THE SOUTH COAST will receive boy-pupils into his home. Locality exceptionally healthy. Thorough course. Spiritual training. Moderate terms.—Pastor A. G. BARLEY (formerly of Paris), Emsworth, Hants. c6186

PRIVATE HOME SCHOOL for sons of gentlemen (10–16). Individual teaching and care. Most healthy locality. Great success with backward or delicate boys. Prep. for public schools and all exams. Very highly recommended.—Rev. W. DUKE-BAKER, M.A., M.C.P., West Leigh, Botley, Hants. c6154

YOUR BOYS have Christian home and education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Gordon School, Kingston-on-Thames. Established eleven years. Beautiful district, near Richmond Park. References. 20 to 25 guineas yearly.—Address, 6, Belle Vue-road, Ramsgate, from July 16 to 29. c5250

PREPARATORY SCHOOL

To the Public Schools and Royal Navy, for Gentlemen's Sons, aged 8 to 14.

The Old Hall, Wellington, Shropshire.

(Founded 1845.) Very healthily situated, 370 feet above the sea, near the Wrekin. 3¼ hours from London, by L. & N.W. or G.W.R. Beautiful grounds, playing fields, &c. Illustrated Prospectus on application to the Head Master, G. E. W. ORANAGE, M.A. (Shrewsbury School and Trinity College, Oxford); or Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c5333

ETONHURST, WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Preparatory school for the sons of gentlemen. Competent masters attend daily. Prospectus on application to LADY PRINCIPALS. c5351

SCHOLASTIC.—ADVERTISER, having high-class school established in Bournemouth, wishes to meet with another lady to join her with some boarders to extend connection.—c6251, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6251

SKETCHING PARTY AT GUERNSEY during August. Lessons given by young lady, certificated art mistress and exhibitor. Anyone wishing to join should apply at once.—Address, BRUSH, Burr's Library, Stoke Newington. c6289

LADY HIGHLY RECOMMENDS Christian Governess (with her 6½ years), grounds thoroughly in English, French, music, singing, drawing, needlework.—CLARA, Mrs. Edwin Hooper's Governesses' Home, Compton-terrace, London. Free to employers. c6260

HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT.—Protestant Swiss (two years' experience in English schools) desires engagement as tutor. German and French (conversationally and grammatically), classics, violin. Coaching for Navy or Army. Free August and September. Best references.—OMAR WEDER, Cothill, Abingdon, near Oxford. c6282

HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT required by a minister's daughter, who for nearly three years has studied in Germany. German conversation special.—Address, X., 11, Hinckley-road, East Dulwich, S.E. c6239

YOUNG FRENCH LADY, Christian, required end of August in high-class school as student teacher on reciprocal terms. Great advantages. Comfortable home.—Orchard House, Teignmouth, Devon. c6223

A LADY RECOMMENDS her pupil teacher as nursery governess in a Christian family. English, music, elementary French, and drawing. Domesticated, bright, cheerful. Abstainer. — Miss JEFFERYS, Thornton House School, Grays. c6154

NURSERY GOVERNESS or lady-help.—Wanted, situation immediately for young German lady in Christian home. Speaks a little English. Domesticated. Small salary.—Fraulein AE., Swaylands, Crowborough, Sussex. c6200

HOLIDAY TUTORSHIP DESIRED by young gentleman, 19, in November. Eleven years at public and private schools. Classics, mathematics, music, drawing. Small salary.—C. J. N., care of Mr. La Vandar, Clifton-road, Worthing. c6285

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES

(English and Foreign), recommended GRATIS by Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governesses' Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London. N. (Established 1879). BOARD AND RESIDENCE from 18s. weekly. No fee to Governesses until placed. Schools recommended and transferred. c5241

SITUATIONS, ETC., WANTED.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

YOUNG MAN seeks situation in any place of trust. Christian. Single. In previous situation as clerk about fourteen years.—CHRISTIAN, 34, Westerfield-road, South Tottenham. c6263

WANTED, BY YOUNG CHRISTIAN MAN, who has learnt farming, but who is too young to go into a farm on his own account, a situation as assistant to large farmer or under bailiff on a large estate. Hard worker. Excellent references. Small salary expected, but comfortable home and experience essential.—Reply, H., Beech-hurst, Dollis-road, Finchley, London. 6292

YOUNG MAN (24), ten years' experience as railway clerk, seeks engagement in any capacity, where no Sunday work entailed. Must give fortnight's notice.—W. DALLAS, 4, Brunswick-villas, Herne Bay. c6180

BUTLER, MIDDLE-AGED, single, Christian, abstainer, experienced and reliable. Good references and excellent testimonials.—Address, D. Hyde, Close 24, Winchester, Hants. c6216

CHRISTIAN YOUNG MAN seeks situation as coachman. Single, age 28, thoroughly understands his duties, life abstainer, and two years' good character.—W. MARKHAM, Emmott Hall, Colne, Lancashire. c6236

RESPECTABLE MAN AND WIFE as caretakers in schools, homes, or any place of trust, or taking charge of an old lady's or gentleman's residence. Excellent references.—Apply, c6165, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, London, E.C. c6165

MINISTER'S WIDOW desires mission work in small town or village near London, where house rent is low. Small remuneration necessary.—Address, in first instance, Mrs. A., 4, Marylands-road, Paddington. c6205

WANTED, BY TWO YOUNG LADIES (deaconesses), work together, either in institution or parish. Experienced in both. Good testimonials and references.—Miss MASON, The Elms, Garforth, near Leeds. c6271

MATRON, ASSISTANT OR WORK-ROOM. Experienced. Industrial school, home, or orphanage for girls or boys. 8½ years in present situation. Age 27.—Address, Miss SCOTT, Girls' Industrial School, 17, Tatham-street, Sunderland. c5338

SITUATION wanted for girl, aged 19, who will give her services for six months, in return for board and lodging and gaining the knowledge of a light business. References required.—Reply, Miss J. SMITH, 6, White Ladies-road, Clifton, Bristol. c6213

FARMER'S DAUGHTER (23) seeks experience in light business, near London, stationery preferred. Would give a little time. Comfortable home indispensable.—CHAPLIN, Galleywood, Chelmsford. c6223

SUPERIOR HOUSEKEEPER, companion, nurse, etc. Excellent manager and accountant. Gentle nurse (cert.), reader, needlewoman. Fifteen years' experience. Testimonials. Abstainer. Salary £28. Lady highly recommends above.—Ivy Cottage, St. John's Church, Sevenoaks. c6220

SURGEON'S DAUGHTER desires an engagement, lady-housekeeper-companion, in gentleman's family, or any post of trust. Experienced, willing. Past middle-age. Home comforts. Moderate salary. Good references.—Miss WILLSON, The Laurels, Clophill, Ampthill, Beds. c6152

AS HOUSEKEEPER OR CARETAKER.—A lady can strongly recommend a widow for position of trust. Excellent needlewoman. Active, and accustomed to manage. Can do plain cooking. Age 56. Church of England and teetotaller. Would be valuable in charge of town or country house, where an under-servant is kept for rough work.—Address, Miss HEAD, 6, Craven Hill-gardens, W. c6193

LADY HOUSEKEEPER.—A Clergyman wishes to highly recommend a lady (35) who has managed his home greatly to the comfort of all concerned.—RECTOR, Haddon and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C. c6246

THE DAUGHTER OF A WELL-KNOWN medical man seeks situation as housekeeper or similar position of trust. Has had much experience in household management. Highest references, musical, artistic.—B., Alexandra Pharmacy, Blackheath. g20

WIDOW, RESPECTABLE, clean, industrious, good needlewoman and abstainer, no family, requires home as working housekeeper, furnish own rooms if necessary. Small salary.—H. H., 65, High-street, Eltham. c6283

HOUSEKEEPER.—RE-ENGAGEMENT required to widower or bachelor, or small business house. Thoroughly competent, reliable, and good plain cook. Twelve years' excellent references.—Address, with particulars, P., 67, Worcester-street, Birmingham. c6281

YOUNG LADY DESIRES situation as companion or useful help in comfortable Christian home. Salary moderate.—Address, Miss D., 52, High-street, Sevenoaks. c6196

A CHRISTIAN DESIRES re-engagement as useful companion to an elderly or invalid lady where servant is kept. Comfortable home greater consideration than high salary. Ten years' reference.—A. M. O., 52, Elm-road, Mile End, Portsmouth. c6206

USEFUL COMPANION to aged or infirm lady or gentleman. Cheerful and kind. Would undertake light duties, not nursing.—K. C., St. John's Training School, Westbourne Park, W. c6202

LADY DESIRES RE-ENGAGEMENT as companion to elderly lady, or place of trust. Middle-aged, domesticated, good needlewoman. Twenty years' reference from present situation.—Miss NURSE, 31, Sydney-buildings, Bath. c6201

DOCTOR'S DAUGHTER (28), willing to make herself useful in Christian family in return for comfortable home and small salary. Good needlewoman. Church of England.—c6247, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6247

A CHRISTIAN LADY desires re-engagement as companion to an elderly or invalid lady. Abstainer. Kind and gentle. Excellent references.—T., 33, Keildon-road, Clapham Common, S.W. c6237

CHRISTIAN LADY DESIRES a temporary engagement as companion, or occupation in any position of trust. Cheerful, musical, fond of and experienced with children and in household management.—E. H., Mr. Nicholes, Westow-street, Upper Norwood. c6276

LADY SEEKS situation as useful companion in Christian home. Cheerful, domesticated, good reader, and needleworker. Excellent reference.—Address, S., care of Mrs. Baker, 82, Biggin-street, Dover. c6176

A SITUATION wanted as superior useful maid, or maid-attendant. Thoroughly experienced. Good needlewoman, plain dressmaker, hairdresser, and traveller. Highest references.—Address, E. B., 150, Church-street, Stoke Newington. c6214

WITHOUT SALARY.—An elderly lady seeks a comfortable home with lady or gentleman where useful, cheerful companionship and trust would be appreciated.—META, care of Mrs. Jones, Henwick House, Ludlow, Shropshire. c6155

NO SALARY.—Young lady requires holiday engagement as useful companion, or Mother's help. Has knowledge of Millinery. Laundry and expenses.—COMPANION, 163, Holland-road, London, W. c6261

A TRADESMAN'S DAUGHTER requires engagement as lady help, where servant is kept. Domesticated. Highest references. Can do millinery.—Apply, Miss L. FOUNTAIN, 90, High-street, Watford, Herts. c6179

AS MOTHER'S HELP, or under-nurse, by a highly respectable domesticated Christian girl (17). Fond of children. Good plain cook. Highest references.—S., 25, Olinda-road, Stamford Hill, N. c6177

MOTHER'S HELP IN CHRISTIAN FAMILY, care of infant. Middle-aged. Experienced. Good references. Would go to seaside with lady for expenses.—Letters to E. M. 751, Wandsworth-road, Clapham, S.W. c6204

SITUATION wanted as nurse or mother's help. Experienced with and fond of children. Good references. Age 23. Salary £20.—Apply, G. D., 24, Bramfield-road, Wandsworth Common, S.W. c6233

CERTIFICATED LADY NURSE desires temporary case, or as nurse-companion, or would take holiday duty. Testimonials from doctors and others.—c6269, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square E.C. c6269

NURSE, FULLY TRAINED, seeks permanent case, 2 years 9 months with lady. Maid companion, 3 years 3 months' reference. Age 30. Salary £25 to £30. Together or separate, both leaving through death.—H. N., 7, Adelaide-terrace, Ilfracombe. c6203

MISS DRAPER wishes to recommend a young country girl, 15½, as under nurse. Active, intelligent, fond of children. First place. Christian family desired.—Strensall Vicarage, York. c6197

CLERGYMAN'S WIFE wishes to find a place as plain cook for a young woman anxious to redeem her character. Full particulars given.—W., Harnhill Rectory, Cirencester. c6150

A CLERGYMAN'S WIFE wishes to recommend a young girl (17), as scullerymaid.—Write, Mrs. D., 12, Brussels-road, Clapham Junction, S.W. c6169

MISS RUSSELL, CHENIES HOUSE, Rickmansworth, wishes to place a girl as under-housemaid or nurserymaid. Age 17. Neat worker. c6182

WANTED FOR A YOUNG WOMAN (age 18), situation as general servant. Also for one age 20, a good laundry maid. References requested.—Address, MATRON, North Parade Home, Cheltenham. c6224

SITUATIONS, ETC., VACANT.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

TO CANDIDATES for holy orders wishing to graduate.—St. Matthew's, Cambridge, University Lay-Workers' Ordination Fund (Patron, the Lord Bishop of Ely).—A studentship worth £60 a year is now vacant. Applicants must be single, musical, and well grounded in classics and mathematics.—Write, stating full particulars, to the Rev. F. E. ROGERS, Abbey Walk, Cambridge. c6171

CHRISTIAN MAN (single) wanted for work in boys' home. Energetic, total abstainer, non-smoker.—Apply, F. D. HOLLAWAY, the Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E. c5342

LADY OR GENTLEMAN (abstainer) able to influence small capital for temperance work, can secure salaried appointment, with light employment.—A. T. C., care of E. M. Hill, Solicitor, 87, Chancery-lane. c6192

CAN ANYONE RECOMMEND a thoroughly efficient married man, without family, as an all-round hard-working gardener? A man and boy are kept. Must be Church of England, and age not under 35. There is a fair quantity of glass, but no conservatory. Wages 22s., with comfortable cottage and garden, but no other perquisites.—Address, The Hall, Milton-street, Bedford. c6266

GARDENER wanted, about 30, near London. A thorough energetic, trustworthy, all-round man. State terms. No house hours. References.—Address, J. S., care of 83, Winchendon-road, Fulham. c6146

HANDY MAN to help in house, stables, and garden.—Wanted, a steady, respectable, single man. Christian and abstainer. Must have some experience.—Address, with photo and full particulars, L. T., The Beacon, Crowborough, Sussex. N.B. 11

WORKING HOUSEKEEPER or thorough kitchen-maid wanted to take plain cooking. Scullery-maid kept. Also strong general or help required. Abstainers. Good wages.—Oxford College, Clacton-on-Sea. c6188

USEFUL LADY HELP wanted. About 30. Light cooking, sewing, and housework. Small family near Belfast. Two servants. Salary. State religion, experience.—c6175, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6175

WANTED, BY AN ELDERLY LADY, a domesticated lady-help, age from 24 to 30. Must be Low Church. Servant kept.—c6168, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6168

LADY HELPER required, with small salary, in small Christian hotel. Must be able to do plain cooking, assist in general work.—Unexceptionable references must be sent to c6270, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6270

SUPERIOR PERSON wanted as useful maid. Needlewoman, some knowledge of dressmaking. Good nurse in illness when required. Must have travelled on the Continent. Churchwoman. No one under 28 or over 35 need apply. Active and obliging. Wages £25, all found.—Write particulars to Mrs. LESTER, 323, Oxford-street. c6268

A MOTHER'S HELP wanted, young, fond of children. Kind Christian home.—Mrs. FOSKETT, 26, Alexandra-road, Hornsey. c6208

MOTHER'S HELP wanted (over 24), to take entire charge of three children, youngest one year. Must be Christian, abstainer, Nonconformist, good needlewoman. Salary £13. Comfortable home.—B., Alexandra College, Southampton. c6240

MIDDLE-AGED CHRISTIAN LADY wanted to take charge of three children, ages 3 to 7, in comfortable Christian home, where servant is kept. Small salary. References exchanged. Visiting villagers and district could be profitably taken up if desired.—Apply, CRANSTON WADDELL, Warwick Bridge, Carlisle. c6286

LEAMINGTON SPA.—Trained medical, surgical, and maternity nurses can be supplied from the Y.W.C.A. Home, York House, Clarendon-place, on the shortest notice. Telegrams, "Nursing," Leamington Spa. Terms upon application. c6120

DISTRICT OR PRIVATE NURSING.—Vacancies for pupil nurses. Three months' training. Fee 13gs. Certificate given. Work found, with salary, after training, if wished.—SISTER, Nurses' Home, 196, Romford-road, Forest Gate, E. c6218

A COMPETENT NURSE wanted, to take charge of two children. Can offer a comfortable Christian home. Good character indispensable. Must be good needlewoman.—Apply, Mrs. NORMAN ROGERS, Capel Lodge, Whetstone. c6145

SUPERIOR NURSE wanted. Experienced with infants. Must be a Christian, and thoroughly reliable. Good needlewoman. Age about 28.—Apply, Mrs. A., 6, Winchester-place, High-gate, N. c6144

CAN ANY LADY recommend from personal experience a thoroughly capable nurse, for one little girl of 2½, and to take baby from the month? Good needlewoman essential. Earnest Christian greatly valued, Evangelical Church or Nonconformist. Age 25 to 28. State wages.—Apply, Mrs. ERNEST SHAW, Heatherdene, Weybridge. c6156

A NURSE wanted, aged 18 to 20, for two children, seven and three years, who does not object to washing.—Apply, Mrs. T. P. COOK, 70, Oakfield-road, Stroud Green, London. c6153

LAUNDRY MATRON required at once in Industrial Home for Girls. Must be methodical, good disciplinarian, experienced in the management of a laundry, and be able to produce satisfactory references as to competency and character. Abstainer and Christian desired.—Applications, giving full particulars, to be addressed to "BETA," care of J. G. King and Son, 10, Bolt-court, Fleet-street, E.C. c5339

A GOOD LAUNDRESS wanted, and to live in lodge. Situation suitable for a widow and child. Must be well recommended.—Apply, by letter only, to Miss F. LISBURN, Sevenoaks, Kent. c6174

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, above 30, for one lady at Brighton. Very quiet place. Wages £18.—A. B., 28, Montpellier-crescent. c6198

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted for small family. Early riser, abstainer, and Christian desired.—Write, Mrs. FORD, 21, Churchfield-road, Ealing. c6243

TWO TRUSTWORTHY CAPABLE SERVANTS wanted in quiet family as plain cook and housemaid. Good characters.—Apply, stating full particulars, Mrs. BROWN, Bod Hyfryd, Luton, Beds. c6235

A THOROUGHLY GOOD HARD-WORKING plain careful cook wanted, under housekeeper, beautiful offices. Must have a good head for management, and energy. A decided Christian much wished for. A widow with daughter for house-parlour maid not objected to.—Address "MUNCK" c.o, Mr. Ling, Dorchester, Dorset. c6253

A GOOD HOUSEMAID wanted for family of six. No children. Must be early riser and active, and under-stand waiting. Washing put out. No beer.—MISTRESS, 36, Foxgrove-road, Beckenham. c6247

KITCHENMAID WANTED IMMEDIATELY. Must be respectable, strong, clean, and active. From the country preferred, and been out before. Age not under 18. Wages £14.—Apply by letter only to Miss DAVIDSON, 8, Upper Avenue-road, London, N.W. N.B. 4

COOK-GENERAL SERVANT, where another is kept. Age about 28.—Send references to Mrs. BINNS, Sidcot, Weston-super-Mare. c6279

COOK-GENERAL SERVANT wanted, good, plain, trustworthy and reliable, age 28 to 30. Wages £14. Good character. Must be fond of children, nurse kept.—Mrs. HARVEY, Brackenwood Birmingham-road, Walsall. c6278

TRUSTWORTHY COOK GENERAL SERVANT wanted. Also housemaid. Family small. Comfortable situation for steady servants. Christian privileges. Good characters essential.—Address, full particulars as to capability and references, Mrs. TINDALL, Gouldinghurst, Eastbourne. c6161

CAN ANY LADY recommend a trustworthy person as good general servant, and to take charge of house when family is away? Small family.—Address, M.L., The Cottage, Neasden. c6163

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, before August 7. Comfortable home. Dissenter. Five in family (two children over 5). Wages £13 to £14.—Mrs. S., 11, Savernake-road, Gospel Oak, N.W. c6242

WANTED, an experienced and trustworthy general servant, who can do plain cooking, in a clergyman's family (2) in a London suburb. Good wages.—Address, Miss CORVAN, 12, Dacre Park, Blackheath, S.E. c6209

WANTED AT ONCE, earnest Christian, age between 22 and 25, as servant. Regular house duties, but must be willing for any work. Amiable, quiet, early riser. Good wages.—Apply, by letter only, c6261, Haddon's Advertising Office, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6264

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, also housemaid in small family. Christian and abstainer.—Mrs. CORNELIUS, 114, Bethune-road, Amhurst-park, Stamford-hill, N. c6257

LADIES WANTING SERVANTS and servants seeking situations, should apply to Miss MAULDEN (late missionary), 97, Harrow-road, Paddington Green, whose office is well known and kindly recommended by the Rev. G. F. Pentecost, D.D., and others. Stamps for reply. N.B. 3

LADIES REQUIRING SERVANTS, or servants situations, should apply, "Domesti" Agency," thirty-six, Coldharbour-lane, Camberwell, S.E. Kindly recommended by Rev. F. B. Meyer, B.A. Ladies' fee, 1s. booking; 1s. 6d. when suited. Servants' fee, 10 till 5. Stamped envelope. c6248

The Christian.

☞ To avoid delay it is requested that all letters relating to business matters should be addressed to the firm, Messrs. Morgan and Scott, and not to its individual members. Communications for THE CHRISTIAN should be addressed to the Editor, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, E.C. Letters of a personal nature should in every case be so marked.

All Advertisements for THE CHRISTIAN should be sent to Messrs. John Haddon and Co., Central Advertising Offices, Bouverie House, Salisbury-square, London, E.C., accompanied by remittance. (For Terms, see Page 1 of cover.)

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

☞ The Publishers request that all orders for THE CHRISTIAN by post, and remittances for same, be addressed to "THE CHRISTIAN" POSTAL DEPARTMENT, BOUVERIE HOUSE, SALISBURY SQUARE, LONDON, E.C.

Cheques and Post Orders to be made payable to Messrs. John Haddon and Co. at that address.

The subscription for one year, including Postage and Coloured Almanack, is as under :—

For Great Britain and Ireland ..	6s. 7d. per annum
For India, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, France, Germany, and other European Countries	8s. 10d. " "
For United States and Canada ..	2¼ dols. " "
Or including Monthly Copy of HERALD OF MERCY	2½ dols. " "

Subscriptions for THE HERALD OF MERCY.

4 Copies monthly	2s. per annum
8 " "	4s. " "
12 " "	6s. " "
24 " "	12s. " "

Post free to any address at home or abroad.

Remittances to be sent as above. Postcard should be enclosed for receipt or extra stamp to cover postage of same.

Notes and Comments.

HAVING again completed the consecutive study of the Bible in our "Notes on Daily Readings," we commence in this issue a series of short meditations entitled, "Our Daily Homily," based on selected passages from the chapters read by the members of the Bible and Prayer Union. We trust these may be found helpful in practical every-day Christian walk and work.

Holidays have begun. They do not always bring advantage either to body or to soul. The body sometimes gets too much to do, and the traveller returns home tired, footsore, perhaps with incipient disease; the soul gets too little to do, and the traveller returns feebler in faith, colder in love and zeal, less eager for Christian work. A little management and self-control is required to make the most of a holiday. The soul should be the chief partner in the benefit. Great things may be suggested in quiet hours. Dr. Dale has related that when he was travelling in the East it was his habit to push his camel forward, to get away from his party for an hour or two nearly every day. "And in these lonely hours," he says, "I saw more of the mystery and glory of the death of Christ than I had ever seen before. When I came home I wrote the greater part of my Lectures on the Atonement." So, too, he employed his leisure hours when he sailed to Australia. We ought to come back from holidays richer and holier.

Carr's Lane Church, Birmingham, has soon found a successor to Dr. Dale in Rev. J. H. Jowett, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, a young man of twenty-nine, but one of rich gifts, and we believe, also of graces. His letter of acceptance of the call to Newcastle seven years ago struck us as ripe for a young man, and his letter to Carr's Lane closes with a prayer in which thousands will join—"May the good Lord, who has been the inspiring presence in all your past fellowships, minister to us now, and by the rich baptism of the Holy Ghost prepare us for the common labours that wait us in the days to come." We see that some of the members of the church in Newcastle are expressing themselves strongly against large churches drawing away pastors from smaller ones.

Within two weeks in last month, as many as fourteen bodies of murdered infants were found in London. The killing of infants has been reduced to a system. Some of the most experienced of the coroners have no doubt whatever that only a very small proportion of the number of infants sent to certain receiving houses are allowed to live. This sore place should be probed and cut out of the body politic.

At the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Moral Education Association there was a good deal of wise and helpful speaking on subjects which are usually left only to the bad treatment of wicked men and women. No doubt it means, as Rev. Frederick B. Allen said, much sacrifice to tackle this question in the face of organised impurity. And how organised it is appears from one fact alone—that there is in New York a publishing firm which pays a man ten thousand dollars a year to read their books, and see that they come "just within" the boundary line of the statutes concerning bad books. What an awful life that "reader" must have! What a sink of iniquity his mind must be!

Mr. Allen complained at this meeting of the way in which new standards of right and wrong, standards which are revolutionary, are being imported into the United States by the aristocratic circles of Europe. No doubt he is right, but surely allowance also should be made for the poorer people who come from European countries steeped in the false notions of a double standard of right and wrong in which they have been trained. In these days of free and constant intercourse between nations, their moral condition is of far more importance than their physical health; cholera and yellow fever are not half so dangerous as bad morals; and false systems of trade and commerce are not half so hurtful as false standards of good and evil. The nations are learning in a thousand ways the truth of the old saying, that they are one family.

The training of young persons in the principles and practice of purity is gradually assuming its rightful place; thoughtful men and women keep making valuable contributions to the subject. Thus Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts deals with it in "Practical Christian Sociology," a book now passing through the press in America. Some of his remarks on the habits and management of girls are very apposite. Referring to the greater liberty of American girls, which freedom, however, belongs quite as much to the lower middle-class and working-class English girl, he says that "liberty and ignorance are dangerous companions." He is right in contending that "girls are too much taught to yield to the wish of others. They need also to be trained in the faculty of resistance. Instead of breaking their wills let us strengthen them." Of course he speaks of the average home, and not of those exceptional homes where the treatment and training of girls is deemed to be as important as that of boys.

Times of revival never fail to bring prominently into view the value of the essential things of religion, and at the same time, to set non-essentials in their subordinate places. The Lollards of old had some beautiful and lofty conceptions of the things of God, and in their manifesto, known as the "Ploughman's Prayer," express themselves thus:—

> Lorde, our hope is that Thou goe not out of a poor man's soul that travaileth for his livelode with his hands. For Lorde, our beliefe is, that thine house is man's soule, that thou madest after thine own likeness. But Lorde God, man maketh now great stonen houses full of glasen windows, and clepeth [calleth] thilke thine houses and churches.

A lofty and spiritual conception of God, is the true corrective of the foolish extravagance on church buildings.

What is the meaning of the dearth of money yet abundance of labourers for Christian work? We have called attention to the way in which our own missionary societies are hampered, and now we hear that the same thing exists in the United States—men, but not the money to send them forth. The saddest instance, perhaps, is that of the sixty evangelists employed by Mr. Champness in the "Joyful News" Mission, all of whom have been dismissed; others remain, but think of sixty recalled. Mr. Champness says:—

> We have not taken this step in a panic; it has been forced upon us by the slow process of weeks of declining income. When we issued the circular letter of dismissal to our agents we had not enough money in hand to see them all to their homes.

The French Chamber has unanimously decided in favour of a perpetual agreement with the United States for the settlement of all disputes by law, instead of by force. That is one more pledge of peace, although there has always been a friendly feeling between France and the States. It stands also as another example of the more excellent way. And it is greatly needed, for the military oppression of Europe is terrible, as is evidenced by the flight of people to other lands. A daily paper reports:—

> During the late spring and early summer months of the present year the exodus of Italians from Italy has assumed prodigious and extraordinary dimensions. In the last week of June more than 5,600 emigrants took ship at Genoa, and over 4,000 during the same week bade farewell to their native land at the southern ports of the peninsula. The majority of the Italian emigrants were bound for Brazil. If any of these exiles from their fatherland caught sight of the proud Italian ironclads which were steaming for England, they must have some bitter sense of the relation of cause and effect. It is the enormous taxation of the Italian people, in order to find the money for military and naval prestige, which never bring solid profit to the poor and the worker, which is really driving them in shoals to seek a new home.

The latest fashion of unbelief in Germany is set by Nietzsche, whose views are certainly as defiant of all moral bonds as anything can be. If his life agrees with his views he must be an undesirable neighbour. He makes no distinction between good and evil, in this resembling former unbelievers. He holds that the question of the good is only a matter of power and advantage. He holds that first the Jews and then the Christians established the rule that only the miserable are good, the poor and the afflicted are the pious; the powerful and well-to-do are the wicked. He is an admirer of Cæsar Borgia, a man who murdered his brother, brother-in-law, and others, a perjurer, and a criminal of the worst kind. Napoleon is another of his heroes. One of his utterances is this: "Only the sound in body and mind, the proud and strong, the genuine aristocrats, can produce a higher type of men. Such an aristocracy will accept complacently the sacrifice of countless men, who, for their sakes, must be degraded into imperfect men, slaves, instruments." One wonders how such a teacher came to be born in these times, and what is his genealogy.

Missionary Methods.

It is well-known that the Baptist Missionary Society refuses to spend a considerable portion of the Centenary Fund, because the income of the Society does not appear to warrant any extended operations. This policy has called forth considerable criticism. Even Dr. Landels, an honorary member of the committee, has expressed his doubts upon the policy. The following are his words :—

With the utmost diffidence I venture to ask, Does not the present state of our finances suggest the inquiry, are we making the best use of what we have, when, instead of employing it in promoting present efficiency, we keep it in hand for future contingencies, to wit, such an increase in the annual income as will justify us in sending out 100 additional missionaries, and that when we require an increase of some thousands a year to maintain those we have? Is not the holding back the greatest hindrance to the increase we desire? Does it not expose us to the Divine rebuke, "Where is your faith? Why not use what you have, and trust to Me for more?" And does it not exert a depressing influence on the liberality of the churches? May it not lead—has it not already led—friends of the Mission to say, "we decline to give more while you have so much in hand"?

We venture to call attention to these wise and weighty words. The prudence that dictates the present policy is not the result of faith, but of unbelief. It rather resembles the conduct of the ten spies, who saw the difficulties, but did not see God, than that of the two spies, who, because they took God into their reckoning, were full of confidence, while the rest were full of fear. To stop the outflow is a sure way to stop the inflow. What Trench says concerning Love is not less true of all the work to which Love prompts. He recommends the digging of channels for the fount of Love, and adds;—

> But if at any time thou fail
> Such channels to provide,
> Know that for thee the fount of Love
> Will soon be parched and dried.
>
> For only while we share we keep
> That blest thing from above;
> Ceasing to give, we cease to have,
> Such is the law of Love.

We earnestly hope that wiser counsels may prevail.

In a letter from Rev. H. Ross Phillips, who recently returned to his work at San Salvador, on the Congo, he recalls the parting words addressed to him at the Baptist Mission House, immediately before his departure from this country. "Give my love to the brethren," said Mr. Baynes, than whom the missionaries have no warmer or truer friend, "and tell them that the expenses must be watched very carefully, and rigid economy practised." No doubt there is need, in the present finances of the Society, for such a message; but its effect upon an earnest man going out to work in such a field must have been depressing in the extreme. Must it not seem to missionaries sometimes that we are only playing at missionary work? If rigid economy is to be practised, is it not a mistake to urge it upon brethren whose lives are in constant peril, who are face to face not with a Christianised people, but with multitudes sunk in barbarism and sin, whose hearts are constantly rent by fervent appeals for help to which they are unable to respond? If the rigid economy were practised at home; if we were content to forego some of the luxuries of our public places of worship, and of our home life; if our missionary interest, instead of being a spasmodic and annual thing, were kept alive by daily prayer and daily gifts, missionaries would go back to their work with no such discouraging message as that which must still burden the heart of our brother, H. Ross Phillips.

The Church of Christ has not yet learned how to "hold the ropes." The working of the heathen mine belongs to the whole Church, and not to the missionaries alone. The difficulty, the peril, the toil are theirs; the responsibility of caring for them, of sending them needed reinforcements, of not letting them lose heart, is ours. To evangelise the heathen is work we must do; to have a fine building, a good organ, an accomplished choir, a popular and eloquent ministry, is work we may do, but it is not a part of our commission. Some of the achievements of English Christianity, which are lauded in the daily papers as splendid triumphs, may possibly appear more like splendid sins when looked at in the light of our duty to the heathen. The tide of missionary zeal is rising, but there is yet very much to be desired.

A Protestant Crisis.

In the present crisis the Protestantism of the country is imperilled, and it is to be feared that the great bulk of the people are not sufficiently alive to the danger which threatens them. At the last election Mr. Gladstone received only a small majority, because Home Rule was believed to mean Rome Rule. The Protestants who raised that cry need to be awake to-day. The utterances of Lord Salisbury indicate that he is not opposed to State aid being given for the support of sectarian teaching in day-schools. High Churchmen and Romanists are likely to be agreed in making such a demand. And it is rumoured that Romanism is to be established and endowed in Ireland; and that such measures as these are the price by which the Irish vote is to be purchased. Strength is added to these rumours by the fact that Cardinal Vaughan is said to have decided that in the elections the Irish and Roman Catholic vote shall be given to the Unionists. If these things are true, the duty of Protestants is clear. No party that will help to put such power into the hands of Rome deserves the support of any Evangelical Christian, to whatever political school he may claim to have belonged. We do not take any party side in this contest, but we must warn our readers against such dangers.

The advance of Romanism is one of the most alarming facts of the age. Our Nonconformist brethren, who are content to count the numbers of perverts to Rome, and of attendants at Romish services, have sometimes denied that there is any advance. But Rome does not estimate her growth by counting heads. Her power and influence in the counsels of the nation, the number of her representatives in the two Houses of Parliament, the position of her members in the Cabinet and other official positions—these things indicate the kind of progress she is content to make; and above all, to secure the children, for the future lies with them. The Nonconformist asks for himself "a fair field and no favour," and refuses to depend upon the support of the State; and he is willing to give the same liberty to the Romanist. The Romanist is willing to accept it, and to use it, but is not content with that alone. Rome's triumphs are won by intrigue, by stratagem, and she can use such weapons when she is admitted to important and responsible positions. Is it not beginning to be manifest that no legislation can pass through the House of Commons which Romanists do not like? The conventual clauses in the Factory and Workshops Act, the withdrawal of the proposal to erect a statue to Cromwell, are recent events which show the power that Rome is able to exert.

EXPOSITORY NOTES.

1 Peter iii. 17-19.—It is a safe and necessary canon of interpretation that any passage under consideration must be interpreted with regard to its context. 1 Peter iii. 18, etc., is not an independent assertion. It is an illustration used to enforce a previous exhortation. The Apostle is writing to the persecuted saints of the Dispersion. The Lord Jesus had said, "Fear not them which kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do." Peter says that, "It is better to suffer for well-doing than for evil-doing." This he illustrates and enforces by the example of our Lord Himself. "For Christ also once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God; being put to death in the flesh, but quickened in the spirit; in which, also, He went and preached to the spirits in prison."

This encouraging argument is consistent with and relevant to, the previous exhortation, and is full of comfort to the suffering people of God, because it shows them that their Lord and Saviour has gone before in the very path they are treading.

I submit that it is essential to the argument of the Apostle (1) that the preacher was Christ, in his spirit, and that (2) the time of the preaching was the period when, having been put to death as to the flesh, He was quickened as to the spirit—that is, between his death and his resurrection.

If the statement had ended here there would have been no difficulty. The sufferers are reminded that when they are slain as to the flesh the spirit is liberated, and that then a sphere of spiritual service is opened to them. This is illustrated and enforced by the example of Christ.

Whatever difficulty there is in the passage comes after this, and the questions, Who were the spirits addressed? and, What was the character of the preaching? must not be permitted to obscure the previous statement, which relevantly and consistently illustrates and enforces the argument and exhortation.

If this be admitted, every interpretation is ruled out which does not recognise that the preacher was Christ in his own spirit, when separated from his body; and that the time of the preaching was the period between his crucifixion and his resurrection.

R. C. M.

HANNAH'S SONG OF PRAISE.

1. Samuel 2.

A RHYTHMICAL VERSION.

My heart doth in the Lord rejoice;
My horn through Him exalted is.
In praise to Him I lift my voice,
Who saves me from mine enemies.

There's none so holy as the Lord,
For other God than He there's none.
None can such help as He afford;
He is my Rock, and He alone.

With humble heart and simple word
Let sinners sound their Maker's praise;
For great in wisdom is the Lord;
Who all our words and actions weighs.

His sovereign strength and grace He shows
In dealing with the sons of men;
Breaking the mighty archer's bows,
The fallen raising up again.

The wealthy once are now forlorn,
The starvelings now have plenteous fare;
The barren wife a child hath borne,
The rival one hath ceased to bear.

The Lord doth kill and make alive,
Brings to—or snatches from—death's door;
Impoverisheth, or makes to thrive,
Lessens or magnifies our store.

The poor He lifts from misery's pit,
The beggar from his hut He brings;
That they with princes great may sit,
Inheriting the thrones of kings.

He who this mighty globe sustains,
And governs all who live thereon,
His saints from evil ways restrains,
And pours his wrath their foes upon.

By strength shall none o'er God prevail,
Destruction on his foes He'll bring,
Who dares his sovereignty assail,
Who, over all, is Judge and King?

Leytonstone. G. Small.

Christians kept from Falling.

BY REV. THEODORE L. CUYLER.

"HOLY Father, keep through thine own name those whom Thou hast given Me," was the last recorded prayer of our Lord before He went forth to the struggle in Gethsemane. And then He adds, "I pray not that Thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that Thou shouldest keep them from the evil." This sinful world needs the salt, but the salt will lose its savour if God withdraws his preserving grace. Christians are not put into a conservatory; they must engage in worldly business, and be exposed to trials and temptations like everybody else; but the business must be conducted on Christian principle, and amid temptations the true Christian may be kept from falling. Is this prayer of the Master for his followers ever answered?

Yes; the veteran Paul tells his Thessalonian brethren that the "Lord is faithful, who shall establish you and keep you from evil." Peter—who had once been tripped up by his own presumption into a terrible fall—exclaims long afterwards, "We are kept, by the power of God, through faith, unto salvation." Wherefore he exhorts all his brethren to commit the keeping of their souls to Christ in well doing; that is, trust in Christ is to be accompanied by Christian practice.

How does Jesus Christ keep his followers from falling? Does he exert a perpetual miracle, overriding all the usual laws of the mind? Is it a Divine compulsion that is wrought upon us, putting our souls under lock and key? Not at all. We are as much free agents in serving Christ as we were in accepting Christ at the time of our conversion. Then the regenerating Spirit moved us to turn from sin to the Saviour, but we had to do the turning. Divine grace never nullifies free agency. No man can be called honest unless he conducts his business from a controlling principle of integrity. Why did the youthful Israelite in Potiphar's house resist a sinful solicitation? Simply because Joseph's heart was chaste, and the fear of a holy God dwelt there; that kept him from falling. Walking uprightly he walked surely. Why did Paul stand with unblanched cheek before Nero's tribunal? He tells us that the "Lord stood with him and strengthened him." There was a consciousness of inward grace. Christ had told him that "My grace is sufficient for thee." Here then is the solution of the problem. Jesus Christ imparts the grace, and that grace sustains the true Christian under the stress of temptation; it is a supernatural process.

Observe, however, that if Christ keeps us from falling, that grace comes "through faith" on our part. Unbelief, presumption, self-confidence forfeit that Divine protection. How can we expect to be kept from falling when we throw ourselves off a precipice? How can a church-member expect Christ to keep him from drunkenness when he tampers with the wine-glass? Or keep him from the spirit of the gambler when his business is as much a "game of chance" every day as if he handled a dice-box? How can a Christian woman keep her heart pure when she witnesses lascivious plays, or devours the average works of fiction, whose plot is usually connected with sexual immorality? So on through the whole category of temptations. The Christian who desires and expects to be kept from falling must pray for Christ's preserving grace, and must live in obedience to Christ's authority. Disobedience to Christ is what works the mischief; that is, after all, the destructive and damning sin. We must be watchful if we expect our Master to watch over us. Miss Fletcher, of Glasgow, tells us that in Gibraltar she found a man with match in hand standing at the entrance of the tunnel that leads to the neutral ground. If an insurrection should break out, he could, in an instant, light the train and blow the tunnel up; and to ensure alertness, this sentinel is relieved every two hours. Oh, if we were only as watchful in spiritual things!

That is a glorious assurance, that Jesus Christ is not only able to keep us from falling, but also to "present us faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy." That Greek word signifies both without blemish and without blame. What a transcendent, soul-thrilling prospect! And if we shall be asked whence the victory came,

> We'll with united breath
> Ascribe our conquest to the Lamb,
> Our triumph to his death.

Paul's song shall be unto Him who made a chief of saints out of "the chief of sinners." Luther shall shout, None but Christ! And Wesley shall re-echo, None but Christ! What a magnificent oratorio that will be when the mighty host of the redeemed shall join in the one universal acclaim, "Unto Him who kept us from falling, and presents us before his glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our SAVIOUR, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, for ever and ever!"

London Parks.

THE police authorities have for some time had under their consideration the altering of the regulations concerning Hyde Park, and it is now officially intimated from Whitehall that new rules will soon come into force.

At present, and for some years past, there seems to have been unlimited licence for anybody to do anything, until this Forum of the people has degenerated into a place where scores of persons are getting a living by singing songs, giving dramatic sketches, and other similar devices, even on the Lord's day. An anarchist at one corner howling anathemas at everybody, and collecting pence from the crowd; a man performing on stilts near the Serpentine, and one or two returned convicts, after short speeches, going round with the hat, are among the latest importations. On a recent Sunday there were several sets of men and women in different costumes giving music-hall sketches. It seems incongruous that all this should be permitted in the open air on the Lord's day, while such performances are prohibited in theatres and music halls.

It appears that a relation of the Duke of Cambridge, having seen the Park at its worst, appealed to the Ranger, who in turn consulted with the late First Commissioner of Works. After consultation new rules were drawn up, which will shortly be enforced. Free speech will not be interfered with, but it is understood that no money will be allowed to be taken or collected. This action was taken by the late Government, and it is presumed that it will be strongly supported by the present administration.

The police, we believe, welcome the advent of the new regulations with delight, for the din and noise of rival caterers for the ear and pence of the people have often ended in disturbance, and have caused the police much trouble.

Meanwhile, we are glad to know, the uplifting of the Saviour and the warning of the sinner go on without cessation, sometimes amidst much personal abuse and reviling, and at other times in perfect quietness.

QUIET DAYS.

JORDANS.

"SEEKEST thou great things for thyself? Seek them not." "Mind not high things, but be content with mean things." The principle which underlies these exhortations is capable of varied and wide application. Just now it comes to me like this. Many are anxious to go to Keswick, and the way does not open. Perhaps they cannot spare the time or the money; or there may be insuperable obstacles of other kinds. But when we cannot get a week two or three hundred miles away, and hear speakers of world-wide fame, it may be possible to spend an hour with a saint on the Borderland, whose face already shines with the light of the Holy City. Or we may, with a few fellow-believers, sanctify an evening by the Word of God and prayer. We may sometimes even secure "a quiet day" in meditation and fellowship in one of the many beautiful valleys or hillside dells of our lovely land, of which most of us know so little.

Last Thursday a hundred or more, representing many of the sects into which for our sins God has suffered us to be divided, were harmoniously gathered together at "Jordans," a place rich in historic interest. We sat in an ancient meeting-house of "Friends," kindly lent for the occasion.

It came from God into the mind of a City merchant living at Rickmansworth to convene a friendly meeting of brethren and sisters for meditation and prayer, social intercourse, and mutual edification. He and his Bible-class were studying the story of redemption in Moses' second book; so with an eye to the Lord's business in his hands, he suggested for consideration "The Power and Faithfulness of God, as illustrated in the Book of Exodus," himself opening the subject.

We met from eleven to one and from three to five, and many helpful words were spoken in brief addresses, some by previous arrangement, some uttered spontaneously. None of them over-taxed the attention; all were like bread broken by the Master's hand.

After lunch a pastor, who has drunk deeply into the spirit of the place, told us some of the story of the Lollards and of the early Friends, three hundred of whom lie in the ground where we were gathered beneath the blue, without even a headstone except those which marked the resting-place of William Penn and his family, and that of the Penningtons, another noble Quaker name. We were home again in good time, quieted, refreshed, and edified, not fatigued or over-weary, and conscious that we had sat at the Lord's table and He himself had fed us.

Easily, and with not much expense, similar meetings, smaller or larger, might be convened in many places, to which the poor of the flock could gain access, and participate in all that is essential in the Mildmay Conference or Keswick Convention.

Another great advantage would be gained in the benefit conferred upon the dwellers in lonely villages and hamlets, who live their uneventful and monotonous lives without ever hearing the full free Gospel of the glory of the blessed God—Jesus and the Resurrection; the gift of the Holy Ghost immediately accompanying remission of sins to those who with the heart believe unto righteousness, and with the mouth make confession unto salvation.

R. C. M.

MELKSHAM.

A convention for the promotion of holiness and Christian unity was held at Melksham on Wednesday, July 10, in a tent in the orchard at Giffords, the residence of Mr. G. Stratton. A large number of people came in from all the neighbouring towns and villages. The meetings were most encouraging and the conveners ask the prayers of Christian friends that the work of the Holy Spirit may go on until all who were present shall be filled unto all the fulness of God.

K. S.

DUBLIN CITY MISSION reports eleven agents now at work in the lanes and alleys of the city, carrying the message of a full and free salvation from room to room amongst the neglected, the poor, the debased, and the degraded. The recent report gives many instances of conversion both among nominal Protestants and Roman Catholics. The report may be had of Mr. J. Jutton, 9, Anglesea-street, Dublin.

The Message of the Arrows.

1 Sam. xx. 21—37.

By REV. F. B. MEYER.

Jonathan had considerable influence with his father. Saul did nothing, either great or small, which he did not "uncover to his ear." For his love's sake, as well as for his father's, he was extremely eager to effect a reconciliation between him to whom he owed the allegiance of son and subject, and this fair shepherd-minstrel-warrior, who had so recently cast a sunny gleam upon his life. In all probability Jonathan was much David's senior, but in his pure and noble breast the fountain of love rose unquenched by years. On more than one occasion he had communed with his father of his friend, so far impressing Saul as to make him swear that David should not be put to death; thus when David returned in hot haste from Naioth, leaving Saul under the spell of prophecy, and asked him what he had done to arouse such inveterate hate, asserting that there was but a step between him and death, Jonathan did not hesitate to assure him of his willingness to do whatever his soul desired.

It was the eve of the feast of the new moon, when Saul invited the chief men of his kingdom to a banquet, and the friends agreed that this was an opportune moment for testing the real sentiments of Saul. David suggested that he should absent himself from the royal banquet; visiting his father's home at Bethlehem instead. It would be quite easy for him to do this, and yet be back by the third day. In the meantime Jonathan was to watch narrowly his father's behaviour, and mark his tone, noting whether it was rough or kind.

The general outline of this scheme was arranged within the palace, but there were confidences to be exchanged so intimate; words to be said so tender; a covenant to be entered into so pathetic; a means of communication to be arranged so secret; that, it seemed wiser to continue the conversation in some secluded spot, where only the living things of the woods that can tell no tales could behold the flowing tears, and hear the out break of those manly sobs that could not be choked down. There was indeed one other witness, for Jonathan was a deeply religious man. It was his habit to live in the presence of the God of Israel, and to Him he made his appeal as he bared his heart to his friend, entreating him to deal truly with him, and pleading that in that certain future, when God had cut off David's enemies from the earth, he would not forget the claims of friendship, and cut off his kindness from his house.

Surely the fateful field of Gilboa was already casting a premonitory shadow over Jonathan's heart, and he felt the time would come when David would exercise supreme power, and might be tempted to stamp out the possibility of rivalry on the part of Jonathan's heirs by exterminating the royal house. In his anxiety he made him swear again, and afterwards proposed the ingenious and significant plan in which his art and directions to the little lad would express by a swift telegraphy the secret which would either lift David to peace and safety, or thrust him into the depths of despair.

It is impossible to read the story without thinking of the boys that carry the buff-coloured envelopes, so little conscious of what the messages may mean to those in whose hands they place them, here filling them with ecstasy and there with bitter anguish. The arrows are flying still, the little lads are fulfilling their unconscious ministries with respect to them, often they fall short of the mark, then again they fly beyond it. How often they are beyond! Oh, strong arm, why shoot them with so much energy? Oh, wind, why carry them so lightly? Hearts are breaking as the bow string twangs. Lives take their colour of light or shadow ever after, just because of a few yards less or more!

I.—THE ARROWS TAUGHT THAT A STRONG AND NOBLE FRIEND WAS STANDING IN THE BREACH.

Jonathan was a jewel of the first water; unequalled in his use of arms, daring to recklessness on the field of battle, swifter than the eagle, stronger than the lion, yet tender as a woman; true to his friend; so capable of inspiring attachment that his armour-bearer would face an army at his side, so tenacious of his principles that he clung to his father's fallen fortunes, even though he had suffered from that father all that jealously could suggest of bitter insult and murderous hate.

It was no child's play that he undertook in the sacred name of friendship, and probably he was quite prepared for the outburst that followed his manly protest for his absent friend. On the first feast day Saul noticed David's absence, but said nothing; on the second, however, when his seat was still vacant, he turned sharply on his son Jonathan and asked the reason, "Why cometh not the son of Jesse to meat, neither yesterday nor to-day?" Jonathan instantly made the preconcerted answer about David's desire to see his family, and made out that he had himself given permission for his absence. This identification of himself with David brought on Jonathan an outburst of ungovernable rage. Saul's fury knew no bounds; with stinging allusion to Jonathan's mother, his own wife, as the source of his son's perversity, with taunts that were intended to instil into Jonathan's heart the poison which was working in his own, with demands that David should be instantly fetched and put to death, the monarch clearly showed his inveterate hatred and determination that the son of Jesse should no longer tarry above ground. Jonathan made one vain attempt to reason with the furious monarch; he might as well have tried to arrest the swelling of Jordan in the time of flood. In a paroxysm of ungovernable passion the king cast his spear at him to smite him. Then Jonathan knew that they must prepare for the worst, and left the table in fierce anger, being grieved for his friend, because his father had done him shame.

Never be ashamed to own a friend. Do not count him your friend whose name you are ashamed to mention, and with whose lot you blush to be identified; but when you have entered into an alliance with another soul, whom you love as Jonathan loved David, dare to stand up for him at all cost to your comfort, and relations with those who do not know your friend as you know him. To be obscure, and poor, and out of court-favour? that is the greater reason why you should take his part. It is a noble thing when a man or woman in some gay and frivolous circle, where fashion and pride rule, dares to take the part of some unpopular righteous cause, of some maligned but holy servant of God, of some unpolished but sterling associate. This stamps the confessor with the guinea-die of native worth. It is easier to storm a fort than to withstand the covert sneer, the contemptuous look.

But there is something still nobler, when one dares in any company to avow his loyalty to the Lord Jesus. Like David, he is now in obscurity and disrepute, his name is not popular, his gospel is misrepresented, his followers are subjected to rebuke and scorn: these are days when to stand up for anything more than mere conventional religion must cost something; but for this very reason, let us never flinch, but as we trust that He will confess our name before his Father and the angels, let us not be ashamed of his. Jonathan's arrows showed that he did not hesitate to stand alone for David, let our words assure Him who is just now hidden that we will bear scorn, obloquy, and death, for his dear name.

Never be ashamed to speak up for the cause of Truth. How often the spirit of expediency whispers in our ear, "Let it pass, wait till the dinner is done, do not make a gazing-stock of yourself, take an opportunity of private remonstrance, sit still, be pleasant, we will see what can be done presently. Jonathan took the nobler course." The dainties were on his plate, but he would not touch them: the cup was in his hand, but he would not place it to his lips: his father was before him, with his claims on his reverence and respect, the king, with the power of life and death in his mouth, but he dared not hold his peace. Had it been simply a question of his own position or respect; of mere politeness, civility, courtesy due to age, he would have been the first to put his hand upon his mouth, and be silent. But it was a question of Truth, Righteousness, Justice, and if he were to be still, the very stones in the wall would cry out against him, and he would forfeit the respect of his own conscience.

But it may be asked, Is it not unseemly to obtrude opinions amongst those who are older and more learned than ourselves? Yes, but there is all the difference in the world between opinions spun like cobwebs from the brain, or caught up at second-hand, and those great basic principles of Truth, Morality, and Right, which are witnessed to by conscience. And when you stand up for these, you do not seek to exalt your own goodness, or win an advantage, but simply to lift the standard from being trampled in the mud. Let the arrows witness to the simplicity and fervour of your allegiance to whatever is lovely and of good report.

II.—THE ARROWS SPOKE OF IMMINENT DANGER.

"Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to put David to death." As the lad ran Jonathan shot an arrow beyond him: "And as soon as the lad was gone, David arose out of a place toward the south, and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himself three times, and they kissed one another and wept one with another, until David exceeded." There was no need for Jonathan to enter into explanations, David knew that "the Lord had sent him away" (22).

"The arrows are beyond thee." You have hoped against hope, you have tried to keep your position, you have done your duty, pleaded your cause, sought the intercession of your friends, prayed, wept, agonised, but it is all in vain, the arrow's flight proves that you must go whither you may. Behind you is the sunny morning, before you a lowering sky; behind you the blessed enjoyment of friendship, wife, home, royal favour and popular adulation, before you an outcast's life. The heart clings to the familiar and beloved. But the message of those arrows cannot be resisted. There is no alternative than to tear yourself away, take your life in your hand, and go forth, though you know not whither. But take these thoughts for your comfort.

(1) There are things we never leave behind.—David had an inalienable possession in the love of his friend, in the devotion of the people, in the memory of God's goodness, in his experience of his delivering care, in the sense of the Divine presence which was ever beside Him, in the Psalms which he had already made for himself, as well as for the world. There are threads woven into the fabric of our life which can never be extracted or obliterated.

(2) There is a Divine purpose determining our course.—To the lad there was but royal caprice in the flight of the arrow. "What are you doing, my little fellow?" "I am picking up the prince's arrows; we generally go for game, but he is playing at it to-day." That was all he knew; how little did he divine the purpose of his master, and still less realise that each flitting arrow was, so to speak, taken from God's quiver and directed by his hand. There is no chance in a good man's life. Let us recognise the providence of the trifle. Let us believe that behind the arrow's flight there is the loving purpose of our Heavenly Father. He is sending us away.

(3) The going forth is necessary to secure greater happiness than we leave.—Had David lingered in the palace his life would have been forfeited, and he would have missed all the glory and bliss with which his cup ran over in after years. This was the way to the throne. Only thus could the sentence whispered in his ear by Samuel years before be realised. This mountain pass, with its jagged flints, was the path to the happy valley. The nest was stirred up that he might acquire powers of flight; the precious wine of his life was emptied from vessel to vessel to lose its strong flavour of must; the trellis-work was taken down that the plant might stand alone.

Follow the arrow's flight then, beyond the warm circle in which you have so long been sheltered, beyond the south-land to the icy north, beyond the known to the unknown. Like another Abraham go into the land which God will show thee; like another Columbus, turn thy prow in the wake of the setting sun. Let David's assurance be yours, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in Hades, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption, Thou wilt show me the path of life."

III.—THE ARROWS TAUGHT THAT HUMAN LOVE MUST SUFFER SEPARATION.

This was the last meeting of these two noble hearts for a long time. Indeed, the friends only met once more, shortly before Jonathan's death. They had realised that this must be so. The soul of Jonathan, especially, seems to have been overcast with the impression that their happy intercourse would never again be renewed, therefore he pledged David with that pathetic vow, to be faithful to his seed, and to remember their love when all his enemies had been cut off. "Go in peace," Jonathan said, finally, as though he could no longer bear the awful anguish of that parting. For as much as we have sworn both of us in the name of the Lord, saying, The Lord shall be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed, for ever." Then David arose and departed to become a fugitive and an outlaw, liable at any moment to capture and violent death, whilst Jonathan returned thoughtfully and sadly to the palace, where he must spend the rest of his life in contact with one, who had no sympathy for his noblest sentiments, who had outraged his tenderest sensibilities.

These are the hours that leave scars on hearts, and whiten the hair. The world in its rush is so unconscious of all the tragedies which are taking place around. Young hearts suffer till they can suffer no more, aged ones cannot forget, and years after some scene like this, eyes will film with tears as it is recalled. But God is between us and our Davids, not as a sea of separation, but as an ocean of connection, union, fellowship. What the mighty deep is to the world, linking all lands, so that the antipodes are in close connection, all that God is between our souls and those whom we love, whether in heaven or on earth. Coming to Him we have come to an innumerable company of the angels and to spirits of the just made perfect, and on the broad bosom of his love, the ships of our thought and desire pass and repass, bearing the precious freight of love to them, and bringing return cargoes of love to us.

STORY OF TWO CEYLON BOYS.

By Miss MARGARET LEITCH.

(Concluded from last week.)

A little time before their arrival we had seen a rather wild-looking man walking up and down on the front verandah of our house, appearing to be angry and excited, and looking in at all the open doors and windows, as if in search for some one. We went out and spoke to him. He seemed to be very angry with two of his children and with us also, but, as up till this time we had neither seen nor heard of his boys, and as we believed ourselves to be at peace with all the world, we took the man for a maniac, and left him, after having spoken a few soothing words. But, when a few moments later the boys came to us on the back verandah and told us their story, and when the catechist joined the group, and confirmed what the boys had said, giving us a more detailed account, and begging that we would shield the boys from further persecution, and fit them for lives of usefulness by sending them as pupils to the Tillipally Normal Training and Industrial School, it occurred to us that it must be the father of those very boys who was at that moment on our front verandah.

We went to the father and told him that his sons had come, and that we wished to be their friend and his. He jumped up excitedly, and demanded to be allowed to take them home at once. We quieted him, and told him that his sons wished to live as Christians, not because they wished to disobey him, but because they really believed that Christ was the true Saviour, and thought it their duty to follow Him. We told him that we believed that his sons were acting conscientiously, and we hoped that he would allow them to be true to their convictions.

We said to him that we loved this same Saviour whom his sons had begun to love; that through many years we had found Him a real Saviour and Friend, and we hoped that he and his wife would soon come to know and believe in Him, so that the whole family might be united and happy in his love and service.

We also said to him that we would gladly send his sons as pupils, if he would consent, to the Tillipally Normal Training and Industrial School, where they would receive an education which would fit them to become teachers in village schools, or useful workers among their own people in years to come. At first he opposed the idea vehemently, but when he came to understand the proposal more clearly, and to see that we had the good of the boys really at heart, he remained silent for a time, lost in thought.

Early in the conversation the two boys had silently drawn near, and, standing in the background, had been listening anxiously to all that passed between their father and ourselves. Now and then a look of fear would cross their faces, as though they dreaded that their father might again offer them some personal violence, but almost immediately the brave, determined look would return, which seemed to say that they had taken their stand, and, God helping them, they would never draw back. The look was remarkable in boys so young, and especially in Tamil boys, who are usually most yielding, and we felt that here were lads possessed of unusual strength of character.

As they had drawn near to my sister, as if seeking protection, she gently put an arm around each, as if to assure them that they would not be forsaken.

The father arose and came near the group. The boys trembled at his approach, and drew back a step or two, but the father took the right hand of each of his sons, and leading them to my sister, put their hands in hers, and said very earnestly, "I give these boys to you; they are henceforth your sons, and you are henceforth their mother; do with them as you will." We were all deeply touched by this unexpected action.

Instantly my sister, reaching out, grasped the hand of the father, placed the hands of the sons within it, and then, holding all in her own clasp, said, "They are your sons, but they are my brothers, and I will be a sister to them and to you for Christ's sake." The boys wept aloud; tears were rolling down the father's cheeks, and we also felt our eyes grow dim with emotion. Standing thus, the hands of all four clasped together, my sister offered a brief prayer, asking God to bless the father and mother, and lead them to the light of his love, and praying that a special blessing might rest on these young disciples, and that they might be enabled to be faithful throughout their whole lives to the Master whom they had chosen. The catechist also offered prayer.

After a little more conversation the father returned to his home, apparently comforted and contented, and the boys turned to us with grateful faces, and from that hour we have felt toward them as toward little brothers.

The same evening, after providing them with clothing and other necessaries, we sent them to Tillipally with a note to the missionary in charge of the school, where they were at once admitted, and have made good progress in their studies. Aided by kind friends in the homeland, we have met their support, but in vacation time they go home to their own home, where they are kindly received.

The father and eldest brother come to see us now and again to learn news of the boys. After these two boys had been pupils in the school for about six months, and had by their daily life given satisfactory evidence that they were seeking to follow Christ, the missionary, the native pastor, and the church committee having examined them, it was decided that they might be received into the Christian Church on profession of their faith in Christ. The boys expressed the wish to make this profession, together with their eldest brother, in the preaching bungalow in their own village.

So, on a memorable Sabbath morning, in that humble village preaching place, surrounded by cocoanut and palmyrah palms, the branches of which waved and rustled in the breeze, in the presence of a little company of native Christians, the three boys stood up and together professed their faith in Him, whom having not seen they loved. The shining eyes of the dear Bible-woman (who under God had been the means of leading them into the light) told that she was tasting of the sweetest and most lasting joy on earth, that she had begun to enter into the joy of her Lord, who "goeth after that which is lost until he find it. And when he hath found it he layeth it on his shoulders rejoicing. And when he cometh home he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep which was lost."

Now the little daughter, the only other child of the family, attends regularly the Mission village school, and the teacher and his wife go frequently and hold meetings in the home of the parents. They have not yet decided to forsake all and follow Christ, but the three dear boys and we and others are praying that they may be given the grace and courage to do so.

The names of these three boys are Alexander (Mututamby) MacColl, Hugh (Venasatamby) MacColl, and John (Erliatamby) MacColl; the English names being family names very dear to a loving friend in U.S.A., who, although she is eighty years of age, is working most earnestly to promote the coming of Christ's kingdom in Ceylon, and during the past two years has earned by her own labours (art painting) the sum of £100 (500dols.), which she has sent to Ceylon as a memorial to her late dear son, Hugh A. MacColl, and in aid of the work of the Tillipally Normal Training and Industrial School.

In this institution the pupils are not only prepared for the Government teacher's certificate examination, and fitted to become teachers in village schools, but they are carefully taught one or other of the following industries:—Carpentry, masonry, type-setting, book-binding, photography, etc. This industrial training is found to have a most beneficial effect upon the character of the pupils, teaching humility, obedience, and painstaking activity, but it also makes them more useful members of the community in years to come. This school has been a Christian home and a city of refuge to many in years past, and from among the former pupils four are now ordained native pastors, several are catechists, many are teachers in mission village schools, and others are employed in Government service, or as conductors on tea and coffee estates, or are farmers and mechanics in their own villages.

Kind friends in the homeland will, I think, continue to support these two boys during their course of study, but since their entering the school several other very promising young boys from Hindoo homes in our district have come to us begging to be sent to the same school, as the report of the school which these two spies have brought back has been of such an encouraging nature.

If anyone who reads this story is on the outlook for an investment which will yield speedy and large returns, I would like to recommend one. If, in the name and for the sake of Christ, you should undertake to meet the cost of educating one young Christian student in this school*, or, better still, if you are able and would like to provide for the education of one student after another in perpetuity by founding a permanent scholarship†, which could be paid in instalments, or named as a legacy in your will, the harvest from such a seed-sowing might far exceed your expectations, and the Master might one day say to you, "Everyone that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundred-fold, and shall inherit everlasting life."

* £2 a year. † £50 a year.

CALL THE WEARY HOME.

Call the weary Home,
Home to the rest above,
Home to a gracious Saviour,
Home to his heart of love.
Call the weary Home.

Call the weary Home,
Jesus the ransom died,
Hark, 'tis the Spirit's whisper,
"Come to his bleeding side."
Call the weary Home.

Call the weary Home,
Proclaim the captive free,
The precious blood of Jesus
Shall give them liberty.
Call the weary Home.

Call the weary Home,
The night of time sets in,
The world is full of sorrow,
And hearts are full of sin.
Call the weary Home.

Call the weary Home,
Toss'd on life's surging sea,
Hurried by tide and tempest,
Into eternity.
Call the weary Home.

Call the weary Home,
Now they may be forgiven;
Robed in unsullied glory,
Fit for the light of heaven.
Call the weary Home.

S. Trevor Francis.

OVERWORKED HORSES AT KESWICK.—Sir,—Hundreds of your readers are looking forward to the rest and cheer of body and soul they anticipate at Keswick, but their necessary conveyance and pleasure drives during their visit must involve untold labour on the horses. The R.S.P.C.A. Inspector said 'more cruelty is practised during the Convention week than throughout the season, in the Lake district." His utmost vigilance only prevents the worst abuses and employment of horses totally unfit for work. Visitors can aid effectually by observing the following suggestions. (1) Never enter an overloaded vehicle. (2) Never hire lame or overtired horses. (3) Do your best to reduce weight and pace for horses going uphill.—Yours truly, P. H. Johnston.

The Beeches, Carlisle.

NOTES ON DAILY READINGS.

SUNDAY, JULY 21.—REV. XXI.

The Negatives of Heaven (1-8).—What heaven is, no tongue can tell; hence the Apostle enumerates most of those conditions of pain and sorrow which fill earth with anguish, and says of them—this shall not be there, nor that. No more sea, because to the Jew it was the symbol of turbulent, restless, rebellious power, also of isolation. The prisoner in the Isle of Patmos had every reason for gladness that there should be no more sea. Sin having been destroyed, its fruit of tears and pain and death will be for ever ended. No funeral cortège, no mourner's wail, no sigh of pain, no cry of child shall break the peace and blessedness of the holy city, but God will spread his tent over our earth, taking it for ever within its folds. (5) He is making new hearts in preparation for that new universe. Under the dissolving semblance of the present creation, He is building up the fabric of the new, and ere long the veil will drop, revealing the final result of the Divine workmanship. Note these marvellous tenses—I make. . . . I am. . . . I will give. . . . I will be. . .

The Bride (9-27).—The bride! Here is the pure love of the saints for Christ, and his for them. These rare jewels tell us of the result of fire, for every precious stone is the outcome of a baptism of flames, and the choice of them to illustrate the glories of heaven indicates the fiery trial through which the saints have come. (12-14) Each dispensation blends there, the twelve tribes, and twelve apostles. Marvellous that the names of these obscure fishermen should reappear in such setting. (22) No temple, because all is worship; no sun, because redeeming love is the sufficient light; no night, because no need for rest; no closed gate, because no fear of foe; no sin, because the angel sentries will for ever exclude the abomination and the lie. Oh, radiant vision of God's ideal, which, fair though it be, shall fall short of the reality!

MONDAY, JULY 22.—REV. XXII.

The River (1-5).—The river speaks of the Spirit of life flowing from the throne, as though the saints are to drink for ever deep draughts of the life of God. No death can come there. The same lesson is taught by the presence of the Tree of Life, transplanted from Paradise, and reappearing here with its fruit and leaves, all eloquent of Him, whose words are spirit and life, and whose death has brought eternal life to his saints. (3) His slaves shall do Him priestly service. There shall be also perfect vision and resemblance to Himself. (5) Our birds are said to migrate to the Arctic circle for summer that there may be no break of night in their tendance of their young: and there will be no break for us in the enjoyment of Divine fellowship.

Closing Exhortations (6-15).—A special blessing to those who keep the words of this book, and possibly of the whole range of revelation. (9) The humility of heaven, wherein the holy spirits refuse worship, desiring only that God should be magnified, honouréd, and loved, and hence the whole trend of revelation is to promote the worship of the Eternal. (11) The fixedness of spiritual character, which makes destiny. We are reminded of the cataclysms of the ancient world, which fixed living creatures in the positions in which they were overtaken. (13) He who begins the Bible as the Alpha word, closes it as the Omega of blessing. (14) This beatitude, in R.V., sweetly magnifies the blood of Christ as the sole ground of entrance within the city.

The Last Invitation (16-21).—Already we have seen the combination of prophets and angels (6). Here again we are taught that truth is transmitted from the Lord to the angel, and by his angel to the receptive spirit. Note the union of the opposite titles in Christ—David's Lord, and David's Son; the Morning Star, and the Sun of the day; the Coming One, for whom creation waits, and the water of Life, of which whosoever will may drink. To the appeal of Spirit, church, and world, He says, I come. With all our heart we respond, Amen: come, Lord Jesus.

LIVERPOOL EVANGELISATION SOCIETY reports steady advance during the past year. For the special missions conducted by the society, reliable testimony has been forthcoming of abiding fruit. Details are given of such missions at New Brighton, Birkenhead, Byrom Hall, Wallasey, Seacombe, Walton and other parts of Liverpool and the surrounding villages. There is great need for larger help. The secretary is Mr. T. Lydiatt, 3, Hackin's Hey, Liverpool.

1768]

OUR DAILY HOMILY.*

TUESDAY, JULY 23.

"The Evening and the Morning were the First Day."—Gen. i. 5.

How different is God's method from man's. The creature works from day to night, his best is first, but darkness overshadows his fairest hopes and best-concerted schemes. The Creator's days begin with the preceding eve. He reckons the evenings and nights into the days, because out of them the day is born, they usher in the light, and recreate body and brain for the busy hours that follow.

First the night, and afterwards the day, is God's invariable order.

Art thou disappointed in Christian work? Remember that God wrought on through long dark ages, ere his schemes were evolved in order and beauty. Man's schemes begin with blare of trumpet and roll of drum, but are soon plunged in darkness. The heavenly seed is sown in autumn shadows, the foundation-stone of redemption was laid amid the gloom of Calvary, the work that lasts always begins amid disappointment, difficulty, and heart break, but inevitably passes into the day.

Art thou passing through the bitterness of soul-trouble? For weeks there has been no ray of comfort, no sign of deliverance. All the waves and billows are rolling over thee. Yet every dark hour is hastening towards the dawn. Thou shalt see thy Beloved walking towards thee in the morning light. He will command his loving-kindness in the day-time. Thou shalt yet praise Him for the health of his countenance. Hope to the end for the grace to be brought unto thee.

Art thou in despair for the world? The times are dark, and threaten to get darker. But if the first creation began in the dark, can it be wondered at that the second must begin there too? But as the one emerged in daylight, so shall the other. The morning cometh; see the star of day standing sentry. Time is bearing us to a day that shall never go down to night; but shall mount ever towards its meridian. "There shall be no night there."

WEDNESDAY, JULY 24.

"The Lord God put him into the Garden."—Gen. ii. 15.

Thus God started man in an ideal home. Memories of Eden, exquisite as dreams, weave the background of human life. Fellowship with the Creator, who walked its glades; its river, trees, and fruits; its blessed companionship; its light and ennobling toils—how fair the picture!

The Garden of Eden.—That was God's ideal. When men point thee to the scars on the world's face, left by the trail of the Arab slaver, the march of the army, the decay or glory of human civilisation, and ask how such things are consistent with God's love, point to that garden and say, "That is what the love of God meant for man; Satan and sin have wrought this."

The Garden of Gethsemane.—When man forfeited Paradise, the Saviour was revealed to regain it. He trod the winepress alone in the shadowed garden of the olive trees, that through its glades He might pass to his cross, and so make the wastes of sin bloom again as Eden. Is it wonderful that another Paradise is possible when He sowed its seeds and watered the soil with his blood?

Turning Wastes into Gardens.—In Eden man wrought as God's fellow-worker, and we are called each day to do something towards reconstructing the Lost Paradise. Find thy part in delving, sowing, watering, or tending the tender shoots! Seek that thine heart should be an Eden, kept sacred for thy King, and endeavour thy best to plant gardens where hitherto sand-wastes and thorn-thickets have prevailed.

THURSDAY, JULY 25.

"Where art thou?"—Gen. iii. 9.

The cool of the day, when the breeze steals over the fevered landscape, is an appropriate time for man to hold fellowship with God. We need to have his hand laid on our throbbing temples, stilling, tranquillising, shedding his serenity throughout our being. What the breath of evening is in summer, fellowship with God will be for thee, my soul; see that thou art not so absorbed with thy sins, thy love, or thy business, as to miss the tryst, when the sun is westering.

God Misses his Child.—That hour of fellowship was much to Adam, and it was more to God. Love, God's love, craves for fellowship. As the musician for his lute, as the hart for the brook, as the mother for the twining arms and babbling talk of her child, so does God long for the free outpourings of his children's hearts in prayer: misses them when withheld: is jealous when they are fitful and intermittent.

God Seeks his Child.—He did not wait till Adam found his way back to his side. This might have taken long. But He hastened in search of him. So through the glades He comes to seek thee, oh truant one. Where art thou, that for these many days thou hast withheld thyself from the hour of prayer? Wilt thou not say with the Psalmist, "When Thou saidst, Seek ye my face, my heart said unto Thee, Thy face, Lord, will I seek"? Take with thee words and return.

God Mourns over his Child. These words, in one version, are rendered, Alas for thee: as though the heart of God were wrung with sorrow for our loss, as well as his. But He does not content Himself with regret. By the pang of travail, by the prick of thorns, by the necessity of labour, by sacrifice and gifts of covering for our nakedness, He brings us back to Himself.

FRIDAY, JULY 26.

"Where is Abel, thy Brother?"—Gen. iv.

The first question God puts to the soul is, "Adam, where art thou?" The next, "Where is Abel, thy brother?" We are our brothers' keepers. Each within our reach, all who need our help, all related to us by the ties of the family, have a claim on us. We must not take an advantage over them; their weakness and need are strong claims on our resources of every kind; we are bound to keep them so far as we can; we may at any moment be called to give an account of their whereabouts. To dispute this is to betray the spirit of Cain, who was a murderer.

God Keeps an Inventory of his Saints.—In his book their names are written. Their names, abode, and circumstances, their fathers, mothers, and brothers; their occupation, whether they keep the sheep or till the land; are all known to Him, because fixed by his providence. Whatever touches them is, therefore, constantly known to Him. It is as though they were part of his very being, and a stab of pain to them thrills his heart.

God Calls us to help Him in keeping one Another.—We are to watch for each other's souls; to consider one another to provoke to good works; to bear one another's burdens; to exhort each other, to convert the wanderer from the path of the destroyer, and to wash stains from his feet. The cure of souls is the work of all the saints.

SATURDAY, JULY 27.

"Enoch walked with God."—Gen. v. 24.

What an epitaph on this ancient saint. It is as clear-cut to-day as when first recorded here. We know nothing of Enoch but this brief record, but it tells us everything. It was not an act, or a number of acts, but a high tone of life constantly maintained. Better to walk with God every day in calm unbroken fellowship, than to have occasional rapturous experiences, succeeded by long relapses and backslidings. The Hebrew word might be rendered, "Enoch walked, and continued to walk."

Be sure to go God's Way.—He will not walk with thee in thy way, but thou mayest walk with Him in his. To this he calls thee. Each moment, and especially when two or three roads diverge, look up to Him, and say which way art Thou taking, that I may accompany Thee. It will not be so hard to forsake inviting paths, and engaging companions, if only the eye is kept fixed on his face, and the track of his footsteps determines the road beyond hesitation or dispute.

Be sure to keep God's Pace.—Do not run impetuously before Him; learn to wait his time: the minute-hand as well as the hour-hand must point to the exact moment for action. Do not loiter behind in indolence or sloth. Be loyal and true to his ideals, and quick to obey his least commands.

Be sure to wear God's Livery.—He is in the light; the light is his chosen symbol; it ill becomes thee to wear the unfruitful works of darkness. Put them off and put on the armour of light. Walk with Him daily in stainless robes, washed in the blood of the Lamb. Then thy fellowship shall be with the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, and with all holy souls everywhere.

* The texts of these homilies are selected from the chapters daily read by the members of Rev. Thomas Richardson's "Bible and Prayer Union."

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSONS.

JULY 28.

JOURNEYING TO CANAAN.—Numbers x. 29-36.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Verse 29.

By comparing Exod. xix. 1 with Numb. x. 11 it will be seen that the Israelites remained at Sinai nearly a year. During that period great changes had been effected. From being a crowd of fugitive slaves, with no discipline and hardly any knowledge of God, they had become an organised people, with laws to govern them, a religion and a house of God, with a Divinely-instituted ritual of worship; besides which officers had been appointed over thousands, hundreds, fifties, and tens (Exod. xviii. 25, 26). Their long delay was not waste time.

This lesson finds them beginning their journey from Sinai, led by the cloud, and proceeding to Kadesh Barnea (11-13). The journey occupied eleven days (Deut. i. 2).

I. THE INVITATION (29-32). (1) To whom it was given.—To a near relative of Moses. Hobab was the son of Raguel or Reuel, who is elsewhere identified with Jethro (Ex. ii. 18; iii. 1). Raguel was the father-in-law of Moses, and returned to his own land some time before (Ex. xviii. 27). Hobab, as a near relative, was very properly invited by Moses. The best kind of mission work is that in which friends seek to win those who are near and dear to them. How can we be deeply concerned over the lost condition of the heathen if we are not concerned over our unsaved friends? Hobab had already shown some interest in the welfare of Israel. He was not opposed to them, or he would not have left his own home; nor have remained behind when his father returned. Moses made an attempt to complete a work which had already begun. Where favourable impressions appear there special efforts should be made. Can you not find someone whom you can invite on pilgrimage?

(2) The invitation itself. It was to a pilgrimage, which properly describes our present life. In an important sense all are pilgrims, and are journeying somewhere. If not to the land of which God has spoken, then whither? The man is not wise who never asks that question. The pilgrimage of the Christian is well illustrated by the Israelites' journey from Egypt to Canaan. It begins with deliverance from judgment and bondage; its course is through this world-wilderness, which yields nothing for the supply of the soul's deepest needs, and which exposes to various forms of trial; it gives experience of the power and wisdom and riches of God's grace meeting all our need; and it terminates in the land of rest. Recall Bunyan's allegory as a further illustration of pilgrimage.

(3) The inducements offered. These were threefold: the blessing Hobab would receive (29); the help he would be able to render (31); the fellowship or participation with God's people which he would enjoy (32). The second of these may surprise us. Was not the pillar of fire and of cloud their guide? The pillar would show them where they should rest. Hobab, by his extensive experience of the wilderness would help them to make the best use of their advantages, and to guard most successfully against their perils. "Those who are guided by miracle must not slight the ordinary means of direction."—Matthew Henry. This threefold reason may be urged in giving the Gospel invitation. God's aim is to bring us into true relationship with Himself, to make use of us in his service, and to make us joint inheritors with all saints.

(4) The result of the invitation. At first Hobab was inclined to refuse it (30). The ties of nature were too strong. There are still many who find it impossible to come out from friends, and home, and kindred, to follow Jesus (Mark x. 28-30). It would appear that the second appeal of Moses was more successful. "From Judges i. 16; iv. 11; 1 Sam. xv. 6, it is evident that his posterity under the name of Kenites had a place among the tribes of Israel."—Bush.

II. THE JOURNEYING (33-36).—The desert was trackless, and perils abounded. Yet there was no doubt about the safe direction of the people if they duly followed their guide. In this instance, as in the crossing of Jordan (Josh. iii. 3-6), God guided them by the Ark. Usually it was the pillar which led them. The antitype of the Ark is the Lord Jesus, and of the pillar the Spirit of God through the Word. Our only need is to follow our Guide. Distrust your own wisdom, and confide fully in the wisdom that speaks in the Word.

Moses's prayer (35, 36) expresses the people's recognition of God, and dependence upon Him. They were marching through an enemy's country, and to a land yet possessed by enemies. Victory over them depended only upon God. If He arise his enemies would be scattered. Trust Him to do the same with our sins (Isa. lix. 19). A happy termination to the pilgrimage, with ample supplies and unfailing protection by the way, is guaranteed to all who follow their Guide.

For the Young.

THE ANGEL IN THE HOUSE.

I AM going to tell you of a girl who, from being one of the most careless girls it was possible to meet, became a gentle follower of Christ, and, as her mother often said, "An angel in the house." A friend and I were staying at a little village by the sea, and in the house next to that in which we were lodged lived a mother and her daughter, of whom we heard the following:—

The mother, a widow, was very delicate, but she worked for her child from morning till night. Before she left for school in the morning, Bessie would go to her mother and say: "I don't like the way you've done my hair—you must do it again." Then she would pull off the ribbon and tangle her hair, and worry her mother until it was done to her liking.

She would play on her way from school, and reach home at the last minute, late for dinner. Then she would call out: "Oh, mother, I must have my dinner this minute, or I shall be late for afternoon school. What is there for dinner?" And if it was not what she fancied, she would put herself into a terrible temper, and go to school dinnerless.

I cannot repeat the many ways in which she proved herself to be a trouble rather than a blessing to her invalid mother, whose failing health made her unable to cope with the ill-tempers of her self-willed child. At last, just after Bessie's fifteenth birthday, and when her chief thoughts were of going out, reading, and dressing, the doctor called her aside and spoke seriously to her. "For years," said he, "your mother has waited on you, and in this way she has increased her illness. Now she will never walk again, and it is your turn—you must wait on her. There is One whom your mother knows and loves, who will take all you do for her as done for Him; it is the highest service—are you prepared to enter it?"

Bessie was ashamed. In a moment her heart was touched. "Oh! I see how wilful and selfish I have been!" she cried. "Oh! Dr. Blair, is it true what you say of my mother?" "Every word of it," was the reply. "Just ponder on it."

Bessie crept upstairs weeping, with a feeling in her heart that the world had somehow suddenly come to an end.

She listened outside her mother's door, and she heard her praying. "Dear Father, who lovest my child more and better than I can ever love her, soften her young heart, and help her to bear this burden. Oh, Jesus, open thine arms very wide that I may more closely lean upon Thee, for I need Thee in my helplessness more than ever."

Bessie heard, and, rushing into the room, she fell at her mother's bedside, and in a fit of remorse exclaimed: "Oh, mother, my heart is broken! Forgive me all the past, and, by God's help, I will devote myself to you every hour."

Mother and daughter became united in the sweetest bonds, for Jesus was their Saviour and Comforter, and it was beautiful and touching to see them together in the days of the mother's dependence on her daughter—the elder leaning on the younger.

"What first touched you most?" we asked Bessie.

"Mother's gentle trust in God and the way she prayed for me," was the reply. "I had often heard her pray before, but the doctor's words, 'She will never walk again,' seemed to break my heart, and I felt as if God had put her into my idle arms to fill them."

We used to watch Bessie wheel her mother into the sunshine, and the mother's happy smile would follow her as she went in and out, and waited upon and cheered the invalid every hour of the day.

A letter came one day from an uncle in America, asking Bessie to go out to him and his wife, and they would make her heir to all they had, for they were childless. Bessie wrote: "I have a most blessed charge in a sick mother, whom I would not leave for all the wealth in the world. For fifteen years she spent herself for me, and God had to lay her aside before I could be brought to see the evil of my heart and ways, and the selfishness and uselessness of my robust health."

This so stirred up the uncle and aunt that they came to England to see the widow and Bessie, and the perfect unity and sweet Christian life of mother and daughter won them both for Christ.

Bessie's is a bright example. Many careless daughters have seen Christ in her so really that they have been caught by the beautiful likeness, and in the desire to be like Him have been "transformed by the renewing of their minds." I wish you could know Bessie. But perhaps you know Bessie's Saviour? Ah! if you do I need say no more, as your happy mothers would tell me, for "Who teacheth like Him?" M. B. GERDS.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. J. H. P. Cutting, with Caravan, Swaffham, to July 23; Mr. H. Hutchinson, Keswick (tent), July 21 and 28; Mr. H. Falkner, North Tapworth, Epsom, July 21.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for week ending July 27, 1895.—Sun., July 21, Genesis xl. 12-23; Mon., 22, xli. 1-16; Tues., 23, xli. 17-36; Wed., 24, xli. 37-57; Thurs., 25, xlii. 1-17; Fri., 26, xlii. 18-28; Sat., 27, xlii. 29-38.

The Evangelist.

I KNOW WHOM I HAVE BELIEVED.

You ask me how I gave my heart to Christ?
I do not know.
There came a yearning for Him in my soul
So long ago;
I found earth's flowerets would fade and die,
I wept for something that could satisfy;
And then—and then somehow I seemed to dare
To lift my broken heart to Him in prayer.
I do not know—
I cannot tell you—how,
I only know
He is my Saviour now.

You ask me when I gave my heart to Christ?
I cannot tell.
The day, or just the hour, I do not now
Remember well,
It must have been when I was all alone
The light of his forgiving Spirit shone
Into my heart, so clouded o'er with sin;
I think—I think 'twas then I let Him in.
I do not know—
I cannot tell you—when,
I only know
He is so dear since then.

You ask me where I gave my heart to Christ?
I cannot say.
That sacred place has faded from my sight
As yesterday.
Perhaps He thought it better I should not Remember where. How I should love that spot
I think I could not tear myself away,
For I should want forever there to stay.
I do not know—
I cannot tell you—where,
I only know
He came and blessed me there.

You ask me why I gave my heart to Christ?
I can reply.
It is a wondrous story; listen, while
I tell you why.
My heart was drawn, at length, to see his face.
I was alone, I had no resting-place,
I heard of how He loved me with a love
Of depth so great—of height so far above
All human ken,
I longed such love to share,
And sought it then
Upon my knees in prayer.

You ask me why I thought this loving Christ
Would heed my prayer?
I knew He died upon the cross for me.
I nailed Him there!
I heard his dying cry, "Father, forgive!"
I saw Him drink death's cup that I might live.
My head was bowed upon my breast in shame;
He called me, and in penitence I came.
He heard my prayer!
I cannot tell you how,
Nor when, nor where;
Why, I have told you now.

Selected.

MARITZBURG, NATAL.—Mrs. R. Watson writes:—"For the past fifteen months, God has given me work to do here. We have very much reason for praise. We have been privileged to see many lives transformed by the power of our blessed Saviour. The work is unconnected with any mission, God has wonderfully supplied all our need. Any straight Gospel booklets for distribution will be welcome." Address, 57, Loop-street, Maritzburg, Natal.

THE FOOD OF THE SOUL.

Communion Address at Mildmay Conference.

By Rev. ANDREW MURRAY.

"The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? For we being many are one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread."—1 Cor. x. 16, 17.

Life and food are dependent upon each other. The nature of the life decides the character of the food. The lion eats flesh, and the ox eats grass; and man has his food for his body. On the other hand, the character of the food will decide the growth and the strength and the increase of the life. You all know that there are in food very different elements of nourishment. A medical man will give to one what can strengthen the bones if they be weak; and yet another sort of food for someone who needs muscle. The food will decide the character and the strength of the life.

What is the food we need for our immortal spirits? The body and blood of the Son of God! Oh! mystery of mysteries, that Jesus said, "I came from heaven to give my flesh to be the life of the world." Surely it is of consequence that we understand aright what this means. I must not only look upon Christ as the bread of my life, but specially upon the broken body and the shed blood—upon the dying Christ. The death of Christ must be my chief nourishment—look at that. You know that the death of Christ is his chief characteristic. He came from heaven with the commandment from the Father, that He should lay down his life. He lived his whole life in the spirit of preparation, preparing Himself for death as the consummation of his work. He died. Without that He never could have risen again or ascended the throne. In heaven, He still reminds us, "I am He that liveth and was dead; and I am alive for evermore." Through eternity, He is on the throne, as the Lamb that was slain; and they never cease singing of the preciousness of that blood. "Thou hast redeemed us unto God by thy blood."

The chief glory of Christ is his death; and if I am to feed upon Christ, I must feed upon his death. What does that mean? Take, for instance, the plant. Fruit, trees, flowers have a certain food prepared and put into the soil for them. Taking the simple illustration of bone, therein you have a substance of nutriment for the plant, which inserts its rootlets into the bone and draws therefrom a certain essential of plant life. It does not take up any grains of the powder, but it extracts that something which is the very essence of the bone, works it up into the sap, until it creates the leaves, flowers, and fruit in their beauty. Just so is it with our bodies. The medical man prescribes to me what I am to take in order to meet a weakness in my constitution. I take it—some preparation with different elements in it. It disappears; the elements of life enter my blood and strengthen my frame.

I want to know how I can feed on the death of Christ. What does that mean? Feeding upon a thing means taking its inmost essence into your being. When I feed on flesh, bread, or anything else, I take its life power into my constitution. What does it mean—feeding upon the body and blood of Jesus? Let me offer you a few thoughts in a simple and brief way. I must find out what that death of Christ means, then by faith accept and appropriate it, leaving it to Jesus to work it within me in its Divine power.

What does the death of Christ mean in relation to sin? That Christ counted sin an accursed thing. That He was willing to get our human life, in which He was a partaker, out from under the curse of sin. When I feed upon the death of Christ, it means that I count sin an accursed thing, that I acknowledge sin has power over the whole of my life; that I consent to say, "I want to die away from sin." There is no getting separated from sin but by death; and I want the power of Christ's death to work in me, that I may be made free from sin. That is what the Apostle teaches us in Rom. vi. We have two sacraments; but have you ever noticed how both have to do with nothing but death? (Rom. vi.). How can I live so that I do not continue in sin? Just know that you are baptized into the death of Christ. And, so here, you feed upon the death of Christ. That means, I accept the terrible curse on all sin; I accept the truth that all my life is under the power of sin, and that there is no way to get rid of sin but by dying to it, absolute death in Christ.

What did Christ's death mean in relation to the world? Christ and the world met each other. In the temptation in the wilderness, the Prince of this world tried to effect a compromise or reconciliation. But Christ was not of this world, and would not have a worldly kingdom. The controversy was settled on Calvary. There Christ allowed the world to crucify Him, to prove that we and the world are irreconcilable enemies. The world cannot bear me, and I cannot bear the world. If I feed upon the death of Christ, the broken body and the shed blood, it means that I say, "I want to take, as an element of my spiritual life, separation from the world, antagonism to the world; to be crucified to the world, and to have the world crucified to me." That was what made Paul glory in the Cross. It was not only atonement and pardon, glorious as these gifts are; but it was fellowship.

Let us long for this. The world we live in is the world that rejected Christ, and will have nothing to do with the real Christ. Let us follow Christ and go out of the camp. As we feed upon the body and blood of Jesus, let this be our prayer—"Oh! my Father, may the spirit which was in Christ when He died on the Cross—separation from the world—may the Spirit of Christ dwell in me. Friends, I said before, that I take out of the food the life-elements into my constitution; and that not only physically, but spiritually. I want the death of Christ to be the ruling power of my whole being.

Look at the death of Christ once again, in its relation Godward, and what was it? It was the giving up of his own will for ever, to the will of God; it was an unparalleled humility which made Him say, "I am nothing and God is all." It was that which made Him willing to die. It was the declaration, "My will, as compared with the will of God, should never be of any value. I give up my will, myself, to be nothing; and God must be all." That was the spirit of Christ's death. When I say, "Oh, Jesus, feed me with thy broken body and with thy shed blood," it means nothing less than to say: "Let the dispositions and the inclinations and the tempers which urged Thee to Calvary dwell in me, my Lord. I want to feed upon thy death; let that become the nutriment of my life."

Are you proud? Have you, perhaps, never yet learned what it is to cry to God for humility above every other grace? Are you still self-willed, battling with God's will? Are you still seeking exaltation in any shape? I pray you, come to-day and feed upon the broken body and shed blood of the Lamb of God, who, in meekness and lowliness of heart, humbled Himself, and became obedient unto the death. Humility, obedience to God, surrender to God's will, this is the secret of Gethsemane and of Calvary. Oh! Jesus, feed us to-day with this heavenly bread.

What is the death in its relation to men? It is a death for men. Yes, you cannot partake of the death of Christ without remembering that it is dying love to lost sinners. What moved Him to come—He did not need it for Himself—to bear the curse, to be crucified to the world, and to give up his will to the Father? The inspiration of it all was, love to sinners. If I am going to feed to-day upon a crucified Christ, I must be prepared, I must be hungry, I must be longing, to have this heavenly food enter my being; and I must be willing to give up myself, like Jesus, to live and to die for my fellow-men. I am not come here to eat food simply for my enjoyment. Verily, no. Food from heaven is intended to strengthen me for heaven's work; food from Calvary is to strengthen me for Calvary's work. I feed upon the crucified Christ that I may be fitted to carry the crucified Christ into my life.

You all know how Paul reminds us that we are to show forth the Lord's death till He come. How? By thinking of it, speaking of it, trusting in it, eating and drinking in commemoration of it. But that is not all. I am to show forth the death of the Lord, in my life. You know those words of Paul so well, with reference to carrying about the dying of the Lord Jesus in his body, that the life of Jesus might be made manifest. How can you make the life of Christ manifest? By having his death working in you. Paul had been more than twenty years an apostle. He was an aged man. And yet he cried, "I count all things but dung and dross, that I may know Him in the fellowship of his sufferings, being made conformable unto his death." Did we speak yesterday about the new and living way. Is it not that I, like Jesus, am to die? Brothers and sisters, eat to-day this bread and drink this wine, that the power of the death of Christ may get possession of you; and, as often as we eat and drink, God grant it may increasingly become the power of Christ's death in our souls.

You may say, "Ought not the communion to be a feast of joy and gladness? You would seem to make it one of darkness and depression." Ah! no brother, it is not so. Do you want resurrection joy? Where is it to be had? At the grave of Jesus. Sink into that grave, become nothing: the joy of God shall fill you, and resurrection life shall be yours. It is not depression, it is joy and gladness. There is a way opened for us, out of self and its power into the life of Jesus.

Be not anxious as to how you should realise in your life all the elements of this death of Christ. When you eat a meal, your body being in a healthy state, you spend half an hour at breakfast or luncheon, and it is done with as far as you are concerned. God has ordered everything so that assimilation goes on quietly without any effort on your part, without your noticing it. You rise from the breakfast table, go to your work, spend hours in your business, and never give a thought to what is going on in your blood. The assimilation of food is, to us, a work of infinite rest.

Believer, when you go to-day, or at any other time, to feed on the broken body and shed blood, trust Jesus to make it real in you by the Holy Spirit. Just open up your old beginning and say, "Lord, one favour I crave, the chief of thy blessings. Oh! for the power of thy death, in my heart." I hear that there are many Christians beginning to think that the Church of Christ knows too little of real crucifixion in the fellowship of Christ's sufferers, in his rejection and separation from everything worldly. Oh! believer, trust Christ to teach you. Yield yourself to Him, feed upon his death, and He will be your life in a divine power.

And then, as each one seeks fellowship with the crucified Christ, we shall all have fellowship one with another. Praise God! we shall have fellowship in one bread, and prove that we are one body. It is likeness to Christ which will draw us nearer to each other and to God. Ere I offer you these blessed emblems, let us lift up our hearts to God in thanksgiving and in prayer.

After communion, Mr. Murray added a few words as follows:—I said at the commencement of our service, as is the food so is the life. Let it be so now. We have been fed with heavenly bread, let our lives be very heavenly. God help us to that end. Brothers and sisters, let us live heavenly lives; and, if we are to do that, let us, in the death of Jesus, die to the spirit of the world. He will do it in us. We have not eaten of this bread each alone, but altogether—one bread. Let our hearts overflow in love to each other. Let us pray, to-day and unceasingly, that prayer to God would bind all his children throughout the world, in the bond of the love of Christ and of his Holy Spirit; and let us so pass through this world, showing forth the death of the Lord until He come. He is coming in his glory; but, until He come, show forth his first coming, his death to the world, his victory over sin. God help us to do so, Amen.

HYDE PARK HALL MISSION.

At a recent week-night meeting in Hyde Park Hall, at the close of the Park service, a dozen persons publicly sought the Saviour. On Sunday evening week many were in tears as they stood in the park, and were inquiring of the workers "What must I do to be saved?" Will the reader remember us in fellowship and prayer. The work is arduous and continuous, and the physical and mental strain is great. We have for twenty-four years been sustaining this work in Hyde Park, preaching there four and five nights a week; but for the continual blessing seen in the conversion of sinners and the restoration of backsliders we had often failed, and grown weary with the heat and burden of the day. During the whole of the summer, when our chief work lies in the open air, where we cannot take collections, we are dependent on the Lord's people who know of our work to help us. Personally I am suffering in my head and throat from continued work, and shall be grateful to be remembered in prayer. Chas. Cook.

6, Frithville-gardens, London, W.

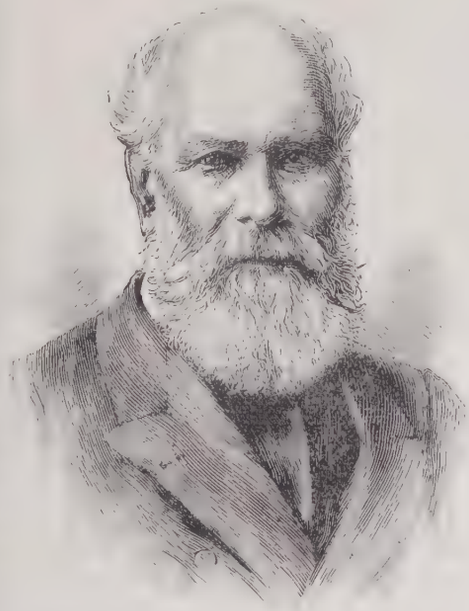
The late Rev. John Hart.

The subject of this sketch was born at Gargunnock, near Stirling, on July 22, 1817, and died at Guildford, in Surrey, on March 2, 1895. His ministry, one of unique character and abounding usefulness, lasted from 1843 till 1888, a period of forty-five years. As a child he knew the Holy Scriptures from home and Sunday-school teaching—specially the latter—in a school taught by the late Peter Drummond, of Stirling. When about twenty-five years of age he, through faith in Jesus Christ, attained to the personal consciousness of acceptance with God. He felt that he ought to abandon a secular vocation. Having a desire to communicate to others what he had experienced himself, he endeavoured to do so among his companions, in conversations, in controversies, in a Sunday-school, which he and a companion extemporised. The result of this was a formal invitation from the church of Jedburgh, of which he was then a member, to preach the Gospel. Thus Mr. Hart did not assume the great work of his life in self-will or self-sufficiency, but was as truly set apart to it as were Paul and Barnabas.

Mr. James Douglas, of Cavers, a direct descendant of the Douglas who fell at the Battle of Otterburn and lies buried under the high-altar at Melrose, was an ardent upholder of evangelistic work, and gave a great impetus to it. He was a man of considerable reading and culture, and wrote some books on the Christian evidences which had great popularity in their day. At first he used to select promising young men, and send them to be educated for the ministry at his own expense. This plan not satisfying him, he next employed one or more evangelists to hold meetings in houses, and visit the people personally; from two evangelists he went to four. Mr. Hart was asked by him to be one of the number, and he therefore gave up business, and became a home missionary. The four evangelists were, we believe, Messrs. Hart, Robertson, Telfer, and Dunn. Mr. Telfer, who became an Independent minister, died a few years ago at Clapham, having served his Lord faithfully to the last. Mr. Robertson also became an Independent minister, and died at Hampstead a short time after Mr. Telfer's death.



Mr. Douglas sent his evangelists forth on a sort of roving commission, as Mr. Hart said, to evangelise in the south of Scotland, and in Northumberland. The whole countryside was roused to a state of religious interest, chapels were crowded, and hundreds professed to be converted to God. We have a friend who says that in his native place on the Tyne whole families were saved, and so intense was the excitement that farmers and their helpers would leave the harvest in the field to go and take part in the services, and at night, as they returned home, the valley was vocal with their hymns of praise. These were great days, and are still remembered. As recently as 1883 one of the converts said:

> After nearly forty years have passed away, no better proof of the value of the work can be given than that a good number of the converts are still on the Primitive Methodist plan as preachers, and have preached the Gospel in all these years, often travelling long distances. The soundness of these conversions may be attributed to the plan of salvation being well explained. It has always been said that the Scotch missionaries had produced the greatest revival that has ever been seen in the North of England.

This was a new invasion of England by the Scotch, led as of old by the Douglas, in whose house rests the pennon which was taken from Lord Percy at the battle of Otterburn. The Gospel of peace has done great things for our once stormy and bloody borderland. Rich in story, song, and legend, the Border has its most beautiful record in the work of God achieved amongst its energetic people.

Mr. Hart saw beyond a shadow of a doubt that God had called him to the ministry of his Son Jesus. This led him to attend the classes of the Evangelical Union, Theological Academy, Glasgow, and also lectures in Glasgow University. Here he had useful intercourse with the late Dr. Morison, and in due time was ordained as pastor of a Congregational Church in Hamilton, in succession to Rev. John Kirk. From Hamilton he passed to Salem Chapel, Great Bridge, Staffordshire, and from thence to Houghton, in Huntingdonshire, where he laboured for eight and a-half years with great usefulness.

It was here that he began a kind of work which he called "Congregational Episcopacy," which has given its distinctive mark to his ministry. Mr. Hart was always an evangelist in the sense of seeking the conversion of sinners; nothing would have contented him, had he been living in a benighted neighbourhood, unless this was going forward. But he was too clear-headed not to see that the work of the ministry is also for the upbuilding of believers, for the purpose of persuading and guiding them to undertake aggressive action. Instead of being a single-handed evangelist, he aimed at making himself the leader of an evangelising church, and multiplying himself and his labours many times over. And by God's blessing he had a distinguished success.

(From Photograph by Mr. Shawcross, Guildford.)

The nucleus of a fruitful district work was present at Houghton when he went to it, having been made by Mr. Harcourt, his predecessor, and by the wisdom, zeal, and generosity of several laymen, chief of whom were Mr. Potts Brown, Mr. Joseph Goodman, Mr. Thomas Paul, and Mr. Coote. Houghton had three other places linked with it, at each of which was a new chapel. Three more were added in Mr. Hart's time. In seventeen years this church became a united district church of seven branches. In that time the membership gathered was 697, nearly the whole of them being from the world. In this church Baptists and Pædo-Baptists dwelt together in peace; strength was gained by the union of several small churches, none of which was able to stand alone; ministers were made by the practical training they got, ten of the brethren giving themselves wholly to the work of preaching and teaching. Mr. Hart said of it:—

> There is among you as much diversity of detail as would be sufficient to found, I shall not say seven separate churches, but seven separate denominations, and at the same time as much essential agreement as renders your fellowship in one church as natura as it is profitable and Christian. 1

Mr. Hart settled at Guildford, Surrey, in 1861, over a church of thirty members, a congregation averaging 150, and a Sunday-school of 150 children in attendance. He worked on the old lines, and with so much success, that at the end of twenty-seven years the membership was 500, the average attendance at Guildford and the village churches 1700, and the average attendance at the various Sunday-schools nearly 2000. No less a sum than £17,450 was spent on new buildings, and on the reconstruction of old ones. He had no less than twelve village stations associated with Guildford church, preaching having in some cases been begun in a barn or in an old carpenter's shop, or in the assembly room of an inn. For this work there were one pastor, one assistant minister, two evangelists, seven deacons, four committees, and twenty-five lay preachers.

In March, 1888, Mr. Hart resigned his charge, and his place was filled by Rev. W. Houghton. At intervals, as he had strength, he preached occasionally, and with his old unction and power. His sayings were often quaint and pungent. In his last sermon, preached at Ryde's Hill, he exclaimed: "Heaven won't be heaven to me if there are not plenty of Guildford people and Ryde's Hill people there." About the sick people who had been unable to come to the service, he said: "Never mind; God is a good visitor, and will not forget them." His explanation of all his usefulness was given in the text chosen for his farewell sermon: "Our sufficiency is of God." Almost his last words were, "All's well! all's well!"

He was the finest example we know of a minister trained mostly in the school of experience, and owing almost nothing to the guiding hand of man. Nevertheless, he was too wise to neglect the help that books and men can give. J. P. G.

BILLINGSGATE CHRISTIAN MISSION.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the Billingsgate Christian Mission was held on Tuesday, last week, in the Mission Hall, facing the Billingsgate Market. Mr. F. A. Bevan presided, and several prominent fish salesmen were among the audience.

Mr. A. Walters, hon. secretary of the work, rendered an encouraging report. He described the noon-day services, coffee-stall, and magic lantern efforts, the free dinners, and Band of Hope agencies; and one could not but admire the energy of the management, and the devotion of the missionary, Mr. J. Warlow.

Mr. W. H. Williamson, the treasurer, made a financial statement. During the past thirteen months, he said, £250 had been paid off the debt on the building, and that debt now stood at £4,000. On the general account the receipts reached £989 10s. 7d., but the expenditure was in excess of that amount by £51 15s. Mr. Williamson added that the Mission now had a committee of fifteen or sixteen well-known salesmen.

Sir Henry Peek, speaking as one who had been connected with the neighbourhood for over fifty years, expressed his pleasure at the sound, unsensational work the Mission was doing. Thanks to its efforts, and to the efforts of similar agencies, it is no longer true that the name of Billingsgate is synonymous for all that is degraded.

The Chairman, in a hearty address, maintained that in spite of the heavy debt they must take courage, and look forward to the future with hopefulness and faith. It was evident they were getting hold of the market men. Other friends followed with short speeches.

The Neglected Continent.

SKETCHES OF MISSIONARY TRAVEL.

By MRS. HARRIET L. MILNE.

We had planned to make this journey earlier in the year, but were hindered partly by my husband's health, and also by the revolution in Peru. The first object of Mr. Milne's visit was to get through the Customs House at Callao a number of cases of Scriptures which have been illegally detained for over eighteen months. Señor Penzotti left a year ago for his new field of Central America, taking with him fair promises of their speedy despatch; but there they have remained till now. My husband also hopes to get the colporteurs at work again both in Peru and in Bolivia, and probably to do some work in Chili. I hope to let you know from time to time something of the work. We feel that Bolivia and Ecuador are laid on our hearts. For these lands no one has yet cared sufficiently to go and live there. In the former country many Bibles have been circulated, and some in Ecuador, though the latter still declares itself shut against them.

We left our home in Buenos Ayres* on Wednesday, April 3. Two nights and a day brought us over the first stage of the journey to at the foot of the Andes. The line runs directly west, over a level plain, for some six hundred miles. There is not a cutting in it all I believe more than a few feet deep. To travellers the chief point of interest in Mendoza is the ruin caused by the terrible earthquake of 1861. It happened on Thursday of Holy Week, when the churches were full of worshippers. The utter desolation is depressing, especially the sight of heaps of human bones carelessly left lying everywhere, or thrown into corners. Close by the ruins of one of the churches stands a magnificent pine tree. It had been jerked quite to one side in the tremendous upheaval, but thanks to its roots it still lives and thrives. Three of us could scarcely encircle its great trunk. The new city is built close by. It ought to be pretty, with the mountains for a background and the streets lined with beautiful shady trees and running water. Still, it impressed me as a dusty, dirty place, and in the march of civilisation many years behind the eastern side of the Argentine.

MENDOZA,

The Methodist Episcopal Church has a mission here, with a resident native pastor, Sunday-school, prayer-meeting, etc. This church is like a number of others, the outcome of an interest awakened by the visit of one of our colporteurs in 1886. A number of persons were converted through Cingiali's simple testimony. A fellow-countryman, Señor Borzani, became so deeply interested in the movement, that he sold out his business in Buenos Ayres and joined in the good work. Shortly afterwards the church was formally organised.

We met Borzani there; Cingiali has long since gone to his reward. They were like the fishermen of Galilee, unlettered men, and neither of them could speak Spanish with any degree of fluency. There are a number of English-speaking people in Mendoza, but there is no English service except when any minister of the Gospel is passing through. On this occasion short notice brought together a small audience.

We left Mendoza at dawn, and 2 p.m. found us at the present terminus of the railway. The way follows the course of the Mendoza river through the vineyards; away among the mountains, which grow grander and grander; crossing and recrossing the river many times; through tunnels or along the face of a precipice, with great heights above and depths beneath us. Frequently we stood outside the carriage door for a better view perhaps of a distant snow-capped peak, or the changing colours on the mountain side, or the huts of the charcoal burners, or the change and gradual decrease of vegetation. Frequently there was a strong breeze, and in the early morning the cold was intense, but I enjoyed it to the full. There are only a very few stations in all of the eighty-seven miles. At each of them Mr. Milne distributed tracts and Gospels. At one station he was gladly recognised by a man, who said: "Ah! you're the man who gave a Bible to my wife when passing through here in 1891. She has read it much," he added, "and likes it, too." A simple incident, and yet how encouraging.

* Rev. A. M. Milne, husband of the writer, is superintendent, for the Argentine, of the American Bible Society.

CROSSING THE ANDES.

The next stage of the journey could be made by coach or mule. The coach is an uncovered two-wheeled sort of spring-cart. We chose the mule. Las Vacas is merely the railway terminus, with a sort of restaurant for the convenience of passengers, and a large enclosure for mules. I was very anxious to be brave, and perhaps that is all I ought to say about my bravery; for when we went into the yard and heard the shouting, and saw the preparations, my courage almost failed. There was no choice now, however. I was soon mounted, and shown how to guide, and we started at a quick pace.

We soon found ourselves in the bottom of a wide, deep gorge. The strata of the great mountains on either side often corresponded exactly. We were a large company and we among the last. The sun was in our faces, and the breeze quite strong, and we had more than our own share of dust. As the afternoon advanced we made more of an ascent. The sun went down when we were an hour or more from our destination, and the moon rose full and bright and beautiful. I can never forget the grandeur of that moonlight ride—the great mountains, the solemn stillness, the sharp shadows along the path, and snow lying in the corners. We were now at a considerable elevation—over 9,000ft.—and my breath came and went like a bellows. I never felt so tired in all my life.

At last, at eight o'clock, we got to the next post-house, after being six hours in the saddle. A great dark-looking kindly fellow came to help the senorita dismount. Had he not supported me I should have fallen flat on the ground. Mr. Milne was as bad as I. The sight of food made us sick, so we went straight to bed. This was a most miserable place, and we were the most miserable individuals. The water was hard; the beds were hard. We could not get at our own baggage, and there was neither comb, brush, sponge, nor anything else; but we laid ourselves down and slept soundly. At four o'clock they came shouting that the mules were ready.

The next stage of the journey could only be made by mules. We had hot coffee and bread, and by five o'clock were in the saddles again. The moon still shone beautifully clear, and we were astonished to find ourselves so well recruited and in such good spirits. We were now bound for the cumbre, and the prospect was exhilarating. On and on we went in long zigzags up the face of the bare brown mountain. We had left all trace of vegetation far behind. We watched the dawning of the day, and saw the sun shine on the peaks around and ahead of us. About eight o'clock perhaps we reached the cumbre. I had always thought that should it ever be my good fortune to cross the Andes I would be so enthusiastic over it all. There is nothing to be seen but bare brown mountains all round.

Here we dismounted, and began the descent by a steeper, shorter way than the made road. We scrambled down as best we could, I sometimes using hands as well as feet. Where the snow lay it was very slippery, but there was no danger at all. By-and-by we reached the made road, where our mules were waiting for us, and then commenced the long zigzag descent. By this time I had gained some confidence in the saddle, and would venture on a steeper, shorter way. We rode steadily for some hours, and came to what looked like a long stretch of level road. They said we were not far from the next station, and we dismounted for a change, strapped our wraps on to the mules, and let them trot off before us. The road was rough and dusty; the station must have been a number of miles distant, and the latter part of it very steep indeed.

We were somewhat discouraged to find that after all this was not the station, but merely a place for fumigation, as there was still some cholera in the Argentine. There was hardly a seat to be found, and, of course, nothing to eat or drink. We lingered around about an hour, watching the fumigation. They did not fumigate our things, after all, so we remounted and jogged on, still descending, for about two hours more. Early in the evening we reached the desired station, glad to get a good meal and to be able to rest. Juncal is a good station, where one can have plain food and clean, comfortable beds. We were so tired that with several other passengers we decided to rest there until Thursday.

The next stage of the journey took us from Juncal to Salto del Soldado ("The Soldier's Leap"), the first station of the Chilian Railway. Again we preferred the mules, though all the others went by coach. We could take our own time and be out of the crowd. All the way lay alongside the river, here called the Juncal, but it changes its name several times. We rode long before we came to any human habitation. At last we came to a very small hut, with the smallest patch of maize growing near it; by-and-by another with a larger patch, and gradually they became more frequent. At one of these I actually saw an Indian woman trying to work a small sewing-machine. I wondered if the Gospel had ever reached her, or if the sewing-machine had got there first. I ought to say that on this occasion also Mr. Milne distributed a number of tracts and Gospels. We were constantly meeting passengers on their way to Argentine.

I began to wonder if the descent would ever come to an end. Some parts of the valley were strewn with great boulders that had fallen from the heights above. Often my husband would call my attention to a dizzy height, or a roaring condor, or a foaming waterfall, and our path was frequently crossed by a clear deep rapid stream. Six hours or so of riding brought us to the Salto in time to have a meal and a rest before taking the 4 o'clock train, which took us at 11 o'clock at night to Santiago.

(To be continued.)

MANCHESTER WESLEYAN MISSION.

The seventh report of the Manchester and Salford Wesleyan Methodist Mission gives a very readable account of the work as still directed with much success by Rev. S. F. Collier. The work is carried on in various centres, many devoted men and women giving time and energy thereto. The aggregate church membership is 1804, besides members on trial and junior members. The congregations on Sunday evenings make a total of 10,000, while there are 2500 children in the Sunday-schools, 1200 men and women in Bible-classes, and over 2000 people in attendance at the weekly temperance meetings.

The report not only describes the gatherings, but gives an account of the work of visitation carried on by mission sisters. The social work keeps a large staff well occupied. Some remarkable incidents are given in this section. We reproduce one of them. An old soldier went into business and prospered fairly, but in an evil moment he fell a victim to that gambling mania the wreckage of which is strewn everywhere in these north-country towns. He was not a drunkard, but drink is always the associate of gambling, and drink muddles both brain and conscience. He wrote a letter of recommendation for one of his comrades who, as he might have supposed, turned out a scoundrel. The result for the muddle-headed letter-writer was a sentence of five years' penal servitude for conspiracy to defraud. When he came down from Dartmoor on a ticket-of-leave, there was upon him the felon's brand. He wandered in hopeless loneliness and misery, until, at the far end of personal resource and human sympathy, he fell into the merciful hands of the Mission. A letter slipped under Mr. Sackett's door one night was his introduction. He proved to be so steady and reliable and intelligent that at last an excellent situation was found for him, and arrangements were made with the police authorities pending the expiration of his ticket-of-leave. He has been promoted by his master, and is beloved in the church of which he is a consistent member.

The social work is entirely unsectarian; persons are helped, after investigation, regardless of creed. At the same time everything is done to lead them to the Lord Jesus Christ. Communications regarding the work should be addressed to the hon. sec., Rev. H. J. Pope, Central Buildings, Oldham-street, Manchester.

THE BACKWATER OF LIFE.

By Rev. E. GRIFFITH JONES, B.A.

In a recent number of The Cornhill Magazine there is a touching and suggestive article by Mr. James Payn, on what he calls the "Backwater of Life." It chronicles the feelings of one who realises that the best of life is behind him; that he is no longer wanted in the great world, which shows that it can go on very well without him—perhaps better without him than with him; and that soon the end must come.

"It is a strange feeling," he says, "to one who has been immersed in affairs, and, as it were, in the mid-stream of what we call Life, to find oneself in its backwater, crippled and helpless, but still able to see through the osiers on the island between us what is passing along the river—the passenger vessels and the pleasure-boats—and to hear faintly, the voices and the laughter, and the strong language mellowed by distance, from the slow-moving barges. The backwater has its good points; the stream is clear, the autumn woods that overhang the hither bank are fair to look upon, and the plunging of the weir, where all things end, has a welcome sound when the moon shines out and floods the scene with silver. Sometimes on darker nights its roar is menacing, but after a while the sinister sound is lost, and it changes to a deep solemnity; then we wonder as we listen, not without fear, as to what may be upon the other side of it. No one who has once been carried over it can come back again. There is the main stream, the backwater, and the weir—and there ends the River of Life."

In a word, this represents the position of a man who has gone through all that this life holds in store for him, and who pauses to consider where he is. The scales are fallen from his eyes; life has lost its illusions; it is practically over. And now the question comes up stern and insistent—"What is left to me? What is the outlook?"

We must all come to these backwaters if we live long enough. We who struggle in the mid-stream now will have some time to draw our skiff out of the current as it flows swiftly by, while others eagerly throng into our place. What is the outlook for us then?

So far as the article in question goes there is no outlook. It is written from the point of view of an agnostic, not of a believer. To such a one the outlook is just—a blank. "No one has come from beyond the weir to say what lies beyond. There is nothing left but to close one's eyes, and wait, while the thunder of the weir draws nearer and nearer." But we have another Teacher and Guide to turn to. There is One who knows, who has been across the weir Himself, who has come back with a message, and who has told his people what to expect. Let us see what He has to say to those who are in the backwater.

Three sad cries sound constantly from that retired spot, and to each of them the Saviour has a word in reply.

1. One of these cries in this, "I am no longer young."

This is the first moment of pause on the mid-stream of life. The sense of a vanished youth, with all that this implies, comes to all at last. And it is a great loss. "The freshness of youth"—there is nothing to compare with it, and its loss is the first of those "fallings from us, vanishings," of which Wordsworth speaks in his immortal Ode on Immortality. The flower of life, flushed and dainty, has shed its petals, and though the fruit may be ripening, summer and autumn are not like spring.

There was a time when meadow, grove, and stream,
The earth, and every common sight,
To me did seem
Apparelled in celestial light,
The glory and the freshness of a dream.
It is not now, as it hath been of yore;—
Turn wheresoe'er I may,
By night or day,
The things which I have seen I now can see no more.
* * * *
The Rainbow comes and goes,
And lovely is the Rose,
The Moon doth with delight
Look round her when the heavens are bare,
Waters on a starry night
Are beautiful and fair;
The sunshine is a glorious birth;
But yet I know, where'er I go,
That there hath passed away a glory from the earth.

What is it that has passed? It is youth that has passed. The fairies have vanished; the dawn has faded into the common day; the shadows of evening, the stillness of the backwater, are already in sight.

Is there anyone who can give us back our youth, or what was precious in it? Jesus can do so. He holds immortal youth in his keeping. "Jesus said unto her, I am the Resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in Me, though he die, yet shall he live again; and he that liveth and believeth in Me shall never die." The bodily life must run its course. But what of that? "For this cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day. For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." If this does not spell youth, I know not what it means, and Jesus Christ holds this gift in store for all his people.

2. "I am no longer fit for my work."

Work—this is the joy of middle life, as the capacity for enjoyment and acquirement are the joys of youth. We have youth to prepare, middle-life to use and to conquer. And while our power of work is undiminished, we do not miss our youth much; its loss is a pleasant regret rather than a hopeless pain. Life is always worth living to the man who honestly loves his work, and does it as well as he knows how.

Well, the time comes when we cannot hide from ourselves — and others find it out before us — that our power of work is not what it was. Our memory fails us. We grow tired sooner, and we cannot regain our power of work so easily. Our ideas are not so fresh; we repeat ourselves without knowing it. We cannot bear the small annoyances of life with the old serenity. And at last comes the conviction, sometimes borne in on the edge of a curt dismissal, or the knowledge that others younger and more capable than ourselves are elbowing us out of our place, that our day's work is almost done.

What is the outlook for us here? None at all, save the "night when no man can work." But out of its pitchy folds comes a voice to those who have served Him well through the hours of labour —"Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord!" Ay, there is something still left for us when our day's work here is done. Heaven is no idle holiday, it means a renewed soul ready for wider fields of service. "Other heights in other lives!"

3. "I am left alone in a world of strangers."

This is the saddest cry of all. Life is full of partings; death has no pity for love. Friend after friend departs; our lives are stripped of their friendships just when we have lost the power of making new friends. A growing sense of loneliness falls on all as life passes on; we live among the shadows of the past; our ears are filled with the voices of children of long ago, and our dimming eyes look beyond the faces that really surround us, into the shadowy countenances of the companions and friends of the dead years. This is indeed the backwater of life.

What cheer? Are our friends lost for ever? Who can tell? What has anyone to tell us apart from the great Teacher, who is also the great Conqueror?

"Thou madest Death, and lo! thy foot,
Is on the skull that thou has made."

Apart from Him, we know nothing; we can at best but dimly hope and surmise. But He has set his seal on all the natural yearnings and hopes of his people in those gracious words—"If it were not so, I would have told you." More than that, He has gone to prepare a place for us. He has gone to clothe Heaven with human associations; to make the Unknown home-like and familiar, with the assurance that He and the dear ones gone before are there waiting for us. And so we know that death's door is the separator only because we go through it one by one; some day it will open to the last of us, and then it will be no longer to separate, but to re-unite all who love God and do His will.

The sum of it all is—"Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life." It is worth while being true to Jesus Christ. Let us not think of our reward in a mercenary spirit. But we are encouraged to think of that other life, the higher and better, with sincere and unqualified delight. Especially should those in the backwater here think of the bright shore beyond the weir. Let its happy voices cheer them, and its light visit their hearts with its still and blessed comfort. So will they be able truly to sing once more with the Concord poet:—

Springtime makes spring in the mind
When sixty years are told.
Love wakes anew the throbbing heart,
And we are never old.
Over the winter glaciers
I see the summer glow,
And through the wild-piled snowdrift
The warm rosebuds glow!

GREAT ASSEMBLY HALL, MILE END.

A most successful mission was held by Mr. Telford in Mr. Charrington's Great Assembly Hall during June. The hall has been well filled on the week nights, and despite the hot weather the Sunday nights have been nearly up to the average. Mr. Telford is a great favourite, but this visit he was without the aid of his good wife, who, we regret to say, has not entirely recovered from a recent attack of influenza. Mr. Telford is a very direct and pointed preacher, and his discourses are greatly blessed both to the sinner and the believer. He varies the style of conducting his meetings, and at the close of his address it is no uncommon thing to find many responding to his appeal to declare themselves by standing up before the thousands assembled and deciding with an audible "I will" that they will henceforth serve the Lord Christ. This has been found a very helpful method to those who have been pricked to the heart during the address, and such a declaration cannot but have a beneficial effect upon those who have the courage of their conviction to respond to the voice of the Spirit.

Some exceedingly interesting cases of conversion and the restoration of backsliders have taken place. A large congregation gathered on Mr. Telford's last night, and at the close quite a procession filed by Mr. Telford as he stood at the foot of the stairs leading to the platform and shook them by the hand and said good-bye. The prayer of the people follow him, and many who are realising the new-born joy of faith in Christ will add to the number.

THE ARMENIAN TROUBLES.

A meeting to express sympathy with the oppressed Armenians was held last week at Surrey Chapel, Mr. R. C. Morgan presiding. A large number of ministers of all denominations attended, and many spoke earnest words of protest against the misrule and oppression of the Turk in these eastern lands. A deputation from the Anglo-Armenian Association introduced several refugees from the scene of the recent massacres, whose presence and speech excited much sympathetic interest.

Resolutions were heartily passed, expressing indignation at the Porte's continued violation of treaty obligations and of the principles of humanity; calling on Her Majesty's Government to take effective action in securing to the Armenians their rights and necessary reforms, and to procure the immediate release of those still unjustly imprisoned.

TRAINING SHIP SHAFTESBURY.

Last week an exceedingly pleasant function was performed on board the training ship Shaftesbury, when Lord George Hamilton inspected the boys and presented the prizes won by them during the year, in the presence of a large company, most of whom had journeyed down to Grays from the metropolis. The chair was occupied by Rev. Andrew A. W. Drew, chairman of the Industrial Schools Committee of the London School Board.

Lord George Hamilton, in a short address to the boys, mentioned the great interest and delight which he took in London School Board work, and said how much he would regret being compelled to abandon it to attend to Parliamentary duties. He also said that he and the managers of the ship were endeavouring to make arrangements whereby in the future a largely increased number of Shaftesbury lads would be admitted into the Royal Navy. He pointed out that the aim of the managers of the ship was to give the boys who came into it a fair start when the time came for them to commence the battle of life, and added that he thought no better training could be given them than that which fitted them for the sea.

DR. F. R. LEES.—One of the last acts of Lord Rosebery as First Lord of the Treasury was the recommendation of a grant of £100 from the Royal Bounty Fund to Dr. Frederick Richard Lees, in recognition of the doctor's services as a temperance teacher and social and political reformer.

Letters to the Editor.

CONFLICT OF INTERPRETATION.—II.

By Rev. Nathaniel West, Syracuse, N.Y.

Having spoken of the two great impediments to harmony among prophetic students, I would add a few words in reference to what, on this side of the water, is the most powerful popular obstacle in the way of progress in the study of prophecy and of respect for the views of the teachers of the Second Coming of Christ. I mean the "Any-moment" Theory, or view of the "Rapture of the Church"—in other words, the doctrine that our Lord Jesus Christ taught his Apostles, and they the Church, that his Second Coming, his Advent for the Church, would be a secret, unseen, unheard, unnoticed advent, resurrection from the dead, change of the holy living, rapture of both, and meeting of the Lord in the air, and especially taught them that this might occur "any moment" after his departure from them. In short, that the injunction to "watch" every moment implies logically the possibility of the advent any moment, and that psychologically, it is impossible to watch long and look every moment for an event which it is known could not occur until some other event had occurred first.

It seems very plain to many of us that the Lord taught his disciples that He would "delay," "tarry," go to a "far country," be gone "a long time," and only "after a long time" return and reckon with his servants. And no art of interpretation can ever make us believe this "return" means a secret, unseen, silent advent, resurrection, and rapture, seven years before "that Blessed Hope," even the open, public, ubiquitous epiphany of Christ which we are directed to "look for," and not for a secret, unseen "Parousia" of which we read nothing in the Scriptures. We hold strongly that this "epiphany" is that very "apocalypse" of Jesus Christ when He will be revealed from heaven in flaming fire, to tribulate the tribulators of his saints, and prior to which He declares the Church shall have no "rest" (2 Thess. ii. 8; 1 Pet. i. 13). And we see in Peter's justification of the Lord's "delay," because of God's long-suffering and desire for the salvation of men, the ample refutation of a theory which tells the Church that her commission might be closed any moment, and God's longest day of grace to a lost world be only the tick of a clock. We hold, moreover, that Paul corrected the "any moment" error of the Thessalonians, which held that the "Day of the Lord" was then present, and, therefore, the Lord might come any moment, since the Lord comes only "in that day."

We say it stands out clearly in the Olivet discourse of the Saviour concerning the "End" and the "Parousia," that He could not have taught his disciples that He might come "any moment" for them, since He bade them beware of that very error, saying, "Take heed that no man deceive you," and proceeded at once to tell the events that "must needs come to pass" before his return, not for the Jews, but for them—events that "must come first," and then gives the signs that fore-announce the Parousia itself. We see the rapture in the words "one is taken, the other left," and which follow the "gathering of his elect" to Himself by the angels (Matt. xxiv. 30, 31), and believe that this "gathering," a universal one, of the elect, means the resurrection of the holy dead, under the last trumpet, and is "our gathering together at Him," where He is, in the clouds, and in the air (Matt. xxiv. 30, 31). We see in the "meeting" of the Lord in the air of which Paul speaks (1 Thess. iv. 17), the "meeting of the Bridegroom" in Matt. xxv. 1. In short, we see that Paul was not the receiver of a new and special revelation in 1 Thess. iv. 14-18, unknown before, but was simply a reproducer and interpreter of our Lord's own words in Matthew xxiv. 29-41, xxv. 1, in fact of his whole discourse, if we include 2 Thess. ii. 1-12. And this resurrection of the holy dead, we find under the seventh trumpet, and after the sixth vial, in Rev. xi. 15-18, xvi. 15.

We have the heaven-born right, in any honest "Conference" of Christian men and ministers, to express these views, and not be shut out by any "management" from the liberty conscientiously and Christianly to state them. Not a few have read some history also, and they only affirm what is correct when they say this "any moment" teaching was unknown to the early Church,—that it is not a return to the Futurism of the Primitive Church," but is a departure from it.

Finally, certain things are clear to us on the very surface of the whole question.

1. The Lord could not come for his Bride, the Church, until she was born. This birth, the brethren who hold the "any moment" view, themselves say was on the day of Pentecost, and the bride consists of all Spirit-born souls between Pentecost and the Second Advent.

2. The Lord could not come back for his Bride, until He had called Saul of Tarsus to go to the Gentiles, and take her out from the Gentiles, according to his eternal purpose.

3. The Lord could not come for his Bride till Peter should be an "old" man, and martyred in his name. Our Lord distinctly foretold that before his Advent, Peter must become "old," and glorify Him by a martyr's death (John xxi. 18, 19). Peter knew he must die before the Lord would come.

4. Lastly, here, the Lord could not come for his Bride before the siege of Jerusalem, under Titus, A.D. 70. He predicted Jerusalem's destruction by the Roman arms. Expressly He warned his disciples, his Church, to "flee to the mountains," when they should "see Jerusalem compassed with armies," which warning they obeyed, escaping to Pella.

And yet our Lord enjoined his people to "watch," which most zealously they did! It is manifest from these facts that the "inference" drawn from his injunction to "watch," viz., that an every moment watching necessitates the possibility of an "any moment" coming, is as logically out of joint as it is exegetically unjustified, and is, moreover, psychologically contradicted by every day's experience, in the common affairs of life—the hope still ever near to the heart.

Days of trial are before us, and it will not do to play, even unconsciously, into the hands of the "Higher Critics," and help them to convict the Blessed Son of God as "a self-contradictory and unreliable teacher," an "indulger in Oriental phantasmagoria," an "innocent enthusiast who often changed his mind!" The world's New Messiah, the last Antichrist, is soon to "come up out of the abyss," and teach men "the lie," that Jesus Christ is "a fraud," the Bible no more inspired than the Vedas, and Christianity a delusion. Meanwhile, the Papal Antichrist is to wax stronger, and Rome once more rise to civil power. Israel must come into the field as never before, and Christ's "Two Witnesses" be sent to prepare the Jews to say "Hosanna." We shall soon learn how true it is that "exclusiveness," or "narrowness," is the bane of all interpretation, and how the great expansive symbols of the Apocalypse cover the whole time from the first to the second Advent, that the Beast is Rome Pagan, Rome Papal, and Rome Infidel—that the Scarlet Woman is Rome Pagan, Rome Papal, Rome Infidel at last—though the Beast is not the Woman. Both are Rome, and all her harlot daughters belong to her wherever found.

We shall learn that the early Christians were not mistaken in saying Nero was the Pagan Antichrist, and that the Reformers were not mistaken in saying the Pope is the Papal Antichrist; nor shall they who live, and, like the faithful Bride in all past time, glorify Christ by their witness to death, if needs be, be mistaken, when, in the revived personal Beast, who "was," and "is not" now, but "shall come up out of the abyss" they see the last Infidel Anti-Christ, who, with the discrowned kings of the earth, will make short work of the Pope and Rome together, and, after a mad effort to enthrone himself at Jerusalem, "go into perdition."

I have written plainly, but, I trust, kindly, and I am sure most prayerfully. The Second Coming of our Blessed Lord has been preached by none more earnestly than by the writer of this paper for near half-a-century. The modern view I am unable to accept—i.e., the "any moment" theory. It is one whose whole history I have carefully studied. It has a history, as Englishmen and others well know. Into that I cannot enter. Enough if they who love the Prophetic Word and the hope of the Lord's appearing, and who, notwithstanding the idea that "signs" are not for us, but only for the Jews, are yet very inconsistently loading the journals of the day with the "signs of the times," will lovingly consent to hear their cause reviewed by others who as lovingly differ from them, and vice versâ, to the honour of Christ, who loves us all, to the glory of God, and to the joy of all believers. Let us ever cherish that golden word of Augustine, "It matters not (non valet) what I say, what you say, what he says, but what saith the Lord."

PRAYER TO CHRIST AS GOD.

Dear Sir,—Our Lord's directions with regard to prayer will be found in John xiv. 13, 14; xv. 16; xvi. 23-27. In the first passage we are told that the Lord Jesus will grant what is asked in his name—thus clearly showing the Divine power of the Son; in the second that the Father will give what is asked in the name of Christ. The prayers recorded in the Acts will be found in chapters iv. 24-30; xii. 5; xvi. 25; xx. 32-36. In all these, prayer is addressed to God the Father. There are three instances in which a doubt may arise as to this; i.e., Acts i. 24; ix. 13-15; xxii. 16. And in vii. 59 the Lord Jesus is certainly addressed; but it was when Stephen saw Him. From the Epistles I select the following passages relating to prayer:—Rom. i. 8; Eph. i. 16, 17; ii. 18; iii. 14-21; Phil. i. 3, 4; Col. i. 3; 1 Thess. i. 2; 2 Tim. i. 3; James i. 5; 1 John iii. 21-23; v. 13-15. In all these (except the last) prayer is addressed to the Father; in the last it seems doubtful whether God the Father or the Son is meant. I have noticed of late years, in attending Bible-readings and one or two conventions, that addressing prayer to the Lord Jesus, rather than to the Father through Him (Eph. ii. 18) is much more general than it was formerly.—Faithfully yours,

July 1. E. T. A.

ROMANISM IN SCOTLAND.

Sir,—Your correspondent referred to in The Christian of July 11 is inaccurate in his statements. Twenty-two years ago, at the passing of the Scottish Education Act, the Church of Scotland had 1,311 schools, but now only 46; the Free Church had 523, but now only 17. These churches took up the education of the country where there was no national provision, but now the National schools have superseded this necessity, and these number 2,679 excellent ones. As these churches are retiring, the Scottish Episcopalian, and Roman Catholics, for sectarian purposes, are pressing in. The former, twenty-two years ago, had 46 schools, but now 74; and the Roman Catholics had 22, but now 177. The Episcopal schools received then £4,440 from Government in grants, but last year £17,000; and the Roman Catholics received £4,430, but now £71,000.

But this is not the most serious matter. By their own showing, in the Episcopal schools there are 13,000 children, and in the Romish ones 53,000, a great proportion of them—in some cases as many as one-half—children of careless Protestants. The money of Protestants and the children of Protestants are thus given to these zealous propagandists. The issues are sure to be startling, unless this land be roused to see the danger, and with one great effort end it by withholding all public aid to denominational schools.

The figures in this statement are taken from the Government Blue Books—last Education Report.—

Yours, &c., William Paterson.

Scottish Reformation Society, Edinburgh.

OUR INDIAN VISITORS.

Sir,—Allow me the privilege of pointing out to such Christian workers as can speak Hindoostanee well, the favourable opportunity available at the Indian Exhibition, Earl's Court, of doing a little missionary work. I recently went to that interesting exhibition, when I had a most interesting and earnest religious conversation with two very intelligent Indian Mussulmans in the Indian village. I began by asking one of them how he liked England. He replied that he was very sad, having lost three sons and one daughter by death. Whereupon I discoursed with him about the comforting character of the Christian religion, and explained God's plan of salvation to him.

The other man at the other end of the shop then asked me to come and sit with him, and have a talk. I did so. They were both so very earnest, and so appreciated my visit and conversation, that I determined to procure the Gospel in their own language and have another talk with them. I got the Gospels at the British and Foreign Bible Society. Next day I sallied forth and enjoyed a good talk with the two Mohammedans in their shop, and read part of Matthew v. and John iii. On leaving I gave each of them two Gospels, which I hope may have been blessed to them. We can only sow in hope, praying for blessing and leaving the result with God, who alone can give the increase —Yours truly, S. Dewé White (Colonel).

37, Upperton-gardens, Eastbourne, July 7, 1895.

BIBLE CLASSES AT KESWICK.

Bible classes are a novelty at Keswick in connection with Convention work. It was thought that many visitors would take advantage of this mode of scriptural instruction; but up to date the people have not arrived in very large numbers. Meantime, the new hall, secured by the convener of these conferences, has been utilised for two weeks, and the plan which he adopted for Bible instruction has been carried out. This movement is yet in its experimental stage, and will possibly be repeated.

Rev. D. M. Stearns, of Philadelphia—who has had large experience in such work, having for some years conducted Bible-classes, and is now having sixteen such meetings weekly—gave talks each evening of the past fortnight on the first three chapters of Genesis. Those in attendance gave close attention to the exercises, sometimes reciting texts previously memorised, and at other times answering questions occasionally asked. Mr. Stearns dealt with elementary truths, making the teaching exceedingly simple, so that every one could grasp the meaning.

Rev. G. C. Needham, of Northfield, Mass., gave a series of addresses on "The Manifold Ministry of the Holy Spirit," and on "Consecration." Both speakers were present each evening, and varied the exercises. The tendency of the teaching of these American brethren was strongly toward the deepening and quickening of spiritual life. The promoters of these meetings and local friends at Keswick thought the attendances very good, and are hopeful that these classes will be held yearly. The attendance last evening was 120. The classes on Sundays were much larger.

It was easily understood by those in attendance—among whom were several clergymen from different parts of the country—that the aim of this Bible teaching was in sympathy and in harmony with the coming Keswick Convention. Much prayer was also offered on its behalf.

Messrs. Needham and Stearns will participate in the Prophetic Conference in session this week, after which Mr. Stearns will soon return to his parish and class work in America, while Mr. Needham purposes remaining several weeks for meetings both in Ireland and England.

The visitors who attended the above classes gave fullest expression of their hearty approval of this line of work, and many confessed having received special blessing. Gospel meetings for the unsaved were also held on the Sunday nights, when Mr. Needham addressed large audiences.

Mrs. Needham also gave addresses, and a lecture on "Women's Ministry," in which she took the position that headship is vested in the man, but that Paul by no means restricts woman's ministry, but regulates it. Her plea was for the more free exercise of woman's gift, while the tone of the lecture was conservative. A Correspondent.

SALVATION ARMY RESCUE WORK.

Mrs. Bramwell Booth writes in the current issue of All the World:—

"Our Maternity Hospital is one of the most gratifying departments of our work. At Ivy House, 271, Mare-street, Hackney, we receive sick and suffering souls, who have been cast aside in the terrible struggle in the arena of life, and in a very special hour of need lie helpless by the wayside, having been despoiled of all that is most valuable to them and deserted by friends and enemies alike. The little waifs of humanity whom we welcome into the world at Ivy House are pictures of impotence and friendliness, and, stretching out their tiny hands, move my mother's heart with strange and deep emotions. Dark as their lives seem to be, how much darker would they have been but for the helping hand of the blessed Salvation Army, held out to them through Ivy House.

"It is an expensive item of our work. Its inmates cannot labour with their own hands, and thus help towards their own support; but if there be any mercy in Christianity, and any Christ-likeness possible in human labour, surely it must be of Divine mercy, as of Christ Himself, to put our arms round these despairing and doubly-destroyed souls, and gather them to the foot of the Cross. The cheerful bedrooms, with their forty-eight beds for nurses and patients, would well repay a visit from any friends interested in our work."

PASTOR ARCHIBALD G. BROWN.

Only two weeks since a letter from Mr. Brown appeared in your columns stating that he was sailing for China on July 11 to bring back his widowed daughter and her little one. The morning of the 10th came, and not a single indication but that his path was all clear and plain, but about mid-day the following telegram arrived from Shanghai:—"Woodward cannot come until spring. Postpone your departure. Lucy must return immediately."

Only one course lay open. The sole object for which he was going was defeated, as Mrs. Woodward could not return before spring, and the additional sad news thus sprung upon him of the enforced return of his third daughter only added greater perplexity, as there was no word of any illness from letters recently received.

Those who know him will understand with what honest but disappointed purpose of heart he relinquished the plan which up to the receipt of this telegram had been apparently so clearly God's will. All tickets taken and berths secured were transferred to his eldest daughter, who has been a trained nurse and sister in the London Hospital for six years, and at eighteen hours' notice Miss Annie Brown sailed from Liverpool on the afternoon of July 11, to nurse, and at the right time bring home her sister, while Mr. Brown waits to receive his other daughter. This plain statement of facts will show what a tension is on Mr. Brown at the present time, and will stir up hearts to pray for him, that he may be strengthened in body, rested in heart, and that the Lord in his own good time will make clear the why and wherefore of this testing of his faith, and these strangely sad and perplexing experiences in his life. It will be some weeks before he can resume work at the East London Tabernacle. H.

A NEW EFFORT IN SWEDEN.

Having been away from our native country over twenty years, my wife having suffered from the tropical climate, we resigned our connection with the Kanaka Mission in Queensland for a more healthy sphere of labour, and arrived in Gothenburg on the last of April. We tried to start some meetings, but the State Church is against all simple Gospel work, and it is very hard to get a place for meetings. During summer we can speak in the open air. But not so in winter. Many of the people are willing to hear, and we have already seen fruit of our efforts.

We have had meetings every evening during week-days and three on the Lord's Day, wherever the people would receive us, sometimes in a barn, under the shade of trees, in houses or chapels. In the beautiful summer we can be anywhere, but it is so short here.

The Gospel preached here is mostly a justification by works; to teach that one can be saved instantly is looked upon as a very dangerous doctrine. The Lord does bless the simple story of Christ and Him crucified.

Two weeks ago we were in Stockholm, when Prince Carl laid the foundation-stone of a large building for young men. We hope to do much for young men as soon as the Lord's people enable us to get a hall.

Mr. James E. Mathieson, 47, Phillimore-gardens, Kensington, W., is well acquainted with us, and has kindly allowed his name to be used as a reference.

C. F. Johnson.

Post Office, Victoria-street, Gothenburg, Sweden.

THE LATE PHILIP PHILLIPS.

Writing on July 5, Mr. I. D. Sankey says:—I went to Fredonia, N.Y., and sang at the funeral of "The Singing Pilgrim." The church was crowded, and it was a very impressive service. Between the address by the M.E. minister and the Episcopal minister, I sang "The Home of the Soul," by request of the family. At the close, after I had told the people that it was Philip Phillips that first inspired me to try and sing the songs of Zion, I sang the song that is becoming very popular in this country, beginning, "Sleep on, beloved, sleep, and take thy rest." Then we followed him to his final resting-place in the beautiful cemetery in Fredonia, his former home.

FROM REV. OSCAR MICHELSEN.

Rev. Oscar Michelsen records cheering progress in his work in the New Hebrides. Together with his devoted wife, he has made preaching tours on Tongoa and Epi, suffering somewhat during the spring rains, but privileged to know that his travels and labours have not been in vain in the Lord. We have already informed our readers of the lively interest taken in the work by the missionary's brother, Mr. C. F. Michelsen, of Fredrikstad, Norway, whose lantern lectures on behalf of the mission have been warmly appreciated by many in Scandinavia. One result of this effort, and the generosity of individual friends, is the construction of a boat, named the Viking, which arrived at Tongoa in December last. This craft, made of Norwegian oak, cost about £66; and it has already begun its useful service of taking the workers from island to island in the group. As showing how varied and distracting missionary life may be, we note that during the first night of a visit to Sakau, on the island of Epi, in December last, sleep was kept off (1) by the crying of the black orphan baby which Mrs. Michelsen has adopted, (2) by the hunt for a land crab which had found its way into the manse bedroom, (3) by a violent earthquake, and (4) by the howling of a dog which had been ejected from the pantry!

In his stirring letter, Mr. Michelsen tells of preaching, teaching, and healing the sick, translating the Scriptures, stitching Gospel booklets, and building mission-houses. The prevalence of influenza has made food very dear in some parts, as the people have been too weak to attend to planting; but the New Year picnic at Kamalipokasi, near Sakau, was a very great success. Taking up a hint that was thrown out, the natives resolved to raise money wherewith to provide the manse with a kitchen and store-room. They afterwards made copra, which realised £20, the amount required for the improvement. During this visit to Epi, Mr. Michelsen was enabled to introduce his wife to both the parties described in the section "Cannibals rescued from Cannibals," of his book Cannibals won for Christ.

School work is developing on the island of Tongoa, and the missionary is laying plans to meet the needs of the rising generation, including the making of new roads, and the use of horses and waggons with which to collect the children and take them home. At the same time, increased school accommodation will be required. Mrs. Michelsen has at present a native pupil teacher, but as the school extends she will need a European helper. One of the most useful fixtures of the week's work is the Bible-class, held every Friday, of which Mr. Michelsen says: "In good weather it is attended by from 180 to 200; in the least favourable weather I have never had less than 130. The people come from all parts of the island, and I believe most of those who attend come for a blessing. Pray for all our work, but especially for blessing upon the Bible-class meetings."

The annual social gathering on Tongoa was held this year at Mangarisu, the last village to renounce heathenism. An event of equal interest is the marriage recently of Lei-Tonga to Varatia-Pati. The former was one of the wives of Tinabua, of Lumbukuti, when he became a Christian. Leaving his house she resided on the mission station, and gained the high esteem of the missionary. In the fear of God she consented to become the wife of the chief of Sasake on Emae. The wedding was a joyous occurrence, and good is expected as a result of the union. The comparative scarcity of food has caused anxiety in the island. Mr. Michelsen writes:—"During the hot season we have been very short of food for our large family—upwards of thirty—and we have had to import flour and rice in large quantities. When the steamer has been a month or two behind the usual time, we have suffered a good deal of inconvenience. It has been an exception that we have had food in the store for two days. Many a day have we been so close run that we have not known in the morning what to provide for dinner. But our constant prayers have been as constantly answered, though the food may have come in as late as an hour before meal time. Most of the people on the station are from other islands, and are here to receive instruction with a view to baptism. Those who seem fit will be afterwards sent out as teachers. To support such a company is no slight responsibility. We feel exceedingly grateful to the only supporters we have of this branch of our work, the St. Andrews (N.Z.) Young Christian Band, who send us upwards of £20 a year."

OBITUARY.

MR. CHARLES SHEPHEARD, EALING.

This well known leader in London Nonconformity passed away on Tuesday 9th inst. at his residence at Ealing, in his eightieth year. For many years he was secretary of the Dissenting Deputies—a position now filled by his son, Mr. A. J. Shepheard, ex-chairman of the Board of Directors of the L.M.S. During Dr. Stoughton's pastorate Mr. Shepheard was for many years a deacon of Kensington Chapel. On his removal to Ealing, he was compelled by advancing years to withdraw from active denominational life, but threw himself with great energy into the religious and philanthropic work of the district. He was held in high esteem by all classes, and people of all shades of thought.

REV. J. M. DENNISTON.

The death is announced of Rev. J. M. Denniston, M.A., of Kingston, Jamaica. A scholar of wide erudition, and an earnest Christian worker, Mr. Denniston was highly esteemed in the country of his adoption. For fifty-six years he testified for Christ by voice and pen. A Jamaica newspaper says:—"We can testify from personal knowledge to the deep interest which the deceased and his devoted wife took in the waifs and strays of Kingston, and the cheerfulness with which they met the large demands on their private income towards this object. Mr. Denniston was a true friend of the negro; he was also a fearless and uncompromising foe of Romanism, and the eloquent champion of Protestantism. His interest in the sons of Abraham won the respectful appreciation of many an Israelite."

MRS. GEORGE W. SAWDAY, LATE OF MYSORE.

We regret to have to announce the death of Mrs. Sawday, which took place somewhat suddenly at Tulse Hill on Thursday week. For years she did good work in India. She had been suffering for nearly a fortnight previously from hepatic troubles, caused by her long work in India; but it was only a few days before her death that unmistakable signs of an abscess appeared, and the end came unexpectedly.

A missionary friend writes:—Once more our Eastern mission field has been called to mourn the loss of a beloved and faithful worker, for, though Mrs. Sawday had just returned to England, we cannot think of her as separated from the Mysore district, which she had unremittingly served for nearly seventeen years, and where she undoubtedly laid the foundation of her fatal illness. We well remember her arrival on the field, so full was she of vigour, so free from sentimentality, so anxious for work; and now that work is done. Most of her seventeen years of service were spent at Tumkur, and it was there that the mission workers of the district, European and native, were gathered for their annual convention on the very day when she passed away from us.

REV. JOHN SCOTT, OF CEYLON.

On Saturday week this veteran Ceylon missionary entered into rest. At the interment at East Finchley, Dr. Jenkins said:—John Scott belonged to a distinguished race of missionaries. He arrived at Colombo, in South Ceylon, in the year 1855. His relation with the Singalese churches was a very happy union. The converts found in him a true pastor, the students a sympathetic teacher, the native preachers a brother and a friend. One of the most impressive sights I ever witnessed was a gathering of Mr. Scott's workers, male and female. His European colleagues honoured his administration with confidence and zeal. Of the many trials peculiar to a missionary's calling perhaps the greatest is the influence upon his own spirit of a prevailing anti-Christian life. To live in the midst of elements like these, to breathe the very atmosphere of Atheism, not during a visit, but during a residence of many years, is a trial of which they can have no conception who have had no experience. John Scott bore the brunt of it for thirty-three years; it was not the endurance of apathy or insensibility; it was the triumph of faith. His faith was preserved in its simplicity during all that strain because he walked closely with God. His advocacy of the Gospel was twofold, both equally eloquent and convincing: the impression of his example and the testimony of his lips. He kept the faith, and the faith kept him. He was a man of independent spirit. He held his opinions with an almost obstinate firmness, but this was because he formed them with deliberation and firmness. It is the great distinction of men like John Scott that they live on in the work they have left behind.

YORK.—The members of the York Y.W.C.A. were invited by the vice-president, Miss Kitching, to a garden party, on July 10, in the beautiful grounds of Heworth Cottage. About sixty members were present. A missionary address was given by Miss Sampson, of the C.M.S

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR.

The great International C.E. Convention was held last week in Boston, Mass.

At the annual meeting of the Liverpool Union of Christian Endeavour Societies just held, Rev. J. J. Muir, of Waterloo, was elected the president for the year.

The Endeavourers of Kingsbridge, Devon, are helping the poor, the sick, and aged in the great city by sending hampers of flowers—made up in bunches with attached texts—to the workers in connection with Silvertown Baptist Chapel, E.

Dealing admirably with the charge of "pietism" brought by certain writers against the C. E. Movement, a correspondent of the Leeds Mercury says:—"That this movement materially affects the churches is patent from the fact that nearly 7,000 'Christian Endeavourers' joined the Free Churches during the past year. If the piety of these new members be of that 'sickly, sentimental, and priggish' character which is denounced, then the future life of the churches will not be of that strong, robust nature that ought to characterise the descendants of the Puritans. The movement cannot be turned back, the tide is far too strong; but it can be purified by the dissemination of healthy religious thought. At the recent convention held at Birmingham there were no signs of this 'pietism,' for the social, civil, and national duties of Christians were insisted upon with considerable earnestness and eloquence. Truly remarkable is the growth of this modern institution. Nearly 1,500 societies were formed during last year, and the present number of Endeavourers in the United Kingdom exceeds 121,000."

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Mr. Matthew Burnett's sixteen days' Gospel Temperance Mission was brought to a close at Taunton on Monday evening last by a valedictory tea meeting, followed by a large meeting in the Gloucester Hall.

Largs, N.B.—Mr. G. Bennett, of York, writes:—We have commenced meetings on the beach here, and God has graciously permitted us already to see fruit, though the weather has been stormy. We hope to return to our old sphere of labour—Aberystwith, in Wales—for most of August at least.

Mr. J. Eyres has concluded engagements in Liverpool and neighbourhood, covering a period of over six months. He is taking services for some weeks to come on the borders of Scotland and other places. Later on his labours will take him to Ireland, the South of England, and other parts. He asks earnest prayers for the Divine blessing on his coming missions and services.

PERSONALIA.

Rev. James Smith, of the Free Church, Dufftown, N.B., has resigned his pastoral charge in order to devote himself to evangelistic work.

Professor M'Caig, of the Pastors' College, has, many friends will be pleased to learn, successfully passed the LL.D. examination at the Royal University of Ireland.

Mr. and Mrs. Halliwell, who are on their way to Nyassa, South-East Africa, to engage in industrial mission work, were "farewelled" at a large gathering of friends in Christ Church last Thursday evening.

Prebendary Webb Peploe, vicar of St. Paul's, Onslow-square, is leaving England for America on Saturday, July 27, after the Keswick Convention, and will not be able to attend to correspondence until after his expected return to England at the end of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Brading, of the North Africa Mission, have left Algiers, and are for the present carrying on the work at Deauville formerly connected with Mr. Henry Cook's Gosport Mission. Communications should be addressed, Repos des Marins, Deauville, Calvados, France.

A HOLIDAY RAMBLE to Oxford on Aug. 5 (Bank Holiday) has been arranged by the Finsbury Park and Camden Town Y.M.C.A. Rambling Clubs. Other friends of the Association will be welcome to join. Particulars can be had from Mr. R. H. Henson, 3, Burgoyne road, Harringay, N.

REQUEST FOR PRAYER.—For services next Sunday (21st) at English Combe by Mr. Opie Rodway; also services at Tiverton on the following Sunday by the same evangelist.—For services to be conducted by Mr. R. McMaster next month in the neighbourhood of Carryduff, co. Down. PRAISE.—For blessing on the recent Gospel temperance mission at Hurstpierpoint.

IRISH NOTES.

The Primitive Church Methodist Society's Annual Conference has been held in Irvinestown. The society, which is fairly prosperous, has six stations and seven agents in Ireland.

Rev. Dr. John Hall, of New York, is at present paying his annual visit to his native land. He preached last Sunday to a large congregation in the First Presbyterian Church, Rathfriland.

On Sunday evening week the annual service in commemoration of the Great Revival of 1859 was held in Drumbanagher Presbyterian Church, co. Armagh, when a most interesting address on the subject was delivered to a large congregation by Mr. Thos. Irwin, of Newry.

Much regret is felt in the north of Ireland at the death of Rev. Silas Wilson, minister of the Second Presbyterian Church, Armagh, who after a long and painful illness has passed away, aged 59 years. Deceased was a devoted, faithful pastor, and a good preacher, and was much esteemed by all who knew him.

MISS RYE'S WORK.

The council of Miss Rye's Emigration Home for destitute girls again issue the annual report. During last year 113 girls were admitted into the Home at Peckham; 98 were sent to Canada after careful training; and 14 were placed in other Homes, or returned to friends, not being suitable for Canada.

Since the work began in 1868 more than 4,000 girls have been transplanted to the new country, and with very few exceptions they are all doing well. The girls come from all parts; most of our counties are represented, but the greatest numbers are of course from London. Any really destitute child is received free if she is healthy, fairly intelligent, and a Protestant. The first party for this year sailed in March, and the next will start in August.

Applications are as numerous as ever, and there are plenty of good homes waiting in Canada. The council ask liberal help to enable them to send out a large party this autumn of poor helpless girls, who will, if they remain here, in all probability swell our criminal classes, and become dangerous and expensive members of the community. Whereas, if they can be sent to Canada they will become useful members of society now, and the council trust citizens of that better country, whose builder and maker is God.

A number of letters from the children are given, showing how well they are doing on the other side. The report may be had of Miss Lizzie Still, Avenue House, High-street, Peckham, S.E.

MR. HENRY THORNE'S MISSIONS.

The report of these evangelistic missions states that scarcely a service held has been without evidence of result in blessing to souls.

During the past year he has conducted services in fourteen different counties in England, as well as in the Isle of Man and in Scotland. The following places were visited:—Bournemouth, Bow, Bradford, Brighouse, Clapton, Derby, Galashiels, Halifax, Hastings, High Barnet, Ilford, Limehouse, Lincoln, London, Margate, Northampton, Nottingham, Old Ford, Pembury, Port Erin (Isle of Man), Ryde (Isle of Wight), Skegness, Stepney, Tenbury, and Tunbridge Wells. This evangelistic work is carried on under the direction of a committee connected with various Evangelical churches. It is sustained by voluntary contributions. The secretary is Mr. James Pearce, Thorne Evangelistic Mission, Room No. 20, Exeter Hall, W.C.

MISSIONARY PRAYER UNION.

On Sunday, July 14, the quarterly meetings in connection with the Missionary Prayer Union, were held in the West Cliff Tabernacle, Bournemouth. The preacher for the day was Rev. Herbert Anderson, of Calcutta, whose addresses were most instructive and interesting.

At the afternoon meeting, Mr. Feller, the secretary of the Union, gave the report, which showed that through removal from the town and other causes, about ten names will be removed from the members of the Union; but that the amount received for the past quarter for the support of Mr. Hale, over £26, and for Zenana work another £1 13s. 7d.

The letter from Mr. Hale, the missionary of the Prayer Union in Agra, told of good work, especially in the Bustis, among the low-caste people. In spite of the intense heat, which has been 123 degrees in the shade, the health of Mr. Hale has been maintained, and he speaks of a very deep consciousness of the presence of God with him in his work. The daily praying and daily giving is proving an unspeakable blessing to the members of the Prayer Union.

THE SCRIPTURES FOR THE JEWS.

UNTIL quite recently there was a lack of versions of the Scriptures, in a cheap and handy form, in the complex Jewish speech called "Yiddish." It can no longer be said, however, that those Jews who are unfamiliar with Hebrew have no Bible, nor that those who read only Judeo-German books and newspapers have no New Testament in the same form.

An effort to meet the need has been made under the auspices of the Trinitarian Bible Society, whose secretary, Rev. Dr. Bullinger, writes: "The New Testament is now completed, and during its progress through the press 684,000 copies of the separate portions have been printed and distributed, chiefly by the Mildmay Mission to the Jews, having been purchased by that mission for free distribution. This version of the Scriptures has been made by Rev. James Adler, one of the missionaries of the Mildmay Mission. Three years ago the Old Testament was commenced. The whole of the 'copy' is ready for press. The work is in type to the end of the Book of Kings, and the Pentateuch is already in circulation."

We have examined specimens of these books. They are beautifully printed, and provided with marginal readings, which will prove of great service in clearing the path of the Jewish reader. Workers among Israel may obtain further particulars from the offices of the Trinitarian Bible Society, 25, New Oxford-street, W.C.

THE "JOYFUL NEWS" EVANGELISTS.

WE have repeatedly ere now referred to the anxiety felt by Rev. Thomas Champness as to funds, which have run very short. It is now announced that Mr. and Mrs. Champness have been compelled to dismiss sixty—the great majority—of their home evangelists. For some months the contributions to the Joyful News Mission have been falling short of the expenditure. They still hope to maintain their foreign agents in India, Ceylon, China, South Africa, West Africa, and also the minority of evangelists at home, who are largely supported by the circuits in which they toil. But the long anticipated catastrophe has come at last, although "the people called Methodists" never lived in such comfort and luxury. Mr. and Mrs. Champness take this blow in the most submissive and bravest spirit, and they have undoubtedly done their duty in refusing to go into debt. We observe that this state of things becoming known at the Southport Conference, called forth a display of liberal giving, but of course such work requires steady support, and not merely sudden bursts of liberality.

THE FEMALE ORPHAN HOME.

THE new report states that during the past year, on the average, sixty-five of a helpless class have been sheltered in the Home at Tangley Park, Hampton, Middlesex.

The care of the souls of the children has ever been kept in view; and many of the young inmates give evidence in their lives that they have trusted the Saviour.

Next to the care of the children, the renovation of the building has engaged the committee's attention. They find that to keep the place up, and in a suitable condition for the work, something must be done every year. In the present year (1895) the outside woodwork requires painting, etc., while last year the interior was thoroughly renovated. The number of children has been about the average, though not so many were admitted as in previous years. The committee would have been glad to admit others, but they felt that at a time of general financial depression they could not go further. They now make a strong plea for larger funds. The secretary is Mr. J. D. Cooper, 79, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

"MEDICINE FOR DEATH."—Mr. Lennox, writing from Mazagan, Morocco, says that the attendance at the mission station is steadily increasing. The number of women attending especially has increased since Miss Rue arrived to take up this department. While one woman was asking about medicine for a friend, and was receiving the assurance that if the friend came she would get all she needed, another woman broke in by asking if we had "medicine for death." On being answered in the affirmative, she was anxious to know about it. "We fear death," we said to her, "because of what lies beyond." "The day of reckoning, do you mean?" "Yes. But by settling the question of our sins in this life we escape that." "Oh, no. There must be a day of reckoning or judgment." This opened the way for us to explain how the work of Jesus on the cross delivered us from judgment, and it was encouraging to note with what interest she listened.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

THE Church Lads' Brigade reports 500 companies.

A Duke of Clarence Memorial Church has been opened at East Llandudno.

The new English church at Grindelwald will be opened on the 25th inst. by the Dean of Norwich.

Rev. Ernest Pearce will be inducted on Friday to the charge of Christ Church, Newgate-street.

Mr. Gretton, a Burton brewer, is presenting a church to Stretton at a cost of £20,000. The foundation-stone was laid by his daughter.

The Bishop of Ripon has promised a short introduction to the "Memories" of the Life and Work of the late Archdeacon Blakeney, now being prepared by Rev. W. Odom.

The Church of All Saints, Norfolk-square, Paddington, which was burnt down in June of last year, has been rebuilt, and will be consecrated by the Bishop of London on November 1.

Canon Hobson has made arrangements for holding a nine days' mission in commemoration of the 26th anniversary of St. Nathaniel's, Liverpool. The Bishop has also promised to preach in the church on the 19th inst.

The programme of the Church Congress, to be held in Norwich, October 8 to 11, has been issued, and the Record believes it can trace therein the experienced hand of the Dean of Norwich in the new and able speakers chosen, and the live and present-day subjects handled.

The tenth half-yearly conference of the C.M.S. Missionary Bands was held at Shooter's Hill on Saturday week. The subjects discussed were "How to stir up interest in Missionary Work among Young Men," and "What Course ought rejected Missionary Candidates to take, and what are the best Methods of assisting intending Candidates to prepare themselves before offering to the C.M.S.?"

An effort will be made at the Norwich Church Congress to bring various phases of Evangelical Church work more prominently forward than has hitherto been the case. The C.P.A.S., the N.P.C.U., and the South American Missionary Society will all be represented in the Art Exhibition; the C.P.A.S. is arranging to hold a public meeting similar to that which proved so successful at Birmingham, and other gatherings are contemplated.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Dr. Brown's Church, Bunyan Meeting, Bedford, reports 460 members.

Rev. A. J. Palmer has completed a quarter of a century's pastorate at Folkestone.

Rev. Spadding Hall, late of Sydenham, has commenced his ministry at Creaton Church, Northants.

Rev. Philip Barnes has closed his pastorate at Plashet Park, Upton Park. During his six years' ministry the membership has doubled, and is now 165.

Mr. J. Gamble, formerly superintendent of the Evangelistic Association, Liverpool, has been recognised as pastor of Townsend-lane Mission in that city.

Mr. Joseph Beek, who has for three years acted as evangelist in connection with Faversham Church, has accepted the pastorate at Little Waltham, Essex.

Intelligence has been received of the death from heat apoplexy, of Rev. Joseph John, of Madras, who has been for twenty-nine years an active worker in connection with the London Missionary Society.

At Market-square Church, Merthyr Tydfil, Rev. J. G. James has received fourteen new members as the first result of the mission services held at Caedrew, a poor part of the town, in connection with which a Sister is engaged.

Rev. J. W. Houchin has resigned the pastorate at Ingatestone, where he has ministered for twenty-two years. During that time a very flourishing mission has been carried on at Mountnessing. "Amidst a Catholicising influence," writes a correspondent, "and an aggressive ritualism, Mr. Houchin has laboured faithfully and usefully."

Calls.—Rev. J. Hancock, of East Cowes, to Soham; Rev. F. Aylard, of Paignton, to Nether Stowey; Rev. J. Hadfield, of Chigwell-row, to Great Ayton; Mr. E. C. Rattray, of Forfar, to Adsett; Mr. A. Gilbey, to Zion, Ripponden; Rev. David Adams, of Bethesda, to Grove-street, Liverpool (accepted); Rev. David Caird, of Dundee, to Morningside, Edinburgh.

Resignations.—Rev. C. H. Cook, of Nestfield, Horbury; Rev. F. Smith, of South Molton; Rev. N. de G. Davies, of assistant-pastorate, Albion, Ashton-under-Lyne.

BAPTIST.

A new chapel has been opened at Trull, Taunton.

A new church has been formed at Torquay. Services are held in a building in Union-street.

Rev. T. M. Richards has declined the invitation to Ynysybwl, and decided to remain at Nelson.

Rev. Dr. Lewis, who has resigned the pastorate of Rehoboth, Cilfynydd, intends retiring from active work.

United monthly prayer meetings have been held by the churches at Felthorpe, Cossers, Drayton, and Ringland (Norwich), with good results.

The recent meetings of the Norfolk Association, held at Yarmouth, were marked by much interest. Alderman G. White, Rev. J. G. Greenhough, and other well-known men were among the speakers.

The new chapel and schools at Far Cotton, Northampton, were opened last week. Rev. J. G. Greenhough, President of the Union, preached in the afternoon, and Rev. J. T. Brown presided over an evening meeting.

The Baptist Chapel, Inkberrow, held its Sunday-school anniversary services on Sunday last, when two services were preached by the Mayor of Stratford-on-Avon (Mr. J. Smallwood, J.P.), who also conducted a children's service.

Rev. T. Greenwood has closed a seventeen and a-half years' pastorate at Catford-hill. During that period he has baptized 400 persons, and the present church has been erected. There are now 310 members; of the thirty-two original members only twelve remain.

Calls.—Rev. J. H. Grant, of Goldhill, to Coalville; Rev. A. E. Johnston, of Ditton Marsh, to Ibstock; Rev. Meredith Jones, to Pengam, Mon.

Resignation.—Rev. John Hanson, of North Bradley.

METHODIST.

This week the Wesleyan Conference commences its sessions at Plymouth.

Rev. W. R. Sunman has been elected president of the United Methodist Conference.

New chapels have been opened at Mexborough, Ballynure, and Brothers House (Crowland).

The Methodist New Connexion chapels in Leeds have resolved to unite in special missions in the autumn.

New chapels are building at Mevagissey, Bolsover, Rattry, Bentley, Hoff, near Appleby, and Rowrah, near Cleator Moor.

A successful tent mission, lasting over three weeks, has been held at Collingbourne, Wilts. The missioner was Mr. H. C. Wallace.

The freehold of the Billy Bray Memorial Church at Carharrack has been purchased for £100, the whole of which has been raised.

On the return of Rev. F. Brown to China he was appointed for the society year to the Wesley Circuit and principal of the Intermediate School, Tientsin.

At Beaufort, Brynmawr Circuit, on Sunday, three churches (Wesleyan, Primitive, and Congregational) united in holding a camp meeting on the mountain near the village.

The Wesleyan Army and Navy Committee has voted towards the erection of Soldiers' Homes, to be at the service of men of all denominations in the Army, at Dum Dum, £250; Umballa, £200; Poonah, £150; Colombo, £125. The estimated cost of the Army and Navy work for the next year is £1,320. A scheme for the concentration of Shorncliffe and Canterbury garrison work, including Shorncliffe camp, Hythe School of Musketry, Canterbury garrison, and Lydd camp, has passed the committee, and will be forwarded for the approval of the Conference.

PRESBYTERIAN.

It is expected that Rev. W. Keir, of Spennymoor, will be called to Leytonstone.

Mr. Wales reports that the Sustentation Fund for the half-year is on the increase.

Special services have been held at the McGill Memorial Mission, Springbourne, Bournemouth.

Rev. J. Pryce Davies, of Chester, who underwent a painful operation a few weeks ago, is now recovering rapidly.

Miss Graham, a member at Regent-square, has been welcomed on her return from seven years' work in China.

Two Liverpool congregations, Mount Pleasant and Canning-street, have adopted the American plan of uniting for the vacation season.

The Synodical Committees are being held in London this week. The meetings are the first since the rising of the Synod, and they mark the first half of the financial year. Arrangements are being made for issuing a pastoral letter on gambling. A proposal has been made to turn the October gatherings of committees into autumnal meetings of a public character, and to be held in different centres. The change in Formosa has occupied the attention of the Foreign Mission Committee. Steps are being taken to prescribe portions of Scripture for Bible study in families.

Calls.—Rev. H. Reid, of Dundee, to Thurso; Rev. H. Ferguson, of Midmar, to Broxburn; Rev. A. Gilchrist, to Downpatrick; Rev. J. G. Christie, to Helensburgh (accepted); Rev. Pierce Owen, to Rehoboth, Llanberis.

Resignation.—Rev. J. O. Jones, of Capel Cock, Llanberis.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

Four slum posts are now established in Helsingfors, the capital of Finland.

An ex-Chinese Idol Temple is used for meetings by the Salvationists in Hilo, Hawaii.

Last week 53,052 meals were supplied to the poor in the Social Institutions of this country.

A libel action has been entered against the War Cry by the proprietors of the Winter Gardens, at Chatham.

The recently commenced work in British Guiana, is producing good results among the poorest of the population.

The Alexandra Palace has been taken for Bank Holiday, August 5, when General Booth will conduct a great demonstration to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the Army.

The pioneer party of officers for Japan, whose valedictory service was conducted by General Booth in the City Temple on Monday last, sail this week. They ask for brass instruments, a camera, and a magic lantern to assist them in their new work.

FALLEN ASLEEP.

At Longleat, Ealing, on 7th inst., Col. G. G. CHANNER, aged eighty-four, a helper of many good works.—At Llangollen, Rev. ISAAC JONES, after half a century's faithful service in the cause of Christ.—At Padstow, Rev. S. ALLPORT, aged seventy-seven, an active and useful temperance worker, well known in Cornwall.—At Kingstown, Ireland, Rev. JOHN LYNCH, aged seventy-five, for thirty-five years the beloved clergyman of St. John's, Monkstown.—At Hebden Bridge, Mr. JOHN KITCHEN, active and earnest for many years in the Lord's work.—At Leeds, Mr. JAMES BROOKE, a leading Primitive Methodist.—At Peases West, near Crook, Mr. J. H. BURNIP, a useful evangelist and colporteur.—At Bromyard, Mr. J. W. WILLIAMS, aged seventy-five, a valued worker.—At Ruabon, on 8th inst., Rev. JOHN ROBERTS, a well-known Welsh Baptist minister.—At Derryloran Rectory, Cookstown, Rev. H. B. CARTER, D.D., for fifteen years rector of Derryloran, and a man of earnest Evangelical views.—At Rathcoole, Rev. G. T. H. BARTON D.D., rector of Rathcoole.—At Aghold, Very Rev FREDERICK OWEN, Dean of Leighlin, in his ninety-fifth year.

Notices.

S. WILKINSON, 1, Grosvenor-gardens, Tunbridge Wells, would be glad to ascertain from some reader where to obtain a little book entitled "The Dying Priest and the Cleansing Blood."

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—A.M. W.R. M.L.S. J.E.L. J.B. G.S. J.H.H. E.F.A. A.R.C. E.L. J.C.G. J.A.L. B.S.M. T.C. I.M.K. J.R.T. E.G.G. W.H.H. K.H.G. W.R.F. C.T.A. W.P. R.W. E.H.K. P.H.J. J.B. A.J.N. M.J.S. S.C.J.I. F.E.P. H.L. J.T.J. C.A.H. S.W. E.A.P. G.B. S.T.E. L.C. G.E.N. C.R. C.P.C. K.D. F.C. H.R.C. C.F. W.P. K.S. W.B. E.S.S. J.R.B. H.C. L.C.M. J.P. J.C.S. G.E.H. R.T.H. W.C. J.J.P. G.C.N. D.S. E.H.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—William Pidd, 11, Brankingham-terrace, Stockton-on-Tees; E. Brookes, Brook House, Prestonville-road, Brighton (for soldiers); Miss A. Head, Beaches, Jarvis Brook, near Tunbridge Wells; H. J. Fletcher, 44, Stanley-street, Chester-road, Manchester; Afred Hartley, Jacob-street, Camp-road, Leeds; E. Snow, 14, Packington-street, Islington; Capt. Peters, Church Army, Broadford, Shalford, Surrey; G. W. Gabriel, 66, Mildmay-street, Mildmay Park, N.; E. T. Wray, Village Missions Dagenham, Essex.

☞ As it is found that infidels and others send papers to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers should be CAREFULLY READ before being given away.

Lavender Bag Mission.—Will friends kindly help again this year with lavender? It is wanted to fill little muslin bags to send sick soldiers and others in hospitals. A text card is tied on each bag, and God has often used these little messengers in his service. The Army Scripture Readers, missionaries, and others to whom bags were sent last year, tell how they were the means of cheer and blessing to many sick and suffering ones. Boxes of lavender, text cards, or muslin bags, addressed to Miss E. A. Puckle, The Hollonds, Langton, Tunbridge Wells, will be gratefully received.

[717]

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

The Liverpool coroner in one day held inquests on four persons whose deaths were due to drink.

Premises are being erected in Keighley to accommodate all the temperance agencies of the town.

A canvass of householders of Manea, Cambs., as to Sunday closing, resulted as follows; 180 for, 10 against, and 27 neutral.

Mr. Passmore Edwards has erected a drinking fountain in Hammersmith as a memorial of his brother, the late Mr. R. P. Edwards.

The second annual temperance demonstration, promoted by the Gainsborough Temperance Union, was held in Thonock Park on Wednesday.

The United Kingdom Alliance and other manifestoes call upon the friends of temperance to support Parliamentary candidates who pledge themselves to vote for the Local Veto.

In connection with the Cavendish Baptist Church, a very interesting Band of Hope service is held on the sands every Tuesday evening, when a large number of adults and children are always present.

Temperance advocates at Manchester have presented Dr. Lees with a copy of "Encyclopædia Britannica," and a cheque for £50 in recognition of his sixty years' service in the cause of temperance.

The Public-house Reform Association says it seems to be generally agreed that the basis of reform must be local option—localities being empowered to choose between prohibition, reduction, and municipal control.

An active part in the general election is being taken by the branches of the B.W.T.A. Lady Henry Somerset speaks twice next week in the Cockermouth division in support of the candidature of Sir Wilfrid Lawson.

Mr. J. H. Raper for twenty years has been offering a sovereign to any person who could tell him of a magistrate who voted for a new licence next door to his own residence. Within the last month there have been four applicants. Only one case, in South Wales, fulfilled the conditions named, and the sovereign has been handed over to the person who made the discovery.

The first annual meeting of the United Temperance Federation for Tunbridge Wells and district was held in the Y.M.C.A. Rooms last week, Rev. Dr. Townsend, the retiring president, being in the chair. The report set out the work done during the year, emphasised the undenominational character of the Federation, and called for the support of everyone interested in temperance work.

An American authority gives a recipe for what he terms the best drink on a hot day. It consists of "rather weak tea," which should be freshly drawn each time, and drunk as soon as it is cool. If taken lukewarm it will not raise the temperature. There should not be more than a teaspoonful of leaves in a cup of water, and not more than a small lump of sugar to each cup, if any at all.

The Bishop of London, as chairman of the C.E.T.S., points out that the society is not attached to any particular political party, and he urges that all workers should now press for legislation in regard to Sunday closing, the restriction and registration of clubs, the prohibition of serving children with liquor, the abolition of grocers' licences, the speedy diminution on some equitable plan of the number of public-houses, and the control by ratepayers over the granting of licences.

The actuary of the United Kingdom Provident Institution reports that the expected claims in the temperance section were 346 for £88,625; the actual claims were 234 for £50,068. The expected claims in the moderate drinking section were 396 for £96,710; the actual claims were 351 for £94,275. He certainly is right in holding that the constant, uniform way in which this problem works itself out year by year, could not be by accident, or even luck, but must point to some governing principle behind it, viz., that temperance tends to longevity.

An impromptu farewell to the American White Ribboners, who left England on the New York, took place at the headquarters of the National British Women's Temperance Association, when tea was dispensed to about fifty friends. An interesting feature was the presence of Lady Henry Somerset and Miss Willard, who were in London, and surprised the company with their presence. Miss Willard presided at an informal meeting after tea, and led what she aptly termed a "twittering meeting of birds before they took their flight." Impromptu speeches were given by all present. Mother Stewart took an eloquent farewell of her friends, and Madame Antoinette Sterling, who was unexpectedly present, sang. The meeting was greatly appreciated by all, and was brought to a close by a short address from Lady Henry Somerset, after which all present sang the parting hymn, "God be with you till we meet again."

DONATIONS RECEIVED BY MESSRS. MORGAN & SCOTT TO MONDAY, JULY 15, 1895.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or Post Office Orders, not by stamps.

 Will donors oblige by stating explicitly and fully the titles of the institutions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Further correspondence will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Monday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

 Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders should be made payable to Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, London, E.C., and crossed "City Bank"; this will effectually prevent loss.

	£	s.	d.
Work at Evian-les-Baines—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Figueras Mission—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Florence Protestant Orphanage for Girls—W. W. S.	0	10	0
North Africa Mission—W. W. S.	0	10	0
South Africa General Mission—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Pastor Chiniguy's Work—W. W. S.	1	0	0
Persecuted Stundists—W. W. S., 10s.; C. S., 5s.; Mrs. G. C. F., £1; E. B. S., 10s.; Missionary and Friends, £3 15s.	6	0	0
Armenian Relief Fund—W. W. S., 5s.; Missionary and Friends, £2 10s.	2	15	0
Rev. O. Michelsen's Work, New Hebrides—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Mr. Arnot's Work, Africa—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Work among Priests in France—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Relief Malagasy Slave Girl—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Mr. and Mrs. Wall's Work, Rome—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Mr. Harris's Work, Orizaba, Mexico—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Missionary College, Madrid—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Help for Brazil—W. W. S.	0	5	0
Deacon Abraham's Work—W. W. S.	0	5	0
Mr. Rabinowitz's Work among Jews—W. W. S.	0	5	0
China Inland Mission—E. L., 10s.; E. E., £15.	15	10	0
M'All Mission—C. S.	0	5	0
Mission to Lepers of India and the East—C. S.	0	5	0
Scriptures for Uganda—C. S., 5s.; Miss R. T. B., 9s. 3d.	0	14	3
Society Relief Persecuted Jews—C. S., 5s.; (Jerusalem) E. T. L., £5	5	5	0
English Presbyterian Mission (Jews)—C. S., 10s.; (China) C. S., £2	2	10	0
Mr. Warszawiak's Work among Jews—Mrs. G. C. F.	1	0	0
J. G. Paton Mission Fund—Collected Mrs. R. A.	3	0	0
Mr. Varley's Work, San Francisco—A Friend	1	1	0
Church Missionary Society—R. J.	0	10	0
Tibetan Pioneer Mission (Miss Taylor)—C. R.	2	0	0
Spezia Mission (Orphan Home) — Missionary and Friends	2	10	0
Zambesi Industrial Mission (Famine)—Missionary and Friends	2	10	0
Barbican Mission to Jews—O.	1	0	0
Rev. Archibald Brown's Work—Brixton	2	0	0
Scripture Readers' Society, Ireland—Grateful.	2	10	0
Jewish Work, London City Mission (Children's Holiday)—Ryde, 10s.; H. H., 10s.; Missionary and Friends, £1 5s.; (Foreigners) Grateful, £2 10s.	4	15	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—S. A. H., 5s.; W. W. S., 5s.	0	10	0
Mrs. Kinghorne's Crèche (Building Fund)—E. G.	0	10	0
Mr. Toye's Orphanage—W. W. S.	0	10	0
Dublin Visiting Medical Mission—W. W. S.	0	5	0
Open Air Mission, Ireland—W. W. S.	0	5	0
English and French Coasting Mission—W. W. S.	0	5	0
Friendless and Fallen—E. L., 10s.; C. S., 5s.	0	15	0
St. Giles' Christian Mission—E. E., £15; Mrs. G. C. F., £1 (Holiday Fund), E. B. S., £1	17	0	0
London City Mission — E. E., £15; O. E. B., £2; Disabled Missionaries, etc.—E. E., £10; B. H. B., £2	29	0	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—E. C. D., £2 0s. 11d.; Mrs. G. C F., £1; Missionary and Friends, £5	8	0	11
Poor Sick Children's Country Holiday—E. C. D., £2 1s.; E. T., 10s.; C. S., 5s.	2	16	0
Tower Hamlets Mission (Children's Holiday) — E. C. D.	2	0	11
Liberator Relief Fund—Mead, £30; E. G., £1; O. E. B., £1; Marah W., 5s.; Missionary and Friends, £5; L. S., 2s. 6d.	37	7	6
Day in the Country Fund—Mead, 10s.; C. S., 5s.; T. P., £1	1	15	0
Rev. S. Herring's Work (Children's Holiday)—Ryde.	0	10	0
Mrs. Ginever's Homes—M.	0	5	0
Scripture Gift Mission—E. T.	0	10	0
Mildmay Institutions—O. E. B.	2	0	0
Ragged School Union (Holiday Homes)—Missionary and Friends, £2 10s. (Day in Country)—Mrs. G. C. F., £1	3	10	0
Friedenheim Home for Dying (Cancer Ward)—Mrs. G. C. F.	1	0	0
National Society Prevention Cruelty to Children—Mrs. G. C. F.	1	0	0
Irish Evangelisation Society—Mrs. G. C. F.	0	10	0
Rev. J. W. Atkinson's Children's Holiday Fund—E. F. H.	1	0	0
Miss Mason's Homes of Rest—A. I. C.	5	0	0
Church Pastoral Aid Society—A. I. C.	2	0	0
Mr. Fegan's Homes—A. I. C., £2; L. M. H., 10s.; Missionary and Friends, £2 10s.	5	0	0
Children's Country Holiday Fund—A. I. C., £1; Edith B., 2s. 6d.	1	2	6
Mildmay Mission to Jews—L. S., 2s. 6d.; E. B. S., 10s.	0	12	6
Miss Macpherson's Home of Industry—B. H. B., £1; (Emigration) H. R., £1.	2	0	0
Kilburn Protestant Schools—Missionary and Friends	1	5	0
Protestant Reformation Society—Missionary and Friends	1	5	0
Total	£193	5	7

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

London Missionary Society.—W. E. C., 10s.

Mr. Fegan's Homes.—Beta, 5s., for camping out.

Hebrew Conference Hall, Old Montague-street, Whitechapel.—A parcel of new clothing for girls from Worcester Shrub Hill.

Open Air Mission.—Mr. F. Cockrem, secretary, desires to say that it was not the "1114 honorary members who last year held 2088 outdoor services, and attended and evangelised at 743 races, fairs, etc." (as stated in our last week's notice), but the stated agents and preachers—that is, men wholly or in part sustained by this Mission, and sent forth under its direction.

THE CHRISTIAN BLIND RELIEF SOCIETY.
Under the Patronage of H.M. the QUEEN.
President - - Lord Egerton of Tatton.
W. Wainwright, Esq., Hon. Treasurer.
No paid officials. No voting. No office expenses. No weary waiting for years. Aids 524 Pensioners in the United Kingdom. 51 Candidates waiting for Relief, six of whom are over 60, six over 70, and one over 83 years of age. Do HELP these poor afflicted ones!
FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED.
Hon. Sec., Rev. J. Pullein Thompson, The Vicarage, Tite-street, Chelsea, S.W.

A GLIMPSE OF THE SEA.

We appeal to those who can enjoy their summer holidays to help us give the poor connected with our large mission a day at the seaside. 2s. 6d. will give them this enjoyment and a breath of pure ozone from the crowded slums of East London.

There are others who we must send for at least a week or a fortnight after the exhausting influenza and severe privation of the past winter.

Half-a-crown will give one poor person a day at the seaside, and one guinea will keep an invalid for ten days to enjoy green fields and sea breezes.

Donations most thankfully received and gratefully acknowledged by Yours most faithfully,
Fredk. N. Charrington,
Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, London, E.
Cheques crossed "Barclay, Bevan, and Co."

THE LONDON CITY MISSION,
FOREIGN BRANCH,
Employs 16 missionaries, who are daily making known the Gospel to poor Jews and other foreigners in London, in more than 20 languages. Many of these foreigners remain in the City, but thousands return to their native land in various parts of the world, carrying back with them the good news of the love of God in Christ Jesus, and copies of the Holy Scriptures in their own tongue.
Funds to sustain this necessary work are urgently needed, and will be gratefully received by the Treasurer, F. A. BEVAN, ESQ., or the Secretary to the Foreign Branch, Mr. GEO. R. COLE.
Office: 3, Bridewell Place, London, E.C.
Bankers: Messrs. BARCLAY, BEVAN, & CO., 54, Lombard Street, London, E.C.

RED, WHITE, AND BLUE
CHRISTIAN INSTITUTE FOR LADS,
CUMMING STREET & COLLIER STREET,
PENTONVILLE, LONDON.
President - - - - LORD KINNAIRD.
Dear Reader,
Will YOU send us just a few shillings to help us give our Boys and Girls, and Tired Mothers
A WEEK OR TWO IN THE COUNTRY?
So many are longing to go, and so greatly need the rest and change. Your own holiday will be doubly happy by helping these.
Contributions received by Editor of The Christian, and by Hon. Secs. at Institute.

MARGATE
ROYAL SEA-BATHING INFIRMARY.
Patron - THE QUEEN.
120 out of the 220 beds still closed for want of funds.
MICHAEL BIDDULPH, Esq., M.P., Treasurer.
Offices, 30, Charing-cross, S.W.

UNFERMENTED
PORT WINE AND BARK.
AN EXCELLENT NON-ALCOHOLIC TONIC AND RESTORATIVE after Typhoid, Scarlet and Rheumatic Fevers, Influenza, etc.
Sample Half-Bottle Free by Parcel Post for 2/9.
Prospectus, giving full particulars of price, dose, etc., Post Free on application.
F. WRIGHT, MUNDY, AND CO.,
Merton-road, Kensington Court, London, W.

NATIONAL Invested Funds, £4,700,000. Paid in Claims, £9,000,000.
For Mutual Life Assurance. PROVIDENT INSTITUTION. Estd. 1835.
All the Profits are Divided amongst the Assured; already divided, £4,600,000.
DEATH DUTIES provided for by LIFE ASSURANCE.
48, Gracechurch Street, London, E.C. ARTHUR SMITHER, Actuary & Secretary
APPLICATIONS FOR AGENCIES INVITED.

TO LET, APARTMENTS, ETC.

(Continued from page 3.)

COMFORTABLE HOME REQUIRED in quiet Christian family, for young man out all day. Partial board, 13s. weekly. Within about fifteen minutes' rail to city. No other boarder preferred. Highest references given and required.—c6212, Haddon's Advertisement Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6212

EXCHANGE OF HOUSES (Gloucestershire).—Furnished house. Charmingly situated. Three reception, small billiard-room, six bedrooms, garden, tennis-lawn, orchards, stables. Golf common not far distant. Lovely neighbourhood. In exchange for a house by the sea.—Particulars, c6252, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square. c6252

GENTLEWOMAN RECEIVES BOARDERS from 21s. to 25s. a week. Home comforts, holiday or permanent, near several churches, G.W.R. Station. Pleasantly situated.—Miss BAILS, 6, Clarence Villas, Clarence-road, Windsor. c6249

GOOD-SIZED HOUSE to let, furnished, from August 6th, for a month. On high ground. Bracing air. Forty-five minutes from London.—Miss RUSSELL, Portland-road, Bishop's Stortford. c6229

HOLIDAY PARTIES.—Hackney Y.M.C.A. Fortnight's cruise on Norfolk Broads, August 10, £5 10s. Fortnight in North Wales, August 17, £4 15s. Open to ladies. Few vacancies one week only. Send stamp for full particulars.—SECRETARY, Y.M.C.A., Hackney. c6215

HOME SETTLEMENT FOR YOUNG MEN.

1, Wyndham-place, Bryanston-square, W.

With Drawing, Dining, and Writing rooms, and all the conveniences of a large and commodious house. Conducted on the basis of refinement, fellowship, and freedom. The Home is unsectarian.—All communications to be addressed Rev. W. DARLOW SARJEANT, 38, Oseney-crescent, Camden-road, London, N.W.

HOME BY THE SEASIDE.—Pleasant, sunny detached house. Board or apartments. Special care taken of young people. Terms moderate. Highest references. Stamp required.—H., Ascot House, Boscombe, Bournemouth. c5036

HOME OF REST, The Hollies, Kingswood, Warwickshire, for Christian workers and ladies. Warwick, Stratford, Kenilworth easily reached. Terms from 17s. to 25s. Open throughout the year.—Address, Miss WINTERBOTTOM. c4982

HOME OF REST FOR CHRISTIANS, Cosham, Hants, close to lovely Portsdown Hills. Board and residence, 12s. 6d. weekly. Home comforts.—For particulars send stamped envelope to Mr. M. HUDSON, above address. c6185

HOME OFFERED to lady for 12s. weekly, without laundry, in Brighton, with a widow lady. One willing to do a little dusting very much preferred. — c6274, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6185

LADY, GOING ABROAD, wishes to let furnished house. Two months or longer, quiet tenant. Three reception, five bed rooms. Pleasant, healthy situation. Convenient City, West-end.—ELLIS, 2, Hayter-road, Brixton Hill. c6256

LADY HAVING 11-ROOMED HOUSE in healthy country district (South Devon), within walk of moors, would let the same for moderate sum during August and part of September, or exchange for five-roomed seaside cottage.—BETA, Milton House, Plympton, S. Devon. c23

LADY, HAVING LARGE HOUSE, beautifully and conveniently situated, wishes to receive paying guests. Terms 21s., or friends sharing room 17s. 6d. each. Near shore, baths, and pier.—D., Times Office, Southampton. c6280

LADY OFFERS REFINED HOME in country village to Christian gentlewoman for 12s. weekly, and little assistance in household duties. Companionship chiefly needed.—H. FAIRCHILD, Laburnum Cottage, Highwick, Newton Abbot. c6230

LADY (young, single) OFFERS COMFORTABLE HOME to business lady or Christian worker. Near Ravenscourt Park. Partial board, full Sundays, 12s. 6d. week. Separate bedroom.—Address, LYLA, Kensington News Office, Shepherd's Bush. c6291

LODGINGS FURNISHED, 4s. and 5s., private room 7s. 6d.—Apply to MATRON, 59, Greek-street, Shaftesbury-avenue, W. Board very moderate for business women or students. Receives holiday visits. c6258

MISS HAYWARD (daughter of late Rev. T. Hayward) offers board and residence. Pleasantly situated house near sea and cliffs. Terms from 21s. per week.—1, St. Vincent's-road, Southend, Essex. c5249

MISS JULIA DRUMMOND, Oak Tree-road, Bitterne Park, Southampton, receives young children, boards and gives them first instruction, or receives them during holidays. Good references. c6272

NEAR THE PINE WOODS.—Well-furnished apartments, or whole house (seven bedrooms, two sitting-rooms). Croquet lawn and garden. Five minutes from station, post, and church. All the advantages of country, but none of its dulness. Excellent cook, plate, and linen can be left.—Address, ANDREWS, Poplar Cottage, Bracknell. N.B. 2

PRIVATE HOME FOR INVALIDS (any case received). Resident certified nurses. Terms moderate. Highest references.—Mrs. CORBIE JACKSON, Marius-road, Balham. c6148

SEASIDE HOLIDAYS.—Pretty seaside village. House faces beach. Unlimited sea and land views. Close to South Downs. Safe bathing. Bracing position. Home comforts. Liberal table. Happy Christian society. Temperance principles. Terms, 21s. to 25s.—Address, Miss P., "Caswell," Lancing-on-Sea, Sussex. c6007

SUMMER HOLIDAYS.—Furnished house to let, ten rooms. Five minutes from G.N.R. main line. Near Hadley Woods. Bracing air, pretty country. Terms moderate.—E., Claughton Lodge, Richmond-road, New Barnet. c6195

THE HOMESTEAD, SANDGATE.—Boarding establishment. Delightfully situated grounds, running down to the sea. About three acres of garden, with cool, shady walks, cosy nooks, and tennis lawn. Terms from 5s. per day.—Apply for particulars to MANAGERESS. -273

LINDSEY AND SONS' TRUSSES,

Elastic Stockings, Belts, &c.

Best House for Surgical Bandages. Female Attendant. Price List Free.

32, Ludgate-hill, 40, Gracechurch-street, 112, Great Portland-street, London; and Broad-street, Oxford.

Established 1830.

TO LET, NICE FURNISHED APARTMENTS in very healthy cheerful village, situate between Lowestoft and Southwold, two miles from sea. Cooking and attendance. Terms moderate. Would suit two ladies.—Address, Mrs. HILLIARY, Prospect Cottage, Wrentham, Suffolk. c6273

Y.W.C.A., WOODMOUNT, CLEVEDON. A comfortable Boarding and Holiday home near the sea. All needing rest and change are welcomed.—For terms apply Mrs. GENBON, Sec., Rutland Lodge, Clevedon. c6003

MISCELLANEOUS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS.—A Christian will gladly correspond with any earnest seeker after Divine truth.—Address EVANGELINE, 25, Rozel-road, Clapham, S.W. John iii, 36.

WILL ANY CHRISTIAN FRIENDS residing in country, within 30 miles of London, open their home (free) to poor, respectable children, needing short holiday.—Miss A. F. PERRAM, 38, Westbank, Stamford Hill. c6170

TRACTS AND RELIGIOUS PERIODICALS are urgently needed, and will be thankfully received by the secretaries, Tract Distributing Society, West London Tabernacle, St. James's-square, Notting Hill, London, W. c6222

WINTER ON NILE.—A gentleman wishes to form party of ten for a dahabieh, leaving Cairo November. Two months, £50; three, £65.—JOSEPH HANNINGTON, Rockhills, Ilfracombe. c5898

CHARMING ALPINE HOLIDAY, £13 12s. First-class hotels Second-class tickets, available 45 days. Zurich or Lucerne, St. Gothard Pass, Andermatt, Furka, Rhone Glacier, Zermatt, Montreux, Paris, Calais, with extensions to St. Bernard, Tetenoire, Chamonix, Mont Blanc, Geneva. Complete tour includes four days' grand mountain carriage drives. Ladies can travel alone, as there is lady in charge, also clergyman.—Full particulars, EDWIN HOOPER, Compton-terrace, London. c5778

THE MOSELLE AND RHINE.—A fortnight's conducted tour for ten guineas. Travel second class throughout. First class hotels. Visiting Treves. Steamer on Moselle to Coblentz, Ehrenbreitstein excursion to Niederwald, Wiesbaden. Steamer down Rhine to Cologne, returning via Rotterdam. Detailed programme, two stamps.—Association for the Promotion of Home and Foreign Travel, Ltd., 41, Gracechurch-street, E.C. c5316

ASTHMA.—Persons suffering from asthma, difficulty of breathing, etc., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.—C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings. c5655

Umbrellas Re-covered from 2s. each.

IF YOUR UMBRELLA WANTS RECOVERING send it by Parcels Post (with Postal Order enclosed) to STRONG BROS., Umbrella Makers, Redhill, Surrey, who will re-cover it and return it as good as new by next post, carriage paid. Good strong twill, ladies', 2s.; gents', 2s. 6d.; good alpaca, ladies', 2s., gents', 3s. 6d.; strong durable silk, ladies', 4s. 6d., gents', 5s. Patterns post free. Reference kindly permitted to Rev. G. H. Cambern, Redhill.

☞ A sample New Umbrella at wholesale price. List Free.

POST AND TELEGRAPH OFFICE.—Wanted, busy office, with fancy stationery. Suburbs or country. No agents.—Send full particulars, c6207, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6207

MAGNETISM AND HEALTH.

Dr. E. F. Brodie writes:—"In cases of Nervous Exhaustion, I consider the Magneticon Belt almost a certain cure if worn for a few months."

These Belts have been supplied to Rev. F. B. Meyer, G. Despard, and many whose names are in Pamphlet, "Curative Magnetism," free. WETTON AND Co., 186, Regent-street, London, and Cheltenham.

FURS.—Sealskin jackets made to measure. Furs of every description cleaned, altered, repaired. Skins dressed and mounted.—E. BRADSHAW, Manufacturing Furrier, 65, Margaret-street, Cavendish-square, London, W. c5987

LADY FROM INDIA has few lengths thick Indian cream silks, wash like handkerchiefs. 7yds., 35½in. wide, 18s. 9d. London price, 30s. Suitable blouses, dresses, children's smocks, large real Rampore Chuddah shawls, cream and coloured (washable), 22s. 9d., half home price.—Appro. free. —DOUGLAS, 6, Shandwick-place, Edinburgh. c5998

ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL.

Preserves, Beautifies, Strengthens the Hair. Prevents Baldness, Eradicates Scurf. All Scientists assert that Oil is absolutely necessary to Nourish and Preserve the Hair, and ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL is the best. Also in a Golden Colour for Fair-haired Ladies and Children. Ask Chemists for ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL 20, Hatton Garden, London.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, Churches, Chapels, Schools, etc.—Designs and all necessary information (free) from R. C. HARRIS, Iron Building Manufacturer, 7, Idol-lane, London, E.C. Thirty years' extensive practical experience. c5231

AMERICAN ORGANS from ..	£5	5	0
HARMONIUMS from	3	17	0
PORTABLES from	3	15	0

All makers at reduced prices. Every instrument warranted five years. The late Mr. Gawin Kirkham wrote: "I can speak from a long experience of the excellency of your instruments."
CHARLES L. YOUNG, 21 High-street, Kingsland, London. c1679

VICTORY!

MASON'S

EXTRACT OF HERBS

FOR MAKING

NON-INTOXICATING

BEER

Hundreds of Testimonials.

IMITATED, BUT NOT EQUALLED.

TRY IT! Sample Bottle sent Post Free for Nine Stamps.

Great Thoughts says:—"NON-INTOXICATING BEER.—Experience has proved that the best temperance beer for the harvest field and the home is that made from the Essence manufactured by Messrs. NEWBALL & MASON, Nottingham. It produces a bright, attractive-looking beverage, which is most agreeable to the palate, at a very trifling cost. The immense sale of this Beer Essence is sufficient proof of its excellence. Those readers who have not tried this preparation should try it at once. They would certainly become constant purchasers."

Always acceptable at Picnics. In the home it is the pleasantest and most refreshing drink obtainable.

DELICIOUS! HEALTH-GIVING! INVIGORATING!

One 6d. Bottle sufficient for 8 gallons.

Of all Chemists and Stores, 6d. and 1s. per bottle.

Sole Makers

NEWBALL & MASON,

NOTTINGHAM.

☞ AGENTS WANTED.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

EASIEST, QUICKEST, CHEAPEST & BEST BLACKLEAD IN THE WORLD

N In Half the Time, with Half the Labour, you can produce More Polish with Two Penny Packets of Rising Sun than with Half-Dozen of ordinary Blacklead. B

Sample Post Free for 2 Stamps.

C. CHANCELLOR & CO., LONDON, E.C.

SPECIAL OPPORTUNITY for wintering in Egypt, on Nile, in a comfortable Dahabieh, at very moderate charge, for any needing rest, quietude, or thorough change, visiting places of interest. Leaving Cairo November. Party conducted by one of considerable experience in Egypt and a brother of late Bishop Hannington. Two months, £50; three months, £65.—Further particulars, apply, JOSEPH HANNINGTON, 4, North-street, Brighton. c6290

IDEAL PURE WOOL SUMMER CLOTHING.—The celebrated CASTLE DONINGTON quality. Highly recommended by the Medical Profession. Thoroughly hygienic, exquisitely soft and light. This unique speciality is admirably adapted to Consumptive, Rheumatic, and delicate people. Every description of garment, natural, cream, and pink, in Purest Wools of English manufacture, at reasonable prices. Also, material by the yard; 36in. wide. Catalogue and Patterns post free. Carriage paid on all orders throughout the United Kingdom, half on foreign and Colonial parcels.—HYGIENIC HOSIERY MILLS, Castle Donington, via Derby.

PUBLICATIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARDS.—Send to Wellington House, Higher Broughton, Manchester, for New List. Cheapest English, 1s. 6d. per 100; foreign, 1s. per 100, or to
E. KAUFMANN, 80, Paternoster-square, London
OUR INHERITANCE. Number to the Book of Revelation, 1s., from Mrs. GRIMKE, as above. c4620

"FRIENDS IN ENGLAND WILL SURELY HELP! An Echo from Abroad." Report of British and Foreign Evangelical Tract Society. Post free to friends of Tract Distribution.—S. E. ROBERTS, 26, Paternoster-row.

ASSORTED GOSPEL BOOKLETS, including "A Saviour for You," "Thy Day," etc. Millions sold. Fifteen for 1s.; larger quantities at greatly reduced prices. Catalogues free.—S. M. HAUGHTON, 5, Hazelwood-road, Northampton. c5276

CHEYNE BRADY'S TRACTS are to be had at the Religious Tract Society, Drummond's Tract Depot, Stirling, Dublin Tract Repository, Partridge and Co., and all booksellers. c6288

THE BIBLE SERIES. One penny each. The Bible, how it was compiled. 25,000. The Bible, its seeming difficulties. The Bible, its apparent contradictions. The Bible, its peculiarities. The Bible, its words and phrases. Just issued. "These are above all money price."—David's Sling.—London, Holness, London, Partridge; Glasgow, Allan; Deptford, J. D. Smith; and all booksellers. c6255

FOREIGN MISSIONARIES invited to apply to British and Foreign Evangelical Tract Society for free grants of foreign tracts. Stock comprises thirty languages.—Address, Mr. ROBERTS, 26, Paternoster-row, London.

THE

SWAN FOUNTAIN PEN.

Manufactured in three sizes,

at 10/6, 16/6, & 25/- each.

HOW MR. HALL CAINE WROTE "THE MANXMAN."

"Yes, if the fact is of any "consequence, you are very "welcome to say that I wrote "'The MANXMAN' with the "Swan Fountain Pen. It has "become quite indispensable to "me. I can use it with ease, "and certainly anywhere and at "any time, even in the dark, "in bed, and on horseback.

"HALL CAINE."

REDUCED FACSIMILE.

We only require your steel pen and handwriting to select a suitable pen. Complete Illustrated Catalogue sent post free on application.

MABIE, TODD, & BARD,

93, Cheapside, London, E.C.;

95a, Regent Street, London, W.

PERSONS OF LIMITED INCOMES desirous of augmenting the same may do so successfully by becoming agents for the Packet Teas of the Select Ceylon Tea Agency, sold retail at from 1s. upwards. No mendacious puffs, but references (on fair conditions) to successful agents. Cash terms.—The Select Ceylon Tea Agency, 89, Lime-street, London. c5121

BRONCHIAL AFFECTIONS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA successfully treated by an improved method. A safe and rational system leading to natural cure. Begun at this time of year protects against dangers of early winter. Winter cough effectually prevented.—Address, "Doctor," care of W. Bates, Chemist, 106, King's Cross-road, W.C.

A BREAKFAST DELICACY. — My famous "Real Loch Fyne Kippers." Baskets, 4lb. or over. Post free, 6d. per lb. A perfect luxury Try them, please.—A. Harvie, 28, Watergate, Rothesay. c5142

AT HALF PRICE.—Genuine offer of our well-known Tracts, Leaflets, Cards, etc. Immense variety. Published price from 1s. per 1000. Specimens and particulars post free.—Penman and Co., 38, Furnival-street London, E.C.

NEAVE'S FOOD. BEST AND CHEAPEST.

KEATING'S POWDER DESTROYS BUGS FLEAS MOTHS BEETLES LARGER TINS 3D. 6D. & 1S.

John Heath's Pens.

TOOTH-ACHE CURED INSTANTLY BY BUNTER'S NERVINE Prevents Decay. Saves Extraction. Sleepless Nights Prevented Neuralgic Headache and all Nerve Pains removed by BUNTER'S NERVINE. All Chemists, 1s. 1½d.

Forthcoming Meetings.

[Communications respecting forthcoming meetings cannot be inserted unless received by Tuesday morning at the latest.]

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, or Wales, on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, London, W.C.; or, The Sec. Evangelisation Society, Scottish Branch, The Grove-street Institute, Glasgow.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send evangelists to any Evangelical denomination within the London postal area. Apply, Hon. Sec., 64, Kennington-oval, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for temporary or permanent work in our villages and country towns. Apply to Mr. G. H. Mawer, secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Thorne Evangelistic Missions.—Friends desirous to arrange for mission services, to be conducted by Mr. Thorne, should make early application to the secretary, Mr. James Pearce, Exeter Hall, Strand, to whom subscriptions for the Mission may be forwarded.

The King's Own Mission, St. James's Hall, Royal-road, Kennington, S.E.—Sun., Mr. John Langsford, 7 p.m., 3.15 p.m., P.S.A., Mr. O. L. Heatley.

S. S. Anne and Agnes, Gresham-street, E.C.—A special course of lectures on Wednesdays in July, at 1.15 p.m.:—July 24, "The Harmony of the Fourth Gospel with the other Three," Rev. Harold Smith; July 31, "The Battle of Documents and Doctrines," Rev. F. Relton.

Edinburgh Castle, Limehouse, E., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. De Burgh Rochfort; 3 p.m., Pleasant Sunday Afternoon.

Islington and Highbury Y.M.C.A., 198, Upper-street, N.—Young men's missionary meeting, Thursday, July 18, at 8.30 p.m.; address by Mr. P. A. Bennett, on "Narratives from the Niger."

Lord Radstock and others will speak in the Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, Sundays, at 3.45 and 7 p.m. Meetings of Christians, Fridays, at 8.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Week nights, at 8; Sundays, at 11 and 6.30, Mr. Charles Inglis,

Clapton Hall, Upper Clapton, N.E.—Mr. J. G. McVicker, Sundays at 6.30, and Thursdays at 7.30.

Christ Church, Westminster Bridge-road.—Minister, F. B. Meyer, B.A.; Sunday, 11 and 6.30; Thursday, 11.30. (lunch, 12.30, 1s.); Friday, 8, Bible-reading.

St. George's Hall, Langham-place.—Sundays, 11 a.m., Dr. M'Killiam; 7 p.m. Mr. Trevor Francis.

Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate, N.W.—Sunday, at 7, Mr. Geo. Hucklesby.

Malden Hall, Queen's-crescent, Haverstock-hill, N.W.—Sunday, at 7, Mr. C. Russell Hurditch.

House of Rest, Burlington-place, Eastbourne.—Daily prayer-meeting at noon. Visitors invited.

Coming Conferences.

Prophetic Truth and Inspiration.—Dunoon, July 30 to Aug. 1.

Blankenburg, Thuringia, Germany.—Sept. 2-6.

Perth.—Sept. 10—12, Rev. Dr. Bannerman, Perth, Hon. Sec.

West Norwood (Lansdowne Hall).—Oct. 15, 16, and 17 (Second Advent).

Deepening of Spiritual Life.—Keswick, July 22-27; Carlisle, Sept. 2-6; Glasgow, Sept. 26-28; Hastings, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4; Blackheath, Oct. 1-4; Star Hall, Manchester, Oct. 6-13; Wakefield, Oct. 8-10; Ealing, Oct. 15-18; Oxford, Oct. 28-31; Norwich, Oct. 28 to Nov. 1; Belfast, Nov. 4-8; Bradford, Nov. 5-8; Edinburgh, Nov. 11-16.

THE Y.M.C.A.

It is decided to form a branch Association at the Derbyshire village of Swanwick. The young men of the place seem prepared to throw themselves heartily into the work.

By a special effort the Adelaide Association has paid £1000 off the mortgage on its building, and the financial prospects of the Association are now brighter han they have ever been.

Poor London Workers.—Mrs. E. Jordan, the Cedars Carisbrooke, Isle of Wight, appeals for donations to enable some of the poorest of London work-worn sisters to get a brief holiday in the country. She co-operates with Christian workers in East London.

SLAVERY IN BRITISH PROTECTORATES.—The British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society having brought forward in the late Parliament the question of the abolition of slavery in Zanzibar, Pemba, and other British protectorates, will take steps to bring forwarda motion to carry out such measure in the new Parliament. They have sent a circular to all Parliamentary candidates asking whether they would give a vote in favour of abolition in all British protectorates, should they be elected to Parliament.

ITALIAN NAVVIES.—Those who have at heart the evangelisation of the Italian navvies, employed in great numbers in many countries of the world, would be glad to know the names and addresses of any who would be willing to work among them this summer. There will be a considerable number of them employed in the neighbourhood of Cannes and Nice, and larger works are contemplated later on. The mission has a claim on all who travel, using as they do the roads and tunnels, in the construction of which these men are daily risking their lives. Communications to be addressed to Miss G. M. Maynard, Hawkhurst, Kent.

CONSUMPTION. THE GRAND OLD MEDICINE OF NEARLY 70 YEARS has maintained its position as the first medicine in all Chest Complaints.*

As a preventative of mischief, it should be taken at the first appearance of Cough or Cold. As a safeguard against Influenza, and in subsequent weakness of the lungs, it has been used with wonderful results.

But the renown of this celebrated medicine in all these cases has been eclipsed by its success in cases of

PHTHISIS, PULMONALIS, or CONSUMPTION, Aptly called the Scourge of England.

Interviews with patients, new and old, by Mr. Congreve's Commissioner, are published every alternate week in most of the weekly journals.

Mr. Congreve's book on Consumption and Chest Diseases may be had post free for one shilling, from the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, London, S.E.

* Congreve's Balsamic Elixir may be had of all Medicine Vendors in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and large bottles at 11s. and 22s. The smaller sizes are of little use except in slight cases of Cough or Cold.

Notice.

Persons subject to eye disorders should know that any affliction can be cured by Singleton's Golden Eye Ointment, but it must be Singleton's. Of all chemists and drug stores at 2/- per pot. 300 years' reputation. "How to preserve the Eyesight," a little book of value to every family in which there is a case of weak eyes, will be sent free to any address by Stephen Green, 210 Lambeth Road, London.

One little bottle of Norton's Pills
Is not guaranteed to cure all ills,
But one little bottle, beyond all question,
Will thoroughly conquer Indigestion!

They have 100 YEARS' REPUTATION of being an UNEQUALLED REMEDY for INDIGESTION, HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS, DEBILITY, STOMACH and LIVER COMPLAINTS. A SPLENDID TONIC AND GENTLE APERIENT.

NORTON'S CAMOMILE PILLS

Mild in Operation, Perfectly Safe, and Free from Injurious Drugs.

In Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 11s., of all Medicine Vendors. Ask for "Norton's Camomile Pills," and do not be persuaded to take a substitute.

Prepared by Norton's Ltd., 21 Spital Square, London, E.

ONE LITTLE BOTTLE. NORTON'S TRADE MARK.

Just Published. Price One Shilling.

CANCER:

ITS NATURE & SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT.

Post Free One Shilling, from the Author,

H. KELWAY BAMBER, F.I.C., Westminster Chambers, 9, Victoria-st., London, S.W.

E. W. ALLEN, 4, Ave Maria Lane, E.C.

EPILEPTIC FITS.

TRENCH'S REMEDY.

Write for particulars to

J. TOWNSEND TRENCH,

The Remedy Depot,

38, SOUTH FREDERICK STREET, DUBLIN.

AJAX BEST AND CHEAPEST CYCLES.

PRICES FROM £4. Over 1,000 New and Second-hand. 200-page Illustrated Lists free. Easy Terms, from 10s. per month. Machines sent carriage paid.

British Cycle Manufacturing Co.

Liverpool: 45, Everton-road.
London: 42, High-street, Camden Town.

Biographies.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN & SCOTT.

New Edition of Mr. SPURGEON'S Life, One Shilling.

THE PRINCE OF PREACHERS:

A Sketch, a Portraiture and a Tribute. By Rev. J. Douglas, M.A. With life-like Portrait. Presentation Editions: Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"The best book about Mr. Spurgeon that has yet appeared."—Divine Life.

DUNCAN MATHESON:

The Scottish Evangelist. His Life and Labours. By Rev. John Macpherson. With life-like Portrait. Cloth boards, 1s. 6d. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"The life of a real man, consecrated in life and full of zeal for the Lord. This biography will not only interest, but benefit a wide circle of readers. We are right glad to see so worthy a memorial of so worthy a man."—Sword and Trowel.

ISABELLA MACPHERSON:

A Devoted Life. By Rev. John Macpherson. With life-like Portrait. Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"This volume, which is both written and printed in good style, and well bound, will be a charm to many Christian familes. It is worthy of a large circulation."—Primitive Methodist.

GAWIN KIRKHAM:

The Open-Air Evangelist. A Record and a Tribute. By Frank Cockrem (Secretary, Open-Air Mission). With Portraits and other Illustrations. Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"It is a Record and a Tribute that will be eagerly welcomed by the multitudes who knew and loved Mr. Kirkham for his own, and his splendid work's sake."—Word and Work.

HENRY MOORHOUSE:

The English Evangelist. By Rev. John Macpherson. With life-like Portrait. Cloth gilt, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.; Cheap Edition: Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.

"Full of interesting incidents from which counsel and encouragement may be gathered."—The Rock.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

No. 1830.] # The Christian. [JULY 25, 1895.

PRINCIPAL CONTENTS.

PORTRAIT AND SKETCH OF THE LATE MR. H. B. HARRISON, J.P.

Notes and Comments 5
Political Shakings 6
"The Weapons of our Warfare" 6
Trust (poem) 6
"Let us Draw Near." By Rev. Andrew Murray 7
The Evangelist—From Iron Bars to Golden Gates 7
Almost Gone. By Rev. F. B. Meyer.. 8
Prophetic Conference at Keswick... 9
The Neglected Continent 9
Our Daily Homily 10
International Sunday-school Lesson 11
For the Young.—In Regent's Park 11
Progress in Korea 11
Village Visitation in Japan 12
The Revival of 1859 12
Illustrated Gospels 13
Friendless and Fallen 13
Letters to the Editor 17
The Holy Spirit 17
Preaching and Healing 17
The Christian Associations 18
Irish Notes 18
Personalia... 18
Obituary Notices 19
Among the Churches 19
The Keswick Convention.—Addresses by
Rev. J. J. Luce 14
" Andrew Murray 15
" G. C. Grubb 15
" H. W. Webb-Peploe 16

INSTITUTIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS AND MISSION.
HIGH STREET, WHITECHAPEL, E.
Received with much thankfulness from L., A basket of flowers; "Anonymous," £1.
Rations of food to hungry children. Infant Day-Nursery. Day and Sunday Schools. Children's Services. Band of Hope. Evening Classes for Boys and Girls. Classes, Meetings, and Institute for Young Women and Elder Girls. Various Meetings, Classes and Parlour for Young Men and Lads. Bible Classes. Evangelistic Services. Lodging House Meetings. Temperance Work and Meetings. Mothers' Meetings. Clubs for Clothing, Coals, Bibles, &c. Prayer Meetings. Country Homes for Men, Women, and Children. Training Home for Motherless Girls, &c.
Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.
Post-office Orders should be made payable at 72, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E. c6303

CHILDREN'S DAY IN THE COUNTRY.—GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, HIGH STREET, WHITECHAPEL, E.—George Holland thankfully acknowledges receiving from T., £1; B., 3s.—George Yard Ragged Schools, Whitechapel, E. c6302

THE SOUTHWARK BOYS' HOME,
Branches: Greenwich, Ramsgate, Toronto.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT,
To receive really destitute boys from 6 to 18 years of age without payment or recommendation beyond ABSOLUTE NEED.
Urgent cases are considered at any time, but Mr. Fegan may be personally consulted about Orphan, Homeless, or Erring Boys at the Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E., on Mondays, from 10 till 2.
All communications should be addressed—
J. W. C. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home,
95, Southwark-street, London, S.E.

ORPHAN WORKING SCHOOL.
Instituted 1758.
Senior School: Haverstock-hill, N.W.
Junior School: Alexandra Orphanage, Hornsey Rise, N.
Convalescent Home: Harold-road, Margate.
President—H.R.H. the Duke of CAMBRIDGE, K.G.
Treasurer—BASIL WOODD SMITH, Esq., J.P., D.L.
Bankers—London Joint Stock Bank (Ltd.), Princes-street, E.C.
The 274th HALF-YEARLY GENERAL COURT of GOVERNORS will be held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C., on WEDNESDAY, July 31st, 1895, for the ELECTION of 35 CHILDREN to the benefits of the Institution, viz., four girls and twenty boys from the senior, and three girls and eight boys from the junior list. The poll will open at 12 o'clock noon, and close at 2 p.m. precisely.
FUNDS are URGENTLY NEEDED to maintain the 500 children under the care of the Committee, and they rely on the benevolent public for support.
Annual subscriptions and contributions will be thankfully received, and will entitle to vote at this election.
SPECIAL NOTICE.—Case 7, Senior Girls. Instead of "Unity Mabel Street" please read "Street, Unity Mabel."
Offices, 73, Cheapside, E.C.
ALGERNON C. P. COOTE, M.A., Secretary.

POOR JEWISH CHILDREN IN EAST LONDON.

The Jewish Missionaries of the London City Mission wish to give 1000 poor Jewish Children a Day in the Country. If funds permit, it is desired to send away for one or two weeks, many of the sick and ailing Jewish children

Contributions will be thankfully received by Mr. G. R. COLE, 3, Bridewell-place, London, E.C.

ZENANA MEDICAL COLLEGE, 58, St. George's-road, Belgravia, S.W., trains ladies for MEDICAL MISSION WORK in Eastern lands. Vacancies for pupils. Next term October. Partially free studentships granted. Funds needed. c5361

The LONDON BIBLE WAREHOUSE.
SPECIAL SALE
OF
INDIA PAPER INTERNATIONAL
TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion 8vo, large type edition:—	Published at s. d.	Offered at Post Free. s. d.
French morocco, yapp	15 0	7 6
Ditto ditto leather lined to edge	18 0	9 0
Algerian morocco, yapp, ditto ditto silk sewn	23 0	11 6
* Levant morocco, yapp, calf lined, silk sewn	26 0	13 0
* Best Levant morocco, yapp, kid-lined, calf, silk sewn	30 0	15 0
* Real Seal, yapp, kid-lined, silk sewn, the finest binding extant	36 0	18 0

* These may be had in large Bourgeois type for 6/- more, net.
Also, Oxford, Bagster's, and other Bibles. Lists post free.
THE LONDON BIBLE WAREHOUSE, 53, Paternoster-row, E.C.

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY,
56, Paternoster Row, London.
For HOLIDAY Distribution.
Tracts in all the Continental Languages, Welsh, and Gaelic.
TRACTS
Please Write for the Society's
NEW TRACT CATALOGUE,
Post Free on application to the Publisher,
56, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.
For HOLIDAY Distribution.
150 SIXPENNY PACKETS.

TEACHER'S BIBLE.
NEW EDITION with illustrations.
Special Purchase of 500 Copies.
RUBY TYPE,
Red-gold Edges, French Morocco, Yapped.
Size, 6¾in. by 4½in. by 1½in.
Usual price 10/-
Offered at 5/6 Post Free.
List of Bibles, Books, Texts, &c., on application.
WALTER G. WHEELER, 51 & 52, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

St. Leonards.—Eversfield Hospital and Home for Chest and Throat Diseases.
General Wards: Inclusive Terms, 18s. per week (with Subscriber's letter), 17s. without.
Eight Private Wards, from 2 guineas.
THOS. GAMBIER, M.D., Resident Physician.
S. O. GREENHILL, Secretary. c5034

THE REV. DR. STAINER'S HOMES FOR DEAF AND DUMB CHILDREN.
SPECIAL APPEAL.
The number of children deriving benefit by residence in these Homes is two hundred and thirty, and is steadily increasing. By a recent Act of Parliament one third of the cost of maintenance must be raised by voluntary contributions, but, to do this, the present income from that source will require to be more than doubled. The immediate object of this appeal is to call your attention to the latest developments, and increased usefulness of these Homes for these afflicted children by the establishment of workshops for the boys, and a laundry and new kitchen for the girls, in which they are efficiently taught various and useful occupations. A lasting benefit is thus conferred upon a class heavily handicapped in the race of life, by giving them a means of becoming self-supporting in after life. Contributions for this purpose are earnestly solicited by the Secretary, Miss HELEN BALL, Stainer House, Paddington-green, W.

FRESH AIR FOR POOR CHILDREN.—For 10s. subscribed, a pale-faced child can enjoy a country holiday for a fortnight. Help very greatly needed this season for 500, in this, the third Poorest District in London.—A. STILEMAN HERRING (for Local Committee), Vicar, St. Paul's, Clerkenwell, 45, Colebrooke-row, N.—Bankers: London and County. c5181

DAY IN THE COUNTRY for adults and children. Also fortnight for the weak and suffering out of St. Luke's and Clerkenwell. Pastor Phillp Gast (of Spencer-place Chapel, Goswell-road), 12, Noel-street, Islington. For over a quarter of a century help has been sent. c5233

BARNET CONFERENCE.
To Commemorate the Jubilee of Christ Church, Barnet.
A Conference for the Deepening of Spiritual Life will be held October 8th, 9th, and 10th. Full particulars will be announced later on. Subject: "The Love of Christ in Salvation, Sanctification, and Service."
Please keep the date free.

THE BENEVOLENT OR
Strangers' Friend Society.
Treasurer, Alderman Sir JOSEPH C. DIMSDALE.
Chairman, J. H. ANDERSON, Esq.
Founded a hundred and nine years ago. GREATLY STRAITENED FROM WANT OF FUNDS. There are 188 Christian men and women unpaid visitors engaged in the Society's work of BEFRIENDING THE SICK POOR of London. Kindly remember it in testamentary arrangements.
Office, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C. c5340

EDUCATIONAL.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL.—A clergyman's daughter offers the above. Loving care. Good education. Every attention. Terms £2 monthly, or 20 guineas yearly. Healthy, open neighbourhood.—Tredegar House, East Dulwich-road, S.E. c5279

MALVERN HOUSE, BLOCKLEY,
WORCESTERSHIRE.
Principals, the Misses JUDSON. Home school for girls in a lovely and bracing village on the Cotswold Hills. Resident foreign and English governesses and visiting masters. Earnest Christian training. Terms moderate and inclusive. References kindly permitted to the Rev. John Wilkinson, Mildmay Mission to the Jews, and to parents of pupils. Summer term begins (D.V.), May 2, 1895. c5368

FRANCHE, GREAT MALVERN.—Principal, Miss GRIGG. High-class home school for girls. Special arrangements for Indian and Colonial pupils. c5236

ALLAN BANK, OWLS ROAD, BOSCOMBE.
HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.
Thorough education. Success in public examinations. Care of delicate girls. House near sea among pines. Terms moderate. References to Evangelical Clergymen, and to Ministers.—Apply, Miss COCKS, Principal. c5301

ROSEBERRY, Western-parade, Southsea, facing sea and common. Christian home school for gentlemen's daughters. Thorough and successful teaching, careful godly training, refined happy home. Resident English and foreign governesses. Highly recommended. Principals, the Misses ROBINSON. c5105

SOUTH-WEST LONDON COLLEGE.
High-class School for Young Ladies.
1, CARLTON MANSIONS, CLAPHAM-RISE, LONDON, S.W.
Principal—MRS. HALE, A.C.P.
Modern system of teaching. Visiting masters in daily attendance. Resident certificated governesses. Careful personal supervision, home comforts, and Christian training. Preparation for any examination if desired. Good garden and tennis.
Highly recommended by the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, Rev. D. MacEwan, D.D. and parents of former and present pupils.

SIX GUINEAS.—Two girls can be received into a good home school to fill vacancies. Certificated governesses. English, French, music, singing, drawing, drill.—Miss WEBB, Prospect House School, Rayleigh, Essex. c5247

SUPERIOR FINISHING SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate professors.
DELTA, Ward's Library, 112, Kensington-pk.-rd., W.

BURLTON HOUSE, READING.—High-class Ladies' School. Principal, Miss RATCLIFFE. Old established. Thorough teaching. Modern educational advantages, examinations. Finishing masters. Well-appointed home. Highest references. c5271

TO PARENTS.—Girls of any age instructed in practical housewifery, superior economical cookery, intelligent catering and marketing. Laws of health and sanitation studied. Business training, book-keeping, etc. Fee from ten guineas, including twelve weeks' board and tuition as above in experienced lady's well-appointed home, S.E. References to parents of pupils.—c6161, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6161

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Lenten House, Alton, Hants. Principal, Miss Chinn, daughter of the late Rev. S. Chinn. Very successful preparations for examinations. References, Dr. Stewart, Alton; Rev. W. Houghton, Guildford; Rev. R. A. Davis Ventnor. c5131

REV. D. B. HANKIN, Mildmay, kindly recommends good home school, two hours from London. Spacious detached house. Thorough education. Fees from £25.—Miss LARTER, Nene House School, Thrapstone, Northamptonshire. c5180

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, East Tytherton, Chippenham.—Christian training. Preparation for examinations. Moderate terms.—Principal, Miss HOLLIS. c5147

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Rugby House, Leamington. Principal, Miss Arnold, assisted by certificated masters and mistresses. Highest educational advantages. Preparation for exams. Special care of delicate girls. Vacancy for governess-student. Premium. Referees: Rev. J. Stockwell Watts and others. c6151

EDUCATION NEAR LONDON.—Good professors. Christian training. Highly recommended by Miss Leicester, Head Mistress Wyggiston Girls' High School, Leicester, and parents of pupils. Governess-student wanted. Fee, 8 guineas per term.—c6162, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6162

UPPER MOUNT, SOUTHSEA.—High-class Home School for the daughters of gentlemen. Autumn term, September 17th.—For Prospectus, etc., address, PRINCIPAL. c5337

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.—The Misses BALCH and EDMEADES, Clevedon Lodge, Reading. Pupils prepared for Oxford and Cambridge Locals (higher, senior, junior), and Trinity College Exams. Vacancy for student-teacher (premium c6265

THE MORAVIAN SCHOOLS, Fulneck, near Leeds.—A thorough, advanced, and Christian education. Boys' School, Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON. Ladies' School, Rev. M. B. O'CONNOR. c5341

ILFRACOMBE.—WILDERFORD HALL High School for Girls. Thorough education. Preparation for exams. Comfortable home. Christian training. Special attention given to delicate girls. Principal, Miss HEALE. Paying guests received. Moderate charges. c6392

"LAMMERMOOR," TOOTING COMMON, LONDON.—High-class school for young ladies. Principal, Miss MACLEOD. First-class Government, Higher Cambridge, St. Andrews L.L.A. certificates. Highly qualified staff. Happy home life, with thorough Christian training. Pupils prepared for matriculation and other examinations. Charming and bracing neighbourhood. c9405

VACANCIES OCCUR in high-class school for girls. Pupils received whose parents are abroad. Christian training. Home comforts. Special attention to backward pupils. Terms 80 guineas.—PRINCIPAL, 10, Clapton Common. c6157

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Wilton House, Tylehurst-road, Reading. Head Mistress, Miss Marion White. Assisted by well qualified resident mistresses and visiting professors. Pupils prepared, if desired, for public examination. Wilton House stands on high ground, gravel soil, outside the town. Large garden, cricket field, tennis courts. Tepid swimming bath. Next term begins Thursday, September 19. c5373

A LADY, WHOSE DAUGHTER is at a high-class French and German school near Berlin, will give detailed information to parents desiring to know good school abroad. Thorough teaching. Individual care.—MRS. PERCY, 47, Hilldrop-crescent, Camden-road, N. c6318

NEUCHATEL, SWITZERLAND. — A few young ladies received in September in superior French finishing home school. Evangelical. First-rate advantages for languages, music, art. Eminent professors. Delightful climate. English home comforts. Highest references.—Letters to Mdlle. COULERU, Enderby Hall, Leicester. c6259

STANLEY HOUSE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Thorough education, with decided Christian training. The premises include workshop, chemical laboratory, covered and open playgrounds, tennis courts and cricket field. Delicate boys receive special care. Fees moderate and inclusive.—For prospectus, apply PRINCIPAL. c3602

FOLKESTONE.

MR. J. W. C. FEGAN desires to recommend to Christian parents a high-class school for sons of gentlemen, in the best part of Folkestone. A thoroughly good education with real Christian influence, home comforts, and close individual attention to each boy. Highest references.—Mr. J. W. C. FEGAN, Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-st., S.E. c1574

MR. W. ERNEST MATTHEWS, B.A. (honours), assisted by efficient masters, prepares for the Army, Navy, Universities, Public Schools, etc. Pupils under Christian influence. Excellent situation.—10, Worcester-terrace, Clifton, Gloucestershire. c4091

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL for boys. Thorough education. Every home comfort, with unlimited diet. Health resort. Medical reference. Careful Christian training. Terms inclusive and very moderate.—PRINCIPAL, Lucton School, Henfield, Sussex. c6184

Huntingdon House School,
TEDDINGTON, Middlesex.

Christian training. First-class masters. Thorough teaching. Moderate fees. Preparation for professional and business life, and for examinations (over 100 certificates gained). Recommended by Rev. Evan Hopkins, Kensington, and many Christian parents. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.
Principal—Mr. GEO. CUMES, F.R.G.S., F.R.A.S.

TO GODLY PARENTS. — The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL where the constant aim of the principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class education.
The premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the south coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.
Prospectuses and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application. Several wards in Chancery have been appointed as pupils in the school. Terms moderate.—Dr. THORN (not Thorne), Paddington, London. c4668

FOLKESTONE.—Penfillan House. Mr. Toke, B.A., and Mr. Vaughan Wilkes, B.A. (assisted by specialists), receive eight pupils to prepare for the University, Army, and other exams. Individual tuition. Careful supervision. Four successes in 1894. c4787

NEW COLLEGE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Head Master: Rev. G. Hugh Jones, F.A.S.
High-class School for sons of Christian gentlemen. Inclusive Fees, £45 per annum; under eleven, £40.

YOUR BOYS have Christian home and education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Gordon School, Kingston-on-Thames. Established eleven years. Beautiful district, near Richmond Park. References. 20 to 25 guineas yearly.—Address, 6, Belle Vue-road, Ramsgate, from July 16 to 29. c5250

PREPARATORY SCHOOL
To the Public Schools and Royal Navy, for Gentlemen's Sons, aged 8 to 14.

The Old Hall, Wellington, Shropshire.
(Founded 1845.) Very healthily situated, 370 feet above the sea, near the Wrekin. 35 hours from London, by L. & N.W. or G.W.R. Beautiful grounds, playing fields, &c. Illustrated Prospectus on application to the Head Master, G. E. W. CRANAGE, M.A. (Shrewsbury School and Trinity College, Oxford); or Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c5883

ETONHURST, WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Preparatory school for the sons of gentlemen. Competent masters attend daily. Prospectus on application to LADY PRINCIPALS. c5334

A GENTLEMAN IS DESIROUS of placing his son (age 16), who has overgrown his strength, and must have only light study, under the care of a country Free Church minister who is educating three or four pupils. Must be a bracing locality, and good table kept.—Particulars to A. W., Slengsby Villa, Church End, Finchley. c6301

COMBE DOWN SCHOOL, BATH, for the sons of gentlemen. This school will (D.V.) be removed after the summer term to more convenient and commodious premises, newly built, in Weston-super-Mare. Address, till end of August, Combe Down, Bath; after August, to Clarence College, Weston-super-Mare.—W. FRANKLIN, Head-master. c6319

PRIVATE HOME SCHOOL for sons of gentlemen (10—16). Individual teaching and care. Most healthy locality. Great success with backward or delicate boys. Prep. for public schools and all exams. Very highly recommended.—Rev. W. DUKE-BAKER, M.A., M.C.P., West Leigh, Botley, Hants. c6397

BEXLEY HEATH, KENT (12 miles from London).—Old-established School for sons of gentlemen. Beautiful situation. Seven acres of land. Preparation for public examinations.—Illustrated prospectus on application to Head Master, G. E. OXLEY, M.A., Oak House, c6368

ALRESFORD HOUSE SCHOOL, MARGATE.—High-class school for the sons of gentlemen. Boys are prepared for the various competitive examinations. Special care of Indian children. Christian home.—Apply, The PRINCIPALS. c5371

MUSIC AND SINGING.—A Christian lady of long experience in teaching, gives lessons in music and singing to those who wish their gifts cultivated for the Master's use.—For particulars, apply by letter to c6401, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c5354

OPENING FOR LADIES' SCHOOL.—Excellent opportunity occurs for lady wishing to open superior school for girls. Lady Principal of high-class boys' school, in growing suburb, having by request formed separate class for sisters of pupils, would introduce qualified Christian lady, and give accommodation first term. Moderate premium. Highest references given and required.—c6398, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6398

A PHYSICIAN'S WIFE earnestly recommends her present governess, member of Baptist church, as most painstaking, conscientious, and successful with her children. Shortly disengaged. —c6396, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6396

LADY PRINCIPAL HIGHLY RECOMMENDS Christian governess (five and four years' references). Certificated English, botany, French, music, drawing, calisthenics, needlework. £30.—GENTAUDE, Mrs. Edwin Hooper's Governesses' Home, Compton-terrace, London. Free to employers. c6381

WANTED, FOR AUGUST, a re-engagement as resident governess in a Christian family, to teach English, French, Latin, music, drawing. Thirteen years' experience in teaching.—Miss FUGILL, Bereton, Claremont-road, Bath. c6379

FARMER'S DAUGHTER SEEKS SITUATION as governess to one child or companion to a lady. Would not object to travel. Domesticated. Good references.—Miss BALDWYN, Ashton-under-Hill, Tewkesbury, Glos. c6340

FRENCH GOVERNESS, PROTESTANT, brevet supérieur, desires engagement for September. Prefers school, South of England. Good references. £40 to £45.—Mdlle. LEJAY, Chatillon-y-Loire, Loiret, France. c6307

STUDENT-TEACHER required, September, in home school for girls. Premium £12. Or two sisters, one as student-teacher, can be received on the terms for one. Thorough teaching. Preparation for exams.—Hope House School, Wallscote-road, Weston-super-Mare. N. B. 2

GOVERNESS wanted, to teach two girls, ages eleven and thirteen years. French, Latin, and music required. Age twenty to thirty. — Reply, stating salary, to Mrs. T. R. HALL, Granby, Nottingham. c6414

CHRISTIAN TUTOR required in September, equal to preparing pupils for Matriculation, London University, and good at games, in small, select school for sons of gentlemen.—PRINCIPAL, High Park Hall, Ryde. c6366

PROTESTANT GOVERNESSES' HOME.—Gentlewomen received. Those needing seaside rest unable to pay admitted free week or fortnight when sufficient funds. References. Terms from 10s. weekly.—SUPERINTENDENT, 22, Chatham-place, Brighton. c6374

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES
(English and Foreign), recommended GRATIS by Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governesses' Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. (Established 1879). BOARD AND RESIDENCE from 13s. weekly. No fee to Governesses until placed. Schools recommended and transferred. c5211

SITUATIONS, ETC., WANTED.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

AN EVANGELIST, HAVING no means to take a holiday, would be glad to take services during September for his expenses. References if required.—J. T. STEVENSON, 19, Bristol-gardens, Maida Vale, London, W. c6323

YOUNG MAN WITH EXPERIENCE seeks engagement for August and September as evangelist. Temporary pastorate acceptable. Good references.—W. A. FOSTER, 87, High-street, Chatham. c6334

A RETURNED MISSIONARY seeks engagement as missionary, caretaker, or any position of trust. Married. Excellent references.—Apply, M., 73, Castlegate, Berwick-on-Tweed. c6410

YOUNG MAN seeks situation in any place of trust. Christian. Age 33. Single. In previous situation as clerk about fourteen years.—CHRISTIAN, 34, Westerfield-road, South Tottenham. c6338

BUTLER-VALET, age 26. Single. Experienced. Good character.—T., The Grove, near Stroud, Glos. c6390

INDOOR SERVANT in a quiet family (in or out of livery). Over seven years in last situation as footman. Left through death. Age 24. Height 5ft. 8in. Single. Good character. Disengaged.—Address, ADAMS, Union-lane, New Town, Hatfield, Herts. c6383

UNDER-GARDENER, 19, seeks situation. Christian. Abstainer. Good references.—HALLIDAY, c.o. Brain, Rocester, Staff. c6310

GROOM AND GARDENER and handy man. Willing to make himself generally useful. Understands kitchen garden, plain flower and lawns, horses. Well recommended. Abstainer. Can drive. —Address, BOTTING, Mission Hall, Aldershot. c6369

MATRON IN ORPHANAGE or Institution, disengaged August 16.—R.C., care of Miss Tempel, Albion-hill Home, Finsbury-road, Brighton. c6315

A LADY CAN THOROUGHLY RECOMMEND conscientious, experienced matron, month or six weeks' holiday engagement. Good needlewoman. Excellent testimonials. Travelling expenses. No salary.—Reply, Mrs. WENHAM, Lickey Hills, Bromsgrove. c6304

LADY RECOMMENDS matron, wardrobe-keeper, or sewing-maid—re-engagement. Three years at Sunbury Asylum. Capable, conscientious, economical. Capital machinist. Understands linen. Cuts out and makes clothes, boys' or girls'. Highest references. Moderate salary.—M., c.o. Mrs. Crosfield, Carr-end, Reigate. c6311

AS MATRON in a home, or as housekeeper. Experienced in both. Good references.—S. E. S., 16, Stockmore-street, Cowley-road, Oxford. c5357

A GENTLEWOMAN, educated, motherly, seeks position of trust as matron, librarian, or lady housekeeper. Would be found invaluable to elderly couple. Moderate salary. Highly recommended by ministers and others.—M., care of W. E. Guy, Stationer, Saffron Walden. c6349

ENGAGEMENT wanted as assistant or sewing matron in children's home. Christian and abstainer. Good dressmaker. Salary required. Good references.—E. R., 278, Kennington-road, London, S.E. c6392

YOUNG LADY (domesticated) desires employment in small boarding-house, home of rest or school. Light duties. Salary (small) not so much an object. South of England preferred.—B., care of Y.W.C.A., Tunbridge Wells. c6419

LADY, BY BIRTH AND EDUCATION, desires an engagement in good family as lady-housekeeper or companion. Fond of children. Good needleworker. Church of England. Highest references. —c6385, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6385

A CHRISTIAN LADY desires re-engagement as companion to an elderly or invalid lady. Abstainer. Kind and gentle. Excellent references. — T., 33, Keildon-road, Clapham Common, S.W. c6377

MISS POLLOCK WISHES TO RECOMMEND a lady-help (daughter of professional man). Aged 23. Domesticated. Good needlewoman, Musical. Home desired with Christain abstainers, where servant is kept.—Wood Lawn, Hanworth, Middlesex. c6375

LADY RECOMMENDS RESPECTABLE middle-aged woman, to attend invalid, or assist in light house work. Small wages for comfortable home.—Write, Mrs. PHILLIPS, 5, Rosebery-road, Clapham Park. c6421

USEFUL COMPANION to a lady (21); good needlewoman, musical, Christian, and teetotaler; not object to travelling.—W. L., c.o. Mr. Arthur, 5, Bellenden-road, Peckham. c6420

HELP OR COMPANION.—The Rev. T. Broughton Knight, Wrington, Somerset, recommends a Christian friend, age 23. Domesticated, good needlewoman, fairly educated. N.B. 3

DAME VEUVE, 50 ans, sachant coudre, élever des enfants, désirerait place dans une famille chrétienne.—S'addresser à M. CARON, Pasteur, Saverdun, Ariège, France. c6385

SITUATION AS NURSE wanted to one or two children by the end of August. Would not object to travel. Age 21.—Address, H., care of Y.W.C.A., Redhill. c6297

AS UNDER-NURSE in small family (15). First place. Christian and abstainer. Also under-housemaid (16). Under superior upper servants. Country girls. Full particulars requested.—Miss GREENE, 25, Kensington Palace-gardens, W. c6351

AS UNDER-NURSE, housemaid. Age 15. Not been out before. Wages not so much as comfortable home. Can be recommended, and accustomed to children.—E. A., 5, Victoria-grove, Kensington, W. c6370

A CLERGYMAN RECOMMENDS a girl as under nurse-maid, aged 15, tall and well-looking. Educated, fond of children.—Address, ELSIE LAILEY, Stamford Dingley, Reading. c6400

A SITUATION wanted as sewing-maid or wardrobe-keeper in school or family. Barnet or neighbourhood preferred. Twelve years' reference. —Address, L. B., 43, Alston-road, Barnet, N. c6423

SITUATION WANTED in the country as sewing-maid, for respectable young woman, age 21. —Apply, C. F., 19, New North-road, London, N. N. B.

GOOD COOK, where kitchenmaid is kept. Age 28. Abstainer. No dairy or baking. Wages £28 to £30. Disengaged August 12.—B. Cox, Brook House, Southgate, N. c6380

SITUATIONS WANTED for four good plain cooks. Ages, 38, 36, 30, 25. Highly recommended by their late mistresses. Personal characters if required.—Registry Office, 20, New Jersey-road, Gloucester. c6308

TWO FRIENDS SEEK SITUATIONS together as two general servants. Comfortable home more valued than high wages. Good references.—G., 11, St. Mark's-road, Notting Hill. c6412

A LADY WISHES to find country situation as general servant for a girl of 21. Suited for rough work with personal supervision.—Mrs. HERBERT WRIGHT, Solihull, Warwickshire. c6357

SITUATIONS, ETC., VACANT.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

TO CANDIDATES for holy orders wishing to graduate.—St. Matthew's, Cambridge, University Lay-Workers' Ordination Fund (Patron, the Lord Bishop of Ely).—A studentship worth £60 a year is now vacant. Applicants must be single, musical, and well grounded in classics and mathematics.—Write, stating full particulars, to the Rev. F. E. ROGERS, Abbey Walk, Cambridge. c6171

MISSION SUPERINTENDENT wanted. Experienced organiser and evangelist. Duties to commence end September. State salary and references.—Apply, LANCELOT MIDDLETON, Imperial Mission Hall, Hanley, Staffs. N. B.

A BUTLER wanted, page kept. A thoroughly experienced, trustworthy man, about 30, with good references.—E. M. B., Park Hill, Upper Tooting, S.W. c6341

MAN COOK.—Wanted immediately for superior boarding establishment, good man cook. Wife to act as housemaid.—Reply, giving full particulars and wages required, 6, Marine Mansions, Bexhill-on-Sea. c6296

ROOMS OFFERED in a Mission-house to an elderly couple, and £10 a year for cleaning, etc. A retired soldier or sailor preferred.—H. M. THOMPSON, care of Mrs. Finlinson, 47, Eskin-street, Keswick. c6309

EXPERIENCED VOLUNTARY WORKER needed in small children's home, near sea. To take special charge of five children, two years old, under head matron.—C. D., 297, Sea-side, Eastbourne. c6387

WANTED, BY AUGUST 15, for a resoue home, a competent needle-room matron, who can cut out customers' work, also outfits for the inmates, and teach them to work. She would be required to teach reading, writing, and elementary arithmetic for two hours' daily. An abstainer and Churchwoman preferred. Salary £20.—X. Y., 73, Southover-street, Finsbury-road, Brighton. c6398

OAK HILL RESCUE HOME.—Wanted, matrons for book-keeping and sewing-room. Christian workers, healthy, musical. Willing to assist as needed.—Apply, with references, to LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Oak Hill Home, Cheetham Hill, Manchester. c6306

A YOUNG LADY wanted who would be willing to serve in a mixed country business, who has good knowledge of drapery. Comfortable home. Live in.—Apply, MOULTON, Tittleshall, Swaffham. c6323

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, a Christian gentlewoman, middle-aged and experienced, to assist another in the management of a superior boarding establishment. References exchanged. — MATER, 6, Marine Mansions, Bexhill-on-Sea. c6295

USEFUL LADY HELP wanted. About 30. Light cooking, sewing, and housework. Small family near Belfast. Two servants. Salary. State religion, experience.—c6175, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6175

MOTHER'S HELP, EXPERIENCED, and kindly with young children, and willing to be generally useful. 35 to 40. Servants kept. Comfortable home. Ulster.—Apply, Mrs. E. Manse, Coagh, Belfast (stating salary). c6316

EXPERIENCED NURSE wanted to take charge of one child, aged 7 months. Must have good references and be a good needlewoman.—Apply, Mrs. ABBOTT, Syston House, Boscombe, Bournemouth. c6397

WANTED, IN A SMALL CHRISTIAN FAMILY, a plain cook. Washing put out.—Apply to C. E., 6, South-parade, Doncaster. c6345

PARLOURMAID wanted in a small private family. Age about 30. Wages £16 to £18. A Dissenter.—Apply by letter, M. C., 4, The Grove, Highgate-road, N.W. c6384

WANTED AT ONCE, earnest Christian, age between 22 and 25, as servant. Regular house duties, but must be willing for any work. Amiable, quiet, early riser. Good wages.—Apply, by letter only, c6264, Haddon's Advertising Office, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6264

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, about second week in August. Age 20 to 25. Quiet Christian family of two. Very comfortable home. Washing put out. Plain cooking required. Good wages to suitable person.—Apply, Mrs. JENKS, 18, Richmond-road, Ilford. c6399

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted in small family. Christian and abstainer.—Mrs. COLWELL, 114, Bethune-road, Amhurst Park, Stamford Hill, N. c6408

LADIES WANTING SERVANTS and servants seeking situations, should apply to Miss MAULDEN (late missionary), 97, Harrow-road, Paddington Green, whose office is well known and kindly recommended by the Rev. G. F. Pentecost, D.D. Stamps for reply. c6321

7s. 6d. A WEEK SALARY and upward offered to both sexes (for spare moments) everywhere. The work may be done evenings.—Apply, enclosing addressed envelope, to M. TRUSCOTT AND Co, 5, Sherwood-terrace, Chelston (105), Torquay. c5234

TO LET, APARTMENTS, ETC.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

MIDLAND TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 76, Guilford-street, Russell-square, W.C. — A first-class Hotel for Visitors to London. Central and pleasantly situated. A thoroughly clean and quiet home, with every comfort and convenience. Highly patronised and recommended by the clergy and ladies and gentlemen. Bedrooms from 1s. 6d., breakfast or tea from 1s. 3d., service 9d. Full tariff, with testimonials, free on application to
J. W. TURNER, Proprietor.

W. TAVERNER, TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 41 and 43, Judd-street, Euston-road, London, W.C. Five minutes from Great Northern, Midland, and North-Western Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Silent roadway. Ten minutes from British Museum. Tariff on application.

AT LONDON.—TRANTER'S TEMPERANCE HOTEL, Bridgewater-square, Barbican, near St. Paul's Cathedral, G.P.O., and all places of interest. Quiet, clean, economical.—Write for "Visitors' Guide," showing "How to Spend a Week in London," with tariff and testimonials, post free.

LONDON, VISITORS TO,
Will find Rest, Comfort, and Kindness at Bernard's
Private Christian Temperance Hotel,
1 and 2, Granville-square, King's Cross-road, W.C. Quiet square. Most central position in London. Bed and breakfast, 3s. Bed, breakfast, and tea, 3s. 9d. Reduction to Ministers. No attendance fees or gratuities. Write "Secretary" for rooms. c5302

The Christian.

☞ To avoid delay it is requested that all letters relating to business matters should be addressed to the firm, Messrs. Morgan and Scott, and not to its individual members. Communications for THE CHRISTIAN should be addressed to the Editor, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, E.C. Letters of a personal nature should in every case be so marked.

All Advertisements for The Christian should be sent to Messrs. John Haddon and Co., Central Advertising Offices, Bouverie House, Salisbury-square, London, E.C., accompanied by remittance. (For Terms, see Page 1 of cover.)

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

☞ The Publishers request that all orders for The Christian by post, and remittances for same, be addressed to "The Christian" Postal Department, Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, London, E.C.

Cheques and Post Orders to be made payable to Messrs. John Haddon and Co. at that address.

The subscription for one year, including Postage and Coloured Almanack, is as under :—

For Great Britain and Ireland ..	6s. 7d.	per annum
For India, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, France, Germany, and other European Countries	8s. 10d.	„ „
For United States and Canada ..	2¼ dols.	„ „
Or including Monthly Copy of Herald of Mercy	2¾ dols.	„ „

Subscriptions for The Herald of Mercy.

4 Copies monthly	2s.	per annum
8 „ „	4s.	„ „
12 „ „	6s.	„ „
24 „ „	12s.	„ „

Post free to any address at home or abroad.

Remittances to be sent as above. Postcard should be enclosed for receipt or extra stamp to cover postage of same.

Notes and Comments.

We have received several letters on the recent election and questions presumably affected thereby. Friends who have addressed us on this subject will, on reflection, realise that we cannot discuss the issues involved, some of them keenly controverted among Christian citizens. Principles rather than policy must occupy our space, and we are glad to call attention to the reflections on p. 6, from the pens of Lord Radstock and Rev. Wm. Crosbie.

Dr. D. S. Gregory is contributing to the Homiletic Review some very thoughtful articles on Preaching. In the July issue he deals with "The Message," and after showing that it is essentially one of salvation, he says :—

Sin and death, salvation and life, constitute the marrow of Bible Divinity; and outside of and apart from these, the Scriptures have no message that has any great and paramount interest for a human soul.

This is not new, but it is so true as to be worth constant repetition. Dr. Gregory easily demonstrates that education as divorced from Christianity has no regenerating power; it can only develop what is in man.

As man is in a condition of moral disorder, even education of the most liberal and comprehensive character must fail to purify and transform the man, and may at the highest make no more than a Lord Bacon, or a Byron, or a Burr, or a Mill. If men are good, education will make them the more powerful for good; if they are bad, it will only make them stronger for evil. Education transformed, elevated, and controlled by the spirit of Christ, is the only kind that can essentially and permanently elevate society.

Not by educational polish or power, but by the renewing energy of the Spirit of God, are men brought from nature's darkness into Gospel light.

There is undoubted good in the modern method of dissecting our social condition and exposing all its sores. We know where the trouble is and what it is, if we cannot always tell how to remove it. A sound diagnosis is the first step, if a doctor is to be successful with his patient. We know now that Glamorgan and Monmouth, though the most progressive parts of Wales, form the most criminal portion of the kingdom. This indubitable fact has stirred the minds of at least some of the righteous, and now the causes are being sought out. One of them is said to be the unwillingness of the chief citizens to carry the burden of public responsibility. The South Wales Daily News avers that the School Board of Cardiff, "well aware of the hundreds of children running the streets unchecked, does not meet the demand for school places, will not establish a day industrial school, but leaves the street wanderers to develop, as they naturally must do, into a perennial crop of young criminals."

Lord Lorne would like to see history so taught as to show boys a means by which our race may be kept together by united finance arrangements. He thinks they might be made to see that by arbitration, conciliation, and conferences, means may be found to write a new history of English-speaking people's advance "along roads which shall be illuminated by hope in the future, instead of darkened by the forgettable enmities of the past." We never hear the remark made, but surely the work of missions must have done much to create among the young a sense of the unity of mankind, and the blessings of peace and good-will.

Lord Shaftesbury was sure, after an experience of sixty-years' work for the uplifting of the people, that he spoke the truth when he said that, until the "domiciliary conditions of the people are Christianised (I can use no less forcible term), all hope of moral or social improvement is utterly in vain." Since then the housing of the poor has been much talked of, and something has been done, but the tens of thousands who live in one-room tenements warn us that our task is hardly begun.

How long it takes a community to master the principles and understand the application of a new law! Agitation has to be continued for years before you can safely inscribe it on the statute book. It has been the misfortune of the Local Option Bill to be condemned before it was expounded and understood. The wildest misrepresentations have been made of it, and it has been rejected in an ignorant panic created by "the trade." But though this bill may be dead, it will have a resurrection in some form or other. The drink traffic and its fruits are unendurable and will certainly be curtailed. Educate, educate, educate, must now be the watchword of temperance reformers.

We remember hearing Sir Arthur Cotton say that there was no reason why English people should not live in India for a great number of years, if they would avoid alcoholic drinks, and live in accordance with the climate. He himself had been there thirty-five years. Lady Muir now adds her testimony to the possibility of a long and active life there if proper care is observed. She does not mean to say that the climate is always an agreeable temperate, but she evidently was happy and useful in it. It appears that men more commonly make themselves unfit for the climate than find the climate unfit for them.

So much is said in praise of Mohammedanism and of the superior lot and condition of its votaries, that it is strange to read Mr. Davey's opinion in The Fortnightly Review, that the vast mass of thirty millions of Turkish women are little better than animals. Of this divorce is one main cause, a warning in these days, when the loosest and wildest talk is indulged in with regard to that subject. Most of the beggar women of Constantinople have been passed on from one husband to another until they become helplessly and hopelessly poor, and "usually end their days in abject misery and blindness in some deserted cemetery." Christianity has never yet had a rival in its services to women, and it will not be eclipsed by the new philosophy, which, in promising her larger liberty, would bind her again with chains which Christianity has broken. The safest place for a woman is among those who follow Jesus.

The Review of Reviews loves to play the part of the candid friend. We are sure its editor would be as glad as anyone to see the opium traffic confined within the limits specified in the minority report, but who would guess that, when he says that after Sir Henry Fowler's speech in the House of Commons, in which his facts and arguments were set forth with a great air of authority, and with a consciousness of supreme rectitude which carried the whole house away with it, "the agitation for the prohibition of the production of opium in India evaporated into thin air"? Now, thin air has a way of gathering again for storms, and tearing away all opposition to its progress; and so will this thin air of truth. The forces of righteousness will concentrate in a storm of moral indignation before which no Secretary of State or Parliament will be able to stand. Delay will not make this force less but greater.

Prior Vaughan, brother of Cardinal Vaughan, has been expressing in Australia his opinion on the effect of Lord Halifax's proposals for reunion. He thinks "it has given the Anglican tree a big shake, and its ripe fruit has dropped into Peter's basket." Although he seems doubtful as to whether England will return to the Roman Catholic fold, he yet has great satisfaction in recalling the fact that there is hardly a family of distinction that has not now some one within it. He believes that the Protestant Establishment is breaking up, and a sign of it is that "her bishops and clergymen are all at sixes and sevens, even on fundamental articles." These opinions are interesting, but the prior is only a prior, not a prophet.

An esteemed lady correspondent writes :—

I have come across a paper—bought by one of my sons—which makes me feel that, as a Christian mother, I ought to do all I can to have such disgusting things exposed and stopped. I do not wonder at the young men drifting downhill so fast.

We have already called attention to the prostitution of the Press to the demoralisation of the young people of this generation. It is the duty of every parent to acquaint himself with the reading of his children. We have seen a Christian lady buy for the children travelling with her periodicals which would have disgusted her had she taken the trouble to examine them herself. Mr. Harry Quilter deserves the thanks of the country for dealing with this question in his outspoken and drastic article on "The Gospel of Intensity" in the June issue of The Contemporary Review, and the editor for inserting it in the foremost place.

An American girl has declared in the Arena that she knows that the majority of the leading studios for men in Paris are hotbeds of immorality; she is, therefore, of opinion that the future of the country ought not to be imperilled by young Americans coming into too close contact with that quality of Parisian life. This is to befriend art, and to speak in its best interests. The highest attainments will never be granted when morality is sacrificed. The pure heart which sees God also sees light in His light, and in that light all fair things stand revealed.

Political Shakings.

By Rev. W. CROSBIE, M.A., LL.B.

The following words have no sectional political significance. The writer is in no sense a political partisan. But, looking out upon "the times that are passing over him," and carefully noting them, and their "signs," he sees a meaning more than appears on the surface.

There is analogy between these times and those in which Ezekiel lived and prophesied, and in which, as the mouthpiece of God, he uttered the proclamation: "I will overturn, overturn, overturn it; this also shall be no more, until He come whose right it is; and I will give it Him" (Ezekiel xxi. 27).

Ezekiel was in exile in the land of Chaldea by the river Chebar. Years previously the ten tribes had been carried away captive into a sort of oblivion; and there had been deportations also of Judah and Benjamin by the King of Babylon.

Zedekiah was reigning at Jerusalem; but he was the last of the kings, the last of the royal line of David. From Zedekiah's time until the present there has been no king of David's lineage reigning at Jerusalem.

Ezekiel foresaw and forctold the downfall of Zedekiah, and the end of the Davidic dynasty. And other changes he foresaw in the vista of the future years; changes not only in the narrow sphere of the history of the chosen people, but in the wider sphere of the world's history; the rise and fall of empires; the Babylonish Empire succeeded by the Medo-Persian, the Medo-Persian by the Grecian, and the Grecian by the Roman. It was a wonderful vision that passed before the ecstatic gaze of the prophet; changes, wars, revolutions—great world-powers coming upon the scene, and fulfilling some mission of Providence, and then passing away. The foreground of the mystic picture was dark, terrible, red with blood, and horrible with slaughter; but beyond, and as coming from afar, there was a glory, and the rays fell athwart the gloom, transfusing and transfiguring it, and shining into the soul of the lonely prophet; and meanings began to write themselves out as by invisible fingers; and a voice spoke, and Ezekiel caught and recorded the great interpreting words: "I will overturn, overturn, overturn it; this also shall be no more, until He come whose right it is; and I will give it Him."

The "overturnings" heralded and prepared for the Advent of Jesus, the true King of men, and for the establishment of his Kingdom, a Kingdom which shall never be "overturned," whose growth through the ages has ever been signalised by overturnings, and whose final triumphs, when the King Himself shall come again, will be preceded and prepared for by many and strange overturnings.

We seem to be on the eve of some of these overturnings. Changes, indeed, are always occurring in some form or other, silently, or with noise and shakings, causing men's hearts to fear. But there is a feeling abroad that we are approaching changes and dangers of an exceptional kind. The former things are waxing old and ready to pass away. For peoples, for churches, for systems, for principles, a time of searching and sifting is at hand. Things sacred, no less than things secular, must submit to the ordeal, and justify themselves, or be cast aside. Over the future into which we are looking, and which we are entering, the solemn, yet inspiring, prophetic declaration is sounding, as if more loudly than before: "I will overturn, overturn, overturn it; this also shall be no more, until He come whose right it is; and I will give it Him."

The true philosophy of history is in the words. They reveal the meaning and the issue of the mighty travail of the ages. Glorious issue! Out of confusion and chaos and manifold change will come order and stability at last. "Say ye to the daughter of Sion, Behold thy King cometh unto thee"; and, "He shall put down all rule, and all authority and power." "And when all things shall be subdued unto Him, then shall the Son also Himself be subject unto Him that put all things under Him, that God may be all in all."

"Watchman, what of the night? Watchman, what of the night? The watchman said, The morning cometh, and also the night." Yes: the morning cometh and also the night! The morning cometh, to all that is right and true, and holy; and the night—everlasting night—cometh to all that is wrong and false and unholy. His enemies shall become his footstool. "The lawless one...the Lord Jesus shall slay with the breath of his mouth, and bring to nought by the manifestation of his coming" (2 Thess. ii. 8).

Nottingham.

"The Weapons of our Warfare."

"When thou wast little in thine own eyes I exalted thee; but —" was said to one who had been exalted by God to reign. But he had become proud and self-reliant, and lost his kingdom. He had forgotten the sad result of Abraham going "down to Egypt." And so, a young man who had learned to slay lions, bears, and a giant, "in the name of the Lord," replaced him in his kingship.

All through the ages the warning came to the people of God, "Vain is the help of man. Wait thou only on God." But the people of God heeded not, and had to go captive to Babylon. Jeremiah's message, "Cursed is the man that maketh flesh his arm," was unheeded, till those who were called to be "a kingdom of priests" unto God, became only a remnant subject to the Roman Empire. Then came the Deliverer, as a babe laid in the manger of the village inn—despised and rejected of men, who "took on Him the form of a servant, and became obedient to death, even the death of the cross." But God exalted Him, and gave Him "the name which is above every name"; and his Church, which He left as his representative here on earth, could say with the Apostle, "the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty, through God, to the pulling down of strongholds." So that in three centuries of lowliness and suffering it had overcome the Pagan hate of the Roman Empire, and had an Emperor among its disciples.

Then, alas! came the decay. Again the Church went "down to Egypt" to get the help of Imperial favour—sought human influence instead of Divine power. The rival factions in the Church sought not deliverance from God, but struggled and even intrigued to get Imperial patronage; and the Bride of Christ was soon transformed into a worldly Christendom, rich in worldly influence, but shorn of spiritual power.

At intervals God has afresh shown his grace, and used "the weak things of the world, and the things which are despised, that no flesh should glory in his presence," and little persecuted companies in Reformation times, and in the Revival in the last century—and in some measure in this—have been evidences that He is "still the same." But those who have been on the watch-tower have seen with alarm the increasing tendency again to go "down to Egypt." And whereas in the fourth century the Church made unholy alliance with the Empire, so in this age the Churches have sought the patronage of "the people," in order to help (?) the cause of God.

About four years ago I was at a so-called Gospel Temperance meeting, where one of the orators, after enumerating various worldly helps, wound up with saying, "And, best of all, we have got the House of Commons." God's name was never mentioned in that speech. The orator's mouth was soon closed by an open backsliding, and he has passed away. Another speaker at that meeting recently said, at a great temperance demonstration, "This Bill (Local Veto) has in itself the prophecy of success, for it is essentially a democratic measure." I could only pray that God would destroy the false props which were being relied on, and leading people by tens of thousands away from God.

Another servant of God, a member of the late Parliament, seeing with dismay the growth of Romanism, told me he was going to work for Disestablishment, i.e., ask ungodly people to help God's people to check spiritual evil by carnal weapons, forgetting that "the weapons of our warfare are not carnal."

The General Election, which will be looked on as an answer to prayer by Christians in Ireland, will be looked on by many in this country as a check to the temperance cause. I think, on reflection, it will be seen as a most blessed message to God's own dear people to come back to "their Resting-Place." There has been the cursed thing "the flesh" grasped at by God's people; but, as of old, we may look that "the Valley of Achor" should be a "door of hope"; and the shattering of any hopes from "the people" will be the occasion when "the God of peace, who brought again from the dead the Lord Jesus, the Great Shepherd of the sheep," shall "make us perfect in every good work, working in us that which is well pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory and honour now and for ever."—Yours, for Christ's sake, Radstock.

TRUST.

I leave my burdens and my cares
In God's almighty hand;
I leave the answers to my pray'rs
To wait his own command;
I trust Him on thro' sun and shade,
I trust, and I am not afraid.

Tho' oft my sins as mountains rise,
And far from Him I stray;
His mercy reaches to the skies—
His love can ne'er decay;
I trust Him on thro' sun and shade,
I trust, and I am not afraid.

Tho' clouds obscure my path below,
And ev'ry friend be gone,
My Saviour's constant love I know,
He is th' unchanging One;
I trust Him on thro' sun and shade,
I trust, and I am not afraid.

When Satan flings his fiery spear,
Or aims the subtle dart,
To fill my soul with paltry fear,
Or wound my wav'ring heart;
I trust Him on through sun and shade,
I trust and I am not afraid.

I trust, and trusting, sweet my rest!
For now I grieve no more;
His peace is mine—his comfort blest,
And all my strife is o'er.
Then come the sun or come the shade,
I trust, and I am not afraid.

John Wilfrid McClure.

"LET US DRAW NEAR."

BIBLE-READING AT MILDMAY CONFERENCE.

By Rev. ANDREW MURRAY.

Reading Hebrews x. 19 to the first few words of verse 22, the speaker showed that this invitation to draw near to God applies exclusively to believers in Christ. It implies that some do not live so near to God as they might. A child may be a dear child, and yet far away from the father. It implies far more than drawing near in prayer, it covers the whole life, and is an abiding nearness. It is the gift of our High Priest. Having been brought nigh by the blood of Christ, let us live continually in nearness to God. God wishes me to live every day and all the day in his holy presence.

Even a converted man may think of God's presence as a thing for times and seasons; but according to the teaching of the epistles, the man who goes on unto perfection accepts the abiding presence of his God always. Do not say that business or duty make this impossible. It is something of which God Himself will take care. The sun shines without any anxious effort on your part or mine; and God alone can secure you continuous spiritual light. Feebleness against sin, weakness in work, difficulties of life, all depart in his presence. Jesus is the doorkeeper, the minister of the sanctuary, who will bring you in and teach you how to live always well-pleasing unto God.

Let us examine the arguments which, for our encouragement, precede this gracious command. We have "boldness to enter into the holiest." We know what "the holiest" was in the Tabernacle of old. In the front compartment the priests walked in and out continually in the service of God. The second or hinder compartment was separated from the other by a thick veil. There God dwelt, and no man might enter or look in on pain of death. Once a year, for a few minutes, the high priest might enter. After many years, that dividing veil, then used in the Temple, was rent in twain; for Christ's death gave access into God's presence. We are called to enter in through the veil, not at our death, but now, by communion with our living High Priest. God longs for us, his children, to dwell in his love, in perfect fellowship with Himself. If there are any whose hearts tell them that they have not found this most intimate union, this daily experience of the presence of God from morning to night, to them is the message, "Let us draw near."

There is a thought running through many a heart that, with a sinful nature, it is impossible to dwell continuously in the holiest; but we have boldness to enter "by the blood of Jesus." Though we may fail to appreciate the efficacy of that blood, God honours it in his presence. It is beyond the power of angels to tell the work which that blood is doing on our behalf. The unclean man who was sprinkled with the blood of a heifer honoured that blood by returning boldly to the company of his fellows and to the presence of his God. If he honoured the blood of an animal in that way, what honour should we not give to the blood of the Son of God! Sprinkled with that blood, no sense of sinfulness should spoil our confidence toward God. I honour that blood in believing that it can bring me nigh and keep me nigh unto God. Shall we not say in the midst of all our difficulties, I cannot understand or explain all, but I can trust the infinite power of the blood of the Lamb? That blood can bring us not only into the presence of God once and again, but it is the blood of a sacrifice shed once for all and for ever; and in its everlasting power, it can keep you ever abiding in God's presence.

What is "the new and living way"? It is the way of the cross, the way of death, wherein God condemned sin in the flesh. The flesh was the veil that separated Christ from God. He had dwelt with God, but He came outside the veil; and the flesh rendered his life one of temptation, trial, prayer, and faith. He gave his flesh to be rent and broken on Calvary, thus opening up a new way. In the beginning of Hebrews x., we see the old way by sacrifices, but Christ came, and in doing the will of God, opened a new and living way. There are many who think much of the blood and the title it gives them to enter the holiest; but they do not understand that, if Christ is the way, they must live as He lived. Nearness to God is not a thing of locality, but of spiritual disposition. It is as I give up my will and my life in self-sacrifice, after the manner of Christ, that I draw near unto God. It is to be feared that there is a great deal of comfortable Christianity which seeks to be comforted, soothed, and made happy, but which is not the Christianity of Christ. It means that you give your life a sacrifice to God every hour of the day. "Let a man deny himself, take up his cross, and follow Me." Ah! there are Christians who shun the path of self-denial. I dare not say how a man should sacrifice himself; but I venture to say that every true believer will often exclaim, "Oh! God, what wouldst Thou have me sacrifice more and more for Thee?" The way of death is unto life, the way of obedience is unto glory, and the way of humiliation is unto the highest exaltation. Is this a hard saying? Here is a precious message for human weakness: the new way is a living one. When a poor helpless sinner who cannot move a foot casts himself upon the promises of God to become conformable to Jesus, gives up his heart and will to walk in the self-sacrifice of Jesus, then the Spirit takes him up and helps him forward. Jesus did not walk in that way, and leave me behind, to seek, in my own strength, to walk like Him; but He sends the Holy Spirit, by whom He walked in that new way, and the Spirit will strengthen me for it. If we surrender ourselves to Him, the Spirit of God will be our strength and joy.

Lastly, we have a High Priest over the House of God; that is, the living presence of a living Redeemer. Ah! many have Jesus as Saviour and Friend; but, oh, so little enjoyment therein. We have a living High Priest in Jesus. How can I have Jesus? In no other way than in the heart. I cannot have Him in hand, in mind, or in thought. Thought has no capacity for receiving a spiritual reality. Would I could reach the ear of every believer, to tell them that it is with the heart that we receive Him. I have the almighty great High Priest over the house of God, the loving, sympathizing Jesus; not in part, but the whole, undivided, almighty Being. He wills to bring us into the light of the presence of God. Though it cost Him the agony of Gethsemane and the death on Calvary, He went to the very uttermost that He might open up the way for me. He is mine to take me into the presence of the Father, and to keep me there.

What is to be the fruit of our meditation on the priesthood of Jesus Christ? Should it not be that, from to-day we live nearer to God, being more full of the joy of his presence? Should we not honour the blood of Christ as never before, which brings us into the inner sanctuary? Should we not from to-day give ourselves up to the new and living way of self-sacrifice in the power of the Holy Ghost? The High Priest does his work by dwelling in the heart. Let us open our hearts wide to Him. We have gazed upon his work from Calvary to the throne in glory, from the throne into our hearts, from our hearts to the presence of God into which He brings us. Let every heart now say, "Jesus, Minister of the Sanctuary, High Priest and King, I have Thee and Thou hast me, and we part not for evermore. I am linked to Thee by the power of thy blood and righteousness." And, having Jesus, let us draw near.

PROPHETICAL STUDENTS OF THE HISTORICAL SCHOOL.

It has for some time been felt by prophetical historicists, that views held by some of the most eminent students of prophecy, both before and since the Reformation, are not so much in evidence at the present time as their vast interest to the Church of God demands. It was determined therefore that a meeting of friends holding these views should be held; and Dr. Grattan Guinness having kindly thrown open Harley House, Bow, for the occasion, a number of ministers and laymen assembled there on Thursday last. Letters expressing their sympathy were read from many who were unable to be present; and as a result of the gathering, an association was formed with an executive committee, for the purpose of making arrangements for conferences and meetings in various centres in the coming autumn and winter season; also for publications having for their aim the enlightenment of the Christian public in prophetical subjects in connection with the second coming of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Alfred Porcelly Lt.-Col. R.E.

The Evangelist.

FROM IRON BARS TO GOLDEN GATES.

"I have been twenty-two years at sea," said a strong-looking navy man, "and in that time I have seen many ups and downs; but the worst downs have always been through drink. I had a good home, but I left it. Hearing of the Egyptian campaign, I volunteered, thinking I would then be killed, and so end my life. The drink crave was so strong, I would do anything to get it."

This brought him to Winchester jail. He had put on another man's clothes, in which to go out. The fraud was detected, he was arrested, and sent to prison. "In a few weeks I should have had a pension of two shillings a day for life," he continued, "but it is lost."

Within the iron bars, he began to read his long-neglected Bible. One day, while using a needle, he pricked his finger, and the sight of his own blood led him to think—was he ready to die? He read more, and the impression was deepened by the Holy Spirit. As the time drew near for his release, the ladies at the Soldiers' Home heard of him through the kindness of the Honourable Miss E. Waldegrave, and arranged to have him met and brought to the hall. To his astonishment there was a good breakfast ready for him.

Miss Perks was delighted at his surprise. He had a few shillings, and after they were spent he did not know what he should do. "We have quite upset your plans," they said cheerfully, "hav'n't we?"

It was arranged that he should lodge with one of the workers, who had himself been down through drink, but had been brought up by the grace of God and the instrumentality of the "Home."

"I shall test him," said this friend, "and find out if he is worth helping." "What shall you do?" asked the ladies.

"There is a lot of wood in our yard that wants chopping. I shall lay the hatchet handy, say nothing, and see how he acts. If he sets to work he's worth our trouble; if he does not I don't think much of him."

To the delight of all, the wood was chopped before the others were up, and in true sailor fashion, the place was also cleaned and the fire lighted.

Just before this the sailors from Miss Child's "Welcome Home," Ratcliff Highway, London, had been holding meetings at the "Soldiers' Home," Winchester, and when the question arose as to what could be done for this rescued one, the answer was, "Ask Miss Child to find him a berth with a Christian captain." This was done, and thus the man was helped by these united efforts. Strange to say, the name of the ship in which he sailed was The Golden Gate, typical of the gates of hope opening before him once more, and of the brighter heavenly gates beyond.

Just before he left, in giving a public testimony for Christ, he touchingly alluded to his mother. "For three years she lay in bed with cancer. The last time I was with her was Christmas. I carried her upstairs, and she did not come down again till carried down in her coffin. She died while I was in Egypt; but when I came home, they told me just before her death she straightened herself and called my name three times. I thought, if I could only have seen her; but God has forgiven me, and so has she."

His first letter to Miss Perks from Freemantle, Western Australia, tells of a broken leg, but whole heart. He writes:—"God has spared me to reach my journey's end in safety; Jesus was with us all the way. I thank God that I still believe in Jesus as our Saviour that made the lame to walk and the blind to see. With a Christian captain, Jesus for our pilot, and the good old Bible for the chart, we are all right."

The Mohammedan graves are numerous around the "Golden Gate" of Jerusalem, for at his return they think the prophet is to enter by that gate and those buried there are to be first raised. Happy are they, who have buried their old self, like our friend at the true Golden Gate of John iii. 16. God is no respecter of persons; what He did for this sailor He can do, my friend, for you.

William Luff.

[725]

Almost Gone.

1 Sam. xxi. Psalm lvi.

By REV. F. B. MEYER.

It is not easy to walk with God. The air that beats around the Himalaya heights of Divine fellowship is rare, and hard to breathe: human feet tire after a little; and faith, hard put to it, is inclined to give up the effort of keeping step with the Divine pace. So David found it, and there came in his experience a terrible lapse, the steps and consequences of which, together with his recovery, must engage us for a space.

I.—THE STEPS OF DAVID'S DECLENSION.

The first sign of what was impending was his remark to Jonathan, that there was but a step between himself and death (1 Sam. xx. 3). Evidently his faith was beginning to falter, for nothing could have been more definite than the Divine assurances that he was to be king. He looked at God through the mist of circumstances, which certainly to the eye of sense was sufficiently threatening, instead of looking at circumstances through the golden haze of God's very-present help. The winds and waves were more daunting than the promise of God was inspiring. The javelin of Saul intercepted the remembrance of the hour, now rapidly receding into the distance, when he had received the anointing oil at the hand of Samuel. The Apostle John says, that it is not enough to receive the anointing once, it must abide on us: and this was characteristic of our Lord, that the baptism saw the Spirit descending, and abiding upon Him. But perchance David relied too absolutely on what he had received, and neglected the daily renewal of the heavenly unction (John i. 33, 34; 1 John iii. 24).

Next, he adopted a subterfuge, which was not worthy of him, nor of his great and mighty Friend. This was a further descent from the high place of heavenly fellowship and testimony. God is light, and light is truth, and those who walk with Him must put off the works of darkness, and put on the armour of light, walking as children of the day.

Late in the afternoon of the day preceding the weekly Sabbath, the king's son-in-law arrived, with a mere handful of followers at the little town of Nob, situated among the hills about five miles to the south of Gibeah. It was a peaceful secluded spot, apart from the highways of commerce and war, as became the character and calling of its inhabitants, who were engaged in the service of the sanctuary. Four score and six persons that wore the linen ephod dwelt there with their wives, their children and sucklings, their oxen, asses, and sheep. Into the tranquil course of existence in that holy and retired spot hardly a ripple came from the storms that swept the outer world. There was at least no provision made to repel invading footsteps, for no weapon was found there but the sword of Goliath, deposited years before as a trophy by the youthful champion. Probably the great annual convocations had fallen into disuse, and the path to the simple sanctuary was only trodden by occasional visitors who came to pay their vows, or be cleansed from ceremonial pollution, as Doeg. There was, evidently, no attempt made to prepare for large numbers; the hard fare of the priests only just sufficed for them, and the presence of two or three additional strangers completely overbalanced the slender supply; there were not five loaves of common bread to spare.

It was necessary to answer the questions, and allay the suspicions of the priest; and David did this by pleading the urgency of the mission on which his royal master had sent him. He led Ahimelech to suppose that his young attendants and himself had been at least three days on this expedition, that the king had specially insisted on privacy and secrecy, and that a large escort awaited him at a distance. But a chill struck to his heart whilst making these excuses to the simple-minded priest, and enlisting his willing co-operation in the matter of provisions and arms, as he saw the dark visage of Doeg, the Edomite, "the chiefest of the herdsmen that belonged to Saul." He knew that the whole story would be mercilessly retailed to the vindictive and vengeful monarch. Uneasiness for his unsuspecting host, fear for himself, filled his heart, and as soon as the Sabbath was over, he left the spot, and with all haste struck across the hills in a south-westerly direction until he cut the deep depression of the valley of Elah, where he had achieved the great victory of his life. Its aspect was strangely altered, its only tenants then being the wild things of earth and sky. Ten miles beyond, lay the proud Philistine city of Gath, which at that time had sent its champion forth in all the pride of his stature and strength. Behind, David had left an implacable foe. What worse fate could await him at Gath, than that which threatened him each hour he lingered within the limits of Judah! He therefore resolved to make the plunge, probably hoping that the shepherd lad of years ago would not be recognised in the mature warrior, or that the Philistines would be glad to have his aid in their wars against his countrymen.

Not a little to his dismay, and perhaps on account of Goliath's sword hanging at his belt, he was instantly recognised, and the servants of Achish recalled the refrain, which had already awoke the jealousy of Saul. He was instantly regarded with hatred, as having slain his ten thousands. His hands had been embrued in Philistine blood, his fortunes reared from the dust, at the expense of bereaved hearts and homes throughout the Philistine territory. Here, however, was an easy opportunity of avenging all. By some means David became aware of the evil impression at court, and saw the immense peril in which he stood of imprisonment or execution. He saved himself by descending to the unworthy subterfuge of counterfeiting the behaviour of a madman, drumming on the leaves of the city gate, and allowing his spittle to fall down upon his beard. His device succeeded, and Achish dismissed him with the humorous remark to his servants that he had already madmen enough around him, and had no need of another. This certainly was one of the least dignified episodes in David's varied life, very unworthy of God's anointed, and the shame was that there would have been no need for it, if he had not departed through unbelief from the living God.

II.—THE PSALM OF THE SILENT DOVE.

At first sight we are startled with the apparently irreconcilable discrepancy between the scenes we have just described and the 56th Psalm, the inscription of which associates it with them. But there is no reason to doubt the accuracy of that ancient note, which is probably due to David's hand, and is at least as old as the first arrangement of the Psalter, in the days of Solomon.

Closer inspection will reveal many resemblances between the singer's circumstances and his touching words; and we are reminded that beneath much which is unworthy and contemptible there may burn a true devotion, an eager yearning after God, a soul of good amid things evil. The cursory spectator would not have supposed that this dissembling madman was meditating thoughts which were to express for all generations the most implicit faith, the serenest trust. But so it was.

The major part of this exquisite psalm consists of two stanzas, which culminate in the same refrain; the remainder is full of hope and praise, and expression of the joy with which the Psalmist anticipates walking before God in the light of life.

First Stanza (1-4).—He turns to God from man; to the Divine mercy from the serried ranks of his foes, who threaten to engulf and swallow him up, surging around him; he counts himself as a lonely dove far from its native woods; his heart trembles and misgives, amid the many that fight proudly against him; yet he contrasts fear with faith, arguing with himself as to the baselessness of his dread, and contrasting man's fleshy might with God's supreme power. Thus he climbs up out of the weltering waves, his feet on a rock, a new song in his mouth, the burden of which is, "I will not be afraid." Oh happy soul, who hast learnt to take thy stand on God as thy Rock and Fortress!

Second Stanza.—Again, he is in the depths. The returning wave has sucked him back. His boast changed to a moan, his challenge to complaint. Never a moment of intermission from the wresting of his words; not a glint of respite from the hostility of their thoughts; not a step which is not watched by the scrutiny of those who lie in wait for his soul. He wanders fitfully from shelter to shelter, his tears fall thick and fast, his enemies are numerous as the hairs of his head. Ah soul! is this thy voice which but a moment ago was resonant with praise? Alas! for thee! Yet as we condole, we hear the voice of faith again ringing out the positive assurance, "I know that God is for me," and again the old refrain comes back:

> In God will I praise his word,
> In the Lord will I praise his word;
> In God have I put my trust,
> I will not be afraid,
> What can man do unto me?

Third Stanza.—There is no further relapse. His heart is fixed trusting the Lord; the vows of God are upon his head. He looks back upon the dark abyss into which his soul had well nigh gone, and knows that he is delivered from it for ever. As the morning breaks he sees the mark of his footprints to the edge of the precipice, and recognises the Divine power and grace which has delivered his feet from falling. And now, as once again he regains the sunny uplands, which he had so shamefully renounced in his flight from Gibal to Nob, from Nob to Gath, from Gath to feigned insanity, he is sure that henceforth he will walk before God in the light of life. Truth, purity, joy, shall be the vesture of his soul.

In the extreme anguish of those hours at Gath, when he thought that the torch of his life would go out in the dark waters of Philistine hatred, the backslider had returned to God, had caught the rope by which to spring from the abyss into the light, and once again sat, as a child at home, anointed with oil, with a table spread before him in the presence of his enemies.

III.—THE CONSEQUENCES TO AHIMELECH.

A child of God may be forgiven and restored, yet the consequences of his sin may involve sufferings to many innocent lives. So it was in this instance. It happened shortly after, when Saul was sitting under the tamarisk tree in Ramah with his spear in his hand, and his servants around him, and after he had been endeavouring to excite sympathy by enumerating the supposed wrongs he had suffered at the hand of David, Doeg took the opportunity of ingratiating himself in the royal favour, by narrating what he had seen at Nob. He carefully withheld the unsuspecting innocence and ignorance of the priest, and so told the tale as to make it appear that he and his house were accomplices with David's action, and perhaps hoping for David to gain supreme power. It was in vain that Ahimelech protested his innocence, enumerated David's services, referred to the many occasions on which David had sought his help, persisted in the avowal of his unconsciousness of the quarrel between Saul and his son-in-law—before night fell the white vesture of the priests was soaked with their blood, and every living thing in the little mountain town was smitten with the edge of the sword. By one ruthless act, the entire priestly community was exterminated.

There was but one survivor, for Abiathar escaped, carrying the ephod in his hands, and one day, to his horror, David beheld the dishevelled, blood-besmeared form of the priest, as he sped breathless and panic-stricken up the valley of Elah, to find shelter with the outlaw band in the Cave of Adullam. We shall hear of him again.

Meanwhile, let children of God beware! Sin is bitter to the conscience of the sinner, and in its consequences upon others. Let us walk circumspectly, watchfully, prayerfully, exercising our consciences repeatedly to see if there be any swerving from the path of strict integrity, lest seeds be scattered beyond recovery, to bear bitter harvests in the lives of those who, through their mysterious union with ourselves, are inextricably involved in the consequences of our deeds.

LIVINGSTONIA.

In a letter to Mr. J. C. Smith, of Newport-on-Tay, who conducts the Soul-Winning and Prayer Union, Dr. Kerr Cross, of the Livingstonia Mission in British Central Africa, writes:—

The teacher evangelist I have set apart for you is named Robert Simeon. He belongs to Karonga, and is a pure Wankonde, the people I work among, and whose language I speak. He conducts a school every morning of over seventy young people, and spends his afternoons with me translating the Gospels into the language of his own tribe. We have almost completed the four Gospels, and have done a little to the book of Genesis. Simeon is mentally very superior, and loves and follows Jesus. He is one of the first fruits of this large and wealthy tribe.

I am overjoyed in being able to tell you that God is blessing our work. I have four lads under special training for baptism, and I know of many others who have not yet had the courage to ask for this outward mark of a follower of Jesus. Our Sabbath meetings within the last year have been very encouraging; in fact, the meetings are too big. You have to know Africa to understand how natives can crowd at a meeting. Only the Sabbath before last during my address I trod twice on fingers or toes of little ones who were packed away under the table at which I spoke.

Prophetic Conference, Keswick.

From Tuesday to Friday last week, inclusive, the new pavilion at Keswick was the scene of a gathering mainly for study of the prophetic Scripture. It was one of the series held in different parts of the country during the last eighteen months, convened by Mr. H. D. Brandreth, of Hoylake. The three main "planks" in the platform held by the promoters, as our readers will recollect, are, the plenary inspiration of the Bible, the place of Israel in God's redemptive plan, and the futurist interpretation of the chief prophetic writings. Mr. James Mathieson acted as chairman throughout the Conference, and at each session gave an exposition of some selected passage. The following brethren gave addresses on one or other or all of the three topics: — Dr. Robert Anderson, Dr. Bullinger, Rev. J. Wilkinson, Rev. Jas. Smith (Dufftown), Pastor F. E. Marsh, and Dr. Neatby. The two brethren from America, Pastors D. M. Stearns and George C. Needham, who had been holding Bible-classes the two preceding weeks, also spoke at the Conference, though they do not identify themselves with any special school of prophetic interpretation. The Bible readings given by these two visitors were greatly appreciated for their helpful suggestion, and for the fresh light thrown on many important points of prophetic teaching. By common consent there was in all addresses a commendable absence of controversial matter; the great desire seemed to be to exalt God's revelation, and to emphasise the fact of Christ's promised return as a powerful incentive to holy living and earnest missionary effort at home and abroad.

It is neither possible nor necessary to give in these columns a detailed report of the utterances at the Conference. But some notes of the closing meeting on Friday evening will serve as a sample. Three addresses were given, and all aimed at uplifting Him who is the great Theme and Centre of prophecy, rather than at any elaboration of events that must precede or accompany his Second Advent. This did not appear to be so much a matter of mutual arrangement with the speakers as an instinctive feeling that the Lord Jesus Christ, in his glorious Person and character, should be the last subject for spiritual reflection.

The first to address the meeting was Rev. James Smith, who found in the story of King David's exile and the faithfulness of his followers, a fitting picture of the allegiance that Christians owe to David's greater Son in this period of his rejection by the world. Jesus Christ Himself is the great unifier of his visible Church; and the more the sections of that Church are occupied in heart and purpose with Him the more will they be one in work and in fellowship. Then Dr. Robert Anderson followed up the same thought in a still more condensed form by a strong address on the words, "That in all things He might have the pre-eminence." The expression, "The Lord Jesus Christ," said the speaker, may be a somewhat long one to use whenever we refer to our Saviour and Lord, but there is a tremendous loss if we leave out the first words. No unconverted man was ever yet heard to use the full phrase; the idea of the Lordship of Christ is outside his comprehension or desire. How different it is or ought to be with the humble, adoring believer! Dr. Anderson expressed the conviction that a more or less veiled Unitarianism is eating out the heart of our Christian work, and even our conferences and our revival endeavours. Let us exalt Him as Lord in our hearts, not merely on Sundays or at meetings, but in business and in the home. Do not let our Christianity be separated from our life. Let us remember, too, that the Lordship of Christ is the secret of all success in spiritual attainment. It is not a struggle to become something that we are not, or attain to something that we are not; it is simply by faith to enter into what God has given to us and has made us in Christ. Our attitude should be, not "Look at us," but 'To Him be the glory for ever and ever." A delightful, simple little talk by Dr. Neatby on Paul's words, "Christ Jesus, my Lord," brought the Conference proper to a close.

Two missionary meetings were held on Saturday. That in the morning was addressed by Pastor Lecoat, of Brittany, Rev. James Wall, of Rome, and Mr. and Mrs. Fenn, of Madrid, all of whom spoke very impressively on the spiritual needs of the Continent. At the afternoon gathering there were heard the voices of several workers from more distant and heathen fields.

The Neglected Continent.

SKETCHES OF MISSIONARY TRAVEL.

By MRS. HARRIET L. MILNE.

(Continued from last issue.)

Next day we saw something of Santiago. It was Good Friday, and as is the custom in Roman Catholic countries all wore mourning and all went to church. The ladies here wear the manta, which seems peculiar to all of this coast. It is a black shawl or wide scarf, worn over the head, drawn rather tight round the neck, the long end thrown over the left shoulder and secured with a pin. The wealthy class have them of very fine material, embroidered with silk, and trimmed with lace. They cover them all over except a few inches of the skirt of the dress. In the morning we went to the Cathedral, which was crowded. The ladies were mostly kneeling or squatting in the naves, and among the standing audience we noticed a larger proportion of gentlemen than are usually seen in the churches of Argentina. The pulpit was occupied by a very young-looking priest. He read from a book and repeated quite a dozen times, "Most holy Mary, queen of grace, pray for us," and then "Jesus mine, I give to Thee my heart," the people responding every time.

There is a mission church (English) in Santiago where they have Anglican and Presbyterian services alternately. In the same church they have Spanish service in the evening as well as at two other places. We also attended the Spanish prayer meeting, which was followed by a very interesting Christian Endeavour service, also in Spanish.

The Santiago College, where we were kindly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. La Fetra, is a first-class educational establishment, and a power for good and for the Gospel. The building, which last year accommodated 256 pupils, and embraces printing and bookbinding operations, is the property of the M.E. Mission, and supports Evangelical work in different points in Chili.

Three and a-half hours' railway ride brought us to Valparaiso. I was sorry the railway journey, both to and from Santiago, had to be made after dark. In Valparaiso Spanish work is carried on under the auspices of the American Presbyterian Church, and at the South American Conference held at Buenos Ayres in March last, it was decided to reopen work there. There is also the Valparaiso Bible Society—supported by both the great Bible societies of England and America, with its staff of Bible colporteurs working throughout Chile.

COASTING TO CALLAO.

On Wednesday, April 17, we took steamer for Callao. The voyage took ten days, stopping at some port every day, and some days at two. We were accompanied by Señor Vidaure, who at last conference was transferred to Iquique. At Antofagasta we were visited by Señor Bentelspachar, who has charge of Spanish work there. He spoke encouragingly of his work, and said the membership was increasing. At Tocapilla, Señor Vidaure went on shore and preached in the house of Mr. Fraser, a Christian merchant from Glasgow.

On the 22nd we reached Iquique, where we went on shore. Here, as well as at several ports both above and below, there is not a speck of vegetation to be seen, on account of the drought and the saltness of the soil. All the water is brought from a great distance in the interior. Iquique is the chief nitrate port, and has a population of twenty to thirty thousand. There is a fine college there belonging to the same mission as that at Santiago. It is under the able direction of Mr. Wynans, with a staff of American missionaries, and, like that, also supports Evangelical work at different places. Mr. Milne remained a week there, and among other friends met Mr. Ridings, superintendent engineer of the Nitrate Railway, who showed him very great kindness. He visited the nitrate works, and held two services in Spanish, and was surprised and delighted to find such deep interest in spiritual things among the natives.

The next two places we stopped at north of Iquique were solely nitrate ports. The bare brown hills rise very steep from the water's edge to a height of about 3000 feet. The nitrate is brought down over a double railway line. The line is divided into three sections, each of which is worked by a separate stationary engine, so that sometimes we could see three pairs of wagons plying up and down at the same time. At the next port, Piragua, there is a small town. The hills are not so steep, and a regular railway brings the nitrate over long zigzags to the port.

Arica, the next little town, is interspersed with trees, and looks somewhat picturesque. It has been destroyed both by earthquake and tidal wave, and is less prosperous than formerly. The valley does not look very fertile, but they brought on board some fine figs and bananas, and it is said to produce excellent oranges. There is a beautiful bay, but there were no vessels there.

The next port is Mollendo. It is a small place. There is hardly any vegetation, and the background is the same bare brown mountain range we have seen all along the coast. It has its importance from being the seaport of Arequipa, and has a railway as far into the interior as Puno, on Lake Titicaca, and in prospect to Cusco, the ancient capital of the Incas.

On Saturday, April 27, we touched at Pisco, by far the prettiest place we have seen, green down to the water's edge; mountains in the distance faintly seen through the haze. The valley is said to be one of the finest in Peru. The grapes are large and luscious. They also brought on board chirimoyas and granadillas—the fruit of the passion vine—and other tropical fruits all new to me. We took on board currants, raisins, and figs, also wine and brandy, and left wheat and potatoes. On the 28th I reached Callao, and Mr. Milne a week later, and were warmly welcomed by the family of Dr. Wood, our tried friend and fellow-labourer of the Argentine, who has been here since 1891.

RELEASING THE BIBLES.

On Monday, May 6, Dr. Wood and Mr. Milne went to Lima to initiate proceedings for the liberation of the books which had been detained in the Custom House here for over eighteen months. I cannot give you all the particulars of the transaction. Mr. Milne is making an effort to get the documents into his hand for copying, which he may afterwards publish. Suffice to say that after two weeks' daily visits to Lima (and often they went twice a day) during which time they had over forty interviews with officials and others, they succeeded in getting an order to the Administrator of the Custom House to deliver up the books, which are now in the Bible depôt waiting distribution.

We would that Christians everywhere should unite with us in praise and thanksgiving, and in the prayer that our Master has put into our mouth and heart, "Send forth labourers." Our only revenge would be in the prayer that every copy of these books might be a blessing to the readers.

During this transaction some things came to light which may be of interest. There is a society called the "Catholic Union of the Ladies of Lima," organised by Monsieur Macchi, the Pope's Legate. The annual report of this association was read before the general assembly May 15, 1894, by the Bishop of Lorea, and published in the Revista Catolica, the Roman Catholic organ of Lima. A paragraph under the heading of "Works of piety and propagation" reads as follows:—"The Catholic Union has also occupied itself with another class of works which set forth the fecundity of its zeal and ardent piety. On learning that there was about to be despatched from the Custom House an endless number of Protestant Bibles free of import duties" [no books pay import duties save very handsomely bound mass books] "it took steps, made great efforts, and even resorted to personal influence to prevent it." How far they succeeded may be gathered from the fact that when Mr. Milne was in the custom house he overheard a clerk refer to the books as "these books which had been detained at the instance of the archbishop." The report goes on to say, "Also it contributed fifteen shillings for the printing of pamphlets in defence of the priest of Bambamarca." This priest was brought to Callao about six months ago, and was condemned to twelve years' imprisonment for having burnt a woman for witchcraft.

I send you with this a little paper, The Land of the Incas, published by the Harley House young men. We see them often. Miss Wise, who came out to marry Mr. Stark, spent her necessary waiting time here under Dr. Wood's hospitable roof, so we have learned to know and love and welcome her to her new and needy field of labour. We had the pleasure of being present at the wedding. They have gone among the mountains for a short honeymoon, and on their return Messrs. Jarrett and Peters will start for Cusco. In another letter I will try to tell you something of the work here.

Callao, Peru. June 11.

OUR DAILY HOMILY.

SUNDAY, JULY 28.

"Noah was just...perfect...walked with God." Gen. vi. 9.

The eyes of God went to and fro over the ancient world, where sin reigned unchecked, to discover one grateful spectacle. Thus the eyes of the voyager, weary with the monotonous waste of waters, seek for some solid object on which to rest, be it ship, or raft, or islet. But they were doomed to disappointment, till they lighted on Noah. He found grace in the eyes of the Lord, because him only had God seen to be righteous in all his generation. Like Antipas, where Satan's seat was, he held fast the Divine name, and was God's faithful witness. Be thou loyal to God, my soul, though thou stand alone.

There are three characteristics in the man who finds grace in the eyes of the Lord.

In Himself, He is Just.—Not faultless, as judged by the white light of eternity, but blameless, so far as his own consciousness is concerned. He wears ever the white flower of a blameless life. His strength is as the strength of ten, because his heart is pure. He exercises himself to have always a conscience void of offence towards God and man. This condition is only possible to faith, that opens the door of the heart to receive the life of God. The just lives by faith. Wouldst thou be just, welcome that Just One. Let Him live within thee.

Towards Man, He is Upright.—He does not keep his eyes bowing down to the ground in shame, or furtively looking around to gain a secret advantage; he looks the whole world in the face. His eyes reflect the integrity and purity of his soul, they beam with sincerity, unselfishness, and love.

With Respect to God, He Abides in Perpetual Fellowship.—This were worth our getting, though we parted with all our jewels to win it. To be tuned into one deep harmony with the Divine nature, to answer to Him with one full responsive chord, to be always found where God is, and never where He is not—that were life indeed.

MONDAY, JULY 29.

"As God had commanded."—Gen. vii. 9.

This is the secret of a Holy and Blessed Life. Most of our sorrows and disappointments have come on us because we have chosen our own path, and done according to our own will. Of Noah it is repeatedly said, that he did as he was told (vi. 22; vii. 5, 9, 16).

In Obeying, we must sometimes Walk in the Dark.—When Noah began to walk with God, he knew not that it would lead him into collision with his generation, with the suggestions of commonsense and experience, and with much that he held dear as life. But walking on each day, he grew strong to trust in the bare word of his Almighty Guide; and grasped it as men in the catacombs will keep their hand on a tiny string or cord, until the first streak of daylight appear. Obey simply, absolutely; obey the voice that speaks in thy heart; the way is dark, but it is the way.

In Obeying, we must Learn to Wait.—For 120 years the long-suffering of God waited, and during that weary period this true heart failed not. Then for seven days the patriarch waited within the closed doors. It is not easy to bear the long strain of endurance. To rush into the battle, to do something desperate, to strike for liberty—this is the choice of the flesh; but to live in hourly fear, to toil on without result, to see the years stealing away the bank or shoal on which our heart had erected its structures of hope, this is the hardest lesson of all, unless our hope is anchored beyond life's ebb and swell.

In Obeying God, Others Obey us.—How came it that these creeping things and flying fowls, these living creatures, clean and unclean, entered the Ark, so tamely and submissively? Surely a divine constraint was upon them. When we are under authority, we can say "Go," "Come," "Do this." All things serve the man who serves the Divine Master, Christ.

TUESDAY, JULY 30.

"God remembered Noah."—Gen. viii. 1.

He cannot forget thee, though all hearts that loved thee are cold in death, and though floods of trouble surge and break around. He comes nearest when there is none else to intercept his love. The floods but bear us nearer to his heart, above the tops of the highest hills.

[723]

He could not Forget, because His Honour was Pledged.—There was a tacit understanding between Noah and Himself that if his servant obeyed his mandate He would be responsible for the consequence that obedience might involve. There is no need to make bargains with God, as Jacob did. It is better far simply to obey, sure that whatever the highest honour may demand God will be equal to it. He will have prepared more than we expected.

He Could not Forget, because He Rode the Waters with his Child.—He said, "Come thou into the Ark," evidently He was inside; and when it is said that God shut him in, it was from inside that the door was locked. Whatever happened to Noah was an experience for his Almighty Friend. They had walked together on the earth, they now shared together the seclusion of the Ark. God is identified in the experiences of his saints. Their pangs, and tears, and waiting-hours are his. He can no more forget, than a mother her sucking child whose hand is on her breast.

He could not Forget, because Noah was a Type of His Beloved Son.—Across the dark sea of death, the cross of Jesus has brought Him and his own: so that we now belong, not to the old world which is under the curse, but to the world of Resurrection-Life. The dark woes of Calvary were imaged there, how could God forget?

Reckon on God's faithfulness: He will not leave thy soul in Hades.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 31.

"My Bow in the Cloud."—Gen. ix. 13.

A covenant is a promise or undertaking, resting on certain conditions, with a sign or token attached to it. The rainbow on the raincloud, the Lord's Supper, the wedding-ring, are signs and seals of the respective covenants to which they belong. Whenever we see them we should bethink ourselves of the covenant. Never see a rainbow without recalling the covenant into which God has entered with thee; for as He has sworn that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth, so his kindness shall not depart from thee, nor the covenant of his peace be removed.

Three things are needed to make a rainbow.

1. A Cloud.—When man's sin overshadowed Paradise, the bow of promise shone; and when the thunder-clouds gathered about the Saviour's path, the Divine voice assured Him that as He had glorified the Divine Name by his life, He should much more by his death. When the black clouds of conviction, bereavement, soul-anguish beset thee, look out for the bow; it is always there, though sufferers do not always perceive it.

2. Rain.—There are no rainbows unless there be falling drops to catch and unravel the sunbeams. It may be that all evil is worse in its anticipation than in its endurance; but this is certain, that the big drops of sorrow have to patter on our souls before we can realise all that God is prepared to be to us.

3. Sunshine.—It is only when God comes into our grief that we can see the treasures of Love and Grace which are stored for us in Him. We never know what God can be till we suffer, for as the rain unravels light, so does trouble reveal God. And we never know how great a blessing sorrow may be till we carry it into the light of the King's face. It is the dark canvas on which the Artist produces his most marvellous effects.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 1.

"The Isles of the Gentiles."—Gen. x. 5.

Few realise the treasures that lie in this heap of names. This chapter is the key to ancient history and contains many of the names that lie on our modern maps. What teeming myriads are here! We learn three things.

The Oneness of the Human Race.—"God hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on the face of the earth." The slave that crouches in the African wood, the meanest outcast that creeps along in the dark, the veriest ruffian red-handed in crime, are bone of our bone, no less than the kings and saints, the prophets and martyrs.

The Wealth of our Saviour's Nature.—He loved all, He gave Himself for all, He became the Propitiation for the sins of all, through Him all will rise, and He is able to satisfy all from his royal heart. There is not one child of man who may not find his consummation and bliss in Jesus, the One Man. All men are but broken lights of Him; and of all men that have ever lived He is the one flawless, sinless, perfect man, the apex of the pyramid of humanity, the Head and Prince.

The Warrant for Foreign Missions.—If the races of mankind have sprung from a common stock, the experience of one is the key to all. Each may learn from his own heart to estimate the hopes and fears, the yearnings and temptations, the weariness and sin-consciousness of the rest. The Gospel which has brought thee blessing will do as much for each of those who bear, however obliterated, the print-mark of our race. "Go into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature."

FRIDAY, AUGUST 2.

"Let us go Down."—Gen. xi. 7.

God comes down into human life. Though the world is corrupt and full of violence, though his arch-enemy has taught man to dread and hate Him, though attempts are on foot to resist Him in open rebellion, by making a unity apart from Him, and in exclusion of his corner-stone, yet He comes down.

He comes down to See.—He will not pronounce judgment till He has satisfied Himself by personal inspection how things stand. He comes down to our bedrooms and overhears the words we speak, the deeds we do there; to our home-life and is a silent listener and observer of all its incidents; to our shops, warehouses, and bank-parlours, auditing our accounts, casting up the columns, examining our samples, our weights and measures, our advertisements and circulars. From Him no secrets are hid. All things are naked and opened to the eyes of Him with whom we have to do. There is a sense in which we are always standing before the judgment-seat of Christ and hearing his award of approval or blame.

He comes down to Punish.—The Master of the Vineyard, with his own hand, cuts down the unfruitful trees. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God. "Let me alone, that I may destroy." Never forget the punitive side of God's character. How easily He asserts his power. He can disorganise the memory, breathe on the brain, touch one small nerve or muscle, and the best concerted schemes fail. Why shouldst thou fear every day the fury of the oppressor, when God is at thy side.

He comes down to Save.—If there be one Lot, He will bring him forth. What was the Incarnation, the descent to Calvary and the grave, but the coming down of the "us" of the blessed Trinity. He that ascended is the same that also first descended. He has come where we lie weltering in blood, that He may heal our wounds, take us in his arms, and bear us with Him far beyond all principality and power. He has left the bridge of his work, by which we may pass from the confusion of Babel to the love of Pentecost, and the one speech of heaven.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 3.

"Get thee Out."—Gen. xii. 1.

Never did a corn of wheat more utterly fall into the ground to die. It seemed as though he were urgently needed in his country and among his kindred; but man's thoughts and ways are not God's. The blessing of Abraham's life could only come in the land of promise, and after he had died to the whole life of nature. To everyone who is to be richly blessed and made a blessing there is the inevitable command, "Get thee out. Be willing to die."

Get thee out of the Land of Idols.—Beyond the flood of the Euphrates, Terah and the rest served other gods. Had Abram remained there, he might have touched the unclean thing; hence God's desire to get him beyond the reach of infection, that he and his race might remain monotheistic. Hast thou had communion with darkness, with Belial, with idols? Get thee out and be separate; touch not the unclean thing. Be clean, thou who art to bear the vessels of the Lord. Reckon thyself to have died.

Get thee out in Loneliness.—"I called him alone, and increased him." If thou art unwilling to abide alone, thou must fall alone into the ground and die. God must reduce us to a minimum before He can work through us to the maximum. But there is no loneliness to the soul who is one with God. Alone against the world, it is still in a majority.

Get thee out in Faith.—"He went out, not knowing whither." It was what man calls a venture, but as he stepped out on what seemed a void, he found it rock beneath his feet. Day by day a track appeared across the desert, and all his needs were met till he reached the place of blessing. Death was the gate of life. Having died to Haran, he began to bring forth much fruit in every soil of the world.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSONS.

AUGUST 4.

THE REPORT OF THE SPIES.—Num. xiii. 17-20, 23-33.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Numbers xiv. 9.

Two melancholy chapters connect this with the former lesson, one telling of God's judgment upon the people for their lust after flesh (xi.), and the other of the sedition of Miriam and Aaron, and the subsequent leprosy of Miriam (xii).

The exploring expedition went forth from Kadesh Barnea in the wilderness of Paran (Deut. i. 19), which lay at the southern border of Palestine, and has been identified by Dr. Trumbull with the modern Ain Qadees. He describes it as "a hill-encircled plain, several miles wide, with shrubs, and flowers, and grass, and water, with abundant room for the encampment of Israel." It was separated from the promised land by a natural defence of hills, which the spies must cross in order to enter the southernmost part of Canaan.

The proposal to search the land originated with the people. Moses had said, "Go up and possess it" (Deut. i. 19-22). Their faith was not equal to this. Moses accepted their proposal as the next best thing to going forward in trust and obedience. It seemed a prudent course, yet it was the outcome of distrust. True faith follows God, and leaves all dangers and difficulties with Him.

They set out at "the time of the first-ripe grapes" (20), which was about August. As they were away forty days, it is probable that the cluster taken from Eshcol (23) was one of the second period, gathered in September. The rich valley of Eshcol, to the north of Hebron, is said to produce "the largest and best grapes in all Palestine, besides pomegranates, figs, apricots, quinces, and other fruits in abundance." One cluster of grapes has been known to weigh ten or twelve pounds. The arrangement for carrying this cluster (23) was not on account of its weight, but in order to preserve it from being bruised.

In the report they gave there were facts in which they all agreed. As to the richness and fertility of the land (26, 27) there could be no question. The fruit of it bore witness to that. But they were also agreed as to the strength and warlike character of the people, the high-walled cities, which seemed to defy their puny efforts to take them, and the children of Anak (28, 32, 33), whom they regarded as giants. "On the walls of Karnak are pictured representations of the attempts of the Egyptians to capture some of the walled cities of Canaan, which show that their conquest was no easy matter to the strongest empire in the then known world." The difficulties were very real, as are those which oppose our entrance into the rest and victory of faith, which is the antitype of Canaan. It is unwise to think only of the blessing of godliness without taking into account its difficulties. Jesus would have us count the cost (Luke xiv. 28-33).

The difference between the two spies (Caleb and Joshua), and the remaining ten, was that the two remembered God in their calculations, and the ten did not. The difficulties were as real to the two as to the ten, but the two placed the difficulties by the side of God, and said, "We be well able to overcome" (30, xiv. 6-9), the ten measured the difficulties against their own strength, and said, "We be not able" (31). There are the same two ways of looking at the Christian life. By all means recognise your own weakness, and say that of yourself you are helpless, but remember God. Are the giants and the high-walled cities too great for Him? How many are longing to eat the fruit of the goodly land, but are hindered through their distrust of God! (See Heb. iii. 19).

The whole multitude followed the ten, and not the two (xiv. 1-4; 10). They agreed with the majority, and were wrong. God's witnesses never have a majority in this world. The natural heart departs from the living God (Heb. iii. 12); and ten discouraged men can discourage a whole congregation, and keep them out of Canaan. Expect to be in a minority. God is not, as Napoleon said, with the strongest battalions. He is with a few who dare to take his side.

A practical lesson suggested by the incident is this:—All who are called Christians are spies, whose report is being taken by the world. What kind of witness do we bear? If you taste the grapes of a particular vine and find them sour you do not return for more. There are ways of misrepresenting Christianity before men. A perpetual complaining about the difficulties of the way; a constant exhibition of failure; what is this but bearing an evil report? How many have been hindered and discouraged by the want of joy and victory in us!

THE WESLEYAN TEMPERANCE REPORT from the Conference shows that there are 1326 adult temperance societies, with 75,410 members, and 3343 Bands of Hope, with a total membership of 434,725.

For the Young.

IN REGENT'S PARK.

THIS morning I went into Regent's Park to see the children and the flowers. You cannot imagine, if you have never done this, what new thoughts it gives you. Children and flowers! two of God's brightest, most beautiful gifts to earth. And yet ——, but I am not going to moralise about anything to-day. I am going to tell you what I saw in a bed of carnations. I saw the name of a girl—a brave servant girl—named Alice Ayres, who, about eight years ago, saved three of her master's children from death by fire, and lost her own life while doing so.

Alice Ayres lies under a very handsome monument in Isleworth churchyard. Poems were written and pictures were done in her honour and praise at the time; but presently the brave deed, the heroic self-sacrifice of this noble servant-girl were forgotten by the general public, and only the few whose hearts had been stirred and strengthened by Alice's deed of love remembered her. For these she will ever live, for love and courage can never die.

But the most fitting, because the most beautiful, memorial to Alice Ayres seems to me to be the flower, or variety of flower, to which they have given her name.

"Mother, what a funny name to give a carnation!" a young girl said as she read aloud, "Alice Ayres."

"Oh, her father makes tennis rackets!" was the reply. "I daresay his gardener cultivated that variety of pink."

This set me thinking. Evidently this woman had not been attracted by the name when Alice performed her brave act of self-sacrifice, though it was in all the papers and on every tongue at the time.

There are persons, old and young, who know as little of the Lord Jesus Christ and his sacrifice as this woman knows of Alice Ayres. Must we see their ignorance and let them pass on, as I had to do in the case of that mother and the name of Alice Ayres in Regent's Park? No; if we cannot turn to them and point them to Jesus with words, we can so live that they will take knowledge of us that we have been with One who is a stranger to them, and they will begin to inquire:—

"What is the reason So-and-So is so unselfish and self-denying? She seems to have time and love to spare for everyone, and we never hear her speak an uncharitable word!" And the answer will be:—

"These beautiful ways she has learned of Jesus. She has found it easy to forget herself only since she depended on Him." "Are Christians alone kind and heroic, then?" you may ask.

Certainly not; there have been and are brave men and women who have never even heard of Christ; but think, if their sacrifice, their love, their devotion had been laid at his feet, what an undying influence for Him in the lives of others would have been theirs! For, remember, no one lives or dies to him or herself alone. Christ said that our love for one another would prove to all the world our discipleship. "Love is the fulfilling" of all Christ's teaching. You have such glorious opportunities of showing it in this everyday world, for there is no circle so small that it does not contain a human life needing, sorely needing, love at some point. Look round you, and see if there is not one such: begin now, while you are young, for love, like the flowers, may be cultivated in a thousand ways, and youth is the time in which to begin.

A young London physician, Dr. Samuel Rabbeth, some years ago had charge of a dear little girl of four years old at the Royal Free Hospital. She was suffering terribly, and the brave young doctor longed to do something to ease her. She would die of diphtheria unless he could help her. So he opened her windpipe. But here he found such an accumulation of diphtheritic matter that it could only be removed by sucking it through a tube! He offered to do this.

"You know the risk, I suppose," one said to him.

"None better; but I must save the child," was his reply.

He did save the child, but he gave his life for hers.

Alice Ayres and Samuel Rabbeth, brave, noble, good and true—how we love them! Jesus Christ, the Saviour of the world, your Saviour and mine—do we love Him, and as we ought? That was my thought in Regent's Park. G.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. J. H. P. Cutting, with Caravan, Magdalen, near Kings Lynn, to July 29; Mr. H. Hutchinson, Keswick (tent), to July 23

SEASIDE SERVICES.

The following are the arrangements which, up to the present date, have been made for the Children's Seaside Services during the present summer:—Ayr, Mr. Josiah Spiers (July); Aldeburgh, Mr. J. H. P. Cutting and Mr. Mont Goodman; Boscombe, Mr. C. Askwith; Bridlington, Mr. H. Hutchinson; Blackpool, Rev. T. Longstaff, M.A.; Brighton, West, Rev. Norman Bennett, B.A.; Carnoustie, N.B., Mr. B. L. Livingstone-Learmonth; Colwyn Bay, Mr. W. H. Wilson; Eastbourne, Mr. A. G. Dodderidge; East Preston, Mr. Middleton; Exmouth, Mr. Phillips Welch; Felixstowe, Mr. J. Spiers; Herne Bay, Mr. J. S. Tyler (July); Hunstanton, Mr. E. Arrowsmith; Ilfracombe, Mr. W. R. Moore; Kemp Town (Brighton), Rev. M. C. Brownlow and Mr. R. H. Keable; Littlehampton, Mr. J. S. Tyler and Mr. G. A. King; Llandudno, Mr. Frank Anderson; Llanfairfechan, Mr. J. Russell Hill; Paignton, Mr. L. M. Miller; Pensarn, Messrs. E. and C. H. Collier; Portrush and Portstewart, Mr. A. G. Dodderidge (July); Rhyl, Mr. Geo. Goodman and Mr. S. J. Hewlett; St. Leonard's, Rev. W. W. Martin; Saltburn, Dr. F. Churchill; Scarborough, Messrs. Bernard Herklots, T. G. Barber, W. A. Dark, and T. B. Bishop; Southend, Mr. J. W. Coldecott; Southsea, Mr. S. M. Warner; Southwold, Mr. Livesey Carrott; Seaview, I. of W., Rev. W. S. Standen and Rev. S. R. Moore; Towyn, Mr. E. Hughes and Mr. H. T. Sayer; Westward Ho, Rev. G. C. Williamson; Whitby, Mr. E. T. M. Dennes; Weston-super-Mare, Messrs. W. Stuart Fox and N. Thwaites; Worthing, Rev. C. E. Haynes, M.A.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for week ending August 3, 1895.—Sun., July 28, Genesis xliii. 1-17; Mon., 29, xliii. 18-34; Tues., 30, xliv. 1-17; Wed., 31, xliv. 18-34; Thurs., Aug. 1, xlv. 1-15; Fri., 2, xlv. 16-28; Sat., 3, xlvi. 1-7, 26-34.

PROGRESS IN KOREA.

ABOUT twenty years ago Dr. Ross, of the United Presbyterian Mission, travelling by way of Manchuria, reached what is known as the "Gate" of Korea, but every obstacle was put in the way of his further progress, and he was not allowed to cross the River Yalu and enter the forbidden land. He found there were officers stationed at stated distances all along the river to prevent any person crossing the frontier by day or night. He could not even hire a boat to sail on the river in order to get a better view of the shores of the unknown land. On one of his journeys to the frontier, Dr. Ross presented a copy of the Scriptures in Chinese to a friendly Korean, who took it into his country and freely lent it to friends.

As a result of this, two Koreans found their way to one of the mission houses in Manchuria, at the season when, according to custom, the "Gate" or official barrier was declared open, and intercourse between Korea and China was allowed to natives. They came to learn more of "the doctrine," and from this time interest in Christianity began to spread. In 1880 eleven Koreans were under instruction in Manchuria, but before this date Dr. Ross had managed to acquire a knowledge of the Korean language, in spite of what would have appeared to most people overwhelming difficulties, as at first the Koreans with whom he came in contact at the frontier denied having any language or literature of their own, and no scholar could be induced to teach him, so afraid were they of the consequences. Nothing daunted, Dr. Ross persevered, and after a time, with the help of friendly natives, succeeded in translating the New Testament into the Korean language. Of late years the United Presbyterian missionaries have concentrated their energies in the very hopeful field of Manchuria; but the opening up of Korea has been taken advantage of by others.

The American Presbyterians began work in 1884, and were followed by the American Methodists in 1885. Other missionary societies have also sent representatives, and though their work has not been unattended with difficulties, the mass of the people being suspicious and unfriendly, prejudices and opposition are gradually giving way. Medical mission work has been found to be an efficient means of opening many closed doors, for, showing as it does in a practical way Christianity's great principle of love, it is powerful as a disarmer of suspicion and a remover of opposition. In Korea, as in China, it is not infrequently said, "It must be a good doctrine which does so much for the sick and suffering." Education and the printing press are also important agencies in the elevation of the people, and work among the women has been begun by lady missionaries. The Christian treatment of women is begetting a confidence which is beginning to break down something of the rigid laws of seclusion, and a brighter day has thus begun to dawn for Korea's daughters.—Scotsman.

VILLAGE VISITATION IN JAPAN.*

By MISS A. WILSON-CARMICHAEL.

The delightful volume from which this extract is taken, consisting of letters to home friends by the adopted relative of Mr. Robert Wilson, chairman of the Keswick Convention, will be welcomed and enjoyed by a wide circle of readers. The extract will indicate the richly spiritual tone and literary fascination of the book, as well as the practical missionary interest that marks its pages. To our thinking it is one of the most attractive and helpful contributions to missionary literature published in this generation. The numerous illustrative sketches that grace the volume show possession of much artistic skill which the writer places at the service of her Master. The publishers have given the work an excellent outward setting, and it makes altogether an admirable presentation volume. Rev. C. A. Fox's preface is a poem in prose.

[EXTRACT.]

Matsuye, Feb. 8, 1895.—You may like to hear something of what we are doing now. As soon as the deep snow had gone, and we were able to get about, Mr. Buxton sent one of his helpers with me, and we went to a village up the lake, where we had once given rice in the flood time.

The chief of the village was most kind, and told us so great was the distress just then that the Mikado had sent 2000 yen (£250) to the province of Izumo, which, however, when divided among the hundreds of needy villages, would only allow a few shillings to each. He sent an old man with us to guide us through the waste of rice and cotton fields to a little hamlet near the water's edge, which had been all but swept away. While this was being arranged indoors I had a swarm of children round me outside clamouring for looks and books. I tried to tell them something even in the few minutes, but they had never heard at all, and with puzzled faces asked each other, "What God is she talking about?" A God who is living and loving is a bewilderment to those whose sole conception of such a being is connected with death and dread. Poor little things! One could only teach them a simple text and chorus in colloquial, and leave them so. We should like to send someone to this village, but there is no one to spare, and all round us are hundreds darker still. Disentangling ourselves from our noisy bodyguard, we followed our guide to the hamlet in ruins. A few of its scenes may picture all.

An old couple homeless, poor, living in a shed made of rough boards plastered with mud, their all lost, themselves too old and too weary to work, waiting quietly there, in the dreary cold, for the drearier end, which could not be far away. It is on the old and the frail the flood has told most heavily.

The other day one of our workers visited a little court, where she had gone with rice six weeks before. Missing face after face among the aged poor, she asked if they were ill. Oh, no, it was only that they got wet, and cold, and hungry, and at last they "deigned to cease to become."

And now we saw a woman very sick and very weary. No mats, no quilts, only a few tattered rags all through this bitter winter. There she lay, on the hard bare boards, comfortless. How should we like our mothers to lie so? She, too, is somebody's mother, dear, perhaps, as ours. The people did not like us to see her. "We cannot remove her body," they said, feeling with all the sensitiveness of their race how it must look to us. But thanks to your help she need lie so no longer. To-night quilts would be sent to her, and we told her they would be presents from the true God, who loved her. "Who was He?" She had never heard, never once. We thought she believed a little, for she asked how she could thank Him, and was so surprised and pleased to hear that she need not try to clap (for "much strength have I not"), because He was so close to her that He could hear the little whisper of her heart. We left her repeating over and over again the strange new words, "Loves me, loves me."

Another, a family this time, living in a hole we should not care to ask a dog to sleep in. Across the path lay their old home, the soft thatch in mossy patches, strewn about the little garden; not a vestige of the upright about the place.

Sadder still, up among the bamboos on the hill, a hut of wood and straw, a lonely man within, home gone, means of making a livelihood gone, wife and children gone, hope a dream of the past, only despair ahead. He bore up bravely, till a question about his family touched too sore a spot. "I cannot keep them any more," he said. "My little ones I cannot have," and he broke down and simply cried.

Once more, and again an old man and his wife. They had "removed their residence," explained my helper, rubbing his spectacles vigorously. He is not an emotional youth, but I think he found it as hard as I did to keep the tears back; it was all so very desolate. Heaps of rubbish, broken shrubs, bits of their treasured matting carried off by the swift rise of the water, drifted back to them now soaked and useless; fragments of furniture and pottery, scraps of prayer-papers too, and drowned and deserted idols. There they were, the two old souls who had held their own against wind and tide for many a year, stranded at last, a helpless wreck upon rocky shores. Uncomplaining, too, bearing their woes with that dumb patience we only see among our Christian poor at home.

"How was it the flood came?" we asked them.

Listen to the answer, think till you feel it; feel, till deep into your soul the iron has entered:—

"Often, often we gave our gods rice and cakes; often, often we prayed, but somehow we offended them. They were angry, and sent the flood; but we do not know what we did wrong, only they were angry." Like little children in the dark, with poor weak arms upraised to ward off cruel blows, coming they knew not whence or why; so it seemed to me.

To all those whom we saw that day the good tidings were new, or almost so. One man had been given some tracts by Mr. Buxton as he passed along the road; more than the little they told he did not know.

In some of the houses specially large offerings lay before the gods on the shelf or in the shrine, in mute appeal for pity and help, but in others there was no sign of any worship. "They are no use," said one old man; "they did not hear; I pray to nothing now." Which is the deeper fall, to pray to the Buddha or to nothing at all? Almost as many here do the one as the other; some because they have found out, like this old man, that "they are no use"; some because they have heard enough of the true to loosen their faith in the false; and of Japan, as of India, it is seriously true, "If Western thought and science merely act as dissolving acids, and destroy all faith in religion, a terrible chaos may be predicted"—which may our God avert.

And now a little bit for the children. One day we were away in a village some distance from Matsuye. We had walked about a good deal, and were rather tired. Nobody seemed to want to hear our message; everybody had an excuse, and we were beginning to feel disheartened. Was it any use at all? Just then some little children saw us, and cried out, "Look, look, Jesus is coming! Jesus is coming!" We knew it was only in mockery, but all our tiredness flew away at once, to think that when we came they should say He was coming! for it was true. Along the narrow path among the rice-fields I seemed to see Him walk before us. Before we came to the slippery bamboo bridges He had crossed them. Sometimes we turned a corner—He had turned it first, so He met what was on the other side before we did—and so it was all along the way, only really and truly, and not make-believe at all, for He says that "when He putteth forth his own sheep, He goeth before them."

And this is what I said to Him then. Won't you say it too? "Lord Jesus, please help me to follow so closely to Thee, that wherever I go, even the little children may feel Jesus is coming, Jesus is coming!"

PORTUGUESE EVANGELICAL CHURCH SCHOOLS.—The new building for the schools belonging to our chapel of the "Egreja Lusitano Evangelica" at Oporto will soon be completed, and we hope to open it in September next. The light airy rooms will be a great improvement upon the crowded quarters at present occupied by the children. The total cost, including hire of a temporary schoolhouse, will be 1,100,000 to 1,200,000 reis. Of this 660,000 reis are already paid according to contract. For the remaining £80 to £100, subscriptions may be sent by postal (not post office) order or cheque, payable in London or other British town, or stamps to the address below. Hitherto the Lord has provided.

Fred. W. Flower.

118, Rua do Bardo de S. Cosme, Oporto.

THE REVIVAL OF 1859.

ITS EFFECT IN WALES.

The accounts in The Christian of the Revival of 1859 have been very interesting. I have thought that your readers would also be interested with a brief account of the revival in Wales at that time. The reports in the Welsh papers of the revival in America no doubt prepared the way in Wales. Mr. Humphrey Jones, a young local preacher with the Wesleyans, who had become a prominent character with the Welsh in the revival in America, came over to his native place near Aberystwith. Soon after he came over he heard David Morgan, Ysbyty, a minister with the Calvinistic Methodists, preach, who, he discerned, was not converted. After the service he sought opportunity to get alone with the preacher, and dealt with him about his soul's condition. The conversation had the desired effect upon D. Morgan, and his trouble of soul became such that for three days he could neither eat, sleep, nor rest. The light of the Gospel ultimately broke in upon his soul, and at once he began, with Humphrey Jones, to go among the chapels endeavouring to arouse the people from their spiritual slumber.

The change in David Morgan was noised abroad, and the power that followed the two men spread. God used Humphrey Jones to light the fire, but he was not well balanced and was soon set aside; God took up David Morgan, Ysbyty, who seemed as if he had come from the presence of God. He was considered an inferior preacher, but the man was in earnest and his words went home to the hearts of the people, who crowded after him. His method of conducting meetings was new. He would preach from Isaiah lii. 1-3 and similar passages, endeavouring to awaken Christians and professors. After that he would come down from the pulpit and hold a second meeting, and it was then the people appeared to be most affected. At the close of these second meetings great numbers would stay behind to be spoken with.

Very soon, Thomas Edwards, of Penllwyn, was influenced by the same spirit, and yoked himself with David Morgan. He became a great help in the Revival. Both men went on horseback throughout Wales, and wonderful effects followed. Many thousands were added to the churches, and no doubt a great number unto the Lord. The chapels were crowded everywhere. Prayer meetings, midday meetings, and all-day prayer meetings were arranged all through the country, and in some parts all-day meetings were held in the fields,

The Calvinistic Methodists that year held their Association meetings at Llangeitho, a place noted in the history of Welsh Calvinistic Methodism. The meetings were held in a field, and Owen Thomas one of their leading ministers, was one of the preachers. Before long he had to give up speaking, for the great mass of people were so affected that some cried out for mercy, others were praying, and a great number were praising the Lord aloud. The ministers on the platform could do nothing but look on with amazement. I was in the midst of it, and marvelled at the wonderful work of God; yet I continued unconverted till years afterwards.

These men were in touch with the heart of God, and also with the people's need. More of this is wanted in our day. God's word to us now is, "Prove Me now herewith, saith the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it." "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on Me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father."

62, High-street, Llanelly. David Jones.

LIVINGSTONE COLLEGE.—Dr. Harford Battersby writes from 33, Hamfrith-road, Stratford, E.:—"We are anxious to get names of students for our next session as soon as possible, as we commence in October." The College exists for the instruction of foreign missionaries in the elements of practical medicine and surgery.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN SAILORS' SOCIETY.—The Temporary Rest and Reading-room, opened on the 17th of June, by Miss Plimsoll, has already proved of great blessing and help to the men visiting the Surrey Commercial Docks. Bright, interesting services have been held, and the power of the spirit has been manifest. The missionary and his wife are in constant touch with the men visiting the Rest. Help of all kinds is needed. The address of the Rest is 57, Derrick-street, Rotherhithe, S.E.

* From Sunrise Land: Letters from Japan. By Miss Amy Wilson-Carmichael. (3s. 6d. & 5s., Marshall Bros.)

The late Mr. H. B. Harrison, J.P.

There are, in this loud stunning tide
Of human care and crime,
With whom the melodies abide
Of the everlasting chime,
Who carry music in their heart,
Through dusky lane and wrangling mart,
Plying their daily task with busier feet,
Because their secret souls a holy strain repeat.

Of no one are these well-known words more true than of the man for whose loss Manchester is sad to-day.

Henry Bower Harrison was born in Chester, but for over forty years he lived and worked in Manchester. Descended from Christian parents, he came to the Lord in early youth, and spent his whole life in God's service, thereby escaping the years of doubt, scepticism, or sin, which many have to look back upon. The post he occupied in the Manchester and Salford Bank made him well known in business life, and his public labours were many and varied. He was a valuable member, for many years, of the Salford School Board, and also of the Town Council, and was a justice of the peace.

Gravel-lane Chapel, of which he was a member from his first coming to the city as a young man, had a large share of his energy. One of the virtues of Methodism is the scope it gives to workers of all kinds of talent, and it would be difficult to find a post in the church which Mr. Harrison has not filled. Gravel-lane Chapel is in the midst of a dense poor population between Manchester and Salford, a fit sphere for missionary work in the fullest sense. It has been greatly blessed in its pastors, never more so than in the present one, Rev. D. T. Young. Of the many branches of work carried on here, workmen's and women's clubs, ragged school, etc., besides the ordinary chapel work, Mr. Harrison and his family have been the centre, for he had the art, not only of working himself, but of setting others to work.

The Working-men's Club was one of these efforts which had much blessing. It was considered a great innovation at first to use the class-room under the chapel for such a purpose, but Mr. Harrison gently persisted, and the club has been the means of making many a drinking, careless fellow into an earnest worker for Christ. Mr. Harrison was a preacher, in and out of doors, a class leader, and Sunday-school superintendent, and his bright welcoming face, always there, beamed encouragement on the comers to every service. Truly, like Moses, his face shone, and for the same reason. His presence was a benediction, and to meet him in the street was a means of grace, so did the love of Christ beam through his countenance.

He was a remarkable example of the union of two sets of Christian grace, not always found together, those of busy service and pure personal holiness, "Mary's heart and busy Martha's hands." His life realised the aspiration of the old Methodist hymn:—

Vessels, instruments of grace,
Pass we thus our happy days,
Twixt the mount and multitude,
Doing or receiving good.

When Mr. Harrison gave up business life to devote himself more fully to church and public work, it was hoped that many years of usefulness still lay before him.

His good old father, Mr. Matthew Harrison, of Chester, died not two years ago, aged over ninety, and the son was this year but sixty-four, and seemed hale and strong.

God's ways are not our ways, and somewhere in his many mansions He had greater need of our dear brother than even in the slums of Salford. With strange suddenness the call came, and after a few hours' illness, Henry Harrison went to heaven on Friday, May 17. His funeral was such a scene as Manchester has not witnessed since the venerable prison philanthropist, Thomas Wright, was laid to rest. The chapel and graveyard at Cheetham Hill were densely crowded, and hundreds were unable to enter. A very motley crowd it was. There was a long procession of men and women in rusty black, from Gravel-lane, walking several miles to his house at Prestwick, and then to the grave. There were Members of Parliament, and representatives of many public and philanthropic bodies, more than one Roman Catholic priest among them. There were little barefooted lads, begging to come into the chapel, because "we go to Mister Harrison's Ragged School."

No one loved him better than these last; there were many sad hearts under very ragged little waistcoats down in Salford. Men as far asunder as the poles in all other opinions, agreed that this was a good man, from whose lips they had never heard an unkind word. Not that he ever hid his colours, as a soldier of Christ, for popularity's sake; he spoke the truth, but he spoke it "in love."

(From Photograph by Messrs. Wilkinson Bros., Manchester.)

Of his wife and children, and the loss he is to them, this is not the place to speak. At Gravel-lane the great congregation feels that every member has lost one like a father or an elder brother, and the place is darker for want of his bright smile, and poorer for the loss of his brotherly hand. He used to say that his father gave him for a life-motto the same words he at the outset of life had received from his father, and Mr. Harrison in turn passed the message on to his own children and the young men he sought to influence. This life-motto was Proverbs iii. 5, 6: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths."

It is not, perhaps, the least useful part of our departed brother's work that several—we may say many—young men, some now in distant parts of the world, are seeking to shape their lives after the tenour of these words, received from him.

SOME LEADING MEDICAL MEN in France have formed a temperance society for the purpose of studying the means of extirpating alcoholism, and will set an example by abstaining themselves from all intoxicants.

ILLUSTRATED GOSPELS.

The illustrated Gospels published by the Scripture Gift Mission are being welcomed with much heartiness by Christian workers in French, Italian, and Spanish-speaking countries. For Scriptures in the last-named language there is a wide field in Central and South America; and missionaries write that the people gladly receive the books, and in some cases have been known to refuse to give them up afterwards to the Romish priests.

There is just now an urgent call for an edition in Portuguese. Letters from Rio de Janeiro, Pernambuco, and other parts of Brazil show that the door for circulation is wide open. Rev. Solomon L. Ginsburg, of Campos, Rio, having seen the Spanish Gospels, wrote to Mr. Walters, the secretary of the Mission: "If you could make a Portuguese edition, you would do a great and lasting work. I am labouring in the midst of two millions and a-half of souls, most of whom have never heard of Jesus, and few of whom know anything of his blessed message of love. Give me a million Gospels in Portuguese, and I can distribute them every one." Mr. Walters does not at present see his way to respond to this appeal. He writes to us: "An edition of fifty thousand copies could be produced for £200. I feel that it should proceed, but so far no one has come forward with the funds."

As is pretty well known, the illustrations designed for these Gospel portions make no attempt at reproducing the incidents of sacred story, but simply aim at depicting with artistic beauty and precision the topographical and natural features of the Orient, as well as the manners and customs of the people. The English editions have been circulated very largely, and they should be of great service to workers in country districts, where bright books are more likely to be read through than is the case in the busier round of city life. Colporteurs and others should include these Gospels in their parcels. Particulars of the work may be had from Mr. W. Walters, 84, St. Paul's-churchyard, E.C.

FRIENDLESS AND FALLEN.

We have received a copy of the thirty-eighth annual report of the Homes and Open-all-Night Refuge for these unhappy classes. Good work has been done in each department. During 1894, nearly 1,300 young women and girls were assisted in various ways. Many were placed in the seven homes of the society, and after a time started again in life in various ways; others being temporarily assisted while seeking work or until they could be restored to their friends. The national character of the work is seen in the fact that inmates belonged by birth to 281 towns, villages, &c., of the United Kingdom, while eleven were born abroad, and four at sea. The religious teaching in the homes has been well sustained, and a band of 263 voluntary workers (eighty-nine of whom are ladies) conducted no less than 2,218 services, Bible, temperance, and other classes, during 1894.

The society is in touch with workers all over the metropolis, and in many provincial towns and cities. Large numbers of young women and girls are sent every year by the clergy, magistrates, prison chaplains, police, and missionaries, in addition to many evangelistic agencies at work amongst the lapsed masses of our huge population. The society very heartily co-operates with all Christian workers engaged in seeking to save the lost.

In addition to the accounts from the various homes and the open-all-night refuge, the report contains a variety of short articles dealing with the numerous phases of the work, which are well worth careful consideration.

We are glad to note that the income for the past year was enough to meet expenses; but attention is drawn to the fact that some important and very necessary repairs and alterations have had to be postponed for want of means. Indeed the extension of the work is retarded for want of more liberal support. An effort is also being made to discharge the remaining liabilities in connection with the purchase and adaptation of the houses used as homes, which appear to have cost rather more than was received for the purpose, the bankers having met the deficiency with loans from time to time. Mr. W. J. Taylor, of 200, Euston-road, N.W., will send a copy of the report, post free, to any address on application.

THE KESWICK CONVENTION.

JULY 22—27, 1895.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

The time for this holy convocation has come round once more. What shall emerge in the coming days no one may specifically say, but the eye of faith sees that this lovely dale of Keswick, before the week is out, will have become to many souls a valley of blessing rich and abiding. The message of God has reached multitudes all over these British Isles. "Come ye apart awhile," and it will not be the fault of the Great Giver if any return to their homes disappointed or empty-handed. In the hurry and scurry of our modern life, such seasons are specially needful. To-day it is surely truer than ever that "the world is too much with us," and with the noise of the loud and conflicting voices that fill the social, the political, and even the religious spheres, the danger is great that with most of us the still small voice of God may be unheard or unheeded. In this calm and sequestered spot, surrounded by the everlasting and silent hills, that ever point their heads heavenward, the bonds of communion with the Eternal may be strengthened, and his peace may possess the soul that has become restless through "the strife of tongues" and from contact with the superficial elements that too often dominate our daily life. This is, in truth, a world of strange contrasts, but it would be hard to find a contrast more striking than that between Fleet-street, with its mob of shouting, excited, passionate politicians, and the margin of Lake Derwentwater, on a quiet summer Sabbath morning. The lovely face of nature's panorama in this valley, if gazed upon with eyes sanctified by thankfulness to God for the gift and the vision to appreciate its charms, must ever have a chastening and purifying effect. The consecrated Christian of all men has the right to enjoy those outer garments of creation that speak so eloquently of God's power, and wish to make all things of the soul beautiful as well as new. In the language of a favourite hymn at Keswick :—

Heaven above is softer blue.
Earth around is sweeter green,
Something lives in every hue,
Christless eyes have never seen;
Birds with gladder songs o'erflow,
Flowers with deeper beauties shine,
Since I know, as now I know,
I am his, and He is mine.

It is the Divine prerogative to command and to bestow the blessing, but man has to do his part in providing the channels through which that blessing shall flow. Everything seems to be done this year concerning the Convention that man can do in the way of preparation. The second tent which was in use at the last Convention has this year given place to a spacious pavilion, very pleasantly situated by the side of the stream that skirts the little town. Further removed from the great tent, which stands on its old site, this new hall will serve for many important meetings; it has been freely granted for Convention purposes by the conveners of the prophetic conference held last week. The double provision for assembly of course involves an enlarged contingent of speakers. The Convention on this occasion, according to the published announcements, will have the benefit of hearing almost all the brethren whose names have become specially associated with it during recent years. The list of expected speakers numbers over thirty, and it would be invidious to cite here any names without mentioning all. They will duly find their places in the detailed report given in this and succeeding issues. If one might make a single exception, it would be in the case of our South-African visitor, Rev. Andrew Murray, whose experimental speech has already been a channel of rich spiritual stimulus and enlightenment. His addresses will naturally be looked forward to with much expectation. The platform resources are at once abundant and varied, and these instructed, experienced students of the ways of God with man, we doubt not, will bring forth much treasure, new as well as old, from the inexhaustible treasury of the Word. Moreover, God will Himself speak to the waiting soul in accents of love and power without the intervention of any human voice.

There seem to be doubts in the minds of some Keswick residents whether the attenders will this time be as numerous as in former years. It is stated that the demand for lodging accommodation is somewhat less pressing than it has been. But many new houses are rising year by year, and not a few visitors will come in after the meetings actually begin to fill up vacant rooms. Judging by the ordinary signs available to the observer, there will be no sensible falling off in the muster roll of temporary sojourners in this delightful spot. The long summer drought seems to have ended, here at any rate, and Saturday was a day of copious rain. To-day, as I write, the elements seem rather more settled; probably there will be a fair mixture of sunshine and shower—a visible picture and parable of the most favouring conditions in all life, physical or spiritual. Convention goers here are not fair-weather Christians; whether it be rain or cloudless sky they have learned to say, "This also cometh from the Lord, who is excellent in working."

It hardly seemed possible to add any new items to the full daily programme of former years, but we notice that this time there are to be girls' meetings in the Victoria Hall, and on several afternoons a "missionaries' inquiry meeting" in the new hall. The special gatherings for young women and ladies are being held as before and under the same competent leadership.

THE OPENING PRAYER MEETING

on Saturday evening drew together an immense throng that well-nigh filled the tent. The attendance certainly did not indicate any falling off of interest, or any likely decrease in the number of Convention goers this year. One could not but be struck with the large proportion of young men and young women among those assembled, a most welcome omen that the fresh and buoyant life of our generation is not wholly corroded with the lust of worldliness or pleasure-seeking. The blessed possibilities lying in front of such a company as had gathered beneath the familiar canvas were something to make the Christian heart rejoice and beat high with hope as to the future spiritual life of our churches.

At the appointed time the substantial figure of Mr. ROBERT WILSON (now happily recovered from his recent illness) appeared in the president's chair, while there were seated around him such well-remembered brethren as Rev. George Grubb, Rev. J. J. Luce, Rev. Edgar Thwaites, Dr. White, and others. A brief season of silent devotion prepared the hearts of all to join in the opening prayer-song :—

O, Thou exalted Son of God,
High seated on thy Father's throne!
The gifts, the purchase of thy blood
To us, thy waiting saints, make known.
Come, Holy Ghost, all sacred fire!
Come fill thy earthly temples now;
Emptied of every base desire,
Reign Thou within, and only Thou.

Then the strenuous voice of Mr. GRUBB resounded through the tent in adoration, confession, ascription, and petition, mingled with much thanksgiving. Another hymn of earnest desire was sung in tones of trustful faith :—

Hold Thou my hand, so weak I am and helpless,
I dare not take one step without thy aid.
Hold Thou my hand, for then, O loving Saviour,
No dread of ill shall make my soul afraid.

Dr. WHITE, of Winchester, led the meeting in further prayer, and the chairman read the record of the feeding of the multitude by our Lord, as given in Mark viii. His few words of comment were fraught with wise counsel and direction. It will not be the greatness of the multitude, he said, or the wisdom of the speakers, but the presence of the Master that will bring a blessing to the Convention. Let us cease from man, whose breath is in his nostrils, and look up to the living God. It was when the people sat down at the Lord's command that their needs were satisfied in fulness; so will it be with our waiting souls. The real higher Christian life is the lowly life, lived down at the feet of the Master.

The Rev. E. N. THWAITES besought God Himself to do the work of humbling; when man tries to humble his spirit before God too often pride steps into the process. He also prayed that all might be kept from the spirit of criticism. When his varied petitions for friends, present and absent, had ceased, the gathering joined as with one heart and voice in the immortal prayer which our Lord taught his disciples. Never, perhaps, have we heard in such vocal volume what seemed to be the real devout uprising of many hundreds of human spirits to the throne of the eternal; the united prayer must have gone up as a sweet smelling savour to the Father of the spirits of all flesh.

IT IS THE LORD.

This may be cited as the topic of the opening message delivered to the convention by Rev. J. J. LUCE. It was surely a God-given and God-inspiring message, so well suited it seemed to the occasion, and so full of rich morsels for after digestion and assimilation. The passage was John xxi. and the words were those of the surprised disciples when the risen Lord had appeared to them after a time of unsuccessful toil in fishing. There are two things, remarked Mr. Luce, that are greatly to be desired for this convention: (1) That the living, glorified Christ should deign to manifest Himself to us, and (2) that we should not miss the sight of the manifested Christ. It is not for us to dictate to the Lord as to how He shall show Himself. We are here with a great variety of mind and thought and circumstance and sphere and education, and He must mould each of us as He will; let us be plastic in his hand.

It will be helpful to observe the ways in which He deigned to manifest Himself to the disciples, as told in this chapter. First, there was an enquiry as to their state—"Have ye any meat?" They had been toiling through the hours of the night; what had they to show for it? Truly a searching question, and one that had the desired effect. It brought them face to face with fact. God give us all grace to look facts in the face. It is perfectly possible for us to be here and to be blinking the facts; to be occupied with a visionary, sentimental, a very unreal, unsatisfactory, and purely emotional experience. We have all much cause to humble ourselves because of past failure. Again, the Lord manifested Himself by testing faith and obedience with a plain word of command and a promise, "Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find." The thing which He commanded probably ran counter to their common sense, but, thank God, they did not stop, or argue, or hesitate. They were sure that it was the Lord who spoke and it was theirs only to obey. Most likely the Lord will in this convention test our faith and obedience. He may ask us to give up cherished opinions, or to do something contrary to our ideas, perhaps even to our religious convictions. But if it is the voice of the Lord that comes to us, it must be obeyed.

Then He provided for the disciples' needs, and invited them to partake with Himself. How sweet to come to this convention, and know that even before we came the Lord has been preparing the needed blessing. It will not be by chance or accident that any blessing will come to us, but through the Divine arrangement and preparation. Now He invites us to partake of that which He has provided. How solemn is the thought that we may miss the blessing because of lack of strength to receive it. We may have been praying that God would do greater things at Keswick this year than ever before; let us be ready to receive what He is prepared and ready to give.

Once more, the Lord tested the love of his disciple. He said to Peter, "Lovest thou Me?" What we need, as Christians, above all things, is a spirit of love.

We may know a great deal, but of what account is knowledge without love? We may be earnest, wonderfully active, and very ingenious in schemes of work, but what are all these if we have not love? May every root of bitterness be taken out of our hearts, with all anger, clamour, evil speaking, and all that is unloving. Last of all, He manifested Himself by a call to service. That is how we may expect the Master to manifest Himself in our midst here. After He has searched us, and purified us, and filled us with faith, hope, joy, and love, He will want to do something with them all. Even from the very outset let us bear in mind the starving multitudes in the world around us—Jews, heathen, Mohammedans, the neglected and degraded masses of our own country. Then, not only we, but the world shall say, "It is the Lord!"

SUNDAY'S MEETINGS.

The early prayer meeting on Sunday morning in the tent was well attended. Dr. J. H. White was president, and helpful words on "Waiting upon God" were spoken by Mr. Luce. The prayers were free and unconstrained, and many brethren and sisters throughout the tent took part.

At the forenoon overflow meeting in the tent the preacher was Rev. Andrew Murray, who spoke in words that will long be treasured and remembered, on from John xiii. 1. "Having loved his own which were in the world, He loved them to the end." The orderly division of thought in the discourse enabled it to be well lodged in the memory. First of all we were called to consider this changeless love of Jesus in its outward manifestation. The washing of the disciples' feet teaches us of the desire and purposes in Christ's heart to cleanse his people from sin. Water will do for outward washing, but nothing less than the precious blood of Christ avails to cleanse the soul. Love is judged by what it does, more than what it says, and if we want to learn how true is the love of Christ, we need only look to Calvary, where He shed his blood for us. How intensely He must have loved us. Think, too, of his condescension and patience in applying the shed blood. He took the dust-stained feet of the perverse, self-willed Peter, and of the other disciples, into his holy hands that He might cleanse them. No sinner or saint is too low for Him to reach. Many come to Keswick with hearts longing for freedom from sin, and with perplexities about questions that cannot always be answered or even understood by man. But we can always come with our own sins and our perplexities to the loving, condescending Christ, whose love endures to the end, notwithstanding all past sin and failure.

CHRIST'S UNCHANGING LOVE,

Another thought is that of the divine reality of this unchanging love. We too often fail to grasp this divine reality—to realise that the love of Jesus is the mightiest power in the universe. The only thing on earth that can at all illustrate it is the light of the sun, which floods the whole world with its beams, and seeks to enter in at every door. It never ceases and never wearies in its shining. We may close doors and shutters against it, but it continues gently to knock for entrance. Remove these hindrances, and it does its work. Every green blade that we see, every flower that blooms, and every fruit that ripens is the work of the unwearied sun. Just as real and as constant is the love of the Lord Jesus in seeking to find entrance into the hearts of men. God is love, and He is everywhere. If we yield ourselves to Him He will fill every heart to overflowing with that heavenly love. Christ might have turned away from Peter in his perversity, but He loved Him through it all.

Think again of this love in its mighty power. Time and words would fail me to tell of what the love has done during the past eighteen centuries. What would the world have been without it? Think of the hundreds of thousands whom it has redeemed from the depths of corruption and heathenism, whose lives it has sanctified and beautified, and made fit for everlasting glory. But I want to speak specially of what it can do for you and me. It can reveal itself. We are ignorant and dull, but the love of Christ is omnipotent. It can enter the dullest mind, and open the coldest heart, and make itself known. Love always longs for fellowship, and if any have come to this convention earnestly desiring fellowship with Jesus, he will manifest Himself to that soul. Let us trust Him. Further, that love will take possession of our hearts. People say it is hard to love; that is because we have not allowed God's love to do its work in us.

It is easy for the lamb to be gentle, and for the mother to love her child, because it is their very nature. We never can love as God wants us to, till it becomes our nature to love. Thank God his love is able to possess us; let it enter into our hearts, and dwell there; then we shall be able to love even the unlovely and the unlovable. What is more wonderful, it gives us the power to communicate itself to others. I thank God for what I have seen of this love in the hearts and lives of so many missionaries who have given themselves to work among the heathen. Would to God that we all knew to the full what it is to be so possessed by this love, that it must flow out to others. The heart of man was made for love. Many workers are crying out for more power, and mourning over failure and want of success. The omnipotent love that bound Jesus to Calvary's Cross is at our disposal.

Briefly, once more, let us think of this love in its full manifestation. How wonderful is this story of Peter's perversity. I do not know a man in Scripture who is a greater puzzle than Peter. "Thou shalt never wash my feet," he says to Christ. When the Saviour tells him that then he can have no part with Him, Peter at once, in his self-will, rushes to the opposite extreme. "Not only my feet, but my head and my hands." Then at the supper table how self-confident he was. He would never forsake or deny his Master. At the same supper table he was quarrelling with his fellow disciples as to who should be first. What a change Pentecost wrought in him. When Christ ascended to heaven He came back in the person of the Holy Spirit, not simply to be with his disciple or near him, but be in him. Christ does not merely come into the heart as a locality, so that I am I and He is He. There is a real living union between us. The disposition, temper, inclination—

THE VERY SPIRIT OF JESUS CAME into Peter, so that in the power of the Holy Ghost his voice reached thousands, as the voice of Christ speaking through him. And so it may be with us if we allow Christ's love to take possession of us and fill us. It will work out through us beyond all we can desire or imagine.

How can I know and experience and possess this wonderful love? The answer is in one word: Yield yourselves to let God do this work in you—that he may cleanse you and fill you. He knows what each one needs. Let us from the very beginning of these meetings put ourselves into the hands of the loving Jesus. Do not even wait for the teaching you will receive. It may be very precious, and God may use it; but if you wait for that instead of waiting on God, you may lose the blessing. Yield to Him and let Him do it in his own way. The mistake of Peter was that he wanted to dictate to Christ as to how He should impart the blessing. Listen to the Master's word: "What I do thou knowest not now." Trust Jesus to do his own blessed work. Last of all, yield yourselves to his love and rest in it, as a feeble child rests in the love of its mother. Beware of seeking your happiness and blessing too much in the fellowship of men. God help us to rest and rejoice in his unchanging love!

At the morning diet of service in St. John's Church, the preacher was Rev. F. S. Webster, while Mr. W. R. Lane preached in the Congregational Church, and Dr. White in the Methodist Church.

A very largely attended evangelistic meeting in the tent in the afternoon was addressed by Mr. W. R. Lane. His subject was the fatal power of sin to enchain the heart and life, as illustrated in the life of Herod. His appeals were most solemn and weighty, and the deep attention of the hearers showed how the Holy Ghost was applying the message. An interesting service for children followed soon after. A goodly company of little ones came together; they were lovingly spoken to by Mr. Hutchinson, of the C.S.S.M., and by Mr. Millard.

At the hour of evening service, another overflow meeting was held in the tent, where a great congregation were present. The preacher was Mr. Grubb, who took for his theme Ephesians iii. 8.

THE UNSEARCHABLE RICHES OF CHRIST.

His treatment of it was characteristic and thoroughgoing, as the following notes of the discourse will show. This was his first utterance, except in prayer, at these preparatory meetings. I have a very wide subject (he said); it is easy to begin, but where to leave off I scarcely know. The riches of Christ are unsearchable by the natural man, incomprehensible to the carnal mind; but not unsearchable by the Spirit of God in the heart. "The Spirit searcheth all things, yea the deep things of God." We have come to Keswick to find out how rich the Lord Jesus is, and to remember that all his riches are stored up in Him for no other purpose than that they should be given to us by the Spirit. If you get a real blessing here every one of you will be able to describe it in these terms:—"The Lord Jesus has become an ever-shining object in my heart." Let me make the impossible supposition that I am speaking to a young man of remarkably weak intellect whose father has died. He happened to be the richest person in this universe, and he has left by his will to this son an enormous fortune of £123,456,789. Remember carefully this amount. The young man goes to the family lawyer when the will has been proved and says: "I understand my father has left me £9. I would like £9, for I have a debt to pay at the Keswick Hotel." He gets the money and goes away hugely delighted. I can speak from experience that that sum does not last very long in Keswick, especially seeing the rates the houses are now. But a friend comes to this young man of weak intellect and says, "Your father left you more than £9; he left you £89." So he claims that amount and gets it. But another wise Keswick friend says, "Young man, take my advice. Read over very carefully the terms of your father's will, and find out exactly from his own signed, sealed, and delivered will how much he left you. Do not be going about begging like this; just claim all he gave." That, I say, is

AN ALMOST IDIOTIC SUPPOSITION.

But oh, what a change there would be in us if we were to go in for claiming all that we have in Christ Jesus. Gradually it dawns upon the weak intellect of the young man that his father left him an enormous sum—millions upon millions that by no possibility can he ever spend. He is very slow to believe the exact terms of the will. And I believe if our most adorable Lord and Saviour were standing here instead of me, he would say, "O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken." We are so foolish—so transcendently weak in our intellects as to all that the prophets have spoken concerning Christ. If we really believed that our Father "held the wealth of the world in his hands," we would have more than we should know what to do with.

All the riches of Christ are at our disposal, because of the value, in God's sight, of the precious blood. There is a verse I would like to refer to—1 Peter i. 18: "Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation" (which means in modern English, "your empty manner of life") received by tradition from your fathers, but with the precious blood of Christ." Here the Apostle tells us in part what the blood has purchased or redeemed us from. First of all it is redemption from an empty manner of life. If I were asked to describe in one word the characteristic of the churches and denominations around us I would say that for the most part they are characterised

BY EMPTINESS OF LIFE.

Do not our hearts respond to the condemnation of the Holy Ghost? Oh, the empty manner of life—Church members wasting their time on heaps of little things that bring no results to the Lord Jesus. Think of how many spend their time on the various amusements that the poor world can give, knowing nothing of the recreation and joy to be had in the Lord Jesus. Alas! they know nothing of the experience with the hymn we sang:—

> I've found the pearl of greatest price,
> My heart doth sing for joy;
> And sing I must, for Christ is mine;
> O what a Christ have I.

Let us all pray to be delivered from this emptiness of life, and be filled with all the fulness of God. That fulness is the love of Jesus shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost.

The Apostle here gives the reason for the empty manner of life. It was "received by tradition from your fathers." That is the reason why our Protestant Churches are so powerless, because we have received the truths merely by tradition. Tradition in itself, whether Popish, or Ritualistic, or Evangelical, is powerless. Too many of us believe in God only because our fathers and mothers did so. They were godly people, and from childhood we have known the Scriptures, but we have received that knowledge only as a tradition. We sing traditional hymns about Christ's glory, and pray traditional conventional prayers. There is a danger lest even Keswick Conventions become traditional, and of our losing the power of the great and glorious truths that are spoken here about our Lord, our hearts all the while remaining empty, and the same empty manner of life in our homes. May God deliver every soul here from the power of Evangelical tradition, precious as it is, that truth may come to us in the demonstration of the Spirit and with the power of God.

Further than that, the precious blood of Jesus can destroy the enmity that is in our hearts against God. That is a grand deliverance. We read in Eph. ii. 13: "Now in Christ Jesus ye who at one time were far off are made nigh by the blood of Jesus. For He is our peace, who hath made both one (that is Jew and Gentile) and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us, having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances, for to make in Himself of the twain one new man, so making peace, and that He might reconcile both unto God in one body by the Cross, having slain the enmity thereby." There is a continual fight going on in the natural heart against the motions of the Spirit of God. But when the Lord Jesus gave up his spirit unto the Father's hand on the cross, He slew all the commandments and ordinances that stir up the enmity of the heart, and cause the carnal mind to be ever rebelling against God. Praise be to the mighty Jesus, He hath slain the enmity by his cross, and He offers perfect deliverance not only outside but inside you—perfect freedom from the bondage of carnality, from all the lusts that degrade and debase humanity. "What the law could not do in that it was weak through the flesh, God has done by sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and by the sacrifice of sin has condemned sin in the flesh"—that is, condemned it to death. And God asks us to come into harmony with his design towards our sinful flesh. Only in the Cross, and through the Cross, and from the Cross, revealed to my soul in the power of the Spirit, can I get or from traditionalism, or from secret enmity to my God.

DELIVERANCE FROM EMPTINESS OF LIFE

But Jesus has more to give than that. Redemption includes more than deliverance from an empty life. In Titus ii. 14 we are told that Christ gave Himself for us that He might redeem us (Christians) from all iniquity (all lawless action) and purify unto Himself a people for his own possession (R.V.). We are not to be silent about this glorious redemption. Christ came to redeem us from all iniquity, and I fully believe in my heart that the Holy Ghost meant "all" when He said it. We are not here to give definitions of the Holy Ghost's workings, but to receive his power. So let us start the Convention by believing that there is no iniquity which we cannot be practically redeemed from. Then there is purification unto Himself. A great many people are wrong on the subject of cleansing, because they are purified rather unto themselves than unto the Lord. They get into what they think a sufficient state of cleansing, and they get satisfied with their heart purity. It is an awfully dangerous thing to be satisfied with our state of heart; it is the danger of being purified only up to our own ideas. The Lord wants to purify us unto Himself, so that spirit, soul, and body should be sanctified wholly by the Lord Jesus; that is the negative part of holiness. The positive part is that we are to be a people for his own possession. Then there will come zeal for good works.

Perhaps I could not do better now than say a little about Rev. xii. 11.: "They overcame (the dragon) by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony. And they loved not their lives unto the death. Therefore rejoice ye heavens and ye that dwell therein." So the heavens above rejoice when they see overcoming Christians; and the angels go into a corner to cry when they see Christians being overcome by the devil and the flesh. There are only two things the devil hates, the blood and the Word. He is not one atom afraid of all the experiences that ever you have got at Keswick or elsewhere. What he fears is the application moment by moment of the blood, and the outputting of your testimony to the world. Though the blood may be ever present in its application, if you do not confess to others the blessing you have got, there will be condemnation in your conscience, so that you cannot serve God acceptably. If you have a clean conscience you will not need to use a force-pump to shoot your words at the person to whom you are speaking; it will be the most natural thing for you to speak about the Lord Jesus, and tell all that He has done for your soul.

Then if we would overcome, we are not to love our lives unto the death. We must lay our lives at the feet of Jesus, even as He laid down his life at his Father's feet. "Therefore doth my Father love Me, because I lay down my life that I may take it again." Oh, that this Convention may result in the laying down of our lives even unto the death at the feet of Jesus. The world is dying. It is corrupt, and the Church is fast getting corrupt, because the world is coming into it. There can be no remedy but that we who are the salt of the earth should be salted again. But that cannot be, unless we lay down our lives on the cross of Jesus, and are utterly crucified with Him, not sentimentally. I do not believe that the Roman Catholics of Ireland will ever be converted to God till some souls are willing to lay down their lives unto the death. I do not believe that China, or India, or Japan, or Africa, and especially the Mohammedan lands, will be blessed, until souls are laying down their lives unto the death. God baptizes us for death. Let us remember that Jesus Christ humbled Himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross; wherefore God hath highly exalted Him. So you see, all the riches of Jesus centre around the cross. Let us gather around the cross, and know the value of the precious blood; then all that He has is ours. "Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine."

At eight o'clock, another Gospel meeting was held in the tent, when Rev. F. S. Webster preached powerfully from the story of Naaman and the leper.

PRAYER FOR IRELAND.

The needs and claims of the distressful country across the Channel are always remembered and considered at the early prayer meeting on Monday morning of Convention week. In recent years this meeting has been utilised not only for earnest petition to God to bless Ireland, but for reporting on Christian work done there by varied agencies; special prominence has been given to the important work of itinerating in rural fairs and markets, and intensely interesting these accounts have been. This year "the powers that be" deemed it best to restrict the proceedings to prayer.

There was a very large attendance; friends of Ireland and visitors from its green shores always muster strongly at Keswick. Mr. Wilson presided, and explained the altered course of the meeting, requesting that no one should mention by name any particular work in which they might be interested, but to lay the wants and difficulties of the people and the workers generally before God, who sees and knows all. This request was almost universally observed, so that the minds and aspirations of the worshipping assembly were directed away from machinery and organisation to the people themselves and the condition of ignorance and superstition in which many of them are still sunk. Protestants, as well as Roman Catholics, were borne up in prayer, especially those who, while bearing the name of Protestant, yet fail to adorn the doctrine of Jesus Christ in life or testimony, and are thus a stumbling-block in the spread of true religion. Neither were the large body of Irish priests forgotten. It transpired that many of these men are groaning under the servitude of a system that keeps them in a terrible bondage of spirit, and in whose tenets they have ceased to believe. All classes of the Irish people were prayed for in turn, and those of that race who are in other lands were not overlooked in the stream of petition that rose to God for about an hour from the platform and the body of the tent. Many thanksgivings also went up to the throne of grace for the great things that have been seen within the past year in the extension of freedom to preach the Gospel in the open air, and for the distinct blessing that has followed the efforts put forth.

Monday brought an improvement in the weather, and, as usual, many of the visitors embraced this last opportunity before the convention proper of seeing something of the grand natural scenery with which the district abounds.

MONDAY EVENING MEETING.

The great tent was well filled for the opening meeting, but as an overflow was held in the New Hall there was no overcrowding. After a season of silent prayer, an opening hymn of praise was sung. Then Rev. Andrew Murray led in thanksgiving for past blessings through these Conventions, and earnest petition for still greater tokens of Divine power. Another devotional hymn was sung, and the chairman, Mr. Robert Wilson, read a telegram from Bishop Stuart, despatched from Ispahan that afternoon,

"PRAY FOR PERSIA."

The request was complied with in prayer by Rev. Charles A. Fox, who was followed by Rev. Evan H. Hopkins. Part of John xvii. was read by the Chairman. The only address of the evening was given by Prebendary H. W. Webb-Peploe, who began by reminding the assembly that the Keswick Convention had now come of age. He proceeded to survey the course of the past twenty years, basing his review on Joshua xxiii. 14. When one comes of age there seems to attach to his position fresh responsibilities; he is called on to realise in a peculiar way the purposes of life and opportunities before him as a full-grown man; he is called to consider the mercies that have crowned his pathway, and to realise how his childhood has been blessed, as well as his own stubbornness, folly, and weakness. Looking ahead also he desires a better, nobler, more powerful life.

Regarding the Keswick Convention from this standpoint, the speaker said that while we must realise the wonderful goodness of God in the past twenty years, there is another side to the picture—the folly, blindness, unbelief, carelessness, and want of humility on the part of God's people. Joshua's survey contained in the text was made when an old man, at the close of his leadership. There are some Keswick leaders who have been associated with it from the beginning, and who feel deeply that their time of service may be nearing its close. They would say with Joshua that not one good thing of all that God has promised hath failed, but they would also admit much shortcoming and failure through limiting the power of the Holy One and through not claiming the fulness of God's power. The whole land of Israel was given in promise to Abraham, and the promise was renewed to Joshua. Yet how small a portion of it Abraham's seed ever really possessed, because they could only have what their feet actually trod upon. So those who have enjoyed Keswick privileges these many years would say that there is yet much spiritual land to be possessed. God gives everything to us in Christ, but none can say that he has been absolutely satisfied and filled up to the brim of the possibilities of reception. God not only promised the whole land to Israel, but over all enemies. Yet how many and how sad were their defeats because of some accursed thing they cherished. So also they fell short of the perfect rest that was promised to them in the land.

COMPLETE VICTORY

These things are true of us now in our spiritual life and warfare. While we praise God for his entire faithfulness, let us be humbled because of our past failures in possession of power and peace, and let us be ready to receive all that God is willing to give through Jesus Christ our Lord.

The large overflow meeting in the New Hall was presided over by General Hatt-Noble, who simply and earnestly expounded part of Matt. xi., and showed that the childlike spirit is needed to receive without doubt or questioning the full blessing God would bestow. Dr. Elder Cumming gave the address from Ex. xxxii. 7-9, describing the tabernacle of the congregation which Moses erected afar off from the camp of Israel. He commented on the fact that in these days the best spiritual gifts seem to be bestowed in conventions rather than in ordinary church gatherings. Is it not because there has been departure from God, so that his people have to remove to specially-provided places to meet with Him? Some objections and difficulties in the way of receiving consecration truth were stated and met, and new comers to Keswick were earnestly invited to an unreserved trust in God for blessing. Prayer was offered by Rev. John Sloan, Rev. G. C. Grubb, and Rev. J. J. Luce.

These opening meetings were full of promise for the coming days. The early prayer meeting of Tuesday morning was largely attended, many special requests were presented, and Rev. J. Gelson Gregson gave a brief address on the need of being clothed with humility.

Letters to the Editor.

1 PETER III. 19.

SIR,—The interpretation of 1 Peter, iii. 19, which Mr. McVicker gave in his letter which appeared in your paper, July 1, can scarcely, I think, be the true one. The word "spirits" never means men alive on the earth. Men in the flesh are never called spirits, though they are sometimes called souls. Then the Apostle Peter in this passage does not tell us that Noah, or the Holy Spirit in Noah, preached at all. The preacher was Christ Himself, and the time was between his death and resurrection; and St. Peter affirms that He went and preached unto the spirits in prison. The time of preaching appears to be defined (1) by the death of Jesus, and (2) by the words "in prison."

Mr. McVicker is induced to insert the word "now," and to make it emphatic. But is it credible that the Apostle could omit the emphatic word in a sentence? This statement is not parallel to Ephes. ii. 17, which your correspondent quotes in support of his view. It is not asserted there that Christ went to the Gentiles. In this verse, since the spirits were in prison, if Jesus would address them, He must traverse the distance between Him and them, and only at his decease was He free to visit them. Then the Greek words should be translated, "In which (spirit) He went and preached even to the spirits in prison." The word "even" occurs again in a rather similar statement in 1 Peter iv. 6, "The Gospel was preached even to the dead." Kai, "even," intensifies the word it immediately precedes in many passages I could quote. Again, the Holy Spirit is not meant by the word "spirit," for the article is not used, and the distinction made between flesh and spirit proves that it refers to the flesh and the spirit of the same person, Jesus Christ. As to who the spirits were, reference may be made to the following passages, Gen. vi. 4; Psalms lxxxviii., cvii.; Jude 6, 7. I have quoted from a pamphlet written by R. Govett on this subject.

That the Lord Jesus Christ descended to the place of the dead, we know from Rom. x. 7; Eph. iv. 9, as well as from the verse we have been considering. CHARLES H. ANNESLEY.

3, Belgrave-terrace, Torquay.

THE HOLY SPIRIT.

DEAR SIR,—It does not seem right to withhold one's own experience, when it may help another. It does not matter what the title is—"Baptism of the Holy Spirit," etc. The question is, Is there a special enduement, or baptism, or filling, to be received by "waiting"?

I saw a Christian, who had what I had not. I asked her what it was. She said that a friend had once said to her, "Have you ever waited on God for the enduement of power for service?" She waited on God for a week, and then received such a conscious inflow of glory and power as had changed all her Christian life from that time. She proceeded to tell me of one and another who had also waited, and received, and how they had been led out into wider service for the Master.

I determined that I would wait too. I led a very busy life, and was not strong; and therefore I knew that I must go about my ordinary duties, and must have my full night's rest. So that waiting meant praying for the baptism of the Holy Spirit,—a constantly telling God, as I went about my work, that I meant to go on praying till I received. That day week, I woke up praying as before, "Dear Lord, I mean to go on praying till I receive," when it was like a voice within me, "I am here." I tried again to pray, with the same result; it was as if one's chest were too narrow to contain the joy. Still I did not know whether this was what I was praying for, when a friend came into the room. With one look at me, she said, "Why, you have received!"

That is over two years ago, and I had been a Christian for twenty-five years before that, with my will given up to God. But life has been so different since. You ask what the new gifts are that are to be obtained by waiting. I have found in so many that the great gift is the loosening of the tongue and the taking away of nervousness and self-consciousness. As the need arises for speaking or praying, the word is given. There is a much clearer guidance of the Holy Spirit, and one is led so differently about speaking to people. Before, the Holy Spirit's work was more a developing of one's own individual life; this was the power for service.

I could give instances of very wonderful changes in the lives of Christians, and of the work they have since been led to do. To all whom I know who have definitely received I think it has been like the pouring in of steam, which has made "his service perfect freedom." Then the fresh anointing. This great first baptism is something once for all, the day and date of which one will remember for life; but does one not need fresh anointings for special work, just as the Apostles were filled again and again after Pentecost?

Terms do not matter. The Holy Ghost is the Spirit of love, and of power, and of joy. I put it to the test, and I know what the result was in my case and in many others. It is a sudden transformation. It is like having wings to one's life. Of course, I believe that in the Acts of the Apostles, and in the Epistles, there is abundant Scriptural authority for this. There is a difference between the Holy Ghost in us for holiness of life and on us for service. And what is more, I have never known anyone who has believingly waited on God for this baptism, and who has during the waiting time put away whatever God has revealed as the hindrance, but has received. But I have known some who have had it laid on them to put away something definite, and they have given up waiting rather than do it.

I can say for myself, that though I was a real Bible student before, reading the Bible in several languages, and making a very special study of it, this has made it a new Book. Surely in Acts xix. the Holy Spirit must have been in those Ephesians to have drawn them to Christ, but even after they believed, and had been baptized, there was something more for them; they had had the baptism of repentance, but not the baptism of the Holy Ghost. Why is not the term baptism to be applied to both? Not that the term matters.—Yours, etc., J.

PREACHING AND HEALING.

DEAR SIR,—I am moved by Mr. Storrow's papers in THE CHRISTIAN, on methods of missionary work, with which I greatly agree, to write to you on the same subject. As long as Satan objects to the simple and direct preaching of the Gospel, I believe what your correspondent says needs to be said, and will need to be said over and over again. The reference even to medical work, which has been called in question, may yet be in place: "Go ye into all the world, heal the sick, and preach the Gospel to every creature"—these are not the "marching orders" as our Master spoke them. But since our Lord healed the sick, and in some cases gave his disciples commandment and power to do so too, the words "heal the sick" are often included as an integral part of his marching orders to his servants in the present day.

I am not at all sure that we have quite the right to place them there. In the case of Jesus and his disciples, the power of the Lord was present to heal, and the people, there and then, gave glory to God. Whether administering medicine nowadays, though it has its place, no doubt, even in the mission field, is quite the same thing, let those who live amongst the heathen testify.

Further, whilst medical work is beneficent and good, it is possible to err if too much is said about its being necessary to prepare the way for the preaching of the Gospel. It is not so in China. The missionary who moves in and out amongst the people will always find those who are ready to listen to him, and to listen in the most friendly way. It is a mistake to suppose the people are against us, and have to be won over by our medicine.

Medicine does undoubtedly often promote a kindly feeling, and is certainly much appreciated. At the same time, great care is not unfrequently necessary, especially in new or unfriendly districts, lest medicine, by giving rise to absurd but malignant stories, and so exciting the opposition of native doctors who fear for their livelihood, should hinder rather than open the way for the spread of the Gospel. And also there is the fear lest, when medicine is introduced, it should take the place in the thoughts of the people which one covets for the Gospel of Christ. Whilst much good is often done, and suffering is alleviated, it should also be borne in mind (with regard to other things which are sometimes spoken of as "a means to an end," even more than with medicine) that there is the danger lest the means should itself become the end; and that the real end, which was quite accessible before, now becomes blocked by the means which were supposed to lead to it.

Not that we are not to heal the sick; far from it. We should, as Christians, help our fellow-men whenever we can. But I have an uncomfortable feeling that things are not thoroughly straight if, however innocently, or with however good an intention, we begin to alter or to add to any word of God, and especially to the parting instructions spoken by our Lord's own lips. The plain command is, preach the Gospel, teach men the Word of God, baptizing them. And if we put something else which is not there, on the same level, and allow it the least little bit to interfere with what is there, it does seem to me we are getting off the lines. I cannot but feel that a warning voice such as Mr. Storrow's should always be received by us missionaries with humility and thanksgiving; and also with searchings of heart and life, for it is just here—in the matter of preaching the Gospel to the heathen, and pleading with God in the closet (which is surely a vital part of the preaching)—that many amongst us have sorrowfully to own that there has been failure.

The temptations in a missionary's life to do all sorts of good things—anything, almost everything except praying, except preaching the Gospel, none but the missionaries themselves have any idea of!

Satan, with manifold devices and with awful success, works hard to keep back God's servants from going to preach the Gospel to every creature. The few who do go one might suppose he would allow to pass. But it is far otherwise. Upon them he bestows peculiar attention, and in nothing does he show greater persistency or wealth of resource than in his unswerving efforts to secure that God's ambassadors, who have come, ten thousand miles maybe, on purpose to preach the Gospel, shall do anything else except that.

It would seem as if he does not mind very much what other things fill up the missionaries' time, so long as he can get us to neglect prayer and to neglect preaching the Gospel.

I speak from experience. It is almost incredible how other things do creep in. And when, at the end of the day, or week, or month, one comes to count up honestly how much time has been spent, really, in personal dealing with God and with the heathen around, too often it is woefully little.

The good, it has been said, is sometimes the enemy to the best. This, I am persuaded, is constantly true in the mission field. Throughout a busy day we may have been doing good, yet perhaps not the best. We find time, maybe, for study or recreation, or reading, or photography, or writing, or business, or building, or schools, or conferences; and these things are good, all good. But in so far as they take time (beyond what is necessary), which might be devoted to the prayerful proclamation of the Gospel, I am sure they are the enemy to the best.

Nothing can make up for not praying, and for not directly preaching the Gospel to the heathen. That is what we are told to do; and yet somehow that is just what so often gets left undone.

Medical missionaries, then, amongst others—and still more perhaps the large number of missionaries who, without being doctors, do a great deal of doctoring—do need to be on their guard.

Let me repeat, I do not for one moment say we ought not to heal the sick. But let us remember, we may have tired ourselves out in preparing and administering medicines (not always very successfully), and after all we may have spent practically no time at all in heart-to-heart dealing with souls over the Gospel. People have gathered round us. But they have gone away, perhaps talking about the "foreign medicine," and speculating (though but the smallest charge is made) how big a fortune the "foreign doctor" is making out of the business, when they might have been talking about his Master. In a word, they may be going away full of us when they might have been full of Him! "The labourers are few." Yes, so few, that much that might well be done, and that ought to be done, must of necessity be let alone. So few, that to spend our thought, and time, and money on that which, under other circumstances, would be wholly good, may now be positive sin. So few—so very few—that it behoves everyone of us to give the matter our very closest thought, and to find out definitely from our Master Himself just in what way his time, every day of it, his money, every piece of it, his talents, every one of them, may be—not WELL expended, but—BEST expended IN THE DIRECT FULFILMENT OF HIS GREAT COMMAND, which to this day constitutes indeed our marching orders.

J. HEYWOOD HORSBURGH.

Mien Cheo, Inland China.

THE Y.M.C.A.

An interesting and helpful meeting of secretaries of Metropolitan and suburban Associations took place at Exeter Hall on the 15th inst., Mr. W. Hind Smith presiding. The meeting was chiefly for prayer, and was convened in view of the approaching vacation and for the arranging of autumn programmes by the various officers who attended. It was greatly appreciated, and will probably hereafter be repeated at regular intervals.

A garden party and conference convened by the Clapham Association was held in the grounds of Park Holme, Tooting, kindly lent by Miss Bell, on Saturday. Mr. W. Hind Smith presided over an open-air gathering in the afternoon, when the subject considered was "How to Maintain the Missionary Membership." Dr. Eugene Cronin was chairman of a drawing-room meeting held in the evening, when discussion took place upon the questions, "How to Retain our Members," and "How to Stimulate Personal Service."

A special summer conference of the North West Metropolitan District was held on Thursday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. James L. Chapman, entertained at their residence, Aspen Lodge, Harrow, over sixty friends of the Association work in the district. The subject before the conference was "Young Men's Work in the Foreign Field;" and after a few words from Sir George Williams, who presided, Mr. F. J. Clark, hon. secretary of the Bombay Association, gave an address on the needs of India, especially emphasising the importance of sending out well-qualified workers to labour in the schools and colleges among educated natives. A proposal was adopted by the district to endeavour to raise a sum sufficient to maintain such a worker, and before the gathering dispersed sums amounting to upwards of £60 were promised in aid of this project. Mr. J. A. Stooke, of the China Inland Mission, spoke on the claims of China, referring particularly to the opening for a worker among the Europeans in Shanghai and one or two neighbouring ports.

THE Y.W.C.A.

Appeals are frequently received from the secretaries of poorer branches of the Y.W.C.A. in distant lands for help in supplying the literature of the Association, for which many of the members are unable to pay, and which they would be thankful to possess. Such a request was lately received from Canton (China), but the committee has been able to make only a small grant, as their funds are low. This work is increasing and help to maintain and extend it is urgently needed. The Hon. Treasurer of the Committee for "other continents" World's Y.W.C.A. is Miss Lucy M. Woods, 17, Old Cavendish-street, W.

NOONDAY PRAYER.—An esteemed correspondent writes: "We are longing for a general revival of true religion. Let those of us in and around London not overlook the daily prayer meeting, beginning at noon, held in the hall of the Y.M.C.A., 186, Aldersgate-street. Let as many as possible come together, and acknowledge their dependence on the Lord and lay their desires before Him. As Saturday is a short business day in the City, and but few attend the meetings, some friends from the suburbs might join, in order to pray especially for a rich blessing on the Lord's work of the following day throughout the world."

CHRISTMAS CARDS FOR FOREIGN LANDS.—The International Christian Police Association are bringing out two beautiful cards with original Swiss views. One a motto card for 1896, the other a card for Christmas and New Year, with the text "What think ye of Christ?" as a centre, and the verses Matt. iii. 17 and Heb. vii. 25. The latter card will be printed in French, German, Swedish, Urdu, Hindi, Tamil, and Japanese, as well as in English. Christian workers are invited to assist in circulating the cards. Particulars as to price may be had from Miss C. Gurney, or Mrs. D. H. Small, 1a, Adelphi-terrace, W.C., who are also hoping to receive contributions in aid of the undertaking.

SPAIN.—Mr. Walter W. Mowle has begun work in connection with the Seamen's Hall, Apartado 192, Bilbao. He writes to us: "In visiting the ships I have a great call for good literature for distribution, and should be very thankful for any parcels of such, suitable for making up into bundles to leave in the fo'c'sles of out-going steamers. The men are always grateful for them, and I have distributed nearly 200 in the few weeks I have been here already. Parcels could be sent to Mr. D. Moffat (for Bilbao Seamen's Hall), 36, Falcon-street, Newcastle, who will gladly forward them to us. Although this is the quietest time of the year, yet on Sunday afternoon more than a dozen steamers came in at one tide, which will give an idea of the opportunities we have here."

[736]

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR.

A junior society of sixty members has been formed in the Clark Training-school, Shaingay, Sierra Leone, West Africa.

Eight new societies have been organised in Laos, Indo-China, within four months, making nine in all, with a membership of 245.

There are forty-seven Sociétés d'Activité Chrétienne in France. In this number the many associations that are Christian Endeavour societies in everything but the pledge are not included.

A Christian Endeavour Society was recently organised in the Presbyterian Summer School for Mexican Evangelists at Las Vegas, New Mexico, with an active membership of twenty-three, speaking the Spanish tongue.

The official report of the Convention of the Scottish Union, held in April last, is embellished with a frontispiece of Lord Overtoun and other portraits. (6d. McCallum & Co., 200, Buchanan-street, Glasgow). It gives a good idea of the inspiriting proceedings of the first annual Scottish National Convention.

An English society exists among the railway workers at Madura, India, and, besides maintaining its own prosperity, it supports a Sunday-school, which is officered by the members of the Christian Endeavour Society. Eleven Christian Endeavour societies have also been organised among the village congregations in the Tirumangalan station, Madura, with a total membership of 173. All of the boarding-schools in the district report societies for boys and girls separately, and a number of the associate members have been received into the church during the past year.

IRISH NOTES.

The County Armagh Protestant Orphan Society has been reorganised, and is doing an excellent work.

Much regret is felt in the North of Ireland at the death of Rev. John B. Armstrong, Methodist New Connexion minister of Priesthill, near Lisburn, who died suddenly on Monday last week, after preaching on the previous day.

The regular income of the Methodist Orphan Society has been higher during the past year than it has ever been, the receipts being £90 in advance of the previous year. Thirty-five children have just been added to its list.

For the last four or five Saturdays members of the Open-air Mission have been trying to hold meetings in Howth, co. Dublin, but the fishermen have utilised the foghorns of their boats to make such a noise that scarcely a word said by the preachers has been heard, and fifty extra police have had to be drafted into the place to keep the peace.

In the death of Mr. Alex. Hutchinson, of Duncairn Gardens, Belfast, who has just passed away, aged eighty-three years, Sunday-school work in Ireland has lost a faithful and devoted friend. He visited many schools from time to time, and there is scarcely a corner of Ulster in which his name and presence were not known. He also used his pen for the purpose of influencing the little ones.

The work of the Irish Church Missions (says The Record) is prospering in all parts of the sister isle, but especially in Dublin. At the evening service on Sunday week, in the Dublin mission church of the Society, no less than twenty-one converts from Romanism were publicly received into the Church of Ireland. The service was naturally an impressive one, and the church was crowded. The sermon was preached by Rev. George C. Grubb. This is the fifth public reception of converts during the last two years in connection with the Dublin Mission.

MISSIONARY BUREAU.—A series of farewell meetings have been held in connection with the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Halliwell (Nyassaland) and Miss Christian Littlejohn (Rajputana), at Sevenoaks, Lambeth, Christ Church, Westminster, Brighton (Rev. J. B. Figgis' church), and Colebrooke-row Presbyterian Church, Islington. Mr. Oscar D. Schmidt has been selected for the Rio Harbour Mission. The South London Missionary Training Institution reopens on September 9. Several fresh students have been accepted.

HOME FOR SICK SHOP GIRLS.—Those friends who have taken so kind an interest in the Forest Home, near Epping, will be pleased to learn that in the few years since it was started nearly 3000 women and girls have enjoyed its refreshment and comfort. But so many needy workers have been taken in that a small debt has been incurred; and the Misses Reynolds have therefore been compelled to resolve for the present to take only those who can pay something. A little fancy sale for the Home is to be held in October. Communications should be addressed to Miss H. Reynolds, Epping New-road, Buckhurst Hill, Essex.

PERSONALIA.

Miss E. Lawrence, of Barcelona, is now in England, and may be communicated with, care of Mr. W. Greene, 3, Endsleigh Gardens, N.W.

Mrs. R. W. Barbour, of Bonskeid, has erected an institute at Pitlochry, N.B., as a memorial of her late husband, Rev. R. W. Barbour. It was opened on Tuesday, last week, and handed over to the inhabitants of Pitlochry.

Rev. John McNeill, who is officiating during July and August in the Argyle-square Free Church, Oban, is attracting the people to such an extent that the capacious building is found to be altogether inadequate for the accommodation of the crowds that flock to hear him.

Dr. and Mrs. Vartan have arrived home on furlough from Nazareth. Dr. Vartan, as an agent of the Edinburgh Medical Missionary Society, has faithfully served the cause of the Gospel and the Mission there for thirty-four years, and fifteen years have passed since his last furlough.

Bishop Ryle has left Liverpool for Lowestoft, and will be away two months. He has been in excellent health all the winter, and has been able to preach every Sunday, besides presiding at committees, public meetings, holding confirmations, etc. When it is remembered that he is in his eightieth year his vigour of body and mind is remarkable.

Rev. W. Hardy Harwood, the late Dr. Allon's successor in the pastorate of Union Chapel, Islington, has been appointed to fill the vacancy on the staff of lecturers in connection with the Ancient Merchants' Lecture caused through the retirement of Rev. John Kennedy, D.D. The other lecturers are Revs. Dr. Guinness Rogers, Dr. Newman Hall, Dr. Cave, J. Morgan Gibbon, and Alfred Rowland.

Rev. C. B. Sawday has intimated his intention to resign the pastorate of the South Parade Baptist Church, Leeds. Mr. Sawday accepted the call to Leeds several years ago, in the hope that a forward work might be done there similar to that in which he had been engaged at Vernon-square Chapel, London, and as successor to Rev. F. B. Meyer at Melbourne Hall, Leicester; but the opportunity for such a work does not seem to be favourable at present, and Mr. Sawday is leaving Leeds very shortly. He purposes taking a much-needed rest at his cottage at Robin Hood's Bay, near Scarborough, before seeking another sphere of labour.

Rev. Frederick E. Wigram.—The retirement through ill-health of Rev. F. E. Wigram from the position of Hon. Clerical Secretary of the Church Missionary Society, was officially announced at a special meeting of the general committee last week. This is an event, says The Record, which has been foreshadowed for some months past, but everyone hoped that it might in some way be averted. Mr. Wigram, acting on the advice of his physicians, took a prolonged rest, and although the treatment recommended has not been without its beneficial effect, he has reluctantly come to the conclusion that his health is not sufficiently robust to allow him to return to Salisbury-square. The strain of work in the hon. secretary's department has been of late years very trying, and with the ever-continuing expansion of the Society's operations, both at home and abroad, the tendency is for it to become still more burdensome. There are few persons outside the Mission House who have any idea of the incessant toil day by day and week by week all through the year which Mr. Wigram cheerfully undertook. It has told greatly upon his constitution, and has ended in his enforced resignation. Mr. Wigram will carry with him into his retirement the affection, the gratitude, and the best wishes of all who are interested in missionary work.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Mr. Thomas Payne, of Manchester, has paid another visit to America. He spoke at a Convention on the Offices and Work of the Holy Spirit, at Richmond, Va., and conducted a ten days' mission at the Fulton Baptist Church, Richmond.

Lydd, Kent.—We have had the pleasure of a three days' visit from Messrs. J. M. McAuliffe and R. Everett. Bible-readings were given in the Y.M.C.A. rooms, and meetings held each evening in the open-air, when a good number listened to the old old story told so faithfully by these servants of God, and we trust the message has been blessed to many hearts.—F. E. W.

THE TEMPERANCE INSTRUCTION given in the Board and other schools by the Cheshire Band of Hope Union is proving most acceptable. During the past six months the lecturers have been permitted to address 35,461 children of the senior classes, and 1219 teachers belonging to 303 schools. Over 12,000 children submitted written reports of the lectures, and 4024 were successful in obtaining certificates.

OBITUARY.

REV. C. E. WATNEY, WEST AFRICA.

THE committee of the Church Missionary Society have received the news of the death at Lokoja on the Niger River, West Africa, of Rev. C. E. Watney, from fever. Mr. Watney, who was twenty-seven years of age, was the second son of the late Rev. James Watney, vicar of Canwick. He was the only one of Bishop Hill's party whose health permitted of his reaching his destination in January, 1894, and he has now joined his leader and comrades in a region where sickness is no more.

REV. ALEXANDER TOMORY.

News by telegram reached the Free Church Offices in Edinburgh last week of the death of Rev. Alexander Tomory, Free Church Jewish missionary at Constantinople. Mr. Tomory was one of the earliest converts won by the Free Church from the Jewish faith to the Christian religion. Mr. Tomory's name has been inseparably connected with Jewish mission work almost during the last half century. The specialty of his influence was due to a considerable extent to his extraordinary knowledge of modern languages, through which he was able to come in contact with, and influence for good, Jews in poor circumstances belonging to a great number of nationalities. Mr. Tomory was seventy-seven years of age, and his wife predeceased him two years ago. He leaves four sons, one of whom is missionary professor in Duff College, Calcutta.

MR. T. W. CARR.

The death is announced of Mr. Thomas William Carr, one of the famous firm of biscuit manufacturers at Carlisle. He had for some time suffered from heart disease, and passed away very suddenly on Tuesday last week. He was the fourth and youngest son of the late Mr. J. D. Carr, of Coledale Hall, was born in 1840, and received his early schooling in Kendal, after which he finished his education at the Edinburgh University. For a short time he turned his attention to agriculture, but at length became a partner in the firm of Carr and Co., biscuit manufacturers and millers. Of a gentle, loving spirit, he was yet a fearless and eloquent advocate of what he believed to be right. Some years ago he converted his large hayloft at Newtown House into a mission room in which he carried on evangelistic meetings, also temperance work, and a large Sunday-school. He is survived by Mrs. Carr and a numerous family.

DR. JAMES L. PHILLIPS, INDIA.

Dr. J. L. Phillips, very widely known in connection with Sunday-school work in India, passed away to his rest while staying in Mussoorie, on June 25, aged fifty-five years. Dr. Phillips was the son of a devoted American Baptist missionary in Orissa, who passed away some twelve years ago. Our friend was born in India, but went home to America for his education. He came over to this country in 1865, so that his work in this land extended over thirty years. He was a medical missionary, and a man universally beloved — a happy soul full of geniality and of the love of Christ. He soon won his way into the hearts of all those with whom he had to do.

For the last five years he had been secretary to the Indian Sabbath School Union. He travelled and established a cordon of Sabbath-schools throughout India and Ceylon. Just before he came up here he had been to Java, and he had hoped to return from here to Burma, on his loved work for the children. He was emphatically "The Children's Friend." Though full of malarial fever, when he came up to these hills to rest, he held a number of children's services in churches, schools, and in the open-air, which, I fear, proved too much for his strength, and brought on a speedy collapse. His end was peace, and his widow is wonderfully supported under the great trial. She can rejoice in his happiness in the midst of her own great loss. THOMAS EVANS.

Mussoorie, India.

DEAUVILLE.—In stating last week that Mr. and Mrs. Brading, lately of Algiers, have taken charge of the Sailors' Rest at Deauville, Calvados, we described the work as "formerly connected with Mr. Henry Cook's Gosport Mission." There has been misapprehension here. The Deauville work is still a branch of the Gosport Seamen's Mission.

SEASIDE PRAYER MEETINGS.—A correspondent writes very appreciatively of the daily prayer meeting which is held from 12.15 to 1 o'clock at Cecil-square, Margate, in which those connected with all the denominations take part. Now that so many hundreds are flocking to the seaside our correspondent suggests the desirability of such meetings being held at other holiday resorts during the summer months on the same undenominational lines, for the purpose of real prayer and spiritual blessing. He hopes there are many who may take up the suggestion and open their rooms for this purpose.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

DR. BILLING, late Bishop of Bedford, has received an address of sympathy from the clergy in east and north London on his retirement owing to ill-health.

The committee of the Church Missionary Society have accepted Rev. N. Hamlyn, Mr. L. B. Butcher, Miss D. Mayor, Miss E. Little, Miss C. Elwin, Miss H. E. Finnoy, and Miss E. Watney as missionaries of the Society.

Mr. C. H. Bousfield, who has long been a generous friend to the Colonial and Continental Church Society, has just given another donation of £1500, in "the hope that others may be encouraged to come forward to strengthen the Society's position and increase its usefulness."

Dr. Farrar has been instituted to the Deanery of Canterbury. He preached his farewell sermon at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on Sunday morning, when, notwithstanding the heavy rain, every seat in the church was filled. Dr. Farrar had been rector of St. Margaret's for nineteen years.

The Bishop of London, presiding at the third anniversary of the City Samaritan Labour Home and Employment Agency, which is a branch of the Church Army, said that Christians were not absolved from helping a man whose misfortunes were of his own seeking, provided he was prepared to strive to do better in the future.

A new Missionary Bishopric is being formed in Western China. Bishop Moule, of Mid-China, having requested the Archbishop of Canterbury to consent to the formation of a new diocese, and arrangements on the subject having been made with the China Inland Mission, the C.M.S. Committee have resolved to approve the scheme, to guarantee the salary of the new Bishop (for which a new special fund is to be started), and to submit to the Archbishop the name of a clergyman for his approval as the first occupant of the see. It is understood that the nominee is at present on the roll of the China missionaries.

CONGREGATIONAL.

A large new chapel has been completed at Bodffordd, Anglesey.

Rev. S. Jackson, of Stokenchurch, Oxfordshire, has been recognised as pastor at Bishop's Castle.

Rev. Ernest G. Chevis, Hurstbourne Tarrant, Hants, is about to resume work in Wisconsin, U.S.

Rev. J. T. Collier, of Salisbury, has reopened the chapel at East Knoyle, which has been closed for some time.

A new chapel has been opened at Goshen, Blaenclydach, Rhondda Valley, and Rev. John John has been inducted minister.

The fifth annual report of the Young Workers' Society of the City Temple shows that sixty-two active and twenty-eight honorary members are engaged in making garments, scrap-books, etc., for the poor, and in supplying flowers, dressed dolls, and toys to the hospitals.

The following preachers will officiate at Christ Church, Westminster Bridge-road, S.E., during the next few weeks:—July 28, Rev. A. Page Sharpe (of Boston, Mass.); August 4, Dr. Newman Hall; August 11, Rev. G. A. Gordon, D.D. (of Old South Church, Boston, Mass.); August 18, Rev. Rhondda Williams (of Bradford); August 25, Rev. Rowland Evans (of Bradford); Sept. 1, Rev. F. B. Meyer.

The directors of the London Missionary Society are arranging for a Children's Day at the Crystal Palace on Saturday, July 27. The special attractions are a singing competition for Sunday-school choirs; brief lantern lectures on Madagascar, China, India, and Polynesia; an open-air meeting at which the model of the steamship John Williams will be launched; and a united service of praise conducted by Messrs. Luther Hinton and Horace Holmes. All who wish to be present should apply early for tickets at the Mission House, Blomfield-street, E.C.

A remarkably interesting scene has taken place at Union-street, Brighton, when Messrs. R. J. Campbell and G. Hignett were ordained as pastor and assistant pastor. On the platform were several Oxford Churchmen who came voluntarily to testify to the influence of Mr. Campbell as a leader in undergraduate life, and to the high personal character of Mr. Hignett. A very kindly letter was received from Dean Paget, of Christ Church, and the friendly attitude displayed therein evoked warmly appreciative comment. Rev. William Gooby, the late temporary pastor of the church, told the story of the call to Mr. Campbell and Mr. Hignett, the latter having consecrated himself to the service of the church without any other reward than the joy of doing good.

Calls.—Mr. R. W. Rees, to the Tabernacle, Barry Dock; Rev. J. Collyer, of Cuckfield, to Wickham Market; Mr. W. Rew, to Market Weighton; Rev. W. A. Elliott, late of Matabeleland, to Frizinghall.

Resignations.—Rev. W. Darwent, of St. Mary's, Devizes; Rev. S. E. Dodge, of Bassingbourne.

BAPTIST.

A new mission hall was opened last week at Farnham, Essex.

Foundation-stones of new Sunday-schools have been laid at Metherhill, Calstock.

A new church is being erected at Huish, near Yeovil, in connection with South-street.

Rev. J. Humby, formerly of Ford, Bucks, has commenced his ministry at Shefford, Beds.

Memorial-stones of a new chapel in Lichfield-road, Stafford, have been laid by the Mayor.

Rev. J. G. Hopkins has resumed his work as pastor at Caerphilly after an illness of two years.

Pastor Charles Spurgeon has accepted the invitation to resume his former charge at Greenwich.

Whyte's Causeway Church, Kirkcaldy, N.B., has held its annual meeting, reporting 287 members, and various operations in full activity.

An extension scheme has been set on foot by Nelson Church. A plot of land has been purchased, and it has been decided to enlarge the church and erect new Sunday-schools, seating 1000 children.

Many will sympathise with Rev. William Williams, of Upton Chapel, Lambeth-road, whose little son (12½) fell from a hammock and sustained such injuries that the doctors fear he will never be well again.

A number of ministers, delegates and friends, belonging to the London Baptist Association, assembled to discuss denominational work in town and country and in the foreign mission field. Tea was served in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gibbons, and Rev. D. Russell, of Lower Edmonton, presided at a meeting held subsequently in the Tabernacle. Rev. G. Hay Morgan, of Woodberry Down, dealt with the work of Baptists in cities, and supported a bold Evangelical policy. Mr. Thomas, pastor of Grove-road, Victoria-park, spoke on country work, saying it was in the villages that the battle of religious freedom was still being fought. Rev. H. Anderson, of Calcutta, took foreign missions for his subject.

On Wednesday last week the memorial stone of a new mission hall in connection with Highgate-road Chapel was laid. For many years a small mission station has been occupied at Fortess Grove, but the need of a larger and more commodious building has been long felt. At the meeting held at the chapel on the same evening, presided over by the pastor, James Stephens, it was stated that the contract for the erection of the building was £870, towards which £590 had been given or promised previously. The sums laid on the memorial stone, with subsequent gifts and promises, amounted to £177, leaving about £110 to be provided to complete the building, class-rooms, etc., but exclusive of the cost of furnishing.

Calls.—Rev. James Briggs, of Longton, to Praed-street, Paddington (accepted); Mr. W. T. Lee, of Plymouth, to Longross-street, Cardiff; Rev. E. D. Lewis, of Llancarfan to Treorky; Mr. Thos. S. Fidge, of the Pastors' College, to Fleet, Hampshire (accepted); Rev. P. T. Thomson, Lochee, to Blenheim Church, Leeds.

Resignations.—Rev. T. D. Landels, of Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne; Rev. C. Chambers, of Chase Side, Old Southgate, N.

METHODIST.

A new chapel and Sunday-schools have been erected at Redhill.

The Wesleyan Conference opened on Tuesday at Plymouth. Rev. Dr. Waller was elected president.

The whole of the debt on the new church erected at Lyminge, near Hythe, last year has been liquidated.

The Metropolitan Chapel Building Fund Committee has voted further aid to Sidcup and Ilford new chapels.

The Primitive Committee have passed plans for the erection of a new chapel and school at St. Ives (Hunts).

A new chapel has been opened at Lundrake, Cornwall, to accommodate 150. Rev. T. T. Lambert, of Ebenezer, Plymouth, preached.

Memorial stones of new chapels have been laid at Bradbury, Sedgefield; Alvingham, Lincs; Wood-lane, Hanley; and Beckingham, Gainsborough.

Several Wesleyan ministers in the East Anglia District are now on a fortnight's cycling evangelistic tour through the villages of Norfolk and Suffolk.

Rev. J. Thorne, son of the late Rev. James Thorne, one of the founders of the Bible Christian Connexion, has arrived in England per ss. Kaikoura from South Australia, in company with his sister, Miss Thorne, and is staying at Shebbear. He will take part in the Thorne centenary celebrations at Barnstaple.

The steamboat mission on the Murray, in Australia, is an interesting and successful innovation. The missioner, Rev. W. C. Butler, who has named his steam launch The Glad Tidings, devotes his energies to the settlers up the river courses, administers medicines, circulates literature, and holds services among those who would otherwise be untouched by any Christian agency.

The South African Wesleyan Conference, recently held in Grahamstown, reported 41,755 members, an increase of 2441. Day-schools number 413, with 26,091 scholars, and Sunday-schools are 428, with 28,500 scholars. The Conference has ten industrial and training institutions under its control. The candidates for the ministry were four Europeans and two natives. The president, Rev. E. Nuttall, is also missionary secretary.

PRESBYTERIAN.

A new chapel is being built at Newton-on-Hill, near Shrewsbury.

The Presbyterian committee are about to issue a "Pastoral Letter on Gambling."

Rev. P. McF. Macleod, who is taking charge of the Tooting congregation, has applied to be readmitted into the English Presbyterian Church. Before settling in Canada he ministered successively in Birkenhead and Liverpool.

There is some probability that the Presbyterians will bring themselves into line with the other denominations by holding autumnal meetings for the considerations of subjects calculated to stimulate the religious life of the churches and influence public sentiment.

The Synodical Foreign Missions committee feels hopeful that the change in Formosa will be favourable to mission work in general. Four new missionaries for China—two medical and two ordained—have been accepted, Drs. Landsborough and Dalziel, and Revs. Andrew Bonar Nelson (Free Church licentiate) and C. N. Moody (an ordained missionary in Glasgow).

About 100 American Presbyterians have come to Europe to see the mother churches of their faith. After visiting Ireland and Scotland they are now in London, and will go in a few weeks to France, Holland, and Switzerland. On Thursday evening they were received in the King's Hall of the Holborn Restaurant by the Presbyterian Social Union of London. Words of hearty welcome were addressed to the visitors by Revs. R. Leitch, Dr. Monro Gibson, and Rev. John Watson, of Liverpool.

Calls.—Rev. Q. D. Whyte, of Skelmorlie, to Inch; Rev. R. Jones, of Rhos, to Newsham Park; Mr. E. Evans, of Llangollen, to Pentredwr and Llandyna; Rev. Alexander Black, to Creetown.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

The first monthly meeting has just been held in the new Henley-on-Thames meeting-house, three brakes full going over from Reading on the happy occasion. The cause spreads in Oxfordshire and Berks.

President J. J. Mills, and Professor C. W. Hodgin, able and devoted college teachers, have arrived in England for a two months' vacation tour in Europe. Friends will give them a hearty welcome in the home land.

A fresh and hopeful impulse has been given to Friends' Tract Association by the position Frederick Sessions has kindly taken in it. Colporteurs are soon to be employed in this important phase of mission work, beginning at Birmingham.

Two missionaries—Helen Gilpin and Henrietta Dean—have just arrived home on furlough from Madagascar. "Everything was quiet in Antananarivo when they left," they say. What the French and the Jesuits will do remains to be seen. In China, the latest news tells of the illness, from fever, of Isaac Mason, and the devotion of his fellow-missionaries of Chung-King, in nursing him through it.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

The first convert in Madrid is a journalist.

Since the Army commenced operations in Demerara, 140 persons have been enrolled as soldiers.

A lady has donated a thousand acres of land near Sydney, New South Wales, for an additional social farm.

General Booth is contemplating the advissability of commencing the work of the Salvation Army in Armenia and China.

No less than five new settlements are to be immediately opened in South Africa, including one in Zululand, on the Amatikulu river.

The president of the Italian Alpine Club has requested Major Thonger to commence work in the mountainous districts owing to the drinking habits of the people there.

"For Fallen Asleep," see page 20.

DONATIONS
RECEIVED BY MESSRS. MORGAN & SCOTT TO MONDAY, JULY 22, 1895.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or Post Office Orders, not by stamps.

 Will donors oblige by stating explicitly and fully the titles of the institutions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Further correspondence will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Monday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

 Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders should be made payable to Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, London, E.C., and crossed "City Bank"; this will effectually prevent loss.

	£	s.	d.
China Inland Mission—A. L., £1; J. W., £5; E. R. N., 15s.; C., £10	16	15	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—C. N., Bristol, £3; Rev. E. M., 5s.; R. T., £10	13	5	0
Miss Ben-Oliel's Class, Jewesses, Jerusalem — Monthly Pence, Twickenham Y.W.C.A.	0	17	6
Society Relief Persecuted Jews—An Old I.N. Officer, £1; Dora, 5s.	1	5	0
London Missionary Society—J. H.	1	0	0
British and Foreign Bible Society—J. W.	20	0	0
Tibetan Pioneer Mission (Miss Taylor)—Y. R.	0	10	0
Tibetan Mission (Mr. Polhill Turner)—Y. R.	0	10	0
Belgian Missionary Church—Rev. E. M.	0	5	0
Work among Priests in France—Rev. E. M.	0	5	0
Bilbao Sailors' Rest—Rev. E. M.	0	5	0
Sailors' Rest, Port Said—Rev. E. M.	0	5	0
Gibraltar Soldiers' Home—Rev. E. M.	0	5	0
Pastor Chiniquy Fund—Miss C., £1 (Work) Mr. and Mrs. T., £2 2s.	3	2	0
Rev. O. Michelsen's Work (Kurumape), Lady M., £1; Miss E. and Bible Class, £4 13s. 4d.; (Italoma) Miss M., £1; Miss A. E., £1; (New Hebrides) Mr. and Mrs. T., £2 2s.	9	15	4
North Africa Mission—C.	10	0	0
Persecuted Stundists—Bristol, 2s. 6d.; Mr. and Mrs. T., £2 2s.	2	4	6
Figueras Mission (Pastor Rodriguez)—Bristol, 2s.; R. T., £5	5	2	0
Mrs. Lewis' Work, Paris—R. T.	5	0	0
Paris City Mission—R. T.	10	0	0
McAll Mission, France—M. K. D. G.	1	2	6
Asylums at La Force—M. K. D. G.	0	17	6
Dr. Stephenson's Children's Home—H. M. A. S.	1	0	0
Miss Sharman's Orphan Homes—H. M. A. S.	1	0	0
Scripture Readers' Society, Ireland—H. M. A. S.	1	0	0
London Aged Christian Society—H. M. A. S.	1	0	0
Christian Colportage Association—S.	10	0	0
Widow of late Gipsy W. Smith—Miss M. A. G., 10s. 6d.; Lettie, 5s.	0	15	6
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—A. B. R. C., 5s.; J. H., £1; Lettie, 2s. 6d.; J. W., £5; M. R., Tithes, 4s.; C., £5; M. A. P., 4s.; They brought in the offerings, etc., 10s.	12	5	6
Day in Country Fund—A. B. R. C., 5s.; M. C., 10s.; A. F., 2s. 6d.; Bristol, 2s.; R. T., £3; E. C., 5s.	4	4	6
Poor Sick Children's Country Holiday—A. B. R. C.	0	5	0
Ragged School Union—R. T., £10; Day in Country—A. B. R. C., 5s.	10	5	0
Mildmay Mission to Jews—Y., £1; J. W., £5; Mr. and Mrs. T., £2 2s.	8	2	0
Mr. Fegan's Homes—Y., £1; R. C. S., £3; Lettie, 2s. 6d.; Camping Out—R. C. S., £2.	6	2	6
Children's Country Holiday Fund—K. S. R.	1	0	0
Friedenheim Home for Dying—Miss P., 4s.; D., £2	2	4	0
Convalescent Home, Stanmore—Miss P.	0	4	0
Christian Community Country Holidays—Mrs. B.	0	6	0
Tramps' Mission—W. R. G.	1	1	0
National Refuges Homeless Children—W. R. G.	2	2	0
Church Pastoral Aid Society—W. R. G.	1	1	0
London Society Promoting Christianity among Jews—W. R. G.	1	1	0
Theatrical Mission—R. C. S., £3; Prov. xi. 24, £10; Mr. and Mrs. T., £2 2s.	15	2	0
Mrs. Meredith's Institutions—J. H., 10s.; (Prison) M. K. D. G., £1	1	10	0
Miss Macpherson's Home of Industry—Lettie, 5s.; Mr. and Mrs. T., £2 2s.	2	7	0
Jewish Work, London City Mission (Children's Holiday)—Gurtha, 10s.; X., 2s.	0	12	0
Convalescent Hospital, Seaford—M. S.	1	1	0
Central Noon Prayer Meeting—M. S.	5	0	0
Mr. Eppstein's Work Among Jews—D.	1	0	0
Costers' Mission (Mr. Orsman)—D.	1	0	0
Homes Aged Blind, Crouch Hill—D.	1	0	0
St. Giles' Christian Mission—C., £5; They brought in the offerings, etc., 5s.; (Holiday Homes) S. L. R., £1 1s.; (Convalescent Home) D., £1	7	6	0
East London Training Institute—C., £5; (Berger Hall) D., £1	6	0	0
Shipwrecked Mariners' Society—D.	1	0	0
Keswick Convention—D.	1	0	0
Tower Hamlets Mission—D., £2; J. W., £5	7	0	0
Mr. Boyer's Cripple Children (Holiday Fund)—Lancaster.	0	5	0
Miss Weston's Work, Devonport—Rev. E. M.	0	5	0
Miss Robinson's Work (Sailors, Portsmouth)—Rev. E. M.	0	5	0
Liberator Relief Fund—E. W., 5s.; E. L. S., 2s. 6d.	0	7	6
Met. Tab. Colportage Assoc.—Prov. xi. 24	5	0	0
Children's Special Service Mission—Prov. xi. 24	5	0	0
Mildmay Institutions (Hospital)—P. C. E.	0	10	0
Mrs. Ginever's Homes—E. R. N.	0	7	6
Mr. Quarrier's Orphan Homes—E. R. N.	0	7	6
Salvation Army—C.	15	0	0
Operative Jewish Converts' Institute—D.	1	0	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—C., £10 10s.; M. K. D. G., 10s.	11	0	0
Working Men's Mission, New Cut—C.	5	5	0
Railway Mission—S. A. T.	0	10	0
Mr. Wintle's Relief Work—Bristol	0	3	6
Southend Convalescent Home (Mrs. Leonard)—Bristol	0	2	6
Rev. D. Baron's Work among Jews—S. A.	0	10	0
Friendless and Fallen—R. T., £10; They brought in the offerings, etc., 5s.	10	5	0
Seamen's Christian Friend Society—R. T.	10	0	0
Mission Deep Sea Fishermen—R. T., £10; (Labrador) R. T., £5	15	0	0
Aldershot Soldiers' Home—R. T.	10	0	0
Open Air Mission—R. T.	5	0	0
London City Mission—R. T.	10	0	0

	£	s.	d.
Mr. Forbes' Work among Theatricals—R. T.	2	0	0
Barbican Mission to Jews—R. T.	5	0	0
Billingsgate Christian Mission—R. T.	2	0	0
Strangers' Rest, St. George's-street—R. T.	5	0	0
Welcome Mission, Leytonstone—I. D. S.	5	0	0
Mr. Chas. Cook's Work—M. S.	10	0	0
Total	£353	11	10

Appeals.

The Cheltenham police-court missioner asks for illustrated pictorial wall texts, lantern slides, and left-off clothing for the rescue work in visiting the police-court and the homes of discharged prisoners and others, and for common lodging-houses and mission-room work. — W. Mortlock, 2, Denmark-terrace, Gloucester-road, Cheltenham.

Howard-street Gospel Mission, Sunday and Ragged School, Wandsworth-road, S.W.—Our mission premises at the present time are very much out of repair. It would afford an opportunity just now to give work to a number who are out of employment, in renovating, etc., the mission. £15 would be required, and we should be most thankful for the smallest help towards this amount.—Nathl. A. Soames, Secretary, 16A, Tasman-road, Stockwell, S.W.

Notices.

Communications Received with Thanks.—T.P. G.W E.C. W.H. H.W. M.C. S.W. T.H.A. W.H.B. J.A.L G.W. G.V. F.W.F. S.T.F. A.T.D. B.P. W.M. J.G A.S.S. H.N. W.C. W.R. R.H.McN. C.F.A. E.H.K M.B. F.C.O.A. W.R.J. J.E.W. M.A.B. G.P. M.J.L A.P. T.H. J.H. N.A.S. J.W. G.J.H. F.H.H. F.S L.J.D. G.S. T.D. A.N. R.N. W.C. R.J. J.W.McC S.B. F.E.W. J.T.F. J.F.W. L.M.W. T.M. W.T.C L.M. T.E. L.S. R.Y. C.B.S. J.R.C. R. J.S.I. C.B.W Mrs. R. W.H.M. W.F.W.R. W.K.

Applicants for Tracts.—W. A. Hattrick, 47, Yatesstreet, Liverpool; Mrs. Parkes, 61, Dudley-road, Tipton, Staffs.; Mrs. Riley, 4, Kirkham-street, Weaste, Salford; Mr. F. Acton, 5, Beaumont-street, Warrington; Private W. H. Backhouse, R.M.L.I., Soldiers' Home, Avenue-road, Gosport, Hants; Rev. P. N. L'Herrisson, Jacmel, Haiti (French tracts and texts); J. Winter, care of Mr. Greenwood, Northgate-street, Gloucester; James Jackson, 23, North King-street, North Shields; Miss Harvey, 38, Lawson-street, North Shields; J. N. Goad, 98, Ambler-road, Finsbury Park, N.; Mr. Jeffery Cook, Queen-street, Gurry-bank, Brierley Hill; Mr. Frederick Studd, c.o. Mr. Donnelly, Byron-road, Wealdstone, R.S.O., near Harrow, Middlesex: J. W. Julien, 10, Pickard-street, City-road, E.C.; E. T. Groome, 63, Mildmay-street, Islington, N.

☞ As it is found that infidels and others send papers to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers should be carefully read before being given away.

Fallen Asleep.

At Cradock, South Africa, Mrs. Taylor, wife of Rev. Robert B. Taylor, of the London Missionary Society, aged eighty-three. In early life Mrs. Taylor was connected with Marlborough Chapel, Old Kent-road, then under the pastoral care of Mr. Henry Richard. In 1841 Mr. and Mrs. Taylor sailed to South Africa and engaged in missionary work. Mr. Taylor died nineteen years ago, but Mrs. Taylor remained in Cradock to carry on the work.—At Swaffham, Mr. Thomas Lindley, the devoted Sunday-school superintendent and leader in every Christian work in the town.—At Beddgelert, on 15th, very suddenly, Rev. William Ellis, aged sixty-eight, an esteemed and honoured Welsh Calvinist.—At Cheadle, Mr. B. Moreton, aged seventy-eight, a faithful follower of Christ and helper of his church.—At Sunderland, Mr. James Westoll, a well-known elder, who spent £10,000 on the erection of the John Black Memorial Church.—At Teignmouth, Rev. C. Kenyon, an able and leading Primitive Methodist minister.—At Doncaster, on 15th inst., Mr. Dennis Roberts, aged eighty-four, greatly loved as a true follower of Jesus.—At Brompton, Mr. C. Brown, for twenty-six years a valued preacher of the Gospel.—At Silverdale, Mr. William Taylor, for forty years a servant of Christ.—At Gedney, aged eighty-three, Rev. George Rodgers, for thirty-four years rector of the parish.—At Rathcoole, Rev. G. T. H. Barton, D.D.—At Tralee, Mrs. Thos. Hodgens, an earnest Christian worker.—Rev. Hugh Aird, D.D., for forty years minister of City-road U.P. Church, Brechin, N.B.—On Thursday last, at her London residence, Bolton Gardens, after a week's illness, Mrs. Fraser, widow of the late Bishop Fraser, of Manchester.—Rev. W. M. Thompson, minister-emeritus of New-road Church, Woolwich, "father of the English Presbyterian Church," in the eighty-sixth year of his age, and the fifty-seventh of his ministry.

Vickers' Inks have this virtue—that they do not corrode We have tried a sample of the Blue-Black Writing ink, and find it remarkably clean and limpid. (1, Angel Court, (172) Strand, W.C.)

The Clevedon Envelopes, with texts of Scripture stamped in blue relief on the flap, may be had from Mrs. Self, 6, Ladbroke Crescent, Redhill, Surrey. A packet containing one of each of 17 selected texts may be had for twopence.

BRITISH SEAMEN IN CHINESE PORTS.—The last mail from China brings a cheery letter from the Reader of the Missions to Seamen at Shanghai and Wosung, respecting the work amongst seamen frequenting those ports. He writes: "We celebrated the Queen's birthday by a picnic. About 160 seamen of both the Royal Navy and the mercantile service enjoyed a happy day in the country, concluding with a religious service, when the sailors were addressed by Bishop Graves, of the American Episcopal Church. The Sunbeam, the new Mission steamer, is busy six days in the week, and one wonders how the work afloat in a swinging tideway was got through without such help. God is giving continual encouragement from fleet to fleet all along the line."

PROTESTANT REFORMATION SOCIETY.

The Committee URGENTLY APPEAL FOR FUNDS, required at once, in order to prevent the necessity for discharging several of the Society's Missionaries, who are carrying on an excellent work throughout the country. The work of this Society (now in its 68th year) was never more needed than at the present time.

WILL YOU HELP?

Donations will be thankfully acknowledged by the Secretary, Capt. A. P. Williams, R.N., 20, Berners-street, W.; or the Editor of The Christian.

GRINDELWALD, 1895.
TEN GUINEA IDEAL SWISS TOURS.

Route: — Dover, Calais, Berne, Grindelwald, Lucerne (or Zermatt and Rhone Valley) Paris. Alternative routes, viâ Ostend, Boulogne, for the Rhine, Geneva, etc., with extensions to Engadine and Italian Lakes.

Apply, Conference Secretary, 5, Endsleigh Gardens, Euston, London, N.W.

BRIDGE OF HOPE,
Ratcliff Highway, E.

NIGHT SHELTER. RESCUE HOMES.
CHILDREN'S COTTAGE HOMES.
230 to Feed and Clothe.
HELP IS MUCH NEEDED NOW.

Between 400 to 500 pass through the Homes during the year, besides those assisted through the Night Shelter only.

The Annual Report, with Subscription List and Balance Sheet, will be gladly sent to any friends who may not have received it.

MARY H. STEER.
"Bridge of Hope," St. George's, E.

ST. GILES'
CHRISTIAN MISSION.

Fresh Air, Wholesome Food, and Home Comforts
FOR
SICKLY, DESTITUTE, & ORPHAN CHILDREN

Their need is great, and strongly pleads for help.

WILL YOU GIVE IT?

And enable us to benefit a large number by
A Fortnight's Stay in our Holiday Homes,
and to
PROVIDE A PERMANENT HOME
for those
Destitute and Orphan Children needing our aid.

Contributions will be gratefully received by
F. A. BEVAN, Esq., Treasurer,
54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or
WILLIAM WHEATLEY, Superintendent,
4, Ampton-street, Regent-square, W.C.

NATIONAL PROVIDENT INSTITUTION.
For Mutual Life Assurance.
Invested Funds, £4,700,000.
Paid in Claims, £9,000,000.
Estd. 1835.

All the Profits are Divided amongst the Assured; already divided, £4,600,000.

DEATH DUTIES provided for by LIFE ASSURANCE.

48, Gracechurch Street, London, E.C.
ARTHUR SMITHER, Actuary & Secretary

APPLICATIONS FOR AGENCIES INVITED.

TO LET, APARTMENTS, ETC.

(Continued from page 3.)

HOME SETTLEMENT FOR YOUNG MEN.

1, Wyndham-place, Bryanston-square, W. With Drawing, Dining, and Writing rooms, and all the conveniences of a large and commodious house. Conducted on the basis of refinement, fellowship, and freedom. The Home is unsectarian.—All communications to be addressed, Rev. W. DARLOW SARJEANT, 88, Oseney-crescent, Camden-road, London, N.W.

HOME OF REST, The Hollies, Kingswood, Warwickshire, for Christian workers and ladies. Warwick, Stratford, Kenilworth easily reached. Terms from 17s. to 25s. Open throughout the year.—Address, Miss WINTERBOTTOM. c6375

LADY OFFERS BOARD AND RESIDENCE to a lady or two young girls needing bracing country air during holidays. Piano. Terms very moderate.—Miss YOUNG, Cambridge Cottage, Nerton, Swaffham, Norfolk. c6344

LADY WILL BE PLEASED to let her pretty cottage for a short time, on nominal terms, to one or two Christian ladies, or worker needing rest.—Miss FAIRBROTHER, Bonchurch, I.W. c6389

MISS HAYWARD (daughter of late Rev. T. Hayward) offers board and residence. Pleasantly situated house near sea and cliffs. Terms from 21s. per week.—1, St. Vincent's-road, Southend, Essex. c5249

PRIVATE HOME FOR INVALIDS (any case received). Resident certified nurses. Terms moderate. Highest references.—Mrs. COBBIE JACKSON, Marius-road, Balham. c6148

THE HOLIDAY SEASON.—To let, during August and September, six-roomed furnished house, beautifully situated in the heart of Kent, on the Medway. Terms 30s. per week.—D. C. CHAPMAN, Baptist Minister, Haddon-villas, Yalding, Kent. c6314

TO BE LET THROUGH AUGUST, in good part of Plymouth, close to rail and tram, one sitting-room, two or three bedrooms, use of bath-room and piano. Good cooking and attendance. Terms moderate and inclusive if desired.—6, Houndiscombe-place, North-road, Plymouth. c6389

TO CHRISTIAN WORKERS needing rest is offered large pleasant house and garden. Two servants. One month from August 6, one guinea weekly. Stands high, gravel, south aspect, bracing. Country immediately beyond. Central for Broads, coast.—Rev. C. W. CLARIDGE, St. Thomas's Vicarage, Norwich. c6336

TO LET, FOR THREE WEEKS, nice furnished house with garden, August 10th to 31st. Stable and coachhouse if required.—Apply, Miss CHINN, Lenten House, Alton, Hants. c6376

Y.W.C.A.—A comfortable home for young ladies, Seymour House, Lower Clapton, London, N.E. Board and residence at very economical charges. Good library. — Address, LADY SUPERINTENDENT. Reference required. c6348

Y.W.C.A., WOODMOUNT, CLEVEDON. A comfortable Boarding and Holiday home near the sea. All needing rest and change are welcomed.—For terms apply Mrs. GENBON, Sec., Rutland Lodge, Clevedon. c6003

MISCELLANEOUS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space. Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS.—A Christian will gladly correspond with any earnest seeker after Divine truth.—Address EVANGELINE, 25, Rozel-road, Clapham, S.W. John iii, 36.

HOLIDAY HOME.—Will any Christian lady take two orphan girls, aged 16 and 13, for any period during which the orphanage to which they belong is closed? Willing to make themselves useful. —ROUSHAM, 8, Akerman-road, Brixton. c6347

GENTLEMAN, GOOD LINGUIST and accustomed to travel, will take charge of a small party desirous of visiting the Continent in August or September.—M. A., 117, Hills-road, Cambridge. c6320

UNIQUE TOUR TO SWITZERLAND, —Fortnight for Ten Guineas.—Travel ticket Second Class throughout, First Class hotel accommodation, services of conductor. Visiting Lake of Lucerne, Rigi and Bernese Oberland. Excursions on Lakes of Zug, Lucerne, and Thun. Detailed programme for two stamps.—Association for the Promotion of Home and Foreign Travel, Ltd., 41, Gracechurch-street, E.C. 18, Cockspur-street, and 11, Onslow-place, S.W.

SPECIAL OPPORTUNITY for wintering in Egypt, on Nile, in a comfortable Dahabieh, at very moderate charge, for any needing rest, quietude, or thorough change, visiting places of interest. Leaving Cairo November. Party conducted by one of considerable experience in Egypt and a brother of late Bishop Hannington. Two months, £50; three months, £65.—Further particulars, apply, JOSEPH HANNINGTON, 4, North-street, Brighton. c6403

A BREAKFAST DELICACY. — My famous "Real Loch Fyne Kippers." Baskets, 4lb. or over. Post free, 6d. per lb. A perfect luxury, Try them, please.—A. HARVIE, 28, Watergate, Rothesay. c5142

LADY PARTNER wanted, with small capital, to join another in her home, where she receives a few paying guests. Locality most convenient for City and West-end. Profits shared. References exchanged. No agents.—c5425, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square. c6425

24 PORTRAITS, stamp size, for 1s. 6d.; 100 for 8s. 8d. Twelve carte portraits, 2s. 6d.; six for 1s. 6d. Twelve cabinet portraits, 5s. 6d.; six for 3s.; three for 2s. Enlargements: 8in., 8s.; 12in., 7s. 6d.; 18in., 12s. 6d. Send carte or cabinet and P.O., and you will receive highly-finished copies with original.—FRANCIS AND Co., 29, Ludgate Hill, London. Established 1886. c4162

AMERICAN ORGANS from .. £5 5 0
HARMONIUMS from 3 17 0
PORTABLES from 3 15 0
All makers at reduced prices. Every instrument warranted five years. The late Mr. Gawin Kirkham wrote: "I can speak from a long experience of the excellency of your instruments."
CHARLES L. YOUNG, 21 High-street, Kingsland, London. c1679

LINDSEY AND SONS' TRUSSES,

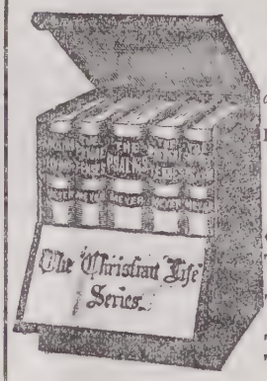
Elastic Stockings, Belts, &c.

Best House for Surgical Bandages. Female Attendant. Price List Free.
82, Ludgate-hill, 40, Gracechurch-street, 112, Great Portland-street, London; and Broad-street, Oxford.
Established 1830.

DAINTREE & CO., DYERS, LONDON.

LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN'S DRESS, also Furniture of all kinds Cleaned or Dyed. 95, Mount-street, Grosvenor-square, W.; 365, Southwark Park-road, S.E.; 44, Leicester-square, W.C. Carts Collect and Deliver to all parts. PRICE LISTS BY POST.

FOR THE COMPLEXION.



BYROLIN

Renders the Skin Soft and Smooth. Heals Bruises, Burns, and Heat Spots.
J. HOWARD & Co., 20-21, Queenhithe, London, E.C. c5357

GIVEN AWAY!

RE-VULCANISED Gold Medal RUBBER STAMPS. Your Name, Monogram, bottle of Endorsing Ink, two Pads, Box, and Brush, 9d, post free; with Marking Ink, 1s. 3d. Nickel Silver Pen and Pencil Case with Name Stamp, 6d. Nickel Silver Name and Address Stamp, 9d.; Watch Case, beautifully chased, with ditto, 1s., and every other description of Rubber Stamp, Endorsing, and Indelible Inks, Stencils, Hand-printing Appliance, etc., at half the usual price. Send for List. 100 Illustrations. Agents wanted.—Address to Crystal Palace (John Bond's Daughter's) Gold Medal Marking Ink Works, 75, Southgate-road, London, N.

The "F. B. Meyer" Library of DEVOTIONAL VOLUMES.

FORMING
"The Christian Life" Series.

Consisting of the undermentioned FIVE VOLUMES, attractively bound in Library Style, in a Handsome Case.

PRICES—NET.

In Cloth Boards, Library Style, in Case, 5/- In Cloth, Bev. Bds., Gilt Edges, in Case, 7/6

Postage 6d. extra in each case.

CONTENTS OF THE LIBRARY.

CHRISTIAN LIVING
THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE
THE FUTURE TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE
THE SHEPHERD PSALM
THE PSALMS: Notes and Readings.—Separately, at 1s. 6d. and 2s.

Any of these Volumes may be had separately— Cloth Bds., 1s. Cloth Bev. Bds., Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d.

London: MORGAN AND SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

FOR GRATUITOUS DISTRIBUTION.

The Pilgrim's Progress.

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S ILLUSTRATED EDITION.

96 pages. Imperial 8vo size.

In Tinted Covers. PUBLISHED AT 6D. OFFERED FOR 3/- PER DOZEN NET. CARRIAGE PAID.

In Leatherette Binding, with Handsomely Gilt Side, PUBLISHED AT 1/6 OFFERED FOR 7/6 PER DOZEN NET. CARRIAGE PAID.

Not less than One Dozen of either Style supplied at these rates.

100 Copies for 20/- net, Carriage Extra. | Sample Copy, 3d. If sent by post, 4½d. | 40 Copies for 20/- net, Carriage Extra. | Sample Copy, 9d. If sent by post, 11½d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bdgs., E.C. May be ordered of any Bookseller.

WORKS ON ROMANISM.

FOXE'S BOOK of MARTYRS

MORGAN & SCOTT'S EDITIONS.

With Twelve Illustrations.

Complete in One Volume. Cloth bevelled boards, 10s. 6d. Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 12s. 6d.

"Only let this book have a place in every British home and we may smile at the efforts of Rome and of the Anglican Ritualists to undo the blessed work which was achieved for our nation and the world by the thousands of faithful witnesses to the truth, who, in dark days of priestly domination, resisted unto death."—Christian Leader.

By ELIZA RICHARDSON.

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

THE VEIL LIFTED; or, The Romance and Reality of Convent Life.

PERSONAL EXPERIENCE OF ROMAN CATHOLICISM; With Incidents of Convent Life.

The CATACOMBS at ROME.

Their Contents and Teachings.

By the late BENJAMIN SCOTT, F.R.A.S.
Fourth Edition. Revised and Improved. With many Illustrations.

Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d. Presentation Edition: Bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

A Vindication of Pure and Primitive Christianity; and an Exposure of the Corruptions of Romanism; Derived from the Sepulchral Remains of the Early Christians.

1s. per dozen; 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE CONFESSIONAL; A Personal Narrative. Neatly printed in red and black; suitable for enclosing in a square envelope.

"If our young people could be induced to read Mrs. Richardson's description of conventual life, its physical sufferings and privations, its fearful monotony, and its hopeless outlook, something of the romantic illusion which attracts youth to the Romish Church would certainly be destroyed."—Literary World.

LONDON: MORGAN AND SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PASTORS, MASTERS, TEACHERS.—It costs nothing for estimates, and will save pounds in printing and bookbinding. Church and school work my speciality. Special low terms and at short notice. Any distance.—My only address, JAMES, Kew-road, Richmond, Surrey. c6404

COFFEE AND DINING ROOMS in main thoroughfare, S.E.—Fixtures, tillings, etc., at valuation.—For full particulars, c6394, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6394

ASTHMA.—Persons suffering from asthma, difficulty of breathing, etc., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.—C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings. c5655

Umbrellas Re-covered from 2s. each.

IF YOUR UMBRELLA WANTS RE-COVERING send it by Parcels Post (with Postal Order enclosed) to STRONG BROS., Umbrella Makers, Redhill, Surrey, who will re-cover it and return it as good as new by next post, carriage paid. Good strong twill, ladies', 2s.; gents', 2s. 6d.; good alpaca, ladies', 3s., gents', 3s. 6d.; strong durable silk, ladies', 4s. 6d., gents', 5s. Patterns post free. Reference kindly permitted to Rev. G. H. Cambern, Redhill.

☞ A sample New Umbrella at wholesale price. List Free.

MAGNETISM AND HEALTH.

Dr. E. F. Brodie writes:—"In cases of Nervous Exhaustion, I consider the Magneticon Belt almost a certain cure if worn for a few months."

These Belts have been supplied to Rev. F. B. Meyer, G. Despard, and many whose names are in Pamphlet, "Curative Magnetism," free.
WETTON AND Co., 136, Regent-street, London, and Cheltenham.

FURS. — Sealskin jackets made to measure. Furs of every description cleaned, altered, repaired. Skins dressed and mounted.—E. BRADSHAW, Practical Furrier, 65, Margaret-street, Cavendish-square, London, W. c5987

CROCHET SHAWL PATTERNS.—"Cobweb," like fine lace, 1s. "Moss," handsome, feathery pattern, 8d. "Criss-Cross," 8d. "Spider," 4d. "Scarf," 4d. Or the five patterns for 2s. 6d., and three other pretty ones included. Instructions: wool to use. Lady F. writes: "I think your patterns lovely."—VIOLET, 22, Rouverie-road W., Folkestone. c6350

IN BANKRUPTCY.—1,000 wool serge costume skirts, black or navy, beautifully trimmed, being the entire stock of a manufacturer. 500 at 3s. 6d. each, worth 5s. 11d. 300 at 4s. 6d. each, worth 6s. 11d. 200 at 6s. 6d. each, worth 10s. 6d. Carriage paid. Postal orders.—THOMAS, 55, Everton-road, Manchester. c6352

LADY FROM INDIA has few lengths thick Indian cream silks, wash like handkerchiefs. 7yds., 35in. wide, 18s. 9d. London price, 30s. Suitable blouses, dresses, children's smocks, large real Rampore Chuddah shawls, cream and coloured (washable), 22s. 9d., half home price.—Appro. free. —DOUGLAS, 6, Shandwick-place, Edinburgh. c5998

ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL.

Preserves, Beautifies, Strengthens the Hair. Prevents Baldness, Eradicates Scurf. All Scientists assert that Oil is absolutely necessary to Nourish and Preserve the Hair, and ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL is the best. Also in a Golden Colour for Fair-haired Ladies and Children. Ask Chemists for ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL of 20, Hatton Garden, London

IRON MISSION ROOMS, Churches, Chapels, Schools, etc.—Designs and all necessary information (free) from R. C. HARRIS, Iron Building Manufacturer, 7, Idol-lane, London, E.C. Thirty years' extensive practical experience. c5281

BRONCHIAL AFFECTIONS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA successfully treated by an improved method. A safe and rational system leading to natural cure. Begun at this time of year protects against dangers of early winter. Winter cough effectually prevented.—Address, "Doctor," care of W. Bates, Chemist, 106, King's Cross-road, W.C. 6160

TO THE DEAF.—A gentleman who cured himself of deafness and noises in the head after fourteen years' suffering will gladly send full particulars of the remedy post free.—Address, H. CLIFTON, Norfolk House, Norfolk-street, Strand, London, W.C. c5267

CATERERS, INSTITUTIONS, SCHOOLS, ETC.—20lb. canisters TIEKNEETEE (large granular) nearly twice as strong as ordinary tea, and equal in flavour to "2s. 4d." Wholesale, £1 6s. 8d. per canister, cash on delivery (free) London suburbs. Country, cash with order, half carriage paid.—YE SELECT CEYLON TEA AGENCY, 89, Lime-street, London. c5122

HAIR FALLING OFF.—A lady, whose daughter was cured in a fortnight, will send particulars to anyone sending stamped addressed envelope to Mrs. C. FOSTER, Trafalgar-road, South Wimbledon, London. c5417

PUBLICATIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARDS.—Send to Wellington House, Higher Broughton, Manchester, for New List. Cheapest English, 1s. 6d. per 100; foreign, 1s. per 100. Missionaries constantly want cards. Gifts of money would greatly help to supply this need. c5360

ASSORTED GOSPEL BOOKLETS, including "A Saviour for You," "Thy Day," etc. Millions sold. Fifteen for 1s.; larger quantities at greatly reduced prices. Catalogues free.—S. M. HAUGHTON, 5, Hazelwood-road, Northampton. c6376

ARTISTIC FRENCH WALL TEXTS, landscape, etc., suitable for framing. Set of eight, post free, 1s., comprising Isaiah lv. 6, iii 6, and 1 Tim. ii. 5.—EVANGELICAL TRACT SOCIETY, 26, Paternoster-row. c5369

READY JULY 24, price 6d., or post free 6½d., "Marriage: Is it an Ecclesiastical Function or a Divine Ordinance?" By F. H. Rochester.—Messrs. BLACKWOODS, 63, Piccadilly, London, W. c6367

THE CLEVEDON ENVELOPES, with seventeen different texts of Scripture stamped in blue relief on the flap.—Send two penny stamps for specimens to Mrs. SELF, 6, Ladbroke-crescent, Red Hill, Surrey. c6429

Forthcoming Meetings.

[Communications respecting forthcoming meetings cannot be inserted unless received by Tuesday morning at the latest.]

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, or Wales, on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, London, W.C.; or, The Sec. Evangelisation Society, Scottish Branch, The Grove-street Institute, Glasgow.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send evangelists to any Evangelical denomination within the London postal area. Apply, Hon. Sec., 64, Kennington-oval, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for temporary or permanent work in our villages and country towns. Apply to Mr. G. H. Mawer, secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Mr. William Forbes desires that all applications for him to supply pulpits, or to conduct evangelistic services or Gospel temperance missions, may be sent to 71, Tollington-road, Holloway, London, N.

Thorne Evangelistic Missions.—Friends desirous to arrange for mission services, to be conducted by Mr. Thorne, should make early application to the secretary, Mr. James Pearce, Exeter Hall, Strand, to whom subscriptions for the Mission may be forwarded.

The King's Own Mission, St. James's Hall, Royal-road, Kennington, S.E.—Sun., Mr. John Langsford, 7 p.m., 3.15 p.m., P.S.A., Mr. O. L. Heatley.

S. S. Anne and Agnes, Gresham-street, E.C.—A special course of lectures on Wednesdays in July, at 1.15 p.m.:—July 31, "The Battle of Documents and Doctrines," Rev. F. Relton.

Lord Radstock and others will speak in the Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, Sundays, at 3.45 and 7 p.m. Meetings of Christians, Fridays, at 8.

Clapton Hall, Upper Clapton, N.E.—Mr. J. G. McVicker, Sundays at 6.30, and Thursdays at 7.30.

Christ Church, Westminster Bridge-road.—Sunday, July 28, 11 and 6.30, Rev. A. Page Sharpe, of Boston, Mass.

St. George's Hall, Langham-place.—Sundays, 11 a.m., Dr. M'Killiam; 7 p.m. Mr. S. Trevor Francis.

House of Rest, Burlington-place, Eastbourne.—Daily prayer-meeting at noon. Visitors invited.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park.—Sun., July 28, 3.30 and 7 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch.

Talbot Tabernacle, Notting Hill, W.—Sun., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. S. A. McCracken.

Edinburgh Castle, Limehouse, E.—Sun., July 28, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. De Burgh Rochfort; 3 p.m., Pleasant Sunday Afternoon.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Week nights, at 8; Sundays, at 11 and 6.30, Mr. Charles Inglis.

The Evangelistic Mission.—Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate, N.W., Sunday, at 7, Mr. Geo. Hucklesby. Malden Hall, Queen's Crescent, Haverstock Hill, N.W., Sunday, at 7, Mr. C. Russell Hurditch.

Clarendon Chapel, Camberwell New-road, S.E.—Wednesday, July 31, at 8 p.m., Rev. Dr. G. C. Lorimer (Boston, U.S.A.) will preach.

Special Religious Services in Theatres, Halls, etc.—For July 28.—Agricultural Hall, Upper-street, Islington, at 3.30, Mr. Wm. Carley; at 7, Mr. Charles Button; Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, at 3, Mr. Charles Button; at 7, Mr. Green; Grand Hall of Varieties, Clapham Junction, at 3, Mr. Bailey, at 7, Mr. Wm. Coates; Morley Hall, Mare-street, Hackney, N.E., at 7, Mr. Job Williams.

The meetings at Mrs. Boardman's, 3, Highbury-place, N., will be discontinued during the month of August.

Coming Conferences.

Prophetic Truth and Inspiration.—Duncon, July 30 to Aug. 1.

Blankenburg, Thuringia, Germany.—Sept. 2-6.

Perth.—Sept. 10—12, Rev. Dr. Bannerman, Perth, Hon. Sec.

West Norwood (Lansdowne Hall).—Oct. 15, 16, and 17 (Second Advent).

Deepening of Spiritual Life.—Carlisle, Sept. 2-6; Glasgow, Sept. 26-28; Hastings, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4; Blackheath, Oct. 1-4; Star Hall, Manchester, Oct. 6-13; Wakefield, Oct. 8-10; Ealing, Oct. 15-18; Oxford, Oct. 28-31; Norwich, Oct. 28 to Nov. 1; Belfast, Nov. 4-8; Bradford, Nov. 5-8; Edinburgh, Nov. 11-16.

DURING THE HEARING of a recent law case, a witness described as a heavy drinker a man who drank twenty-two pints of beer and a glass of whisky in one day. A light drinker, according to this same authority, would be a man who consumed three pints of beer and two glasses of whisky, while a moderate drinker was a man who drank "something between the two."

MR. E. TENNYSON SMITH writes to thank those of our readers who have responded to his appeal for information as to instances of deacons, elders, etc., in churches being engaged in the liquor traffic. "The letters already received," he says, "confirm the opinion which I have expressed as to the unsatisfactory attitude of the Church towards the liquor traffic. May I urge others who can aid me and the cause by supplying such information kindly to communicate with me?" Mr. Smith's address is, Rose Hill Cottage, Deganwy, near Llandudno.

ROMISH TEACHING CONCERNING THE VIRGIN MARY.—Mr. J. E. Southall, printer, 149, Dock-street, Newport, Mon., sends us copies of an admirable tract entitled "The True Catholic Doctrine of the Virgin Mary and of Christ," and he writes: "I shall be glad to send sample copies free to any who may inquire for them, and send the postage. I am looking to issue a French edition shortly, besides printing off more English copies, as the demand may be indicated. Should any reader of The Christian residing in a Spanish-speaking country, volunteer to give me a Spanish translation, I would also get out a Spanish edition of the tract."

CONSUMPTION, AND ALL CHEST DISEASES.

INTERVIEWS WITH OLD PATIENTS, AND NEW CASES.

By MR. CONGREVE'S COMMISSIONER.

NINETY-FOURTH INTERVIEW,

With Mr. JAMES KERSHAW, New Mill, Yorkshire.

REMARKABLE CASE OF CONSUMPTION ARRESTED.

Which was published in the weekly journals about June 30, 1887.

When I called upon Mr. Kershaw recently, I found a man in perfect health, and who has been so for years; and he ascribes the credit of this to Mr. Congreve's treatment for Consumption.

Briefly I give the history of the case, as told me by Mr. Kershaw:—

"I applied to Mr. Congreve," he said, "in 1884. For some time previously I had been ill, and had had the advice of two medical men. When they told me my illness would end in Consumption, I wrote to Mr. Congreve, for I had known a cure he had wrought. I had had a series of severe colds, which had been unchecked, and at the time I speak of I was suffering from a violent cough, much pain in chest, back, and sides, spitting of blood caused by the rupture of a small vessel, and loss of flesh and strength. I had to give up business for twelve months."

"To put it in a word, Mr. Kershaw, everything pointed to Consumption?"

"Undoubtedly. Under Mr. Congreve's care, however, I soon began to improve, and, ultimately, was quite cured."

"And what do you say about yourself now?"

"That I am better than I have ever been. I sometimes walk twenty miles a day over these hills without fatigue. You may depend upon it that I recommend the treatment wherever I have the opportunity."

"I believe you are acquainted with some other cases similar to your own?"

"My sister took the medicine with great benefit; she was going just in the same way that I had done. In addition to that, I have seen some wonderful cures of bronchitis with the medicine."

"I suppose, Mr. Kershaw, that you will not object to my publishing what you have told me?"

"I have not the slightest objection; and you may say that, if it had not been for Mr. Congreve's treatment, I should not be alive to-day."

MR. G. T. CONGREVE'S work on CONSUMPTION, &c., in which are detailed THE CAUSES, SYMPTOMS, PROGRESS, AND SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT OF THIS SCOURGE OF ENGLAND.—WITH NEARLY FOUR HUNDRED CASES OF CURE. ALSO ON COUGH, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c., &c. The Book will be sent, post free, for ONE SHILLING by the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, London, S.E.

TOWER TEA

"A DAILY TREAT"

SOLD IN PACKETS ONLY 2/4, 2/, 1/7, 1/4, 1/- PER POUND.

REGISTERED TRADE MARK. THE GREAT TOWER STREET TEA COMPY LIMITED. STRENGTH. LONDON.

NONE GENUINE WITHOUT THE REGD TRADE MARK AND SIGNATURE.

AGENTS Tower Tea EVERYWHERE.

THE GREAT TOWER ST TEA Co LTD 5, JEWRY STREET, LONDON, E.C.

Will send sample of tea and name of nearest agent on application.

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

CORPULENCY.

INCREASING POPULARITY OF AN EFFECTUAL CURE.

Many of our readers are doubtless familiar with the nature of the extraordinary revolution in the cure of obesity which, within recent years, has been wrought by the original researches of that now eminent expert, Mr. F. Cecil Russell, of Woburn House, Store-street, Bedford-square, London, W.C. It is evident that the certainty, the rapidity, and the agreeable surroundings of his curative process have been recognised, in a very large degree, among ladies and gentlemen belonging to the highest social circles. Keen observers who have an opportunity of judging inform us, through the pages of Society papers and otherwise, that, owing to the general employment of Mr. Russell's treatment, extreme obesity is becoming as much a thing of the past at fashionable gatherings as intoxication; and, no doubt, it will soon be regarded as nearly as disgraceful. The issue of an eighteenth edition of the author's singularly convicting little text-book, "Corpulency and the Cure," however, serves to remind us that the popularity of the system has now reached spheres far remote from those of West-End fashion. The book of 256 pages may be had, post free, by sending six penny stamps to Mr. Russell's offices, as above; and it is worth the careful attention of those who wish to free themselves of a burden of fat—not merely because it is unseemly and adds enormously to the apparent age of the sufferer—but because extreme obesity terribly interferes with the energy necessary in these days of competition to make one's way in the world, or even to earn a very modest competency. A large proportion of the letters of Mr. Russell's grateful correspondents refer to their delight at being enabled—within a very brief period and without any irksome conditions implying semi-starvation—to attack their accustomed tasks with pleasure instead of wearied disgust, through being reduced to their normal weight. The popularity of the system is also largely due, doubtless, to the English hatred of mystery, which is utterly swept aside by Mr. Russell. He fully explains his modus operandi, and supplies the recipe for his preparation.

CURES HEADACHE. BISHOP'S CITRATE OF CAFFEINE. Removes fatigue. Highly commended by the Lancet and British Medical Journal. Highest award Paris, 1889. Of all chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 6d.

This is THE MAGAZINE for distribution

THE HERALD OF MERCY

An Illustrated Evangelistic Periodical.

EIGHT QUARTO PAGES.

ONE HALF-PENNY MONTHLY.

CONTENTS FOR AUGUST.

The Drought in Jerusalem. By Rev. F. B Meyer, B.A.
Tim's Service (Illustrated).
The Power of God's Word.
The College Friends. (With Illustration).
Page for the Young:—
Grandma's Story. (With Illustration).
Poetry:—
Christ on the Stormy Sea. By Rev. Newman Hall, D.D.
Jesus at the Well. By John Vickers.

12 Copies of the August Number will be sent post free for Sixpence.

Terms for One Year:—4 Copies Monthly, 2s.; 8 Copies, 4s.; 12 Copies, 6s. Post Free to any address.

THE HERALD OF MERCY is useful for Loan Tract Societies, and when returned it can be cut into four separate leaves, each illustrated and complete in itself, for distribution.

THE HERALD OF MERCY is also eminently suited for LOCALISATION.

Terms and Specimens on application.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings.

And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

LAZENBY'S

PREPARED FROM THE ORIGINAL RECIPE BEARS THE WELL KNOWN LABEL Signed Elizabeth Lazenby

HARVEY'S SAUCE

LAZENBY'S PICKLES
LAZENBY'S SOUPS
LAZENBY'S SOUP SQUARES
LAZENBY'S TABLE JELLIES
LAZENBY'S POTTED MEATS
LAZENBY'S BAKING POWDER

No. 1331.] The Christian. [August 1, 1895.

PRINCIPAL CONTENTS.

PORTRAIT OF REV. DR. ELDER CUMMING.

Reverence and Godly Fear 8
The Riots in China. By Rev. J. Hudson Taylor 9
The Keswick Convention 9
Impressions by a Minister 10
Christ and His People. By Rev. Hubert Brooke 10
The Joyous Life. By Rev. G. C. Grubb ... 11
The Cave of Adullam. By Rev. F. B. Meyer... 12
Irish Railway Talks.—1. By George Williams... 13
The Keith-Falconer Mission 13
Our Daily Homily 14
For the Young.—A Sum in Arithmetic 15
Dr. Elder Cumming's Testimony 16
Students' Conference 16
The Keswick Convention—
The Meetings Day by Day 17
The Keswick Mission 17
The Praise Meeting... 18
The Missionary Meeting... 18
Camping Out at Keswick 19
The Wesleyan Conference 20
United Christian Endeavour Convention ... 21
Prison Congress at Paris 21
Work yet to be Done 22
A Presbyterian Congo Mission 22
Letters to the Editor 23
The Dives of New York... 24
Come to Jesus (poem) 24
Rabbi Lichtenstein 24
Zanzibar Strangers' Rest 25

INSTITUTIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS AND MISSION.
HIGH STREET, WHITECHAPEL, E.

Received with many thanks from Y., £1.; "Anonymous," Box of vegetables, basket of flowers.

"A Mother."—We have eighty away in the Country for change, rest and good food, to prevent them drifting into sickness.

Rations of food to hungry children. Infant Day-Nursery. Day and Sunday Schools. Children's Services. Band of Hope. Evening Classes for Boys and Girls. Classes, Meetings, and Institute for Young Women and Elder Girls. Various Meetings, Classes and Parlour for Young Men and Lads. Bible Classes. Evangelistic Services. Lodging House Meetings. Temperance Work and Meetings. Mothers' Meetings. Clubs for Clothing, Coals, Bibles, &c. Prayer Meetings. Country Homes for Men, Women, and Children. Training Home for Motherless Girls, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 72, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E. c6431

DAY IN COUNTRY FUND.—George Holland thankfully acknowledges receiving from M.O., 5s.—The Ragged Schools, George Yard, High-street, Whitechapel, E. c6432

THE SOUTHWARK. BOYS' HOME,
Branches: Greenwich, Ramsgate, Toronto.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT,

To receive really destitute boys from 6 to 18 years of age without payment or recommendation beyond ABSOLUTE NEED.

Urgent cases are considered at any time, but Mr. Fegan may be personally consulted about Orphan, Homeless, or Erring Boys at the Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E., on Mondays, from 10 till 2.

All communications should be addressed—
J. W. C. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home,
95, Southwark-street, London, S.E.

FRESH AIR FOR POOR CHILDREN.—For 10s. subscribed, a pale-faced child can enjoy a country holiday for a fortnight. The Duke of Abercorn and Lady Marriott are heartily thanked for their kind donations. Help very greatly needed this season for 500, in this, the third Poorest District in London. —A. STYLEMAN HERRING (for Local Committee), Vicar St. Paul's, Clerkenwell, 45, Colebrooke-row, N. —Bankers: London and County. c5378

DAY IN THE COUNTRY for adults and children. Also fortnight for the weak and suffering out of St. Luke's and Clerkenwell. Pastor Philip Gast (of Spencer-place Chapel, Goswell-road), 12, Noel-street, Islington. For over a quarter of a century help has been sent. c5233

DESPAIRING AND DESTITUTE.—Hundreds of thoroughly reclaimable young men might be permanently benefited by the numerous Labour Homes and Emigration Training Farms of the Church Army if funds permitted. Nearly one million meals served yearly, irrespective of creed, with labour test and Christian sympathy. Donors of 5s. and upwards supplied free with tickets for giving to beggars. £4000 pressingly required for food, clothing, and maintenance.—Remit, Rev. W. CARLILE, Hon. Chief Sec., Headquarters, 130, Edgware-road, London, W. c6469

POOR JEWS IN EAST LONDON.

The eight Jewish Missionaries of the London City Mission wish to send away for one or two weeks, many of the sick and ailing whom they visit.

Contributions will be thankfully received by F. A. BEVAN, Esq., 54, Lombard street, E.C., or by Mr. G. R. COLE, 3, Bridewell-place, London, E.C.

Cloth, 3s. 6d.; Leather, 5s.; Calf or Morocco, 7s. 6d.
Small Edition, on India Paper,
MOST SUITABLE FOR CARRYING ON A JOURNEY, OR FOR PRESENTS.

MORNING AND EVENING DAILY READINGS,
BY C. H. SPURGEON.

Over Two Hundred and Ten Thousand of these Devotional Works have been sold.

A TEXTUAL LIST OF 2,400 SERMONS, POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

LONDON: PASSMORE AND ALABASTER, 4, Paternoster-buildings.

CAMBRIDGE TEACHER'S BIBLES.
Prices from 2s. 6d.

Guardian:—"Of the general excellence of the work it is impossible to speak too highly. We have seldom seen so much good material compressed into so small a space, and the volume is worthy of the distinguished band of Cambridge scholars who have produced it."

Of all Booksellers. Lists on application.

London: C. J. CLAY & SONS, Cambridge University Press Warehouse, Ave Maria Lane.

MISSION OF HELP to the Suffering Poor, asks assistance for several Christian widows and families recently discovered in destitute circumstances.—Hon. Sec., ANNIE F. PERRAM, 38, Westbank, Stamford Hill, London. c6462

A TEN DAYS' CONVENTION on the Baptism of the Holy Ghost, or enduement of Power for Service will be held in the Albert Hall, Portsmouth, from Aug. 4 to 12 inclusive. Conveners, Mr. MARTIN, Crowboro', Mr. HENRY, Birmingham. NRI

ZENANA MEDICAL COLLEGE, 58, St. George's-road, Belgravia, S.W., trains ladies for MEDICAL MISSION WORK in Eastern lands. Vacancies for pupils. Next term October. Partially free studentships granted. Funds needed. c5361

EDUCATIONAL.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL.—A clergyman's daughter offers the above. Loving care. Good education. Every attention. Terms £2 monthly, or 20 guineas yearly. Healthy, open neighbourhood.—Tredegar House, East Dulwich-road, S.E. 5332

MALVERN HOUSE, BLOCKLEY,
WORCESTERSHIRE.

Principals, the Misses JUDSON. Home school for girls in a lovely and bracing village on the Cotswold Hills. Resident foreign and English governesses and visiting masters. Earnest Christian training. Terms moderate and inclusive. References kindly permitted to the Rev. John Wilkinson, Mildmay Mission to the Jews, and to parents of pupils. Summer term begins (D.V.), May 2, 1895. c3968

SIX GUINEAS.—Two girls can be received into a good home school to fill vacancies. Certificated governesses. English, French, music, singing, drawing, drill.—Miss WEBB, Prospect House School, Rayleigh, Essex. c5247

SUPERIOR FINISHING SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate professors.
DELTA, Ward's Library, 112, Kensington-pk.-rd., W.

BURLTON HOUSE, READING.—High-class Ladies' School. Principal, Miss RATCLIFFE. Old established. Thorough teaching. Modern educational advantages, examinations. Finishing masters. Well-appointed home. Highest references. c5271

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Lenten House, Alton, Hants. Principal, Miss Chinn, daughter of the late Rev. S. Chinn. Very successful preparations for examinations. References, Dr. Stewart, Alton; Rev. W. Houghton, Guildford; Rev. R. A. Davis, Ventnor. c5131

FRANCHE, GREAT MALVERN.—Principal, Miss GRIGG. High-class home school for girls. Special arrangements for Indian and Colonial pupils. c5206

TO PARENTS.—Girls of any age instructed in practical housewifery, superior economical cookery, intelligent catering and marketing. Laws of health and sanitation studied. Business training, book-keeping, etc. Fee from ten guineas, including twelve weeks' board and tuition as above in experienced lady's well-appointed home, S.E. References to parents of pupils.—c6161, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6161

ALLAN BANK, OWLS ROAD, BOSCOMBE.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS. Thorough education. Success in public examinations. Care of delicate girls. House near sea among pines. Terms moderate. References to Evangelical Clergymen, and to Ministers.—Apply, Miss COCKS, Principal. c5301

ROSEBERRY, Western-parade, Southsea, facing sea and common. Christian home school for gentlemen's daughters. Thorough and successful teaching, careful godly training, refined happy home. Resident English and foreign governesses. Highly recommended. Principals, the Misses ROBINSON. c5105

SOUTH-WEST LONDON COLLEGE.
High-class School for Young Ladies.
1, CARLTON MANSIONS, CLAPHAM-RISE, LONDON, S.W.
Principal—Mrs. HALE, A.C.P.

Modern system of teaching. Visiting masters in daily attendance. Resident certificated governesses. Careful personal supervision, home comforts, and Christian training. Preparation for any examination if desired. Good garden and tennis.

Highly recommended by the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, Rev. D. MacEwan, D.D. and parents of former and present pupils.

REV. D. B. HANKIN, Mildmay, kindly recommends good home school, two hours from London. Spacious detached house. Thorough education. Fees from £25.—Miss LARTER, Nene House School, Thrapstone, Northamptonshire. c5130

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, East Tytherton, Chippenham.—Christian training. Preparation for examinations. Moderate terms.—Principal, Miss HOLLIS. c2317

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Rugby House, Leamington. Principal, Miss Arnold, assisted by certificated masters and mistresses. Highest educational advantages. Preparation for exams. Special care of delicate girls. Vacancy for governess-student. Premium. Referees: Rev. J. Stockwell Watts and others. c6151

EDUCATION NEAR LONDON.—Good professors. Christian training. Highly recommended by Miss Leicester, Head Mistress Wyggiston Girls' High School, Leicester, and parents of pupils. Governess-student wanted. Fee, 8 guineas per term. —c6162, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6163

UPPER MOUNT, SOUTHSEA.—High-class Home School for the daughters of gentlemen. Autumn term, September 17th.—For Prospectus, etc., address, PRINCIPAL. c5337

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.—The Misses BALCH and EDMEADES, Clevedon Lodge, Reading. Pupils prepared for Oxford and Cambridge Locals (higher, senior, junior), and Trinity College Exams. Vacancy for student-teacher (premium). c6265

THE MORAVIAN SCHOOLS, Fulneck, near Leeds.—A thorough, advanced, and Christian education. Boys' School, Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON. Ladies' School, Rev. M. B. O'CONNOR. c5341

ILFRACOMBE.—WILDERFORD HALL High School for Girls. Thorough education. Preparation for exams. Comfortable home. Christian training. Special attention given to delicate girls. Principal, Miss HEALE. Paying guests received. Moderate charges. c6402

VACANCIES OCCUR in high-class school for girls. Pupils received whose parents are abroad. Christian training. Home comforts. Special attention to backward pupils. Terms 30 guineas.—PRINCIPAL, 10, Clapton Common. c6157

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Wilton House, Tylehurst-road, Reading. Head Mistress, Miss Marion White. Assisted by well qualified resident mistresses and visiting professors. Pupils prepared, if desired, for public examination. Wilton House stands on high ground, gravel soil, outside the town. Large garden, cricket field, tennis courts. Tepid swimming bath. Next term begins Thursday, September 19. c5375

A YOUNG LADY (over 14), can be received in good school. Education free if willing to work for examination. Small charge for board and laundry. Also young lady on reciprocal terms to teach juniors. Nonconformists.—Address first, H., Aston House, Hammersmith Bridge Avenue, W. c6489

HOME SCHOOL BY THE SEASIDE, —Bracing air. Terms moderate. Successes at Senior and Junior Cambridge, College of Preceptors. Next term, September 11. Governess-student wanted. —Mrs. SKIDMORE, Withnell-road, Blackpool. c6498

HOME AND EDUCATION for one or two children in Christian family. Trained teacher, can be well recommended. Very healthy. Motherly care and oversight.—c6487, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6487

LINDFIELD, MALVERN,
LADIES' SCHOOL.
Principals .. .. The Misses GRAHAM.

THOROUGH AND SUCCESSFUL TEACHING Christian training. Pupils prepared for Local Exams. Visiting masters. References kindly permitted to parents of pupils in England and abroad. Terms moderate. Vacancy for Gov. Pupil. Premium required. c6461

STAFFORD HOUSE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, 260, Marylebone-road, London. Principal, Miss SHILLAKER. Healthy locality, near parks. Individual teaching. Special advantages for music and art subjects. Civil Service and all public examinations. Terms moderate. Highest references. Vacancy for articled pupil. c4476

BRIGHTON.—High-class school for girls. Healthy situation. Home comforts. Individual care. Great educational advantages. Resident French governess. Professors. Moderate terms. Vacancy for governess-student (premium).—The Misses NORTON, Farndon House, Stamford-road. c6520

NEUCHATEL, SWITZERLAND.—A few young ladies received in September in superior French finishing home school. Evangelical. First-rate advantages for languages, music, art. Eminent professors. Delightful climate. English home comforts. Highest references.—Letters to Mdlle. COULERU, Enderby Hall, Leicester. c5382

ETONHURST, WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Preparatory school for the sons of gentlemen Competent masters attend daily. Prospectus on application to LADY PRINCIPALS. c5334

Huntingdon House School, TEDDINGTON, Middlesex.

Christian training. First-class masters. Thorough teaching. Moderate fees. Preparation for professional and business life, and for examinations (over 100 certificates gained). Recommended by Rev. Evan Hopkins, Kensington, and many Christian parents. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.
Principal—Mr. GEO. CUMMS, F.R.G.S., F.R.A.S.

Make your Boys Men of Business.
A sound COMMERCIAL EDUCATION is afforded at
WEST CLIFF SCHOOL, RAMSGATE.
(Founded 1864.)

Particular attention given to Book-keeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Modern Languages, Athletics, &c.

THE HEALTHY SITUATION
of the School is unrivalled. Evangelical Teaching. Special care of delicate and backward boys. Liberal Diet. Prospectus free.—Apply to HEAD MASTER.
Highest references to Ministers, Old Scholars, and present Pupils' Parents. c4895

STANLEY HOUSE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Thorough education, with decided Christian training. The premises include workshop, chemical laboratory, covered and open playgrounds, tennis courts and cricket field. Delicate boys receive special care. Fees moderate and inclusive.—For prospectus, apply PRINCIPAL. c2603

MANY CHRISTIAN PARENTS who at the present time are seeking a school at which to place their sons, are invited to write to the under-mentioned, who is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, where the constant aim of the principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class education.

The premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the south coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectus and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application. Several wards in Chancery have been appointed as pupils in the school. Terms moderate.—Dr. THORN (not Thorne), Paddington, London c5199

FOLKESTONE.

MR. J. W. C. FEGAN desires to recommend to Christian parents a high-class school for sons of gentlemen, in the best part of Folkestone. A thoroughly good education with real Christian influence, home comforts, and close individual attention to each boy. Highest references.—Mr. J. W. C. FEGAN, Boys' Home, 96, Southwark-st., S.E. c1674

MR. W. ERNEST MATTHEWS, B.A. (honours), assisted by efficient masters, prepares for the Army, Navy, Universities, Public Schools, etc. Pupils under Christian influence. Excellent situation.—10, Worcester-terrace, Clifton, Gloucestershire. c3388

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL for boys. Thorough education. Every home comfort, with unlimited diet. Health resort. Medical reference. Careful Christian training. Terms inclusive and very moderate.—PRINCIPAL, Lucton School, Henfield, Sussex. c5134

PREPARATORY SCHOOL

To the Public Schools and Royal Navy, for Gentlemen's Sons, aged 8 to 14.

The Old Hall, Wellington, Shropshire.

(Founded 1845.) Very healthily situated, 370 feet above the sea, near the Wrekin. 3½ hours from London, by L. & N.W. or G.W.R. Beautiful grounds, playing fields, &c. Illustrated Prospectus on application to the Head Master, G. E. W. CRANAGE, M.A. (Shrewsbury School and Trinity College, Oxford); or Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6338

ALRESFORD HOUSE SCHOOL, MARGATE.—High-class school for the sons of gentlemen. Boys are prepared for the various competitive examinations. Special care of Indian children. Christian home.—Apply, The PRINCIPALS. c5371

COMBE DOWN SCHOOL, BATH, for the sons of gentlemen. This school will (D.V.) be removed after the summer term to more convenient and commodious premises, newly built, in Weston-super-Mare. Address, till end of August, Combe Down, Bath; after August, to Clarence School, Weston-super-Mare.—W. FRANKLIN, Head-master. c3339

YOUR BOYS have Christian home and education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Gordon School, Kingston-on-Thames. Established eleven years. Beautiful district, near Richmond Park. References. 20 to 25 guineas yearly. c5250

NEW COLLEGE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Head Master: Rev. G. Hugh Jones, F.A.S. High-class School for sons of Christian gentlemen. Inclusive Fees, £45 per annum; under eleven, £40.

20 GUINEAS PER ANNUM.—Special offer. Seaside Boys' Boarding School. High successes last term. No failures. Highly recommended by ministers and parents.—Letters, CLARK, Chapel-street, Market Harborough. c6583

A LADY WISHES TO RECOMMEND her late finishing governess. Usual branches of English, French, and German acquired abroad. Music, painting, art needlework, etc.—Mrs. A. E. WALKER, The Hall, Great Glenn, Leicester. c5522

AS NURSERY GOVERNESS (25), Conscientious, careful teacher. Excellent with boys. Senior Cambridge certificate. All usual subjects. Six years' highest references.—MYRA, Mrs. Edwin Hooper's Governesses' Institute, Compton-terrace, London, N. c6441

JAMAICA.—FRENCH, SWISS, OR DUTCH PROTESTANT governess required (good salary), to help in large mission school (girls). Music, singing essential. Happy Christian home.—Mrs. HOOPER'S Governesses' Home, Compton-terrace, Highbury. c6506

WANTED, A LADY, who is a thorough Christian, as nursery governess. Able to teach music, drawing, French. A good needlewoman necessary, and willing to assist in little household duties. Moderate salary.—Address, FAITH, Messrs. Deacon's, Leadenhall-street, E.C. c6502

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES

(English and Foreign), recommended GRATIS by Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governesses' Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. (Established 1870). BOARD AND RESIDENCE from 13s. weekly. No fee to Governesses until placed. Schools recommended and transferred. c5211

SITUATIONS, ETC., WANTED.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

WANTED, BY A YOUNG MAN, 33, married, an engagement as missionary or Scripture reader, or caretaker of mission, where part time might be given to the Lord's work. Evangelical, good organiser. Experience open-air work, visitation, etc., among ragged school children. Can be highly recommended.—EVANGELIST, 21, Broad-street, Lambeth. c6146

TO PROTESTANT CHURCHMEN and others.—Charge of mission hall required end of September by David Hyslop (of the Anne Jukes, Lincolnshire van), experienced evangelist and lecturer.—DAVID HYSLOP, Metheringham, Lincoln. c6481

A YOUNG COUPLE, training for the foreign field, would be glad if some Christians would send them as substitutes. References given.—c6383, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6383

ADVERTISER, CHRISTIAN YOUNG MAN (21), of good education, is desirous of accompanying gentlemen engaged in travelling as secretary. Small salary only required. Undeniable references.—Address, c6536, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6536

MRS. TUCKETT RECOMMENDS her young groom. Eighteen months' character. Honest, steady, and obliging.—Address, Mrs. TUCKETT, Child's Hill House, N.W. c6437

GARDENER, SINGLE-HANDED. Twelve years' experience, inside and out. Married, no family. Three and a-half years present situation. Christian, abstainer. Please state wages.—W. SALMON, 3, Shortlands-villas, Shortlands, Kent. c6510

CHRISTIAN LADY DESIRES Christian work. Charge of mission, Gospel addresses, mothers' meetings, etc. Harmonium. Or as companion and assistant in Christian work. Salary required.—Miss DAFT, 54, Moray-road, N. c6516

A LADY WHO HAS been employed in a City office for five years as correspondent and confidential clerk, is anxious to find a similar situation, or as private secretary. Reference to General Haig, The Limes, Redhill.—Address, c6442, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6442

PROPRIETORS (no family), popular private boarding establishment, vicinity Scotch watering place, desire lady partner. Good education and manners. Not above being useful. Knowledge of cooking. Small capital.—c6388, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6388

ENGAGEMENTS WANTED together by two Christian ladies (sisters), in Institution. Both good housekeepers, or any position of trust accepted. Salary required. Good references.—c6489, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6489

TEMPORARY ENGAGEMENT as companion, housekeeper, matron, assistant, or charge of house. Clergyman's daughter, middle-aged, domesticated, experienced. Good references.—C. D., Mr. W. Perks, 41, St. Martin's-lane, W.C. c6492

LADY-HOUSEKEEPER.—A clergyman very highly recommends his lady housekeeper, age 37, who is educated, kind, refined, energetic, thoroughly domesticated, and fond of children. A refined Christian home desired. Church or Nonconformist.—Address, Thurton Vicarage, near Norwich. c6495

A CHRISTIAN LADY desires a re-engagement as companion or companion-housekeeper to an elderly or invalid lady. Abstainer. Kind, gentle, trustworthy. Excellent references.—F., 83, Kelldon-road, Clapham Common, S.W. c6482

DAUGHTER OF THE LATE REV. A. A. REES, of Sunderland, desires position as companion or housekeeper. Middle-aged. Excellent references.—Miss REES, Brunswick House, Brunswick-square, W.C. c6472

COMPANION-HOUSEKEEPER.—Gentlewoman seeks engagement. Understands the management of children and servants. Experienced in sickness. Used to mission work. Salary £30.—T. G., care of Mr. Fricker, 84, Westow-hill, Norwood, S.E. c6444

WIDOW LADY, ABOUT 35, desires engagement as companion or lady-housekeeper. Good reader for a blind lady or gentleman.—K., Aire's Library, Hildreth-road, Balham. c6450

YOUNG PERSON (age 27) seeks situation as housekeeper or useful lady help, where servant is kept. Salary required. In or near London preferred. Musical. Domesticated. Dissenter and abstainer.—Address, M. W., 2, Toronto Villas, Staines-road, Hounslow, Middlesex. c6463

A YOUNG LADY seeks situation as lady help or companion. Small salary.—T., 13, West View-terrace, Preston, Lancs. c6470

YOUNG LADY, 23, seeks situation as useful companion to a lady. Cheerful, abstainer, Church of England. Small salary. Comfortable home essential. Good references.—c6475, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6485

DAME VEUVE, 50 ans, sachant coudre, élever des enfants, desirerait place dans une famille chrétienne.—S'adresser à M. CABON, Pasteur, Saverdun, Ariège, France. c6385

READING.—Young lady would devote two hours daily to reading in English or French to an invalid lady, or otherwise. Terms, 10s. a week.—N., 29, Bateman-terrace, Sinclair-gardens, W.

A LADY WISHES TO RECOMMEND a useful maid, 8½ years' good character. Very kind and efficient in sickness, and most trustworthy. Good needlewoman.—Address, Mrs. HUTCHINSON, Holmleigh, Ealing, W. c6452

SITUATION WANTED as sewing maid. Country preferred. Churchwoman. Good references.—S. W., 48 Byron-street, Derby. c6458

CHILDREN'S MAID OR NURSE.—Highly respectable young woman. Age 18. Very fond of children. Abstainer. Desires engagement, as above, to one or two children. Good knowledge of dressmaking.—Apply, F., 10, Queen-street, Aylesbury. c6504

MIDDLE-AGED LADY would be glad to take care of an invalid lady, or act as mother's help for comfortable home. Small salary. Good references.—J. C., 92 Mattison-road, Harringay, N. c6491

LADY WISHES TO FIND a place for a good laundress, family, institution, or school. Good fine ironer. Wages £18. Two years' reference.—Mrs. ORTON-SMITH, Meadow View, Woodridings, Pinner, Middlesex. c6459

WANTED, FOR YOUNG GIRL, an orphan, a comfortable home, where she can be taught light domestic duties or business. Is fond of needlework and cooking. No salary required.—Apply, Miss JESSIE SMITH, 6, White Ladies-road, Bristol. c6518

GENERAL HELP.—Would any lady, desirous of general help in the house, try a woman of 46, clean, honest, and of good character, who can be recommended by her last employer? A comfortable home with nominal wages would suffice. — Apply, A. S., 1, Brewer-street, Woolwich. c6445

SITUATIONS, ETC., VACANT.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

TO CANDIDATES for holy orders wishing to graduate.—St. Matthew's, Cambridge, University Lay-Workers' Ordination Fund (Patron, the Lord Bishop of Ely).—A studentship worth £60 a year is now vacant. Applicants must be single, musical, and well grounded in classics and mathematics.—Write, stating full particulars, to the Rev. F. E. ROGERS, Abbey Walk, Cambridge. c6171

CHRISTIAN MAN wanted to sell Bibles and good literature in country districts. State if previous experience, and what district. Reference required.—Apply, by letter, to G., 41, Store-street, W.C. c6453

WANTED BY THE COMMITTEE of the Young Men's Christian Association, Eastbourne, a Christian man, to help in the secretarial work. It is not required that he shall devote his whole time, but part, and especially every evening.—Apply, letter only, stating salary, THE CHAIRMAN, Y.M.C.A., Eastbourne. c6460

TRAVELLER wanted (salary and commission), used to calling on photographic dealers, to push a few novelties in photo apparatus.—Address, by letter only, stating terms and particulars, HORNE, 21, St. John's-square, Clerkenwell, E.C. c6513

£18 A YEAR.—Furnished private rooms in a Mission house near Geneva, for ladies willing to help in interesting mission work (two already working).—JAY, 36, Darenth-road, Stamford Hill, N. c6451

EVANGELICAL CHURCHWOMAN wanted, middle of August, to take charge of voluntary school. Twenty pupils. £40, and one-third of Government grant earned. Lodging and coal.—Major PELHAM BURN, Nosely, Billesdon. c6527

CAN ANY LADY RECOMMEND a Christian widow as matron in a school for gentlemen?—Apply, Miss BRYAN, Monkton Combe School, Bath. c6526

OAK HILL RESCUE HOME.—Wanted, matrons for book-keeping and sewing-room. Christian workers, healthy, musical. Willing to assist as needed.—Apply, with references, to LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Oak Hill Home, Cheetham Hill, Manchester. c6506

A TRUSTWORTHY WORKING HOUSEKEEPER wanted, an abstainer, age about 35, by a lady engaged in Christian work. Small four-roomed house. No washing, no children.—Apply by letter, Miss S., 25, Glengall-road, Cubitt Town, E. c6455

A LADY IN HOLLAND wishes to engage as companion for her daughter, age 15, a well educated lady, willing to take her place while she is abroad, domesticated, and of a cheerful disposition. Knowledge of music and good references essential.—Apply, sub. No. 782, to J. H. de Bussy's Advertising Office, 60, Rokin, Amsterdam. N.B.

LADY'S MAID for one lady in the country. Must be good dressmaker and plain worker. Christian preferred.—Apply by letter, to R., Willing's, 162, Piccadilly, London, W. c6183

WANTED FOR SMALL TRAINING HOME (19), a helper, about 24, to work with the girls. Needlewoman. Early riser. From North counties. £12.—Address, MATRON, Children's Training Home, Horton-street, Halifax. c6457

LEAMINGTON SPA.—Trained medical, surgical, and maternity nurses can be supplied from the Y.W.C.A. Home, York House, Clarendon-place, on the shortest notice. Telegrams, "Nursing," Leamington Spa. Terms upon application. c5120

EXPERIENCED NURSE wanted to take charge of one child, aged 7 months. Must have good references and be a good needlewoman.—Apply, Mrs. ABBOTT, Syston House, Boscombe, Bournemouth. c6484

UNDER-NURSE.—Strong country girl wanted as under-nurse and to help in housework, small family, town and country. Good needlewoman, Christian and abstainer preferred.—Write, stating wages, age, religion, and full particulars, to Mrs. W., 12, Palace Court, Bayswater. c6516

CAN ANY LADY RECOMMEND cook-housekeeper? Highest references required. Good influence over large household. Tectotaler. Church of England.—Mrs. R. GURNEY, Northrepps Hall, Norwich. c6467

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, in a small quiet family. Washing put out. Must be an abstainer. About 30 years of age. An early riser. Good reference indispensable.—Address, H., care of Mr. Bush, Stationer, Bromley, Kent. c6521

COOK wanted in September. Large establishment. Thoroughly respectable woman. Age 30-35.—27, Stanley-gardens, Kensington Park-road, W. c5984

WANTED, FOR SMALL CHRISTIAN INSTITUTION in Scotland, two servants, one plain cook, other housemaid. Very comfortable home for trustworthy women interested in missionary work. Can lady recommend?—c6512, Haddon's Offices, Salisbury-square, London, E.C. c6512

GOOD USEFUL WORKING WOMAN wanted, about 40, to help generally in house and sailors' coffee-room. Loyal Christian Churchwoman. Comfortable home.—Apply, Rev. A. BURNELL, Bilbao, Spain. c6505

WANTED AT ONCE, earnest Christian, age between 23 and 25, as servant. Regular house duties, but must be willing for any work. Amiable, quiet, early riser. Good wages.—Apply, by letter only, c6364, Haddon's Advertising Office, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6364

WANTED, END OF AUGUST.—Thorough general servant and nurse. Two in family, one baby. Personal characters indispensable. Apply evenings except Saturday and Tuesday.—5, St. Cuthbert's-road, Brondesbury. c6478

A CHRISTIAN CHURCHWOMAN wanted as general servant or working housekeeper in a clergyman's family, one child.—Apply, stating wages, to VICAR, Scotthead, Lecs, Lancs. NB2

LADIES WANTING SERVANTS and servants seeking situations, should apply to Miss MAULDEN (late missionary), 97, Harrow-road, Paddington Green, whose office is well known and kindly recommended by the Rev. G. F. Pentecost, D.D. Stamps for reply. c6490

7s. 6d. A WEEK SALARY and upward offered to both sexes (for spare moments) everywhere. The work may be done evenings.—Apply, enclosing addressed envelope, to H. TRUSCOTT AND Co, 5, Sherwood-terrace, Chelston (105), Torquay. c5234

TO LET, APARTMENTS, ETC.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

MIDLAND TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 76, Gower-street, Russell-square, W.C.—A first-class Hotel for Visitors to London. Central and pleasantly situated. A thoroughly clean and quiet home, with every comfort and convenience. Highly patronised and recommended by the clergy and ladies and gentlemen. Bedrooms from 1s. 6d., breakfast or tea from 1s. 8d., service 9d. Full tariff, with testimonials, free on application to J. W. TURNER, Proprietor.

W. TAVERNER, TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 41 and 43, Judd-street, Euston-road, London, W.C. Five minutes from Great Northern, Midland, and North-Western Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Silent roadway. Ten minutes from British Museum. Tariff on application.

AT LONDON.—TRANTER'S TEMPERANCE HOTEL, Bridgewater-square, Barbican, near St. Paul's Cathedral, G.P.O., and all places of interest. Quiet, clean, economical.—Write for "Visitors' Guide," showing "How to Spend a Week in London," with tariff and testimonials, post free.

LONDON, VISITORS TO,

Will find Rest, Comfort, and Kindness at Bernard's

Private Christian Temperance Hotel,

1 and 2, Granville-square, King's Cross-road, W.C. Quiet square. Most central position in London. Bed and breakfast, 3s. Bed, breakfast, and tea, 3s. 9d. Reduction to Ministers. No attendance fees or gratuities. Write "Secretary" for rooms. c5302

BURR'S HOTEL, Queen-square, London, W.C., near British Museum, in centre of Metropolis, but just out of the daily noise and bustle, thus giving restful quiet. Write for terms. c5379

BETTWS-Y-COED, North Wales.—The Pont-y-Pair Temperance Hotel, very comfortable. For terms, which are extremely moderate, apply to the MANAGERESS. c5097

NEAR BLACKHEATH.—To governesses and others. Board and lodgings upon specially moderate terms, in small boarding house, to fill vacancies during holidays.—Apply, LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Y.W.C.A., 179, High-street, Lewisham, S.E. c5523

BOSCOMBE, BOURNEMOUTH.—Boarding house and holiday home for ladies. Situated near Chine gardens and sea. Temperance. Terms from 18s. to 25s. weekly. Stamp for reply.—Miss ELLIS, Fairleigh, Drummond-road. c6478

BOSCOMBE, BOURNEMOUTH.—Board and residence. House pleasantly situated among pines. Quite near sea, pier, and gardens. South aspect. Terms moderate.—Melbourne, Owl's-road. c6524

BOSCOMBE, BOURNEMOUTH.—To let, suites of rooms or entire house, well furnished, fifteen rooms, choice position, main road, very near sea, gardens, arcade, etc. Terms on application.—66, Christchurch-road. c6363

CASTLE COURT, EAST CLIFF, BOURNEMOUTH.

Private Boarding Establishment (warmed by coils in winter) overlooking Boscombe Chine Public Gardens. Magnificent land and sea views. Excellent Cuisine. Private Apartments. Boro' Sanitary Certificate.

MR. & MRS. J. D. HAZARD.

BOURNEMOUTH.—THE MIDLAND Family and Commercial Temperance Hotel. Cuisine first class. Near West Railway Station. Electric light. Handsomely furnished coffee, drawing, reading, and commercial rooms.—Boarding terms on application to MANAGERESS. c5133

BOURNEMOUTH, Boscombe Grange.—Superior boarding establishment. Public rooms, modern. Visitors' comfort studied. Electric light. Terms from 35s. weekly; a reduction for a term, or more than one.—Proprietor, HENRY EBBEN. c5186

BOURNEMOUTH WEST. Most comfortable boarding house. Near sea. Charming views. Pleasant garden. Tennis lawn. Generous table. Sanitary certificate. Bright, Christian home. Moderate terms.—Durley Hall, Durley Chine, Mrs. MANWARING, Proprietress. c5381

IF YOU VISIT BOURNEMOUTH, try The Manchester, St. Michael's-road. Good comfortable boarding house. Close to the sea and pavilion, spacious drawing and dining rooms, library, and other conveniences. Terms moderate.—GEO. COLE, Proprietor. c5372

GLENMALURE, WEST CLIFF GARDENS, BOURNEMOUTH.

Situated on high ground, but very sheltered. Two minutes from the Cliff and Pines. Mrs. C. H. Mackintosh (widow of Dr. Mackintosh of Poole) receives a limited number for board and residence. Good table. Special care given to invalids. Sanitary Certificate. c5288

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, 58, Old Steine.—Sea view, near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and Piers. Liberal table, home comforts. Terms moderate.—Mr. and Mrs. BOX. Established 20 years. c5116

MORELAND HOUSE, BRIGHTON, 116, Lansdowne-place. Recommended by Rev. David Davies. Beautiful situation near sea and lawns. Refined and homelike board and residence. Liberal arrangements. Terms moderate. c4625

BRIGHTON.—Close to the sea and lift. Temperance boarding house. Ladies from 18s. to 21s. Gentlemen 25s.—38s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. daily. Stamped envelope.—20, Portland-place, Marine Parade. c5841A

AIDS FOR BIBLE STUDENTS,

Open-Air Preachers, Sunday-School Teachers, and others.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN & SCOTT.

BY REV. F. B. MEYER AND OTHERS.

THE FIVE BOOKS OF MOSES. Genesis—Deuteronomy.
A brief Introduction to each Book, with a suggestive Summary of each chapter. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, Bev. Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s. 6d.
"Rarely can Sunday-school teachers get so excellent a commentary on such easy terms."—Methodist New Connexion Magazine.

JOSHUA TO SECOND BOOK OF KINGS. Forming the New Volume of "The Christian" Bible Readings. Tinted Covers, 1s. Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s. 6d. Prepared for the use of S.S. Teachers and others who have not access to larger commentaries. There is a short introduction to each Book, and a comprehensive treatment of each chapter.

BY REV. DR. PENTECOST.

"OUT OF EGYPT." A Series of Addresses and Bible Readings on the Exodus of Israel and its Spiritual Lessons. Tinted Covers, 2s.; Cloth Neat, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d.; Bound in White Parchment, 5s.
"A most welcome practical commentary on the portion of the Word with which it deals."—British Messenger.

"IN THE VOLUME OF THE BOOK"; Or, The Pleasure and Profit of Bible Study. With Introduction by Rev. Joseph Cook and Bishop J. H. Vincent, D.D. Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Limp, 2s.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.
"A capital book! It is a vindication of the Bible's Divine authority; an Exposition of some of its great lines of teaching, and a Manual for guidance as to Bible study, all in one."—British Messenger.

THE BIBLE REMEMBRANCER. A valuable and unique Handbook to the Bible. New and Enlarged Edition; a large portion having been specially re-written. Over Sixty Classified Sections, with copious Scripture references. With Complete Bible Atlas (14 Maps), brought down to date, and many other features of interest. Tinted Covers, 2s.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d. (suitable for Presentation).
"Every teacher ought to have a copy. Its cost will be paid by the mere economy of time in a few weeks."—Methodist Recorder.

THE BIBLE INTERPRETER: An Illustrated Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures. An Explanation of more than Eighteen Hundred Scripture Words and Phrases. A Table of over 360 Historical Events and Biographical Notices. A List of the Prayers, Miracles, and Parables in the Scriptures. And other useful and helpful Tables on various subjects. With Steel-plate Frontispiece, 11 Full-page and nearly 50 smaller Illustrations. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s.
"A compact and handy manual of reference, especially designed to meet the requirements of Sabbath-school teachers and others who are unable to procure the larger and more expensive works of this class."—Literary World.

BY LUCY J. RIDER AND NELLIE M. CARMAN.

CHILDREN'S MEETINGS, and How to Conduct Them.
A Useful Volume for Teachers, Parents, and Preachers to the Young. The Contents embrace over Sixty Outline Lessons, over Forty Diagrams for the Blackboard, and Twenty-five Children's Hymns, with Music. Tinted Covers, 2s.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.
The Sunday School Chronicle says:—"The question is often asked, 'How can we make our week-evening meetings varied and interesting?' The answer is found in a work like this, which we heartily recommend."

BY REV. DR. CULROSS.

JOHN WHOM JESUS LOVED. A Sketch of the Character, Writings, Theology, and Influence of the Beloved Disciple. With eight chromo-lithographic views of the Sea of Galilee, the Isle of Patmos, etc. Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.
"It is altogether without reserve that we commend the work before us; it is not a bottle of milk for babes, but a portion of meat for men. A half-dozen readings will only make it more interesting to those who meditate on what they read."—Sword and Trowel.

"BEHOLD, I STAND AT THE DOOR AND KNOCK." Christ's Message to the Church at Laodicea. With chromo-lithographic Frontispiece. Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.
"All who admire the author's insight, his delicacy of perception, his felicity of language, his broad and tender sympathies, his grasp of great truths, will welcome this volume."—The Freeman.

"THY FIRST LOVE." Christ's Message to the Church at Ephesus. With Frontispiece. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.
"Another of these small but precious volumes of our devout author which has made his name fragrant throughout the churches. The book is scholarly, eloquent, and Scriptural, which none can read without profit."—The Christian Age.

Works on Prophecy.

BY MR. GEORGE F. TRENCH, B.A.

AFTER THE THOUSAND YEARS. The Glorious Reign of Christ as Son of Man in the Dispensation of the Fulness of Times. Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.
"Mr. Trench seeks in this attempt to elucidate some Biblical prophecies, to inspire his 'readers to a fuller and more careful attention to this branch of the prophetic page.' Other students of Biblical prophecy will, no doubt, find Mr. Trench's speculations helpful and stimulating."—Publishers' Circular.

BY MR. D. L. MOODY.

THE SECOND COMING OF CHRIST. Cloth Limp, 6d. Cheap Edition for Gratuitous Distribution, 2s. per dozen.

BY REV. NEWMAN HALL, D.D.

THE COMING OF THE LORD. Cloth boards, 6d. Cheap Edition, Tinted covers, 2d.

Cruden's Concordance:

TO THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS.

All the Editions described below contain 757 pages, 2,270 closely-printed columns, and about 250,000 references.

A SPECIAL FEATURE is THE LIST OF PROPER NAMES, newly translated by Rev. Alfred Jones, M.A. This portion of the work is strictly copyright, and can only appear in Morgan & Scott's Editions.

PORTABLE EDITION.—Strong Cloth Boards, 3s. 6d.; Half-calf, Marbled Edges, 7s. 6d.

POPULAR EDITION.—Printed on Superior Paper. Strongly bound in Cloth Boards, 5s.

LIBRARY EDITION.—Strongly Half-bound in Leather, 10s. 6d.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION.—Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt top. With 12 exquisite Steel-plate Engravings, and 6 Coloured Maps, 10s. 6d.

NOTICE.

To secure the special features which are only to be found in the above-mentioned Editions,
INSIST ON BEING SUPPLIED WITH
Morgan and Scott's Cruden's Concordance.

By the late Rev. ADOLPH SAPHIR, D.D.

Christ and the Scriptures. The Living Word and the Written Word. Crown 8vo, Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bev. boards, gilt edges, 3s.
"We thank God with a full heart for this fresh, powerful, living utterance of great—and some of them forgotten—truths which commend themselves to one's mind, as the Spirit-guided expression of the convictions of a Christ-filled soul."—British Herald.

By Rev. A. T. PIERSON, D.D.

Many Infallible Proofs. The Evidences of Christianity; or, The Written and Living Word of God. With life-like Portrait of Dr. Pierson. Tinted Covers, 2s.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. Presentation Edition: Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d.
"We affix our seal to the book as one of genuine and definite value."—The Rock.

By Mr. ROBERT C. CHAPMAN.

Choice Sayings. A Collection of over 800 Striking and Profitable Comments on almost every subject relating to Christian Faith and Practice. Tinted covers, 9d.; Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; Morocco, 3s.
Rev. C. H. SPURGEON wrote of Mr. Chapman's book:—"Here we have gold dust, 'and the gold of that land is good!' Some of these brief 'Sayings' contain whole sermons. Personally we expect to gather many discourses while studying this little book. A dew from heaven rests on Mr. Chapman's expositions."—The Sword and Trowel.

By Dr. J. ANDERSON.

Searching the Scriptures. In order to Abiding Communion with God. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth limp, 2s. Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.
"The tone of the work is excellent throughout, and the suggestions offered are of a very practical character."—The Rock.

London: MORGAN AND SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C. And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The "F. B. Meyer" Library of SCRIPTURE EXPOSITION.

"The popularity of Mr. Meyer's Expositions is a good sign of the times."
—British Weekly.

Consisting of the undermentioned THREE VOLUMES, attractively bound in Library Style and enclosed in a Handsome Case.

PRICE 6/6 NET.

(Post free, 7s. 1½d.)

CONTENTS OF THE LIBRARY:

THE WAY INTO THE HOLIEST:
Expositions of the Epistle to the Hebrews.

THE LIFE AND LIGHT OF MEN:
Expositions of John I.—XII.

TRIED BY FIRE:
Expositions of First Epistle of Peter.

These volumes may be had separately, in Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.; Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C. And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

AT HALF PRICE.

Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT have a remainder of

THE LIFE OF

George Whitefield.

BY THE LATE

J. R. ANDREWS, Esq.,

Barrister-at-Law.

PUBLISHED AT 5/- WHICH THEY ARE CLEARING OUT AT 2/6 NET.

Postage 4½d. extra.

This Beautiful Volume contains 472 Pages, printed on fine paper; with Portrait engraved on steel: is tastefully bound in cloth, with bevelled boards, and would form a VERY HANDSOME PRESENT.

As the number remaining is limited, Orders, with Remittance, should be sent at once to the Publishers,

MORGAN and SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, London; or through any Bookseller.

NEW WORK by Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A.

Christ in Isaiah:

A Series of Expositions.

A Review from "Word and Work."—
"Clear exposition, skilful application of truth to life, considerable felicity of diction, and in all, fervent longing to be spiritually helpful in every page."

A Review from "The English Churchman."—
"A series of expository papers is here provided for the devout reader, which will amply repay perusal. The articles deal with the fortieth and fifteen following chapters of the Book of Isaiah, and are rich in spiritual truth—doctrine and experience well proportioned. The author displays acute discernment when dealing with 'things that differ,' clearly separating the things of God from those that be of man; he honours the written Word, and often with real eloquence dilates upon its precious truths. The volume is well printed, the paper is excellent, and the general get-up of the book does credit to the publishers."

Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, Bev. Boards, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d.

London: MORGAN AND SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

FOR HOLIDAY DISTRIBUTION.

GOSPEL CALLS,

BY

CHEYNE BRADY.

Mr. Spurgeon said:—"Mr. Brady's style is quite to our heart. He is direct as a dart, clear as a sunbeam, and brief as an angel's visit. Earnestness throbs in every line; and withal, a power of keen thrusting too seldom possessed."

SOLD SEPARATELY, OR IN A SIXPENNY PACKET.

EVERY WEEK SERIES. Four pages. 1s. per 100.

181. The Turning Point for the Soul.
203. Self-Sacrifice.
234. I have His Word for it.
414. Peace Proclaimed.
455. The Gold Diggers on the Sinking Ship.
471. The Faith that Saves.
544. Is this All?
551. That Tear Saved my Soul.
971. "It was Massa did it."
954. "You go Your Way, I'll go Mine."

NEW EVERY WEEK SERIES. 1s. per 100.

9. "Aye, that's the Worst of it."
100. A Witness is Better than an Advocate.

ILLUSTRATED HANDBILLS.

In Assorted Packets, 10d. per 100.

109. Which Side are You on?
111. I have His Word for it.
114. Burn the Bridge.
116. The Two Meeting Places.

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY,
56, Paternoster-row, London.

"THROUGH THE ETERNAL SPIRIT." A Bible Study on the Holy Ghost. By James Elder Cumming, D.D. Extra cloth, bevelled boards, 7s. 6d.

SCRIPTURE PHOTOGRAPHS: or, Men in the Sunlight of the Word. By James Elder Cumming, D.D. Extra cloth, 2s. 6d.

THE BLESSED LIFE: its Purity, Peace, and Prayer, with a chapter on Keswick. By James Elder Cumming, D.D. Cloth boards, 1s.; cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 1s. 6d.

DRUMMOND'S TRACT DEPÔT, STIRLING.
London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co.

GRINDELWALD, 1895.
TEN GUINEA IDEAL SWISS TOURS.

Route: — Dover, Calais, Berne, Grindelwald, Lucerne (or Zermatt and Rhone Valley Paris. Alternative routes, viâ Ostend, Boulogne, for the Rhine, Geneva, etc., with extensions to Engadine and Italian Lakes.

Apply, Conference Secretary, 5, Endsleigh Gardens, Euston, London, N.W.

GAZE'S NORWAY CRUISE,

For 10 guineas.

YACHTING TRIP TO THE WESTERN FJORDS, by specially chartered ss. MIRA, Aug. 8. Thirteen days, including Hardanger, Sogne, Geiranger, and Molde Fjords. Gaze's representative accompanies cruise. Economical excursion arrangements. Berths should be reserved early.—HENRY GAZE & SONS (Limited), 142, Strand, London, and all branch offices.

This is THE MAGAZINE for distribution

THE HERALD OF MERCY

An Illustrated Evangelistic Periodical.

EIGHT QUARTO PAGES. ½d. MONTHLY.

CONTENTS FOR AUGUST.

The Drought in Jerusalem. By Rev. F. B. Meyer.
Tim's Service (Illustrated).
The Power of God's Word.
The College Friends. (With Illustration).
Page for the Young:—
Grandma's Story. (With Illustration).
Poetry:—
Christ on the Stormy Sea. By Rev. Newman Hall, D.D.
Jesus at the Well. By John Vickers.

12 Copies of the August Number will be sent post free for Sixpence.

Terms for One Year:—4 Copies Monthly, 2s.; 8 Copies, 4s.; 12 Copies, 6s. Post Free to any address.

THE HERALD OF MERCY is useful for Loan Tract Societies, and when returned it can be cut into four separate leaves, each illustrated and complete in itself, for distribution.

THE HERALD OF MERCY is also eminently suited for LOCALISATION.

Terms and Specimens on application.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings,
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The Christian.

☞ To avoid delay it is requested that all letters relating to business matters should be addressed to the firm, Messrs. Morgan and Scott, and not to its individual members. Communications for THE CHRISTIAN should be addressed to the Editor, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, E.C. Letters of a personal nature should in every case be so marked.

All Advertisements for THE CHRISTIAN should be sent to Messrs. John Haddon and Co., Central Advertising Offices, Bouverie House, Salisbury-square, London, E.C., accompanied by remittance. (For Terms, see Page 1 of cover.)

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

☞ The Publishers request that all orders for THE CHRISTIAN by post, and remittances for same, be addressed to "THE CHRISTIAN" POSTAL DEPARTMENT, BOUVERIE HOUSE, SALISBURY SQUARE, LONDON, E.C.

Cheques and Post Orders to be made payable to Messrs. John Haddon and Co. at that address.

The subscription for one year, including Postage and Coloured Almanack, is as under :—

For Great Britain and Ireland ..	6s. 7d.	per annum
For India, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, France, Germany, and other European Countries	8s. 10d.	" "
For United States and Canada ..	2½ dols.	" "
Or including Monthly Copy of HERALD OF MERCY	2½ dols.	" "

Subscriptions for THE HERALD OF MERCY.

4 Copies monthly	2s.	per annum
8 " "	4s.	" "
12 " "	6s.	" "
24 " "	12s.	" "

Post free to any address at home or abroad.

Remittances to be sent as above. Postcard should be enclosed for receipt or extra stamp to cover postage of same.

Notes and Comments.

"LONDONERS at Home" cut a sorry figure, morally and socially, as they are represented by a writer in the current Quarterly Review. Into many of his conclusions we need not, into others we do not, follow him; but we think he is not far wrong in describing our traders as "engaged in a pretty constant scheme to palm upon the public spurious and inferior works on the pretence that they are genuine and excellent; [and] the great mass of our people continually striving to obtain base imitations of superior goods at an inferior price."

Our only criticism is that human nature, apart from grace, is much the same everywhere, for these evils are as rife in the provinces as in London. We lack much of the sterling uprightness of our forefathers, who, more than the present generation, severely conscientious in dealings with their fellow-men, were "diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord."

The committee appointed by the Methodist Conference to keep an eye on questions affecting public morals has evidently done a good year's work. It has aided in obtaining an amendment of the Indian Cantonments Acts, and insists that there must be further legislation making it penal for anyone to practise the methods of the State regulation of vice system. The committee has under its observation the shocking traffic in both European and native girls which is carried on in Calcutta and elsewhere in India. It very rightly says that "it is unspeakably deplorable that so shameful a traffic should be tolerated for a single moment under a Christian Government, especially remembering that girls of tender years are often its victims." We entirely agree with the committee that the strongest representations should be made to the Government to urge them to take measures for the immediate suppression of this nefarious traffic.

In view of the fact that Dr. Waller, the new President of the Methodist Conference, is a village-trained man, The Methodist Recorder has a timely and excellent article on "Village Methodism," pointing out how far-reaching and helpful its influence has been. Judged by ordinary standards, it may not have been remunerative. Some would say the labour it involved and the cost in money—though that was small—would have been better transferred to larger fields and denser populations.

The religious economist, had he existed in those days, might have looked with a good-natured contempt upon the little church in the hamlet, with its cottage congregation and its small class-meeting led by a woman, to serve which hard-working men had to tramp great distances every Sunday, and for the shepherding of which the minister, with a crowd of churches claiming his pastoral care, had, ever and anon, to devote a precious half-day of labour.

The work in the kingdom of God never can be measured by ordinary standards. We may naturally turn to Jerusalem or to Samaria, because the crowds are there, but the Spirit of the Lord may send us to "Gaza, which is desert," to the one man who is ready for the truth. Village churches have been nurseries for town work, and in small South Sea Islands hundreds of evangelists have been trained for wider fields.

Many a time we hear the remark, how sad it is to see hundreds of men—and women now—pushing away into the country on cycles on Sunday mornings. No one grudges them the fresh air and pleasant sights and sounds of the country; it is the fear that most of them are simply bent on pleasure and self-indulgence which causes sadness. The cycle, however, has come to stay. What use can be made of it in the service of Christ? Some enthusiastic cyclists of East Anglia, Methodist ministers, have shown us one use. They formed themselves into a preaching club, and went in a body from village to village, catching the children who were out for play on the village green, and aiming at the elders even at the most unlikely hours. At 11.30 a.m. a congregation could be obtained. By the aid of local friends, who were expecting their coming, capital meetings were, in some places, ready to hear the word. We shall hear more, we trust, of this way of carrying the Gospel to hamlets and villages and small towns.

One of the good works of our day, created to meet the new needs of new times, is the taking of city boys into camps at the sea-side, or in the country. Manchester has such an outlet for its boys at Southport. It seems hard to believe that eight days at the sea-side could work such a change for good as seems to take place in many of the lads, but the testimony is positive that at any rate a large number of those who come "pale, troublesome, and even naughty," before the week is out fall into line, and when the eighth day comes, and they have to say farewell, they can hardly be recognised for the same lads. The influence of a Christian leader, whose heart is moved for the conversion of the lads under his care, cannot be without a powerful effect upon them. Ragged-school teachers testify that they notice a difference in them all through the winter. No boy is exactly the same after he has been on this holiday. We fancy that the secret of the success is that the workers love boys. But it is amazing to learn that for six shillings a poor city waif can get all this advantage.

One of our contemporaries speaks of knowing a country clergyman who posted 17,000 appeals for the restoration of a small village church of no great beauty or historic interest, which the Church people within a radius of twenty miles might have restored ten times over without denying themselves a single luxury. It gives the gross and the net receipts of three bazaars: 1, £390 and £190; 2, £1850 and £487; 3, £600 and nil. Surely this is a roundabout way of doing the work of God. "Worldly means ought not to be employed for spiritual ends." If pastors would only educate their people to proportionate giving, "as the Lord hath prospered" them, the result would be, in the long run, more money and more of other blessings which money cannot buy.

On the occasion of the opening of a new Roman Catholic church at Branksome, near Bournemouth, Father Morford said that in the erection of the building he had received help, not only from Roman Catholics, but "from Protestants also." The fact is a very remarkable one. Since the Reformation a change has evidently taken place either in Romanism or in Protestantism. That it is not in the former, is clear from what we know of other countries where she still possesses power. In Protestantism there has been a growth of what men call charity, but Scripture would call it by a very different name. Between the religion of the New Testament and that of Rome there is as much difference as between light and darkness—Christ and Antichrist. Fellowship between the two is impossible. Protestants who are helping to secure Rome a position of power in this country are strangely forgetful of the facts of history. She will accept all that is given, but she will use every advantage for the purpose of crushing and oppressing all who oppose her.

Age does not prove the truth of a religion, but it certainly is a revealer of what is in it; it gives opportunity for the fruits to appear. Tested in this way, Islam is an utter failure. It has had every opportunity of benefiting the lands that have long been under its sway, but it has cursed instead of blessing them. A writer in The Quarterly Review asks what has been the result of its rule, and answers his own question :—

> Barbarism, oppression, lawlessness, corruption, cruelty, ignorance, decadence, have settled like an inexorable blight on all the lands of Islam. There is no exception; not a single bright spot anywhere; no green oasis in all that wilderness of savage desolation. And those lands were once fertile, populous, and flourishing; homes of the arts of science, and of literature.

How surely material prosperity or misery follows upon the religious life of nations is shown by the fact that whereas the annual revenue of the Ottoman Empire immediately after it succeeded the Byzantine is estimated at £130,000,000, now it is only £18,000,000. Death is eating the system away.

The contrast between the wanton extravagance of the rich and the painful struggle of the poor was seldom more remarkably presented than in two paragraphs which appeared in last Saturday's Daily News. The first told of a farewell dinner, given by a young American millionaire to his friends in Paris. Each of the twenty-two guests was supplied with a private coupé and pair. Flowers out of season decorated the dining-room, and luminous fountains, playing upon large blocks of ice, kept the air cool. Instead of making one dish do duty for the whole party, "each guest had before him a whole leg of mutton, a whole salmon, a truffled fowl, a basket of peaches, and a double magnum of champagne, besides bottles of fine wines. At dessert a bag was passed round, from which each guest drew a keepsake, consisting of emerald links, pearl studs, cigarette cases in gold, inlaid with jewels, etc."

The next paragraph presents an awful contrast to this. The story, which can be equalled in London any day, comes from Vienna, and tells of a young woman of twenty-one, delicate herself, and married to a consumptive husband, for whom she sought to provide by sewing cravats. She was brought before the judge charged with the crime of selling a few cravats, the property of her employer, to whom the articles were not worth more than a shilling. By sewing from early morning till late at night, neglecting entirely her sick husband and her home, she could earn fifteen pence a day. It transpired that she and her sick husband had been turned out of their house because she could not pay the rent; and that she sold the cravats to induce another landlady to take her in. Such is the heart-moving story that immediately follows that of reckless wastefulness exhibited by the American millionaire. Often those who possess most money know least how to use it well. The law regards the woman as a criminal, and pronounces no condemnation upon the millionaire. God's judgment might reverse the positions of the two.

Will preachers and teachers never cease to reiterate that "judgment is God's strange work"? How can judgment be the strange work of "the Judge of all the earth"? "Righteousness and judgment are the foundation of his throne." The one strange work, the one strange act of God, was when his sword of judgment awaked against his Shepherd, against the Man his Fellow; when He gave his only begotten Son to be a curse for us; when He rose up against the darling of his soul as He rose up against the Philistines on Mount Perazim; when He was wroth with Jesus as he had been wroth with the Hittites in the Valley of Gibeon; and the sufferings caused by the hailstones of judgment cast from heaven were more than those from the wicked hands of the men by whom, by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, He was crucified and slain.

In his volume on "The Johannine Theology," Dr. Stevens devotes a chapter to the subject of the union of the Son with the Father, which is an excellent example of painstaking examination of passages bearing on the subject, of comparison of passage with passage, and then of a conclusion drawn. His unwillingness to press any point unduly is an admirable feature of his writing. Dr. Stevens shows clearly and forcibly that the term Son of God is used to denote a unique relation of fellowship and unity on the part of Jesus with God. It is more than a designation of his Messiahship. It denotes a permanent relation. "Others become sons of God; He is the Son of God, and as such was sent into the world." A good use is made of the feature of John's writings, that the pre-existence of our Lord and his essential relation to the Father are incidentally presented. "They are the presuppositions of his descriptions and arguments, rather than their immediate subject." But this only gives them more force.

Y.M.C.A. VISIT TO OXFORD.—There are still a few vacancies in this party for Monday, August 5 (Bank Holiday). The tickets are 8s. 10d. each, including return railway fare, dinner, tea, and all fees for viewing the colleges and other places of interest in the University city. Ladies and gentlemen wishing to join the trip should apply at once to Mr. R. H. Henson, Y.M.C.A., 66, Stroud Green-road, N.

"Reverence and Godly Fear."

"God is greatly to be feared in the assembly of the saints, and to be had in reverence of all them that are round about Him."

When the Holy Ghost guided the psalmist's hand to pen these words, had He in his mind a time when, or a place where, they should ever become meaningless? Or did He intend that their application should be withheld from some who should be privileged to present their homage to the Jehovah, and given only to others? I ask these questions, inasmuch as some appear to believe this Scripture was written only for the believers of a past dispensation, ere yet a way into the holiest had been actually made by the blood of Jesus, and the spirit of adoption had enabled the worshipper to approach his God, with "Abba Father" on his lips. These people not only go themselves, but teach others to place themselves, in the Divine Presence, with the same familiarity of manner and word as one would use in addressing an earthly father.

I must recall the word "same," for, of the two, the earthly father, as a rule, receives more respect and reverence than the Heavenly; and He in whose sight the heavens are not pure—He who chargeth his angels with folly—is daily instructed, advised, and commanded, by poor earthworms, in a style and in language that would never be adopted were man speaking only to man.

Time was when one with whom the Lord spake, face to face, as to a friend, was commanded to remove his shoes from his feet, because these were standing where God was near. The same order was issued to him who was honoured to lead Emmanuel's people into Emmanuel's Land. A man "greatly beloved" was Daniel—so much so, that a special message was sent to him from heaven, with Gabriel, who stood in the Divine presence, as God's special messenger; but when the angel reached him he was praying the prayers that had moved God to this gracious act of condescension, with his body prostrate on the ground, and his mouth literally in the dust. I might speak of Job, of David, of Ezra, and of almost every patriarch and prophet who plays any important part in the early history of the Church; but if we find them in converse with God, we further find them, without exception, addressing Him in a spirit of the greatest reverence and humility.

Granted that these all lived in a bygone dispensation, was not Old Testament history written for the instruction of New Testament believers? With subtlety of distinction between one doctrine and another, and with learned disquisitions on "dispensational truth," our modern teachers have almost made some of us forget that God has been the same God through all dispensations, even as He shall be the same God throughout all ages.

New Testament saints, with their fuller liberty and clearer light, show just as much reverence when speaking of or with God, as their fathers did. Which of the Apostles or inspired penmen ever uses the sacred name lightly? Who can supply a single instance where one of them speaks or writes as if forgetful of an infinite and abiding distance between God, as God, and himself, as one of his creatures?

Ascending from earth to heaven, and leaving the dispensations of the past for those of the future, do we find irreverence there, or shall we find it ever? Six wings has each seraph that Isaiah sees in his vision, but with two of these he covers his face, and, with other two, his feet, as, together with his fellows, he hymns the praises of his holy, holy, holy God.

Whoever are the twenty-four elders that fill the twenty-four thrones which stand around the throne of God, and wear crowns of gold beneath his eye, they must be the most honoured of all living creatures, to occupy a position so exalted; but when they present their homage to Him they fall down before Him, and cast their crowns before the throne.

And as with the seraphim, and the twenty-four elders, so with all the angels. Says John, they "fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God."

I know it has been urged that believers have been regenerated to greater dignity than angels; and much has been made of the supposition that, in Rev. v., they are found nearer to God than the angels. The promise, too, that we shall be made like the Lord Jesus at his appearing has been wrested to prove this theory. But is there anything in it? Cannot God as easily regenerate an unfallen, as a fallen being? Apart from this, however, be it fancy or faith, the action of the elders and the angels shall certainly become the action of the redeemed: "The four living creatures and the four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb. . . . saying . . . Thou hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every kindred and tongue, and people and nation."

Surely, if all Scripture has been given for our instruction, these truths ought to have their due influence on our manner of worship. It is a mark of reprobation to speak evil of "dignities," and the Holy Ghost informs us that Michael, the Archangel, when contending with the devil, "durst not bring against him a railing accusation, but said, 'The Lord rebuke thee.'" If, then (not an archangel, but) the Archangel, shows such regard for Satan, what ought to be the regard shown by mortals to their God? When some of the Corinthian converts became weak and sickly, and others suffered in other ways, how little was it thought, till revealed by God, that the secret of their troubles was the sin of presumption! May not the same sin be the cause of some of the Church's troubles at the present day? Has it been without a purpose that the Holy Spirit has told us how Nadab and Abihu, though chosen with the seventy to eat and drink in the presence of the God of Israel, were afterwards smitten with death for offering strange fire? That Uzzah met a like fate for touching what only Aaron's sons were to handle? That Uzziah was smitten with leprosy for entering the holy place which only priestly feet were to tread?

The inheritance of the Lord is weary. It cries for a gracious and refreshing rain; but are there not causes for the spiritual drought that has overtaken us? We long for one more, one vast and mighty, revival, ere the Master shall come, as He soon will come, to make all things new; but is it in God, or in ourselves, we are so straitened? Let us search the Church for leaven, with the candle of the Word, and what this shall reveal as impure, let us relentlessly cast from among us.

Is the Sabbath profaned? is the Word assailed? is the divinity of our blessed Lord questioned? We have to be silent, lest we should seem uncharitable to those who we know are not only in the path of error themselves, but are leading others therein. Do we find others who not only forget that "holy and reverent" is God's name, but teach their fellows to despise it? We are to let the action of such go unchallenged, because "this is their way." The Lord have mercy upon us all. We need mercy.

John Ed. Linnell.

Pavenham Vicarage, Bedford.

The Riots in China.

LETTER FROM MR. HUDSON TAYLOR.*

Dear Friends,—The hearts of many of you, I feel sure, have been deeply exercised by the telegraphic tidings you will have received of rioting in the Si-ch'uen province.

We ourselves, as yet, have only telegraphic tidings and an account of the first day's rioting in Ch'en-tu from Ch'ong-k'ing correspondents. The rioting at Ch'en-tu lasted three days. The first day the premises destroyed and looted were Dr. Hart's house and chapel, and Dr. Hare's hospital adjoining. These missionaries belong to the Canadian Methodist Mission. Mr. Hartwell, of the same Mission, living a quarter of an hour's walk away, was unmolested on the first day, as were the C.I.M. and the American Methodist missionaries; but the following two days the remainder of the premises of the Protestant missionaries and all the Roman Catholic premises were destroyed; and later still, as we suppose, the mission premises in Kia-ting, Ya-chau, Sui-fu, and Lu-chau were either destroyed or abandoned. There has not been time to learn particulars. We are told that scores of missionary refugees are on their way down the river, and we cannot but fear that some of them may be very ill-provided for on their journey. Mothers may have had to escape without suitable clothing and food for their infants. All this is very trying; and to many at home we fear the suspense, before full particulars can be had, will add not a little to the trial. We are very thankful to learn that there has been no loss of life.

In the midst of it all the voice of Jesus comes to us and to you, saying, "Let not your heart be troubled, believe in God, believe also in Me." Are any of us parents concerned for our beloved children? God is a Father more tender and true than we are, and He is present with them, to help and to succour them. In some cases there may be husbands and wives on furlough separated from their dear ones. Let us remember that He whose grace has made our persecuted brothers and sisters members of his Bride, is Himself the Bridegroom, as well as the Head of the Church, and is present with them now, Head over all things to them. His love is more tender than ours. His power is unlimited. Shall we not trust and not be afraid?

The middle verse of the Bible, Psalm cxviii. 18 tells us, "It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man." Many other verses of that same psalm seem specially prepared for this time of trial: verses 5, 6, 7, 9, 13, and 14, but I must not go on, or I shall mention most of the verses of the psalm. My own heart has been feasting upon this psalm, and it gives a comfort in this time of suspense that nothing but the Word of God can give.

These riots are no accident, they are part of God's great plan for blessing China. We do not know how He may use them, but we know that He will use them.

Our beloved ones in their trial, resting in the Lord, glorify Him; taking joyfully the spoiling of their goods, they will bear a testimony to the heathen worth much more than the goods have cost. Though we are not rich, our Father is, and can well afford to make up even in temporal things, if He so wills, all that they have lost for Him; but if not, if more souls are saved, and God is glorified, our highest desire is met.

"Why do the heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing?" Is it that Satan sees his time is short, that the Master is soon coming, and his opportunity of harassing God's children will soon be passed?

We are quite sure that God will overrule these trials for the yet more wide opening of the door for China's evangelisation. Let us therefore rejoice in the Lord, and give ourselves much to prayer, especially for our beloved native brothers and sisters, who, if persecuted, have nowhere to flee to, and often bear the heaviest part of the trial.

May God grant that no one's heart may fail for fear, but that we may all rejoice and count it a joy that our beloved ones are being permitted to bear this trial for the Master's sake.—Yours faithfully in Christ,

J. Hudson Taylor.

C.I.M. Shang-hai, June 15.

* This letter, which was received too late for insertion in the August China's Millions, has been handed to us for publication.

The Keswick Convention.

The caretaker of the great tent said, the other day, that he could always tell the character of a meeting which had just taken place; because, when the preaching had been more than usually searching and impressive, there were more veils, hymn-books, and Bibles left than ordinarily. If this be so, he must have been kept fairly busy during the past week, and the floor must have been pretty thickly littered as meeting after meeting broke up; or if it were not littered by articles which human hands can gather up and bear away, it was surely, in the eyes of the angels strewn with many weights of sins which had been renounced for ever by souls emerging from their grave-clothes into a new life.

The unanimous verdict, from the chairman downwards, is that this Conference has been deeper in its teaching, more spiritually helpful and instructive than any previous one. It was, perhaps, fitting that it should be so, since this is the year of its majority; it having been founded by the lamented Canon Battersby just twenty-one years ago. To what may not this young sapling grow in the immediate future! If the blessing, which has made this spot holy ground, and has gone out from it into all lands, only continues to increase in the same ratio as heretofore, this conference is destined to become one of the mightiest factors in the religious life of the age.

The main feature of the conference has, of course, been the presence of the beloved Andrew Murray, who has corroborated the previous teaching with which the name Keswick is specially associated, and has brought into prominence aspects of truth, peculiarly his own. One said of him lately, "he seems to be looking over a wall, against which I have been standing all my life." There is a great deal of truth in this way of putting it; he is pre-eminently a seer, and one of his favourite injunctions is, not to be satisfied with accepting an intellectual statement of truth, but to ask God to give the reality, of which the statement is but the counter.

The teaching throughout has been very searching, and has indicated the evil, not only of yielding to the sway of the senses, but of living in the soul life. Consciences have been cut to the quick. The two-edged sword has pierced to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, as of the joints and marrow. In the searching fire of God's testing judgment so much wood, hay, and stubble have been consumed from the structures of character and service, that practically very little has been left to show as the result of years. Many have drunk of the waters of Marah to the dregs. The allegations that so much of God's work has been wrought from selfish motives, and that the flesh, though clothed in a religious garb, has been the origin of so many of our activities, have been as irresistible as they have been searching.

At the same time, there is a danger of the soul becoming too analytical, too introspective into the processes of its spiritual consciousness. It is highly dangerous to be often reverting on oneself, and becoming absorbed in securing one's own death. The self-life will be indulged in its subtlest form directly we become occupied in clubbing to death each of its manifestations, to say nothing of the anxiety and alertness incessantly involved in the process. It is a question whether there is not a tendency in some quarters for sincere souls to endeavour to put themselves to death, whereas it must always be borne in mind that we died once for all in the Person of Christ; that the soul accepts death definitely when it fully apprehends its standing in Him; and that, with death for ever behind, we are standing on resurrection ground, to be occupied, not with our death, but with Him who liveth, and was dead, and is alive for evermore.

Any misconceptions of this kind, however, are limited to the few, and are in no wise attributable to want of clearness on the presentation of the truth, but to that strange tendency of the human mind to misconceive and misapply the holiest, healthiest words. It may not be amiss to have entered this caution, because the effect of the recent Convention will be to make this teaching of death as the portal to life a commonplace in Christian gatherings everywhere; and it will be wisdom never to lay stress on this undoubted truth, without at the same time exhorting the hearers to occupy themselves primarily not with death, but with life; not with the grave, but with the risen Lord, who lives for us on the throne and within the heart. The best way of ridding the plains of malaria is by planting the eucalyptus tree. Walk in the Spirit, and you shall not fulfil the lusts of the flesh. The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus delivers from the law of sin and death.

The best test of the whole movement is in the missionary meeting, held at the close of the week, and which this year attracted a larger crowd than ever. Hundreds of pounds are collected at this meeting to support missionaries specially sent out by Keswick, and for distribution among other societies; whilst scores of young souls yearly stand up as volunteers for missionary service, whenever the Lord shall open the way.

The appeals for fresh workers were more than usually urgent from every part of the world. Nothing can exaggerate the needs of the harvest field, or condone the sinful neglect and sloth of the Church. The fields are white, the people perish for lack of knowledge. As one speaker pithily put it, we have no right to concentrate all our care on the drawing-room; mistress and maids doing nothing else than attend to it, whilst the remainder of the house is left to neglect and dirt. Still many are as certainly kept at home by the staff as others are despatched to the war, and it is comforting for them to remember that all souls are equally precious to the Lord who gave Himself to be a propitiation for the sins of the world, and that our main endeavour should be to find our place on his plan, whether in England or in the heart of heathendom.

Altogether it is impossible to estimate all the blessed results of this Convention, which has now slowly dissolved, and the ever-spreading wave of whose influence is already beginning to circle out in speech, and letter, and printed report to the ends of the earth.

KESWICK ADDRESSES.

IMPRESSIONS BY A MINISTER.

There can be little doubt that the presence of Rev. Andrew Murray had something to do with the very large numbers that have gathered for the Convention this year. There are few men whose devotional books have been more widely circulated, or more largely blessed, and it is not surprising that many who have learned more perfectly the life of abiding in Christ, and living like Christ, should desire to hear the voice of one from whose written words these lessons have been learned.

Nor have they been disappointed. Mr. Murray's addresses have been a very important feature of the Convention. He speaks as one who is himself filled and fired by his message, and who is utterly forgetful of himself in his eagerness to communicate it to others. There is an intensity about his style that compels attention, and his evident sincerity and solemnity seem to reproduce themselves in his hearers. Long after the mere words he has uttered have passed from the memory, the impression of his addresses will remain.

And this is no unimportant result, for every address has made clear two things. First, that there are two ways of living the Christian life; and next, that it is possible to pass out of the one way into the other without a long period of struggle. Of these two sorts of Christian life the one is unsatisfactory to the man who lives it, and comparatively useless in its effect upon others. One address described it as a partial obedience, like that of Saul when commanded to destroy the Amalekites (1 Sam. xv.); in another, it was represented as the carnal condition in which it is impossible to receive spiritual truth (1 Cor. iii. 1-4); while, in a third, it was compared to the life of Job before God had revealed Himself to him (Job xlii. 5, 6).

With intense earnestness it has been insisted upon, again and again, that to a man who lives this kind of Christian life, this Convention can be no lasting blessing. Ideas may be received, impressions may be created, emotions may be stirred, but unless there has been a passing out of the carnal into the spiritual condition, the whole blessing will be lost in a few weeks. The carnal Christian cannot bear spiritual fruit.

And the passing from this condition into the better is only possible through contact with God. This is the result to which Mr. Murray's addresses have always led, and which will give the most solid and abiding character to the blessing received at this Convention. Religion that consists in the mere "hearing of the ear" is as unsatisfactory to us as it was to Job. The change came when God revealed himself, and Job had to say, "Mine eye seeth Thee; wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes." No amount of hearing Convention addresses, nor reading Convention books, nor questioning Convention speakers can be of any lasting good apart from this.

More than once Sinai has been referred to as the occasion when God dealt with his people concerning sin and holiness, but they were not ready to meet Him. "Speak thou with us," they said, "but let not God speak with us, lest we die." This Convention has been a similar experience to many; and one brother expressed the desire of others when referring to the frequent call to die with Christ, he prayed, "Let God speak with us that we may die." Self-loathing, the surrender of self to death, has been seen as the only way to life. And the close of many a meeting of this Convention has found that great company bowed down in brokenness of spirit before God, desiring above all things that, with the faithfulness of true love, He would deal with them, and make known in their experience what it is to die with Christ, and to live with Him in newness of life.

After-meeting methods have never been less prominent at any Convention than they were last week. The impressions were too deep, the self-humbling too thorough for such methods. God was needed; and without Him the work could not be done. To be alone, face to face with Him, this was the supreme necessity. Of all the other impressions Keswick has made, this seems to be most important, and to be prophetic of abiding blessing.

Christ and His People.

By REV. HUBERT BROOKE.

Having read Psalm cx., the speaker first of all uttered a strong protest against the modern criticism which says that David did not write this psalm, that Christ did not know that when He set his seal to it, and that God did not inspire it. There is no middle place between this view and the position that Christ spoke the truth. If we do not believe that He did, then we had better cast this psalm away as a sham and a pretence.

Coming to the substance of the psalm (which is quoted in Acts ii., Hebrews i. 5, 6, 7, and 1 Cor. xv. 25), Mr. Brooke proceeded to observe that we have in it a threefold revelation of Christ. In verse 1 we have the express word of God; verses 2 and 3 give the response of the psalmist; verse 4 is again a Divine word, and the last three verses are the psalmist's response. Inspired of God, he answers back the inspired word. Verse 1 shows Christ as a risen and exalted Saviour. At the ascension He went to the right hand of God, where He is now waiting; and He will not wait in vain; He is going to rule until every enemy is put under his feet. Let us not be afraid of our enemies, for they are Christ's enemies. A time is coming when God will laugh at his enemies; and those who reign with Him, and who have wept with Him down here, will join in that holy but awful laughter then. In verse 4 we see Christ in his present position; He is now High Priest, living and working for his people. The closing verses point to Him in his future glory, when He comes to judge, and to rule with absolute power.

This threefold revelation of Christ—past, present, and future—has a corresponding call to his people. Everything about Christ in the Word, has something to do with Christians. He is exalted as King; we must take up the position of loyal subjection and absolute obedience. He is revealed here as Priest; then we must use Him. He gives us certainty and boldness of access, and sprinkling of the conscience, and endurance, and satisfaction of heart—not in ourselves, but in Him. He is coming as Judge; then we must be ready to meet Him. At his judgment-seat it will not be a question for us believers whether we are saved or lost, but whether our lives have been saved or lost—whether they are to be crowned and rewarded lives, or whether they are to be reckoned as wasted lives. We may have because they have not been given to the King, kept by the Priest, and made ready for the Judge.

SAVED SOULS AND YET WASTED LIVES,

Let us look at what He wants us to be. We have here a Christian's photograph. It is not intended to be a complimentary likeness, but just perfectly lifelike. Verse 3: "Thy people shall be willing in the day of thy power, in the beauties of holiness from the womb of the morning; thou hast the dew of thy youth." "Thy people." It is well to remember that all we have to say in this Convention has to do with "Thy people." Everything about holiness, cleansing, Christ-likeness, the filling of the Holy Spirit, and the reflecting of Christ to the world, has to do with believers. Make no mistake about that. You cannot be consecrated before you are converted; it is not possible. You cannot learn more of Christ if you have not come to Christ. Owned first, and then used. Do not seek to go a single step until that is settled.

"In the day of thy power." That does not mean the day when Christ is strong; there is no day when He has not power. It is the day when He is mustering his forces to fight the foe. So Christ's people are to became his army. He is enrolling soldiers, and of course He enrols them from his own people. David would not enrol rebels as his soldiers; there would be treason in the camp at once. We may dress up to look like one of Christ's soldiers, and we may thus deceive our fellow-soldiers, but we cannot deceive Him. He wants soldiers badly; He does not want one of his people to be left out of the ranks. We have not got to be a certain stature, height, girth, and so on. All that is required is that we should be of Christ's people. If we come up, or rather down to the standard—saved by the Cross and nothing else—He bids us be enrolled for his service.

Here then is their mark at the outset—"they shall be willing." It is the same word as that used for "freewill offerings." There are no conscripts in Christ's army. They are all volunteers, and not pressed men. It is said that a volunteer is worth three pressed men. So, if there were here three thousand volunteers, that would be as good as nine thousand pressed men for the Lord's service. I daresay they would be as good as ninety thousand. There was a time when the Lord said that one man should chase a thousand; on that reckoning we should here be

AS GOOD AS THREE MILLIONS.

If we want to discover more about what a free-will offering is, let us turn to Judges v. In the song of Deborah and Barak we have a description of the kind of people through whom God won the battle; and they are the kind of people through whom God always wins the battle. "Praise ye the Lord for the avenging of Israel, when the people willingly offered themselves" (ver. 2). And again, "My heart is toward the governors of Israel who offered themselves willingly" (ver. 9). So the great ones came down to the level of the little ones, and the little ones rose to the height of the big ones, but they were all one in loyal service. And by and bye in Christ's army all are to be officers and governors under the King.

But that same chapter tells us how the hosts of Israel were divided, as I cannot help thinking they are divided to-day. "Out of Ephraim was there a root of them against Amalek; after thee Benjamin among thy people; out of Machir (or Manasseh) came down governors; and out of Zebulun they that handle the pen of the writer." You would not think there was much in that for the battle, but when consecrated to God it was all right. The princes of Issachar were there; and we read in verse 18 that Zebulun and Naphtali were a people that jeoparded their lives in the high places of the field. Practically half of Israel were consecrated to God. Would that half the professed Church of Christ were consecrated to Him to-day!

But we have a photograph of the half-hearted as well as the whole-hearted. "For the divisions of Reuben there were great thoughts of heart." Reuben was a kind of man who was always pondering whether he should be consecrated or not, and never coming to a conclusion. As long as he did not, of course he was giving the balance to the wrong side. That is why some who are called Christians are useless for God's battle to-day; they are of a divided heart. They have one heart that is quite sure at bottom that the service of Christ is a real thing, and another heart that is set on present occupations and gains; so they are almost useless for either side. Make up your mind one way or the other. Do not discourage young believers by pretending to be whole-hearted and living in a half-hearted way. "Gilead (or Gad) abode beyond Jordan." They lived out of the way, and were too far off. They had a very dead parish, or something of that kind; or their minister was a slow man; or their friends wanted too much of their time. They were too far from conventions, so they abode beyond Jordan. Surely we are not too far off from God to be consecrated to Him, and if we are near to Him what does it matter how far we are from anything else?

TWO HEARTS IN ONE BODY,

There was another set of them—"Why did Dan remain in ships?" He was too busy. He was a merchant, and I suppose he was so much occupied with his daily duties that he could not come and be consecrated to God. I once talked to a merchant captain about being a whole-hearted Christian. "It is all very well for you," he said, "but we cannot" "Why not?" I tell you as he said it to me. "Well, every port we go into we have lies told us, and we have to tell lies." Their business required them to vary a little from the truth. Of course, there was no pretence of Christianity about it. There are some people so busy over their daily affairs that they say this Keswick doctrine is ideal. There is many a busy life represented here. They are occupied from morning till evening, but they have come here for a quiet week with God. Dear friends, take God back with you and you will have a quiet year with Him in the midst of your business. Then we read that "Asher continued on the sea-shore, and abode in his breaches"—in his comfortable creeks, out of the way of harm; and these enemies did not touch him. So there are some Christians who say, "My life is a very comfortable one; why should I trouble as to all this talk about consecration; it might lead me into all sorts of awkward positions? I may have to leave home and go and do something for God." I daresay you will. We ought to understand that this world is not intended to be our rest at all.

Oh that there may be among us none of those mentioned in verse 23, "Curse ye, Meroz; curse ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof, because they came not to the help of the Lord against the mighty." Have you ever thought of this: that the Lord wants his people's help? Though David was worth 10,000, his battles were not going to be fought without his followers; and the Lord's battles are not going to be fought without his people either. If you do not know what this curse pronounced on Meroz means go and ask God; He will tell you all about it.

We come back to our Psalm. Ver. 3, "In the beauty of holiness." This is the Christian's uniform. A curious kind of garment, is it not? In Exodus xxviii. we have the beauties of holiness put before us. Aaron and his sons were having their garments made for them. "Thou shalt make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, for glory and for beauty." The moment a soul yields itself to God, a willing offering to Him, He takes it into the armoury and clothes it with the uniform He means it to wear. It is called "the beauty of holiness": a strange compound of priestly garments for a soldier's body. There are no carnal weapons, no swords to cut off a man's head if he won't believe in Christ, as they used to do in the dark ages. What are the garments? The breastplate of righteousness, the ephod of holy service, the inner robe of praise, the outer robe of charity, the mitre of intercession, and the girdle of humility.

TREMENDOUS DEMANDS!

Who, then, can serve the Lord if this is the armour we have to wear? It is nice to remember that no man goes a warfare at his own charges. You never heard of the Queen giving orders that her soldiers must find their own weapons. There has lately been a noise in Parliament about the deficiency of weapons, but no one ever thought of blaming the soldiers. It was the Government that was blamed, but we shall never be able to blame our Lord, who has the government upon his shoulders, because there are not enough weapons in the armoury for his people to wear. We can trust Him to clothe us with all that is needed for the warfare. The change will be so great that no one will ever dream of giving us the glory. They will see that it is the finger of God.

They come "from the womb of the morning." They are heaven-born souls. And God does not let his children go about unclothed. He will give them enough to keep them warm; He won't let them be starved. A starved-looking Christian is a reproach to his Father. He may sometimes be starved in body, but never in soul. The Master Himself was hungry sometimes, and so perhaps we may be, but never in our hearts.

"Thou hast the dew of thy youth." We are just wanted to be dewdrops—that is all. It does not seem hard to the dew to be a dewdrop. Look at Micah v. 7. "The remnant of Jacob shall be in the midst of many people as a dew from the Lord, as the showers upon the grass, that tarrieth not for man, nor waiteth for the sons of men." They are to be messengers from God to be sent down as the dew and as the rain showers—falling on the evil and the good, the just and the unjust. We are not going to say, "I will serve the nice people and leave the nasty ones alone." The dew from the Lord falls on the withered and parched places as well as on those that are green. It does not tarry for men. Oh, no, they would never want you; perhaps they would like to be rid of you. You go on blessing them in spite of them. The dew is sent from God; it does not make itself. Nor does the Christian make himself; he does not please himself any more than the dew; but pleases the One who sent him. And at last it dies in giving blessing to others. That is what the Lord calls his people's service—to be like the dew.

There is more about dew in 2 Samuel xvii. 12, "We will light upon him as the dew falleth on the ground." Here is a wonderful picture of a countless multitude. If all God's people were consecrated, and held their lives as his, they would be a countless multitude. The dew falls all the world over, and I suppose Christians ought to be scattered all the world over, not concentrated in one favourite little spot of their own. That might drench it to death; there might be a flood, and people would have to pray against the rain. In most places they are praying for rain. Are you willing to be sent where God wants you to go, or are you determined to exercise your will and stay where others are. Oh for a wind, or a tornado, or a cyclone, or something to make God's dew go where He wants it.

Then look at this wonderful closing thought, "Thy youth." Here is the secret of perpetual youth. Sometimes the Christian says, "I am growing old." He might say, "I am always young," if he would. Those who are heaven-born, consecrated, clothed, and filled, have the secret of perpetual youth. "They shall still bring forth fruit in old age; they shall be fat and flourishing" (Ps. xcii. 14). Their fruit is better and riper even than when they were young. This is how God describes his people. How does the description fit us? We do not come here to look at a photographic album and go away. Rather we came here to be photograph plates, to have the lineaments of God marked upon us in the light of that holy sun of righteousness. Are we ready for that? It is as definite as the enrolment of the soldier. It is a matter of deliberate action—a freewill offering given to God, and then to be treated as his for ever. Let us enjoy the freedom from anxiety and care of the dew. Let us be willing to be sent where God wants us, and do his work in the place He puts us in. It is a high calling. Let us say as the willing helpers said to David, "Thine are we, David, and on thy side; peace be with thee and with thine helpers."

The Joyous Life.

By Rev. GEORGE C. GRUBB.

"He that is of a merry heart hath a continual feast." If you ask me what we come to Keswick for, I would say that it is to find out the secret of a merry heart, which will give you a continual feast. Of course I know people think that logically we must get very low in these first two days—we must be knocked down by every address, and feel how bad we are, and how desperately and awfully we have sinned. That is the truth; and nothing that can be said of our failures and sins can exceed what they have been. But do not think that after you have had a sort of mock funeral you are any better. If you will only allow God the Holy Ghost to kill you He will do it, but it is by his goodness, and not by making your face ever so long. That is not the way to get sanctification.

When the Lord delivered his people out of Egypt He said to them, "Ye shall keep three feasts unto the Lord your God: the feast of the passover, the feast of weeks, and the feast of tabernacles." If I were to ask each of you if you have kept the feast of the passover to the Lord, probably there is scarcely one here would answer, "No, I have not." There was a time in your life when you saw that the blood of Jesus was sprinkled on the door-posts and on the lintels, and you were saved from the death-dealing blow of the angel of death. You can say, "My soul hath been redeemed from death eternal, and now I live in the power of an endless life. The Lamb of God is mine. The Cross now covers my sins. Yes, I can say as plainly as possible that I have kept the feast of the passover unto the Lord."

Then the word of the Lord comes (Deut. xvi. 10): "Thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the Lord thy God, with a tribute of a freewill offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give according as the Lord thy God hath blessed thee. And thou shalt rejoice before the Lord thy God, thou and thy son and thy daughter, and thy manservant and thy maidservant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow that are among you." The feast of weeks is Pentecost, fifty days after the Passover; then the Holy Ghost descended in power upon the Church. If I were to ask every one of you individually if you have kept the feast of weeks unto the Lord your God, would you be able to give me such a plain and definite answer as you gave about the feast of the Passover? Never put the oil before the blood. Our object in coming to Keswick is to force the attention of Christians to the adding of the Pentecostal oil to the blood that is there already. Life begins at the Passover; service begins at Pentecost. Peace begins at the Passover; power begins at Pentecost.

That is the negative side of the blessing you get here—deliverance from all sin by the power of the Holy Ghost, not by any power in you, but by simple reliance on the infallible and sufficient promise of God the Holy Ghost. God is able to make all grace abound to you, that ye, having all sufficiency in all things, may abound into every good work. It is all grace running into you, and all grace flowing out from you to bless others.

How may I have a continual feast? "Thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the Lord thy God with a tribute of a freewill offering." The word here translated "tribute" only occurs once in the Hebrew Bible, and it is derived from a root that means to be full. You may translate it thus: "With a fulness of a freewill offering." This is a fundamental question, Am I willing to be wholehearted with my God? to present my body a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable, which is my most reasonable service, and not to be conformed to the world in which I live? Then I shall prove experimentally what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God. So I ask you, redeemed by the blood of Jesus, who bowed his head unto death for you on the cross, are you willing to present the fulness of a freewill offering to Him? Are you willing to say, "Lord, I am tired of myself, tired of my body, of my spirit, of my soul; I want spirit, soul, and body to be wholly sanctified unto Thee and Thee alone. O God of peace, thyself sanctify me wholly"? "Faithful is He that calleth you, who also will do it."

Have you gone as far as that? Of course the consequence of that is, "Thou shalt rejoice before the Lord thy God" (ver. 11). It is remarkable that joy is not mentioned in connection with the feast of the Passover, in the first nine verses of the chapter. Joy is mentioned in connection with the feast of tabernacles, which describes the Second Advent of Christ; it is translated in our version "Thou shalt surely rejoice," but the Hebrew is "Thou shalt only rejoice." There will be rejoicing only when Jesus comes, because sorrow will be done away. Sorrow and joy are strangely intermingled now, but when Jesus comes our sorrow will be turned into joy. So God wants to have a company of rejoicing Christians. You never can rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory unless you believe your God. "In whom, though now ye see Him not, believing ye rejoice, with joy unspeakable and full of glory. Joy is the one thing that the church and the world wait to see. I do not believe Christians are ever fully blessed till they come to shouting point; I am quite sure of it. You cannot go against the current of the world's sadness without a full stream of Holy Ghost joy in your soul. How we need it! The Keswick Convention needs it, and all our conventions need it, that we may go forth in the power of the joy of the Lord, which is our strength. It is easy to testify to others when the heart is bubbling over with peace and joy, and with the presence of Jesus in us. So now let the Lord teach us the secret of this feast of joy. If we have the joy it will spread to our sons and daughters, and manservants and maidservants, to the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow that is within our gates. We shall be joy distributors wherever we go. This is the blessing that God has for us. Do not be afraid of it, dear soul. There is no need at all to be afraid.

But notice this. "Thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in Egypt." You will have always a chastened remembrance of what you were; that is the third part of the blessing. This joy does not puff you up at all. Some people think that if you get blessed like, you will become as proud as a peacock, and always talking about yourself. Oh, no you won't. It is a very difficult thing for a man to hold up his head if his neck has been broken. This blessing breaks the neck of pride in you; so that you will be clothed with humility. That is one of the first evidences of being wholly sanctified. You think everybody else better than yourself. I assure you it is so. You will remember the pit out of which you have been taken, and the hole out of which you have been dug. You will remember it with shame and sorrow, and at the same time with the peace of God flowing in your soul.

"And thou shalt observe and do these statutes." It is remarkable how the keeping of God's commandments is mentioned in connection with the feast of weeks. You have no power of yourselves to keep God's commandments. At the feast of the Passover you have found that out. Our mere conversion never gives power to keep God's commandments. It is keeping the feast of weeks that gives power to keep the law of God. What the law could not do, through the weakness of the flesh, Jesus does in me. He is the Lamb of God. He is the love of God within me; and it is very easy for love to keep the law. That law is fulfilled in us who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. Now come to-night and feast upon the goodness and grace of our Lord Jesus. Let Him manifest Himself to you as He does not to the world. May the Spirit take of the things of Christ and show them unto us. May He glorify Jesus in us to-night, that we may see no man, and no blessing, save Jesus only. Then let us go out with a merry heart and keep a continual feast unto the Lord our God.

AN UNOCCUPIED FIELD.

I have no doubt that there are not a few who have been awakened out of a life of inoccupation with the Master's work and service, who are now saying, "Lord, here am I, send me into any field Thou may'st choose for me." It may be well, having been deeply impressed with the need of one portion of the field, that I should speak of it to some who may now be inquiring for a sphere of missionary activity.

I think no more promising sphere of labour could be found than that amongst the Spaniards in Algeria. Thousands upon thousands have left Spain, and with that the domination of the priests, to find employment and better pay in this more genial country, and here they are more numerous than the French, forming large villages and a preponderance in the towns.

They are an interesting people, sober and industrious, and by their seriousness and reverence for the Word of God are worthy of our love. In Algeria they are in circumstances very favourable for the Gospel, and welcome the overtures made to them.

The City of Oran is an attractive one, and perhaps with a climate better even than Algiers. In the midst of many romantic surroundings, with moderate lodgings and cheap living, a couple of ladies, or a man and his wife could live here on slender resources, and have a wide sphere of quiet Christian service, and if they desired could have easy access by steamer to Spain and Morocco.

Besides work among the Spaniards, there are numerous French villages entirely destitute, within reaching distance. The friend in the North of England who so kindly helped last year to place one or two colporteur evangelists for work in Algeria, had his beneficent gift of £50 utilised by two evangelist colporteurs for the French. Other sums to the amount of £28 have been applied for special work amongst Spanish colonists by a Spanish evangelist of Algiers, and a Spanish Christian brother of the Province of Oran, who has for many years laboured and suffered for the cause of Christ, is willing to go anywhere to labour amongst his own people, if his support in permanent labour were provided.

The language is easily learned, and mixing with the people the accent and tone could be acquired; and during the hot season, in studying the grammar and in reading a Spanish-English New Testament, a preparation could be made at home for future service. I pray God, the Lord of the Harvest, that He would send forth labourers into his harvest.

George Pearse.

[Communications for Mr. Pearse may be addressed to our care.—Ed.]

[748]

The Cave of Adullam.

1 Sam. xxii. Psa. xxxiv.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A.

Leaving Gath, with a very thankful heart for God's delivering mercy, David hastily recrossed the frontier, and found himself again in the kingdom of Saul. His life, however, was in great jeopardy, and he did not dare to expose himself to the royal jealousy. To return to court was impossible, and he did not dare to incur the risk of involving his relatives in his troubles of seeking shelter at Bethlehem. There was apparently no alternative than to adopt the life of a fugitive and wanderer amid the hills of Judah, with which his shepherd life had made him so familiar.

Two miles up the valley of Elah from Gath, there is a labyrinth of hills and valleys, deeply honeycombed with caves; one of these, near the ancient Canaanitish city of Adullam, and called after it, afforded him for a considerable period the shelter of which he was in search. It is described as a dark vault, the entrance of which is a low window in the perpendicular face of the cliff, and its position made it possible for him to cross from one country to another, as occasion required. Thither fled his whole family, dreading, no doubt, the violence of Saul's hatred, and thither also came everyone that was in distress, and everyone that was in debt, and everyone that was discontented, and he became captain over them.

We need not now enlarge on David's filial love, which traversed the entire distance from Adullam to Moab to secure an asylum for his father and mother, who were probably too aged to stand the hardships and dangers of his fugitive life. Suffice it to say that his petition was readily granted by the King of Moab, perhaps on account of some pride in the Moabite blood that flowed in the veins of the young Hebrew warrior. But that double journey, first to secure the shelter, and then to escort the aged couple thither, evince a pleasing trait in David's character. There was no lack of obedience to the first commandment with promise. It is, however, with the cave and the more motley group of his adherents that we have now to do.

I.—THE CAVE AND ITS LESSONS.

There can be no doubt that the Holy Ghost, in the minute narration of these experiences in David's life, desires us to trace an analogy between his history and that of the Lord Jesus, in his present rejection and banishment from the throne of the world. The parallel is as minute as it is instructive.

A rejected king was on the throne.—Though anointed by Samuel, Saul by disobedience had forfeited his right to reign, and had, so to speak, nullified the effect of the sacred unction, as we may also. The sentence of deposition had been pronounced, and was awaiting execution at the appropriate moment. Similarly the dark fallen spirit, Satan, was once an anointed cherub, set on the holy mountain of God, and perfect in his ways from the day that he was created, till unrighteousness was found in him. Not improbably he derives the title which our Lord gave him of "Prince of this world" from his original appointment as God's vicegerent and representative, but in his fall he forfeited his glorious position, and man was created as his substitute to take his place. "What is man?...Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands." That power is not yet exercised by man; "we see not yet all things put under Him," but it will be in the person of the Son of Man, who is already "crowned with glory and honour."

In the meanwhile Satan still holds the throne of the world. He has many a time cast his javelin at the king after God's own heart. In the Temptation and in Gethsemane he would fain have pinned Him to the wall. All through the present age he has been doing his worst to exterminate the incipient hidden kingdom of Jesus, though he knows that God has destined it to take the place of his own. But all his attempts must fail. As Saul fell on the field of Gilboa, so the Prince of Darkness shall be finally cast into the bottomless pit.

David's kingdom was hidden.—It was a true kingdom, though in mystery, veiled in the darkness of Adullam's Cave, and concealed in the labyrinth of valleys and hills. He had fallen into the ground to die, that he might not abide alone, but bring forth much fruit. It is a mysterious process through which the little seed-corn passes in the winter, when it surrenders itself to the destructive forces that lie in wait in the red mould, and seize on its tender fabric. "Exposed to wintry winds, trodden under the feet of those who drive the rake and harrow over it; buried out of sight and left alone, as if cast out by God and man to endure the slow process of a daily dissolution, then melted by rains and heats until its form is marred, and it seems useless to either God or man." Such was the experience of David; and of that Divine King, who fell into the mystery of forsakenness on the Cross, and the mystery of rejection in the grave: and whose person and kingdom are now altogether hidden from the world of men.

The day is not far distant when the Lord, who is hidden until the time of the restitution of all things, shall be manifested with his saints, and take to Himself his great power and reign. The power which He won from the ocean-caves shall be worn on his brow; the treasure for which He bought the field of the world shall be spread forth for the admiration of the universe; the army which he has constituted from such unpromising materials shall follow Him on white horses in radiant array. In the meanwhile his kingdom is "in mystery."

David and his followers were in separation.—Driven without the camp of Israel, they had no alternative. With the feasts and pageants, the counsels and decisions, the home-politics and foreign wars of Saul, they had no immediate connection, though the Cave of Adullam could not but exert an important indirect influence on the whole realm. The lot of an exile, the path of the wanderer and stranger were meted out to David and those who were willing to share his lot. His way to the throne lay through multiplied difficulties and sorrows; and although he must have prized the freer air, the sense of liberty, the deliverance from the heartless and godless etiquette of the palace, there must have been a perpetual sadness and loneliness in his soul.

The true king of men is still outside human politics and society. We cannot have Him and them. Those who desire to be his subjects and to share the rewards and glories of those coming days, when He shall have dominion from sea to sea, and from the river to the ends of the earth, must go out to Him without the camp, willing to forsake all that they have, and be counted the off-scouring of all things.

David was content to await God's time. Whatever provocation Saul gave, he never retaliated. However easy the opportunity of gaining an advantage over his vindictive pursuer, he never availed himself of it. He was prepared to wait God's time, and to receive supreme power in God's way. He quieted himself as a weaned child. His perpetual refrain is recorded in his own words: "My soul, wait thou only upon God, for my expectation is from Him." It was as though he sat down in patience and submission till God made his foes the footstool of his feet, and set him as his king on his holy hill of Zion. It is thus, through these passing centuries, that our Saviour is waiting. Now is the time of the kingdom of patience of Jesus Christ; here is the patience of the saints; whilst the eager expectation and yearning of the whole creation is waiting for the manifestation of the sons of God. Ourselves also, which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body. For by hope were we saved; but hope that is seen is not hope; for who hopeth for that which he seeth? But if we hope for that which we see not, then do we with patience wait for it."

II.—THE CAVE AND ITS INMATES.

The tidings of David's return to Judah, and of his retreat in the shelter of the cave, spread swiftly and mysteriously throughout the whole land, and those who were sorely pressed by misery, poverty, and bitterness of soul began to flock around him. The young leader soon found himself at the head of 400 men, a very motley crew! For the few who were loyal to him, there were preponderating multitudes who were full of their own grievances, and eager only for their redress. The sacred historian says that their faces were like the faces of lions, and that they were as swift as roes upon the mountains; but their tempers were probably turbulent and fierce, requiring all the grace and tact and statesmanship of which the young ruler was capable, to reduce them to discipline and order. It was surely no small feat so to organise such materials, that they became the nucleus of the greatest army of their time, and carried the standard of Israel to the fullest limits it ever reached.

We must not think of David at this time of his career, as a bandit or freebooter chief, but rather as improvising a frontier guard to defend the land against the Amalekites and Philistines, who were perpetually raiding it at the time of harvest, sweeping away the results of the farmers' toils. Thus he became the benefactor and defender of his people, though exiled from them. In the common talk of the time his men and he were described as a wall to the great sheep masters and agriculturists of Southern Judah, "both by night and day" (1 Sam. xxv. 16).

It is impossible not to turn from David to Him, who, though cast out from the scheme of this world and its prince, is ever gathering around his standard the poor and outcast, the leper and sinner, the blind and bruised and broken-hearted, those who are in distress, in debt, and discontented, and making them into soldiers, that shall win the world for Himself.

Did these wild, rough soldiers find a new centre for their life in David? We have found a new object in the Lord Jesus, for whom to live is life indeed, and for whom to die is gain.

Did this new centre draw them away from attachment and association with the decadent kingdom of Saul? Our oneness with the living Saviour has made us unworldly by making us other worldly. We have cast in our lot with Him, and become citizens of the new Jerusalem, and are glad to confess ourselves strangers and pilgrims.

Did they put off the manners and customs of their old life, and allow the shuttle of love and devotion to weave the fabric of a new character? We have put off the old man with his doings, and have put on the new man, which is being renewed unto knowledge after the image of Him that created him.

Did they love David for removing their discontent, alleviating their distress, and relieving them from the disorder and anxiety of their existence? Much more should we love Him, who has done more for us than even David did for his poor followers. He has paid our debt with his own sorrows, relieved us from our creditors by meeting them Himself, clothed us in his perfect beauty, allayed our sorrows, calmed and stilled our souls.

Did the attachment between David and his followers grow with the years cementing them in a fellowship which was the result of sharing common dangers, the bivouac fire by night, the toilsome march by day, the brush with the foe? What an incentive to us to seek a fellowship with our blessed Lord, that shall grow closer for every day of trial we share with Him.

III.—THE CAVE AND ITS SONG.

Many allusions connect the thirty-fourth Psalm with the Cave of Adullam. It was there that the little host needed the encamping angel; there that the young lions roared, as they ranged the wilds in search of food; there also that God's care was perpetually laid under requisition to keep the bones of the fugitives lest they should be broken by falling down the crags (vv. 7, 10, 20).

We can imagine the leader one evening when the anxieties and fatigues of the day were over, gathering his troop around him with the words, "Come, ye children, hearken unto me, and I will teach you the fear of the Lord." Then, in thick succession, the three exhortations, "O magnify the Lord with me. . . O taste and see that the Lord is good. . . O fear the Lord, ye his saints." Then perhaps from all their voices came the full chorus, "The Lord redeemeth the soul of his servants, and none of them that trust in Him shall be desolate."

The soul which is living a separated life, with sin judged, forsaken, and forgiven behind it, may count on these four:—

Deliverance: even in the midst of difficulties and perplexities which have been caused by its own misdeeds (4, 7, 17, 19).

Enlightenment: for what the dawn is to the weary watcher, that God will be to the soul that has long groped in the dark, if only the face is turned towards his (5).

Perfect Provision, so that it shall lack nothing which it really needs (10).

The Sense of God's Nighness, nearer than the nearest, more real than the presence or absence of any (18).

If, in that cave, with so many things to distract him, compelled to spend every hour in the presence of his men, David was able to realise the presence of God, how much more possible it must be for us. And when once that is realised, all the conditions of the best life are fulfilled.

What makes the difference between the dull and grey of winter and the beauty of the spring? Is it not that the sun is nigh, and nature knows it, and assimilates his glorious colour?

So backslider! broken heart! contrite spirit! do not look back on past failure and shortcoming, nor stand in dread of recurring sin, but look up and away to the face of Jesus. Do not, I pray you, live on the dying, but on the living side. Dwell in the secret place of the Most High. Abide in the house of the Lord all the days of your life. Enter with boldness the Holiest to remain. Ask the Holy Spirit to enable you to realise the constant presence of God. Say to yourself many a time each day, even when you do not feel it, "Thou art nigh; Thou art here." Make your home in the sense of God's nearness. O taste and see the sweetness of such a life.

It was thus that Jesus thought of his Father, and it is thus that you will realise the happiest, strongest experiences possible to the saints. "The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart, and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit."

IRISH RAILWAY TALKS.—I.

By GEORGE WILLIAMS, Dublin.

The 2.40 p.m. American Mail was just starting from Queenstown, and I was congratulating myself on being alone, when the door of my compartment was pulled open and four passengers bundled in, just landed from the Etruria. "Doomed to a big smoke," said I to myself; and I was right, for one of them said, "Any objection to smoking?" "Smoke away," said I, and in a moment or two the fog was something to see. I noticed, however, that the passenger next to me did not smoke. He was a fine-looking man, over six feet in height, with a well-shaped head, large eyes, and a strong, square-cut face. Looking at me, he said, "Well, sir, two years ago I stopped smoking, and I am glad I did. I am ever since a healthier man." Delighted at finding such an ally, I replied. "Yes, sir; and if men would pitch whisky as well as tobacco overboard, they would be still healthier." This I said because I observed my vis-à-vis taking a "nip" of "Irish."

"Perhaps you're right," he said to me across the carriage—"perhaps you're right, but my doctor told me to drink a little 'Irish.'" "I quite believe it," I replied, "and, no doubt, your doctor, like some of ours, when a student, learned to drink it himself, and deceived by it, and his judgment injured by its use, he now recommends it to others." "That may be," he said, "anyhow your plan seems a good one—we have no such healthy faces in America as yours."

The big man then commenced chatting to me. I learned he was a member of the Canadian Parliament, and that this was his first trip across the Atlantic. He said, "When I saw your beautiful hills this morning, so green and lovely, I had to weep, and I said to myself, 'Why can't some great man arise like our Sir John Macdonald, and heal the wounds of this sorrowful land?'" I told him that man must be a Solomon.

By-and-by we spoke of Dublin, toward which city the train was running, and he inquired, "Were you born in Dublin?" "Yes," said I, "twice." He swung round on the seat, looked at me with a kindling eye, and burst out with "Ha, I understand that. I am two years old. Yes, sir, two years ago God was pleased to show me two facts—one, that I was a lost man, certain to perish for ever because I was a sinner; and the other, that in the atoning death of the Lord Jesus there was a full salvation for me. I saw in the Word of God that God pledged Himself to certainly save from wrath any sinner who believed upon that Saviour. I trusted Him, I found Him, and I know I am a saved man, and that I shall never perish."

"My dear sir," he added, speaking with great animation, "I can't voice out all the joy and peace of the past two years. But it is not necessary; you are enjoying them yourself. Why, when ill last evening—on the Etruria—there was such glory in my soul that I said 'This is not illness at all.' But how different all was three years ago when I was ill in Toronto. Ha, that was illness! I dared not die, and the misery of my mind increased the suffering of my body."

It was a splendid thing to hear this great man say so definitely, "I am two years old!"

We reached Dublin, and his companions wondered as they watched us clasping hands and promising to look out one for the other in that land in which there shall be no night.

THE KEITH-FALCONER MISSION.

By REV. C. B. WARD.

My steamer being anchored at Aden for three days to discharge oil and domestics, I resolved to see the mission established by the late Hon. Ion Keith-Falconer. Yesterday I secured a conveyance, and while the cool breezes of the morning made the ride comfortable, I went out to Sheikh Othman, ten miles from Steamer Point, where the mission is located.

Dr. Young, the devoted Scotch Christian in charge of the work, had just gone to the hospital to begin his day's work. I followed him, and at the hospital I found about twenty persons of various ages, listening as he read and expounded the Arabic New Testament. I did not disturb the service, but sat down outside the door to watch and pray. This service over, the doctor entered the dispensary, and one by one new cases were admitted by an assistant and treated. Many others who were daily visitors, were being treated by another assistant in the verandah. Most of this class had sores and ulcers to be re-dressed or otherwise attended to. I noted the cosmopolitan character of the patients. Arabs, Bedouins, Somalis, Jews, Abyssinians, and others I could not make out. I noted the complaints—bowel trouble, ulcers, ophthalmia, cataract, dropsy, rheumatism, ear disease, consumption, fever, etc. Thus about thirty were treated, and before treatment all had heard the Gospel. Dr. Young said that usually he was thus employed in the hospital from 7.30 to 11 a.m. daily.

We then repaired to the Mission bungalow, where, after breakfast, we spent a couple of happy hours talking of the history and work of the Mission. Sheikh Othman, where Mr. Falconer planted the Mission, is in British limits, and so no great difficulties stand in the way of the work. But a little way out the borders of the Sultan of Lehaz are reached. The Sultan is subsidised by the British, and so the missionaries can tour anywhere in his domain with safety. Yet the Sultan himself is no friend to the missionary work, and this is the occasion of some difficulty. Missionary work has been done by Dr. Young and his late colleague for thirty miles out of Aden with no little encouragement. Beyond this, Turkish limits are reached, and no work is practicable, if possible, anywhere in Turkish Arabia.

By far the most important work of the Mission is the work in the hospital. Dr. Young gave me many cheering instances of persons coming from distant places inland for treatment. In one instance a person came thirty days' journey. In this way much good is done to suffering bodies; and medicine and bottles are wrapped in portions of Scripture, to be assuredly read away beyond where the missionaries can go.

Orphan work was at one time carried on; a number of African slave children had been rescued and handed over to this Mission. Ill-health made it necessary to send the children away to Livingstonia. But if I can see aright, a very pressing need is an orphanage for the rescue of children of Arabian soil, with industrial complements, to the Mission as it now is. In this way the workers which the Mission so much need, will be trained out of the sons and and daughters of the soil. Dr. Young is already moving in this matter.

Dr. Young's work is lovely, patient, and far-reaching in its influence in Arabia, though it may be years before much will be seen in the way of results. If I mistake not, the only key to unlock this old Bible-land, so closely guarded by the Turk, is medical work conducted by devoted Christians. I was much encouraged by what I saw at Sheikh Othman. No mission work is yet attempted in Aden, with its 25,000 people. Work near an English cantonment is hard indeed.

The Free Church of Scotland has undertaken a noble work in the Arabian Mission. I understand that the family of the Hon. Keith-Falconer pays the salary of two missionaries for the work wholly. This is a noble work for the family of the man who gave his life for the work he established here. It may be that he was glad as well in dying here as in his life. Dr. Young expects another colleague in an old college class mate, Dr. Miller, in a little time.

These weary patient toilers might be often encouraged by a visit on the part of missionaries to the farther east as they go and come. It is but a two hours' carriage drive, costing five shillings.

Aden, July 10.

OUR DAILY HOMILY.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 4.

"The Lord said unto Abram, after that Lot was Separated from Him."—Gen. xiii. 14.

Abram's life was one of an ever-perfecting separation. But out of these experiences sprang his rarest joys. "As the sacrifice began, the song of the Lord began." The separate and obedient soul may reckon on:—

Fresh Revelation.—Whenever Abram dared to step out in obedience, the Lord spake freshly to him. But in Egypt, we find no trace of the Divine voice. If God spake there, it would be in warning and rebuke. Has the voice of God long been silent to thee—no fresh command, no deeper insight into truth? See to it that thou art not in Egypt. Separate thyself, not only from Haran but from Lot; not only from what is clearly wrong, but from all that is questionable, and the Lord will speak to thee things it is not possible for man to utter.

Further Vision.—Lot lifted up his eyes to espy what would make for his advantage and well-being, and beheld only the plain of Sodom, which indeed was well-watered, but the seat of exceeding sin. But when Abram lifted up his eyes, not to search out aught for himself, but to see what God had prepared, he looked northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward—words which remind us of the length, and breadth, and depth, and height of the love of Christ. The single eye is full of light; the far climber gets the widest horizon; if thou wilt do his will, thou shalt know.

Hundredfold Compensation.—Whatever Abram renounced, when he left his home, or gave Lot the right to choose, he received back in the usual measure of God, with an overflowing overplus. God gave him the entire land, including Lot's portion. We can never give up for God, without receiving in this life more than we gave. Notice the prodigality of God's provision: all the land...for ever...as the dust...the length and the breadth.

MONDAY, AUGUST 5.

"God Most High, Maker of Heaven and Earth."—Gen. xiv. 19.

It was to Melchizedek, the lonely king-priest living outside the busy rush of the world, that this new name of God was given. There are some to whom God gives these direct revelations of Himself, that they may communicate them to others. These are our seers. This title for God, which Abram immediately appropriated, was the source:—

Of Humility.—To think of God as the Maker and Possessor of heaven and earth induces the profoundest humility of heaven. "They cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou didst create all things." How great God is; his greatness is unsearchable; all beings owe their existence to the forthputting of his might; all space and all time are filled by Him. Take time to think of this, and never forget that He is Love; then with the familiarity of the child, thou wilt combine the lowly reverence of the creature, and cry, "Who and what am I in thy presence, O God Eternal, All Holy, Almighty?"

Of Stedfastness in the Hour of Temptation.—When the king of Sodom desired Abram to share in the spoils of the kings, setting before him a most subtle temptation, and one which might have dragged him from the life and walk of faith, Abram fell back on the revelation of God just vouchsafed to him, and said in effect: "What need is there that I should do this thing, or receive of thy gold? All God is mine; in God all things are mine also. What I need, He will assuredly give. What He withholds I will receive from no other source." There is no need for us to get wealth wrongly; God can give us all we need.

Of Security.—God owns all; all the earth is his empire; wherever we travel we are within his dominion, breathe his air, are ministered to by his angels. We ascend to heaven, but He is there; we descend to Hades, but He is there also. We have a right to the best in all good things, since they are our Father's, and we are heirs of God, joint heirs with Christ.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 6.

"Behold, a Smoking Furnace and a Flaming Torch."—Gen. xv. 17.

Fire is the chosen emblem of God, and as these fire-emblems passed slowly between the divided carcases it was as though God accommodated Himself to the methods of human oath-taking, and solemnly bound Himself. But in all his dealings with us, He is prepared to be both a furnace and a torch.

God as a Furnace.—Take up a piece of iron ore, and see how the metal is scattered amid commoner substances, called the matrix. How can it be disintegrated? The chisel cannot do it, but fire will. Plunge it now into fire, let it fall in the heart of the glowing furnace, and presently the stream of liquid metal will issue forth, pure and beautiful. It is thus that God deals with human hearts; the blood makes propitiation, but the fire cleanses. The love of God, the purity of God, the spirituality of God brought home to us by the Holy Ghost, search and try us to the innermost fibre of our being, and burn out of us the evils which had long held empire.

Refining fire, go through my heart,
Illuminate my soul;
Scatter Thy life through every part,
And sanctify the whole.

God as a Flaming Torch.—The torch guides the footsteps through the dark; and God's Spirit waits to shed light on many dark and hidden things, and to guide us into all the truth. It is one thing to comprehend by the intellect, it is altogether another to apprehend by the heart. There is no such teacher as God, and the mistake of our modern religious life is to receive so much from man, instead of waiting in rapt silence until God Himself communicates his truth to us. The conditions are purity of desire, cleanness of heart, and willingness to obey.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 7.

"And the Angel said, Return unto Thy Mistress, and Submit Thyself under Her Hands."—Gen. xvi. 9.

Poor Hagar! No wonder that she fled. Her proud Arab independence and the sense of coming motherhood made her rebel against Sarah's hard dealings. We have often meditated flight, if we have not actually fled from intolerable conditions. Of course, when God opens the door out of a dungeon we need not hesitate; as Peter did, to rise and follow. But this is very different to flight from the post of duty.

Our Cross.—Everyone has a Sarah. For Hannah, Penninah; for David, Joab; for Jesus, Judas; for Paul, Alexander the coppersmith. Life assumes hard and forbidding aspects. Sometimes the cross is not a person, but a trial, the pressure of a slow and lingering disease, the demand for grinding and persistent toil, the weight of over-mastering anxiety for those dearer than life, who have no knowledge of God.

Our Demeanour.—Return and submit. We are apt to suppose that we might get rest and peace elsewhere. It is not so, however. Nowhere else shall we find the path less rugged, or the pillow less hard. To evade the yoke will not give us heart's-ease. The Master's one advice is that we shall take his yoke, and bear it even as He did. The one burden of the New Testament is that we should remain where God has put us, till He shows us another place, bear what He ordains and permits, even though it comes through the means of others.

Our Faith.—We cannot patiently submit to Sarah, unless we believe that what God permits is as much his will as what He appoints. Behind her hard dealings we must behold his permissive providence. In the hand of Judas, we must see the cup our Father has mixed. Through all the discipline of life, we must believe that God has a purpose of unfailing love and wisdom. Then our submission is not stoicism, but loving acquiescence in our Father's will.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 8.

"Walk before Me and be Thou Perfect."—Gen. xvii. 1.

God precedes his commands with such revelations of Himself, that obedience is rendered easily possible. Before calling Abram to perfection, He described himself as El Shaddai, the Almighty. What may we not do if we learn to avail ourselves of the all-might of God? Oh to know the exceeding greatness of his power toward us who believe! What is impossible, or hard? Our lack is that we do not know our God, and therefore fail to perform exploits. Didst thou use thy resources in Christ Jesus, thou couldst easily walk before God and be perfect. Perfection is wholeness, therefore health.

There Must Be Wholeness in Our Surrender. No part of our nature barred or curtained off from God. Every chamber must be freely placed at his disposal; every relationship in life placed under his direction; every power devoted to his service. The clear shining of the candle of his indwelling must leave no part of us dark.

There Must Be Wholeness in Our Intention.—The one aim of our Lord was to bring glory to his Father; and we should never be satisfied till we are so absolutely eager for the glory of Christ that we would seek it though at the cost of infamy to ourselves; and be as glad for another to bring it to Him, as we should be in bringing it ourselves. This would be possible, if we really sought it.

There Must Be Wholeness in Our Obedience.—It was clearly so with Abram. As soon as God left talking with his servant, he took Isaac and performed the rite, which had just been enjoined. This is the secret of blessedness.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 9.

"And Abraham Drew Near."—Gen. xviii. 23.

The patriarch's attitudes are well worthy of note: he sat (1), bowed (2), ran (7), stood by (8), went with them (16), stood before the Lord (22). He stood like one stunned, both because of the sudden revelation of the approaching fate of Sodom, and because the full nature of his visitors had suddenly flashed upon him.

He Drew Near with Awful Reverence.—"I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord, which am but dust and ashes." The place whereon he stood was holy ground, and if he trod or crossed it, in the intensity of his desire, he never forgot that the most intimate fellowship of man with God must be mingled with the reverence of godly fear, which remembers that He is a consuming fire.

He Drew Near in Faith.—He had enjoyed a blessed provision of the day of Christ. There had been revealed to Him that one perfect and sufficient Sacrifice, in virtue of which sinners are welcome to draw near to God. We can have boldness to enter the holiest, and draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, only by the new and living way which Jesus has opened for us.

He Drew Near as Intercessor.—We never get so near God as when we plead for others. At such times we enter the holiest and innermost chamber, and talk to Him with an urgency which we dare not use for ourselves. As the Syrophenician pleaded for her daughter, she came to the very feet of Jesus. Wouldst thou know the inner chamber? Go thither on errands for others.

He Drew Near in Intensity.—When Haman pleaded for his life, he fell on the Queen's couch in the anguish of his soul. Sometimes God appears to hesitate; it is only to draw us on, ever further and deeper, till we awake to find ourselves further in than ever before.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 10.

"Abraham got up Early to the Place where He Stood Before the Lord, and Looked...."—Gen. xix. 27.

Not much sleep that night for this loyal heart! With the spring of day he was where, probably, Lot, years before, had looked on the face of the country, and beheld it as a garden of the Lord; but how great the contrast! The smoke of the land went up as the smoke of a furnace!

Have a Place where You Stand Before God.—It may not always be to speak to Him, but to be spoken to, to be judged, to have the motives and intentions of the heart winnowed and sifted. Well is it to stand each day before the judgment-seat of Christ, and to receive his verdict on our innermost life. Oh, that the grass of that trysting-place might be well worn!

Follow Up Your Prayers.—Abraham was not content with shooting arrows into the air; he followed them to see how they sped, and where they fell. We do not need to reiterate our petitions with unbelieving monotony, as though they were not safe in God's keeping; but we should remind Him by our upward look that our expectation is from Him.

View the Fate of the Ungodly from God's Standpoint.—We are apt to consider it from that of our own pity, or commiseration, or tolerance of shortcoming. We judge lightly, because we dread too searching a judgment on ourselves. But we need sometimes to see sin as God sees it. Stand on Calvary and learn what sin is, and how much it has cost the Saviour. There, too, you will learn that God goes further than his servants' prayers. He could not save the cities, but He delivered the one righteous man.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSONS.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 11.

The Brazen Serpent.—Numbers xxi. 4-9.

Golden Text.—John iii. 14.

Something like thirty-eight years have elapsed since the incident of our former lesson. The important events which have occurred during that period, are the rebellion of Korah (xvi.), the death of Miriam, the smiting of the rock at Meribah, and the death of Aaron (xx.). The scene of this story is "the valley of Arabah, which extends from the Dead Sea to the head of the Gulf of Akabah, or eastern branch of the Red Sea." Mount Hor (4) is 4800 feet above the Mediterranean. The people had to "compass the land of Edom" (4), because the Edomites had refused them permission to pass through their country (xx. 14-21).

The sin of the people began with their being discouraged (4). They lost heart, and faith, and hope. There was no more excuse for their discouragement than there is for ours. Granted that the way was difficult, and perils were great, yet God had proved Himself sufficient for every need hitherto. Why should they doubt now? Their discouragement led them to fret against God (5), a sin which the Apostle describes as tempting God (1 Cor. x. 9). Their great deliverance from Egypt became an occasion for murmuring instead of thanksgiving, and the angels' food, on which God fed them daily, was despised. The fault is not in their surroundings, but in them. Unbelief, ingratitude, rebellion—all these were combined in their sin.

Their punishment (6) was from God. All creatures obey Him. Serpents go whither He sends them, and do what He commands. The presence of serpents in the wilderness was not remarkable (Deut. viii. 15). It was God's miraculous care of his people that had kept them from being injured before. They were called "fiery serpents," because their poison wrought in the system like burning fire, and perhaps because of their fiery colour. Lange says, "The true fiery serpents were their murmuring disposition and complaints against Jehovah." Wm. M. Taylor tells of a friend of his who received some serpents' eggs from a missionary in Africa. The eggs were put into a drawer, and when he attempted to show them to a friend he found that the heat of the drawer had hatched the eggs into a heap of crawling serpents. "So despondency is a serpent's egg, which, if we are not careful, will hatch in our hearts into a serpent itself, and poison us with its venomous bite."

The Remedy followed the people's repentance and the prayer of Moses (7). Their punishment had made them know and acknowledge their sin; so that they were glad to have the prayers of him they had wronged. God chose his own method, calculated to magnify his power and grace. Between looking at the serpent and being healed there was no natural connection. The healing virtue was in God.

The use Jesus makes of this story (Golden Text) suggests its important teaching. There is some parallel between the people and ourselves. (1) Sin is the bite of the old serpent (Rev. xii. 3). Its effect is painful and deadly. There is no remedy if God does not provide one. (2) The brazen serpent was a type of Christ. In both cases the remedy seemed unlikely. Christ was a stumblingblock to the Jews and foolishness to others. "The foolishness of God is wiser than men." There was likeness, yet difference between that which wounded and that which healed. So Christ was made "like unto sinful flesh" (Rom. viii. 3). The lifting up is explained by Jesus Himself (John xii. 33). Life to us meant death to Him. (3) The remedy was obtained by faith. It is no uncommon thing to find faith described as a look (see Isa. xlv. 22; Heb. xii. 2; Psa. xxxiv. 5). Yet to look at Jesus is not the same thing as to look to Him. Such a look implies a confession of need and helplessness, an expression of confidence in God's promise, and an expectation of his salvation. The work of healing was God's, but it required the exercise of faith on the part of the people. Christ uplifted does not save except as He is trusted.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for week ending August 10, 1895.—Sun., 4, Genesis xlvii. 1-14; Mon., 5, xlvii. 15-31; Tues., 6, xlviii. 1-11; Wed., 7, xlviii. 12-22; Thurs., 8, l. 1-13; Fri., 9, l. 14-26; Sat., 10, Mark i. 1-13.

"STORY OF TWO CEYLON BOYS."—In Miss Margaret Leitch's recent contribution, bearing this title, particulars were given of the small amount for which Christian youths can be educated in the Tillipally Normal School. An error crept into the statement, so we repeat the facts:—One student can be educated for £2 a year, while the sum of £50 sterling will found a scholarship for the education of one student after another in perpetuity. Contributions in aid will be received by Messrs. Morgan and Scott.

For the Young.

A SUM IN ARITHMETIC.

A Tibetan lad once told the English missionary who was teaching him, that if she were to give him any sum in arithmetic he would do it, no matter how difficult. He was a very clever young fellow, and boasted much of his learning; so much so that the villagers gave him the name of "Big I." "Very well," said the lady; "so you undertake to do any sum I like to set you, even if I cannot master it myself?" "Yes," was the answer. "This is my sum, then, and you may bring me the answer to it next week: Count all the steps you take from to-day for a week. Now, you must be honest about it, and tell me the truth." "Certainly I will," he answered, and left thinking what an easy task lay before him.

But what do you think he did? Why he forgot to count the very first steps he took on his way home, and so he lost the number. How soon he failed, and what a difficult sum it proved to be!

I wonder if any of the little children who read this ever remember that every step they take is noticed by God, and that He keeps an account of them all. Now, suppose, dear little readers, you were to try for one day to count the many steps you take backwards and forwards to school, in the playground, and the home, don't you think it would be a very hard sum in arithmetic? I expect, although some of you are so clever at school, you would soon lose count, and give it up. Don't you think so now? And yet God keeps an account of each one, and if He notices so carefully, I think we ought to be very careful where we go and what we do.

"Why?" I hear some of you saying. Perhaps this little story will tell you better than I can explain. A little girl was telling me one day that her mother had been very cross with her because she did not want to learn dancing, and her mother had told her she would have to. "But you know I never can," she said. "Why not," I asked, anxious to hear the child's reason. "Well, you see my feet belong to Jesus," was the reply. What a simple answer, and yet how beautiful! How many questions as to whether dancing and theatre-going is right might be settled if only the questioners had but learned this precious truth! How many of my young readers can say the same thing? Saved or unsaved, you are his property, because He has purchased each one of you with his own blood. But how much better it is to own ourselves as belonging to Him willingly, just ready to do anything, or go anywhere that He wishes.

Perhaps some of you are thinking it is quite beyond you to walk, so that you shall please Jesus day by day. So it is. What we have to do is to give ourselves up to Him, and then He will direct our steps, so that there will be no fear of us going where we ought not. Do you remember that lovely little verse in Psalm cxix., "Hold Thou me up, and I shall be safe." Yes, that is the only safe way, and the best way too. But perhaps you say, How is He going to hold me up? Never mind how He does it. Just tell Jesus you want Him to hold your hand and guide you, and then trust Him to do it.

I am sure you all know the little verse—

"Jesus bids us shine with a clear pure light,
Like a little candle shining in the night."

Well, then, don't you see you are the little candles Jesus wants. If a wax candle is left burning, every moment it burns it gets less, until at last it flickers very brightly and then goes out. What a difference if Jesus lights a candle! It burns brighter and brighter day by day; He never lets it go out. If an ordinary candle is taken into a draught, what does it do? "Go out," I hear some of you say. Yes, that is quite right; but does Jesus ever let his little candles go out? No; but their light can be dimmed, so that they are only just alight, that's all.

I'm sure you want to be bright lights for Jesus, don't you? Then the best way to burn clearly is to give yourself up to Him. He will never lead you anywhere where your light is likely to be dimmed. Perhaps some of you who will read this have not given your hearts to Jesus. If not, that is what He wants. He died to win your hearts. Why do you not give Him what He died for?

I want you to read over carefully these little verses, and, if you like, learn them; but as you learn them remember they are quite true for each one of you:—

Jesus loves you, dearest children,
And He died as much for you
As for any grown-up people,
Though He loves them dearly, too.

Jesus watches o'er you, children,
With a shepherd's tender care;
While He calls the sheep to follow,
You upon his arms He'll bear.

Jesus calls his little children,
Telling them there's work to do
That He can't give grown-up people,
But that He can trust to you.

Soon He's coming for the children
Who have loved Him, and are his,
And around Him they shall gather,
For of such the Kingdom is.

West Norwood. MAUDE A. BUSSELL.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION. SEASIDE SERVICES.

The following are the arrangements which, up to the present date, have been made for the Children's Seaside Services during the present summer:—Aldeburgh, Mr. J. H. P. Cutting and Mr. M. Goodman; Boscombe, Mr. G. Askwith; Bridlington, Mr. H. Hutchinson; Blackpool, Rev. T. Longstaff, M.A.; Brighton, West, Rev. Norman Bennet, B.A.; Carnoustie, N.B., Mr. B. L. Livingstone-Learmonth; Colwyn Bay, Mr. W. H. Wilson; Deal, Mr. H. Falkner; Eastbourne, Mr. A. G. Dodderidge; East Preston, Mr. Middleton; Exmouth, Mr. Phillips Welch; Felixstowe, Mr. J. Spiers; Freshwater, Mr. A. B. Dixey; Herne Bay, Mr. C. H. Collier; Hoylake and West Kirby, Mr. F. O. Lasbrey; Hunstanton, Mr. E. Arrowsmith; Ilfracombe, Mr. W. R. Moore; Kemp Town (Brighton), Rev. M. C. Brownlow and Mr. R. H. Keable; Littlehampton, Mr. J. S. Tyler and Mr. G. A. King; Llandudno, Mr. Frank Anderson; Llanfairfechan, Mr. J. Russell Hill; Paignton, Mr. L. M. Miller; Penmaenmawr, Mr. J. H. Greene; Penzance, Mr. H. B. Clayton; Pensarn, Messrs. E. Collier and F. W. Betteney; Rhyl, Mr. Geo. Goodman and Mr. S. J. Hewlett; St. Leonard's, Rev. W. W. Martin; Saltburn, Dr. F. Churchill; Sandown, Mr. J. R. Naylor; Scarborough, Messrs. Bernard Herklots, T. G. Barber, W. A. Dark, and T. B. Bishop; Southend, Mr. J. W. Caldicott; Southsea and Sea View, Mr. S. M. Warner; Southwold, Mr. Livesey Carrott; Sea View, I. of W., Rev. W. S. Standen and Rev. S. R. Morse (September 1-14); Towyn, Mr. E. Hughes and Mr. H. T. Sayer; Westward Ho, Rev. G. C. Williamson; Whitby, Mr. E. T. M. Dennes; Weston-super-Mare, Messrs. W. Stuart Fox and N. Thwaites; Worthing, Rev. C. E. Haynes, M.A.

ROME AND OUR CHILDREN.

Dear Sir,—I note with satisfaction the word of warning you raise as to Rome's desire to educate our children. Perhaps the subjoined fable may be to the point:—

THE HAWK AND THE ROOKS.

A huge hawk, finding but little to do, caused great excitement one evening by alighting in the midst of a rookery. As the rooks fled with great clamour he cried:

"Come, come, my friends, do not treat me so. I am here as your friend, and have a profitable proposal to make that will suit us both."

The rooks gathered around him at a respectful distance, and the chief of the colony said:

"Let us hear your proposal that we may judge of it."

"It is this," said the hawk: "No one disputes my skill and learning. If there be an authority on wing culture and flying it is myself. This I may say without boasting or vanity. You rooks are a pre-eminently respectable community, and are justly held in great regard, but there can be no doubt as to the general awkwardness of your flight. My proposal is that you should engage me as the instructor of your youth, and I will guarantee that in less than two generations you will scarce be known."

Great was the applause that greeted this address on the part of the younger rooks. But the old chief spoke once more.

"Silence," he cried, "you, Sir Hawk, do undoubtedly excel in flying and we may learn somewhat from you, but considering the history of your family and its deeds, your prophecy is ominous and too truthful by far. There can be little doubt that if we engage you as the instructor of our youth, we shall scarce be known in two generations."

The rooks caught his meaning, and set up such a shrill cry of menacing opposition to the hawk that he flew off in alarm with his dangerous proposal.

Let parents beware whom they engage as instructors of their children.—Yours faithfully,

T. Llewellyn Edwards.

4, Richmond-road, Stockton-on-Tees.

Dr. Elder Cumming's Testimony

AT KESWICK.

You can get a text for anything in the Bible if you know where to look for it, and so I have found even one to suit my present position to-day, "Come, hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what He hath done for my soul" (Ps. lxvi 16). I think you could not have put me in a more difficult position, nor one that more naturally led one to think hardly of the friends who did it. A man from my country, with the character of a Scotchman, knows perhaps better almost than those of any other nation what it is to have to speak before a crowd of three thousand people, and at the top of one's voice, about the most sacred things of one's life.

It was in 1882, thirteen years ago, that I unexpectedly found an idle fortnight. Wondering what I was to do with it, there met my eye an advertisement of the Keswick Convention, which recalled a conversation with a lady, whose name I have never been able to remember, whom I seemed to know but slightly, but who, some months before, had said in a casual way, "I think the best and most solemn of all these conferences is the one that is held at Keswick." Strangely as I thought at the time, the remembrance of this conversation came upon me as I read the notice of the Convention about to be held. I said to myself, Why should I not go and spend a week there? I wrote off that day a line addressed to him who takes such unparalleled trouble in connection with the Convention, whose name is never heard from this platform, but to whom we owe a great debt of gratitude.* I received from him in due time a notice that a small bedroom was at my disposal.

I came up entirely alone. As far as I knew there was not a soul in all the Convention that I was likely to be acquainted with. I cannot tell you what pain and misery I experienced during the first three days — first, something like indignation; secondly, something very like perplexity, for all my theological chart seemed to have certain things laid clearly down, and I did not see how other things could be put in without disarranging the former. I cannot tell how the arrow of God's Word was going home. I passed a very miserable time during the first days of that week. Then the way the Lord dealt with me was this. He told me, while on my knees in my solitude, of this, and this, and this. In perfect simplicity and innocence I said, "Lord, these are not sins." The answer that came by his Spirit was, "Whatever they are, are they worthy of a son of God?" And at once I had to say, "No!" "Are you willing to put them away?" "Yes, Lord," I should have to go home to settle some of them. I took pencil and paper, and marked everything down and said, "Now, Lord, I promise that by thy grace I will." It was done all alone in the solitude of my room, and I never thought it should be told to 3,000 people in a public way like this.

Something I had to do was very humiliating, and I remember that when I got home I rushed off to do it without delay, in case there might be hesitation afterwards. No sooner was this done than the devil whispered in my ear, "How good you are!" and I turned upon him. Next day I had to go to a meeting of Evangelical Christians in which the name of Keswick was not a pleasant name to be spoken. I spoke the name, and testified that I had been to one of the most solemn scenes I had ever witnessed in my life. The next day there were to be meetings at Polmont, not far away, and I said I should advise all who were seeking light to go there and hear. I remember that two poor widow women came to me afterwards seeking means by which they might go; and they did go in order to hear and to get blessing for themselves. I wish I had given my testimony in the tent here instead of waiting to do so in Glasgow. However, it was done there on the Monday following.

When I went to work on the afternoon of that day I had a great many stairs to go up. As I went the thought came to me, "How happy I feel to-day," without having any real understanding as to what was the meaning of it. I went on for perhaps half an hour, and again I said to myself, "I have not been like this for many a day." It flashed upon me in a moment, almost for the first time in my life, "This is the joy of the Lord." I had been a Christian for twenty-nine years; on July 29, 1852, I was, praise be to the Lord, brought to his feet; before I became a minister, of course. That was the way of my consecration.

The speaker then described successive experiences and occasions when, as years passed on, the presence and comfort of the Lord were revealed to him in increasing and deepening measure. We do not report these remarks in full, because we feel that while a recital of spiritual experience may be fitly made to a gathering of persons assembled for a specific purpose, and surrounded by the power and influence of such meetings as these, the same impression could not be made upon others who, at a distance, peruse them in cold black and white. There are some things too sacred to be reproduced in print. Indeed, it was only with very great diffidence that Dr. Cumming was able to speak of them at all. Continuing, he said:—

From time to time it dawned upon me that I must ask to be filled for every special service. I did ask, and did accept. On those early occasions I used to find as I went to do my work as though I were walking upon air—as if I were seized and possessed by a power that almost lifted me from the ground. Many a time, sometimes on this platform, often in the pulpit and in other places, I have sat down saying to myself, "That was not

REV. J. ELDER CUMMING, D.D.

(From Photograph by Mr. G. P. Abrahams, Keswick).

I, I have no consciousness of having done that myself." I want to say that to this day the experience continues. My habit has long been never to attempt to perform any public duty without first—oh, forgive me for telling you—without first of all accepting the fulness of the Spirit, and thanking God after the service was over, for the fulness had been mine. It is, no doubt, sometimes omitted, but I always feel rebuked and filled with shame when it is forgotten. I feel that one needs almost nothing more, and certainly there is nothing that one welcomes so much at the beginning of such duties as to be filled with the Spirit of God.

I want to tell one other story. In 1890 it was my lot to spend the greater part of the summer, at least many months, in writing a book on "The Eternal Spirit." It took a large part of my time, and during almost the whole of its duration, I had distinct, unmistakable personal communion with the Holy Spirit of God. It was something quite different in character from being filled with the Spirit for special duty; it was a personal communion with Him as though He were speaking to me; sometimes as though I were speaking to Him. During the whole time I was so engaged I knew and I rejoiced in this. Oh! how sacred, how silent, how sweet, how hallowed, how indescribable that solitary communion was! It has not entirely gone; it comes ever now and again, though it has never been to the same extent as it was when I was so long engaged in writing definitely and personally concerning Him.

*Mr. John Postlethwaite, who arranges the letting of apartments.

STUDENTS' CONFERENCE, KESWICK.

This conference, now being held at Keswick for the third time, had an excellent commencement on Monday evening, when a public meeting was held in the Drill Hall; more than forty universities, colleges, and schools in different parts of the world are represented by students of both sexes. After Mr. Anderson, travelling secretary, had submitted some practical hints on how to utilize the conference to the greatest advantage, an address on the evangelisation of the world was given by Mr. Eugene Stock. He regarded this student movement as an important factor in that evangelisation. Our business in this elective dispensation is not to bring the whole world to Christ, but to bring Christ to the whole world. His command, recorded in the New Testament five times, is a sufficient warrant for the work. We are to be the instruments, and the message is one of personal testimony as to the saving power of Christ. There will be diversities of gifts of administration, and of operation, but the same God worketh in all.

Rev. F. B. Meyer, from 2 Timothy ii., gave a seven-fold portrait of an earnest student in his individual life, and his influence on his fellow-students. He is compared to a soldier (verse 3) implicitly obeying the orders of his Divine Captain: there is no room for jealousies in an army loyal to its commander; he is a gymnast (verse 5); if we want power over others we must control our own nature; as a husbandman (verse 6) we need the co-operation of God to secure the results of sowing; as a proved workman (verse 15) we steer a straight course, avoiding side issues and unprofitable questions; as a clean vessel (verse 21) we are to be fit for God's use, and lying ready to his hand; as slaves (verse 24) we must manifest the meek and gentle Spirit of our Master; patience, courage, and humility will accomplish more than a hundredweight of theology; as huntsmen (verse 26) we must show holy ingenuity in winning souls. Do not use the same methods with all; study to adapt your plan of action to circumstances; seek to reach and win one soul at a time. A college term would not be ill spent in compassing the salvation of even a single soul. Work for Jesus rather than for results.

The Conference meetings extend over the whole of this week. An endeavour will be made to get the co-operation of some of the students in work among the educated young men in India in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association.

A BENEDICTION.

Numbers vi. 24-2.

The Lord bless thee, and keep thee,
  And cause his face to shine
Upon thee in thy pilgrimage,
  With blessings all divine.
The Lord be gracious to thee;
  His countenance of light
Be lifted up upon thee,
  Dispelling darksome night.

And peace, beyond expression,
  Unmeasured, full, and free,
Broad as the love of God in Christ,
  Deep as unfathomed sea,
Be given thee to strengthen,
  In life's unequal race;
And may his name immortal
  Be written on thy face.

F. Staniland.

THE BIBLE IN INDIA.—One of the most interesting signs of the times is the fact that a committee of Christian and non-Christian Bengalis have begun a new translation of the Bible into Bengali, because they consider the present translation is unsatisfactory on the ground of idiom and taste. The Gospel according to St. Matthew has been published, and critics speak highly of the version. When non-Christians are anxious to have the Bible in the vernacular, we cannot but rejoice that there is this strong desire to become acquainted with the Book of books.—The Harvest Field.

THE KESWICK CONVENTION.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

The Meetings Day by Day.

The Convention is over, and most of those who attended it are now scattered or scattering to all points of the compass. It would be safe to say that the blessing vouchsafed has exceeded the most ardent hopes and expectations. In other years there have probably been greater outward exhibitions of feeling and emotion. The current of thought this year seems to have been unusually deep, and of necessity more silent. On a preceding page a visitor, in recording his impressions, has alluded to the tone which Rev. Andrew Murray's utterances have give to the Convention as a whole; his view expresses the universal opinion, and the outstanding note of the week was perhaps embodied in Mr. Murray's statement when addressing his fellow-ministers, that for them all the real Keswick blessing is to have a vision of God and to abhor one's-self in dust and ashes. While that is true, it must be stated that all the other addresses were eminently worthy of the Convention, and were at once most practical and spiritual. This was especially so in the case of the Bible readings by Rev. Hubert Brooke, whose terribly searching words on the conditions of true discipleship can never be forgotten by those who heard them. The non-appearance of Rev. Charles Inwood and of Rev. H. C. G. Moule were the disappointments of the week; in the latter case, the sorrow was made all the more keen that Mr. Moule's absence was caused by the increased illness of his wife. With these exceptions, every speaker in the lengthy announced list was in his or her place.

As intimated last week, the programme was larger than ever. The exigencies of space do not permit us to report in these pages all the addresses given; neither is it needful. In this and some following issues we shall give a few of the most representative of the utterances, leaving those who desire a more complete chronicle of the speaking to get it in the booklet which Messrs. Marshall Bros. will publish in a month's time or thereabouts. Some brief notes of the meetings in diary shape will enable the reader to form a fair conception of the rich provision made for the thousands of visitors, whose spiritual appetites seemed unappeasable, as almost every meeting was crowded. The opening meeting on Monday evening having been chronicled in our last issue, we begin with

TUESDAY, JULY 23.

The seven o'clock prayer meeting on this and each succeeding morning was very largely attended. Nothing strikes those visiting the Convention for the first time more than to see the streets of the little town thronged with people flocking from all directions to a prayer meeting at this abnormally early hour. The requests for prayer were so numerous and so diversified that they had to be divided into four sections, and grouped together, each section being presented by a different brother. Short and helpful exhortations were given on the successive mornings by Messrs. Gregson, J. H. Battersby, Butlin, and C. G. Moore. The missionary prayer meetings were held in the new Pavilion each morning from 9.10 to 9.40, and were, as always, fraught with deep and wide interest. All these meetings were in the capable and experienced hands of Mr. Eugene Stock. Mention must also be made of the speakers' prayer meeting, held every morning from 9.45 to 10.10 under the guidance of Rev. J. J. Luce.

Tuesday's first mass meeting was the Bible reading in the tent, when Rev. Hubert Brooke was in the place he has filled so well these many years. His exposition of Psalm cx. on this first morning is reported on a previous page. At the same hour Dr. Elder Cumming gave a very profitable Bible reading in the new hall. At noon in the tent Rev. J. B. Figgis spoke with tenderness and power on the doctrine of sanctification as shadowed forth in the command given to the Levites in 2 Chron. xxix. 5. Following him Rev. E. H. Hopkins gave a clear and helpful address from Gal. ii. 20, on Christianity as a life and a power, and the means by which the life can be victoriously lived. Simultaneously there was a meeting for ministers in the hall, when searching and brotherly words were spoken by Preb. Webb-Peploe, Messrs. Murray, Meyer, and others.

In the tent in the afternoon a goodly company of first attenders and others was addressed in simple terms by Messrs. Hopkins, Macgregor, Webster, Selwyn, and Sloan. If a critical remark were admissible, we should say that fewer speakers would have accomplished more. Some first attenders, at least, found the multiplicity of voices and expositions to be confusing.

A great assembly in the tent at 6.30 was addressed by Rev. C. A. Fox, who dwelt impressively on consecration as the result of a vision of Christ enthroned, the vision of self-righteousness self-slain, and the vision of the torch of the Pentecostal fire. Rev. Andrew Murray came after with a weighty and deeply spiritual exposition of the life of Saul and his failure to understand God's dealings with him. In the hall, at the same time, were given the two short addresses by Messrs. Meyer and Grubb, that are reported in this issue. From nine to ten a prayer-meeting was held in the hall.

WEDNESDAY.

Passing by the early meetings already noted, we come to the Bible-reading in the tent, which was given by Rev. G. H. C. Macgregor, whose subject, treated with much freshness and power, was prevailing prayer and the hindrances to its exercise. Those who attended the hall were rewarded by Rev. Hubert Brooke's masterly exposition of the conditions of discipleship, the two points taken up being supreme heart-love and cross-bearing; the second half of the reading was deferred to Friday. The tent at noon was densely crowded to hear addresses from Mr. Meyer and Mr. Webb-Peploe. The former unfolded "the things that are freely given to us of God," and the latter spoke with great and solemnising power on Sin and the Christian's death to it in the reckoning of God, and therefore in our reckoning.

The afternoon of Wednesday was given up to the Keswick Mission meeting, which is reported in detail in succeeding columns. In the evening in the tent Dr. Elder Cumming gave a very fresh and also searching interpretation of the miracle of the widow's pot of oil, out of which so many other pots were filled. The second speaker was Mr. Hopkins, who told of the conquering life through Jesus Christ. The after-meeting was a remarkably fruitful one, judging by the outward appearance. The speakers in the hall were Messrs. Luce and Murray. The prayer meeting followed from nine to ten.

THURSDAY.

The Bible-reading this morning in the tent was by Rev. Hubert Brooke, whose subject was Christ's parting message to his disciples as variously recorded by the four evangelists; it was a strikingly comprehensive and practical utterance. In the hall, at the same hour, Dr. White spoke on Obedience, his text being Jer. xxxviii. 19, 20. At noon, in the tent, Mr. Luce spoke on Christ as Apostle and High Priest; while Dr. Cumming drew many rich lessons from the chequered life of the Apostle Peter. The hall was at the same time crowded with ministers and other workers to hear Messrs. Webb-Peploe, Webster, and Murray. All three exhortations were weighty home-thrusts. Rev. C. A. Fox presided, and spoke briefly.

In the afternoon first attenders were again addressed in the tent, the speakers being Messrs. Meyer, Battersby, White, and Middleton. Thursday was a day of steady rain, but that did not prevent a tremendous pressure in the tent at the evening hour, when Mr. Meyer had a very solemn message to deliver on Striving with God our Maker. Mr. Murray had the second half of the meeting, when he gave an address of indescribably searching power on the cup of which Christ drank, and the baptism wherewith He was baptized. No set after-meeting was held, but the impression produced was most profound. At the same evening hour, in the hall, Mr. Webb-Peploe spoke powerfully on what God is, gives, and undertakes to be to the sons of men. Mr. Hopkins was the second speaker, and his theme was the relation of the will to faith. An after-meeting was held, when great numbers resj on led to an invitation to a definite act of consecration.

FRIDAY.

This was the last great day of the spiritual feast. The Bible reading in the tent was by Mr. Webb-Peploe, his subject being the somewhat thorny one of Spiritual Baptism. At the hall Mr. Hubert Brooke completed his consideration of the conditions of discipleship, the point emphasised being the giving up of one's earthly possessions to be used wholly at the behest of the Master. The mid-day assembly in the tent was first addressed by Mr. Macgregor on the crucified life. Mr. Selwyn spoke on the cognate topic of being dead with Christ and alive with Him; the treatment, however, was essentially different. A young men's meeting in the hall was addressed by Messrs. Fox, Grubb, Luce, and Webster. The testimony meeting in the tent in the afternoon will ever be memorable by the personal statements of spiritual experience from Dr. Cumming, Rev. S. A. Selwyn, and Rev. A. Murray. We give give some details of the first in our present issue, and hope to notice the others in succeeding weeks. We believe they will be found to be eminently helpful to the reader.

The last evening saw a densely-packed gathering in the tent, when Mr. Grubb spoke on praising God "at all times" and some related privileges. The closing utterance by Mr. Murray was a most remarkable and far-reaching one on Christ giving up the kingdom to the Father "that God may be all in all." It was a truly memorable meeting, and an appropriate conclusion to a blessed week. In the hall at the same time the speakers were Mr. Meyer and Mr. Macgregor, when much of the Spirit's presence and power were also experienced.

Saturday's meetings for praise and for the furthering of missionary interest are reported in following columns. The Convention of 1895 will stand well out among the twenty-one conventions that have been held in the King's Dale at Keswick.

The Keswick Mission.

On Wednesday afternoon the tent was filled as usual with an interested audience, before whom the yearly statement of the transactions of the Keswick Mission was laid. Mr. Robert Wilson was in his accustomed place in the chair. The proceedings were opened with the singing of the hymn—

Ho, reapers in the whitened harvest,
Oft feeble, faint, and few,
Come wait upon the blessed Master,
Our strength He will renew.

Prebendary Webb Peploe led in prayer, which was mingled with confession of past failures in work, and thanksgiving to God for the way in which He had deigned to bless the efforts put forth. Those bearing the heat and burden of the day in distant lands were remembered and interceded for—that some refreshment from the Convention might reach them and cheer them in their isolation. The Chairman having quoted John x. 11 and 16, proceeded to read the report of the committee. Touching finance he said that the receipts for the year had been £1203 4s. 3d. The expenditure incurred for Keswick Mission visits, direct mission work among the heathen, and other outgoings was £1574 11s. 5d. This leaves a deficit on the year of over £370. An additional sum of £333 has been given to various missionary societies through Keswick. Visitations on behalf of the Mission have been made during the year by Rev. J. G. Gregson in South Africa, Ceylon, India, and Malta and Gibraltar. In the early part of the year Mr. Grubb and Capt. Oldham spent two months in Egypt and some weeks at Smyrna. Much blessing was granted. Keswick Mission meetings were held at Paris and elsewhere. Requests for visits from Keswick missioners have been received, but the responses must depend on the free-will gifts of those attending the Convention. The names of the missionaries now on the staff of the Keswick Mission were mentioned by the chairman—Miss Amy Wilson Carmichael, of Matsuye, Japan, is now at home recruiting, but hopes to go abroad again in autumn; Miss Florence Fugel is stationed in Japan, to the south of Matsuye; Miss Ruth Brooke is now at Honan, China; Miss Townsend, medical missionary in Smyrna, experiences increased blessing on her work; Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Green are on the border of Pondoland, and are hoping by-and-by to organise a permanent station; Miss Barthorpe has gone to India, and is studying the language and working with a Bible woman; Miss Ethel Jacob goes out to join Miss Barthorpe; and Miss Eva Carmichael has been accepted by the South African General Mission for work in connection with Keswick. Miss Barry is being much blessed in her work in Dublin. All these workers are in affiliation with well-known societies.

At the last Convention, Mr. Wilson continued, a lady handed him £200 for the outfit, passage, and a year's maintenance of a Keswick missionary, and she promised £100 for the support of this missionary during her own life. This was a very practical way of showing sympathy with the needs of the heathen, and unites the giver with the distant labourer. The committee have offers of very eligible candidates, and only lack funds suitably to entertain the applications. The committee trust a liberal response will be made to their appeal.

Mr. Wilson then introduced in turn three of the ladies connected with the Mission who were on the platform. The first was Miss Wilson Carmichael, the gifted author of "From Sunrise Land." She asked the friends to pray that missionaries abroad might continually be kept in touch with God, and be baptized with the power of the Holy Ghost. Miss Ethel Jacob said her desire was that while learning the language she might be enabled so to live as to commend Christ to those around her. Miss Eva Carmichael requested prayer that the same grace might be bestowed on her. This deeply interesting episode in the meeting was ended by the offering up of most earnest and sympathetic petition on behalf of these three sisters by Rev. C. A. Fox.

REV. J. G. GREGSON

reported on God's leading as to his recent visit to South Africa and India. The uppermost thought in his heart was that of thanksgiving for the privilege of re-visiting a land where he had spent nearly a quarter of a century when he did not know the fulness of the blessing of Christ. Bible readings were held daily on board ship. The first place visited was Wellington, during the holding of the conference there. He had enjoyed much fellowship with the Dutch ministers at the Cape. At Greytown, Natal, which he was unexpectedly able to revisit, there were many manifestations of God's power and blessing. From Africa he sailed to Ceylon in a cargo boat, from which, he was sorry to say, 1,200 cases of whisky were landed at a little place, the future port of Mashonaland. Altogether, there were on the boat 7000 cases of that spirit. In Ceylon he was very warmly received by the brethren, and at Kandy one good clergyman gave him the church to preach in. Madras was next visited, where he was able to prolong his stay, with blessing to souls. Going to Calcutta, conferences were arranged there and at other places. The need of India is not new methods, or more machinery, but the mighty power of God on the workers. There are native Christians enough in India to carry the Gospel through the country if they were all endued with the power of the Spirit. The visits to Malta and Gibraltar were times of refreshing from the presence of God.

REV. GEO. C. GRUBB

rehearsed something of his recent experiences in Egypt and Smyrna. I went to Alexandria (he said) at the invitation of Rev. T. R. Lawrence, of the Soldiers' Institute there; Col. Oldham accompanied me. We were received in the name of the Lord, and He at once began to work. The way was opened for us to speak in Ramleh Church, and I was delighted to hear the tramp of seventy soldiers in the church. It turned out that several of them were converted at the Cape when Mr. Millard and I were there in 1890; so we had a great shaking of hands and smiling at one another. The Lord opened the way to preach every Sunday in St. Mark's Church, Alexandria, and some 200 to 300 young men came on every occasion. We thought it better to open fire at once by meetings of Christians, so we began a continuous convention. God was with us; tears flowed, and souls bowed low at the feet of Jesus. Let me say that I believe Alexandria is the strategic key to the spiritual position in the Mediterranean. In Alexandria you find thousands of Jews, among whom work is carried on by the Presbyterians. There are 10,000 Maltese there. It has been most difficult to work in Malta amongst the Roman Catholics there. You are not allowed to give any Scriptures or tracts away to them. If a work begins among the Maltese in Alexandria, it will spread to Malta itself. Then there are tens of thousands of Greeks, Mohammedans, and many French, Germans, Russians, and natives of Abyssinia. Concentrate your prayers on Alexandria; a mighty work will break out, and God's kingdom will spread throughout the circle of the Mediterranean and its represented nations. I cannot go into detail, but God was with us of a truth.

At the invitation of Rev. Alexander McLaughlin I went to Smyrna. There was only one berth in the steamer, and so Col. Oldham was left behind. At Smyrna God began to work at once, and his presence and peace were in our souls. I wish to bear witness to the four happy weeks spent in the home of Mr. McLaughlin. He has a remarkable school connected with the American Presbyterian Board. There are in it 150 boys and young men of various nationalities, and his first idea is to lead them to the Cross of Christ. The Lord began to work in that school, and tears of Divine love and joy were on the faces of these boys. They have a daily prayer meeting to pour out their souls to God. I might perhaps mention that Mr. McLaughlin is now at Keswick, and is looking for some young man who will go with him to Smyrna to teach these boys, and who knows how to lead them to the Saviour.

There is a most blessed work going through the saints at Smyrna. There is the work of the Smyrna Rest. A sailor said to me, "Whenever the fleet is ordered to Smyrna, we know we must get converted." And really that is the case, for weekly, I had almost said daily, souls seek the pardon of their sins. There is also a work amongst the Jews; I would ask you to pray for Jews scattered abroad in these various places.

Mr. Grubb read portions of a letter received from the wife of a Greek minister in Smyrna, giving some interesting definite cases of blessing through the meetings held there. He remarked in closing that he had the privilege of coming home in a cargo-boat with 9000 hens. Notwithstanding the odour of the farmyard constantly round him, he had a most blessed time on board. He was the only passenger, and so he had a Quakers' meeting all day long, and God spoke peace to his soul.

The last to speak was Rev. Andrew Murray, who thanked the committee of the Keswick Mission for having sent out Mr. Gregson to South Africa. Christians at home could hardly realise the importance of sending out visiting brethren to missionaries abroad. In going from station to station they might leave unspeakable blessing behind them. Such visits, too, by consecrated women in India, would do immense good, not only among the lady workers, but among the native women converts who might be gathered together and encouraged in the Christian life. Referring to the statement often made that no missionary should go out to heathen lands who is not filled with the Spirit of God, Mr. Murray said that the fulness of the Holy Ghost was equally important and necessary at home. If Christians here are not filled with God's Spirit, they can never send out the right people to the mission field.

The Praise Meeting.

on Saturday morning was a memorable time. The elements were most unpropitious, as the rain fell in a steady, pitiless pour. Nevertheless, the tent was almost full by seven o'clock, when the proceedings began. Mr. Wilson was in the chair, and was surrounded by a large muster of his brethren who had been taking part in the Convention. The opening hymn was:

Praise Him, praise Him, Jesus our blessed Redeemer;
Sing, O earth, his wonderful love proclaim.

Then Rev. J. G. Gregson led in prayer and praise. Another laudamus was sung crowning Jesus King of Kings and Lord of Lords, and Ps. cxxxviii., a psalm of praise, was read by the chairman. If God has begun a good work in our soul, said Mr. Wilson, He will carry it on to the end. He will perfect that which concerneth us; let that be our encouragement and our motto as we go to our homes. Some requests for praise that had been sent in were read by Mr. Richardson. One friend offered praise for having had all their arrangements upset and being sent to Keswick at two hours' notice. A request came from Gladstone, Queensland, for blessing received at the Convention four years ago, which had enabled the writer to rejoice in God's keeping power in the loneliness of the bush. Several praised the Lord for deliverance from the habit of tobacco smoking, which was found to be a hindrance. The chairman read portions of a letter received from Rev. H. C. G. Moule, of Cambridge, who had intended being at the Convention. The continued and increased illness of his wife detained him at home, and in his letter he testified how the name of the Lord had been a strong tower in the time of deep trial.

Notes of praise then came from those on the platform in succession, each speaker giving some text or texts which had come to them with special power, or which formed a strengthening parting message. It came to Rev. Andrew Murray in due course to give his parting text. When he had sat down, Mr. Meyer, by request of the chairman, commended him to God's protecting and sustaining care as he started that same morning for America. The speakers at the ladies' meetings followed as usual. At this point Mr. Murray, had to leave the meeting, and the immense throng stood on their feet and sang a verse of "God be with you till we meet again." Then there came from the different sections of the tent a prolonged stream of passages from the Scripture, all of them carrying some message to the individual Christian or to the churches.

Only a portion of those ready to offer their contributions to the common feast could be heard, through the rapid flight of time, and sometimes several friends were on their feet at the same moment. Occasional snatches of song, led by Mr. Luce, varied this deeply interesting presentation of truth from the great storehouse of the Word. Opportunity was specially given to young ladies who had been attending the ladies' meetings to give their quota, and it was very freely taken advantage of. After another hymn Dr. Elder Cumming led all to the mercy-seat in prayer, and renewed thanksgiving. Several verses were sung of the Doxology followed, and the Convention proper was closed with the Benediction from Rev. C. A. Fox.

All hail the power of Jesu's name;

The Missionary Meeting.

This gathering on Saturday forenoon is always one of unique interest, and forms a most practical pendant to the days of teaching that have gone before. The tent was crowded to its fullest capacity, though a good many of the friends had already departed for their homes. The platform was almost entirely reserved for the missionaries selected to address the meeting. Mr. Robert Wilson presided, and was helped in the conduct of the proceedings by Mr. Eugene Stock, whose extended knowledge of the mission field peculiarly fits him for this function.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
Ye soldiers of the Cross, was the opening hymn, and Rev. J. G. Gregson led in prayer. After a word of warm greeting and cheer from Mr. Wilson, the reins of the meeting were taken by Mr. Stock. He said it was just seven years since the gift of a £10 note, given at the Convention, was the beginning of the Keswick Mission and of the missionary movement in connection with Keswick. He said that on this occasion opportunity would be given to friends to contribute to missions, as the Lord might incline their hearts. Mr. Stock read Mark viii. 1-6, the account of the feeding of the hungry multitude. It was not to the angels, he said, that the Lord entrusted the work of passing round the bread, but to the disciples, who did as they were commanded.

The company sang:—

Now the Lord our souls has fed,
With Himself, the Living Bread;
Fed us, sitting at his feet,
With the finest of the wheat.

And while we are feasting here,
Starving millions far and near
Call us with the bitter cry,
"Come and help us, or we die."

A veteran missionary of the L.M.S., Dr. Muirhead, was the first to represent distant heathen lands. As one who had spent nearly fifty years in China, and was looking forward to return thither, he desired to emphasise the primal importance of mission work. As to recent progress, there have been vast openings in China, Japan, Manchuria, Corea, Mongolia, and other lands that were till lately hermetically sealed to the Gospel message. The world is now at our feet, and we are called to enter into these open doors. There has also been a great multiplication of the workers in recent years, and that is cause for much thanksgiving. The labours of God's servants have not been in vain; 60,000 Church members are the fruit of the work in China, and these are increasing at the rate of 5,000 a year. This is only a beginning of what we shall see if we have more personal consecration on the part of the Church.

Rev. A. R. Blacket, of Australia, who has been called, in middle life, to leave his charge and go to the mission field, told something of God's dealings with him in the growth of missionary interest in his life. The true attitude of the Lord's servant, he thought, was not to be merely willing to go as the Lord might direct, but to entreat that they may be sent. The answer to his prayers came in a call to service in Persia, and he asked prayer that he might be enabled, even at his advanced age, to adapt himself to the work there. We all need to know that we are not of such importance at home as we imagine. If every soul in the tent were to go abroad this year, Keswick and everything else would go on just as before.

At the call of Mr. Stock all actual or returned missionaries in the assembly stood up—probably some fifty or sixty in number. Those who have been accepted, but have not yet gone abroad, stood next—in smaller but yet in considerable number, chiefly young ladies. Earnest prayer for these friends were offered by Rev. F. B. Meyer, that there might be a full consecration of all to the work of the Lord, and that all needed grace and strength might be given. Miss Sarah G. Stock's pathetic hymn concerning missionaries was sung, commencing:—

The tender light of home behind,
Dark heathen gloom before;
The servants of the Lord go forth
To many a foreign shore.

But the true light that cannot pale,
Streams on them from above;
A light divine that shall not fail,
The smile of Him they love.

TWELVE REPRESENTATIVE ADDRESSES.

INDIA.

Rev. E. Lewis, from South India, of the L.M.S., delivered a message of cheer and hope for past blessings and for bright prospects as to work in that great land. The doors are fully open, and though many of the natives seem satisfied with their own religion, there is below all a deep unrest and a readiness to hear the Gospel. It used to be deemed a wonderful miracle if a bigoted Brahmin were converted; such miracles have been seen and many who were once known as heathen are now fellow-workers with Christ among their fellows.

Mr. Frank Clark, secretary of the Madras Y.M.C.A., spoke of mission work among European and educated non-Christian natives. A great obstacle to the work is the ungodly lives of Europeans resident in India, who are all called Christians, whether converted or not. There are about seventy-five Y.M.C.A.'s in India, mostly for the natives. Work is also carried on among soldiers and sailors, and the sick in hospitals, and young men coming out from Europe, who are in great danger of falling into evil lives, are specially looked after. The speaker asked for twenty-four university students who would dedicate themselves to work among educated young men in the great cities of India.

Two ladies next spoke briefly. Miss Sophie Mulvany, who has worked in Calcutta in connection with the C.M.S., spoke briefly of efforts there among Mohammedans, and entreated prayer for greater results. A medical mission was greatly needed in the corner of Calcutta where these friends labour. More village missions are also a great desideratum. Grateful mention was made of the winter missions of 1888 and of last year. Miss Fallon, of the Bible and Medical Mission, wanted to tell of three big needs in India. One is for missionaries for direct work among the heathen; another need is for missionaries who would help the native Christians, many of whom can be reached with the English tongue alone; the third big need is for work among "society" people, Christians as well as those who are still careless.

Ceylon was represented by Sister Lucy (a sister of Mrs. Andrew Murray), who is not associated with any society but a helper of all. She said naively she was not a proper sort of missionary at all, but merely a drawer of water and a hewer of wood among missionary brethren and sisters. She was most pathetic as to the needs of the tiny island of Ceylon. They wanted old ladies, and those troubled with chronic bronchitis. The winter in Ceylon is just lovely and warm. The Tamil language is hard to learn by an old person, but it can be done. Just come out next October for a winter, and you can come back if you want to, but probably you won't want to come back at all. Sister Lucy fairly woke the meeting up, and its feelings had to be relieved by some verses of the song—

I feel like singing all the time
My tears are wiped away.

CHINA.

At the desire of Mr. Stock earnest prayer was made by Rev. Henry Sharpe, of Hampstead, for the China missionaries in peril at the present time, through the recent riots. Heartrending news had just come from the far interior. No life had been lost so far as is yet known, but everything short of that. There are no tidings from Mr. Horsburgh's party, and some of the American and Canadian missionaries have suffered terribly. Mr. Stock added that Rev. W. W. Cassels, one of the "Cambridge Seven," has been appointed bishop of Western China; this, however, will not in any way change his relations with the China Inland Mission. He will have the oversight of the C.M.S. work throughout Western China, as well as that of the C.I.M., Church of England work in Sze-Chuan. This plan has been mutually arranged between the two societies, and it has received the sanction of the Archbishop of Canterbury. Mr. Cassels will be consecrated as bishop towards the end of September, before returning to China.

Mr. Cassels himself briefly spoke, making reference to the region in which the riots have been prevalent, the province of Sze-Chuan. He had many encouraging things to say about the native Christians. They are liberal, prayerful, and gladly suffer persecution for the Master's sake. The needs of the province are great, and the Master's call is urgent. Who will arise and go? Another of the Cambridge seven, Mr. Montagu Beauchamp, said the question that God is asking us is, "Where art thou?" It was the thought of his relationship to God in Christ that sent him to China some ten years ago. May this great Convention result in conventions with God alone as to the responsibility and privilege that spring out of that relationship. Having worked as an evangelist in the province of Sze-Chuan, he thought these riots must have been instigated by high officials, for the people are not hostile; they are loveable and friendly, and will receive the missionaries gladly, especially where there is no misunderstanding through the opening of new stations.

Miss Graham, of the English Presbyterian Mission at Chinchew, brought a pressing message from the native Christians there, asking for many more labourers to carry the Gospel to them. The English Presbyterian Mission are now seeking three lady doctors and four other lady workers. The hopeless and pitiful condition of the women in China, even in higher circles of life, is a pathetic call for those who will carry the blessed news of salvation to them. The opportunities for work are wonderful, and the workers there believe that there is a time of great blessing in store for the vast land. Who will go and share in it?

JAPAN.

Dr. Whitney, an American missionary there, especially in Bible work, said the lines had fallen to him in pleasant places at Keswick. He spoke with deep emotion of God's leading his past life as a worker in Japan, and he thanked God now for a deeper consecration than before. He referred to recent events in Japan, and the present crisis is a solemn one. God send out many more workers to that land.

AFRICA.

Rev. Douglas Hooper, of Eastern Equatorial Africa, said that God is able to raise up workers for Himself from among the dark and down-trodden sons of Africa. Some deeply touching samples of devoted native Christians among those for whom he labours. More European helpers are sorely needed, but above all we need faith in God that he would work through the natives there.

PERSIA.

Rev. C. H. Stileman, of the C.M.S. in Persia, recalled the wonderful testimony given in that land by Mr. Henry Martyn. Since he was taken home, eighty years ago, not a resident missionary has gone to Sheraz, the town where he lived. That is not as it ought to be. We are verily debtors to those in Persia, both Jews and Gentiles. Mr. Stileman repeated some of the impressive facts he gave at the missionary meeting at Mildmay.

THE JEWS.

Dr. Dixon, of the Mildmay Mission to the Jews, There are many parts of the world where no one is caring for the souls of the Jews there. The claims they have on us Gentiles are so patent that we can scarcely overlook them. They are the nation which has given us the Scriptures and the Saviour.

Mr. Stock suggested that a loving message of greeting and of prayer for a rich blessing on their labour should be despatched from the convention through Mr. Robert Wilson to the missionaries of the Keswick Mission in Japan, India, China, the Cape, and Palestine. This proposal was heartily endorsed. Mr. Stock went on to remark that only a fragment of the great foreign field had been represented at the meeting. Not a word had been heard from North Africa, South Africa, West Africa from the Niger, the Congo, or Uganda (though most interesting news of progress had come that very morning from Uganda), from Madagascar, Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Turkey in Asia, Arabia, Tibet, the Malayan Archipelago, Mongolia, Manchuria, Corea, from the South Seas, New Guinea, or Fiji, from North Central, or South America, or Mexico.

SOME STRAIGHT WORDS.

Three short appeals from younger brethren concluded the speaking of the meeting. Dr. Lankester, medical missionary in India, addressed himself to young men. All are called to do something, and He will give directions as to where the sphere of service shall be. If there has not been a definite call to work at home, be ready to hear a call for the foreign field when God may choose to sound it in your ears. Get into touch of the will of the Saviour, and let Him deal with you as He will.

The word to young women came from Mrs. Millard. Those for whom she pleaded, she said, were our blood relations. "God hath made of one blood all the nations that dwell on the earth." Let all our young women hear the cry of their sisters who have never heard the name of Jesus. These women can only be reached by women, and God's heart yearns over them. Be like a Chinaman who said last year, "I can't go to another meeting till I have done what God has commanded me." If God sends us forth He will give us power over all the power of the enemy in whatever form it comes. Take three letters, p i o—"Pass it on."

Would you double every blessing?
Pass it on.

Last of all came Miss Wilson Carmichael, of the Keswick mission in Japan, who held up a red scroll, "Nothing too precious for Jesus" as a motto for all. Let these words come home to the fathers and mothers. Are they cherishing something—a son or daughter—too precious for Jesus? He may be calling sons and daughters; are they holding back anything from Him. He counted nothing too precious for us. If He calls any to leave all and follow Him, may it be in the power of his resurrection and in the fellowship of his sufferings that we may be made conformable to his death. Whatever He calls us to do, let us do it in his might and for his glory.

Then was sung by the congregation kneeling the hymn commencing—

Not my own, but saved by Jesus,
Who redeemed me by his blood.

Rev. G. C. Grubb filled up the closing moments of the meeting by reading from the fly-leaf of his Bible a covenant which he had signed in 1879, and some verses of Mrs. Frances Bevan. A last hymn was sung. Then Mr. Grubb called on all to stand up who were determined to seek a clear answer from the Lord in regard to engaging in foreign work. A great host of men and women, young and old, in all parts of the tent, started to their feet, and stood while Mr. Grubb offered prayer. Then he pronounced the Benediction, and the last Convention meeting was ended.

Camping-Out at Keswick.

[By One who has Tried It.]

At the Convention, owing to the overcrowded state of the town, many are obliged to seek sleeping accommodation beyond its precincts. Not a few resort to tent life, and find in it all the charm of novelty and variety, and also a cheaper and more healthful mode of living than in some of the lodgings which are to be had in Keswick. To them the Convention is a veritable feast of tabernacles.

The various encampments to be seen in the neighbourhood of Keswick at this time excite a good deal of curiosity and attract a great many visitors. The largest of these is that in Leonard's Field, close to the Convention Tent. It consists of eight marquee tents, five bell tents, a large dining tent, besides tents for storage, cooking, and lavatory purposes. This encampment is occupied chiefly by students from various colleges in England and Scotland, Wales and Ireland. The cost of living in this encampment, including bed and board, is about 3s. 9d. per day. In the same field, occupied by the students' camp, a party from the Durham Y.M.C.A. have erected an encampment of a few tents, and are evidently enjoying what seems to them a new experience.

Another encampment has been set up in a field off the Ambleside-road, about a mile from the town. It consists of five tents and a large van, bearing in large characters the inscription Derby Y.M.C.A.

What seems in many respects the model encampment is that which is erected in a sheltered, secluded spot on Springs Farm. This encampment was originated by a gentleman who is most desirous of extending the privileges and advantages of the Convention to a few Christian workers who may not be in a position to afford the expense of living in lodgings in Keswick. And so, for four years in succession he has, with the aid of some friends, set up an encampment in a suitable place in the neighbourhood of the town, and arranged to receive a few paying guests. The writer's acquaintance with this encampment was begun last year, when he was privileged to be one of the inmates, and when he received such favourable impressions of camp life as lead him to recommend it strongly as one of the best modes of life for young men attending the Keswick Convention.

That year the camp was pitched in a very picturesque spot on the west bank of the Brockle Deck. It consisted of five tents, one of which served as kitchen, and also as dining-hall when the weather was wet. The others, accommodating twenty to twenty-five persons, formed our sleeping apartments. A number of rooms were engaged at a farmhouse near, and there the ladies of our party, twelve in number, found sleeping accommodation, returning to the encampment for their meals.

Our party, numbering between thirty and forty, came for the most part from the districts of Penrith and Blackburn. It was drawn from various ranks in life. It included a Church of England clergyman and a Scotch Presbyterian minister, who were most agreeable bedfellows, and ere long fast friends. The most important though most unassuming member of the party was a stockbroker. We had also amongst us a lawyer, a chemist, a tailor, a gardener, some mill-workers, and several representatives of the Church Army. But all were one in Christ.

Meals were taken, weather permitting, in the open air. Our table was erected under a wide-spreading oak, which afforded a delicious shade from the scorching rays of the sun, while it allowed the balmy breezes to blow about us. After breakfast a short prayer meeting was always held. Our leader began it by asking two or three to give us texts of Scripture. This being done, several short, earnest prayers followed, which were concluded by all present joining in the Lord's Prayer.

Perhaps the most delightful hour of all the day was that which we spent around the camp fire in the evening. There under the softening, sanctifying influences of the meetings we had attended during the day, we began to unbend and to speak unreservedly one to another of the things which were uppermost in our hearts. It was most interesting, as well as most edifying, to hear one and another speak of his religious experience, and of the Lord's dealings with him. One, for example, told us how he had been brought under deep conviction of sin as he sat in a public-house, and as he learned there of the sudden death of one who had often been his boon companion in his carousals. Then the question was pressed upon his conscience, evidently by the Holy Spirit of God, "What if it had been I?" And from that moment he got no rest until he found rest and peace in believing in Jesus. The singing of favourite hymns was often continued far into the night, the murmur of the brook as it flowed past our encampment forming a pleasing accompaniment. The heavy rains that fell on two or three nights while we were under canvas did not in any way interfere with our comfort or even our enjoyment in the least degree. On several occasions we entertained a large company of visitors, who always seemed much interested in the arrangements of our camp, and who on one occasion, at least, ministered unto us of their spiritual things. All of us carried away with us most gratifying impressions of the days we spent together in camp at Keswick, impressions which shall not soon fade from our memories. This was largely due to the thoughtful, self-denying efforts of the gentleman who devised the idea of camping-out at Keswick as a means of doing good to others.

It may be stated that the expenses of the encampment were borne equally by the members of the party, and that they did not amount to more than the very modest sum of 2s. 6d. per day per member. We trust that the success of this experiment may induce others to imitate this highly commendable method of doing good.

THE WESLEYAN CONFERENCE.

By A MINISTER.

For the first time in the history of Methodism, the Wesleyan Conference is holding its annual sessions in Plymouth. The busy western port has historical and religious associations of the deepest interest to every true Protestant. In the days of Queen Bess, the "wooden walls" of old England were manned by no braver souls than the hardy seamen of the west, and it was from Plymouth Sound that Sir Francis Drake and his fellow captains sailed forth at the head of the little fleet that harried the huge "Armada," bearing the Papist instruments for the "conversion" of England, and began the work of destruction that was completed by the winds of heaven. Strange to say, while the Wesleyan Conference has been sitting in Plymouth, a Spanish squadron has anchored in the Harbour, and the officers have been welcomed with profuse hospitality by the mayor and townsmen. Thus the times have changed. There is a rude stone in the pavement of one of the fish-quays of Plymouth that bears an honoured word as its simple description—"Mayflower." It was hence that the men of the Mayflower finally set sail in search of religious freedom. As Dr. Waller, the newly-elected president of the Conference, said in his inaugural address, "By God's blessing, the Pilgrim Fathers made the wilderness to become a fruitful field, and the fruitful field to be counted for a forest."

Among the forces of Evangelical Christianity in Plymouth to-day, Methodism is by no means an uninfluential one. Among the minor Methodist bodies, the Bible Christians are, perhaps, the most aggressive. It is estimated that the "old body" itself provides accommodation for ten per cent. of the population. There are four Wesleyan circuits in the "Three Towns," with ten ministers in active work and an army chaplain. The chapel in which the Conference is being held—King-street—is the head of the circuit of that name. It is a spacious building, situated in the midst of the toiling masses, and is the centre of earnest aggressive work.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

The election of Rev. D. J. Waller, D.D., to succeed Rev. Walford Green as president of the Conference, was generally anticipated. For fourteen years Dr. Waller has been at the head of Wesleyan educational affairs, and since 1886 has filled with great ability the high office of secretary of the Conference. Dr. Waller is a product of village Methodism. Born in Cleveland in 1835, he was trained in a home that was a preaching house as well. For thirty years the Gospel was preached in that cottage, and a society class met there of which the leader was eventually parish clerk as well. It was amidst the simplest forms of religious worship that the future president was brought to religious decision, and to use Dr. Waller's own words, "the mother who opened her door for the preaching of the Gospel was more than rewarded in the spiritual blessings which came to some of her children." The new Wesleyan president must therefore be added to the long list of honoured servants of God and of the Church whose usefulness must be traced, under God, to a mother's influence and example.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.

King-street Chapel was filled with ministers and people when the retiring president, Rev. Walford Green handed to his successor the insignia of office, which include the pocket Bible used by John Wesley himself in his field preaching. Dr. Waller, in his opening address, emphasised some timely truths. Nothing was of so much moment to them, as a church, as that this Conference should be made a time of renewed consecration to the service of God. He paid a tribute to other churches that were at work in the broad harvest field, sharing with them the Master's benediction. They would be unworthy of their traditions if they could not look upon the prosperity of other churches with a gladness unmarred by envy. He believed that Methodism had its own providential mission, and how they might accomplish their Divine Master's purpose must be their first and constant aim. They had inherited a glorious heritage of privilege and responsibility. It was almost impossible to exaggerate the grand work done by the early Methodists. The result of the great Evangelical Revival of the eighteenth century was not to be measured by the millions that subscribed themselves Methodists. The indirect results seen in the life and zeal of other churches, and in the free and full salvation proclaimed to-day in all the Evangelical churches, must never be forgotten. But no church could live upon memories of the past. Prestige would not avail in the absence of essential Christianity. With words of solemn warning the President proceeded: "We must not take it for granted that because God was with our fathers, He will be with us, unless we fulfil the conditions of the promises, and have the moral and spiritual fitness for his work." It is sadly true, as Dr. Waller urged, that a church might retain its ancient shibboleths, the expressions of devotion and consecration, when the mighty Spirit which made it great and powerful had left it. Mere numbers were no guarantee of success. Enlargement was weakness if it was gained by becoming secularised. Half-converted people reduced the spiritual life of any community. If a church lost life and power, it might hold together for a time by its ecclesiastical fastenings, but it would be like a floating derelict in the ocean pathway.

Turning to the present outlook, Dr. Waller declared there were many indications of spiritual life and activity in the Methodist Church. The "Forward Movement," which had a flavour of antiquity about it, had taught them not to despair of any stratum of society. A hopeful sign was the elasticity and power of adaptation of their system to the conditions of modern life. This was an age of boundless opportunity. Their organisation was never so complete, their forces never more carefully trained, but the supreme need was the power of the Holy Ghost. They should be in sympathy with the age in which they lived, but true to Evangelical doctrines. The activity and success of the Sacerdotalists in the Anglican Church were reasons why more than ever they should consecrate themselves to the spread of Evangelical religion. In concluding an earnest appeal to his brethren, the president dwelt upon the need of earnest, believing supplication, and once more emphasised the supreme need of Divine co-operation.

Amongst other business during the first week, the Conference has granted permission to fourteen aged or sick ministers to retire from the active work permanently, amongst them being Dr. Bowden, who for more than forty years has rendered distinguished services to his church. He was for years chairman of the Bristol and Bath districts, and held the influential position of governor of Kingswood School. Six other ministers rest for one year. Forty-seven candidates for the ministry were accepted, and thirty-one young ministers, who have been trained and have served four years in circuit work, were recommended for ordination. The charge to the young men will be given by the ex-president, in the Ebenezer Chapel, on Monday morning, August 5.

The book-steward, Rev. C. H. Kelly, reported that the profits of the book-room, which, inaugurated by Wesley, is still managed by the preachers, amounted to £1500. This was voted to several Connexional funds, the major part going to the help of aged ministers and ministers' widows. Considerable discussion arose in regard to certain requests made by circuits for the appointment of ministers for a larger period than the triennial term. The general question will be considered during the representative session, which opened on Monday, July 29. On Sunday many pulpits in Plymouth and neighbourhood were occupied by Conference representatives, the president and ex-president preaching the official sermons in the King-street Chapel.

UNITED CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR CONVENTION.

The vast Convention, in connection with above movement, which has been holding its busy sessions in the City of Boston, U.S.A., came to an auspicious close on July 15. For almost a week meetings for prayer and conference have been held in different buildings, addressed by many of the best known workers on the American Continent, and also by some brethren who had travelled from the Mother Country to see and hear more of this wonderful movement among the young people of the Christian churches of America. It was, indeed, a wonderful event. The city was filled with young people from all parts of the Continent, with representatives from almost every land under the sun.

The inaugural proceedings began on Wednesday evening, July 10, by the holding of twenty simultaneous meetings in different churches and halls in the city. These were all thronged by eager and youthful audiences, and thousands were turned away. The following morning the Mayor, Governor of the State, and Lieutenant-Governor gave addresses of welcome in the three huge meeting places of the Convention, consisting of a large hall and two immense tents placed on the commons of the city, breathing a Christian tone, and speaking in fullest sympathy with the great movement which had called so many thousands of young people to the beautiful and historic State. Thanks were returned to these high dignitaries for their kindly words, and the Convention was fully under weigh.

The daily programme left little time for sight-seeing, and was very much as follows:—Morning, at 6.30, meeting for prayer and the deepening of the spiritual life; these gatherings were well attended, and some of the supplications we heard were spiritual and pointed, and offered up evidently by those who understood something of those words "praying in the Holy Ghost." Many young lives must have experienced blessed uplift from what is called "the sunrise prayer meeting." At 9.30 one of the main sessions of the day convened in the three auditoriums already named. These places of assembly consisted of an immense pile, called the Mechanics' Buildings, containing a hall capable of seating 8000 persons; it also had under its roof other large apartments, which for the nonce served as the Christian Endeavour headquarters. Here delegates registered. Here were post and telegraph offices, offices for inquiry, and numerous stalls for the sale of religious literature. A large business was transacted, and the circulation of Christian literature, as well as the sale of many Bibles, cannot but be regarded as a hopeful feature of the Convention.

This department must have received a considerable push forward owing to the fact that Mr. Moody, in one of the two addresses he gave at the Convention, spoke directly upon the subject of Bible study, urging his young hearers to make the old Book their daily delight. He also again paid a tribute to the work of Cruden in compiling his concordance, and rejoiced in its cheapness, recommending all not already possessors of the book to lose no time in securing it. The evening Mr. Moody spoke there was a crowd of close on 5000 outside the Mechanics' Buildings unable to get in. At the request of Rev. Dr. Clark, the founder of the Endeavour movement, Rev. John Pollock (Glasgow), and Rev. Henry Montgomery (Belfast), addressed Gospel messages to those thus disappointed.

Afternoon meetings were also held, at which the crowds were as eager and attentive as during the other parts of the day. The topics generally selected were such as to bring out the practical side of the Christian life and to emphasise the fact that salvation means service, and that service means power to serve, and that power to serve is ours in the salvation provided by Jesus Christ.

Rev. Knight Chaplin (London), Rev. Jas. Mursell (Derby), Rev. J. A. Lamont (Belfast), along with those already named, represented the old country. It would be impossible to give a list of the names of the speakers, but they represent all that is good and true in the religious life of America. The city has been literally captured by the Endeavourers; they sing hymns in the street cars, and hold Gospel meetings anywhere and everywhere; they have been holding prayer meetings in the hotels, and in the factories and workshops, and wherever people congregate, and have been pushing the good news of salvation amongst the people. The streets are bright and gay with bunting and other C.E. insignia, in recognition of the visit of the 62,000 Endeavourers, and some of the shops have spent large sums of money in electric light and other decorations. The newspapers have devoted unstinted service to the Convention, one morning paper alone setting apart as many as eighteen of its staff for stenographic, copying, and sketching purposes. Artists were present who made sketches of the speakers as they spoke, reproducing them morning by morning. Speakers were interviewed and the results duly chronicled, while solemn Gospel messages and very plain talk about Sabbath desecration, the liquor traffic iniquity, and other momentous matters were faithfully chronicled.

Boston has been looking her best; the weather has been mild and clear, the citizens have been most kind and courteous to her visitors, and places of public interest have all been gladly opened for the sightseers. ilgrimages were made to the Wa hington Elm, the old South church where it is said English soldiers stabled their horses, and other places of national interest associated with the stirring events which led to the independence of America. In each place was an American and a British subject; friendly words were exchanged, and the old historic headquarters inspected by the Endeavourers. It was cordially affirmed that Great Britain and Ireland have fullest sympathy with America in her desire to advance the highest interests of her people. They regarded her battle for a free school and for the breaking of the power of the liquor saloon with the deepest interest, and their insistance upon having good and true men to represent them in their civic, State, and national assemblies was matter for sincere congratulation.

The Convention closed by holding three simultaneous solemn consecration services, at which texts of Scripture were repeated or a verse of a hymn sung by the delegates from each State in the Union. All thus took part, and in the closing moments, with right hand uplifted to God, the vast assemblies committed themselves afresh to his care, and in words of earnest prayer sought again his best blessing on the work of the coming year.

It may be added that Mr. Geo. C. Stebbins, so well known in the old land, conducted the musical part of the programme each day in one of the buildings. It was a great joy to meet Mr. Moody, Mr. Stebbins, and other well-known workers again. We believe that there lies a great future before the Endeavour Society. It seeks to organise for earnest Christian work the young people connected with the various Christian churches, and thus brings to bear upon the outlying masses a power hitherto but little used as an evangelising agency. The leaders of the movement are prayerfully anxious to keep the movement on truly spiritual lines, and in this may they be signally successful.

AMONG JEWS IN PARIS.

Our work among the Jews in Paris has not only been sustained, but I am very thankful to say is prospering in the Lord; and from time to time we are permitted to see fruits of our labour. All our meetings are well attended, and it is quite the rule for Jews to stay to speak to me privately, some to ask questions, others for explanations, and yet others to inform me that they believe Jesus to be the Messiah, and desire further Christian instruction.

The Bible classes for Jews and Jewesses have been well kept up during the hot weather. Great interest is evinced in reading and studying the Word of God. The Sabbath-school for Jewish children is also flourishing, although not long ago it was put to a very severe test by the Jewish authorities, who, hearing that the children are taught the New Testament Scripture and Christian hymns, did all they could to prevent them coming to us. Harsh threats and severe measures had for a time a very ill effect upon our Sabbath-school, but our good Bible-woman, who is much beloved by the children, showed their parents that "we ought to obey God rather than men."

Another Jewish couple has lately desired to have their children brought up as Christians, and have requested me to recommend them to the society's schools in London. May the Lord add many more to their number.

L. C. Mamlock,
Missionary of the London Jews' Society.

119, Rue de Rome, Paris.

PRISON CONGRESS AT PARIS.

Describing the recent Prison Congress at Paris, Mr. William Tallack, secretary of the Howard Association, writes:—

"The discussions revealed a general progress throughout the world during the past few years in the treatment and prevention of crime. Remarkable testimonies to this effect were adduced from Japan, America, Germany, Sweden, France, Great Britain, and even Russia. In the last-named country, notwithstanding the continued persecution of the Stundists, some greatly improved prisons have lately been constructed. And, what is of more importance, it has been decided to reduce in great measure the number of persons to be exiled in future from Russia to Siberia. Offenders, with certain exceptions, are henceforth to be retained in their native districts, and not subjected to cruel and usually life-long separations from their families and friends, as hitherto.

"The French at present regard the Russians with more favour than they accord to any other nation; and it was striking at the Congress to observe the special attention and deference paid by the Paris authorities to their Russian visitors, whose delegation on this occasion was unusually large, and was headed by M. Galkine Wraskoy, the Chief of the Russian Prison Administration. In connection with him an interesting circumstance may be here mentioned. A large party of the delegates had been invited by the French Government to visit a newly-erected reformatory school at Montesson for 400 boys. When the extensive ranges of buildings had been traversed, M. Wraskoy said to the gentleman in charge of the party, 'And where is your church or chapel?' The reply was made, 'We do not need one.' 'Not need a chapel!' exclaimed M. Wraskoy, with astonishment. 'Then where do you propose to give religious instruction to these youths?' The answer was that the French authorities did not attach importance to religious instruction as an element for the training of the young. M. Wraskoy again exclaimed, and this time with much warmth, 'How can you call this place a reformatory if you reject religious instruction, which is so essentially and fundamentally important for the help of the young, as of old, persons? It is necessary both in the chapel and at all other places and times.'

"There are many good and bright features in the French people and their Government. The visitors to the Prison Congress were impressed with admiration at the politeness, hospitality, eloquence, ability, and energy of their Gallic friends, and at the evidences, all around them, of marvellous skill in art, in architecture, in science, and in industry. But a painful blank was also felt, occasioned by the prevalent and official disrespect to Christianity. Thus, during the many speeches made by Frenchmen at the Congress, and also in the documents furnished by the Government for the information of the delegates, there seemed to be a systematic ignoring and 'tabooing' of the name of God, or Christ, or of eternity. One of the establishments visited by the delegates was the large workhouse, at Nanterre, for 3600 poor men and women. There was once, at this place, a large and commodious chapel, but it has now been converted into a factory! So that if any of the aged inmates of the place desire to go to some service where they may obtain the consolations of the Gospel, they must seek it in the surrounding country, at a considerable distance, and whatever the weather may be."

JEWISH CHILDREN AT EPPING FOREST.—Of all the happy bands of East London children who have this season visited Epping Forest, the 300 boys and girls who went down on Wednesday last week from Old Montague-street, Whitechapel, were perhaps the merriest. Pent up in the narrow street which is partly their home and partly their playground, they have very few opportunities of enjoyment. One of those opportunities is to gather in the Hebrew Conference Hall at the Band of Hope and Bible-classes conducted by their old missionary friend, Mr. H. Ehrlich. For several weeks before the outing Mr. Ehrlich was besieged for tickets, and when he had distributed the 300 which his funds allowed, there were unfortunately as many more poor children longing to get a breath of fresh air and a sight of the country. The fortunate party had a happy day in the Forest. In the afternoon tea was served, the youngsters being waited upon by Mr. and Mrs. Ehrlich, the Misses Tann, Mr. Millership, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Early, Mrs. and Miss Rawlings, and other friends.

WORK YET TO BE DONE.

Dr. J. F. Smith, of Honan, China, a missionary of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, in a sermon before Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, glanced at some of the heathen countries of the world to see what remains to be done before it can be said that "the whole earth is filled" with the glory of God. He said:—

If the members of even a dozen of our congregations were thoroughly in earnest, they could, in a few years, carry the Gospel to every Indian of the few thousands in our own North-West. Mexico has 12,000,000 souls, and, notwithstanding the noble efforts of the last twenty years, we find only a few thousand Christians. Central America has a population of millions, and scarcely a good beginning has been made to evangelise its people. South America has 35,000,000 of people still unreached. Their moral and spiritual condition is dreadful, and our duty to them at the present time is great.

There have been great missionary achievements on the islands of the sea, and it would be well if Christians in North America had some of the enthusiasm which characterised the first converts to Christianity from among the cannibals of the Fiji Islands.

LOOK AT JAPAN,

that land of mighty change and mighty progress, which, during thirty years, has been stirred from centre to circumference by the influence of Christian civilisation, and has had every part of its national life transformed so that the nation is now permitted to take its stand on an equal footing with the civilised nations of the world. Christianity is still, however, far from being a dominant power in the land. There are only 40,000 nominal Christians in a population of 41,000,000. As far as the human eye can see, the present is the Church's glorious opportunity in Japan.

Corea, the down-trodden peninsula, has been for years the battlefield for China and Japan, and, besides this, its lower orders have had all ambition to better their condition crushed out of them by the oppression of their own officials. To-day it has only a few score of Christians in 12,000,000 of a population, and is surely a worthy object for the sympathy and prayers of the Christian world.

It is with somewhat of a feeling of sadness that I turn to speak a word for China, that vast conservative empire, which for so many centuries effectually barred its gates to the entrance of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Notwithstanding its boasted ancient civilisation, the fundamental substantiality and worth of its people, the lofty moral quality of its ethical code or cult, and its many and varied natural resources, China is to-day the laughing-stock of all civilised nations, because of its apathy, due to the rottenness of its whole social fabric.

Turn which way you will the same thing confronts one—paralysed energy, obstinate ignorance, intense pride, and indomitable contempt for anything and everything foreign. Honesty, patriotism, national pride, and anything like a bond of brotherhood are, in the true sense of the terms, all unknown, and, what is worse, seemingly undesired, in the Celestial Empire.

Time will not permit me to tell of the efforts of the few noble, heroic men who, with undaunted courage, in the early years of the present century, endeavoured to open in order that the millions within might hear the glad message of love and freedom. When we take into consideration the stupendous difficulties that have all along been encountered by the heralds of the cross, the fewness of their numbers and the whole character of the people with whom they have had to do, we have great cause to thank God for what has been accomplished. Yet there are only 50,000 Christians and less than 1500 missionaries in a population of between 300,000,000 and 400,000,000. What the final outcome of the war will be it is difficult to say, but we trust that it will help to arouse her from her apathetic condition and make her more accessible to Christian progress.

THE BARRED GATES OF CHINA

We hurry through the land of the Lamas, Tibet, with its six or eight millions of people, with its myriads of Buddhist monks and its tens of thousands of monasteries, with its prayer wheels and banners fanned by the breezes of heaven, so that while the earnest soul eats, sleeps, or toils, his devotions are going on by machinery. Tibet is, perhaps, the most marked of the places that at the present time oppose the entrance of the Gospel.

In India we have a people at once very religious and grossly immoral, and dominated entirely by that hideous, many-headed monster, caste. Out of 228,000,000 people, less than 1,000,000 are counted as members and adherents of the different Protestant denominations.

But nowhere under the sun is there such darkness as in Africa, where thousands of poor captives still groan under the horrors of the slave trade. All honour to the faithful few who have already gone forth, and to those who are now fighting against such terrible odds. While here and there we behold

A RIFT IN THE BLACK CLOUD,

one by one the brave ones at the front are falling; and while those left are overwhelmed as they contemplate the task before them, they call loudly to the Church at home to send men speedily to help them.

The enterprise which I have outlined is one to which nothing else can be compared, and in contrast with which all else becomes but insignificance and vanity. It is the one supreme duty which our Lord has entrusted to his followers everywhere. We are apt to be discouraged when we think of how little has been accomplished; but when the Church as a whole, will work, and give, and pray, according to her ability, her service will be fully accepted before God, and soon that glorious day will dawn when the kingdoms and nations of this earth shall have become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ; and then, indeed, shall the whole earth be filled with His glory.

SALVATION ARMY FOREIGN WORK.

In a letter "To our Friends," announcing his proposed six months tour through South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, and India, General Booth says:—

"I am full of wonder and gratitude to know that, all well, I shall leave Great Britain with my mind at rest, so far as is possible in such a whirl of varying operations, with respect to the condition and prospects of the war throughout the world. In one respect, however, I have an anxiety which I should be very grateful if the friends of the Army would generously remove. Our missionary exchequer is very low indeed. In addition to the maintenance of our extending work in India, and among the native tribes of Africa, and among the Continental nations, we have, as is pretty well known, been making several new departures lately.

"Of these, first there was Java, which is giving good promise; then there came Gibraltar and Iceland, which, while not very extensive ventures, nevertheless cost money; Demerara, British Guiana, followed, where already a remarkable harvest is being reaped, but which has made an addition to the account. Then came Spain, where our successes have outdistanced our expectations, but which, at the same time, has involved us in a considerable expenditure. And now, here is Japan, so long anticipated, for which our expedition sails on July 21, and which cannot, by any possibility, be set on its feet for less than from £750 to £1000.

"Anyway, we are at the moment altogether some £1500 behind, which, added to £500 deficiency on the rescue work account, makes a total of £2000; and before I sail (on August 10) I want to have the satisfaction of seeing this encumbrance removed from the hearts of those I leave behind."

THE EMPEROR OF CHINA AND THE BIBLE.—Professor Headland, of the Pekin University, reports a happy fact in connection with the Emperor's recent purchase of the New Testament. He reads it daily. The print in the purchased Testament was not very large, and a scribe copies a portion each day in large characters, and this the Emperor studies. "He is now reading St. Luke's Gospel. This information comes directly from the Palace. One of our Christians, who is a horticulturist, furnishes flowers to the eunuchs for the decoration of the Palace. He is often invited to dine with them. The pastor of the church to which he belongs has been repeatedly invited with him, but has always refused, until two days ago. He accepted an invitation, and at the dinner was told about the Emperor's studies. When asked to drink at dinner the pastor refused, on which his host remarked, 'Oh, yes; I have heard that you Christians do not drink wine,' and the wine was put aside, and none drunk at that dinner. The eunuch who tells the story stands in the room while the Emperor reads, and has obtained not a little information about the Scriptures himself."

TIBETAN PIONEER MISSION.

In a letter dated June 22, from Gnatong, Sikkim, viâ Darjeeling, Miss Annie R. Taylor writes: "I shall be glad of fellow-workers. The main object of the Mission being to afford every Tibetan the opportunity of hearing the Gospel, it is to be understood that the work of the Mission will be pioneering until such time as this is accomplished. I expect it will be some time before we are able to build at the different stations. I am glad to say that the chief at Yatong is giving me a piece of ground for a garden. This will make the place a little more homelike. The chief at Yatong has sent asking for a Gospel, and I have given him the four all bound together. I have engaged another Tibetan and his wife as servants, this with the chief's permission.

"I thank the Lord for having thus far provided for all my needs. At a recent Thursday evening meeting another of the soldiers decided for Christ. Pray that the Gospel may have free course and be glorified among the Tibetans and the Christians living among them.

"I have received a letter from Mr. White, the Sikkim political agent, saying:—'Government have wired to me that they think it undesirable you should proceed to Yatong on account of the disturbed state of the frontier.' So I shall not be able to go on for a little time; but I have got possession of the shop."

A PRESBYTERIAN CONGO MISSION.

Dear Sir,—As we have many friends in London who read The Christian, would you kindly print in it the joyful news that during the past two months thirty-five natives have united with the church on confession of faith in God? They are the first converts at this place and from this tribe. Our mission is four years old. It was founded by our pioneer missionary, Rev. S. N. Lapsley, who, in company with his colleague, Rev. W. H. Sheppard, left America in February, 1890. After a visit to the King of the Belgians, and after some other necessary time spent in Europe, he reached the mouth of the Congo May 10, and started in search of a suitable field. Three journeys were made into the interior, but he saw no reason to do other than follow the advice of King Leopold, viz., to establish a station in the Kassai district.

On April 18, 1891, Mr. Lapsley and Mr. Sheppard reached here, and the first Christian work was done among this benighted people. Mr. Lapsley did not live to see any results other than the well founding of the mission, for in one year after his arrival here he was called to be with Him whom he had served so well and so faithfully. The mission has had many hard blows since then, the loss of Mrs. Adamson being particularly hard; she died in her second year of work. Our geographical position so far from the coast has made this a costly mission; but who thinks of cost to-day in the light of thirty-five souls saved?

We are a small mission, there being only five on the field—Rev. W. H. Sheppard and wife, Miss L. Thomas (all coloured), and the writer and his wife. One other member (Mr. Hawkins) is stationed at Lukunga (Lower Congo) in charge of transport; he is a coloured man. Mr. Adamson is at home on furlough.—Yours faithfully, (Rev.) D. W. Snyder.

American Presbyterian Congo Mission,
Luebo, W.C. Africa, April 19.

THEATRICAL EXCURSION.—In connection with the work of Mr. William Forbes among theatrical employés, a large party of women and girls spent a pleasant day on Thursday last at New Barnet and Hadley Wood. Tea was provided in the Congregational Lecture Hall, and Gospel addresses were given by the Rev. J. A. Davies and Mr. Forbes. There will be a second party next week.

MUNDESLEY-ON-SEA.—Pastor T. R. Matthews, who is in charge of the Mission Church here, had recently to take a trip to Australia on account of serious chest weakness and is now quite unfit to seize the opportunities for outdoor and other evangelistic work at this season. He has thought that if it were known there are openings here for evangelistic work some friends might be led to go there during August and September, Mr. Matthews would gladly seek to arrange accommodation for them and furnish any necessary particulars if they would communicate with him: Pastor T. R. Matthews, Mundesley-on-Sea, North Walsham, Norfolk.

Letters to the Editor.

MISSIONS AND MONEY.

Sir,—Why is it that the crying demand for money to carry on Christian work of all kinds is so inadequately responded to? Why is it that while God has put it into the hearts of many to offer themselves for work either at home or abroad, they cannot be employed for want of money? A few weeks ago a writer in your paper said:—"The harvests are ripe, and gold-loving England holds the money that would buy the sickles and pay the labourers; the labourers die in the harvest fields, stinted in their labourer's fare. The Christians loll in their carriages, and only give to Christ what they do not need for their unnecessary luxuries. When will Christians awake to the fact that they have the gold from the Lord—and that He expects the tithes? In the editorial comment you added, "Some new departure will almost certainly come out of this state of things," and "it is evident a move will have to be made."

Is not the cause of all this deficiency the fact that in our dealings with God, we forget that He is our Master and we his servants? In the Old Testament, God, as Master and Proprietor of all things, promised to give to Abraham and his descendants the land of Canaan for a perpetual inheritance, but He retained for Himself all the tithe of the increase, both of the land and of the flocks and herds. He says "All the tithe is the Lord's" (Lev. xxvii. 30 to end). This tithe God claimed as His own, and so in Numb. xviii. 20, 21, 24, we are distinctly told on whom and for what purpose He bestowed it—"I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Israel." Observe, He does not order the Israelites to give it to the Levites—but keeps it in his own hands, saying to the Levites at verse 26, "When ye take of the children of Israel the tithes which I have given you from them for your inheritance." God thus keeps the tithe in his own hands, as an asset due only to Himself, and which He Himself bestows on the Levites.

God thus placed the support of his Church on a far higher platform than if He had merely ordered the Israelites to pay the tithes to the Levites for the service of the sanctuary. He made it a personal transaction between each Israelite and Himself, and thus raised it above any interference on the part of king, or state, or any government, and therefore capable of adoption under all circumstances and conditions of life. In the course of the centuries the people of Israel forgot these conditions, and, supposing that the lands and flocks were their own, merely gave to God, either nothing at all, or only such gifts as they thought they could spare. But God had not forgotten, and as proof that the arrangement was a permanent one, we find Malachi, the last of the prophets, on reviewing the conduct of the people during the previous centuries, denouncing in the most solemn terms their withholding of the tithes as robbing God, and thereby incurring His most righteous indignation and displeasure.

The very same principles hold good under the New Dispensation. In Matt. xxv. 14 and seq. Christ compares Himself to a Master going to a far country, calling his own servants, and delivering to them his goods, and to each, talents according to their various abilities, and after a time returning to reckon with them. Christ here declares Himself to be our Master, and that all our means come from Him. He does not Himself ordain that we should lay aside a definite portion of our means for Him, but Paul does so in 1 Cor. xvi. 1 and 2, when he writes that every one should lay aside in store a definite portion, as God had prospered him. The Old and New Testaments are therefore identical in principle.

But the world now, just as under the old dispensation, ignores Christ's position as Master, and therefore entitled to a proportion of the income of each of his followers; the almost universal idea being that the income we make is our own, and at our own disposal, out of which, according to our liberality and generosity, we give to God for His cause what we can conveniently afford. What would be the verdict pronounced on steward or servant here who treated his master so? What the verdict on his conduct? Certainly not "Well done, good and faithful servant," but rather dismissal and punishment.

If these remarks are according to Scripture, the practical outcome is that God has a work to be done here on earth by us, his servants; that He supplies us with all our means; that out of these He claims as His own a definite portion, which we have no right to retain for our own use; and that the rest are our wages, out of which we may bestow such free-will offerings as we are willing or able. Were God's professing people to recognise and act up to these principles, the answer would be supplied to the complaint of want of money for God's work of every kind—evangelistic or philanthropic.

In "Reminiscences of Dr. Andrew Bonar," just published, there is a sentence of his at p. 53, very much in the line of the above, "God does not say, Pay what you can, but pay what you owe."

Might it not be well for Christians to put God to the proof, for then, and not till then, can we claim or expect that He will open us the windows of heaven, and pour us out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it.—Yours faithfully, 52, Castle-street, Edinburgh. John Moir.

THE HOLY SPIRIT.

Sir,—I should think it must be clear to all who have examined the teaching of the apostles and the experience of thousands of Christians both in primitive and modern days, that God has provided for us in Christ during this present life upon earth a sufficiency of grace and power for our complete sanctification, as well as for the fulfilment of our service for his glory. Such passages as the following show this:—God "has given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness" (2 Peter i. 3, 4); "that ye may be partakers of the Divine nature"; "that you might be filled unto all the fulness of God" (Eph. iii. 19); "our sufficiency is of God" (2 Cor. iii. 5); "I am sufficient for all things in Christ who strengthens me" (Phil. iv. 13).

I suppose that most true Christians would agree to this. We have known all this for years, but have not been much the richer for our knowledge. Nevertheless, I consider such a testimony as is given by your correspondent, who signs himself "J.," on the baptism of the Holy Ghost and of power, is most valuable, because, as God is no respecter of persons, what one Christian has obtained by faith and prayer, another may also obtain, and such a testimony encourages others to expect similar blessing. But I think it is important to keep to Scriptural terms in writing or speaking upon this subject. I confess that I do not understand what is meant "by the application of the blood moment by moment," though it is a phrase often used by preachers. I find nothing like it in Scripture, and Heb. x. 14 appears to be quite contrary to this idea.

Moreover, practical sanctification is by the power of the Holy Spirit, and the heart is never said to be cleansed by blood, but by the Word of God applied by the Holy Spirit. Then, a believer is not exhorted to "yield," or consecrate himself, until he is reckoned by God as a person who has died and is risen, and seated (representively) in the heavenly places. Because He is "alive from the dead," he can yield himself unto God and seek the things above. Many appear to teach that we must consecrate ourselves in order that we may be "dead to sin"; but Scripture declares that all Christians have died, and therefore they are told to mortify their members by the Spirit, who dwells in them.

I have just read a most admirable treatise on the higher Christian life by N. J. Hofmeyr, Professor in a theological college in Cape Colony, which I would strongly advise your readers to study if they wish to have clear, Scriptural views on this important subject. The small volume is entitled, "The Blessed Life, and How to Find it." (Nisbet & Co.)

—Yours faithfully, Charles H. Annesley.

Torquay.

Dear Sir,—The experience of your correspondent "J." may be all very good. But the doctrine in it is not so. It is implied in his letter that those who have not had a like experience to himself have not received the baptism of the Holy Ghost. Such teaching would be small comfort for young believers, and little use in edifying saints. Nay, more; it would be a denial of the work of the Lord Jesus Christ.

This is not clearly understood. Christ's was a twofold work. John the Baptist foretold of Him that He should be:—1. The Lamb of God bearing away the sins of the world. 2. That He should be the One who would baptise in the Holy Spirit. Now, these are the very two things fulfilled in his mission, viz., by his death and resurrection. On the Cross, where He declared "It is finished"; on his Ascension, when He told them they should have "the baptism of the Holy Spirit."

The latter was as much part of Christ's mission as was the former. To deny one would be to deny the other; to receive one would be to receive the other also. Indeed, as that good teacher, Adolph Saphir, said:—"What right have you to say that you 'are saved' if you cannot also say you 'have the Spirit?'"

The work of the Holy Spirit, which is most clearly taught in Romans viii. (mentioned seventeen times), follows on the first verse of "no condemnation" to them that are "in Christ Jesus." Consequently the Spirit's ministration, in which we live in Christ, is under no condemnation. Through the Spirit (1) we have regeneration. Titus iii. 5, "In mercy God saves." (2) Quickening. John vi. 36, "It is the Spirit that quickeneth." (3) Inhabitation. Gal. v. 25, "If we live by the Spirit" (1 Cor. iii. 16). (4) Sanctification: "Your body is a sanctuary of the Holy Spirit" (2 Cor. vi. 17; 1 Peter i. 1, 2). [This sanctification is, directly believers are regenerate they are holy and without blemish before God.] (5) Revelation. 1 Cor. ii. 9, "Things which entered not" (Ephes. i. 17, iii. 5). (6) Demonstration. 1 Cor. ii. 4. This leads us to the power (1 Thess. i. 5; Eph. iii. 14-17; Rom. xv. 13).—I am, Yours truly, G. S. Windham.

Bembridge.

PRAYER FOR REVIVAL.

Lord Revive Us!

Dear Sir,—I have just received a note from a Christian minister in London, who is one of the chief workers in a large Christian institution that is seeking to help our London churches to make the Gospel known in their various districts, and he writes:—"A lot of the teaching and preaching we have in these days is of no use in saving souls."

This is from one who should know what is being done in the churches of the great metropolis, and he concludes that the churches, in general, are not obedient to Christ's great commandment, namely: to make known the love of God in the salvation of sinful children of Adam (see Mark xvi. 15, 16, and Luke xxiv. 46, 47).

The early disciples went everywhere preaching the Gospel; and Paul wrote that this was always "first of all" and continually his chief theme (1 Cor. xv. 1-4). Let us all confess our sins, and the sins of each other, and walk humbly with God (Micah vi. 8), and pray in a devout spirit, as one of old, "O Lord, revive thy work" (Hab. iii. 2; Ps. lxxx. 6), and believe for the revival, as the Word of God encourages us to do (Ps. cxxxviii. 7, and Hos. xiv. 7) to the glory of God.—Yours truly, K.

THE REVIVAL IN 1859.

Dear Sir,—Having read the testimony of many of what God wrought in them during the Revival of 1859-60, I seem to hear a voice saying to me, "Rehearse the righteous acts of the Lord." Brought up in a godly home from infancy, I had an intense longing to know more of the love of Jesus; and as I was living in co. Antrim, and hearing all the wonders God, by his Spirit, was working in the souls of men, I was intensely anxious to share in the blessing.

After attending all the meetings within reach, and offering much earnest prayer, the answer was vouchsafed at a quiet prayer-meeting, where there was no excitement. The Holy Spirit came upon me with such power that I was compelled to fall upon my knees and weep. It was some time before my lips were opened (and then only after short prayers being offered by one of the new converts), then the spirit of prayer was poured out, and such a sense was vouchsafed of the nearness of Jesus as a personal Saviour, that I was enabled to praise God. This manifestation was accompanied by much bodily weakness.

Thank God that sense of a personal Saviour has never left me, and through trials and losses of all kinds He has upheld and comforted me. What wonders I witnessed and heard at that time! Boys and girls who could scarcely read used (when under the Holy Spirit's power) such language and fluency in prayer, that all were convinced it was not of man, but God.

God grant such another flood of blessing, that all may be quickened and revived, and that Jesus may reign in every heart. A. S. Smythe.

Tully House, Cavan, Ireland.

AMNESTY FOR ARMENIANS.—An imperial Iradé has been issued in Constantinople, granting an amnesty to Armenian political prisoners. A large number of prisoners have already been released, including those arrested at Van.

THE DIVES OF NEW YORK.

Some time ago, accompanied by a friend, I visited two of the worst dives I think that can be found in the Mulberry Bend, New York. In both places the cheapest kind of liquor could be purchased for a mere song. The ceilings were low and extremely dirty, and the wretched-looking, bleared-eyed men and women who hung about the place were just about as filthy as human beings could be. In the centre of the room was a bar that formed a complete circle, and from which a whole glass of something called whisky, with a cup of coffee and sandwich thrown in, could be purchased for five cents. The people who patronise this dive are a class known in the parlance of the Bowery as "pan-handlers." This name is given them on account of their habit of begging money on the streets from passers-by.

In the short time I was there, I heard men concocting all kinds of plans to raise what they term the "dust," or, properly speaking, money, by some skin game or fraud. One man was doing up another's hand with a lot of dirty bandages. The hand was perfectly well, but this was done to give the impression that the man could not work, and in that way gain public sympathy. Another fellow had a piece of common soap which he was cutting into small slices and putting into tinfoil to sell as a patent stain eradicator for clothing. It is said that one man who frequented this place pretended to be blind and wore a placard about his neck stating that he could not see. A gentleman one day handed him a ten cent piece which dropped from his hand. Forgetting that he was he ran and picked it up. The gentleman who had witnessed all this said, "I thought you could not see?" "O!" replied the man, "they have put the wrong sign on me. I'm deaf and dumb, sir." I do not doubt the truth of this story, for I know of a man in this city who stood one Sunday morning in front of an up-town church, and feigned blindness until he secured enough money in his hat to keep him drunk for two or three days. That same person is to-day one of God's most faithful workers, and has been the means of leading hundreds of souls into the kingdom.

PLAYING BLIND,

"But," say our readers, "these men must belong to a very low class of society." Will it surprise you when I say that I have talked with some in that dive who once held high positions in this and other cities, one man in particular having been a city judge? When asked how they got so low, it is always the same old story. The first drink, then the love of liquor, growing stronger and stronger day by day, until they find themselves in their present condition.

The other place visited was a still worse one. It was situated in a deep cellar in the rear of one of the tenements in Mulberry-street, and was kept by one of the most repulsive-looking Italians I think I have ever met. He greeted us with a grunt, and the dangerous-looking stiletto which hung by his side made me wish I had never entered the place. Here doctored beer was sold for two cents a schooner. The beer is fresh from the barrels put on the side-walk by saloon-keepers to simmer in the sun until collected by the brewer's cart, and is touched up with drugs to put a froth on it. In this filled with men and women utterly degraded, I saw sights that made me shudder, and which are unfit for publication. Here each purchaser was allowed to sit on a chair or table all night, if they desired so to do.

AWFUL DEN OF VICE

No better opportunity can be had to see the utter depravity of mankind and the truth of the Scripture more faithfully portrayed when it says, "The way of transgressors is hard," than by visiting these dives in the Bend at midnight. There is an old saying, "Any port in a storm," and thus there are hundreds of poor, homeless wanderers that avail themselves of the opportunity here offered to obtain shelter, no matter how dirty or disagreeable the surroundings. The seven cent lodging-houses are ofttimes crowded to their utmost capacity. This class of houses has probably caused more destitution, beggary and crime than any other agency. A strip of canvas strung between rough timbers, without covering of any kind, constitutes the couch of the lodger who prefers the comfort of a red-hot stove near his bed to the noise and bustle of a stale-beer dive. I know of a young man, a brilliant lawyer, who became a tramp through his love for drink. He told me he lay down one night in one of these houses, and placed all the clothing he had, which he said was worth about five cents for old rags, at the head of his cot, and awoke in the morning to find that everything he possessed had been stolen. He was obliged to go to the station-house with an old army blanket thrown over him, where they supplied him with something to wear.

Amidst all this terrible sin missionaries have gone forth in the name of their Lord and Master, and are striving to save these lost ones. Those who have read of the wonderful rescue of Delia Loughlin, better known as the "Pink Rose," from her life of shame, by Mrs. E. M. Whittemore, of the Door of Hope Mission, cannot but feel that our labour is not by any means in vain. Before Delia's death, God used her in the salvation of many precious souls. Many times have I seen her in past days, in the Bend,

BRUISED, BLEEDING, AND INTOXICATED.

But that same dirty, wretched woman's death is described by a lady who stood by her side in the dying hour. She says: "Her face shone with the peace that reigned in her heart, and seemed to have taken on already the heavenly expression of love and joy. As we knelt by her bedside, and lifted our hearts to Jesus, a feeble 'Amen' would now and then be breathed out, and, as we took her hand to say 'Good bye,' we felt her triumph was near at hand." Many of the sin-hardened characters who attended her funeral from the slums, have, through her testimony, been brought to Christ and are now living honest, upright lives. We are glad to know that nothing is impossible with God, as well as to know that we "can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth us."—The Mission Worker.

COME TO JESUS.

Come to Jesus, weary soul—
Come to Him for rest;
All thy burden on Him roll—
All thy sins confessed.
He a Saviour is indeed!
Come to Him with all thy need.

Turn, thou serpent-bitten soul—
Look to Him and live;
He has power to make thee whole,
He can healing give.
He was wounded sore for thee,
Lifted high on Calvary.

Look to Jesus, anxious soul—
Running life's long race;
Thou shalt surely reach the goal
By his strength and grace;
Patient run from day to day,
Look to Jesus all the way.

Trust in Jesus, striving soul,
Fighting hard with sin;
He thy passions can control,
Whisper peace within;
Trust in Him for strength to fight,
Thou shalt conquer through his might.

Ask of Jesus, starving soul,
Bread, that thou mayst live;
Not with grudging will He dole,
He doth freely give;
Only raise to Him thy cry,
Every need He will supply.

With a Friend so true and tried—
Where are now thy fears?
He will strengthen and provide;
Wipe away thy tears!
And to Him a song of praise,
All along thy journey raise.

L. Shorey.

NEWSPAPERS IN JAPAN.—It is said that there are 600 papers and periodicals at the present time in the Empire of Japan. Twenty-three years ago not one of them was in existence. So far no paper has been issued on the Lord's Day.

DEAF AND DUMB CONGRESS.—A congress will be held in Dublin of the British Deaf and Dumb Association on August 6 to 12, next, and we are most anxious to make Dublin worthy of its name in entertaining the delegates and visitors. About £50 is required for the congress expenses, and we shall feel deeply indebted to any Irish frends of the deaf who will kindly send donations to me.

Maurice F. G. Hewson.

Dublin Deaf and Dumb Association,
Lower Abbey-street, Dublin.

RABBI LICHTENSTEIN.

The London Council in aid of Rabbi Lichtenstein's work, in a second annual statement, say:—

"During the past year about 10,000 copies of the Rabbi's last two pamphlets, 'An Appeal to the Jewish People,' and 'Ein Geheimniss aus dem Talmud,' have been circulated. The free-will offerings received by the Council go directly to the personal support of Rabbi Lichtenstein and the publication of his writings; and £250 a year is needed."

In addition to some details of the Rabbi's life, the statement gives extracts from recent letters. On his seventieth birthday, April 19th last, referring to the sorrows through which he had passed, he wrote:—"I have smiled through my tears. My heart rejoices in the Lord; my mouth is enlarged over mine enemies, because I have rejoiced in thy salvation, and I still hope in the evening of my days to see with my eyes the Kingdom of God, as foretold in the Psalms and the prophets, and to hear with my ears an Hosannah raised by all Israel. Hosannah to the Son of David! Blessed be He that cometh in the name of the Lord! Hosannah in the Highest! In any case, as long as God gives me life, my watch-cry shall resound like a trumpet, and my latest song, liké the dying swan, shall be 'Arise, shake thyself from the dust, put on thy glorious apparel, O my people; Through the Son of Jesse, the Bethlehemite, redemption draws nigh, my soul.'"

A Jew has said:—"The pamphlet, 'A Secret from the Talmud,' by Rabbi Lichtenstein, has changed my opinion of its author. I formerly thought him a man who was not truly influenced either by Jewish or Christian doctrine, but who feigned Christian testimony for the sake of advantage. In this paper, however, he speaks with such warmth and zeal of the person and Gospel of Christ, that I was impressed that it came from the very depths of his heart."

Copies of the statement may be had from Rev. David Baron, 23, Grove-road, Highgate-road, N.W.

IN FRENCH PROVINCES.

M. P. Guiraud, evangelist, writes from Vic de Bigorre, Hautes Pyrénées:—"A young woman of nineteen, living at St. Martin de Caralp, has been converted through reading some tracts sent me by English friends. Interested people at St. Martin, struggling to the light, are asking for books of sermons and meditations; and any such volumes will be gladly received by M. Comminges, ancien instituteur, à la Plaine, St. Martin de Caralp, par Foix, Ariège, France. At present, since I left Ariège, there is no worker at St. Martin. I have been placed at Vic de Bigorre by the Béarn agency of the Société Central d'Evangelisation de Paris. My work is encouraging. In all the villages there are groups of men and women who gladly hear Gospel truth expounded. Recently an intelligent Roman Catholic from Camalès has come over to us; and, in spite of pressing daily duties, he convened a meeting of sixty men to whom I have set forth the Gospel. After harvest-tide we shall hold other such meetings."

ST. MILDRED'S CONVALESCENT HOME, BEXHILL.

Amongst the philanthropic institutions doing immense good, St. Mildred's Convalescent Home for penitent fallen women recovering from illness, situate in St. John's-road, Bexhill-on-Sea, deserves special mention. The home was founded by Rev. Charles Chapman, and endowed by him to an amount exceeding £20,000, exclusive of the prime cost of the freehold and the necessary adaptation, furnishing, and fitting. The home stands a little from the road, and has a spacious recreation ground in the rear, secluded by large trees, the whole forming a spot of natural beauty, which is being developed into a charming and restful retreat.

Patients have been received from the London Female Guardian Society and other penitentiaries, also from the Magdalen Wards of Guy's, St. Bartholomew's, the Royal Free, and St. Thomas' Hospitals. Applicants are admitted on Fridays, as vacancies occur, and stay for four weeks. This period may be extended on the recommendation of the medical officer.

PALESTINE EXPLORATION FUND.

The annual meeting of the General Committee of the Palestine Exploration Fund was held at 24, Hanover-square, a few days ago, Mr. James Glaisher, F.R.S., in the chair. The report of the year's work includes an account of the excavations at Jerusalem, which have resulted in the discovery of an ancient wall running south of the present city wall down towards the eastern valley, where, at a point south of the Pool of Siloam, it turns towards the north. In this wall several towers and two gateways of great interest were found. It is yet too early to say with any degree of certainty what is the age of this wall, and it is hoped that the excavations now being carried on will throw more light upon it. Herr Baurath von Schick also reports the discovery of a stair and postern in the old north wall of Jerusalem, between Damascus Gate and the north-western corner of the city. Another discovery of importance is that of a Latin inscription of the period of Trajan built into the wall of Neby Daûd.

In the spring of the year Dr. Bliss, who is in charge of the work of the Fund, made a journey to the country of Moab, visiting Madeba, Kerak, and other places of historical interest, in the course of which he discovered remains of an ancient Roman fort and a Roman town, which do not appear to have been previously observed. Thus the year has been remarkably fruitful in discoveries and observations of importance, affording proof, if any were needed, of the continued usefulness of the Fund, and the desirability of prosecuting its further labours with energy and zeal. Full reports of the discoveries are given in the journal of the Society.

BATH CITY MISSION.

A remarkable case of conversion through the instrumentality of a Gospel book, given away at the Bath races, has lately been brought to the knowledge of the committee of the Bath City Mission. Each year the four missionaries are employed in giving away attractive Gospel booklets on the roads approaching the racecourse. This year a booklet published by the Drummond Tract Depôt, and called "Comfort in a Dream," was given to a man who had a most lucrative business in giving information regarding horses likely to win different races. To use the man's own words—the reading of the book "interfered greatly with his peace of mind."

In the providence of God a somewhat similar booklet was given to him the following week at Epsom. He became convicted of sin, and wrote to the missionary who gave him the little book at Bath (all the books are stamped Bath City Mission before distribution). A correspondence commenced, an interview took place, with the result that the recipient of the book gave up his lucrative business, and gave his heart to the Lord. And, as far as we can judge, is truly converted. The booklet was one of a free grant sent us by Drummond's Tract Depôt.

R. T. Hare, Lieut.-Colonel, Treasurer.

DR. BAEDEKER IN POLAND.

Hitherto the Lord has helped and given wide-open doors. The prisons in Poland are filled with men who bear punishment for small crime. They are an intelligent class of people, and nearly all are able to read. But the Romish priests domineer over them, and hold them bound by a mere form of religion, a caricature of Christianity. May the Lord bless his own truth among them.

At Lodz and Tirardoff are many thousands of Germans. The Baptists draw large congregations of them, and many are brought into life and liberty by the Gospel. I had a full day at Lodz last Sunday, simply from morning to night speaking the glorious Gospel. The Sunday-school celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. It was commenced in great weakness with four scholars; now there are more than 600 on the books. It is marvellous in our eyes!

The prison doors are open to me, and many prisoners are brought under the sound of the Gospel. Praise the Lord! The officials are always eager listeners. I hope to leave this in a few days for Ekaterinburg, Govt. Perm. Letters will reach me there, c.o. Mr. W. Davidson, British and Foreign Bible Depot. Pray for me.—Yours sincerely,

Moscow, July 20. F. W. Baedeker.

ZANZIBAR STRANGERS' REST.

Dear Sir,—Below I give some extracts from Miss Hurditch's letters, which give some idea of the work in which she is engaged:—

"We have had some good times lately and happy meetings. Tremendous issues for time and eternity gather round these fellows. I went and visited the Mount Hebron yesterday—a rough lot of men. The captain gave me permission to chat with them below. I sang 'Tis glory because I'm saved,' with the Salvation Army chorus. Some of the crew have been ashore, but most of them told me they had 'drunk their money' in Bombay, so could not afford to come ashore. Oh, the ruin wrought by Satan stamped on the faces of some of these men!

"Dr. Baxter, of the C.M. Society, is staying at Zanzibar for a few days, and took the service for the sailors last Sunday. We are hoping to have a visit from the five ladies who land here to-morrow on their way to Uganda.

"We have had a good many foreign vessels in lately. I visited a French one. The crew were all Roman Catholics, but I spoke a little word for our Master. My French is now as well understood as my English. It is slower work with the Swahili, but I am taking pains with the grammar, and can make myself understood in all household matters.

"The time I feel the need of other workers is on Sundays; it is rather close work to put three and four addresses in one day. Last Sunday, on board a man-of-war I obtained the captain's permission to sing some hymns, after which I gave a word to all, the captain and officers standing round."

It is evident from the above that more workers are needed. I shall be glad to correspond with any who may be led to offer themselves for this foreign service. J. Theo. Isaac, Hon. Sec.

163, St. George's-street, E.

LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Saturday was a gala day for some 4000 children, who were invited to the Crystal Palace to celebrate the centenary of the London Missionary Society. One hundred years ago, when the Society was founded, no one imagined that the young had any special interest in it. But the Society had not lived long before it found that some of its truest friends were among the children, and that they were the most ardent and successful collectors of funds. Through Sunday-schools and the children of Christian families generous contributions have been raised for many years towards the ordinary funds of the Society, which now amount to about £10,000 per annum. But it is in raising money for special objects that the children are most useful, and since 1844 young people interested in the London Missionary Society have raised no less than £162,500 for the purchase and maintenance of mission vessels. This total includes a sum of £21,695 raised by them during the last two years for the purchase and upkeep of the new missionary steamer, John Williams, which is to be used among the South Sea Islands.

It will thus be seen that the children have well deserved to be specially considered in the arrangements for celebrating the society's centenary. The morning was devoted to a competition between the choirs of Sunday-schools in connection with the different Congregational Churches. Short addresses were given in the theatre on missionary work, illustrated by dissolving views. A model of the new steamer John Williams was exhibited in the basin of the central fountain. In the afternoon a service of praise was held on the great Handel orchestra, with a choir of about 1500 voices. The hymns were all chosen from the Centenary Missionary Hymnal, and were sung with great fervour. The beautiful hymn "A Message to the Nations" was particularly well given, and there was a fine note of triumph in the way in which "The whole wide world for Jesus" was rendered.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For blessing on a ten days' mission by Weaver Brothers, at the Old Theatre Royal, Barnwell Mission, Cambridge.—For blessing at the Tent Mission, in Princeville (Bradford), commencing August 3, conducted by Mr. J. Neech.

THE JESUITS: A BOOK FOR THE TIMES.—Miss Cusack has ready for the press a work on the history and teachings of the Jesuits. She writes: "Unless I can get subscribers to cover the expense I cannot publish." The outline of the contents, given in a prospectus, suggests a work of remarkable interest, and the disclosure of facts which ought to be widely known. The price of the book will be 5s. 6d. to subscribers only. Address, 107, St. Mary's-street, Weymouth.

OUTLINE BIBLE STUDIES.

IV.—SCIENCE AND SOVEREIGN GRACE.

There are seven wonderful instruments which play an important part in the scientific and business world of to-day, and which, if examined in the light of the Bible, illustrate many precious spiritual truths.

1. The Mirror an Image of Bible Truth.

The mirror reflects the true character of things. So the Bible is the great reflector of both God and man, sin and holiness, heaven and earth. In that sense it shows us the true character of things. The Bible reflects the true character of man—his heart (Jer. xvii. 9, Matt. xv. 19), his life (Eph. ii. 2, 3), and his hope (Eph. ii. 12).

It reflects the great love of God—his general love (John iii. 16), his special love (Eph. v. 25), his personal love (Gal. ii. 20). These are the three circles of God's love reflected by this Divine mirror. It also reflects the grace and glory of Christ—his spotless character, his perfect work, his personal glory, and his saving power.

2. The Telescope an Illustration of Saving Faith.

By the aid of the telescope we are enabled to bring distant things near, and a look through this glass illustrates the look of faith through the Word of God (Heb. ix. 26).

We can look back to the Cross, and see what Christ has done for us (John i. 29).

We can look up to the Throne, and see what Christ is doing for us (Heb. ix. 24).

We can look on to the glory, and see what Christ is going to do with us (Titus ii. 13); with the full assurance of faith, of understanding, and of hope.

3. The Microscope a Picture of the Spirit's Light.

This is an instrument which magnifies small things, and enables us to see them in detail. This is what the Holy Spirit does in a spiritual sense. He reveals to us the lights and shades of truth. He explains to us all the secrets and interests in the many books of information which lie open before us.

The Book of Pictures, Creation. The Book of Mercies, Providence. The Book of Stories, the Bible. The Book of Accounts, Judgment, and the Book of Life—the Lamb's book. It requires special light to see the great facts of revealed truth (1 Cor. ii. 13, 14; 1 John ii. 20).

He will show us the secrets of life, the state of the world, the mysteries of the Church, and the wonders of the future.

4. The Kaleidoscope a Display of Salvation Wonders. By this instrument we are enabled to see the same objects in many different combinations of form and colour. So there is a multiplied light of the Word which shows to us our salvation in its many different features.

Salvation from the curse of sin by the atonement of Christ (Gal. iii. 13).

Salvation from the power of sin by his Spirit and grace (Phil. ii. 12).

Salvation from the presence of sin in the Glory (Ps. xvii. 15, Col. iii. 4).

We are saved, we are being saved, and we are waiting for salvation.

5. The Thermometer an Indicator of Christian Experience. The thermometer gives us the rise and fall of the atmosphere, So there are certain things that act as tests and gauges of our spiritual atmosphere. Cold and heat—earnestness or apathy.

The thermometers in the church are the prayer-meeting, the pulpit, and the collection.

The thermometer for life and service is love—all depends upon this (2 Cor. v. 14).

The thermometer for the home is patience (Gal. vi. 2; Rom. xv. 5).

These are the great regulators of the Christian life.

6. The Telephone a Type of Soul Communion.—This instrument is the means of communication both by near and distant friends. So is the Bible and prayer in a spiritual sense. The Bible is God's telephone wire to us (Heb. i. 2; 2 Peter i. 12; Heb. xii. 25). Prayer is our telephone wire to God (Nehemiah ii. 4; Phil. iv. 6.)

7. The Phonograph an Emblem of Life's Recorder.—The phonograph is a receiver, a retainer, and a repeater, and in a real sense our words and actions and lives are being phonographed every day. Everything is being written and recorded, nothing is missed (Mal. iii. 16). Everything is retained in God's book of remembrance (Rev. xx. 12). Everything will be brought to the light and repeated soon (Eccl. xii. 14). All will witness for us or against us in the great reckoning day. C. Edwards

Soldiers' Home, Winchester.

IRISH NOTES.

There are now 1050 families connected with St. Enoch's Presbyterian Church, Belfast, and in order to lighten the work for its present pastor, Rev. C. Davey, an assistant to him has been appointed.

At the expense of Mr. R. B. Davis, of Drogheda, the obelisk erected at Portrush to the memory of Dr. Adam Clarke, the famous Biblical commentator, has been repaired, and the inscription on it made legible.

On a recent Sunday evening, a special service in commemoration of the Great Revival of 1859, was held in Drumbanagher Presbyterian Church. Mr. T. Irwin, of Newry, gave an address, full of interesting details.

The Sabbath services at the famous watering-place of Kilkee, co. Clare, have been so largely attended during the present season that the building of a new and larger Methodist church than that now in use is proposed.

A social tea meeting was recently held in the Soldiers' Home, Curragh Camp, co. Kildare, to welcome Rev. W. L. Coade, the newly-appointed Methodist chaplain at the Camp. Much good work is going on amongst the soldiers here.

According to the minutes of the Conference just published there are in connection with Irish Methodism 230 ministers, 519 local preachers, 1385 class leaders, and 27,145 church members. During the year there was a net increase of 239 church members, and 345 members emigrated.

The first Irish Presbytery was held at Carrickfergus in 1642. This has now grown into the General Assembly, with five synods, thirty-seven presbyteries, 560 congregations, 645 ministers, sixty-nine licentiates, 168 theological students, and nearly half a million of members and adherents.

Sincere regret is felt by many in the North of Ireland at the death of Mrs. Gillespie, wife of Rev. Robert Gillespie, Presbyterian missionary at Ahmedabad, India, who was suddenly cut down on July 2 by fever. Deceased was the daughter of Rev. Mr. Watters, of Newtownard, and went out to India in 1868 as the wife of Rev. Robert Gillespie. She leaves eight children, her eldest son, a student in the Assembly's College, Belfast, being amongst the five students of that institution that recently volunteered for mission work in the East.

SCOTTISH NOTES.

Two young ladies, Dr. Kate R. Paton and Nurse Minnie Horner, are about to leave Glasgow for Mission work in Manchuria. The unsettled state of that province prevented their departure last year.

Rev. John McNeill, who has been preaching in Argyle-square Free Church, Oban, during July, is remaining in Oban for another month. During August his services will be held in the U.P. Church.

Mrs. Baeyertz has conducted a Mission at Campbeltown, which, in spite of the counter-interest of political elections and annual regattas, has been attracting large audiences. There has been much blessing.

The Foreign Mission Committee of the Church of Scotland have appointed Mr. David Rankine, M.A., M.B., C.M., of Edinburgh University, medical missionary at Ichang, a post which has been vacant since the death of Dr. Pirie two years ago.

Rev. H. E. Michie has been inducted to the pastorate of the Free Church, Stonehaven. Rev. R. T. Jack, late assistant to Rev. Alexander Rankin, Strathaven, has been appointed minister of Penicuik Free Church in succession to Rev. S. R. Crockett.

The Free Presbyterian Church of Scotland (the body of Secessionists from the Free Church led by Rev. Mr. McFarlane, of Raasay) reports having seven ministers, eighteen students, forty missionaries, and Mr. McFarlane believes they have about 20,000 Highland people.

In connection with the Free Church Women's Missionary Society, a public service was held last week in the Free Assembly Hall, Edinburgh, for the setting apart of three lady missionaries for the Indian field—Miss Park and Miss Symington—who are to supply vacancies on the staff at Calcutta, and Miss Ross, who is to assist in the work at Bombay.

Rev. William Hastie, D.D., assistant to the Professor of Divinity in the University of Edinburgh, has been appointed to the chair of Professor of Divinity in Glasgow University, vacant by the retirement of Dr. Dickson. Dr. Hastie was from 1873 onwards for five years principal of the Church of Scotland's Institution and College at Calcutta.

The Church of Scotland's Committee on Christian Life and Work have obtained the consent of one of the most experienced mission preachers in the Church of Scotland to give up the months of September, October, and November, to the conducting of missions, conditionally upon his Presbytery granting him leave of absence for that period. A number of applications for the services of the mission preacher have already been received.

The same committee have authorised the holding of another conference this year at Craiglockhart Hydropathic, near Edinburgh. The date fixed is from October 7 to 9. The purpose of the conference is that ministers, probationers, and elders of the Church of Scotland may meet together for the deepening and strengthening of the spiritual life.

"A NEW EFFORT IN SWEDEN."

Referring to a letter from Mr. C. F. Johnson in our issue of July 18, bearing the above title, Mr. C. J. Ekman writes:—

There are many warm-hearted Evangelical clergymen in the Swedish State Church, who take an active part in such good work as the Y.M.C.A., and many of whom visited England last year, in connection with the Y.M.C.A. jubilee. Also a great Nonconformist movement has been going on in Sweden during the last fifteen or twenty years, and the pure and simple Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ and Him crucified is being faithfullypreached in the power of the Holy Ghost in all parts of the country. Several conferences of Christians have just been held, and many thousands have come together (in one place 8000). The unanimous impression has been that the Spirit of Christ is working mightily, both in sanctifying the children of God, and in the salvation of souls.

If Mr. Johnson has not met with the reception he expected, it is because he is totally unknown, and the experience of the past has taught the Swedish Christians to be very careful as to admitting strangers from other countries to preach in their chapels. No doubt Mr. Johnson will not need to preach in the open-air after his life and preaching have been tested. I wish him heartily every blessing in his efforts to help on the blessed work of Christ in Sweden.

TO AID CLERICAL CANDIDATES.

Many men who are anxious to enter the ministry of the Church of England are prevented by poverty from graduating at Oxford or Cambridge, and several would be all the better for some previous practical training.

There is a fund at Cambridge (supported by Principal Moule) which materially helps a limited number of carefully selected candidates, besides providing for them useful training and varied experience in parochial work.

I should be grateful to any who would make these studentships known to really earnest single men who have had previous experience in Church work, and are well grounded in classics and mathematics.

I should also be very thankful for such assistance as would enable us to continue and further extend the benefits of the fund.

(Rev.) F. E. Rogers.

Abbey Walk, Cambridge.

THE GOSPEL IN S.W. SPAIN.—At Rio Tinto, on the evening of July 18, fifty-six neatly-bound Bibles (the gift of Rev. Dr. Mathews) were distributed as prizes to the children and young people of the village schools under Dr. MacCarthy's charge for repeating the whole of the Shorter Catechism without mistakes. Mr. Izett presided over the meeting, at which it is computed from five to six hundred were present. A suitable and earnest address having been given by Don Julian Timoner (a past student of the Theological College, Puerto Santa Maria, and now in this work), the prizes were handed the winners amid great enthusiasm. It is a matter for great thankfulness that so many have committed to memory this sound compendium of Christian doctrine; also that the Word of God has found its way into so many homes under such circumstances.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.—The large and beautiful new pier Pavilion has been taken by the Evangelistic Mission for special Sunday services during the summer months. Mr. J. J. Sims conducted the opening services, and from the outset the presence of the Lord was manifested in soul-saving power. The meetings have increased in number and interest each week, and on Sunday, July 21, when Mr. Sims gave his closing address, the large building, seating about 800 people, was completely filled, and many confessed Christ as their newly-found Saviour. The workers are greatly encouraged by these signs of God's blessing, and are waiting for still "greater things than these." On Sunday last, notwithstanding the boisterous weather, the area of the hall was again filled, and much interest was manifested in the service. Christian workers visiting St. Leonards are cordially invited to assist this effort by personal co-operation and prayer.

THE Y.M.C.A.

A noonday prayer-meeting has just been recommenced at the Hastings and St. Leonards Y.M.C.A.

The new Gloucester Association has begun its work in premises known as "Greyfriars House." The first nine meetings have been attended by an average of seventy, and there appears to be every prospect of a good work being done.

The Aldershot Association has just entered new premises. The inaugural meeting took place on Thursday last, when Colonel Owen Hay presided, and Mr. W. Hind Smith attended as a deputation from the National Council.

The annual meeting of the West Bromwich Association was held last week. The report showed advance in various directions, and tokens of encouragement. The membership is now 249; there is, however, a deficit in the funds.

Nearly four hundred students from many western States—even from as far west as California—are gathered on the shores of Lake Geneva, at the camp of the Western Secretarial Institute, in conference on subjects connected with the work of college Young Men's Christian Associations.

The Y.M.C.A. National Council are in consultation with the Inter-University Christian Union as to the sending out of a young University man to work among the educated natives of the Bombay Presidency. Mr. R. D. Pringle, the officer stationed by the Council at Bombay, writes home saying the need is unspeakably great.

On Sunday afternoon a special service was conducted at Coedcynhelier, Bettws-y-Coed, by Mr. G. H. Lord and the members of the Hackney Y.M.C.A. holiday party. A similar service will be held next Sunday afternoon at Llanberis. It is also proposed to have a three days' camp at Leigh, Essex, over the Bank Holiday, special services being held on Sunday. There are still a few vacancies in the Hackney Y.M.C.A. Holiday Parties, which leave for the Broads on August 10, and North Wales on August 17.

THE VICTORIA INSTITUTE.

At the annual meeting of this Society, held a few days ago, the honorary secretary, Captain F. Petrie, in the report referred to the value of the work recently done. Several important subjects had been considered, including what the talented Professor Huxley had termed the "intrinsic weaknesses" of the natural selection hypothesis; the so-called "missing links"; the physical characteristics of the extinct peoples of the Canary Islands; the philosophy of Comte, and of the Theosophists; also, the light thrown on the route of the Exodus by recent surveys.

The annual address was delivered by the president, Sir G. G. Stokes, Bart, F.R.S., who took for his subject, "The Perception of Light" and the laws affecting it. He described the functions of the eye and the results of recent discoveries as regards the influence of light and colour as forcibly illustrating "design." The Lord Chancellor moved, and Professor Sayce seconded, a vote of thanks. Sir Henry Barkly, G.C.M.G., and several other members pointed out the increasing value of the results of the Society's "transactions"; they included the opinions of very many minds on the subjects taken up, and so acquired a value beyond that which any individual author could give to the subjects, more especially as the progress and guidance of the Institute was in the hands of carefully-chosen leaders.

LIFE IN THE WEST LONDON SLUMS is the title of Miss Meredith Brown's latest report. The work of the Shaftesbury Institute in Lisson-grove, N.W., is graphically described, with many accompanying illustrations. In some closing words Miss Brown says, "Our balance-sheets, as last year, show a deficit. We are in great distress for lack of funds. Surely those who give their whole time and thoughts to the work should not have the heavy strain which financial difficulties entail."

THE SUNBEAM MISSION exists for the special purpose of drawing out the sympathies of upper and middle class children towards the very poor, or suffering, paralyzed and crippled children in our large towns. Members are asked to send by post a magazine monthly to one such poor child, and it is further suggested that, with the consent of their parents, they might occasionally write friendly letters and send toys, flowers, garments, etc. Between 8000 and 9000 poor children are now receiving magazines by post every month, and in many cases other gifts are sent, while several members have undertaken the cost of sending their little protégés to convalescent and country homes. There are forty branches, and members in all the continents. All information regarding the work may be had from the hon. sec., Mrs. Battiscombe, Eastwood, Weston-super-Mare.

OBITUARY.

MR. DANIEL HAMILTON, GOUROCK.

An earnest worker for God, Mr. Daniel Hamilton passed away suddenly from apoplexy at Gourock, on the Clyde, on July 20. He was the leader of open-air work in the town, was superintendent of the Sunday school in connection with the Free Church, and had recently originated a Christian Endeavour Society. For seven years he carried on mission work in Glasgow under Rev. Dr. Andrew Bonar, and went to reside in Gourock on account of his health. The Lord blessed his labours to the conversion of many souls, and his sudden call home has made a deep impression, especially on the young people.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER.

The death is announced of the Right Rev. Dr. Thorold, Bishop of Winchester. He had long been suffering from asthma. The Bishop was the son of a clergyman. The Record says of him:—"He was only seventy years of age, yet his name has been familiar in public life for nearly forty years. The work by which he will be best remembered was that which he accomplished in South London during his thirteen years' tenure of the see of Rochester. When he went there in 1877 he found himself confronted with the gigantic task of bringing order out of chaos, and those who know South London as it is now know how well he succeeded. The 'Ten Churches' stand as monuments of the patient energy and painstaking skill with which he applied himself to remedy the spiritual destitution of the district, while over the whole diocese there still remains evidence of the affectionate care and diligence with which he exercised his office. At Winchester his work has been retarded by indifferent health, but the restoration and furnishing of Farnham Castle, as his gift to the see, will cause his name to be remembered with grateful appreciation for many generations yet to come. The Bishop's death is not alone a loss to one place or one diocese; the Church at large is the poorer by it."

Although a great worker, Bishop Thorold read and wrote much. His literary work was his holiday task, and he set himself to send out only what he felt to be his best work. Amongst his better-known works are "The Presence of Christ," "The Gospel of Christ," "The Yoke of Christ," "The Tenderness of Christ," "Questions of Faith and Duty," "The Claim of Christ on the Young," and "The Gospel of Work." The Bishop leaves behind him two daughters, and one son, who, to his father's great grief, joined the Roman Church twelve years ago.

REV. PROFESSOR WATTS, D.D., LL.D., BELFAST.

Deep and widespread regret is felt throughout Ireland at the death of Dr. Watts, Professor of Divinity in the Assembly's College, Belfast, who passed away on Friday last, aged seventy-four years. A native of Castlewellan, co. Down, he was educated at Princeton Seminary, New Jersey, under Professor Chas. Hodge. In 1853 he was ordained to the pastoral charge of a congregation which he himself had gathered in Franklin Hall, Philadelphia. Ten years later he accepted a call to the pastorate of Gloucester-street Presbyterian Church, Dublin, where he spent three years, and from which he was called in 1866 to fill the chair of Systematic Theology in Belfast, a position which he continued to occupy till the time of his death.

As a scholar, an author, and a theologian, Dr. Watts has left his mark upon his time, and he was justly regarded as an able exponent of Evangelical Christianity. His pen, which was a busy one, was ever ready to be employed in the defence of truth, and few they were who cared to cross swords with him in religious controversy. He also enjoyed the confidence and esteem of his students, who felt they had in him a strong man, a safe guide, and an enlightened teacher. His best known books were, "An Outline of the Calvinistic System," "An Examination of Herbert Spencer's Biological Hypotheses," "The Reign of Causality," "The Newer Criticism and the Analogy of Faith," and "The New Apologetic or the Down Grade in Criticism."

Dr. Watts often preached on controversial subjects, and on such occasions attracted large congregations. In 1870 he defended Christianity against the attacks made on it at the British Association in Belfast by Professors Tyndall and Huxley, and altogether he was a tower of strength to the followers of Jesus Christ not only in the North of Ireland, but wherever the English language is spoken. In 1870 he was sent as a special delegate to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in America, and also to that in Canada. In 1879 he was chosen Moderator of the General Assembly. He was also a representative to each of the Pan Presbyterian Councils that have been held. Above all, he was a humble, earnest, Christian man.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Ryde Railway Mission.—A fortnight's tent meetings in connection with the above were closed on Sunday last, and truly the attendance proved the power of the old Gospel.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Alexander have conducted a most successful tent mission at Banstead, Surrey. The power of God has been manifest at every meeting, and many sinners it is believed have been saved, and believers blest. W. HODSON.

Ireland.—Very successful tent services have been held at Gilford, county Down, by Messrs. Ball and Good, Methodist evangelists, and similar services have been held at Adare, county Limerick, by Messrs. Carleton and Meskimmon, of the Irish Evangelisation Society.

Mr. F. H. Hutchins, of the Evangelistic Mission, has been conducting the services at the Home of Industry, Bethnal Green-road, during July with great power and manifest blessing. The gift of song which this evangelist possesses has added greatly to the interest of the services.

Bible Carriage Work.—For the past month crowds of people have assembled nightly on the Freeman-street Market, Grimsby, and eagerly listened to the Gospel addresses given by Northcote Willy, of Leeds. The services were more especially for children, and great interest has been manifested in the distribution of Bibles and other Gospel books among them. Hundreds must have found their way into the homes of Grimsby. E. N.

Mr. Henry Thorne has been conducting special services in the Hall-by-the-Sea, at Margate, during the past month. He has also given addresses in connection with Holy Trinity Church, Emanuel Church, the Young Women's Christian Association, and the children's special services on the sands. There has been much blessing, and many remarkable cases of conversion are reported. Mr. Thorne's new address is 9, Louisville-road, Balham, S.W., and it is requested that applications for mission services during the autumn and winter may be so directed.

PERSONALIA.

Rev. Hubert Brooke, acting under medical advice, has resigned the incumbency of St. Mary's Episcopal Chapel, Reading, and will be leaving about the end of September.

Rev. W. H. Griffith Thomas, our esteemed Oxford correspondent, has, we are glad to notice, come out with First Class Honours in the School of Theology.

Rev. Robert Stewart has been appointed agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society for Spain and Portugal. Mr. Stewart for the last eighteen months has been missionary assistant in St. George's Free Church, Dumfries.

Rev. George Patterson has been appointed Home Secretary of the Christian Literature Society for India. Mr. Patterson has spent sixteen years in educational work in India in connection with the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Mr. J. Albinson has recovered from his recent indisposition, and is arranging his winter's work. He will be accompanied in all his evangelistic efforts by a young converted Jew. Letters for him should be addressed to his home, 38, High-street, Macclesfield, Cheshire.

Rev. D. C. Boyd, of Portsoy, N.B., and for fourteen years a Presbyterian minister in Bombay, has been appointed general secretary and treasurer of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society, in succession to Rev. John Fordyce, who has resigned, and is now one of the directors of the Society. Mr. Boyd's address is 11, Albion-street, Glasgow.

Rev. Robert Balgarnie completed on Sunday last a five weeks' visit to his former congregations in Scarborough, whom he served for thirty-six years. On Thursday an interesting social gathering was held in the South Cliff Lecture Room, which was attended by old friends of all denominations. A hearty welcome was given to him and his family on revisiting the scene of their former labours, and many good wishes were expressed for their future welfare.

The Late Dr. F. C. Roberts.—Mrs. Bryson, of the London Missionary Society, has completed her MS. of the Life of Dr. Fred Roberts, of Tientsin, whose death was so unexpected. The book will be published by Mr. H. R. Allenson. A hospital is to be erected in Yen-San, China, in memory of the late doctor, who was a son of Alderman Roberts, of Manchester. The cost has been provided by relatives of the deceased. Dr. Roberts, it will be remembered, succeeded the late Dr. Kenneth Mackenzie as medical missionary at Tientsin.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

The four vans of the C.E.T.S. are employed in conducting a campaign in agricultural districts. The missionaries distribute among farmers recipes for the manufacture of non-intoxicating drinks for use in the harvest field.

The Christchurch Board of Guardians, who recently declined to allow a Band of Hope address being given to their workhouse children, have made some amends by appointing two life-long abstainers to important offices under their control.

The chaplain of Holloway Gaol, Rev. G. P. Merrick, has told an interviewer that drink is the most prolific cause of crime. At Millbank Prison there are three and a-half miles of cells, and two and a-half miles are filled with persons who have committed offences while under the influence of drink. "I should say," he adds, "that Holloway Prison is even worse, for out of fifty cases under my charge at the present time, only six are for felony—the others are of the drunken series."

The late House of Commons issued a return showing that the arrests for drunkenness in twelve months in Lancashire towns were in proportion to the population:—Manchester, 1254 per 100,000; Liverpool, 1532; Bootle, 2515; Salford, 1132; St. Helens, 1118; Bury, 993; Oldham, 624; Blackburn, 582; Rochdale, 465; Wigan, 436; and Bolton, 394. A singular feature is that Bootle, with the highest rate of drunkenness, has proportionately the lowest number of licensed houses of any big centre in the North of England, while Manchester, with only one exception—viz., Nottingham—has comparatively the highest.

The National Temperance Congress is to be held this year, at Chester, from September 29 to October 4 next, under the presidency of Sir B. W. Richardson. The topics for consideration at the sectional sittings of the Congress embrace the principal aspects of the question which at present engage the attention of temperance reformers generally. Many of the subjects discussed at the last Congress at Birmingham (six years ago) have since stood the test of experience, to the great advantage of temperance progress. The evening meetings, which will include one or more for Welsh residents and visitors, will be devoted to the advocacy of increased personal effort in behalf of the great pledge-signing crusade to be continued through the ensuing winter. Meetings will be held with the same object in numerous surrounding towns and villages to be addressed by friends attending the Congress.

Four years ago, Messrs. Carlisle and Co., shipowners, sent a circular letter to their captains, stating that they were convinced that the majority of serious accidents on their steamers were due to intemperance, and, in view of the danger to life and property involved, they stipulated that their captains should forthwith become total abstainers. Substantial bonuses were offered to captains who kept their ships free from accident, and it was agreed that a breach of the pledge should entail forfeiture of bonus. One of the captains, John Harrison, who took the needful pledge, was afterwards discharged for drinking whisky. His bonus and deposit being withheld, he entered an action in the Queen's Bench Division, pleading that he had acted under medical advice. As he admitted that he received the medical advice before assuming the obligation of the pledge, his case broke down, and judgment was given for the shipping company.

HOMES AND HOSPITALS.—Miss Meinertzhagen's directory of "Homes and Hospitals for the Benefit of Gentlewomen" is now in its fourth edition. The present issue contains important corrections and additions, every Society and Home in the list having been written to in order that the latest details might be given. It is an admirable compilation, likely to prove of real service to many. (1s. Miss Meinertzhagen, Wimbledon, Surrey.)

AN OPENING IN AFRICA.—Sir,—Can any of your readers help us to find a Christian young man, interested in missions, who has a thoroughly practical training in all departments of boot and shoe making, and who is willing to go to a mission in a healthy part of Africa? His work would be to teach the natives this useful industry, whereby they may support themselves by honest labour, and he would have ample opportunity for direct spiritual work, both among heathen and native Christians, in the evenings and on Sundays. We also want a similar man who is a thoroughly practical tailor. Only those who are real missionaries at heart could properly fill these positions. To suitable men a moderate salary and passage money would be paid. If any of your readers know of such, and will forward me their names and addresses, I shall be greatly obliged.—Yours very truly,

D. A. HUNTER.

Post Office, Aboyne, Deeside, N.B.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

Dr. Farrar was installed as Dean of Canterbury on Saturday. He preached his first sermon in Canterbury Cathedral on Sunday evening to an enormous congregation.

Rev. J. E. Jump, the new vicar of St. George's, Sheffield, opened his ministry in that populous parish on Sunday week. In the course of his evening address he appealed to the workers in connection with the church to make Christ the most prominent feature of their teaching.

Rev. H. E. Fox, of Durham, is spoken of as a likely successor to Rev. F. E. Wigram as honorary secretary of the Church Missionary Society. He comes of an old Evangelical family, is a man of commanding parts, and has rendered great service to the Society.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has approved the nomination by the C.M.S. committee of Rev. W. W. Cassels for the new missionary bishopric in Western China. The Bishop-designate was one of the "Cambridge Seven" who went out under the auspices of the China Inland Mission early in 1885.

Rev. W. Hay Aitken has arranged to preach in the parish church, Felixstowe, each Sunday during August. Mr. Aitken intends shortly to visit Canada, where he will conduct a series of mission services as follows:—Montreal, October 28 to November 11; Ottawa, November 16 to December 2; Halifax, December 8 to December 23; St. John, December 28 to January 7; Woodstock, January 11 to 24; Hamilton or London, January 26 to February 7.

CONGREGATIONAL.

The L.M.S. Centenary Fund has reached the sum of £68,967. Something like £33,000 is yet needed before the desired £100,000 is ensured.

The last services conducted by Rev. Mathias Lansdown at East Cliff, Bournemouth, were crowded. At a good bye-meeting, Rev. J. Ossian Davies and others bore testimony to the extent and value of Mr. Lansdown's work.

Rev. D. Burford Hooke, secretary to the Colonial Missionary Society, who is on a visit to the churches in South Africa, has arrived safely in that country, and has commenced his deputation work. He hopes to return to England by the Dunottar Castle early in October.

The position of Congregationalism in Jamaica is exercising the minds of the Committee of the Congregational Union. Rev. W. J. Woods has been appointed to visit Jamaica on behalf of the Union, and Rev. Dr. Barrett (whose father laboured as a missionary there) will represent the Colonial Missionary Society. Their report will be awaited with considerable interest.

Calls.—Rev. J. Magee, of Milwion, to Dunkenfield Hall; Mr. J. Ferguson, B.A., B.D., Lancashire College, to Greenheys Church, Manchester (accepted); Rev. J. Lawson, of Kirkburton, to Ovenden; Rev. W. A. Blake, of Upper Clapton, London, to his former pastorate at Wycliffe Chapel, Stockport; Rev. Adam Drummond, to Port-Errol, Macduff (accepted); Rev. J. T. Draper, Reading, to Birdbush, Wiltshire (accepted); Rev. L. P. Sayles, Glasgow, to Dronfield, Sheffield (accepted); Mr. Fred W. Thomas, New College, London, to Ashford, Middlesex; Rev. H. Freeman, Rendham, to Cowper Memorial Church, East Dereham (accepted); Rev. John Cottingham, Gloucester, to Forest Hall (accepted); Rev. Theodore Woodman, formerly of Cheriton, to Lyme Regis (accepted).

BAPTIST.

New school and class-rooms have been opened in connection with the Broadway Church, Chesham, Bucks.

Rev. T. Greenwood, late of Catford, has commenced his ministry at Balham. At the opening services the congregations were larger than for many years.

The recognition services of Rev. D. W. Jenkins, as pastor to the Salendine Nook Baptist Chapel, Huddersfield, were held last week. The late pastor, Rev. John Thomas, resigned in October, 1892.

At Golborne, Lancashire, the foundation stones of the first Baptist Chapel in the village were laid on Saturday last. Services have been held for over twelve months in the Liberal Assembly Rooms.

Calls.—Rev. T. Breewood, to Brayford group of churches (accepted); Mr. J. Ll. Bowen, Cardiff Baptist College, to Zion Church, Brynmawr; Rev. G. Neighbour, Longhope, Gloucestershire, to Ruardean Hill (accepted); Rev. G. T. Evans, Blackwood, to Neath (accepted).

METHODIST.

A new chapel at Pendoggett, St. Kew, has been opened.

A new Wesleyan Reform Union chapel has been opened at Mexborough.

Memorial stones have been laid of new chapels at Woodland, near Harnley; Antley, near Accrington; Metheringham, Lincoln First.

Last week 282 ministers of the 827 Primitive Methodist ministers engaged in active work in Great Britain commenced their labours in the new circuits, to which they were appointed by the recent conference.

Rev. W. J. Adams, vicar of St. Augustine's Church, Liverpool, after a special Sunday afternoon service in his church recently, caused a collection to be made for the scholars' excursion fund of the Still-street Wesleyan Mission.

A biography of Rev. Richard Chew is to be edited by Rev. D. Boaden, and a sum of £700 raised, a portion to be set apart for the widow and family, and the remainder for a "Richard Chew" scholarship at the Theological Institute.

A new mission hall, called Victoria Hall, is being erected in the Woolwich-road, Greenwich. It will seat 600. In addition, Sunday-schools, seating over 500, and a workers' room for mothers' meetings, &c., have been provided.

The visit of Rev. R. W. Burnett, as an official deputation to the Primitive Methodist Missions in West Africa, has been postponed owing to the compulsory return of Rev. J. M. Brown, of the Acqua River Mission, on account of ill-health. Rev. T. Stones and his wife have sailed from Liverpool to take charge of the Acqua River Mission.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. P. M. McLeod, late of Canada, who is seeking readmission to the English Presbyterian Church, has taken charge of the Tooting congregation, vacant through the death of Rev. Dr. Wm. Anderson. Mr. McLeod was formerly a minister in Liverpool.

Hui Kin, a Chinaman, was ordained a minister on a recent Sabbath evening, the service taking place in University-place Presbyterian Church, New York. Hui Kin, who is thirty-five years old, has for eighteen months conducted a Chinese Mission at No. 14, University-place. He is the first Chinaman ordained to the Christian ministry in New York.

The foundation-stone of a new mission hall in Willesden Green has been laid by Mr. H. M. Matheson. A feature of the ceremony was the laying of bricks by the young people and others. Over 140 bricks, each implying the payment of sixpence, were laid. The object of this arrangement has been to give the children the sense of having a permanent share in the building.

The love entertained by the congregation of Fairfield Church, Liverpool, for the memory of their late minister, Rev. Dr. Lundie, has been in some measure expressed by the erection of a marble tablet in Beech-street Church. The tablet is inscribed: "In loving memory of Rev. R. H. Lundie, M.A., D.D., first minister of this congregation, who, during his pastorate of twenty-nine years, faithfully laboured in word and doctrine; affectionately holding forth 'Jesus Christ and Him crucified' to the faith of all, and by the persuasive power of a devoted Christian example attracting many to the Saviour."

Calls.—Rev. Henry Ferguson, U.P. minister, Midmar, Aberdeenshire, to Broxburn (accepted); Rev. Andrew M. Smith, Sunderland, to Darlington-place United Presbyterian Church, Ayr (accepted).

"For Fallen Asleep," see page 30.

DONATIONS

RECEIVED BY MESSRS. MORGAN & SCOTT TO MONDAY, JULY 29, 1895.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or Post Office Orders, not by stamps.

 Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders should be made payable to Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, London, E.C., and crossed "City Bank"; this will effectually prevent loss.

	£	s.	d.
Society Relief Persecuted Jews—Thankoffering, 5s.; C. T. E., 5s.; S. E. S., 2s. 6d.; C. F., £1; (Jerusalem) M. M., 5s.; S. and S., 4s.	2	1	6
Congo Balolo Mission—"One of your Readers"	1	0	0
Figueras Mission, Spain—G. C., £2; Praise, £5	7	0	0
Baptist Zenana Mission—Claxton	0	2	6
British and Foreign Bible Society—Miss W., 10s.; Thankoffering, W. G., £20	20	10	0
Persecuted Stundists—E. D. A., £1; M. M., 5s.; C. F., £1	2	5	0
Poor Jews, Jerusalem—S. and S.	0	5	0
Miss Leitch's Work, Tillipally School—An Orphan's Mite, 10s.; Mrs. O'C., £2	2	10	0
Pastor Chiniquy—W. E. M.	0	5	0
North Africa Mission—W. E. M.	0	2	6
Zambesi Industrial Mission—W. E. M.	0	2	6
Spanish, &c., Church Aid Society—W. E. M.	0	2	6
Society Suppression Opium Trade—C. T. E.	0	5	0
China Inland Mission—M. C., 5s.; A Friend, Bournemouth, 5s.; J. M., £5; A. Z., £2; S. M. P., 10s.	8	0	0
Relief of Russian Jews—S. E. S.	0	2	6
Rabbi Lichtenstein—J. M., £3; C. X. Y., 10s.; (Publication of Books)—A. R., Belfast, £2	5	10	0
Re-building Church, Montorfano—G. H. W.	0	10	0
Church Missionary Society—E. Z. S., £10; Thankoffering, W. G., £20	30	0	0
Tibetan Pioneer Mission, Miss Taylor—F. G. E. L.	0	2	6
Hospital Sunday Fund—M. G. G.	0	5	0
St. Giles' Christian Mission—G. V. W., 10s.; Bath, 10s.; (Convalescent Homes) Mrs. E. P. C., £3; (Holiday Fund) M. G. G., 2s. 6d.; Thankoffering, 10s.; H. E., 10s.; Esperance, 10s.; H. N. D., £2; (Southgate) H. N. D., £1	8	12	6
Poor Sick Children's Holiday Fund—M. G. G., 2s. 6d.; S. D. G., 2s. 6d.; Vera, 10s.; H. N. D., £1	1	15	0
Tower Hamlets Mission (Holiday Fund)—Thankoffering, 10s.; C. T. M., £1	1	10	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—Thankoffering, 5s.; Bisley, 15s.; G. V. W., 10s.; H. E., 10s.; C., Kingston, 10s.; L. F., £1; E. S., £1; A Friend, 10s.; L. T. S., £1; M. M., 3s.; A Friend, £1; Mrs. E. P. C., £10; S. M. P., £1; C. F., £1; P. H. J., 5s.	19	8	0
Rev. A. G. Brown's Work—Thankoffering	0	5	0
Day in Country Fund—Mrs. B., 3s.; S. D. G., 2s. 6d.; Miss W., 5s.; R. H. S., 5s.; P. F. W., £1; L. T. S., £1; A. J. W., 2s. 6d.; M. A., £3	5	18	0
Mildmay Mission to Jews—Mrs. F., 7s. 6d.; Mrs. E. P. C., £5; S. M. P., 10s.	5	17	6
Widow of Gipsy W. Smith—Ryde, £1; Mrs. O'C., 5s.	1	5	0
Friedenheim Home for Dying—A. T.	0	2	6
Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland—M. W., £50 0s. 3d.; C. F., £1	51	0	3
Mr. Fegan's Homes—G. V. W., 10s.; W. E. M., 5s.; S. E. S., 3s.; Mrs. E. P. C., £5; S. M. P., 10s.	6	8	0
Assoc. Free Distribution Scriptures—Miss W.	0	10	0
Christian Community (Children's Holiday)—S. H., £1; G. R. B., 6s.; S., 12s.; (Day in Country) S., 2s.	2	0	0
George Yard Mission (Day in Country)—S. H., £1; T. O., 9s.; A. Z., 10s.; C. T. M., £2	3	19	0
Ragged School Union (Children's Holiday)—W. E. M., 2s. 6d.; P. F. W., £1; A Friend, 10s.	1	12	6
Mr. Wintle's Work—W. E. M.	0	5	0
Widow of late Mr. R. Bilke—W. E. M.	0	5	0
London City Mission (Disabled Missionaries)—C. T. E.	0	5	0
Rev. P. Gast's Work (Day in Country)—T. O.	0	10	6
Rev. S. Herring's Work (Fresh Air Poor Children)—T. O.	0	10	6
Friendless and Fallen—Bath	0	10	0
Railway Benevolent Institution—Bath	0	10	0
Homes Aged Blind, Crouch Hill—Bath	0	10	0
Country Towns Mission—E. S.	0	10	0
Open-air Mission—E. S.	0	5	0
Dock Labourers' Mission—Keighley, 2s. 6d.; (Day in Country) S., 5s.	0	7	6
Rev. D. Baron's Work (Poor Jews)—S. E. S., 2s. 6d.; J. M., £2	2	2	6
Children's Country Holiday Fund—Fidus, 10s.; S. C. H., 1s.; G. A. M., 1s.; S. M. P., 10s.; P. H. J. 5s.	1	7	0
Evangelization Society—A. Z.	1	0	0
Mr. Boyer's Cripple Children (Holiday Fund)—H. N. D.	1	0	0
Rev. J. W. Atkinson's Work (Country Holidays)—K.	0	2	0
Working Men's Mission, New Cut—M. S.	2	2	0
Union Hall Mission—M. S.	2	0	0
Thanksgiving Meetings, May 1, 1895—Mrs. R. O. M.	0	10	0
Mrs. Hilton's Creche—L. T. S.	1	0	0
Bridge of Hope (Miss Steer)—M. M.	0	2	6
Bristol Orphan Houses—C. F.	1	0	0
Aged Pilgrims' Friend Society—E. R. T.	0	4	0
Christian Blind Relief Society—E. R. T.	0	4	0
Jewish Work, London City Mission (Children's Holiday)—E. R. T., 3s. 6d.; C. T. M., £2	2	3	6
Flower Girls' Mission (Poor Children)—E. R. T.	0	3	6
Total	£210	14	3

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

Dr. Barnardo's Homes.—J. B. (Ireland), 10s.

SUMMER HOLIDAYS IN THE PEAK OF DERBYSHIRE.

CLIFF HOUSE, the Country Branch of Dr. and Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness's EAST LONDON INSTITUTE, will receive visitors as usual during August and September.

House charmingly situated and standing high. Air bracing. Extensive grounds. A beautiful tourist neighbourhood. Terms moderate.

For prospectus apply, enclosing 1d. stamp, to Miss Dennison, Cliff House, Curbar, viâ Sheffield.

CHRISTIAN COLPORTAGE ASSOCIATION,

Office, 37, Farringdon-street, London, E.C.

We urgently appeal for help to our

VILLAGE FUND.

More than 1500 villages visited systematically every month by our colporteurs, who, by personal dealing and the circulation of the Word of God and Gospel literature, seek to make known the way of salvation and win souls to Christ. A copy of the new Report, just issued, will gladly be sent on application to

H. D. BROWN, Sec.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

FUNDS NEEDED to extend the work. Irish-speaking Scripture Readers are sent where required, and the work is carried on in a spirit of love and not of controversy. Reports to be had from the Secretary, Capt. J. Kearney White. Offices: 27, Lower Pembroke-street, Dublin, and No. 9, Paternoster-row, London, where Donations may be sent; or to the Office of The Christian. John xiii. 35.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

OPERATIVE JEWISH CONVERTS' INSTITUTION.

ESTABLISHED 1831.

NEW BUILDING FUND.

The purchasers of Palestine-place have given the Operative Jewish Converts' Institution notice to quit their present premises next Christmas. The Committee therefore appeal for help to obtain another home. It is estimated that the site, the dwelling, and the workshops required will cost £5000, towards which only £1000 has been assigned as compensation by the London Society for Promoting Christianity amongst the Jews. In order that the number of converts received may not be reduced, the Committee ask the friends of Israel generally to provide the balance so urgently needed.

Donations may be sent to A. R. Pite, Esq., Treasurer, Effingham House, Ramsgate; or to the Rev. H. Oliver Allbrook, Principal, 12, Palestine-place, London, E.; or to the Editor of The Christian.

UNFERMENTED WINES,

FREE FROM ALCOHOL.

As used for COMMUNION purposes by upwards of 5,000 Congregations. Reputed quarts, 24s. to 36s. per doz. Reputed pints, 14s. to 20s. per doz. Small samples of 4 varieties, free by parcel post, for 2s. 6d. Price List, 250 Testimonials, &c., post free on application to—

F. WRIGHT, MUNDY & Co.,

MERTON ROAD, KENSINGTON COURT, LONDON, W.

NATIONAL PROVIDENT INSTITUTION.

Invested Funds, £4,700,000.
Paid in Claims, £9,000,000.

For Mutual Life Assurance. Estd. 1835.

All the Profits are Divided amongst the Assured; already divided, £4,600,000.

DEATH DUTIES provided for by LIFE ASSURANCE.

48, Gracechurch Street, London, E.C.

ARTHUR SMITHER, Actuary & Secretary

APPLICATIONS FOR AGENCIES INVITED.

The Attention of OPEN-AIR WORKERS, TRACT DISTRIBUTORS, EVANGELISTS, COLPORTEURS, SABBATH SCHOOL TEACHERS, and all other CHRISTIAN WORKERS is called to the following announcements:—

Tracts

AT SPECIALLY ADVANTAGEOUS PRICES.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

A Parcel of 10,000 Tracts, about 700 Varieties, for £2 12s. 6d. net.
" " 20,000 " " " £5 0s. 0d. net.

			If sent Carriage Paid,
1,000	PLAIN QUESTIONS. 16 Varieties. In the Words of Scripture.	for 2/6 net.	2/9 net.
1,000	"THE SCRIPTURE SAITH." 16 Varieties. Giving the Words of Scripture with Illustrative Incidents.	for 2/6 net.	3/- net.
1,000	BUNYAN LEAFLETS. 16 Varieties. A series of Rousing Appeals, selected from John Bunyan's Works.	for 2/6 net.	3/- net.
1,000	WORDS FOR WAYFARERS. 16 Varieties. Addressed to the Unconverted.	for 2/6 net.	3/- net.
1,000	HERALD OF MERCY TRACTS. 64 Varieties, 8vo size. With small Illustrations.	for 3/6 net.	4/1½ net.
1,000	HERALD OF MERCY TRACTS. 64 Varieties, 16mo size, 4 pp. each. With small Illustrations. Tinted paper.	for 3/6 net.	4/1½ net.
1,000	LITTLE TRACTS FOR LITTLE READERS. 16 Varieties. Chiefly Narratives; for Presentation to Children. Tinted paper.	for 3/6 net.	4/1½ net.
1,000	LAMPS FOR LITTLE FEET. 16 Varieties. Interesting Narratives for the Young. With Illustrations. Tinted paper.	for 3/6 net.	4/1½ net.
1,000	BLACKDOWN TRACTS. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each. 8vo. Narratives, &c.	for 5/- net.	5/10½ net.
1,000	NARRATIVE TRACTS. By the late Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Gosse. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each. 8vo. Tinted paper. Illustrated.	for 5/- net.	5/9 net.
1,000	TRACTS BY BROWNLOW NORTH. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each. Artistically printed in old faced Type, on Tinted paper.	for 5/- net.	5/9 net.
1,000	PICTURES OF LIFE. 8 Varieties, 4pp. each. Illustrated. A series of Striking Narratives.	for 5/- net.	5/9 net.
1,000	HERALD OF MERCY LEAVES. 150 Varieties, 2 pp. each. Quarto size. Illustrated.	for 5/- net.	6/1½ net.
1,000	WORDS OF GRACE AND TRUTH. 16 Varieties. Printed in Chocolate and Blue.	for 5/- net.	5/9 net.
1,000	ILLUSTRATED HERALD OF MERCY TRACTS. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each. In large type.	for 7/- net.	8/- net.
1,000	GOSPEL TEMPERANCE TRACTS. 16 Varieties, 4 pp. each. Illustrated. By J. B. Gough.	for 7/- net.	8/1½ net.
1,000	HERALD OF MERCY LEAVES. About 75 Varieties, 4 pp. each. Quarto. Illustrated.	for 10/- net.	12/- net.
1,000	CHOICE SAYINGS. 40 Varieties. Tastefully printed on Tinted Paper. By Robert C. Chapman, of Barnstaple.	for 10/6 net.	11/3 net.
1,000	PICTORIAL PAPERS. 32 Varieties, 4 pp. each, 4to size. Each with a large Illustration.	for 10/6 net.	11/10½ net.
1,000	ILLUSTRATED QRTO. SERIES. 5 Varieties, 4 pp. each. 4to size.	for 10/6 net.	12/- net.
20,000	TRACTS	If ordered in single 1000's will cost	£5 9 6	£6 6 6

SPECIAL OFFERS.

20,000 TRACTS.
(1000 each of the above 20 Series), about 700 Varieties, will be sent in One Parcel on Receipt of Remittance for £5.

10,000 TRACTS.
(500 each of the above 20 Series), about 700 Varieties, will be sent in One Parcel on Receipt of Remittance for
£2 12s. 6d.

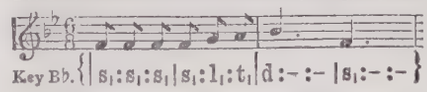
PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

Hymn Sheets

FOUR NEW SHEETS (Nos. 35-38),

NOW READY, SPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR

OPEN-AIR MEETINGS AND OTHER EVANGELISTIC SERVICES



Well printed in clear readable type, on good paper.
Two pages each, 9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Post Free.

Nos. 1-34 (Two pp. each) may also be had at the same price.

The first line of the Music (air) is printed at the head of each Hymn, in Old Notation and Tonic Sol-fa.

SPECIMEN OF TYPE.

8 "There shall be showers of blessing."
(EZEKIEL xxxiv. 26.)
TUNE—SACRED SONGS & SOLOS, No. 522. [P.M.

Key B♭. | s₁ : s₁ : s₁ | s₁ : l₁ : t₁ | d : - : - | s₁ : - : - |

"THERE shall be showers of blessing:"
This is the promise of love!
There shall be seasons refreshing
Sent from the Saviour above.

CONTENTS OF THE NEW SHEETS.

No. 35.

When He cometh.
One there is who loves thee.
We are but little children weak.
I will sing of my Redeemer.
I hear thy welcome voice.
Oh! what will you do with Jesus?
A blessing for you.
There shall be showers of blessing.

No. 36.

Saviour, like a Shepherd lead us.
Only a step to Jesus.
Come, ye sinners, poor and needy.
Jesus, my Lord, to Thee I cry.
Jesus loves me! This I know.
While the silv'ry moonbeams fall.
"Whosoever heareth!"
Hark, sinner, while God.
Sun of my soul.

No. 37.

There is life for a look.
How solemn are the words.
Here from the world we turn.
Come, ev'ry soul by sin opprest.
God loved the world of sinners lost.
Oh, what a Saviour.
Jesus bids us shine.
Oh, do not let the word depart.
I think when I read that sweet story of old.

No. 38.

Rock of Ages, cleft for me.
Weary wand'rer, stop and listen!
Are you coming home, ye wand'rers?
Jesus bids us shine.
Behold Me standing at the door.
Have you any room for Jesus?
Oh, turn ye, oh, turn ye.
I love to hear the story.
A Ruler once came to Jesus by night.

Hymn Sheets: 4-Page Series.

JUST PUBLISHED.

TWO NEW SHEETS (Nos. 18 and 19).

Price 1s. 6d. per 100; 12s. 6d. per 1000. Post free.

Nos. 1-17 (4pp. each) may also be had at the same price.

The contents of No. 18 are the same as Nos. 35 and 36 of the 2-page series } see above.
" " " 19 " " " 37 " 38 " " " }

A complete List of the Hymn Sheets published by MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, giving the titles of the Hymns on each Sheet, will be sent post free on application.

The full music for the Hymns on the various Sheets will be found in "Sacred Songs and Solos," 750 Pieces. Prices, in either Old Notation or Tonic Sol-fa, 2s. 6d. and upwards.

A NEW HYMN SHEET
FOR
Seaside Services,

Fishermen's, and Sailors' Meetings, etc.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

Well printed in clear readable type, on good paper.
Two pages each, 9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Post Free.

The first line of the Music (air) is printed at the head of each Hymn.

CONTENTS.

Throw out the Life-line across the dark wave.
Eternal Father! strong to save.
Star of Peace!—to wanderers weary:
"Master, the tempest is raging!"
We are out on the ocean sailing.
Light in the darkness, sailor, day is at hand!
Fierce and wild the storm is raging.
Brightly beams our Father's mercy from His lighthouse evermore.
Tossed upon life's raging billow.

London: MORGAN AND SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C. And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Forthcoming Meetings.

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, or Wales, on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, London, W.C.; or, The Sec. Evangelisation Society, Scottish Branch, The Grove-street Institute, Glasgow.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send evangelists to any Evangelical denomination within the London postal area. Apply, Hon. Sec., 64, Kennington-oval, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for temporary or permanent work in our villages and country towns. Apply to Mr. G. H. Mawer, secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Thorne Evangelistic Missions.—Friends desirous to arrange for mission services, to be conducted by Mr. Thorne, should make early application to the secretary, Mr. James Pearce, Exeter Hall, Strand, to whom subscriptions for the Mission may be forwarded.

The King's Own Mission, St. James's Hall, Royal-road, Kennington, S.E.—Sun., Mr. John Langsford, 7 p.m., 3.15 p.m., P.S.A., Mr. O. L. Heatley.

Clapton Hall, Upper Clapton, N.E.—Mr. A. Milne Kyd, Sundays at 6.30, and Thursdays at 7.30, during August.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park.—Sun., 3.30 and 7 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch.

Talbot Tabernacle, Notting Hill, W.—Sun., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. S. A. McCracken.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Week-nights, at 8; Sundays, at 11 and 6.30, Mr. Charles Inglis.

The Evangelistic Mission.—Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate, N.W., Sunday, at 7, Mr. Geo. Hucklesby. Malden Hall, Queen's Crescent, Haverstock Hill, N.W., Sunday, at 7, Mr. C. Russell Hurditch.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Open every night at 8; Sunday, 11 and 6.30; Mr. John Vine.

Welcome Home, 173, St. George-street, Ratcliff Highway, E.—Monthly muster of "Christian Lifeboat Crew," Tuesday, Aug. 6, 7 p.m.

Talbot Tabernacle, Notting Hill, W.—Sun., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Rev. G. Wearham.

Exeter Hall.—Mr. Henry Thorne, every Sunday in August, at 3.45 and 7 p.m.

Edinburgh Castle, Limehouse, E.—Sun., August 4, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. Henry Collins; 3 p.m., Pleasant Sunday Afternoon.

St. George's Hall, Langham-place, W.—Sundays, August 4 and 11, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. T. B. Miller.

Strangers' Rest, 163, St. George's-street, Ratcliff Highway, E.—Special meetings on Bank Holiday at 4 and 7 p.m.; sailors' tea at 5.30.

Special Religious Services in Theatres, Halls, etc.—Sunday, August 4.—Agricultural Hall, Upper-street, Islington, at 3.30, Mr. Haynes; at 7, Mr. Wm. Coates; Grand Hall of Varieties, Clapham Junction, at 3.30, Mr. Cromwell; at 7, Mr. Flews; Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, at 3, and 7, Mr. Charles Button.

Coming Conferences.

Blankenburg, Thuringia, Germany.—Sept. 2-6.

Perth.—Sept. 10—12, Rev. Dr. Bannerman, Perth, Hon. Sec.

West Norwood (Lansdowne Hall).—Oct. 15, 16, and 17 (Second Advent).

Deepening of Spiritual Life.—Carlisle, Sept. 2-6; Glasgow, Sept. 26-28; Hastings, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4; Blackheath, Oct. 1-4; Star Hall, Manchester, Oct. 6-13; Wakefield, Oct. 8-10; Ealing, Oct. 15-18; Oxford, Oct. 28-31; Norwich, Oct. 28 to Nov. 1; Belfast, Nov. 4-8; Bradford, Nov. 5-8; Edinburgh, Nov. 11-16.

Pakefield Conference.—August 13, 14, and 15.

Notices.

Communications Received with Thanks.—G.B. E.B.T. E.T. M.F.P. J.M. E F.B.C. M.L.W. Dr. S. W.E.P. E.S. E.H.K. A.E.B. W.E.B. Miss R. M.A.V. W.J.McC. F.W.F. H.J.M. G.T.H. L.J.D. J.G.G. J.F.W. A.R.C. J.E.L. J.G. J.A.L. W.J. M.F.P. J.M. J.A. C.H.A. C.F.G.C. A.L.M. B.A.C. F.P. C.B.H. R.R. R.J. M.S. E.N. E.R.B. J.H.C. R.A. A.W. W.W. A.McA. B.D. J.L.F. R.D.S. A.B. W.D. M.B.G. J.R.B. E.L. L.A.T. M.L.C. Capt.S. C.H.A. E.G. E.G.H. J.E.H.

Applicants for Tracts.—W. A. Tanner, 7, Morelandstreet, Goswell-road, London, E.C. (for children); E. J. Snow, 14, Packington-street, Islington, N.; Mr. James Prescott, Rydal Mount, Ashton-on-Mersey, Sale, near Manchester; Mr. Hedley Hodgson, Ashley Cottages, Turner-lane, Ashton-under-Lyne; W. S. Williams, Baker-street, Abergavenny; Miss May Stephenson, 50, Gt. Russell-street, Birmingham; A. J. Doughty, 17, Blaen Cwm Terrace, Treherbert, Glam.; H. Lamb, 36, Sacheverel-street, Derby; Herbert E. Elkin, 98, Shakespeare-street, Southport, Lancs; Miss M. L. Watts, 46, Kidderminster-road, Croydon; W. H. Musket, 26, Raymond-street, Liverpool; Rev. W. Carlile, Church Army, 130, Edgware-road, London, W.

☞ As it is found that infidels and others send papers to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers should be carefully read before being given away.

A "CHAUTAUQUA" IN WALES.—A Sunday-school teachers' Chautauqua, arranged in connection with the Sunday School Union, will be held on the Cardigan Bay coast, at Pwllheli, during the month of August. Those who are acquainted with the enormous dimensions of the American institution, Chautauqua, which sprang from small beginnings, will appreciate the possibilities of such a scheme in England. This year it is proposed to put within the reach of all Sunday-school workers a cheap and useful holiday, and already it promises to be a great success. Many interesting discussions have been arranged, dealing with Sunday-school questions of the day, in which a number of well-known ministers will take part, and daily excursions to the various interesting places in the neighbourhood—Aberglaslyn, Barmouth, Carnarvon, Harlech, Cader Idris, Dolgelly, etc., are included in the programme. A post-card sent to the Association for the Promotion of Home and Foreign Travel, at 41, Gracechurch-street, E.C., will elicit full details as to arrangements.

[7681

USE
HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
FOR BURNS, SCALDS, CUTS, SPRAINS,
OLD WOUNDS, SORES, AND EVERY FORM OF SKIN DISEASE.
THERE IS MAGIC IN ITS TOUCH.

CONSUMPTION.
THE GRAND OLD MEDICINE OF NEARLY 70 YEARS
has maintained its position as the first medicine in all Chest Complaints.*
As a preventative of mischief, it should be taken at the first appearance of Cough or Cold. As a safeguard against Influenza, and in subsequent weakness of the lungs, it has been used with wonderful results.
But the renown of this celebrated medicine in all these cases has been eclipsed by its success in cases of
PHTHISIS, PULMONALIS, or CONSUMPTION,
Aptly called the Scourge of England.
Interviews with patients, new and old, by Mr. Congreve's Commissioner, are published every alternate week in most of the weekly journals.
Mr. Congreve's book on Consumption and Chest Diseases may be had post free for one shilling, from the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, London, S.E.
 Congreve's Balsamic Elixir may be had of all Medicine Vendors in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and large bottles at 11s. and 22s. The smaller sizes are of little use except in slight cases of Cough or Cold.*

Notice.
Persons subject to eye disorders should know that any affliction can be cured by Singleton's Golden Eye Ointment, but it must be Singleton's. Of all chemists and drug stores at 2/- per pot. 300 years' reputation. "How to preserve the Eyesight," a little book of value to every family in which there is a case of weak eyes, will be sent free to any address by Stephen Green, 210 Lambeth Road, London.

One little bottle of Norton's Pills
Is not guaranteed to cure all ills,
But one little bottle, beyond all question,
Will thoroughly conquer Indigestion!
They have 100 YEARS' REPUTATION of being an UNEQUALLED REMEDY for INDIGESTION, HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS, DEBILITY, STOMACH and LIVER COMPLAINTS. A SPLENDID TONIC AND GENTLE APERIENT.
NORTON'S
CAMOMILE PILLS
Mild in Operation, Perfectly Safe, and Free from Injurious Drugs.
In Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 11s., of all Medicine Vendors. Ask for "Norton's Camomile Pills," and do not be persuaded to take a substitute.
Prepared by Norton's Ltd., 21 Spital Square, London, E.
ONE LITTLE BOTTLE, NORTON'S TRADE MARK.

THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION
CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, AND ASTHMA.
Success of Dr. Alabone's Treatment.
D. T. Young writes:—"Your treatment for Consumption has proved a great success in my own case—after having been given up by several eminent physicians. I am convinced, not only by my own experience, but from the evidence of other cases I have seen, that it is the remedy so long sought after."
Medical men and others cordially give an opinion entirely in favour of Dr. Alabone's treatment.
Full particulars and the details of a large number of cases pronounced incurable which have been cured, and a mass of information of vital importance to those suffering from chest disease, are given in the Cure of Consumption, 25th Edition. Price 2s. 6d., post free, by Edwin W. Alabone, M.D., Phil., U.S.A., D.Sc., ex.-M.R.C.S. Eng. by Exam., 1870, Lynton House, Highbury Quadrant, London, N.

ROBINSON & CLEAVER'S
Awarded Grand Diploma of Honour, Edinburgh, 1890; Two Prize Medals, Paris, 1889.
LINEN Collars, Ladies' 3-fold from 3/6 doz. Gents' 4-fold 4/11 per doz. Cuffs for Ladies or Gentlemen from 5/11 per dozen.
Samples Post Free.
COLLARS, CUFFS, AND SHIRTS.
Matchless Shirts. Best quality Long Cloth, with 4-fold Linen Fronts, 35s. 6d. per ½ doz. (to measure 2s. extra).
By appointments to the Queen and Empress Frederick of Germany.
ROBINSON AND CLEAVER, BELFAST.

CLEAN and STAINLESS.
ELLON'S CRYSTAL BALM
SPEEDILY CURES
Wounds, Cuts, Sores, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Sprains, Hay Fever, Bites & Stings, etc., etc.
To be had of all leading Chemists and Druggists, and direct from the ELLON'S CRYSTAL BALM Co.'s Depot
21, GREAT ST. HELEN'S, LONDON, E.C.
Prices, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. per bottle.

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN & YOUNG PEOPLE
MR. RUSKIN
writes:—"The book on Birds seems to me entirely charming."
BIRDS OF THE BIBLE.
Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By James Bowker. With Coloured Frontispiece and numerous engravings. Cloth, Bev. Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s.
ALICE; or, The Early Crown.
By Rev. H. Burton, B.A. Tinted covers, 6d.
Presentation Edition: Cloth, 1s.
"An admirable reward book for thoughtful Sunday-school scholars."—Methodist Family.
LITTLE KATHLEEN.
Sunny Memories of a Child-Worker. By Annie R. Butler. With two striking portraits.
Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Red Edges, 1s.
Tinted covers, 6d.
"We commend it as a charming gift-book for children, whom it will be sure to interest."—Footsteps of Truth.
NETTIE'S MISSION LIBRARY.
A Series of Six small Books Illustrating the Lord's Prayer.
NETTIE'S MISSION; or, "Hallowed be Thy Name."
LITTLE MARGERY; or, "Thy Kingdom Come."
MARGERY'S HOME; or, "Thy Will be Done."
MAGGIE RILEY; or, "Give us this Day our Daily Bread."
ROSY CONROY; or, "Forgive us our Debts."
NED DOLAN; or, "Lead us not into Temptation."
Each Volume may be had separately in Cloth Boards, 6d.; or the Six Books may be had enclosed in a Neat Box, price 3s. complete.
London: Morgan and Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The Christian.

No. 1332.] [AUGUST 8, 1895.

PRINCIPAL CONTENTS.

PORTRAIT OF REV. S. A. SELWYN.

World-wide Evangelisation 6
A Lesson from the Elections... 6
Massacre of Missionaries in China 6
The White Stone. By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 7
Students at Northfield 8
Y.M.C.A. Camp, Northfield 9
The Wesleyan Conference 9
Our Daily Homily 10
International S.S. Lessons 11
For the Young.—Leper Children 11
Sunday Recreation 12
Keswick Addresses:—
God's Redemptive Scheme. By Rev. Hubert Brooke 13
Hearing and Seeing God. By Rev. Andrew Murray 14
Faith and Freedom. By Rev. F. B. Meyer 14
Keswick Conference Echoes 15
Students at Keswick 16
The Great Assembly Hall 16
A Medical Mission Breakfast 17
Convention in Dunoon 17
Work at Gibraltar 17
Rev. Andrew Murray 17
Obituary 18
Evangelistic Notes 18
The Book World 19
Among the Churches 19
The Y.M.C.A. 20
Christian Endeavour 22

INSTITUTIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS AND MISSION.
HIGH STREET, WHITECHAPEL, E.
Received with many thanks from "L.E.P.," £1; "W.," 10s. Children's Day in the Country.—"J.R.W.," 5s.
"A Visitor."—We are thankful that God, in His great mercy, has kept us free from contagious sickness.
Rations of food to hungry children. Infant Day-Nursery. Day and Sunday Schools. Children's Services. Band of Hope. Evening Classes for Boys and Girls. Classes, Meetings, and Institute for Young Women and Elder Girls. Various Meetings, Classes and Parlour for Young Men and Lads. Bible Classes. Evangelistic Services. Lodging House Meetings. Temperance Work and Meetings. Mothers' Meetings. Clubs for Clothing, Coals, Bibles, &c. Prayer Meetings. Country Homes for Men, Women, and Children. Training Home for Motherless Girls, &c.
Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.
Post-office Orders should be made payable at 72, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E. c6554

THE SOUTHWARK. Branches: Greenwich, Ramsgate, Toronto. BOYS' HOME, OPEN DAY AND NIGHT,
To receive really destitute boys from 6 to 18 years of age without payment or recommendation beyond ABSOLUTE NEED.
Urgent cases are considered at any time, but Mr. Fegan may be personally consulted about Orphan, Homeless, or Erring Boys at the Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E., on Mondays, from 10 till 2.
All communications should be addressed—
J. W. C. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home.
95, Southwark-street, London, S.E.

DAY IN THE COUNTRY for adults and children. Also fortnight for the weak and suffering out of St. Luke's and Clerkenwell. Pastor Philip Gast (of Spencer-place Chapel, Goswell-road), 12, Noel-street, Islington. For over a quarter of a century help has been sent. c5233

CHILDREN'S JOY.—Rev. J. W. ATKINSON, Claremont, Cawley-road, London, E., very urgently PLEADS for HELP to give a Day in Country to 5000 poor and often ailing East London children. Entire cost, including rail and substantial meal, under 1s. per head. Cheques and orders crossed London and South-Western Bank. Balance-sheet as in past years, by chartered accountants, to every donor. Major-Gen. Bolton and Lady Lewis cordially thanked. c5393

FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED FOR MRS. GINEVER'S HOMES, London and Broadstairs. Founded 1874. 172 orphan children, of whom thirty are afflicted, and, therefore, not eligible for other homes. The trustees earnestly appeal to the immediate liberality of the Christian public for the maintenance of this good unsectarian work, which has never been allowed to fall in debt before.—Contributions gratefully received by R. T. SMITH, Sec., 18, Pemberton-road, Upper Holloway, London, N.; or by T. C. USHER, Treasurer Woodstock Hendon.

MISSION OF HELP to the Suffering Poor, asks assistance for several Christian widows and families recently discovered in destitute circumstances.—Hon. Sec., Miss ANNIE F. FERRAM, 38, Westbank, Stamford Hill, London c6592

POOR JEWS IN EAST LONDON.

The eight Jewish Missionaries of the London City Mission wish to send away for one or two weeks, many of the sick and ailing whom they visit.

Contributions will be thankfully received by F. A. BEVAN, Esq., 54, Lombard-street, E.C., or by Mr. G. R. COLE, 3, Bridewell-place, London, E.C.

The LONDON BIBLE WAREHOUSE.

SPECIAL SALE
OF
INDIA PAPER INTERNATIONAL
TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion, large type edition:—	Published at s. d.	Offered at Post Free. s. d.
French morocco, yapp	15 0	7 6
Ditto ditto leather lined to edge	18 0	9 0
Algerian morocco, yapp, ditto ditto silk sewn	23 0	11 6
* Levant morocco, yapp, calf lined, silk sewn	26 0	13 0
* Best Levant morocco, yapp, kid-lined, calf, silk sewn	30 0	15 0
* Real Seal, yapp, kid-lined, silk sewn, the finest binding extant	36 0	18 0

* These may be had in large Bourgeois type for 6/- more, net.

Also, Oxford, Bagster's, and other Bibles. Lists post free.
THE LONDON BIBLE WAREHOUSE, 53, Paternoster-row, E.C.

FRESH AIR FOR POOR CHILDREN.—For 10s. subscribed, a pale-faced child can enjoy a country holiday for a fortnight. Help very greatly needed this season for 500, in this, the third Poorest District in London.—A. STYLEMAN HERRING (for Local Committee), Vicar, St. Paul's, Clerkenwell, 45, Colebrooke-row, N.—Bankers: London and County. c5378

DESPAIRING AND DESTITUTE.—Hundreds of thoroughly reclaimable young men might be permanently benefited by the numerous Labour Homes and Emigration Training Farms of the Church Army if funds permitted. Nearly one million meals served yearly, irrespective of creed, with labour test and Christian sympathy. Donors of 5s. and upwards supplied free with tickets for giving to beggars. £4000 pressingly required for food clothing, and maintenance.—Remit, Rev. W. CARLILE, Hon. Chief Sec., Headquarters, 130, Edgware-road, London, W. c6566

THE BENEVOLENT OR
Strangers' Friend Society.
Treasurer, Alderman Sir JOSEPH C. DIMSDALE.
Chairman, J. H. ANDERSON, Esq.
Founded a hundred and nine years ago. GREATLY STRAITENED FROM WANT OF FUNDS. There are 188 Christian men and women unpaid visitors engaged in the Society's work of BEFRIENDING THE SICK POOR of London. Kindly remember it in testamentary arrangements.
Office, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C. c5340

SOUTH AMERICAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—Mrs. Goddard, Bycullah, Clevedon, earnestly solicits work for her sale in aid of this Society, to be held (D.V.) September 12. Address parcels as above. c6561

PAKEFIELD, by LOWESTOFT.
The 17th Annual Pakefield
CONFERENCE
For the Promotion of "Growth in Grace,"
WILL (D.V.) BE HELD
AUGUST 13, 14, & 15, 1895

The CONFERENCE will commence with Divine Service at Pakefield Church, on Tuesday, August 13th, at 7.30 p.m., when the Rev. Canon McCormick, Vicar of St. Augustine's Church, Highbury, will preach the Sermon.
The Meetings on Wednesday and Thursday will be held at the Pakefield Cunningham Schoolroom, in the Morning at 11, Afternoon at 3, Evening at 7.30. Speakers: Revs. Canon Ripley, Canon McCormick; T. Graham, C. Leathes, H. J. Thwaites, R. G. W. Tucker, and others. c5400

PERTH CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE. THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL MEETING, Sept. 10-12. Subject: "Deliverance, past, present, and to come."—Programmes from Rev. Dr. BANNERMAN, Perth. c5397

ZENANA MEDICAL COLLEGE, 58, St. George's-road, Belgravia, S.W., trains ladies for MEDICAL MISSION WORK in Eastern lands. Vacancies for pupils. Next term October. Partially free studentships granted. Funds needed. c5361

EDUCATIONAL.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL.—A clergyman's daughter offers the above. Loving care. Good education. Every attention. Terms £3 monthly, or 20 guineas yearly. Healthy, open neighbourhood.—Tredegar House, East Dulwich-road, S.E. 5333

MALVERN HOUSE, BLOCKLEY,
WORCESTERSHIRE.
Principals, the Misses JUDSON. Home school for girls in a lovely and bracing village on the Cotswold Hills. Resident foreign and English governesses and visiting masters. Earnest Christian training. Terms moderate and inclusive. References kindly permitted to the Rev. John Wilkinson, Mildmay Mission to the Jews, and to parents of pupils. Summer term begins (D.V.), May 2, 1895. c3068

SIX GUINEAS.—Two girls can be received into a good home school to fill vacancies. Certificated governesses. English, French, music, singing, drawing, drill.—Miss WEBB, Prospect House School, Rayleigh, Essex. c5247

SUPERIOR FINISHING SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate professors.
DELTA, Ward's Library, 112, Kensington-pk.-rd., W.

BURLTON HOUSE, READING.—High-class Ladies' School. Principal, Miss RATCLIFFE. Old established. Thorough teaching. Modern educational advantages, examinations. Finishing masters. Well-appointed home. Highest references. c5271

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Lenten House, Alton, Hants. Principal, Miss Chinn, daughter of the late Rev. S. Chinn. Very successful preparations for examinations. References, Dr. Stewart, Alton; Rev. W. Houghton, Guildford; Rev. R. A. Davis, Ventnor. c5131

FRANCHE, GREAT MALVERN.—Principal, Miss GRIGG. High-class home school for girls. Special arrangements for Indian and Colonial pupils. c5206

TO PARENTS.—Girls of any age instructed in practical housewifery, superior economical cookery, intelligent catering and marketing. Laws of health and sanitation studied. Business training, book-keeping, etc. Fee from ten guineas, including twelve weeks' board and tuition as above in experienced lady's well-appointed home, S.E. References to parents of pupils.—c6161, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square E.C. c6161

ALLAN BANK, OWLS ROAD, BOSCOMBE.
HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.
Thorough education. Success in public examinations. Care of delicate girls. House near sea among pines. Terms moderate. References to Evangelical Clergymen, and to Ministers.—Apply, Miss COOKS, Principal. c5301

ROSEBERRY, Western-parade, Southsea, facing sea and common. Christian home school for gentlemen's daughters. Thorough and successful teaching, careful godly training, refined happy home. Resident English and foreign governesses. Highly recommended. Principals, the Misses ROBINSON. c5105

SOUTH-WEST LONDON COLLEGE.
High-class School for Young Ladies.
1, CARLTON MANSIONS, CLAPHAM-RISE, LONDON, S.W.
Principal—Mrs. HALE, A.C.P.
Modern system of teaching. Visiting masters in daily attendance. Resident certificated governesses. Careful personal supervision, home comforts, and Christian training. Preparation for any examination if desired. Good garden and tennis.
Highly recommended by the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, Rev. D. MacEwan, D.D. and parents of former and present pupils.

EDUCATION NEAR LONDON.—Good professors. Christian training. Highly recommended by Miss Leicester, Head Mistress Wyggiston Girls' High School, Leicester, and parents of pupils. Governess-student wanted. Fee, 8 guineas per term. —c6163, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6163

REV. D. B. HANKIN, Mildmay, kindly recommends good home school, two hours from London. Spacious detached house. Thorough education. Fees from £25.—Miss LARTER, Nene House School, Thrapstone, Northamptonshire. c5130

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, East Tytherton, Chippenham.—Christian training. Preparation for examinations. Moderate terms.—Principal, Miss HOLLIS. c2317

UPPER MOUNT, SOUTHSEA.—High-class Home School for the daughters of gentlemen. Autumn term, September 17th.—For Prospectus, etc., address, PRINCIPAL. c5337

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.—The Misses BALCH and EDMEADES, Clevedon Lodge, Reading. Pupils prepared for Oxford and Cambridge Locals (higher, senior, junior), and Trinity College Exams. Vacancy for student-teacher (premium). c6265

THE MORAVIAN SCHOOLS, Fulneck, near Leeds.—A thorough, advanced, and Christian education. Boys' School, Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON. Ladies' School, Rev. M. B. O'CONNOR. c5341

ILFRACOMBE.—WILDERFORD HALL High School for Girls. Thorough education. Preparation for exams. Comfortable home. Christian training. Special attention given to delicate girls. Principal, Miss HEALE. Paying guests received. Moderate charges. c6402

VACANCIES OCCUR in high-class school for girls. Pupils received whose parents are abroad. Christian training. Home comforts. Special attention to backward pupils. Terms 80 guineas.—PRINCIPAL, 10, Clapton Common. c6157

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Wilton House, Tylehurst-road, Reading. Head Mistress, Miss Marion White. Assisted by well qualified resident mistresses and visiting professors. Pupils prepared, if desired, for public examination. Wilton House stands on high ground, gravel soil, outside the town. Large garden, cricket field, tennis courts. Tepid swimming bath. Next term begins Thursday, September 19. c5373

LINDFIELD, MALVERN,
LADIES' SCHOOL.
Principals .. .. The Misses GRAHAM.
THOROUGH AND SUCCESSFUL TEACHING. Christian training. Pupils prepared for Local Exams. Visiting masters. References kindly permitted to parents of pupils in England and abroad. Vacancy for Gov. Pupil. Premium required. c6461

WANTED, BY LADY at Bournemouth, little girl to educate with another, aged 10. House large and airy. Every care taken. Many years' experience. Highest references.—P., Erme Leat, Wellington-road. c6587

A YOUNG LADY (over 14), can be received in good school. Education free if willing to work for examination. Small charge for board and laundry. Also young lady on reciprocal terms to teach juniors. Nonconformists.—Address first, H., Aston House, Hammersmith Bridge Avenue, W. c6439

HOME SCHOOL BY THE SEASIDE.—Bracing air. Terms moderate. Successes at Senior and Junior Cambridge, College of Preceptors. Next term, September 11. Governess-student wanted.—Mrs. SKIDMORE, Witunell-road, Blackpool. c6498

STAFFORD HOUSE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, 260, Marylebone-road, London. Principal, Miss SHILLAKER. Healthy locality, near parks. Individual teaching. Special advantages for music and art subjects. Civil Service and all public examinations. Terms moderate. Highest references. Vacancy for articled pupil. c4476

BRIGHTON.—High-class school for girls. Healthy situation. Home comforts. Individual care. Great educational advantages. Resident French governess. Professors. Moderate terms. Vacancy for governess-student (premium).—The Misses NORTON, Farndon House, Stamford-road. c6520

HADDON HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Yalding, Kent. Sound education. Home comforts. Christian training. Certificated resident governess. Terms inclusive.—Prospectus on application to Rev. D. C. CHAPMAN, Haddon Villas, Yalding, Kent. c6550

PARIS.—Establishment for young ladies, 16, Rue d'Anteuil (near the Bois de Boulogne). Principals, Mdlles. Bouré. Thorough French and German, music, drawing, painting, etc. Prospectus on application. c6631

CHATEAU DE MARNAND, SWITZERLAND.—Select school for young ladies at very moderate terms.—For prospectus and information, apply to Miss LOWE, 82, Gower-street, London, where Mdme. TROLLIET can be met from August 24 to 28.

STANLEY HOUSE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.
Thorough education, with decided Christian training. The premises include workshop, chemical laboratory, covered and open playgrounds, tennis courts and cricket field. Delicate boys receive special care. Fees moderate and inclusive.—For prospectus, apply PRINCIPAL. c5004

NEW COLLEGE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Head Master: Rev. G. Hugh Jones, F.A.S. High-class School for sons of Christian gentlemen. Inclusive Fees, £45 per annum; under eleven, £40.

MR. W. ERNEST MATTHEWS, B.A. (honours), assisted by efficient masters, prepares for the Army, Navy, Universities, Public Schools, etc. Pupils under Christian influence. Excellent situation.—10, Worcester-terrace, Clifton, Gloucestershire. c5388

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL for boys. Thorough education. Every home comfort, with unlimited diet. Health resort. Medical reference. Careful Christian training. Terms inclusive and very moderate.—PRINCIPAL, Lucton School, Henfield, Sussex. c5134

PREPARATORY SCHOOL
To the Public Schools and Royal Navy, for Gentlemen's Sons, aged 8 to 14.

The Old Hall, Wellington, Shropshire.
(Founded 1845.) Very healthily situated, 370 feet above the sea, near the Wrekin. 3½ hours from London, by L. & N.W. or G.W.R. Beautiful grounds, playing fields, &c. Illustrated Prospectus on application to the Head Master, G. E. W. CRANAGE, M.A. (Shrewsbury School and Trinity College, Oxford); or Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c5333

ETONHURST, WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Preparatory school for the sons of gentlemen. Competent masters attend daily. Prospectus on application to LADY PRINCIPALS. c5354

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL where the constant aim of the principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class education.
The premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the south coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.
Prospectuses and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application. Several wards in Chancery have been appointed as pupils in the school. Terms moderate.—DR. THORN (not Thorne), Paddington, London. c4068

Huntingdon House School, TEDDINGTON, Middlesex.
Christian training. First-class masters. Thorough teaching. Moderate fees. Preparation for professional and business life, and for examinations (over 100 certificates gained). Recommended by Rev. Evan Hopkins, Kensington, and many Christian parents. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.
Principal—Mr. GEO. CUMES, F.R.G.S., F.R.A.S.

FOLKESTONE.—Penfillan House. Mr. Toke, B.A., and Mr. Vaughan Wilkes, B.A. (assisted by specialists), receive eight pupils to prepare for the University, Army, and other exams. Individual tuition. Careful supervision. Four successes in 1894. c4787

ALRESFORD HOUSE SCHOOL, MARGATE.—High-class school for the sons of gentlemen. Boys are prepared for the various competitive examinations. Special care of Indian children. Christian home.—Apply, The PRINCIPALS. c5371

FOLKESTONE.
MR. J. W. C. FEGAN desires to recommend to Christian parents a high-class school for sons of gentlemen, in the best part of Folkestone. A thoroughly good education with real Christian influence, home comforts, and close individual attention to each boy. Highest references.—Mr. J. W. C. FEGAN, Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-st., S.E. c1674

BEXLEYHEATH, KENT.
OLD-ESTABLISHED SCHOOL for sons of gentlemen. Beautiful situation. Seven acres of land. PREPARATION FOR PUBLIC EXAMINATIONS. —Illustrated prospectus on application to Head Master, G. E. OXLEY, M.A. c5898

COMBE DOWN SCHOOL, BATH, for the sons of gentlemen. This school will (D.V.) be removed after the summer term to more convenient and commodious premises, newly built, in Weston-super-Mare. Address, till end of August, Combe Down, Bath; after August, to Clarence School, Weston-super-Mare.—W. FRANKLIN, Head-master. c6119

YOUR BOYS have Christian home and education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Gordon School, Kingston-on-Thames. Established eleven years. Beautiful district, near Richmond Park. References. 20 to 25 guineas yearly. c5250

20 GUINEAS PER ANNUM.—Special offer. Seaside Boys' Boarding School. High successes last term. No failures. Highly recommended by ministers and parents.—Letters, CLARK, Chapel-street, Market Harborough. c6533

ARNOLD HOUSE, HASTINGS, conducted by Rev. John Stewart, where boys from 7 to 13 receive a thorough education and careful personal attention. Established 1857. c5395

MUSIC AND SINGING.—A Christian lady of long experience in teaching, gives lessons in music and singing to those who wish their gifts cultivated for the Master's use.—For particulars, apply by letter to c6618, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6618

MINISTER'S DAUGHTER (Miltonian) seeks engagement as resident governess. Three years' experience. Certificates, Senior Cambridge, South Kensington, etc. Good references. No objection to travel.—P., c.o. Mrs. Fentem, Eyam, Sheffield. c6586

GOVERNESS (CHRISTIAN), EXPERIENCED, excellent references. Re-engagement required (family). Thorough English, conversational French, German, Latin, excellent music, drawing, advanced arithmetic, Swedish drill. Thirty to forty pounds.—YEO, Chisnall, Aspley Guise, Bletchley. c6558

WANTED, IN SEPTEMBER, a certificated Governess. English, French, music, drawing. Good home. Must be an earnest Christian and a Baptist.—Apply, Rev. D. C. CHAPMAN, Haddon Villas, Yalding, Kent. c6549

STUDENT-TEACHER required, September or some school for girls. Premium £12. Or, two sisters, one student-teacher, can be received on the terms for one. Thorough teaching. Preparation for exams.—Hope House School, Wallscote-road, Weston-super-Mare. c6464

HIGHBURY HOUSE SCHOOL, ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.
Boys received from six to eighteen years of age. Three separate departments classified according to age. Preparation undertaken for public schools or for commerce, the professions, and universities. Delicate boys or those from colonies receive special care. Autumn term commences September 21. Illustrated prospectus, references, etc., on application to the Principal, J. C. DUFF. c5399

GOVERNESS-PUPIL required in September, in a good-class ladies' school. Excellent opportunities offered to study for matriculation, and other examinations. Premium required. Principals, The Misses DODSON, Endsleigh House, Colchester. c6548

WANTED, IN OCTOBER, Christian nursery-governess. Country farmhouse. Charge of five children (eldest 7½). Teach three eldest. Good needlewoman. Abstainer. Dissenter. Energetic.—Mrs. RICHARD COLE, Old Hall, Roxholm, Sleaford, Lincolnshire. c6543

GOVERNESS-PUPIL.—Wanted, next term in a small school, a young lady about 15, to assist with juniors. Preparation for exams. Home comforts. Good references. Premium 14 guineas a year.—L. C., Chislon House, Ramsey, Huntingdon. c6581

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES
(English and Foreign), recommended GRATIS by Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governesses' Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. (Established 1879). BOARD AND RESIDENCE from 13s. weekly. No fee to Governesses until placed. Schools recommended and transferred. c6241

SITUATIONS, ETC., WANTED.
30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

SON OF FRENCH CLERGYMAN (22), speaking English and Spanish, desires tutorship Christian family (out of France), or travelling companion. Small salary.—Address, DOCTEUR, Estraband, Breil-sur-Merize, Sarthe, France. c6533

USEFUL MAN, middle-aged, neat, active, as attendant to single or invalid gentleman. Also Cook and housekeeper. Caretaker of mission hall or offices. Moderate wages.—Mrs. REUSS, Ditton Hill, Surrey. c6588

UNDER OR SINGLE-HANDED GARDENER, 21, seeks situation, with experience indoor and out. No objection to pony. Good references. Christian. Abstainer.—F. C. N., 17, Trinity-road, East Finchley, N. c6560

GARDENER.—YOUNG MAN, married, wants situation. Thorough knowledge in all branches. Especially successful with glass. Life abstainer. Exceptional references as to character and qualifications. —E. CASELTON, Nursery, Northend, Erith, Kent. c6603

CHRISTIAN LADY (elderly) seeks work for the Lord. Country. High ground. Dry, bracing air. Could furnish her own rooms. Fond of children. Experienced in teaching.—c6608, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6608

TO CLERGYMEN.—Lady (22), Evangelical views, seeks Christian work. Town or country. Musical. No salary, but board and residence required. Good references.—c6610, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6610

A LADY, EXPERIENCED in Y.W.C.A. work, recommended by some of the leading workers, wishes to superintend institute. Thoroughly evangelical, musical. Small salary, or first few months without. London, or counties near preferred.—NELLA, Sydenham House, Waterlooville, Hants. c6619

AS WORKING MATRON, in a crèche, convalescent, or training home for girls, or boys, an engagement required. Can teach thoroughly all domesticated duties. Needlework, and experience in sickness. Good testimonials.—ALPHA, 114, Hemingford-road, Barnsbury, N. c6538

AS MATRON in Girls' Training Home or small orphanage. Experienced in training girls for domestic service. Good disciplinarian, good references.—Apply, S. B., c.o: Matron, Holiday House, Toys Hill, Brasted, Kent. c6629

ENGAGEMENTS WANTED together by two Christian ladies (sisters), in Institution. Both good housekeepers, or any position of trust accepted. Salary required. Good references.—c6607, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6607

A CHRISTIAN WOMAN and abstainer desires the management of small coffee tavern, or matron, or any place of trust. Experienced.—Address, A. RINNER, Little Witley, near Worcester. c6598

LADY SEEKS POSITION. Experienced housekeeper. Competent to teach and train young children. Excellent needlewoman. Six years' experience in management of orphanage.—BETA, Mrs. G., 3, Mount Adon Park, Lordship-lane, S.E. c6577

SITUATION wanted as housekeeper, companion help, or any position of trust to invalid ladies or others, where young servant is kept. Abstainer. Good needlewoman.—MARION, 5, Pellatt-road, Sutton, Surrey. c6580

THOROUGH HOUSEKEEPER.—RE-ENGAGEMENT to elderly person where girl is kept. Many years' experience. Christian home more important than large salary.—Address, Miss S., c.o. Mr. Smith, Norfolk House, Banham, Norfolk. c6559

WANTED BY LADY of experience, situation of any kind. For many years housekeeper in boarding-house. Cheerful companion, good needlewoman and cook.—Address, ALPHA, Rowsell's, Albert-road, Southsea. c6622

AS LADY HELP, useful companion, or housekeeper. Experienced with children and invalids. Good needlewoman, reader, and amanuensis. Not musical. Cheerful and obliging.—BETA, 10, Alexandra-road, Bedford. c6605

NO SALARY.—A young lady seeks a situation as useful companion or lady help in return for a comfortable home. Good needlewoman. Excellent references.—c6611, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6611

WANTED, IN A QUIET Christian home, a situation as companion to a lady. No salary. Good references.—c6624, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6624

WANTED, a position as companion to elderly or invalid lady by young Christian gentlewoman. Highest references. Good reader in French, German, and English. — Miss L., 60, Seymour-street, W. c27

LADY (37) WANTS RE-ENGAGEMENT as companion, or any position of trust. Domesticated and experienced. Thorough needlewoman. Good references.—Miss CAPARN, Ripple Court, Ringwould, Dover. c6557

A CHRISTIAN LADY desires a re-engagement as companion to an elderly or invalid lady. Abstainer, kind, gentle. Excellent references. Or companion-housekeeper.—F., 33, Keildon-road, Clapham Common, S.W. c6588

A LADY RECOMMENDS an earnest Christian as nurse, who lived with her eight years. First baby preferred. Age 36.—Further particulars from Mrs. BECK, Burnside, Northlands-road, Southampton. c6597

LADY RECOMMENDS UNDER-NURSE, 18. Fond of children. Church of England. Abstainer. Neat worker. Wages £10.—LAMBARD, Albion-street, Saxmundham. c6552

COOK-HOUSEKEEPER, CARETAKER, or attendant on invalid lady. Thoroughly reliable and competent. Middle-aged. Abstainer. Personal character. Furniture for two rooms if necessary.—Apply, C. O. S., 100, Borough-road, S.E. c6539

LADY WISHES to recommend a thoroughly good cook or cook-housekeeper, of many years' experience, where kitchenmaid is kept. Conscientious, reliable. Highest refs.—c6609, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6609

SITUATION wanted as plain cook. Age 29. Last place 6½ years. Personal character given. Several other servants waiting.—Registry Office, 20, New Jersey-road, Gloucester. c6591

SITUATIONS, ETC., VACANT.
30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

EVANGELISTIC SECRETARY wanted for Y.M.C.A., South of England. Must have exceptional powers and experience for large Evangelistic services, and very earnest in spiritual and personal work in winning young men. Single, from 25 to 40; to live at Y.M.C.A.—State qualifications, experience, church membership, salary, etc., to CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEE, care of J. W. Vickers, 7, Nicholas-lane, London, E.C. c6556

YOUNG GENTLEMAN wanted, of good address and musical ability, to train to assist a gentleman as manager, etc. Must not object to travel. Refined home.—REX, 83, Alexander-street, W. c6600

COACHMAN, SINGLE-HANDED, wanted. Thoroughly experienced, married, Christian, and abstainer. Not under 36 years of age. No Sunday work.—Apply, by letter only, Mrs. REUSS, Upper Long Ditton, Surrey. c6582

WANTED IN OAK HILL Rescue Home, kitchen matron, true Christian. Strong, active, having practical experience of cooking and housekeeping.—Apply with testimonials, photograph, LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Oak Hill Home, Cheetham Hill, Manchester. c6625

COTTAGE HOUSEKEEPER wanted immediately by a widower in the country. A middle-aged, industrious woman, to take care of his cottage and family, consisting of three children, father, and himself. References given and required.—Address, H. TASKER, Brookside, Andover. c6627

LADY'S MAID for one lady in the country. Must be good dressmaker and plain worker. Christian preferred.—Apply by letter, to R., Willing's, 162, Piccadilly, London, W. c6433

AN INDIVIDUAL wanted to live with an aged Christian person to be a comfort to her.—Address, the Rev. CARR JOHN GLYN, Stanbridge Rectory, Wimborne, Dorset. c6555

A CHRISTIAN WOMAN WANTED, for the baths at the Bishops Teignton Health Resort, Teignmouth. c5391

WANTED, SEPTEMBER 1, middle-aged person, experienced in sick room, to take charge of small house, and attend upon invalid lady. Baptist preferred.—Terms, etc., L., Lea Villa, Droitwich. c6599

USEFUL MAID for invalid lady.—Good nurse and needlewoman. Care of room. Not over thirty. Wages £20. Healthy, abstainer. Quiet comfortable place.—Apply by letter, X., Allingham's Library, Reigate. c6604

LADY NURSE wanted, competent to take entire charge of infant and little boy (3 years old).—Apply, in first instance by letter, Mrs. HILLBROOK, Heathfield Park, N.W. c6596

EARNEST CHRISTIAN GIRL WANTED, about 15, as under-nurse, patient, fond of children. Good needlewoman. Good character indispensable. Wages start at £6.—Apply by letter, MATHIESON, Annandale, Golders Hill, Hampstead. c6574

COOK (good plain) wanted in country, three miles from Southampton. Small family, three other servants. Must be well recommended. A Christian servant valued. — Apply, Mrs. MORRIS ASHBY, Lingwood, Bassett, Southampton. c6616

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, early riser, clean, good manager. Three servants kept. Country house. Comfortable home.—Address, Miss G., Demnel Hill, Chepstow. c6578

COOK wanted in September. Large establishment. Thoroughly respectable woman. Age 30-35.—27, Stanley gardens, Kensington Park-road, W c6584

CAN ANY LADY recommend a good experienced parlourmaid and single-handed housemaid for country (Bournemouth)? One who would value Christian privileges desired.—Address, Lady M. C., 10, West-view, Ilkley. c6590

TWO SERVANTS wanted to share the work of a house. Wages £16 and £12.—Apply, Mrs. GREEN, Glengall, New Wanstead, N.E. c6628

GENERAL SERVANT wanted in small family, must be quick, willing, and an early riser. Christian and abstainer. Dissenter preferred.—Mrs. A. ARNOLD BENNETT, Glenalmond, Cobham, Surrey. c6551

RESPECTABLE WOMAN AS GENERAL SERVANT wanted, aged 30 to 40. Small country house. Quiet, comfortable home. Must be trustworthy. Christian and abstainer preferred.—Letters, B., Doon, Abbots Langley, Herts. c6567

EXPERIENCED GENERAL SERVANT wanted, must cook. Outside help given. Good wages offered. Good character indispensable. Personal interview, if possible.—Apply quickly, 8, Linthorpe-road, Stamford Hill, N., and during August, c6595

LADIES WANTING SERVANTS and servants seeking situations, should apply to Miss MAULDEN (late missionary), 97, Harrow-road, Paddington Green, whose office is well known and kindly recommended by the Rev. G. F. Pentecost, D.D. Stamps for reply. N.B.

7s. 6d. A WEEK SALARY and upward offered to both sexes (for spare moments) everywhere. The work may be done evenings.—Apply, enclosing addressed envelope, to M. TRUSCOTT AND CO, 5, Sherwood-terrace, Chelston (105), Torquay. c6234

TO LET, APARTMENTS, ETC.
30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

MIDLAND TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 76, Guilford-street, Russell-square, W.C. — A first-class Hotel for Visitors to London. Central and pleasantly situated. A thoroughly clean and quiet home, with every comfort and convenience. Highly patronised and recommended by the clergy and ladies and gentlemen. Bedrooms from 1s. 6d., breakfast or tea from 1s. 3d., service 9d. Full tariff, with testimonials, free on application to
J. W. TURNER, Proprietor.

W. TAVERNER, TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 41 and 43, Judd-street, Euston-road, London, W.C. Five minutes from Great Northern, Midland, and North-Western Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Silent roadway. Ten minutes from British Museum. Tariff on application.

AT LONDON.—TRANTER'S TEMPERANCE HOTEL, Bridgewater-square, Barbican, near St. Paul's Cathedral, G.P.O., and all places of interest. Quiet, clean, economical.—Write for "Visitors' Guide," showing "How to Spend a Week in London," with tariff and testimonials, post free.

LONDON, VISITORS TO,
Will find Rest, Comfort, and Kindness at Bernard's
Private Christian Temperance Hotel,
1 and 2, Granville-square, King's Cross-road, W.C. Quiet square. Most central position in London. Bed and breakfast, 3s. Bed, breakfast, and tea, 3s. 9d. Reduction to Ministers. No attendance fees or gratuities. Write "Secretary" for rooms. c5302

BURR'S HOTEL, Queen-square, London, W.C., near British Museum, in centre of Metropolis, but just out of the daily noise and bustle, thus giving restful quiet. Write for terms. c5379

BETTWS-Y-COED, North Wales.—The Pont-y-Pair Temperance Hotel, very comfortable. For terms, which are extremely moderate, apply to the MANAGERESS. c5097

BEXHILL-ON-SEA.—Christian boarding house. Three minutes from sea and station. Air bracing. Home comforts. Terms moderate. Only a limited number received. References exchanged. —Caversham Lodge, Wilton-road. c6564

BEXHILL-ON-SEA.—Comfortable good-sized sitting-room and bedroom. Healthy situation. No children or lodgers. Good cooking and attendance. Terms moderate.—Mrs. F., West View, Station-road. c6562

BOSCOMBE, BOURNEMOUTH.—Boarding house and holiday home for ladies. Situated near Chine gardens and sea. Temperance. Terms from 18s. to 25s. weekly. Stamp for reply.—Miss ELLIS, Fairlegh, Drummond-road. c6579

BOSCOMBE, BOURNEMOUTH.—To let, suites of rooms or entire house, well furnished, fifteen rooms, choice position, main road, very near sea, gardens, arcade, etc. Terms on application.—86, Christchurch-road. c5368

CASTLE COURT, EAST CLIFF, BOURNEMOUTH.
Private Boarding Establishment (warmed by coils in winter) overlooking Boscombe Chine Public Gardens. Magnificent land and sea views. Excellent Cuisine. Private Apartments. Boro' Sanitary Certificate.
MR. & MRS. J. D. HAZARD.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Garfield, St. Michael's-road, West Cliff. — Board-residence (superior). Christian-abstaining. One minute from sea, pines, gardens, Bournemouth West nearest station. c5390

BOURNEMOUTH (near sea, overlooking public gardens, near tennis courts).—Well-furnished apartments, bath (h. c.). Terms moderate and inclusive, or board-residence, 25s. each.—Pine Glen, Spencer-road. c6589

BOURNEMOUTH, Boscombe Grange. —Superior boarding establishment. Public rooms, modern. Visitors' comfort studied. Electric light. Terms from 25s. weekly; a reduction for a term, or more than one.—Proprietor, HENRY EBBEN. c5186

IF YOU VISIT BOURNEMOUTH, try The Manchester, St. Michael's-road. Good comfortable boarding house. Close to the sea and pavilion, spacious drawing and dining rooms, library, and other conveniences. Terms moderate.—GEO. COLE, Proprietor c5872

The Christian.

☞ To avoid delay it is requested that all letters relating to business matters should be addressed to the firm, Messrs. Morgan and Scott, and not to its individual members. Communications for THE CHRISTIAN should be addressed to the Editor, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, E.C. Letters of a personal nature should in every case be so marked.

All Advertisements for The Christian should be sent to Messrs. John Haddon and Co., Central Advertising Offices, Bouverie House, Salisbury-square, London, E.C., accompanied by remittance. (For Terms, see Page 1 of cover.)

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

☞ The Publishers request that all orders for The Christian by post, and remittances for same, be addressed to "The Christian" Postal Department, Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, London, E.C.

Cheques and Post Orders to be made payable to Messrs. John Haddon and Co. at that address.

The subscription for one year, including Postage and Coloured Almanack, is as under :—

For Great Britain and Ireland ..	6s. 7d.	per annum
For India, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, France, Germany, and other European Countries	8s. 10d.	„ „
For United States and Canada ..	2¼ dols.	„ „
Or including Monthly Copy of Herald of Mercy	2½ dols.	„ „

Subscriptions for The Herald of Mercy.

4 Copies monthly	2s.	per annum
8 „ „	4s.	„ „
12 „ „	6s.	„ „
24 „ „	12s.	„ „

Post free to any address at home or abroad.

Remittances to be sent as above. Postcard should be enclosed for receipt or extra stamp to cover postage of same.

Notes and Comments.

Thousands of Christian hearts throughout the country will be deeply saddened by the news of the murder, by Chinese hands, of a number of missionaries belonging to the C.M.S. and the C.E. Zenana Mission, in the southern province of Fu-chien, China. This, coupled with the anti-missionary riots in the northern province of Sze-chuen, noted last week, shows a very disturbed condition of things in the Chinese Empire. Much earnest prayer is called for, that God would stay the hands of the opposers, and that these untoward events may turn out to the furtherance of the Gospel.

An experienced and wise worker in a poor district of London, informs us that there is a sad spirit of restlessness and discontent among workers at some mission halls there. He has had as many as ten or twelve offers of help from men who have come away dissatisfied from other places, but has declined them all. Such helpers would be hinderers. We trust that this district, in which, nevertheless, a great deal of good is being done, is exceptional, and that soon the desire of all will be simply to work for Jesus.

We are thankful for the firmness displayed by Mr. Sheil, the Westminster magistrate, in refusing a licence for the trapeze performances of two little girls at the Westminster Aquarium. "I will not countenance children being engaged in these dangerous perforformances," he said stoutly; "nothing would induce me to give a licence for children of such an age." Quite right too. The fact that the girls, aged twelve and fourteen, had been engaged in such a manner for six years, only reflects the more discredit upon the father whose solicitor applied for the licence.

The brewers, not the publicans, may be rejoicing in a great victory, but the drink question is not settled, and will give us no peace. After columns of correspondence in the daily papers on the "folly" of the local optionists, men of other views are coming forward, Mr. Thomas Hughes leading the way. Speaking as a member of the Public House Reform Association, he is anxious that representatives of that organisation, and of "other temperance organisations," should meet and draw their forces together, and go to Parliament with a moderate, definite, and reasonably comprehensive policy. He is sanguine enough to believe that fair terms might be made with the Licensed Victuallers' Association, and even the best of their number be captured. Their leaders, he thinks, are tired of the long struggle, and would see that now is their chance for good terms. The force which drives him into the controversy is the fact that as a County Court judge he makes every month at least 100 committals of debtors to prison for terms ranging from one to six weeks, in cases which he can clearly trace to the "baleful influence of the present law as to licences for the sale of beer and spirits." We only note Mr. Hughes' plan, and await developments.

Mr. McDougall, of Manchester, who for several years has devoted his means to aiding the worthy poor, states that the deserving cases of aged pauperism in that city number only between ninety and a hundred. After making every allowance, he is confident that in Manchester most of the aged pauperism is due to the bad character and improvident habits of the paupers themselves. Which brings up the questions—would it be right to establish a national system of pensions that should in any degree countenance such habits? And is it right to fine and tax, under the existing poor law, those temperate citizens who do not come upon the rates, for those intemperate citizens who do? At present we punish the good for the sake of the bad.

The Aged Poor Commission has put the country in possession of some useful facts: 1. The problem of the aged poor appears to be settling itself in ways most in harmony with the nature of the English people, that is to say we are gradually working out a solution. 2. Some of the leading witnesses thought that most of old age pauperism is due to want of backbone, and not to uncontrollable circumstances; and this again was connected with intemperance. The preponderating evidence points to drink as the cause of old-age poverty. 3. Teetotallers are never found in this class. If they cannot maintain themselves, they have someone able and willing to maintain them. Both they and their surroundings are better.

Rev. Charles Garrett called the attention of the Wesleyan Conference to a vital and too much forgotten truth when, in his sermon on the Plea for Prosperity, he declared that a church of few members, if they be living to God, one in feeling and in action, will do more for Christ and for the salvation of the world than ten times their number who are alienated in affection, and who work independently of each other. He pleaded with passionate earnestness that the brethren should cultivate and cherish the spirit of love, if the work of God is to revive, and if the little one is to become a thousand. This union of hearts is everywhere essential. We sometimes wonder, in view of the things we have heard one brother say of another, how far the work of God is hindered by secret roots of bitterness, by smouldering fires of resentment, by unforgiven offences, by petty grudges, and by sullen coldness. From all these fruits of the flesh, may God purify and keep pure every reader of these lines.

The attitude of the Wesleyan Methodists on the subject of elementary education is plain and satisfactory. They demand the establishment of Board schools everywhere, acting in districts of sufficient area, and the placing of a Christian unsectarian school within reasonable distance of every family. The second and third points are :—

That there should be no increased grant of public funds either from the local rates or from the imperial taxes to denominational schools unless that increased grant is accompanied by adequate and representative public management.

That no national system of education which shall exclude from the day schools the Bible and religious instruction therefrom by teachers suited to the capacities of the children will meet the necessity of the country.

We are thankful for this deliverance; for, however important may be foreign policy, and the government of Ireland, and the temperance question, and a great many other things, they are none of them so important as whether our English children are to be trained in Romanism or Protestantism.

It is satisfactory to learn that, although lynching has by no means disappeared from American life, there is an improvement in public feeling and practice. In some of the Southern States the crime seems to have nearly died out. In Virginia, only two cases have occurred in more than a year. In Boston and elsewhere, a fund is being raised for the legal defence of negroes charged with the offence which leads to lynching. "It is not improbable"—says an American gentleman who has just visited the country—"that some great protest will presently arise in the South, where the millions of respectable people are disgraced by the few thousands of ruffians who hunt and murder negroes, and who are countenanced by a few political demagogues in the mob-ridden localities."

The advice of Mr. Chavasse in his address on preaching—that preachers should practise the expository method—has much to recommend it; indeed everything, provided it does not altogether rule out the taking of a text which has been manifestly impressed upon the mind by the Holy Spirit. But preaching from a text may be eminently expository; for it should be an unfolding of the text in all its relations; it should use the text as a point on which rays of light converge from all sides. Mr. Chavasse was happy in saying that "God-consciousness" must take the place in the preacher of self-consciousness. And so it should in every Christian; then we should far less frequently hear the excuse for not doing work: "I cannot; I should be so nervous, I could do nothing." Courage is self-forgetfulness, through the consciousness of God.

The spread of nominal Christianity is at any rate a great fact in the history of mankind. Gibbon computed the Christians in the time of Constantine to be one out of every hundred-and-fifty persons in the world. Carey reckoned that one person in every five was professedly a Christian. Now it is estimated that one in every three is a Christian. And the ratio of progress increases. In Uganda there are congregations of 20,000 persons on a Sunday; and the native church sends out bands of native teachers into the country round about, numbering a hundred each; adults, carefully examined, are baptized at the rate of twenty-five a week. Still, while rejoicing at all this, we cannot but remember that much of our success is the formal and nominal Christianity which follows evermore in the wake of the real.

CORRECTION.—In Mr. Hudson Taylor's letter last week it was stated that "the middle verse of the Bible is Ps. cxviii. 18." It ought to be v. 8.

World-wide Evangelisation.

We talk of the dark ages. Is not the dark age of Christianity this present time? In the first century each true Christian was expected to be a light, shining wherever he went, reflecting Christ's light, whether as a slave, a soldier, or a master.

I am quite aware of much zeal amongst many of the men and women of the Roman Catholic body, and we must all look with admiration on the activity of the Salvation Army, and the hundreds of lay brothers and sisters at work in the Protestant Church. But alas! what a wide gulf between every convert in and from Jerusalem, radiating, in the face of bitter persecution, the Gospel in the first century, and the action of Protestant communicants in England and America now. God forbid that this great gulf should continue. Is it not time that the very stones of our cities should cry out against us?

Surely the Holy Spirit beckons us at least to equal Jerusalem in evangelising, in fact to excel our worthy brothers and sisters of the first and second centuries.

I have appealed so often in your columns for world-wide evangelisation that it is a joy to me to-day to quote the words of another, from an article in the June issue of the Missionary Review. It is from the pen of T. D. Witherspoon, D.D., LL.D., Louisville, Ky., and he says:—

The little company of disciples in the upper chamber of our Lord's ascension had no doubt as to the terms of his great commission. . . . Every member was understood to be, by the terms of his enrolment, an evangelist. Every place where two or three could be gathered together in Christ's name was to constitute a sanctuary of worship. No rest was to be expected, no halt contemplated, until the Gospel had been preached to every creature, and all nations discipled into the observance of Christ's commands.

With incredible swiftness by land and by sea, the messengers sped; over obstacles seemingly insuperable, through hardships apparently insufferable, they pressed on, so that before the century had closed the Gospel had been preached, and the Church established in every province of the Roman Empire. Had the work gone forward with the same celerity for a century or two more, the Gospel would have been preached to every creature.

But just here emerges a question that calls for profoundest thought. Why did the work not go forward with the same enthusiasm and success? What causes intervened to lay an ARREST upon this first great missionary movement? Why does the beginning of the NINETEENTH century find so little more of the world evangelised than in the middle of the SECOND? This question is one of the highest practical importance, because of its relations to the spirit and work of nineteenth century evangelism.

Church historians are fond of telling us that the Christians began to dispute among themselves over differences of doctrine and of polity, and that amidst the wrangles of the various theological schools and parties the heathen were forgotten, the Spirit was grieved, and so the great work came ignominiously to a close...Was not the INACTION the OCCASION of the divisions and strifes rather than the RESULT? Do we not find in our day that when the hands and hearts of the people are full of aggressive work for the Master there is little either of time or disposition for church quarrels.

Shall the evangelisation of the world be effected in our day? These are questions that demand immediate consideration. . . . Never before did the command come more imperatively, "Arise, shine, for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee."

So shone and so laboured the Christians of the first century, and the hand of the Lord was with them. The word of the Lord was glorified, and multitudes of many tongues became Christians, not in name merely, but in deed and in truth, working gloriously by the mighty power of the Holy Ghost. But without the Spirit, what is the fruit of Protestantism in London, in Rome, in Paris, or in Spain? Protestants may say, "Yes, Rome and Paris and Spain need reforming." True, but those who know London, if only in part, will be ready to acknowledge how sadly London needs reforming, if the Gospel is to run in its purity, and its self-denial, as it did in its poverty of the first century.

REGINALD RADCLIFFE.

A Lesson from the Election.

BY REV. W. CROSBIE, NOTTINGHAM.

THERE are conflicts in regard to which duty is not clear; they are so mixed and confused, combatants not fighting nobly, nor for great principles and causes. But there is a conflict in regard to which duty is perfectly clear: the great spiritual conflict of which this world has been the theatre from the beginning, and which divides the moral and intelligent universe, the conflict between good and evil, truth and error, Christ and the wicked one.

But how is duty in regard to that conflict being performed? Are there not multitudes of professing Christians acting the part of the inhabitants of Meroz, not coming "to the help of the Lord, to the help of the Lord against the mighty?" neutral, or rather trying to be so? And the conflict so grand, and for them! And the issues so momentous! All the issues of the coming and death of Jesus! Salvation, individual and social, involved, and heaven and hell, God and eternity!

Oh, for the earnestness and enthusiasm and effort displayed so recently in the political arena! Has not every nerve been strained? Have not time and strength and money and many other things been lavishly spent and sacrificed for political objects and political partisanships? The whole nation has been stirred to its depths; the country from end to end has been filled with ferment and excitement and strenuous endeavour. Would that the churches were like that for the rescue of the perishing, for the battle against moral and spiritual evil, for the destruction of the devil's tyranny in the souls and lives of men, and for the upbuilding and extension of Christ's kingdom in the earth! Only let the churches be like that, and, in a little while, in all the lands and climes the Gospel message would be fully proclaimed.

But the attitude of the churches, at least of the vast majority in the churches, towards the battle Jesus leads, and in which the angels mingle, is too much the attitude of Meroz. Alas, that it should be so! What condemnation for professing Christians in the spirit that has been abroad in the nation, in all the canvassing and electioneering, and in the eagerness with which newspapers have been scanned every morning. We see what can be done when men are interested. We see what might be done for another and an infinitely greater cause.

O God, have mercy upon us! We are all guilty, both ministers and people. Work in us a genuine penitence, and blot out our sins, and fill us with the Holy Ghost; and let not the malediction incurred by Meroz fall upon us; but quickened, and humbled, and purged, and mightily energised by Thee, may we go forth, in these last days, to evangelise the nations, and finish the testimony, and hasten the advent of the King!

PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONARIES.—Amongst the returning missionaries we note that Dr. and Mrs. Lyall are returning to Swatow by way of America; Mr. Thompson is going back to Amoy; Mr. McIver to the Hak-ka country; Dr. and Mrs. Anderson to Formosa.

MASSACRE OF CHRISTIANS IN CHINA.

A TELEGRAM from Foochow of August 3, published by the Shanghai Local Express, reports that a massacre of Christians has occurred at Kucheng, and that five foreign ladies were among those murdered. A telegram a day later gives the following details:—

"The massacre of lady missionaries at Kucheng was known to the Chinese officials almost immediately, but all information regarding the outrage was suppressed by them for three days. It is reported that four other ladies have been wounded by the mob. Mr. J. C. Hixson, the United States Consul at Foochow, in the province of Fuchien, accompanied by a number of volunteers, has left that place in a steam launch for the scene of the outrages. There is a sanatorium at Whashang, and it is hoped that some of the missing ladies and children may have gone there in consequence of the heat, which is now overpowering, and concealed themselves."

The names of those known to be killed are as follow: Rev. R. W. Stewart, Mrs. Stewart, and a son; Miss Hessie Newcombe, of Dublin; Miss Elsie Marshall, of Blackheath; Miss Stewart, of Watford; Miss Annie Gordon, of Tasmania; Miss H. E. Saunders and Miss E. M. Saunders, of Melkourne; and "Lena," governess in Mr. Stewart's family. The saved include Miss Hartwell, of the Mission Press Branch of the American Missions; Miss Codrington, of the Zenana Mission, and the Rev. H. S. Phillips, of the Church Missionary Society; Miss Codrington and two of the Stewart children are wounded.

A still later message says: "Mr. Hixson has returned to Foochow with the wounded. The experiences of the survivors were terrible. Death was the least part of the sufferings of the butchered women. The scenes enacted defy comparison, and even the atrocities of the Black Hole of Calcutta cannot equal them.

"Miss Hartford and Dr. Gregory, of the American Missions, succeeded in making their escape. The former is fearfully injured, and bears evidence of the terrible treatment and cruelty she received at the hands of the mob. A steam launch has been dispatched from Foochow for the dead and wounded.

"The impression prevails that the officials at Pekin, seeing that the riots in Szechuen province did not drive the foreigners away from the interior of China, gave a hint to kill a few of them. The Pekin authorities were able during the war with Japan to enforce the utmost respect for foreigners in the provinces, and it is felt that the mandarins are to blame for what has occurred."

THE ANTI-MISSIONARY RIOTS.

Mr. Slowan, secretary of the National Bible Society of Scotland, has received letters from agents of the society at Hankow and Chung King giving some information regarding the recent rioting in Sze-chuen. Under date June 17 Mr. Archibald, of Hankow, says:—"The anti-missionary rising in Sze-chuen is on a scale beyond anything of which we have had experience as yet. All mission stations have been destroyed, and the missionaries driven away or kept prisoners in the yamens at the cities of Chentu, Kiungchow, Yachow, Singchen, Kiating, Suifu, Pingshan, and Loochow, all in what is called Western Szechuen. The first outbreak took place at Chentu on May 28, which happened to be the Dragon Festival—the same festival which saw the murder of the two Swedish missionaries at Sungpu two years ago—and the cause is variously given. For some reason of their own the authorities have resolved to evict foreigners from the western provinces, and are engaged in doing it in their usual indirect and crooked fashion. The property loss to the missions will be immense; but that is a small matter compared with the personal sufferings inflicted on close on two hundred missionaries, including women and children. Just now the heat is intense, and how they are to travel in it, destitute of suitable food, clothing, shelter, or money, is more than we can imagine."

THE LATE GIPSY W. SMITH.—Many may be glad to know that the story of the life and conversion of this devoted man, "Darkey Smith," who was lately called home, may be had (price 2d.) from The Tower Hamlets Mission, Mile End-road, London, E.

The White Stone.

1 Sam. xxiii. 6; Psa. xxvii.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A.

It is not perfectly clear where David was when he was joined by Abiathar. If we consider the time, we are disposed to fix the massacre of the priests shortly after his flight to Gath; and, in that case, Abiathar must have come to him whilst David was in his first prolonged hiding-place in the cave of Adullam. It is on this supposition that we have already sketched the fugitive coming thither, breathless and dishevelled.

If, however, we judge by the position given to the incident on the page of Scripture, we should be disposed to locate it in the forest of Hareth, a tract of country a little to the South of Adullam, and not far from Hebron. The prophet Gad, who had recently joined the young refugee, and was destined to share the fortunes of his long career, living to chronicle his entire history, seems to have advised this exchange. The open country, in the case of pursuit, would be safer than a cave, which might be closed at the entrance and become a death-trap (1 Sam. xxii. 5; 1 Chron. xxi. 9; xxix. 29).

There is no need to delay further in the attempt to fix what is of no material importance. Our present purpose is rather to bring into prominence David's lifelong habit of waiting upon God for direction and guidance. It is instructive and stimulating to notice that the successive steps of his chequered career were taken after very definite waiting upon God. It was as though the advice he gives to us all, in the Psalm which dates from this period, was the outcome of his own deepest experience and practice:—

> Wait on the Lord:
> Be strong, and let thine heart take courage;
> Yea, wait thou on the Lord.

The expression of the Psalmist's soul in the 27th Psalm; his practice, as delineated by the historian; and the lessons which we may well incorporate into our daily walk—such is the trend of our thought.

I.—THE PSALMIST'S ATTITUDE AND DESIRE.

There are several items of internal evidence which connect the 27th Psalm with this period of David's life. His fortunes were as dark as the interior of Adullam's cave, therefore he spoke of God as his light; he was in daily peril, therefore it was his comfort that God would be his salvation. Jehovah was more really his stronghold than even that fortress of rock (R.V. margin). Evil-doers might come on him to eat up his flesh, but they would stumble and fall, as Goliath had done in that very ravine; hosts might encamp against him, but his heart would not fear; war might rise against him, but in this would he be confident. He would be hid in the covert of God's tent from all pursuit, or be set upon a rock at an elevation inaccessible to his foes. True, he had no longer the asylum of the old home in Bethlehem; in that sense his father and mother had forsaken him (10). But God would gather him, and be father and mother both.

The further references to his extreme need and anguish, to the necessity of being led in a plain path, to the false witnesses who had arisen against him, and who breathed out cruelty—an allusion that may be very well accounted for by Abiathar's account of Doeg's treachery—combine to associate this lovely and pathetic psalm with David's residence in the cave. It is just such a cry as must frequently have broken from his heart in those sad and dark days. Often must the splintered rocks around have heard his strong cryings and tears; and witnessed the awful swoon of his soul, nigh unto death, as he looked down on the abyss from which he was hardly delivered. He could not forget that, by his recent lapse at Gath, he had given cause to God to hide his face from him, to leave him, and put him away in anger; but he pleads that, through all those bitter passages of his life, he "believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living"; and he comforts himself by the reflection that He who had sustained his soul with the blessed hope, could not fail to realise the vision with which He had allured the wanderer back to Himself.

The main objection that obtains against the supposition that the Psalm dates from this period of David's life arises from his mention of the Lord's house, tabernacle, and temple. Still, this is not conclusive. We met with the germ of the same thought in the 23rd Psalm, where the shepherd-minstrel desired to dwell in the house of the Lord for ever. It is not likely that, in his young life, he could have desired seclusion for the rest of his days in the narrow limits of Levitical service. This had been a morbid craving, entirely out of keeping with his heroic soul. Surely, then, the desire for an abiding place in the house of the Lord, which was the wish of his shepherd days, of his cave experiences, and of his exile, when fleeing from Absalom, can only be interpreted as referring to an intimacy of Divine fellowship, a constant flow of blessed communication, which should supply guidance and direction in all the dark and tortuous pathways of his history.

What fresh and vivid meaning invests his words when read under this light. He desired to abide in communion with God, and to have face to face converse with Him, as the priests within the precincts of the shrine at Nob. He wished to be able at any moment to inquire of the holy oracle. It was his choice to live so near God, that whenever the Divine summons was heard, though in whispers too faint for ordinary ears—

> Seek ye My face:

he might be near enough to hear it, and reply—

> Thy face, Lord, will I seek.

II.—HIS HABITUAL PRACTICE.

When the trembling priest had told his story, David addressed to him words which have a sweet application when placed in the lips of Christ. It is thus that our outcast King, driven beyond the camp, receives each fugitive soul that has recourse to Him; "Abide thou with Me," He says; "fear not, for he that seeketh my life seeketh thy life: with Me thou shalt be in safeguard."

Once, when the Athenian magnates were gathered in solemn assembly beneath the blue heavens, a dove, pursued by a hawk, rushed for shelter into the ample folds of the dress of one of them; but he heartlessly arose and shook the bird out to its death. There is no danger of such a fate befalling a soul that flees to Christ. He will never cast out the fugitive that flutters panting to his heart. Hast thou fled to Him? Thou hast no plea but thy need, no hope but his mercy! Yet it is enough. Hark! He speaks: "Abide in Me; thy life and mine are henceforth indissolubly one; he that would injure thee must snatch thee from my hand, and from my Father's; neither life nor death shall be able to separate thee from his love which is in Me toward thee; here thou shalt be in safeguard." Not in a Church, however ancient and venerable; not in a creed, however true; not in a ritual, however grand; not in deeds, however unselfish, nor in prayers, however intense; but in the Lamb of God, there is safeguard for evermore.

The special reason that made David glad to welcome Abiathar was that he brought with him, rescued from the sack of the little town, the sacred ephod, within which were the sacred Urim and Thummim. The words signify "Light and Perfection," but it is not certain what they refer to. The most probable explanation, however, is the following:—

The High Priest's inner garment was a white linen tunic; over this he wore a blue robe, and above this the ephod, made of white twined linen, inwrought with blue, and purple, and scarlet, and gold. To this was affixed the breastplate, in which were twelve precious stones, corresponding to the twelve tribes of Israel. In this breastplate, perhaps part of it, or attached to it, were probably either one or two very beautiful and resplendent diamonds, through which God manifested his will. If to any question reverently put to Him by the Priest, the answer was No, the light in these precious stones dimmed; if on the contrary, it was Yes, they flashed with splendour.

It was obviously a great gain to David to have at hand this priceless method of communication between Jehovah and himself. Already Gad was with him, as the representative of the prophetic office; now Abiathar and the ephod represented the most precious prerogative of the priesthood. By one or other of these, and probably in these earlier days, especially by the latter, he was able at any moment to know the will of God.

Do tidings come that the Philistines are plundering Keilah; he dares not pursue till he has asked the Lord. Do the cowardly townspeople propose to betray their deliverer; he dares not leave the little city till he has received Divine directions to go. In one of the most awful experiences of his life, when his men spoke of stoning him, instead of taking up his cause, he said to Abiathar, the priest, "I pray thee, bring hither the ephod." Then Abiathar brought the ephod to him, and David inquired of the Lord. Long after he had become the acknowledged king of the land, in his conflicts with the Philistines he was careful to inquire of the Lord as to the very method of attack (1 Sam. xxx. 7; 2 Sam. v. 17-25).

Evidently this was the holy practice of his life: to wait on God, quelling the fever of his soul, and compelling the crowd of impetuous thoughts to be in abeyance until time had been given for the clear disclosure of the Divine purpose and plan. Like a child that dares not take one step alone, like a traveller in a strange country, who is utterly dependent on his guide, so David lifted up his soul for the supreme direction, which He only can give, to whom the future is as clearly defined as the past, and from whom no secrets can be hid.

III.—THE LESSON FOR OURSELVES.

When Israel came up out of Egypt, they were led across the desert by the pillar of cloud and fire. After they were settled in their own land, the Urim and Thummim took its place. After a while, this method of ascertaining God's will fell into disuse, and the prophets spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost. These, even in the early Church, played a very important part in the ordering of God's people in his way.

But the voices of the prophets were silenced as the apostolic age came to a close. What is our oracle of appeal? Are pious souls without the means of inquiring of the Lord, and receiving his clear direction on the difficult questions perpetually demanding solution. Not so, for in one of the last messages given by the ascended Lord to his Church, through the Apostle John, it was foretold that he who overcame should receive a white stone, and the word white means resplendent, or lustrous. It may, therefore, denote a diamond, and probably refers to those ancient stones in the High Priest's breastplate, that dimmed or flashed with the Divine oracles. On them the Holy Name, Jehovah, was inscribed in mystic characters; and similarly it is said that on the white stone, which each believer should receive, who had overcome in the spiritual conflict against sin and the world, a new name should be written, unknown save to him that received it. (Rev. ii. 17.)

In other words, each child of God has his own Urim and Thummim stone, which is a conscience void of offence, a heart cleansed in the blood of Christ, a spiritual nature which is pervaded and filled by the Holy Spirit of God.

When we are in doubt or difficulty, when many voices urge this course or the other, when prudence utters one advice and faith another, then let us be still, hushing each intruder, calming ourselves in the sacred hush of God's presence; let us study his Word in the attitude of devout attention; let us lift up our nature into the pure light of his face, eager only to know what God the Lord shall determine—and ere long a very distinct impression will be made, the unmistakeable forth-telling of his secret counsel. It is not wise, in the earlier stages of Christian life, to depend on this alone, but to wait for the corroboration of circumstances. But those who have had many dealings with God know well the value of secret fellowship with Him, to ascertain his will. The journals of George Fox are full of references to this secret of the Lord, which is with them that fear Him, to whom He shows his covenant.

Are you in difficulty about your way? Go to God with your question, get you direction from the light of his smile or the cloud of his refusal. If only you will get alone, where the lights and shadows of earth cannot interfere, where the disturbance of self-will does not intrude, where human opinions fail to reach—and if you will dare to wait there silent and expectant, though all around you insist on immediate decision or action—the will of God will be made clear; and you will have a new name in addition, a new conception of God, a deeper insight into his nature and heart of love, which shall be for yourself alone—a rapturous experience, which shall be your precious perquisite for ever, the rich guerdon of those long waiting hours.

ARMENIAN REFORMS.—A telegram in The Daily Chronicle says: "The Turks sent in their reply to the Powers on the Armenian Reforms late on Thursday evening. It is considered most unsatisfactory as it is confined to criticism of the proposals. I hear from good sources that the officials in Armenia seem to consider the incident closed, and are making the Armenians pay dearly for the attention which their state has received."

Students at Northfield.

The conference of Christian students at Northfield, held last month, was a rousing time, according to the accounts in our American contemporaries. Writing in The Evangelist, Dr. Cuyler says:—

"This is the largest conference of college students that has yet assembled here; and is the tenth annual gathering of this kind. Yale is here in full force; and her fifty-five delegates have taken possession of 'Weston Hall,' with their blue flag floating from the roof. Princeton, which ranks next in numbers, is quartered in the 'East Hall' with 'Brown University' and several other smaller groups. Dartmouth, Union, and Amherst are in 'Stone Hall.' 'Marquand Hall' is occupied by the representatives of several institutions. The largest deputation in proportion to the size of the college is from the orthodox Quaker College at Haverford—and a noble band are these seventeen godly youths who put the name of Christ above the name of William Penn and Bevan Braithwaite. Oxford University in England sends Mr. Anderson; Edinburgh Mr. Williamson; Wales is represented by Mr. Burgess, and there were delegates from Japan, Calcutta, and the Indian School at Carlisle.

"On Friday and Saturday evenings Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman gave us two admirable discourses in the new and spacious Auditorium. This noble structure was opened last year at a cost of 54,000 dollars; it holds easily about two thousand people, and the acoustics are admirable. Back of the speaker's platform is a rising tier of seats on which Mr. Towner leads his big choir of a hundred students. The singing is up to the Northfield pitch in volume and enthusiasm.

"At nine o'clock each morning the students gather for a Bible class, conducted by Mr. James McConaughy; at two o'clock a 'missionary training school' is conducted by Mr. Beach in the 'Stone Hall." At eleven o'clock the general meeting opens in the large Auditorium. Field-Marshal Moody mounts the platform at the minute, lifts his right arm and the service opens. He directs everything, and all moves like clock-work. An amusing illustration of the autocratic style in which Brother Moody conducts all the machinery of these Northfield conferences occurred yesterday morning. I had been notified to be ready to speak at 'Round-Top,' near sunset, on the claims of the Gospel-ministry upon college students. The morning preaching service was held in the large village church. As it was half a mile away, I sat in my room cogitating my evening address. Presently Brother Mott burst into my room exclaiming: 'The service has been going on for half an hour; Major Whittle is speaking, and Mr. Moody has sent me to bring you down to preach.' I had but to obey the beloved centurion, who 'saith to one man go, and he goeth; and to another, come, and he cometh'; and as soon as the carriage could get me to the church I 'opened fire.' A master in management is Brother Moody; I doubt if there has been another such an executive organiser since the days of John Wesley. Nearly this whole beautiful town is really his creation; and his word is law in all these realms. What a happy thing it is that he was born and reared in this enchanting region! Northfield seems made for Moody, as much as Moody for Northfield.

"On Saturday afternoon, while the college boys were out playing ball and tennis and other athletic games, I made a delightful call on 'Grandma Moody.' I found the venerable matron seated placidly in her armchair in the pleasant old white farmhouse in which I had first visited her twenty years ago. She has now passed her ninetieth birthday (in February), and her mind is as alert as ever. We had a sweet talk and prayer together; and she looked to me like one of God's 'trees planted in the courts of the Lord,' and the golden glow of the 'Indian summer' glorifying every unwithering leaf. She is likely to live into the twentieth century."

The Philadelphia Examiner says, with respect to the meetings:—

"Apart from their spiritual influence, the Northfield meetings are a revelation with regard to the attitude of young men towards religion. It was stated that the influence of Christianity upon young men in college has greatly increased within a few years. Eighteen years ago there were thirty Christian Y.M.C.A. organisations in colleges; now there are 513; sixty-eight have been added during the past year, among them those of Columbia College and the University of Michigan. Another has been started in the Leland Stanford, jr., University, in California. There is a steady increase in the number of college men led to Christ through the instrumentality of the associations. In 1890-1, 1,800 were thus won. During the past year the number was 3,400, and the associations are leading the young men into aggressive work for Christ in the slums of the city and in the country towns. Some students from an Indiana college went out last year into a little country town and held meetings. After a week's labour without visible result, they spent a day in prayer, and thereafter 1000 people were converted. This work is spreading through Germany, France, and Japan. That the interest of the young men is not merely formal or sentimental was illustrated by the fact that 2300dols. were raised among the students for prosecuting this Christian work among the colleges for a year to come.

"Incidentally, the meetings illustrate true Christian unity. Here come Dr. Cuyler, full of love and Gospel; Dr. Chapman, on fire with Evangelical earnestness; President Patton, calm, cool, logical, philosophical; Mr. Speer, overflowing with missionary zeal; Dr. Pierson and Mr. Moody, whom we do not need to characterise. It would hardly be possible to name an equal number of persons having more marked points of difference and dissent, mentally and theologically. Neither of them surrenders anything nor compromises anything. And yet they labour together for the salvation of man with as perfect unity as if they were all of a single school in a single denomination."

At one of the closing meetings Mr. Moody spoke of the plan he had to send reading matter to the jails of the country. He had arranged to have the whole New Testament, or 125 pages of other religious matter, put in a cell for seven cents. A collection was taken. Then Mr. Moody spoke of preparation for work—self-consecration, concentration, enthusiasm, perseverance, love of the work, human sympathy. It did our hearts good to hear him, when speaking of love, say, "The Church is full of those who cry duty, duty, duty, until I am sick of the word, and would like to abolish the whole thing. I have an old mother over there; she was ninety years old last spring. I was in Texas at the time, but I managed to send her a present. Suppose I had written her, 'You took care of me when I was little; I feel it my duty to do something for you, and I send a present because it is my duty.' Why, the gift would have chilled her through, and I am sure she would have sent it back."

We quote the following from a correspondent of the Christian Intelligencer:—

"Perhaps the favourite at the platform meetings, if there was a favourite, was President Patton, of Princeton. He seemed to take all by storm, Mr. Moody himself being a chief admirer. His keen, incisive arguments for the supernatural in religion, in behalf of the Bible, and upon the general topic of doubt, will not soon be forgotten. They were simply unanswerable, and greatly confirmed the faith of all who listened. And Mr. Moody—well, he grows in breadth and tenderness and power as the years roll on. Six times he preached, and upon such topics as 'Daniel,' 'The Overcoming Life,' 'Confessing Christ,' and 'Sowing and Reaping.'

"One of the most interesting of the platform meetings was that given up to a consideration of the student work throughout the world. This movement is one of the important ones of modern times. When student life is touched, the centres of the life of this nation and of others are likewise touched. And quietly but steadily this work is going forward. The colleges of the land are being reached for God. Bible study, personal work, and the world's evangelisation—these things are being laid before our students as never before and in an organised way. The students of other lands are falling into line. And even those of India, China, and Japan are coming into this association.

"A striking feature of the Northfield Conference was the Round Top Meetings. Every evening at 7 o'clock students and visitors quietly gather here, and seated upon the grass under the pine trees, talk and pray and sing. This spot is the most blessed one in Northfield. The most solemn memories cluster about it, for many life decisions have here been made. It is the aim of those who have the charge of these meetings to present upon each evening some specific form of life-work. Earnest, burning words have here been spoken. With the sun setting behind the hills, the river quietly flowing through the valley below, and all nature hushed as for repose, it is easy to imagine the impressive nature of these meetings. Student Y.M.C.A. work was presented by Mr. Wishard, City Mission work by Mr. S. H. Hadley, Student Volunteer work by Mr. Eddy and Mr. Lyon, Foreign Missionary work by Mr. McConaughy of India, and by Mr. Speer. Dr. Pierson also was among the speakers. And upon every evening of the Conference but one, the weather was suitable for these outdoor meetings.

"One cannot attend such a gathering without receiving some definite impressions. The following are some of those received by the writer of this letter:—Exceeding great emphasis is put upon the Bible at these Northfield Conferences. It is made the centre of thought, the chief object of study. Everyone goes away with a new confidence in and a stronger love for the grand old Book. These conferences mark crises in many lives. Lukewarm Christians are all shaken up and started upon a life of spirituality and consecration; earnest believers are lifted up and inspired anew; and young disciples hear the voice of God calling them to this field of work or to that. Northfield is a safe, sound place as far as Scriptural teaching is concerned. There is no unhealthy excitement to be noticed. There is rather a continuous quiet about every service, in which the still small voice can be clearly heard. The influence from such a conference is very widespread; 500 picked men from 100 institutions, representing some 30,000 of our educated youth, will carry the fire with them upon their return to their colleges. Then some here decided to go as foreign missionaries, others into other forms of Christian effort. Japan and India were represented. Eternity alone can reveal the influence of such a Conference. And lastly, Northfield is the place above all places for the Christian worker, and especially for the Christian minister. All the year round the people look to the minister for spiritual instruction, uplift, and inspiration. Where is the minister to go for these things? Of course to God. And yet God conveys his blessings through chosen vessels, through anointed men and women. Once a year the writer feels the need of such a place as Northfield, and he never fails to receive that for which he goes. All the year through the spiritual inspiration and suggestion there received go with him in his work."

A SONG OF PILGRIMAGE.

Softly through earth's gloaming,
Comes the Master's call;
Tender are its whispers,
"Yield to me thine all."

Heaven is round about us,
Thin the veil between,
When we yield our spirits
To the Love unseen;

As his pierc'd hand leads us
Where Himself has trod,
Where his bleeding footprints
Mark the steps of God.

Sweet is his upholding
When the cross we bear;
To his heart He folds us
Keep us ever there.

Stern was Egypt's bondage,
Sinai deserts bare;
But from Pisgah's mountain
Shine glad visions fair.

Sodom lies behind us,
Zion beams before,
Deep yet tranquil waters
Bathe the flowery shore.

Sparkling are the streamlets,
Glad the pastures green,
Peaceful are the borders
Of the land of sheen.

But no eye hath witnessed,
And no lip can tell,
Of the joys ne'er fading,
Calm ineffable;

When we shall behold Him,
Who our heaven hath won;
See Him in his glory,
Hear his sweet "Well done."

Harriet Julia Evans.

Y.M.C.A. CAMP AT NORTHFIELD.

Mr. Moody has added one more to the already long list of his Northfield institutions. We take the following from an account in the New York Tribune of July 19 :—

"On a recent evening, at the call of D. L. Moody, a company of nearly a hundred ladies and gentlemen assembled upon the side of the mountain. Mr. Moody stated that the object was to open the summer encampment, which he called "the ninth child of the Northfield movement." He enumerated his children in the following order: (1) Northfield Seminary; (2) Mount Hermon School; (3) General Conference for Christian Workers; (4) World's Student Conference; (5) the Bible Institute, Chicago; (6) the Northfield Training School; (7) Young Women's College Conference; (8) Colportage Association; (9) the Northfield Y.M.C.A. encampment. Mr. Moody spoke earnestly of the advantages offered to the young men coming from the various Young Men's Christian Associations, who spend their vacation at this camp. Here they would find ample opportunity for recreation, and every day would have the unusual opportunity, between four and five o'clock, of listening to a lecture upon some portion of the Bible from Professors W. W. White and Torrey, of Chicago, Preb. Webb-Peploe, of London, Rev. Andrew Murray, of South Africa, and other men, contact with whom in this way would be a lifelong benefit to young men. The cost to each member of the encampment would be very slight.

"Professor James McConaughy, who has charge of the preliminary arrangements of the camp, spoke of the encouraging responses received from the circulars announcing this encampment. The Brooklyn and New York Associations, together with those from several other cities, were sending young men, and the fact was appreciated that here was an opportunity for young men to receive benefit in body, soul, and spirit during the period of that vacation.

"Richard C. Morse, general secretary of the international committee, alluded to the fact that the Associations in Great Britain had done more than the American Young Men's Association in providing for young men at seaside resorts for the period of their vacation. The British secretaries who visited the Young Men's Associations at seaside homes realised, as do all other association workers, that a good place should be provided for young men to spend their summer vacation. Several offers have been made in this direction in various parts of the country, but none with so much promise of further extension as Camp Northfield, for it was a peculiarity of Mr. Moody's children, whom he had already named, that they grew from year to year, and whatever might be the size of the encampment of 1895, that of 1896 and the following years were sure to increase steadily. He felt that the opportunity for Bible instruction, which would be enjoyed by the young men here, was an admirable feature of the encampment, and would be felt as a benefit throughout Associations in this part of the country.

"Professor W. W. White expressed his deep interest in the movement started here, and the confident hope that it would result in wide benefit, because it was under the joint leadership of Mr. Moody and the Y.M.C.A. All of the speakers alluded with great hopefulness to the promise of this apparently small beginning, and expressed a belief that those at this meeting would live to congratulate themselves on having witnessed the beginning of what was to confer lasting benefit on multitudes of young men."

SWATOW HOSPITAL.—Dr. Cousland writes that services and classes are proceeding in one ward or another through the whole day, and in these the lady missionaries take a large part. The younger patients are taught to read the Romanised Colloquial, in which there is now printed a good deal of Christian literature. "As compared with my former term of superintendence, ten years ago," says Dr. Cousland, "there is much more teaching carried on now. We have much reason to thank God for two so earnest and capable evangelists as the senior assistants. The Christian influence these two men have exerted on their fellow-countrymen in this region during the past twenty years must be deep and widespread. During the year about one hundred men and women applied for baptism. Some of these, we fear, will yield to the force of village opinion when they go home, but some, we have good reason to hope, are both sincere and by faith will stand out against all persecution."

THE WESLEYAN CONFERENCE.

BY A MINISTER.

At the opening of the representative session, which is held during the second week of the Conference, and is composed of ministers and laymen in equal numbers, 480 in all, the president, Dr. Waller, happily referred to the fact that Methodism is a non-political Church. The laymen before him had been busily employed in different camps during the last few weeks, but they sat peacefully side by side, not as Conservatives or Liberals, but as Methodists. It would be a serious thing indeed if persons of all political parties could not find a spiritual home in Methodism. Dr. Waller paid a fitting tribute to the memory of three of the most widely-honoured and useful of Methodist laymen, members of the Conference, who had died during the year. Mr. John Dyson, of Sheffield, was a veteran preacher; Mr. Edward Hutchinson, of Liverpool, a true Christian philanthropist; and Mr. H. B. Harrison, of Manchester, a conspicuous example of one who combined public and social work with spiritual power and earnest aggression. The president suggested as a motto for the year, "The youth of Methodism for Christ."

THE ITINERANT SYSTEM.

Much routine business has been transacted during the week, and many reports of funds and committees have been presented, which, however necessary as details in the great organisation of Methodism, are not of general interest. Several important discussions have taken place, foremost amongst them being that on the proposals in the direction of extending the triennial term of the itinerancy. One of the distinguishing features of Wesleyan Methodism, which it owes to Wesley himself, is that no minister is allowed to be appointed for more than three years in succession to preach in the chapels of any circuit. This principle has been departed from in the cases of the great missions in London and the large towns, and with good results. In some few cases exceptions have also been made in the ordinary circuit work; and the chief point under discussion was how to best deal with such special cases, which are increasing in number, while at the same time the general application of the three years' limit should not be endangered. Some members of the Conference were opposed to any departure from the old rule, but by a large majority Mr. Price Hughes's resolution in favour of some extension of the term in certain cases was agreed to. At the same time the Conference declared its hearty adhesion to the principle of itinerancy, while recognising the necessity of extended appointments in missions, and in some special cases in circuits. A committee was appointed to find a satisfactory method of appointment. It appears doubtful whether an application to Parliament for the repeal of the eleventh clause of the Poll Deed, by which the three years' limit is fixed, will be necessary or not.

ADMISSION OF WOMEN.

Another matter that has aroused wide-spread interest is the proposed admission of women as members of the representative session of the Conference. Last year the Third London District Synod elected Miss Dawson, of the Redhill circuit, as a representative; and her presence in the Birmingham Conference opened the general question, never before considered, as to whether women were eligible as representatives to Conference. A committee was appointed to consider the question, and to report this year. By a small majority, a carefully-worded resolution in favour of the admission to Conference of women, duly elected as representatives, was agreed to by the committee; and Mr. Price Hughes proposed in Conference that this finding of the committee be approved, and that thus the door should be opened to women. He urged that women had rendered invaluable service in every branch of Methodism. It even appeared that Wesley himself authorised women to preach. They admitted women to every other Court in Methodism, and why not to the Supreme Court, the Conference itself.

The venerable Dr. Jenkins declared that the proposals submitted amounted to a revolution in their constitution. So far as he knew there was no legislative assembly in the world in which women shared the counsel and responsibility with men. Other speakers followed, and in the end the Conference was prevented from expressing an opinion on the merits of the case by the carrying of the previous question. Thus a distinct decision is postponed.

MISSIONARY ENTHUSIASM.

The proposal of the Missionary Committee to raise a special fund of £50,000 to pay off the debt of £30,000 on the Missionary Society and to extend the work amongst the heathen, was heartily approved by the Conference. One session was given up to a sort of "financial love feast." One member of the Conference after another rose giving evidence of approval of the effort by a promise to give. By the end of the session nearly £20,000 had already been promised. This amount included several donations of £1000; Mr. Morgan Harvey, the treasurer of the society, adding a second thousand on behalf of his wife and family. Some of the smaller gifts were announced with touching details. Here was a missionary who had been presented by a few friends with £20 before coming to England for his personal use. He laid them on the altar. Another brother subscribed out of his furlough allowance. A layman declared he would give up an intended trip to Rome, and the £50 he would have spent should go to the Lord's work. It was unanimously agreed that the first Friday in October should be again set apart as a day for special intercession for foreign missions throughout the Connexion.

THE WORK OF GOD.

The conversation on the work of God was largely shared in by the laymen. Dr. Cocker, of Bingley, earnestly pleaded for more attention to the young men of their cultured families. Rev. Sampson Weaver touched a true chord when he reminded the Conference that without the clear light of personal devotion, their best sermons and efforts would be useless. Dr. Jenkins pleaded with the laymen to use their influence to counteract the spread of worldliness, which he was afraid was likely to become the dry-rot of the churches. The theatre was about them, clothed with new attractions, and supported by new sanctions. Insidious recreations presented themselves in the ballroom and the card-table. As for Methodism, its purity, its singularity, and its principles were incompatible with the worldliness which was making advances amongst them. The ex-president, Rev. Walford Green, gave a cheering account of his intercourse with the churches throughout the Connexion during his year of office. He had been delighted with the earnest spirit that prevailed. They had received during the year 46,046 new members. The total membership of the Wesleyan Church last March was 437,722, an increase of 4372. This is all the more cheering, following as it does an increase last year of over 5000. As Mr. Green pointed out, there was devout cause for thankfulness to God. They had abundant indication that God had given them his converting power.

Many other matters of importance have been discussed during the representative session, which closed on Friday evening, including the formation of a Wesley Guild for the young people of Methodism, the increasing of the efficiency of local preachers, national education, temperance, social purity, and the opium-curse in China.

On Monday morning the ordination service was held in the Ebenezer Chapel, Plymouth. Rev. Walford Green delivered an earnest charge to thirty-one young ministers, who were set apart for their great work by the laying on of hands. The pastoral session of Conference was resumed on Monday evening.

SAILORS' INSTITUTE, VENICE.—While travelling in Italy this spring a correspondent visited the Sailors' Institute at Venice, and was delighted with its situation and all its interior arrangements. The British and Foreign Sailors' Society were fortunate, five years ago, in securing the services of a missionary and his wife whole-heartedly devoted to the work of ministering to the bodies and souls of the many seamen who visit this port and this Sailors' Institute.

MR. LANCELOT MIDDLETON feels compelled, after five and a-half years' superintendence of the Imperial Mission, Hanley, to resign this responsible post. He believes that the preparatory work of these years has paved the way for a great Forward Movement. In order that the way may be perfectly clear for his successor, Mr. Middleton has issued a farewell appeal for £500 to clear everything. The treasurer is Mr. Ambrose Wood, Regent House, Hanley, Staffa

OUR DAILY HOMILY.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 11.

"I also Withheld thee from Sinning against Me."—Gen. xx. 6.

As we review our lives, we can see many occasions on which our feet had well-nigh gone, our steps were on the very brink of the precipice. Another inch and we should have brought shame on Christ and lasting remorse to ourselves. To what can we attribute our escape but to the grace of God, which withheld us, even though we failed to recognise it? It is blessed to believe in God's withholding grace.

He does not Withhold us from Temptation.—He could not do so without serious and permanent loss. The waves of ink will surge up against the white marble palace of the soul. To us, as to our Lord fresh from under the opened heavens, the tempter will come. What the fire is in fixing the colour on the porcelain vase, that temptation is in rendering permanent the lessons and impressions made by God's providence and grace. The holier thou art, the likelier thou wilt be to be beset by the dark powers.

He does not Withhold us from Occasions in which it would be easy to Transgress.—Abimelech was not hindered from taking Sarah into his palace. The door of occasion and opportunity stood open before him, but he was withheld from the fatal act. We must never infer that occasion confers licence. The fact of an opportunity being present does not warrant indulgence in wrong-doing. We are not withheld from occasions to sin, but we are kept by the mighty power of God. It is thus that God tries us, and knows us, and sees what is in our heart.

If God withheld Abimelech, who did not Seek his special Help, how much More those that Seek Him!—You are not insensible of the perils of your life, but wait earnestly and persistently on God. Are you more eager to be kept than He to keep? Did He not implant that desire? Will He not do exceeding abundantly above what we ask or think? Is not the good Shepherd strong enough to keep one poor trembling sheep? If when we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, shall we not, much more, be saved by his life? Begone unbelief! My Lord can keep me, and He will!

MONDAY, AUGUST 12.

"And God Opened Her Eyes, and She Saw."—Gen. xxi. 19.

Poor Hagar! her joy was of short duration. Sarah, who had resorted to her in her hour of need, turned against her, and drove the poor girl from her tent. There was no help for it, and she, who a little before had thought she was giving Abraham his heir, found herself and her boy homeless wayfarers on the desert sands. Their one need was for water; they little deemed it was so near. The need was not to create a fountain, but to see that which was already there.

We Need the Opened Eye to see the Finished Work of Christ.—The work of propitiation for sin is complete. We are not required to add to it one tear, or prayer, or vow. Jesus bore our sins in his own body on the tree. Hard by each sinner stands the Cross, with these words as superscription, It is finished. To go to heaven to bring Christ down, or to the deep to bring Him up, is alike superfluous. All we need is the opened eye to see what Jesus has done, and recognise that it is all that was demanded to meet the claims of God's holy law.

We Need the Opened Eye to see the Things Freely Given to us of God.—God hath given us in Jesus all things that pertain to life and godliness. There is no possible gift or grace, in which we are deficient, that is not stored in Him, in whom the fulness of God abides. But we are blind; the eyes of our heart have not been opened to see the hope of our calling, the riches of our inheritance, the greatness of God's power. Did we know these things, surely not a moment would elapse without our availing ourselves of God's rich provision. Hagar, as soon as she saw, went and filled her bottle. Oh, for that full life!

We Need the Opened Eye to see the Alleviations which God Provides against Excessive Sorrow.—Hagar's anguish, as Mary's at the sepulchre in after years, blinded her to available comfort. So grief puts a bandage over our eyes. Life is sad, and lonely, and dark, but God is near; and if you ask, He will show springs of consolation, of which you may drink. There is no desert without its spring, no dying child without the angel of the Lord.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 13.

"Jehovah-Jireh; In the Mount of the Lord it Shall Be Provided."—Gen. xxii. 14.

Abraham knew it would be. Probably he never told Sarah what God had asked of him till he and the lad were safely back in the tent. What need to trouble her? Her weak faith could not have stood the ordeal. It was with an unfaltering tone that the Patriarch told his young men that they two would presently return. Even though he should actually take Isaac's life, he was sure that he would receive him again from the altar in life. But it was only at the very last moment that God indicated the ram as the sufficient substitute. So God's deliverances always come; they are provided in the mount of trial and sacrifice.

When the Foe seems Secure of Victory.—So it was with Israel. Pharaoh, with his hosts, counted on an easy victory, the precipices around, the sea in front. To the eye of sense it seemed impossible to escape: all hope died. It was just then that the Almighty cleft a path through the mighty deep.

In the Fourth Hour of the Night.—Strength was well nigh exhausted in long battling with the waves. For hours the disciples with difficulty had kept themselves afloat. It seemed as if they must give in through physical collapse. It was then that the form of Jesus drew nigh unto the ship.

On the Night before Execution.—Thus Peter laying sleeping whilst the Church was gathered in prayer. To-morrow he would be a corpse. But the angel comes then to open the prison doors.

So you may have come to an end of your own strength, and wisdom, and energy. The altar, wood and fire are ready, the knife upraised, your Isaac on the point to die: but even now God will provide. Trust Him to indicate the way of escape.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14.

"I am a Stranger and a Sojourner."—Gen. xxiii. 4.

The minute details of this purchase are recorded to emphasize the fact that, though the whole land was Abraham's by the Divine gift, he would not enter on its possession till God's time was come. We may be sure of certain blessings—ours in God's safe keeping—though they are withheld till the moment that his wisdom sees best.

It was a touching confession. The aged patriarch had for long years owned no settled dwelling-place. The hunger for a home and land had died down, and he was satisfied, since it was God's will, to be without land enough for a grave.

Faith Cannot be Satisfied with the Things of this World.—The sons of Heth had goods and lands, but Abraham did not envy them; he had caught a glimpse of the city which hath foundations and this so satisfied and attracted him that he had no desire for the fullest extent of hill and vale that Palestine could yield.

Faith detaches us from the present. We are content to dwell in tents, because here we have no abiding place. The shows and vanities of the world, in comparison with the vision of eternal realities, are as the glare of the streets compared with the steady glory of the constellations of the night.

Faith Prompts to Confession.—It bewrayeth itself. We should be careful and orderly in our business arrangements; but, in our dealings with our fellows, in our justice, fairness, honour, the lightness of our hold on the present world, we should make it manifest that we are seeking a country not our own.

Faith Cannot be Ashamed.—The God who prompted it must satisfy it, else He would have reason to be ashamed of having failed the souls that trusted Him.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15.

"My Master."—Gen. xxiv. 12.

This worthy man, Eliezer, the steward of Abraham's house, was almost garrulous about his master. Count up the number of times in which he contrives to bring in the two words, "my master." We may learn from him how to speak of our Master, whenever we get the opportunity. Rabboni, which, being interpreted, is, My Master.

We too Can Speak of the Lord God as our Master.—The servant did not know Jehovah directly; it was enough that he had seen and heard Abraham pray to Him. This encouraged him to draw near for himself. So we are emboldened to draw near, because God is the God and Father of Jesus. We love Him that was begotten, and we are attracted to Him of whom Jesus said, "I ascend to my Father, and your Father, to my God, and your God."

We, too, can Plead for Our Master's Sake.—When asking for good speed to be sent to himself, he alleged as his plea that it would be showing kindness to his master Abraham. So when we ask great things from God, we can plead in the name of Jesus, and urge that in answering our petition God will be showing kindness to his well-beloved.

We, too, should Bless in Our Master's Name.—When the answer was given this reverent soul gave thanks, as though the favour had been shown to his master. Indeed, all through his intercourse with Bethuel and Laban he seems to have lost his identity in Abraham. He could talk of nothing else but that one theme; was only eager to carry his point for his master's sake; and when the errand was done, longed only to get back to his master's side. It is a beautiful lesson for those who call Jesus Master and Lord.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 16.

"And He Sold His Birthright."—Gen. xxv. 33.

Everyone is born with a birthright, which the devil tries hard to make him barter away for a mess of pottage. In that birthright are included:—

Innocence and Purity.—The child of the vilest ancestry enters this world unsullied by the filthy touch of unclean habit. But how eager Satan is to induce us to part with this for his unsatisfying pleasure.

The Love of Our Kind.—Few are the children, of all the myriads of our race, that are not loved by some fond heart. In some cases the infant life is cradled in love. But Satan is glad when he can get the soul to break away from all earthly affection, which might possibly soften and refine it, and to renounce mother, sister, wife, child, for the drunkard's cup, the wanton's kiss.

The Redemption of Jesus Christ.—Everyone is born into a redeemed world; the propitiation of the blessed Lord, the blood that flowed on Calvary, the cancelment of the effects of Adam's sin, are for all. As all have been affected by Adam's sin, so all are included in God's love in Jesus. But again Satan is eager to induce men to abjure and cast away all these benefits.

The Grace of the Spirit.—Everyone may build up a strong and beautiful character by yielding to the Holy Ghost's gracious promptings. That grace knocks, like sunshine, at the windows of every soul, but how often it is sold for a mess of pottage. The choice between these two is constantly being presented to us. God help us always to choose the divine, the spiritual, the eternal.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 17.

"Because that Abraham Obeyed my Voice and Kept My Charge."—Gen. xxvi. 5.

It is awful to realise how our sins may repeat themselves in our children. Here is Isaac following in the precise steps of Abraham, who had acted thus towards Sarah when entering Egypt. In each case there was a sad lapse of faith; but it was even worse for Isaac, with Abraham's example to warn him. But a man can pass blessings on to his children, as well as the sad entail of evil habits. The godly man leaves the blessing of the divine covenant. God had entered into covenant with Abraham, and was prepared to fulfil its provisions to his son. "I will be a God to thee, and to thy seed after thee." So a godly ancestor may be able to secure for all his seed a share in the divine grace and favour. The spirit that is put on him does not depart from his seed, or his seed's seed for ever.

The Blessing of his Prayer.—It is impossible to over-estimate the effect of a good man's prayers; they are as streams, or trees, which go on flowing and bearing fruit long after they were originated. The legacy of a good man's prayers is of priceless worth. He may have long since passed to his rest, but, as in the case of Abraham, God remembers them, and answers them in blessing to the next generation. How often, in this chapter, we read that God blessed Isaac.

The Blessing of a Noble Name.—We may all leave that, if we can transmit nothing else. To have had a father that knew God, walked with God, pleased God; who was on intimate terms with Him, and could speak to Him, as a man with his friend; illumined the ordinary nature and existence of Isaac with unearthly beauty. Let us live so that our children may be ennobled because they bear our name.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSONS.

AUGUST 18.

The New Home in Canaan.—Deut. vi. 3—15.

Golden Text.—Deut. viii. 10.

The words of this lesson were addressed to the Israelites in the broad space on the east of Jordan, nearly opposite to Jericho, with the promised land in full view. The aim of Moses was to remind the people that change of place would not necessarily secure their happiness; what they were was of more importance than where they dwelt. The aim of all God's dealings with his people is to lead them to obey and serve Him. Salvation would not be worthy its name if it left us still under the dominion of self and sin.

Their entrance into Canaan is regarded as absolutely certain (3). There are difficulties in the way—the Jordan to be crossed, high-walled cities to be laid low, powerful enemies to be overcome, but the promise of God makes their possession sure. Gen. xv. 5, and Exod. iii. 8, 17, are some of the promises referred to. Faith should treat all God's promises in the same way. Yet, observe that the same verse that speaks of promises speaks also of commands. It is as much a part of faith to obey the latter as to trust the former. "Trust and obey" are the two words that express our true attitude towards the Word of God. Note, also, what obedience requires. The command "hear" reproves those who utterly neglect the Word. "Observe" reproves the listless inattentive hearer. "Do" reproves every hearer who stops short of actual obedience (Jas. i. 23, 24).

The foundation of all true religion is the knowledge of Jehovah as the one God (4). The surrounding nations had numerous deities, but not one worthy of being called God. Israel's knowledge of Jehovah was imperfect, but they had reason to know Him as the Covenant-keeping God, and as the Destroyer of the gods of Egypt. In Jesus we have a fuller revelation. To call Him "our God"—to know Him, and possess Him as such, is to have eternal life (John. xvii. 3).

Acceptable worship of this true God must be the outcome of love (5). This is described by Jesus as the first and great commandment (Matt. xxii. 38), and includes in itself all the rest (Rom. xiii. 10). His demand is for sincere, fervent, supreme, intelligent love. The claim rests upon what He is, what He has done, and the relationship into which He has introduced us. Not to love such a God is ingratitude and wickedness of the basest kind.

Means for maintaining true religion are given (6-9). These are (1) Meditation, "in thy heart" (6).—Learn them by heart, and ponder them there, as Mary pondered the words of the Shepherd (Luke ii. 19). Why should so much time be given to the learning of other things, and so little to the learning of Scripture? (2) Instruction (7).—All Sunday-school effort is a kind of obedience to this word. Yet the command applies mainly to the parents themselves (comp. Gen. xviii. 19; Psa. lxxviii. 5-7). (3) Conversation (7).—This will not be difficult if the heart is full of the word (Matt xii. 34). There is no part of our life with which the Word does not deal. The commonest events of life may be sanctified by the Word of God and prayer. This will make a holy atmosphere, in which home piety may grow. (4) Practical obedience (8. 9).—The extremely literal interpretation of this passage led the Jews to the use of phylacteries ("small cubical leather cases containing four passages of Scripture, and bound on the arm and between the eyes by leather thongs"), and the Mezuzah "the name given to the square piece of parchment (inscribed with Deut. vi. 4-9, and xi. 13-21), which is rolled up in a small cylinder of wood or metal and affixed to the right hand-post of every door in a Jewish house." The real meaning of the passage is that all the hand executes or the mind conceives and plans, and all the regulations of the house, should be under the direction of the Word of God.

Obedience is enforced by warnings against neglect of God (10—15). Their first danger was that of forgetfulness (12). The sin is much greater than appears to us (comp. Psa. ix. 17, l. 22). Their prosperity would expose them to it (10—11). God's gifts have often taken the place of God Himself. See Agur's prayer (Prov. xxx. 9). It is difficult to carry a full cup with a steady hand. Forgetfulness of God would make idolatry easy (13—15). A god that can be seen is a temptation to those who are not whole-hearted in their worship of the true God. These sins lead to certain consequences (15). As obedience engages all God's power in our favour, so disobedience and idolatry cause Him to turn against us. The present position of the Jews is a solemn comment upon this verse.

For the Young.

LEPER CHILDREN.

I wonder how many of the boys and girls who will read this understand what it means to be a leper? Perhaps not one, as leprosy is happily almost unknown in England now. But I hope you will be interested in hearing about some of the poor children who do suffer from this terrible disease. To know about them should make you more thankful for your own good health and your happy homes, and will, perhaps, lead you to try to help the boys and girls whose lives are made so sad and hopeless by the great trouble that has overtaken them.

You will know that leprosy is a very ancient disease, as you will have read about it in your Bibles. It was so common in the days of Moses that two very long chapters in Leviticus are entirely taken up with a description of it, and with directions for the treatment of those afflicted with it. Our Lord found numbers of lepers in Palestine when He lived there, and you will recollect that one day, when He was going into a village (not a city or a town, but only a village), as many as ten met Him. When they cried to Him to have mercy on them, "they stood afar off," because they were not allowed to come near other people, and no doubt were compelled to live outside the village. For God had directed, through Moses, that the leper should dwell alone, with rent clothes, a bare head, and a covered upper lip, and should cry, "Unclean, unclean."

The leper, with his melancholy cry and his clappers to warn others of his approach, was often heard in our own fair land three or four hundred years ago, and only last month I was shown a "leper chapel" and a "leper squint" attached to an old church in Hampshire. The chapel is a small building shut off from the great church, and the "squint" is a small opening in the wall, through which the lepers could hear something of the service.

Among the many blessings for which we should be grateful to God is the fact that leprosy has been stamped out in Great Britain. But the Queen we love has many lepers still among her subjects, and they call for our pity and our help. Twenty-one years ago God put it into the heart of a missionary, Mr. Wellesley C. Bailey, who had seen many poor lepers, to found the Mission to Lepers in India and the East, and to-day that mission has seventeen asylums or hospitals for them, as well as eight homes for their children, besides helping them in many other places. The children's homes are for little ones whose parents are lepers, but in the asylums with the grown-up lepers are several boys and girls who have this dreadful disease, and there are many more who cannot be taken in for want of room or want of funds. I will tell you about a few of them.

Lucy, Sarda, and Phulmani are the names of three dear leper girls, who have found a home in the asylum at Asansol, Bengal, where they are fed and clothed and can hear the "Old, old story of Jesus and his Love." One who visited them recently, says their ages are from nine to twelve, and that they are very interesting girls. "But (this friend adds) they are a very small number of those who are yet outside, and need to be brought to the Saviour."

Giri Bala, in the asylum at Raniganj, is a Christian girl, and so can look to Jesus for the comfort she so sorely needs. The leprosy broke out about a year ago, when she was thirteen years of age. Many bright happy boys and girls will read this account of these sad afflicted children who have no hope of ever getting well again. Although leprosy has been known and studied so long, no cure has been discovered, and so these poor children have no prospect but to grow worse and worse, until a merciful death ends their sufferings.

W. M. is a poor European leper boy, perhaps an English boy, of twelve or thirteen years of age, who lives in an asylum with about one hundred other lepers in Calcutta. His is a terribly sad case. Although in fairly good general health, he is without hope, and has none of the ordinary occupations and recreations of other boys. A friend who visited him says, that "forsaken of father and mother, he seemed to be sinking, not only under the deadening influence of the disease, but also the numbing influence of being unoccupied."

In contrast with this, it is interesting to read of two leper boys in the hospital at Pakhoi, China, who "dress the terrible sores of their fellow-sufferers and have proved most efficient."

Dimati, of the Almora Leper Asylum, must not be overlooked. What a beautiful little history the Rev. Mr. Oakley, who has been in charge of the institution, gives of her. "She has been a leper about seven years—one half of her poor little life. She was baptized two years ago. Her feet and hands are disfigured somewhat, but her face is still untouched by the disease, and she is a cheerful-looking, amiable child. Those who live near her says she prays daily, and is very sincere and devout."

Just think of her, boys and girls, who with your homes and your health often grumble at your tiny troubles, and are discontented because everything is not as you wish. Both feet and hands disfigured with leprosy, but still cheerful, amiable, devout, and praying daily!

Gongali must have a few lines (even if the editor does say he hasn't room). She is a dear little lassie of nine—who is a leper. She was brought home from a crowded mela, or fair, by Miss Mary Reed to her Asylum at Chandag. She had been cast out to beg her food, and was both homeless and friendless. Miss Reed met her mother at the fair, but she seemed to have no love left for her poor little leper girl, and did not appear to care what became of her. Miss Reed says, "Since Gongali's arrival she has undergone such a process of scrubbing, combing, and dressing, that she seems a different creature, and is looking clean and bright; she is so pleased with her new friends and home."

I hope some of you are wondering by this time what you can do to help the hundreds of leper boys and girls still to be found in our British Empire. I will mention one or two ways in which you can assist them. You could tell your father or your mother about their needs, and perhaps they would send a small subscription. Or you might deny yourself something, as a dear little girl I know did. She was saving up to buy a doll's mail-cart at Christmas, but when she heard about the poor lepers she sent all she had in her money-box for them. Or if you think you can get some of your friends to give a penny a week to the lepers for Jesus' sake, please write to me for a collecting card of the Missionary Pence Association, and you can gather in quite a lot of pennies for the leper boys and girls. In this matter the old saying is true, "Where there's a will there's a way."

John Jackson,
Hon. Sec. London and District.
186, Aldersgate-street, London, E.C.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

May we ask the earnest prayers of your readers for very much blessing to rest upon the seaside services for children and young people which are now in operation at many of our watering-places? The Secretaries.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for week ending August 17, 1895.—Sun., 11, Mark i. 14-28; Mon., 12, i. 29-45; Tues., 13, ii. 1-12; Wed., 14, ii. 13-28; Thurs., 15, iii. 1-19; Fri., 16, iii. 20-35; Sat., 17, iv. 12.

THE TRAMCAR AND OMNIBUS SCRIPTURE TEXT MISSION has now 269 texts, placed and maintained in cars, extending from Finsbury Park to Moorgate-street, Hackney to Aldersgate-street, Poplar, Stamford-hill, Stratford; and on South side, Brixton to Westminster and Blackfriars, Greenwich, Clapham, Vauxhall, and Southwark cars. Ten shillings secures one text being maintained for twelve months, and same may be chosen by subscribers and placed on any particular route. There is, unhappily, an adverse balance of £20 due to advertising agent. Communications to be addressed, Mrs. E. S. Wood, care of Mr. L. Newbery, hon. treasurer, 1, King Edward-street, E.C.

REV. S. A. SELWYN'S TESTIMONY

AT KESWICK CONVENTION.

There is an important verse to be found in Eph. iii. 20, "Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us." As I look back upon the spiritual history of my life, that verse seems to come to me and meet me at every corner. I have found that whereas God is able to do for us far above all that we ask or think, there has always been a kicking against it, for which may God forgive me. Whenever He puts before us a blessing, the first thing we do very often is to push it away; not because we do not need a blessing, but because we are so constantly thinking it is not the blessing for us—it is too good.

"Thank God for a praying mother," is what I have had to say very often. Though I was rebellious, she brought me up in earnest prayer, and I have never seemed to fall out of the circle of her prayers. I cannot say all I mean, as you may well imagine. It was in answer to her prayers, I am perfectly sure, that God saved me, and keeps me. I should like to say, because there are a good many brethren in the ministry here, that for five and a-half years of my ministry I worked with the serious impediment that I had no assurance. I did not believe in it, and preached against it. I have tried to make up for lost time since. Happily my dear old vicar invites me still, year by year, to go to the little town in Norfolk where I began my work; and then I try to make up for lost time. But you do not know what sorrow fills my heart when one goes back to the old scenes and remembers what might have been. There are loved friends there who have done me many a kindness, but some of them are yet without assurance. Five and a-half years is no little span in a man's ministry. God grant that if any here, especially fellow ministers, have been kicking against such a privilege, they may get down before God with their Bible. Oh that some loving hand in those early days had been put on my shoulder, as was laid on me exactly ten years ago by our brother Dr. Elder Cumming, when he said to me, as I trembled from head to foot, "Thank God for the young fellows."

Meanwhile God sent me to a church in Norwich, where I had my first "living." There He taught me, chiefly through my own pew-opener. As I have looked back to those days, now more than ten years ago, the thought has often come to my mind of what I read once in The Christian, how a certain missionary among the Chinese was called "Mr. Glory-Face"; I understand he has been here at this very Convention. I have called my Norwich pew-opener Mr. Glory-Face, because his face was so happy. I do not suppose he knew what effect he had upon his rector, or how I said, when I watched his life, "That man has got something which I have not got."

After a while God led me to do some little extra mission work in my church, though I had not got assurance in my own soul. I gave out that there would be a service for women only. I prayed all that afternoon that God would give us a mighty blessing on that day. The church was packed and God was there. Well do I remember my text: "There cometh a woman to draw water." Then came the after meeting, for though I had never been to an after-meeting and did not know how to conduct it, I gave it out that there would be one. A good many went away, and I was sorely puzzled what to do with the rest. All I did was to have a little more prayer and partially to go through my subject over again; then they went home. But I had letter after letter from them for weeks telling me that was the day of their conversion. Every letter I got, though it made me somewhat elated (one naturally likes success—that is the carnal part of it), yet kept saying to me, "But you have not got assurance yourself." And I had not got it; though I am sure I was a Christian.

So matters went on. A few months after, I came across some books which helped me greatly. At length I spoke to a fellow-worker, who said, "Now look here. The Lord said, 'My sheep shall never perish.'" I replied, "Yes, it says so in the Bible." "Well, don't you believe it? Supposing we were looking over the brink of hell. On one side we saw the Lord Jesus, and away down in the depths we saw the devil. Supposing the devil had got along with him one of the Lord's sheep, and supposing he were able to say to Christ, 'Who is the stronger, you or me?' Don't you think Christ would say He was the stronger? But suppose the devil was to say to Christ, 'You said your sheep would never perish, but I have got one of them.'" The good man looked at me and said, "Do you think, sir, that that could happen?" "No, God forbid, God forbid." That brought me up to the text "My sheep shall never perish, neither shall any pluck them out of my hand." I felt it was just like a wall that I could lean against, and I am leaning there now. I began to feel happy, and grew happier and happier.

Time went on, and the Lord began to put his finger on something in my ministerial life which He taught me had to be altered. It was to give up written sermons. I said: "Oh, Lord, I cannot do that." I am not referring to this because I think other people should not write their sermons; that has nothing to do with me at all. But this is what the Lord said to me. My answer was: "No, Lord, my reputation has been based on my written sermons. I cannot give them up; I should be like a child all over again." The Lord kept his finger there, and I could get no more peace; it all went. It was awful misery, and I could stand it no longer. There were two valued friends who gave me great help about that time. One was Rev. F. S. Webster, and the other was a Church Army officer, Capt. Cox. They came nearly about the same time, and both counselled me to obey the Lord implicitly; if He put his hand on anything in my life it must be altered, or there would be no peace. Then we had a consecration meeting. I told the people that I was going to consecrate myself, and I asked them to do the same. So I knelt down at the table in my own mission hall and gave myself entirely to the Lord Jesus. I told some of my people that next Sunday I was going to rely on the Lord to help me in the sermon. They lifted me up before God, and He gave his blessing. It was a deep, lasting, peace that God gave me. That was in 1882 or 1883.

Then four years ago I fell ill. The illness did not help me much, I grieve to say. It was rheumatic fever; it affects one's heart, and one gets depressed. I got out of touch with the Master, and everything seemed to go wrong with me. I came up to Keswick, not as a speaker, but as a visitor. I remember so well the longing and hungering I had for something much better than I had got then. The Lord kept telling me what the hindrance was, but somehow I always evaded it. Why does not one learn to obey the very first touch of his hand? I did not obey. I remember well Mr. Webster asking me if I would not go to a half night of prayer. I said, No; that would not suit me at all. I walked away, and the thought came, "Why should I not go?" Yet I did not go. But I went and had a convention by myself with the Lord in my own room. He put his hand again upon the thing in my life that had to be altered—and that was to have the first time in the morning spent at any cost with my Bible and with Him. I told the Lord I would do what He bade me. Next morning I felt happier, and all that day I got more and more full of God's joy. I was greatly helped at that time by an address by our friend Mr. Grubb; it stirred me to the depths, and was the means of light breaking in more fully into my heart. I remember hearing some one say, "How crushing this is!" In my own room I went down before God, and there felt the crushing power of the Holy Spirit. Then the thought came that I should have to tell my people at home in the pulpit the next Sunday. I had another little tussle over that. I said to myself, "What ever will these people say? They have been thinking great things of me, and I have got a reputation there." But the Lord said I would have to give all that up. You should have seen some of them when I told from the pulpit what a blessing I had got. There were surprise and wonderment, and a little bit of doubt.

I have had since then several minor blessings to those I have spoken about. I shall never through all my life forget last Wednesday, both morning and evening, when Mr. Hubert Brooke spoke about bearing the reproach of Christ (how little I have borne it!), and when Mr. Murray was speaking of how when we are humbled and made into broken reeds, God can make sweeter music out of us, perhaps, than when we were whole.

REV. S. A. SELWYN.

(From Photograph by Messrs. Elliott & Fry, Baker-street, W.)

SUNDAY RECREATION.

In a recent article The Christian Intelligencer says:—

The Sunday bicycle run cannot be justified. Those engaged in them cannot say that it is the only day in the week on which they can obtain sufficient exercise in the open air. The fact that they are able to make the Sunday run is unanswerable evidence that they have been in training, have been wheeling frequently during the preceding six days. Without this frequent exercise they would be unable to make the Sunday run. It is an inexcusable and injurious violation of the law of God in relation to the Sabbath; a law that is "holy, just, and good."

The fact is greatly to be deplored that throughout the United States the wheelmen are putting forth a mighty influence against the observance of the Lord's Day as a day of rest and worship. Their action is tending with power toward the overthrow of the Sunday, toward reducing it to an equality with the other days of the week. No injuries inflicted on a community are greater than those of a moral or religious character. Yet men are not roused to a sense of the supreme importance of moral and religious influences until a large harvest of evil fruit has been produced. Christianity is largely dependent upon a proper observance of the Sabbath. The moral character of a community is more dependent on Christianity than on any other system or organisation. The bicyclists are doing much to destroy the Sabbath, and at the same time are injuring their own bodies and souls. The "bicycle face," indicating extreme weariness and exhaustion, due to the severe strain of violent exercise on seven days of the week, will be followed, as surely as the Decalogue is the law of God, with moral weariness and exhaustion in the wheelmen and in those influenced by them.

What will become of the Sabbath? The trials of speed of the Defender have been made on Sundays. They have been made by men of wealth and leisure, who could as well make these tests on another day, and they exhibit the spirit now animating a large portion of society. What with Sunday newspapers, Sunday bicycle runs, Sunday excursions, Sunday yacht races, and Sunday travelling, the outlook in this country for a proper and Scriptural observance of the Lord's Day is not hopeful. The destruction of the Sabbath advances rapidly.

No people can afford to be left alone by God. No nation can prosper without the favour of God. Sabbath desecration draws the judgment of God upon individuals and communities, and is succeeded by punishment.

KESWICK ADDRESSES.

God's Redemptive Scheme.

BIBLE READING

By REV. HUBERT BROOKE.

Two sayings from two saints of God have been on my mind this morning, one from a saint in glory, and another from a saint on earth. The saint on earth, our dear friend Theodore Monod, once said, "After all, obedience is the best commentary." You may often go to commentaries and look at them, and they will sometimes begin by saying, "This passage is perfectly clear." Then they make it as muddled as they can. But it is often true that when these explanations do not make it clear, obedience does. "If any man will to do his will he shall know of the doctrine." And if there is something you do not understand, mind you do what you do understand; then the next thing will become clear.

What we want to come to is obedience. We are trying to make plain to ourselves what God wants his people to do, and what they can do. If they are willing to obey, they can do what may seem impossible things, because God will work in them to will and to do. I trust the practical, matter-of-fact, every-day outcome of our Convention will be that we shall go away to do what God tells us, without any arguings, or hesitations, or doubts, about it.

The other matter to which I would refer is something once said by dear Dr. Andrew Bonar. He pictured to himself, as he often did, the disciples of the Lord Jesus to whom after his resurrection He sent the message, "Go, tell my brethren that I go before them into Galilee." He sent this message to them two or three times, as much as to say, "There is something special I am not going to tell you till I get to Galilee." Dr. Bonar pictured these disciples walking together to Galilee, and one would say, "What can He give us when we get up to Galilee more than He has given to us already? Why He said, 'Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you.' Just think of that; 'my peace'—the peace the Lord Jesus had in his own heart, He gives to his disciples." "Yes," said another, "and more than that He said 'That my joy might be fulfilled in you.' Can we want anything more than that?" Then John chimed in and said, "Yes, and He said, 'Continue ye in my love.' That is even better." Then perhaps James would say, "Yes, and He said, 'The glory Thou hast given Me, I have given them.'" So as the disciples walked on to Galilee, they counted up those things—"my peace," "my joy," "my love," and "my glory," and they said:—"Surely these things must pretty nearly fill our hearts up to the brim; when we get to Galilee, what more can He give us?" When they got there, He said to them "GO." He did not give them anything more to take; He gave them something to do. And after all to be able to go was better than to be able to take; for it is more blessed to give than to receive. Whilst He was giving to them, they had blessing; but when He was sending them

THEY HAD A LARGER BLESSING.

The Lord Jesus Christ has not altered his command; and I want you to look at the way He tells us to go, in the closing parts of the four Gospels. How wonderful are these gospels—such depth and diversity, while there is such perfect agreement. You can always find something fresh in them. Look, for instance, at the closing messages and see how they tell us what we find in Christ. We will take the last first. In John xx. 31, we read, "These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that, believing, ye might have life through his name." After all, life is the first thing. Go back to the close of Luke. "That repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name." Here we have pardon; it comes with life, but it is not always recognised at the same time. When our eyes are opened to see it, that is a further blessing. In Mark you find something more, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." That is salvation. Matthew is the fullest of all. "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." Teaching them; giving knowledge to those who had not got it before. These four closing portions of the Gospels tell us of a fourfold need in the human soul, and the fourfold supply with which the Lord meets it. If we need life we must be dead to the things of God; if we need pardon we must be sinners; if we need salvation we must be lost; and if we need knowledge then we must be ignorant. And that is just what we are by nature—dead, sinful, lost, and ignorant. We come to Christ and in Him we have life, forgiveness, salvation, and enlightenment.

But besides that, these same passages tell us that everything we receive for ourselves we are intended to carry to others. They lay before us with wonderful fulness the scheme by which the Lord meant his work to be done in the world. He takes his people into his counsels and unfolds his purposes of mercy; more than that, He tells us that He cannot carry them out without our help. That is a solemn thing, but it is a reality. Whatever my head purposes to have done, if my members do not help me I cannot do it. I am dependent on my members for carrying out the will of my head in my body. So with the Lord Jesus Christ. The strange thing is that my members never think of refusing to obey my head; but what about the Lord's members? It ought to be as simple and plain as it was in the case of the Roman centurion who said to one "Go," and he went; to another "Come," and he came; to another "Do this," and it was done. What an extraordinary thing that the Head, the Lord Jesus Christ, should say to one member "Go," and he does not go; to another "Come," and he does not come; and to both "Do this;" but how many do? I want you to see that for each of us who are his members that it is a simple question—"Am I going to do it or not?" As we look at the closing portions of the Gospels we see each setting the matter in a different light.

A HOMELY ILLUSTRATION.

Sometimes at the railway stations you may see illustrated advertisements of seaside places. You will see a picture in detail of a seaside place that does not exist. There is a beautiful esplanade and a sea wall; there are terraces with fine houses, and smaller back streets where the lodgings are cheaper. There is a church, and, it may be, a chapel. They are all on paper, but they do not exist as yet. They are going to be there by-and-by, if the landowner succeeds in getting the thing done. The next thing is, he gets his builder, his architect, his clerk of the works, carpenters, stonemasons, bricklayers, and so on; he tells them what their work is, and they set themselves to do it. For a long time it does not look a bit like the picture at the railway station. But each man has got his own work to do, and if he does it, by degrees things get more and more like the picture. And at last, if the owner is a man of ability and resource, and can carry out his plans, you go down to the seaside, and you see that instead of fancy it is a fact.

Now if I may use such a homely illustration, the Lord Jesus Christ has done for us something very like that. At the close of the gospel by Matthew He gives the full picture of what He means it to be. The description of his wonderful work throughout the whole world is all there. At the close of Mark He takes his workmen and tells us we must set to work and carry out this glorious scheme. In Luke He gives, as it were, each one his little portion. And at the close of John He tells us of the power by which He means to carry it out—with you if you will, and without you if you won't.

Let us look now at the wonderful scheme of the Lord. You have got your place and share in carrying it out. It may be a very small share, but it has got to be done. The little boy who carries the water with which to make the mortar in a building may not be very skilful, but he has his work to do, and the building cannot be put up without the water. If anyone fails, so far the work is a failure. Let us ask our Lord in real earnest not only to show us the glorious work He means to do, but the part of it which He wants you and me, one by one, to have in this blessed scheme.

In the closing verses of Matthew we read that "the eleven disciples went away into Galilee into a mountain where Jesus had appointed them." I am sure many hearts are certain that Jesus has appointed to meet them here. "And when they saw Him they worshipped Him." We have all come to Keswick with hearts set upon doing that. "But some doubted." Perhaps there are some souls here who are inclined to doubt whether they can believe some of the wonderful things He has to say to them. Let us listen to what He does say. It is so simple; there is no possibility of misunderstanding it. "All power is given unto Me in heaven and in earth—go." He once said, "All things are delivered unto Me of my Father—come." Have you ever noticed that before the Lord could say that the power was his with which He could pardon our sins and relieve us of our burdens, He must be able to say, "All things are delivered unto Me of my Father—come"? After they have come to Him and learned of Him and been with Him, He can say, "All power in heaven and on earth is given unto Me—go." The same people to whom He said, "Come," are those to whom He says "Go." The same omnipotence is with Him and for them. This is

THE CHRISTIAN'S IDEAL COAT OF ARMS.

On one side God's omnipotence, and on the other side God's omnipresence, with the Christian between, going where God sends him. Do you think there is any need to go about in fear, anxiety, and uncertainty if you are supported between the omnipotence and the omnipresence of the Lord Jesus Christ?

More than that, He says, "Go ye therefore." It is not only a command but a consequence. Because He is risen and on the throne, He gives that power, the fulness of the Spirit, to those who go. The command is the consequence of his resurrection glory; and as we obey the command then we have his companionship. Then He tells us what is to be done when we go. He gives the full scheme, "Go ye, teaching (or making disciples of) all nations." I speak with hesitation in the presence of many brethren and sisters from the foreign mission field, but I am sometimes a little afraid that where the Lord said, "Make disciples," our hearts and our efforts may be set on making converts. They are not the same thing. The soul that hears of Christ, believes, and is baptized, is a convert from heathenism; but it does not follow that he is a disciple yet. The Lord says, "Go and make disciples." Do not be content with getting the soul to say, "I believe in Christ, and I am saved." That is all right; but when they have come to Christ we must get them to follow Christ, and to learn in his school, so that those who are not scholars will sometimes want to come into the school also.

"Baptizing them in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost." The outward seal of confession to their faith in Christ; then "teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." We are sometimes inclined to stop at "teaching them"; but there is no full stop till the end of the sentence, and we must not stop where He does not stop. Oh, what a wide subject! "I have seen an end of all perfection; thy commandment is exceeding broad." "All things whatsoever I have commanded you." Not only those few things we have been content to learn, but all things; that is what we are called and commanded to do.

And remember the Lord means to carry out his scheme. There is your part and mine, in the doing of it. Let us not be content with the first step. Do not dig the foundations and then stop; that is an unfinished, untidy kind of work. God wants the whole structure—Christian life, Christian service, Christian worship—all of it. "Oh, but these heathen are so ignorant; they have not got the cultivation that we have; it will take several generations before they can get up to this standard." I do not see that the Lord says anything about generations. It is not "teaching their children all things," but "teaching them." The Apostles went to all sorts of people of different nations, but they had the one message, "Repent, and be baptized, and do the things the Lord commands you." The Lord had commanded, and they were willing to obey, and they did it. There is not a word in the Bible about different capacities, different constitutions, or different temperaments, and all that sort of thing. The Lord has one message for all, whatever be their constitution. Do you suppose his Spirit cannot work with a coarse piece of earth as well as with a fine piece of earth? Is He to be limited by the material He works on? Away with these limitations of God. If He calls us to work among drunkards or outcasts, or amongst the so-called high ones of earth—the most degraded or the most refined and cultivated—the command is, "teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." And lest we should have any doubt left, He adds, "Lo I am with you even to the end of the world." That is the wonderful scheme; now let us set to work at it.

(To be concluded.)

On Hearing and Seeing God.

AN ADDRESS TO MINISTERS

By Rev. ANDREW MURRAY.

In Job xlii. 5, 6 we read: "I have heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear, but now mine eye seeth Thee, wherefore I abhor myself and repent in dust and ashes." You all know how the life of Job was divided into two parts. These verses are the passage from the first to the second half of his life. The whole forty chapters of the book are the tree of which these two verses are the fruit. God's dealings with Job had no object but to bring him to the utterance of these two words. You know what a wonderful difference there was when he had passed through that gate into the blessed life. In the closing chapter we read how God said to Job's friends: "Go, and Job will pray for you." He prayed, and God accepted him for them, so that he became an intercessor, having power with God. You know how God turned his captivity and began to bless him, and blessed him much more than before. A life of spiritual power as an intercessor, and a life in the full blessing of God, is the life to which Job was brought. One would be glad to find out exactly wherein consists the difference between the first and the second half of his life. I think we have it in the fifth verse. He had heard of God hitherto by the hearing of the ear, but now something new came, "Mine eye seeth Thee."

I have said before, and I repeat, that there are two styles of religious life. The one is the life of hearing, and the other that of seeing. It is far easier to hear. I have never been to China, but I can read a book or twenty books about it. I can listen to lectures about the country. But if I could go and see China, what a difference! Though I might read all the books written upon China, one day in the land would give me a clearer impression than all the books. It is easier to hear, but it is unspeakably better to see. You remember what Israel said, "Do not let God speak to us; it is too terrible. Let Moses listen to God and bring his very words to us and we will promise to do them." They wanted to hear and not to see God. How different it was with Moses. He had met God and had heard Him, and God had promised to give his presence. But Moses said, "Show me thy glory." It was not enough to hear the voice of God; Moses wanted direct contact and fellowship with God. And God revealed to him all his long-suffering and his grace. If there is one burden that God has put on my heart in speaking to his children, and especially in speaking to ministers of the Gospel, it is the desire that I could help them by the grace of God to understand clearly and accept fully that which is so often emphasised at Keswick—that there are often

TWO STAGES IN THE CHRISTIAN LIFE.

When a minister fairly gets hold of that and begins to ask, "What is the matter with my people?" and sees clearly that the best sermons won't help them; that to feed them won't help them, but they want to be convicted of their wrong state, he will get a wonderful lift. When he finds out that he is on the wrong side, and must get changed, it will stir his soul to the very depths. And I would like to make clear to you that there were two stages in the life of Job.

What is this life of hearing in the Christian life? It is, that I try chiefly with my mind to get hold of God's blessed truth. It is perfectly right that I should use my mind. I think, I listen, I read, I meditate, and thus try to get hold of the truth. I get hold of it, and it affects my heart and my feeling. But yet, somehow, there is a worm at the root; it does not last. Why? Because it is this religion of hearing. A man may be a true believer and an earnest Christian; he may pray and study, and yet somehow the impressions get lost, the resolutions get broken, and the greatest blessings pass away. That is because there has not been the personal vision, and the personal contact with God. If you want your religion to last, and your life to be always on the right level, God must be your Rock; the unchanging God must be your unchanging life.

As I pondered on what is needed for such a meeting as this, I thought that what a minister needs to be is

A MAN OF GOD.

A prophet in the Old Testament is called a man of God—that is, a man of whom the one mark is, that he comes from God; he is full of God; he serves God, and God is with him. If we get that, all else comes in its right place. The man of God has the all-mighty One working in him. But a man cannot be a man of God unless he can say with Elijah, "The Lord God of Israel before whom I stand." God must take a place in our lives that He has never yet had. Thank God, He has undertaken to reveal Himself to us and show us what He is able to do.

We must see God. Do not ask me how. You know that Jesus said, "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father, and henceforth ye have seen Him and do know Him." What does that mean? The word "henceforth" means the coming of the Holy Ghost. Philip, though he was with Christ, had not seen the Father. But when the Holy Ghost came the word of Jesus came true, "Henceforth ye have seen Him and do know Him." It is not until we get to this point that the vision of God fills our eyes and hearts. The unsearchable mystery of the Great Being in heaven attracts us, and the cry of the heart is: "God, take to-day the place in my life which, as God, Thou art able to take." That is not an impossible prayer. He is able to take such a place that my soul shall walk before Him in deep humility, and in trembling, and in quiet restfulness of peace and joy, that knows that God has me in the hollow of his hand. He is fulfilling his promise, and as the axe in the hand of the woodman so I can be used by my God.

Reference has been made to the ministry of the Word. What can we do to make that word more precious to our people? Let it become to your souls not merely a book. There is danger in talking too much about a book, even though it be inspired by the Spirit of God. Let the word become to you the Word of God, the living God who has overwhelmed you, who has possessed you, who lives around you, about you, and in you. Speak the word, whether in the pulpit or in private life, as from your God. It may be, aye it will be, with imperfection; it must be with fear and trembling; it may be with stammering lips; sometimes it may be with shame; but speak it as the word of the Everlasting God. It is all right to study the Word. I would say study the Word twice as much as you do now. But study God; wait upon God; ask God, by the Holy Spirit, to reveal Himself, not in a fashion that you could necessarily give an account of, but to reveal Himself as the sun reveals himself to us every day. The sun pours his light upon us, even through the clouds. So God can shine in your soul, revealing Himself to your deepest consciousness as your Rock, your Strength, your Hiding-place, and your Portion.

We need—I say it again—to get out of this religion of hearing. That was Job's trouble. He knew God and served God, and God praised him as upright. But with the knowledge that came by the hearing of the ear there was still much self-righteousness and self-effort; and of the curse in your life—self-effort, self-strength, self-righteousness. You may preach in the pulpit the loudest of any man in England against self-righteousness; it will be in you, as it was in Job, until you are brought down to the dust and see God, and abhor yourself in dust and ashes. Some people have said: What is all this talk about death, death, death, and crucifixion? It was death in the case of Job. "I am undone; there is nothing left of me; I have seen God." That is what we need. You may go away from Keswick with your note-books full of beautiful thoughts and your hearts full of beautiful impressions and delightful enjoyment. But if it is a religion that only comes by the hearing of the ear, it will pass away within two months. It has been said, and it is a terrible truth, that the feebleness of our Christianity is this—that men feed themselves on notions, on conceptions, on thoughts, on what they call "truths"; but the real truth, that is, the power of the living God to reach the heart, men seem to know but little and feebly. "I have heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear; but now mine eye seeth Thee; wherefore I abhor myself in dust and ashes"—may that be your and my Keswick blessing.

THAT IS THE ROOT

How shall we get it? Very simply. First of all let us ask and answer to ourselves: Has God taken the place in my heart and life that He ought to have, and that He wishes to have? The answer must be, "O God, Thou hast not." When I think that the everlasting God was waiting to enter and I kept Him outside, then I abhor myself in dust and ashes. Let us set our heart on God; He must be all. Then, remember that it is nothing but a new course of study to find out God that will help us. If you will forgive a personal reference, I might mention that I have lately got a Bible in which I began to mark every place I found the name of God or Lord, or the pronoun He or I. I am amazed at what I have found. In the book of Psalms, for instance, you find that it is full of God, sometimes in every verse. If you go through the whole Book in this way you will get the strong conviction that God ought to be everything in the Bible. Let us resolve that there must be more of God in our hearts and lives. Let us wait upon Him, for it is He alone who can reveal Himself. Let us do it patiently, continually, and carefully, and He will enter our life as never before. But it does not need any waiting to take the step out of the religion of hearing into that of seeing. You can take it at once. Do not leave Keswick till you have left the platform of the self-life and die with Job, and die with Jesus; to be raised with Job and raised with Jesus. God will raise you up to a new life of power and blessing.

Faith and Freedom.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER.

I trust the Holy Spirit may open to us now the first three or four verses of Romans viii. The words are very familiar. Notice that it is a piece of biography. The apostle does not deal simply with doctrine in the abstract, but with his own deep and blessed experience. Pointing back to what was a definite past moment, and which is brought out in the Revised Version by the word "made" (in the old version it is "has made") the apostle says, "At that moment I was made free." What was done for the apostle may be done for every one here. In all aftertime you may refer to this meeting and say, "That night God made me free."

The apostle meant first that he was freed from perpetual self-condemnation. That word has generally been taken as applying to justification. I think he concludes his statement of justification in chap. v., and now from chap. vi. onward, he is dealing with sanctification; and therefore the condemnation that is not ours is the condemnation of an accusing conscience, arising from a perpetual sense of failure, of which chap. vii. is full. There are many here who, though in their standing before God in Christ, so far as justification is concerned, are for ever free from the condemnation of God's law, are not free from the condemnation of their own sense of failure. You have an ideal but you do not realise it. With your mind you serve the law of God, but with your flesh the law of sin. You are perpetually condemning yourself, and it is from that that you may be set free to-night. God is waiting to set you free from the depressing sense of not realising his ideal. Yonder an eagle is chained to its perch and unable to soar; if that chain is broken the lordly bird will be free, not to walk on the ground, not to live on the sea, but free to obey the law of its own grand and glorious nature. When we are set free it is not to do as we like, but to be able to obey the holy law of God who had appealed to us, but we were so fettered by our own evil habits that we could not obey the law or fly in the pure air of truth. Therefore, always remember that when God makes you free it is not to do as you like, but as He likes and has taught you to desire.

Please note that this freedom is for all who are in Christ Jesus. It is not necessary for you to pass through any very striking or vast experience; all you need is to wake up to see what it is. You are in Him. Directly we believe in Jesus Christ we are in Him. If you have within you yearnings, desires, and promptings which are quite fresh to you, you most certainly are in Christ by faith. You have been in Christ, perhaps, for ten, fifteen, or twenty years, but you have never realised that to be in Christ is to be within reach of perfect freedom. We do not come here by any excitement to work you up into a state of emotion which will carry you over the bar into a deeper, richer life. We simply desire, by opening up the Word of God, without any emotion, to show you what is within your reach in Jesus Christ your Saviour. You are living on soil which is rich in diamonds, only you have not realised up till now that they were there. You are like the slaves in the Southern States of America. Directly Lincoln signed the edict of emancipation every man was free; but a good many of them went on serving their old masters because they were ignorant of their freedom. God has signed the edict of your emancipation; realise your freedom and tell Satan it is no use his cracking the whip over you.

Let us clearly understand how we are free. The work of the Saviour and the work of the Spirit are one. First in Jesus we apprehend God's sentence on the flesh, and then in Jesus we receive the spirit of life. That is the twofold aspect of the work of Christ as it concerns sanctification. The first aspect of His death is towards justification—justification, because Jesus Christ on the Cross was an offering for sin. We never get away from that except as the builder gets away from the foundation; he is most heavily on it when he is farthest from it. But as to sanctification, in the cross of Jesus Christ we see the likeness of sinful flesh. I would not have dared to say it—that my blessed, stainless, holy Lord was there in the likeness of sinful flesh. Here is a mystery which I confess I cannot define or fathom; I can only state it. When we first feel the weight of sin we look up into the face of Jesus, and see Him dying there as our propitiation. Very often years pass (though they need not), and then the soul comes back to the cross, there it sees not only a sacrifice for sin, but it sees its flesh, its self-life, in effigy (if I may dare use the word) transfixed to the cross. What? Did my God, in the person of his Son, and because He wore a garment of flesh, nail that flesh to the Cross? Is it possible that the divinity of Christ could not save the flesh from such condemnation? Then what an awful thing the flesh must be in me. If it was condemned in its likeness in Christ, what must it not be in me, where it dwells not in likeness only, but in reality and power? When we come to the cross the second time we see that our God has put the flesh-life, the self-life, on the cross, and we hear the words: "Cursed is everything that hangeth on a tree." You say, If God condemned the flesh in his sinless Son, I cannot count it to be a principle of sanctification for myself. You begin to reckon that true in your life which is true in the reckoning of God in Jesus Christ. It is a great fact in a man's life when he sees that. And the self-life is not to be thus treated simply in its vulgar manifestations—that of the felon, the thief, or the outcast woman; but the good self is to be thus regarded even more than the bad self. I think a good many of us who have got free from the self-life dressed in sweep's clothes, cease to recognise it when it is clad in angel garb. A white devil is more to be feared than a black one; and the self-life which is always seeking to sanctify itself is as much to be dreaded as the old black dastardly self from which we hoped to be delivered when we were converted. God help us to die day by day to the self-life in every form.

Then comes the other side—the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus makes me free. I am not able to define whether this "Spirit of life" is the spirit of life in the living Saviour, or whether it is the living Spirit living the life of Jesus in me. It does not much matter which, but I want you to see how the Holy Spirit works by law. If you want to be delivered from the working of adverse law, it is only by the introduction of favouring law. It is law cancelling law. All mechanics are the setting of law against law. Miracle is the introduction of higher law to the lower law. What is the bird's flight but the introduction of the law of expansiveness of air when struck, which makes the bird free from the downward pull of the law of gravitation. Thus the law of the spirit of life makes us free from the law of sin and death, if we yield to the action of the Holy Ghost. In every man's body there is waste always at work. Every time I move the hand there is waste. That would clog the veins and arteries and induce death, but as I breathe in the air into my lungs the blood gets saturated in oxygen, and the little barges of the corpuscles which go up to the wharf of the lungs to be charged with oxygen, go down the stream of the blood and bear the oxygen to the waste tissues. As the oxygen touches them it burns them up, and the law of the spirit of life which I inhale makes me free from the collection of debris which would induce death. Moment by moment, as we walk in the Spirit, live in the Spirit, breathe in the Spirit, the work of the Holy Ghost sets us free from the constant waste and corruption of the law of sin and death. All that we have to do is to keep in with the Holy Ghost.

I close here, but I want you to notice the contrast between the aorist and the present tense, "God made me free" (ver. 2). Possibly that was in God's purpose when Jesus died and the Spirit came; or it may be at a definite moment when the soul apprehended God's purpose and was set free. But notice the present tense, "Who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." If you desire to know how to walk after the Spirit you are told in the next verse you must "mind the things of the Spirit." What the things of the Spirit are you are told in verse 6. Everything that deteriorates your life, avoid; everything that disturbs or breaks your peace, avoid. These are the blessed signs of being in the Spirit. So walk in the light, in the love, in the peace of God. Keep your soul ever open to these blessed influences. Do not worry about the dying side; be taken up with the living side; live on the life side, and you will be drawn away from the corrupt and evil side. You will know more and more what it is to walk in the Spirit, and as you yield to the Spirit you will know that you are free. Do not try to feel it, but go by the reckoning of faith, and you will find indeed that by the indwelling of the Spirit you are free from the law of sin and death.

Conference Echoes.

MINISTERS' MEETINGS.

Prebendary Webb-Peploe struck an important keynote at the first ministers' meeting on Tuesday morning of Conference week. There was, he said, something better for us than the moaning life of failure and sin. The howling wilderness was not intended to be our constant experience. It was to be passed through. But in every wilderness there was a Sinai, an occasion for definite dealing with God. In conversion God gives and man takes; in consecration man gives and God takes. When the act of consecration is made there is an absolute transfer of possession of ourselves to God. It would be sacrilege for the Israelite to attempt to withdraw from the fire that which he had given and God had accepted. We may never take back what we have given to God.

Rev. Andrew Murray followed with a very practical and searching word. From 1 Cor. ii. 5, he reminded us that there was a faith which stood only in the wisdom of men. The root reason for failure after a Convention was that people had listened to teachers and to teaching, but had no direct dealing with God. We must have to do with Him who condemns sin, and who reveals what it is to be in union with Christ. The work of the minister was not to stand between men and God, and to receive something from God to pass on to men, but to lead the people to direct contact with Him.

Rev. F. B. Meyer reminded us of John iii. 30, that as Christ increases in us self decreases. Subtle forms of the working of self were laid bare—the minister's professionalism, pulpit reputation, fussy busy activities. To these, and every form of self, are to reckon ourselvesas dead. In the purpose of we God our sanctification is completed. We were represented in Christ's presentation of Himself to God. The very heart and essence of his death was the sacrifice of his will—"I come to do thy will." To recognise our identity with Him in this sacrifice is to be prepared for his will, even when it leads down to the dust of death.

Five words in Luke iv. 14, suggested Dr. Elder Cumming's closing message. The words are, "in the power of the Spirit." The power of God in which our faith is to stand is the power of the Spirit. Power in the ministry is impossible apart from power in the life. It was in connection with taking a journey, going to another place, that Jesus was said to be "in the power of the Spirit." The Spirit took Him. "I cannot take Christ to a meeting; Christ must take me."

At the second meeting for ministers on Thursday Rev. C. A. Fox presided, and practical addresses were given by Preb. Webb-Peploe, and Rev. F. S. Webster. The closing exhortation by Rev. Andrew Murray will be found on the preceding page.

THE EVANGELISTIC WORK.

For years past much Gospel work, chiefly in the open air, has been done in Keswick during Convention time by many of the evangelists who have attended the gatherings. This year the daily evangelistic meetings were made an integral part of the programme; and they were put under the very competent charge of Mr. W. R. Lane. Each evening, in the market square, when the weather permitted, meetings were held, and many experienced speakers proclaimed the Gospel message to the crowds that assembled.

On the Saturday evening of Conference week a Gospel meeting was held in the tent, and was a season of deep spiritual interest.

A meeting of workers followed, to arrange for visiting the courts and alleys of the town on Sunday morning. At half-past ten about 250 willing workers and singers, divided into four bands, assembled in the market and spent two hours in visiting the poorer districts of the town. About 2000 assembled in the tent at 3 p.m. on Sunday, when Mr. Lane spoke with much power to a great assembly. At the evening meeting, at eight o'clock, the large tent was filled in every part. Mr. Lane told the story of his conversion with thrilling interest and profound impression. A large number of young men and a goodly number of the townsfolk came forward to be prayed for, and were dealt with personally, many testifying to the power of God to save. The workers were kept busy till eleven o'clock.

On Wednesday evening of last week a meeting was held for the townspeople, lodging-house keepers, and their servants, in the New Hall. Christian friends attending the Convention supplied those who waited upon them with free tickets for tea. About 500 sat down to an excellent tea, and were waited upon by about fifty willing workers. At eight o'clock an evangelistic meeting was held by Mr. Lane. Mrs. Raphael, who sang solos at the meetings in the Tent on the previous Saturday and Sunday, sang "The Ninety and Nine," every word going home to a specially-attentive audience. Mr. Lane spoke for forty-five minutes with great earnestness, and an after-meeting was held, at which many were personally dealt with by the workers.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR.

The Christian Endeavourers availed themselves of the opportunity afforded from the large gatherings at Keswick to summon a "rally" in the Congregational church on the Friday afternoon. There was a large gathering, including representatives from about forty societies—Madagascar, India, California, Illinois, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, and all parts of England. The meeting took the form of consecration, and most interesting responses were given. All were especially touched when the brother from Antananarivo pleaded for prayer and sympathy on behalf of the tried and persecuted C.E.'s in Madagascar.

The meeting was presided over by Rev. T. W. Herd, pastor. Rev. F. B. Meyer had prepared an address, but as time did not permit of its delivery he said a few earnest words to show how God wants us, our whole selves, more than our mere work. He then proposed a lake meeting for the following afternoon, in order that he might carry out his intention. On Saturday afternoon about twenty-five well-laden boats left the landing-steps for a bay on the opposite side of the lake, where the Endeavourers ranged themselves on the slope of the wooded shore, and listened to never-to-be-forgotten words. Mr. Meyer founded his remarks on 2 Cor. i. 21 and 22, and spoke of "the stablished heart, the special anointing required for each special work, and the safety, secrecy, and solidity ensured by the sealing of the Spirit."

A "FRIEND'S" VIEW.

Keswick Convention is not an easy thing to report—no report can give an adequate idea of it; it is a thing to be experienced. We have heard much criticism of it, even from Christian people, but the power of God, which is undoubtedly manifested there, must disarm criticism; you have only to look at hundreds of faces there to know without any word being spoken that it is the peace of God which alone lights up the face like that. We sat one day in the choir seats, raised slightly above the rest, and looked over that great sea of earnest faces, and felt again the presence of God. All sorts and conditions of people are there, rich and poor, burly farmers, labouring men and women, strong young soldiers, contingents from the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., and the Y.P.S.C.E., as well as from our Universities; and Christian workers of all kinds, home and foreign, representatives of all sorts of denominations, including quite a sprinkling of Friends, all met here with one object, and all one in Christ Jesus.—The Friend.

A WORD OF PROTEST.

In an excellent sketchy review of the convention meetings in The Record of last week, Mr. Eugene Stock has the following timely remarks:—

"I must mention with regret the new tendency of certain societies and missions to hold separate meetings for themselves, in two or three cases with collections. This is entirely contrary to the spirit of the Convention, and in the teeth of the express request of the conveners. If it goes on, it will transform Keswick into a happy hunting-ground for secretaries who want money. Anything more destructive of the broad basis and self-forgetting spirit and spiritual tone that have hitherto marked the Convention cannot be imagined. Voluntary offerings made by individuals at the great missionary meeting, for any good cause under the sun, at their own discretion, and without a word of appeal for this or that object, are totally different. But even if there be no collections, the competition of rival meetings got up in the interest of particular objects, and advertised by printed bills thrust into your hands as you leave the tent, is most distracting and incongruous. Some people now come to Keswick, not to come under or to help its spiritual influence, but to push their own particular causes. This is one of the perils attending the growing popularity of the Convention, and not the only one. The leaders are quite alive to the fact that to be popular is to be in danger, and warnings about it occurred in several of the addresses. Nevertheless, this year's Convention has been a time of more real blessing than could rightly be enlarged upon in the columns of a newspaper, and many will thank God for having brought them to the Keswick of 1895."

Students at Keswick.

[By a Special Correspondent.]

The deep and prayerful interest manifested at the opening of the Conference, on Monday week, has grown with the deliberations, and the week now closing has proved a time of earnest heart-searching to all present. As a result, those already devoted to foreign missions have been strengthened in their determination to bring Christ to the heathen, while many others have come forward and volunteered to devote their lives to the same work. The Spirit of God has been working mightily with all those devoted to home as well as to foreign work.

About 200 students attended the Conference. The lady students numbered about seventy. This is almost double the number present last year, a fact which speaks volumes for the progress of the Students' Volunteer Union among the ladies' colleges in Great Britain. The ladies found lodgings chiefly at The Towers, Portinscale; while the men, numbering about 130, found accommodation at the Students' Encampment. Camp life has its disadvantages, especially in wet weather. Those living under canvas during Convention week found that "it sometimes rains at Keswick." But even during the two days' downpour of that time, tent life at the Students' Camp was fairly comfortable, and all through the fine weather of the Conference week it was decidedly enjoyable. In addition to this, living in camp is cheaper than living outside, a fact of some importance to many present. Delegates from Germany, France, America, and Scandinavia attended the meetings. All the principal English and Scotch universities and colleges were represented, and Dublin and Belfast supplied contingents.

There were five meetings daily. To two of these the public were invited, and many availed themselves of the opportunity. The programme included discussions on the best methods of increasing and consolidating the Students' Volunteer Christian Union; "The Freshmen's Campaign," or how freshmen can best be reached, and their hearts and sympathies won for Christ, on their entrance to university life; Bible-readings; reports of work done in the past, and platform addresses. The Bible-readings were conducted by Miss Wilson Carmichael, Rev. F. B. Meyer, Professor Gladstone, Mr. Mott (delegate from the American Inter-University Christian Union), and others.

INTEREST CHIEFLY CENTRED

around the proposals for the extension and consolidation of the work at home, and the "Freshmen's Campaign." The field is a wide one. There are at least 122 universities and colleges in Great Britain and Ireland. In these there are about 40,000 students, "the flower of Britain's sons. They are to be our lawyers, our physicians, our scientists, our members of Parliament, and the future leaders of our nation's religious, social, and political life." Our universities and colleges are the centres from which influences for the future, for good or evil, will radiate. The aim of the Students' Union is to capture these for Christ, and make them the strongholds of his Church. None are better qualified for the work than those who are in touch with students and know something of the advantages as well as perils of college life.

That Union has hitherto been called the Inter-university Christian Union. But as not one-fifth of the college life of England is included in the universities, a broader basis had to be found, and the name has been changed to the "British College Christian Union." The object of the Union is to unite in one Christian organisation all British Colleges, the aims and objects of which are in full harmony with the belief in Jesus Christ as God the Son, and the only Saviour of the world. Theological colleges are sought to be included in this, also.

A MOST IMPORTANT STEP

in the promotion of the association is the winning of the freshmen for Christ on their first appearance at the universities. They are the men of the future. But recently separated from home and kindred, they are especially subject to temptation and loneliness, and very susceptible of kindness. Mr. Williamson, of Edinburgh University, gave a number of valuable suggestions for helping them. Plans must be laid beforehand. The masters of the schools from which they come must be corresponded with, then the students themselves, and kindly offers of help made on their coming to the University. They should be laid hold of upon their arrival; surrounded by healthy and helpful influences; enlisted in work if possible, and above all got to decide definitely for Christ. In this way many will be put in the right way who would otherwise drift. The object aimed at is threefold—(a) to bring the freshmen into contact with the Association, (b) to bring them to know Christ, and (c) to aim at the completion of Christ's kingdom.

It is from the College Christian Association that the members of the Students' Volunteer Missionary Union are drawn. Every member of the latter must be a volunteer for foreign missionary work. The membership of the S.V.M.U. has grown from 700 to 955 in the past year; 151 volunteers have gone out to the mission field, twenty-one have hitherto been detained by various causes, such as home work, home responsibilities, etc., and six have died. The Union publishes a quarterly, entitled The Student Volunteer. Three numbers of a new series have been issued this year. Four pamphlets on the missionary department of the students' work have also been issued since the beginning of the movement. The Union also seeks to arouse and deepen the spiritual life of the students who give themselves to home missions. They go forward in faith, and regardless of financial crises in some of our missionary societies; they labour on to increase their membership, trusting the Lord of the harvest to send out and supply the needs of his reapers as He requires them.

A call to daily thanksgiving and prayer has been issued by the executive of the Students' Volunteer Missionary Union for an International Missionary Conference of Students, to be held at Liverpool from January 1 to 5, 1896. The Conference will have for object:

(1) To emphasise the purpose, progress, and possibilities of the volunteer movement.

(2) To stimulate missionary enthusiasm among students generally.

(3) To rouse the Church to greater missionary effort.

A CRITICAL PERIOD

in the history of the Union has now arrived. Volunteers are offering freely, distinguished students of our universities and colleges are coming forward, and declaring their willingness to carry the Gospel to the heathen; it remains for the different churches to do their part and send them forth. Foreign universities are expected to be strongly represented, and a wider extension of the movement in European universities is anticipated as a result.

There are some seventy theological colleges, exclusive of Roman Catholic ones, in Great Britain, and it may be asked what part their students are taking in this great movement. An effort has been made during the last eighteen months to unite them in prayer and hearty Christian co-operation, and this has now become a definite and organic part of the Union's work. A special committee of four has been appointed to represent respectively the Divinity Schools of England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland, with one of their numbers as advising secretary, to act along with the general executive of the Union. The work is of God; that is manifest, and new ideals are taking possession of Divinity men as they contemplate the splendid possibilities that lie wrapped up in its future.

A striking proof of answer to prayer was afforded at one of the afternoon meetings. About 300 people were present, and of these quite 200 were students. The secretary, Mr. Donald Frazer, announced that the extraordinary expenditure for the year, in consequence of the projected Liverpool Conference, referred to already, would probably amount to £500. He made an earnest appeal to those present to aid as best they could in the raising of this sum. One friend present gave a donation of 100 guineas, another £100, a third £50, while the total sum paid down, or promised before next December, amounted to £552 4s.

An interesting feature of Friday's proceedings was the address delivered by Sir George Williams. The audience accorded him a very warm welcome. His address took the form of an appeal for closer union between the Students' Union and the Young Men's Christian Association. Amalgamation for the present, at least, was impossible, but Sir George and other speakers who followed pleaded for active co-operation in work for the Master, between the Societies.

Very helpful addresses were delivered by Mr. Mott (American delegate) on prayer. His words were with power, and the heart-searchings they induced will long be remembered by those present. Mr. Wishard, another American delegate, gave an interesting account of his work in the colleges of Japan, China, India, and elsewhere, and disclosed a prospect of work among the students of these colleges that was a revelation to all present. There are glorious opportunities of working for the Master among these young men, who are fast rejecting heathenism, but have not yet learned much, if anything, of Christianity. Rev. H. E. Fox, of Durham, who is a power for Christ in that centre of learning, gave a helpful and practical Bible reading on Saturday on "Christ as the Great Missionary," and appealed to all present to be missionaries for the Master, either in the home or foreign field. A united communion in St. John's Church on Sunday morning, and a consecration meeting in the evening, concluded a conference that will be long remembered by those who were present.

GREAT ASSEMBLY HALL.

During July, although the weather was most unsettled, Mr. Charles Inglis had some extremely good audiences. The Sundays were mostly wet, and consequently the attendances were not up to the average. The only meeting that has kept up its numbers has been the prayer meeting on Saturday night, when not less than 900 have met to praise God for his goodness and seek help for the Sunday work.

The week night services were held in the vestibule, which was crowded nightly. Abutting as it does on the main entrance, scores of strangers were attracted, and stood and listened to the faithful proclamation of the Gospel from our brother's lips. After-meetings were held in the hall, and many good results followed the preaching. Many who brought friends for whom they have long prayed are praising God for answering prayer in their salvation. Miss Ethel Inglis, who has a sweet voice, sang on Sunday evenings. For Mr. Inglis's twenty-third year's visit God be praised; may he be spared, as someone said, "for twenty-three years more." K.

CONSUMPTIVES AT BROMPTON.—Since May 31, 248 patients have been received at the Hospital for Consumption, Brompton, of whom no less than "204 had been discharged, many greatly benefited," so says the quarterly report just issued. This is a most useful charity, deserving of wide support.

DR. NEVE reports much work and many encouragements, in the Kashmir Mission Hospital, adding: "From time to time we hear of things which show that the work is not fruitless. One young fellow died in hospital, who said that the late Dr. Forman, of Lahore, had led him to believe Christ, and that he now wanted to confess Him. Similarly we hear from the Punjab of one here and another there being baptised, who first heard the good tidings from us. In the Punjab there is still a rising tide of enquiry, and the news comes that in Jummoo, the southern capital of Kashmir, some have become Christians. And so we look for the time when the same influences at work shall overflow the passes and fill even spiritually barren Kashmir with the spirit of enquiry and decision."

A MEDICAL MISSION BREAKFAST.

The British Medical Association held, last week, a successful series of meetings in London, and it seemed but right that medical missions should make themselves heard. To this end the Edinburgh and the London Medical Missionary Associations combined with the C.M.S. Medical Missions Committee in issuing invitations to the members of the profession to a Medical Mission Breakfast. This was held on Thursday morning, in Exeter Hall, and was well attended—evidently to a large extent by those genuinely interested in the work. Sir William Broadbent, Bart., M.D., presided.

Dr. A. C. Lankester (C.M.S., Amritsar) gave an account of Medical Mission work among the Sikhs of North India. Addressing himself wisely and well to his professional audience, he entered more fully into technical details than he would in a general missionary meeting, but in such company it was evidently the best thing to do, for his various illustrations of the utter neglect of sanitary and other precautions, and lack of skilled assistance, told with great effect. While fully recognising the work of the Government hospitals, he showed the special need for mission dispensaries and hospitals and manfully nailed his colours to the mast in declaring his first aim to be the breaking down of prejudice, and the setting forth of the Gospel.

The medical mission in Amritsar, the central city of the Sikhs, was started by Dr. Clark thirteen years ago. We have working under us (said the speaker) about twenty-five native assistants; all but two are, we believe, earnest Christians, and most of them, if we except those who are students sent to us by other missioniaries for training, have not only been with us for many years, but have been brought to Christ through the agency of the medical mission itself. At Amritsar all our workers are Christians, and our house-surgeon is the son of the well-known Dr. Imad-ud-din. We meet every morning for a time of Bible study, and pray for God's blessing on our work. After that time of quiet we pass to the verandah, where the patients have been gathering in readiness for the evangelistic service, a simple Gospel address being given either by myself or one of our workers, for we try as far as possible to train all our workers to be evangelists. After the service is over the patients pass, one after another, through the consulting-room. Proceeding, he told of hundreds relieved of suffering, scores of blind restored to sight, and many who were hopelessly ill restored to life again; of 40,000 and more new cases treated at the hospital and dispensaries during the past year, a total attendance of over 80,000. Closing a telling address, he called with much point and urgency for fresh volunteers for medical mission service.

Dr. Torrance, of Tiberias, who revealed a fund of humour which captivated his hearers, told how, when a student at the age of twenty, he was led to devote his life to medical missions, and to turn his thoughts to Palestine. Visiting the Holy Land in company with Dr. Vartan, of Nazareth, he was sadly impressed by the appalling lack of medical treatment. The people had simply to suffer and die. India has its Government hospitals; Palestine has nothing. This the speaker illustrated in forceful terms, showing the dire results in pain, helplessness, and death. Having told of beginnings at Tiberias, and of initial difficulties with the Turkish officials, he described his hospital as, to his mind "as good as St. Bartholomew's," and gave some instances of successful treatment and of spiritual results.

A few words followed in conclusion by Dr. Sargood Fry, on the work of the Edinburgh Medical Missionary Association in training students for mission service at home and abroad.

"HELP FOR BRAZIL."—The leaders of this mission have resolved on special endeavours to reach the Indians of the Amazon and its tributaries. The few attempts of other workers have ended in collapse and abandonment; and, as far as is known, no one is at present carrying the Gospel to these people. They are undoubtedly amongst the "all men" for whom Christ died, and they do not know it. At the thought of "the wild red man, in his native solitudes, who, though not lacking in native intelligence, is so low in point of knowledge, that he is nothing more nor less than a giant baby," a longing desire must arise for these lost ones to be gathered into the fold of the Good Shepherd. Details may be had from the secretary, Mrs. Kalley, Campo Verde, Tipperlinn-road, Edinburgh.

CONVENTION AT DUNOON.

Dunoon on the Clyde is one of the most popular resorts of the inhabitants of Glasgow and its vicinity, during the summer time. A convention was held in the Borough Hall on the Wednesday and Thursday of last week, on the important truth of the return of the Lord Jesus. Many of the visitors to Dunoon availed themselves of the opportunity to attend the meetings. Such conventions must be to profit, when they are free from the wild speculations of dateism, and when the Scriptures in their searchingness and simplicity are appealed to alone. Mr. Gould, of Birkenhead, presided throughout.

Dr. Neatby and Mrs. Needham gave the opening addresses. The former gave an address on 1 Thess. i. 9, 10, as indicating the proper attitude of the Church, namely, waiting for Christ; and the latter dwelt upon the history of the Shekinah glory. In the evening Pastor Marsh spoke upon the five-fold reference to the title "Lord," as found in 1 Thess. iv. 15-17, and gave an alliteration in connection with the same, viz., revelation, reality, relationship, rejoicing, and rest. Mr. Alexander Stewart dwelt upon the two-fold manifestation of Christ as found in John xiv.—his spiritual manifestation to the obedient believer, and his future manifestation when He fulfils his promise and takes his people to himself. On Thursday afternoon Rev. G. C. Needham gave an interesting address on the coming of the Lord, in relation to Israel's future. In the evening Dr. Neatby reminded us of our twofold adoption. Adoption, we possess in Christ now, as to our souls, but we are waiting for adoption, as it relates to our bodies (Rom. viii. 23). Mr. Needham called attention to the threefold aspect of salvation; and Pastor F. E. Marsh dwelt upon the practicality of the blessed hope by noting the seven "therefores" of Rom. xiii. 12; 1 Cor. xv. 58; Col. iii. 5; 1 Thess. iv. 18; Phil. iv. 1; 2 Tim. iv. 1; and 2 Peter iii. 14.

It was felt by all that the Convention was a profitable one, and that it must result to the glory of God in stimulating the lives of God's people in greater devotion to Him. M.

REV. ANDREW MURRAY.

An earnest desire having been expressed that Christian workers in the east and other parts of London should have the opportunity of meeting with this valued servant of God, it has been arranged that Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 9 and 10, shall be set apart for a series of meetings for humiliation, waiting upon God, and exhortation, to take place at the Great Assembly Hall, Mile-end-road, kindly lent by Mr. F. N. Charrington.

Further notice will be given when arrangements are completed. Meantime it is earnestly requested that these dates may be reserved. Mr. Murray is very desirous that those who attend should, as far as practicable, arrange to be present during the whole time, in order that nothing may hinder the quiet, continued waiting of the soul upon God.

Any communications may be addressed to Mr. Albert A. Head, Corrie Lodge, Wimbledon.

MOVEMENT IN TIBET.

The latest news from Tibet is that the Dalai Lama, who counts some nineteen years of age, has taken into his own hands the temporal as well as the spiritual power, and is proclaimed ruler. This action is supposed to be taken by every Dalai Lama upon reaching 18 years, but for a century none have ever attained that age, their transmigration having been brought about during their minority by an untimely assisted death (poison).

The post of the Devashung, the Lama who wields temporal power during the minority of the Dalai Lama, is now done away with, and the Dalai Lama has informed the Chinese resident (the Amban) at Lhasa that he owes no allegiance to the Amban's master—the Emperor of China.

LAMBETH WALK MISSION.—Mr. Goodman's new report shows that God is blessing the Mission. The Gospel services have been well attended, and many tokens have been given of the power of God in converting sinners. The outdoor services, as well as the Gospel temperance meetings, are well sustained. The details of the Benevolent work show the great need for such an agency of kindly help in time of distress. The treasurer is Dr. Oswald, 245, Kennington-road, S.E.

WORK AT GIBRALTAR.

It is with deep gratitude to God that we record the continuance of his blessing upon our work in Gibraltar. Letters received from soldiers who have passed on to India, China, Ceylon, Egypt, Malta, the Cape, Mauritius, and other places, tell that they are enduring hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ, and seeking to please Him who has chosen them to be his soldiers. The places have been filled up by others who have come.

Captain Armstrong writes that the meetings are increasing in numbers, and almost every night there are decisions for Christ. He also tells of good times in the bay among the merchant sailors. Our Temperance Coffee Room, if not a financial, is a spiritual success. Many who come in for the bread that perishes find Him who gave his flesh for the life of the world.

In February God graciously visited our work in Algeciras. One week eleven persons who had been attending the meetings professed to find peace through believing. During my visit a few weeks ago I found the Lord had added not a few to our primitive church. With one of the sisters I visited the homes of the members, and was deeply touched by the testimonies they gave, and by their devotion to the Lord Jesus. One dear woman said: "It is only three and a-half years since I knew the Lord; but how could I know Him sooner? There was no one to tell us the way of salvation until the mission was opened."

Another said, "Three years ago I heard Mr. Watson tell of the joy and peace the believer had, and asked him on what conditions the peace could be mine. He said, on condition that I forsook my sin and received the Lord Jesus as my Saviour. I did this, and have had peace ever since." Her sister, daughter, and husband, have been brought to Christ since then.

Another old woman said, "It is four months since I was cleansed by the blood, and since then I have been so happy. I tell the Lord Jesus everything, and ask Him to help me; and I wish you were there to see how He helps me." A brother who was converted last year is very happy because his wife, who was a great bigot, has been saved. She says her home is a very peaceful one since she gave herself to the Lord. This woman and two others were baptized three weeks ago.

Since then Miss Sutch writes: "Dona Maria, Lolo, and Frasqueta, were baptized last Sunday. The service was quiet and simple, the women so peaceful and happy. About eighteen of us gathered at the seaside. I had a talk with Lolo on the way home; she wants to follow the Lord closely. Some of the children in our day-school (there is an attendance of about sixty) have given proof of their conversion; their influence for good on the children is very marked, and when the meetings are thrown open for prayer and testimony, one is deeply touched by hearing their simple prayers and testimonies."

Like the people of Thessalonica these believers have turned to God from sin to serve the living and true God, and to wait for his Son from heaven. The stormy weather has told heavily on our houses on both sides of the Bay, which have been repaired and repainted. We need about £300 for present necessities, and there is still owing about £300 on our homes.—Yours in glad service,

Alice Todd Osborne.

Rysland, Newton Mearns, N.B.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For parish work at Clacton-on-Sea.—For a tent mission in the north-western district of London.

"THE C.M.S. INTELLIGENCER" for August contains, among other good matter, an important article on Dr. Miller's recent lecture in Madras, challenging seriously his presentation of the Hindu and Christian ideals, and "his defective presentment of the glorious and unique personality of the Lord Jesus Christ." In a letter in the Madras Christian College Magazine the Principal explains various points in the lecture which have caused uneasiness in missionary circles.

SANDWICH MEN.—A party of these humble but useful members of the community connected with the Bessbrook Home in Queen-square, W.C., have recently spent a delightful holiday under canvas at Dymchurch, near Folkestone. A shadow fell on the little circle through the death, by a kick from a horse, of the manager's second girl, aged eight. The men carried her body to its last resting-place, and the sad event had a rectifying effect on these men, who have in most cases led a very rough and reckless life.

OBITUARY.

DEATHS ON THE MISSION FIELD.

The Christian Alliance records with deep regret the sorrowful tidings that three of its best missionaries, viz., Messrs. Luscomb and Leger, and Miss Drew have fallen, from African fever, in the Soudan. Mr. Leger has been several years on the field, Mr. Luscomb and Miss Drew had only gone out with the last party. They were all missionaries of the very highest type, and their loss is beyond the power of language to express.

MR. JOSEPH HUNTLEY, READING.

Many Christian workers will hear with much regret of the death on Wednesday, July 24, at the ripe age of eighty-seven, of Mr. Joseph Huntley, one of the original partners in the firm of Messrs. Huntley and Palmer, Reading. This warm and generous friend and supporter of evangelistic and temperance work was a life-long member of the Society of Friends, of which he was an honoured minister. He was closely associated with the late Mr. W. Isaac Palmer in many good works.

MRS. GREEN, FINCHLEY.

Many will hear with regret that the beloved wife of Dr. Green, of Bouverie-street and Finchley, passed away on the 30th ult., leaving her husband with seven little ones to mourn her loss. Mrs. Green was a daughter of the late Mr. Lynn, of Fleet-street, and two of her brothers gave themselves to Mission service, one dying in South Central Africa, and the other being still labouring in India. Mrs. Green herself was known and loved by many for her quiet faithful testimony and consistent walk with God. The interment, which took place on Saturday, at Abney Park, was preceded by a service in Clapton Hall.

PROFESSOR BABINGTON.

Cambridge has lost one of its most revered and distinguished professors. On Monday, July 22, after nearly four years of suffering and weakness, borne with a patience, peace and praise which never failed, the gentle, saintly spirit of Charles Cardale Babington passed into the presence of the Saviour whom he had loved and served with unfaltering faithfulness and devotion for so many years. As a portrait and biographical sketch will appear in an early number, we refrain at present from further particulars of a loss which not only removes one of the very greatest of living botanists but one of the most loyal and humble servants of the Lord Jesus Christ.

REV. CORRIE JACKSON.

The chaplain of the Foundling Hospital died early on Sunday morning at a south coast watering-place, after an illness so short that the mournful news telegraphed to town and briefly alluded to by the morning preacher in the chapel of the institution (Rev. A. R. Buckland) must have come as a painful surprise to many in the large congregation. Mr. Jackson had been in indifferent health of late, but still capable enough for work to have been at his post last Sunday week. His death means a real loss for the Foundling Hospital, where his quietly sympathetic ministrations had been most valuable. He was between forty and fifty years of age, and will be remembered by the Cambridge athletes of his time as a long-distance runner. He leaves a young family—now orphaned, as Mrs. Jackson predeceased her husband some few years ago.

REV. DR. JEFFREY, GLASGOW.

We regret to record the death, at his residence, Wester Craigs, Dennistoun, of Rev. Dr. Robert Jeffrey. The death of the elder brother eight years ago fell with crushing effect upon the family. It laid the foundation of that illness to which the elder sister has just succumbed; and Dr. Robert was never his old self again. For the last two years he had been very feeble; and the communion in his church, somewhat over a year ago, was the last occasion on which he was able to worship with his people. Gradually he grew weaker, but the end was hastened by the death of his elder sister. This was a blow that seemed to stun him; his whole system received a shock from which it never rallied; and the third day after her death saw his own. Very touching were the circumstances of it. When the mourners were assembling for the funeral he was all unconscious and his strength fast failing, and when the devotional services in the sister's adjoining house had been concluded, and the funeral cortege was just about to start, he passed away.

Dr. Jeffrey was born in Leitholm, Berwickshire; received his literary and philosophic training in the University of Edinburgh; and passed his theological course in the Hall of the Secession Church. The twelve years of his ministry in Denny were bright and happy years. By and bye there came to him invitations to fill other and larger spheres of labour. When the few who formed the nucleus of what is now Caledonia-road were congregated, their eyes were turned to Denny for a pastor. They called Dr. Jeffrey; their call was accepted; and he was duly inducted on April 29, 1856. His ministry was assured from the beginning. The congregation grew steadily. Dr. Jeffrey was abundant in labours. Among these were courses of Sabbath evening lectures, which were largely attended. In a short time he built up an influential congregation. His people devised liberal things, and numerous missionary and benevolent agencies were organised and energetically wrought. In every respect he was a remarkable man. As a preacher he took a high place. His theology was the old Scottish theology, the theology of Boston and the Erskines. His sermons were framed on the old lines whose value has been so long attested by many a devout hearer. They were not dry and metaphysical disquisitions, nor mere doctrinal discussions; they set forth the great central doctrines of our faith in their fulness, in their proper connection, and always with a practical aim. The Cross of Christ vitalised all his teaching; and the doctrines of the Cross were presented with great power, and pressed home with great earnestness. As an experimental preacher he had few equals; nor had he many who could come near him in the devotional part of the sanctuary services and in his addresses at the communion table. Dr. Jeffrey had reached the ripe age of seventy-seven.—Daily Mail.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Mr. C. H. Yatman, who has been much blessed in America, is now on an evangelistic tour. He hopes to be in Honolulu in September and in Australia later on.

Mr. J. Greenwood, of the Evangelisation Society, has completed two missions at Moreton and Tye Green, Essex, with most blessed results. The Lord has graciously used his servant, and blessed his own word. People came many miles to attend the tent services.

Mr. W. R. Bradlaugh, of the Evangelisation Society, is now conducting a mission in a large tent at Netherton, near Dudley, in the Black Country. Even on a week night the tent has been crowded. Meetings have been held for men only. Mr. Bradlaugh commences a mission at Knighton, in Radnorshire, on August 9.

English and French Coasting Mission.—The Mission steamer Good News has visited Newhaven. Very encouraging services have been held on board each evening, a notable feature being that they were almost entirely composed of men. We have had much blessing; many have to praise God for being brought out of darkness into light. One told us that the blessing the visit of the ship had been would never fully be known. S. A. C. and A. M. G.

A Gospel Chariot has been dedicated at the large Gospel tent, Fulton-street, Brooklyn. This chariot is in charge of Evangelist George W. Schiverea and his daughter. A meeting for the masses was held at the Manhattan crossing in the afternoon, and in the evening the chariot was at the Hanson-place Baptist Church, where an open-air meeting was held. This new agency in the evangelistic work of Brooklyn is likely to prove just what was needed to effectively reach the people.

Mr. John Wooldridge is doing good work with his tent at Leytonstone. For twenty summers his special Tent Mission in various localities has proved a great power for good. Hundreds have professed to find peace, and homes that were once the scenes of misery are now bright and happy. Mr. Wooldridge is all aglow with the love of God, and an earnest zeal for the salvation of sinners. He is just now needing funds sorely, which may be sent to him at 19, Grove-road, Bow, E. J. Rolfe Fisher.

Ross Bible Carriage and Tent Mission.—Mr. John Coates, of Ross, has recently held tent missions at Pencraig (Mon.), Glewstone (Mon.), Whitchurch, and Llangrove. He travels from village to village with his Bible carriage, and pitches his tent for a few days wherever he sees there are openings for good work. Thus, during the month of July he travelled more than 320 miles, and had most encouraging services at all the places visited, many of the villagers testifying to the spiritual profit which they had received as a result of the evangelist's visits. Mr. Coates is now at Mitcheldean, Gloucestershire.

A Village Mission.—Messrs. Robt. Ley Wood and Colin Taylor again pitched their tent in the little village of Ratcliffe-Culey, near Atherstone, and conducted an eight days' mission ending Sunday, August 4. Distinct signs of blessing have been seen. The simple village folk, in addition to many from the surrounding parishes, listened to the Gospel with evident appreciation. The preachers made the tent their home for the week, cooking their own food, and spreading their beds upon the platform at night. Many others could spend a pleasant holiday in the same way, and thus our neglected villages might be worked, and good seed sown. Mr. Colin Taylor, whose home is at Rickmansworth, will be pleased to give any information as to expense.

PERSONALIA.

Mr. D. C. Joseph has resumed his work among the Jews in Jerusalem. Letters for him may be addressed, Evangelical Mission to Israel, Jerusalem.

Rev. J. S. Morris, of Harley College, had another operation performed last week. At present he is in a very low condition, and still needs the prayers of God's people.

Mrs. Evered Poole.—We regret to state that for four or five weeks this well-known worker has been unable to take any meetings, through a complete breakdown in health. For the present she is unable to answer letters or accept engagements.

Rev. Daniel Edward, Free Church of Scotland missionary to the Jews, at Breslau, who having begun his work at Jassy in 1841, has now completed fifty-four years of service, has felt constrained, on account of the failure of his own health and that of his two daughters, who have been his devoted helpers in the mission, to send in his resignation. Mr. Edward will probably return to Scotland in October.

Major Mathison, of the 19th Regiment of Foot, has offered himself to the C.M.S. as an honorary missionary for work in Ceylon. Major Mathison is well known in Christian work at Richmond, having twice served there with the depôt of his regiment, He has been with the regiment for eighteen years, having joined in 1877. He served in the Egyptian War, for which he received the Medal and the Khedive's Star. He was present in the march on and capture of Tel-el-Kebir.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

The French Government propose to encourage temperance by taxing heavily all intoxicating drinks and not taxing what are called hygienic drinks.

Mr. Justice Cave, charging the grand jury at Liverpool, said that there were four charges of murder, and these and a number of cases of violence were traceable to drink.

Mr. Justice Chitty has decided that Lady Henry Somerset is not entitled, in granting leases as tenant for life of certain settled estates, to "act on any personal opinion of her own as to the sale of intoxicating liquors being detrimental to the interests of the public."

The Russian Government, having determined to assume control of the liquor traffic of the country and to diminish drunkenness without effecting the amount of revenue annually obtainable from that source, is establishing a Government monopoly, to extend eventually over the whole empire, and intended to diminish drunkenness.

The autumnal meetings of the National British Women's Temperance Association will be held this year in Plymouth, under the presidency of Lady Henry Somerset. Miss Agnes Weston, who is the president of the Plymouth branch, will superintend the local arrangements. There will be a conference, school of methods, devotional day (Sunday), under the direction of Miss Gorham, a reception, etc., and a public meeting to be addressed by Lady Henry Somerset.

Dr. A. Mansfield Holmes contributes to the organ for the Society for the Study of Inebriety, a paper on "The Hereditary Effects of Habitual versus Periodical Inebriety." He maintains that the effects of alcohol with reference to insanity are twofold:—1. It produces "acquired insanity" by acting as the exciting cause. 2. It produces "hereditary insanity" by bringing about organic changes in the ancestor which are transmitted to children in the form of predispositions.

THE ARCHBISHOP OF YORK has sent the following letter of invitation to the Nonconformist ministers resident in his diocese:—"Dear Sir,—It has always been to me a subject of regret that the clergy of the Church of England should have so few opportunities of social intercourse with the ministers of other religious communities, however much they may be divided on questions of Church order, or even of Christian doctrine. As a humble effort towards the removal of this defect I am venturing to ask the various ministers resident within the Diocese of York to spend some part of the day with me on Thursday, August 8. At 12 o'clock a steamer will bring the party to Bishopthorpe by the river from Ousebridge; and shortly after their arrival a brief devotional meeting will be held, in which I trust that some of my guests will kindly take part. I shall then hope to have the pleasure of your company at luncheon and for the remainder of the afternoon. Through the kindness of the Dean of York I have arranged that there should be a special service at the Minster at 5 p.m., at which your presence will be welcome if you should find it convenient to attend. May I hope that you will favour me by accepting the enclosed invitation, and believe me to be, faithfully yours in our blessed Lord,

"Wilhelm Ebor."

THE BOOK WORLD.

MR. MEYER'S LATEST BOOK.

OUR readers do not need to be told that Rev. F. B. Meyer is not an expositor of the dry-as-dust order. His unfoldings of Scripture are clothed in literary forms that are full of glow and warmth and rounded beauty. The book before us* is an admirable example of his peculiar skill and strength in expounding the sacred oracles. The writings of the evangelical prophet are rich pasture fields for the Gospel harvestman. The special chapters dealt with in this volume are particularly fruitful in suggestion and in theme for the Christian ambassador, and Mr. Meyer fairly revels in their wealth of spiritual and practical teaching. His great forte is that of imparting freshness to well worn and familiar truths. Many of these grand passages fall almost meaningless on the general reader's ear through a parrot-like repetition, or the lack of sufficient meditation, and assimilation of their underlying import. Under the guidance of the author we see how these episodes in the chequered life of the chosen people may yield lessons of God's wonderful dealings with the race, and his abundant provision for the spiritual necessities of redeemed humanity.

* CHRIST IN ISAIAH; Exposition of chaps. xl. to lv. (2s. 6d. and 3s. 6d. Morgan & Scott.)

BOOKS RECEIVED.

From Oliphant, Anderson & Ferrier.—THE HOUSE OF CARGILL, by M. M. Black. 1s.

From The Roxburghe Press.—WOMAN REGAINED; a Story of Artistic Life, by Mr. George Barlow. 6s.

From Marshall Brothers.—GOSPEL GLIMPSES; or Short Studies in the Life of Jesus, by Rev. G. H. C. Macgregor. 1s.

HOME TEACHING FOR THE BLIND.

THE annual general meeting of the Home Teaching Society for the Blind was recently held at 47, Victoria-street, the President, Viscount Middleton, being in the chair. His lordship explained that the real business of the meeting was to consider a proposal for introducing a different kind of type for teaching the blind to read than that of Dr. Moon, which had been used by the Society solely since its inauguration. Several friends had suggested that "Braille's" type should be adopted for the use of their teachers. After much consideration the committee had come to the conclusion that, although Moon's type was still by far the best for teaching poor people, "Braille's" possessed many advantages, and it had been decided to introduce the new type in certain cases where it was thought to be more suitable. Mr. G. Martin Tait announced that Miss Moon, representing her late father, had consented to the proposed action of the committee. A resolution embodying the proposal was carried, and the rules amended accordingly.

AFFLICTED ORPHANS.—On Wednesday, last week, a gathering of friends was held at Cuthbert House, Granville-road, Broadstairs. Mr. James Newling presided. The secretary said that the Home was full, forty children being in it at the present time. It was pointed out that the work is unsectarian, and carried out very economically. Rev. W. H. Dyson, of Ramsgate, and Mr. R. Grimwood, Margate, delivered addresses. Rev. J. R. Wood, London, pleaded for funds, as they now had nothing in hand. Reference was also made to the newly-formed "Forget-me-not" League, which it is hoped many children will join, and so band themselves together to help these helpless orphans. Particulars can be had of Mr. R. T. Smith, Kingsdown Orphanage, Pemberton-road, Upper Holloway, N.

CLAPTON MISSION.—The eleventh anniversary of the opening of the Clapton Mission was held on Sunday and Monday week. On Sunday Mr. George Nokes preached to large congregations, and presided at the public meeting on the Monday in Clapton Park Tabernacle, when the building was crowded and large numbers were unable to gain admission. The report given by Rev. T. Jackson was a most encouraging one. It stated that when the mission was opened eleven years ago in the old theatre in the Glenarm-road, the Primitive Methodist Connexion had neither members, congregation, nor property in the neighbourhood. The mission has now five chapels and mission-rooms, 412 church members, four Sunday-schools, 61 teachers, 725 scholars, four Bands of Hope, 537 members, three mothers' meetings with 300 members. In the distribution of relief to the suffering, no question of sect or party was ascertained, and the future of the mission's operations would be carried on along these lines. The programme for the twelfth year was one of aggression and extended usefulness. Addresses were given by the Chairman, Dr. White, Mr. J. Fletcher Moulton, Q.C., Rev. T. Mitchell and other ministers.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

REV. PROFESSOR PEARCE, of Durham University, has been appointed vicar of Bedlington.

Rev. Percival Smith, of Portman Chapel, has accepted the charge of St. Margaret's, Ipswich.

Rev. William Archibald Pippett has been instituted to the Rectory of Clifford Chambers, near Stratford-on-Avon.

Rev. Charles Courtenay, well-known at St. Paul's, Onslow-square, and lately of Liverpool, has been appointed to St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells.

Yesterday (Wednesday) Prebendary Reynolds resumed his weekly Higher Science lectures at SS. Anne and Agnes Church, Gresham-street, E.C.

Rev. T. S. England and Miss Mary Bazett have come home from Eastern Equatorial Africa, the former on furlough, the latter on medical certificate.

Telegrams have been received announcing the arrival of the C.M.S. Uganda party at Mombasa, on July 9, and their starting from the coast on the up-country journey on the 16th.

Rev. Wm. Sykes, who has recently been appointed to the parish of Wardsley Bridge and Hillsborough, Sheffield, is an earnest worker, able preacher, and an Evangelical of a decided type.

An effort is being made to amalgamate the Church of England Young Men's Society and the Young Men's Friendly Society, so as to make the organisation representative of the whole Church.

Miss Gollock, who has been attached for five years to the editorial department of the C.M.S., has been appointed to the new office of lady secretary for the women's department. Miss Batty, daughter of the rector of Finchley, succeeds to the office vacated by Miss Gollock.

A correspondent sends a description of high ritualistic services at the church of St. Anne, Buxton, where the ceremonial on some occasions nearly approaches to that of the Roman Catholics. The writer adds that pure and bright Evangelical services are held at Trinity Church in the same town.

Much satisfaction has been expressed in Evangelical circles in Gloucester at the appointment made by the Bishop to St. James's. The vast organisation will fall into able hands in the person of Rev. F. Billett, who has done excellent work at Christ Church, Barton-hill, Bristol. The traditions of St. James's have been Evangelical; they are certain to be maintained by the new incumbent.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. Alfred Kluht, of Billericay Church, is lying seriously ill from an affection of the lungs.

Rev. Dr. John Hall has been preaching with much acceptance for two Sundays at Buxton.

Rev. A. J. King, late of Combe Down Union Church, has commenced his ministry at Poulton-le-Fylde.

Rev. Dr. Bevan, of Melbourne, has been giving a series of special addresses in Sydney, with much interest.

Rev. N. A. Spurdens, of Luton, has been baptized by immersion by Rev. V. J. Charlesworth at the Metropolitan Tabernacle.

Mr. James H. Brown, who hopes to leave next year for foreign mission work, has been appointed assistant-pastor at Union Chapel, Islington.

During August the pulpit of South Cliff Church, Scarborough, will be occupied by Revs. J. Guinness Rogers, D.D., Alfred Rowland, and Principal Vaughan Pryce.

Rev. Colmer B. Symes, of Leytonstone, owing to ill-health, has found himself unable to fulfil his ministerial duties without additional help, and an assistant pastor is to be appointed.

Mr. George Clarke has concluded a most successful mission of fifteen days at Lyndhurst-road Church, Hampstead, in which the ministers of the other Free Churches of the neighbourhood have co-operated.

Rev. George H. Giddins, secretary of the Evangelical Continental Society, has returned from attending the Synod of the Christian Missionary Church at Brussels, and visiting the Evangelical Churches of Belgium.

At the services at Lewisham High-road Congregational Church on Sunday the announcement was made of the resignation of Rev. J. Morley Wright, after a ministry of thirteen years. The rev. gentleman has accepted the call of the church at Paddington Chapel, W., and will probably enter upon his ministry there in October.

Calls.—Mr. T. Warren (lately Primitive Methodist), to Brickfields, Stratford; Rev. J. W. Davies, to Bethesda.

Resignations.—Rev. E. S. Bayliffe, of Queen's-road, Forest Hill; Rev. A. T. Hallam, of Little Heath, Coventry.

BAPTIST.

Rev. James and Mrs. Wall, of Rome, are at present home on short furlough.

Revs. G. W. Bevan and W. Davies, who went to India in 1889, have been compelled, in consequence of ill health, to seek a change at home.

Mr. G. Howells, of Regent's Park and Mansfield Colleges, has been accepted by the B.M.S. for educational work at Cuttack Training Institution.

The arrangements, now completed, for the autumnal meetings of the Baptist Union (October 7-14), at Portsmouth, promise sessions of great interest.

News has been received of the safe arrival at the Congo of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Scrivener and of Mr. J. R. M. Stephens, who found the missionaries at Underhill in fairly good health.

The offer of service from Miss De Hailes, who for nearly six years has been working in the Congo Balolo Mission, has been accepted by the Baptist Missionary Society. She will be located at the station now in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Grenfell.

Mr. A. H. Baynes, during his recent visit to Brussels, presented the King of the Belgians with a copy of Mr. Bentley's Appendix to the Congo Grammar and Vocabulary. His Majesty expressed in very appreciative terms his deep sense of the services which Mr. Bentley and other missionaries are rendering. At the same interview the King also recognised the services of Mr. Grenfell in connection with his frontier delimitation labours by the presentation of the patent of his appointment as a Chevalier of the Order of the Golden Lion, together with the insignia set in brilliants.

Calls.—Mr. J. E. Ennals, of Regent's Park College, to King William's Town, South Africa (accepted); Rev. P. Lewis, to Campden Chapel.

Resignations.—Rev. J. Davis, of Cullingworth; Rev. W. P. Davies, of Blakeney.

METHODIST.

A new chapel has been opened at Shalford, Guildford.

The annual convention of the Evangelistic Union will be held in Parliament-street Chapel, Nottingham, Sept. 18-20.

New chapels are building at Bradbury, Hunstanton, Aby (Alford), Wittersham, Stressall, Parkhead (Glasgow), and Shaftesbury.

Dr. Shrubshall, who, after some experience in the foreign field, came home to study at King's College, has now applied for acceptance as a missionary.

The annual address issued by the Primitive Methodists insists on the value of college training, and dwells with much thankfulness on the progress in foreign missions.

The visit of Rev. Thomas Cook has absorbed the attention of the religious world in Brisbane, says The Australian Christian World. Crowded services, solemn impressions, and scores rising to go into the inquiry-room have been seen during his ten days' mission.

The New Connexion Magazine gives an engraving of the late Edward Watson, of Newcastle, who died so suddenly on the first Saturday evening of Conference. Mr. Watson, who was seventy-two when he died, was connected with the denomination from five years of age, when he first became a Sunday-school scholar.

PRESBYTERIAN.

A new church is being put up in Peel-road, Bootle.

At Whitby-by-the-Sea a new mission hall is being erected.

The Brondesbury congregation is building a mission hall at Willesden Green.

The Reformed Presbyterian Synod of America has declared its theological seminary "open for godly women who desire to fit themselves for missionary or evangelistic work."

A Presbyterian minister in Dunedin, after preaching recently on gambling, called upon his congregation to stand up as a solemn pledge that they would never attend a race-meeting, and with one or two exceptions the whole congregation rose to their feet.

It is announced that the committee has made all the necessary arrangements for launching the Church Building Fund, as recommended by Synod. The aim is to raise £50,000, payable in five yearly instalments. A committee is to be arranged in each Presbytery, charged with the duty of bringing the matter before that court, and each of the congregations within its bounds. A series of public meetings will be organised in important centres all over the church in the autumn or early winter.

Calls.—Rev. D. Morgan, of New Tredegar, to St. Dogmel's and Glanrhyd, Pembroke; Rev. Moses Thomas, to Tarbach; Rev. M. Davies, of Merthyr, to Melinicythan; Rev. Lewis Richards, of Trevecca, to Gowerton.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

Canada yearly meeting has been held amid thanksgiving, though the statistical record showed a slight numerical decrease. During American yearly meetings it is common for ministers to help other religious bodies on the Sabbath.

At the recent great Christian Endeavour Convention in Boston Friends were well represented, and "on the first day were rich in blessing, the Word of the Lord proclaimed in power" in these meetings. American Friends seem ahead in this great and beneficent movement.

Considerable activity obtains at home in the visitation of quarterly, monthly, and particular meetings by ministers in the "outings" and other gatherings of adult schools, children's schools, and missions, and in efforts more quietly made to stem evil and extend truth and righteousness, and not a few Friends are looking forward to the Manchester Conference in November as a time of hope and enlargement.

The third yearly meeting of Oregon has just been held at Newberg. Like other Western yearly meetings, the cause of missions holds a premier place, while those of peace and temperance, as well as education, are ardently promoted. "A petition to editors regarding the publication of immoral or impure news was presented, and directed to be signed by the clerks," to be sent to those thus controlling the Press. Notes of praise were numerous throughout the various gatherings.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

S.A. work is to be commenced this month in Malta.

Commissioner Railton has taken a large hall for his meetings in Madrid.

Almost 30,000 children attend S.A. meetings on Sunday afternoons in this country.

Commissioner Railton is engaged upon a sixpenny edition of the "Life of General Booth."

Stockholm has over 400 deaf mutes, the large majority of whom are regular attendants at the Army Deaf-Mute Corps in that City.

Staff Captain Gnanpoo commenced operations in Punjab about four months ago. She has now twenty-eight corps, fifty-six officers, and forty cadets in training.

Representatives of the Army have gone to Winnipeg Manitoba, to explore the North-west Provinces, in the hope of finding a suitable place for the over-sea colony.

The new shelter for boys was opened last week by General Booth, who subsequently gave a farewell address to his subscribers in the ancient Moravian Chapel, Fetter-lane, kindly lent for the occasion.

The Army has lately commenced operations in twenty-six villages in Cape Comorin, India, in fifteen of which the entire populations have placed themselves under Christian teaching through trained officers.

At the gathering of the Salvation Army at the Alexandra Palace on Monday, General Booth's followers mustered in their thousands, when he bade an official farewell to the Army prior to his tour round the world.

FALLEN ASLEEP.

At the Manse, Rathen, N.B., on the 27th ult., Rev. Dr. COCK, aged 77, for many years minister of the parish.—At Colne, on the 28th ult., Mr. HENRY GREENWOOD, aged 76, an earnest Christian and temperance worker.—At sea, on a voyage from Southampton to New York, Rev. ARTHUR BROOKS, D.D., aged 50, a valued and useful minister in New York, and brother of the late Bishop Brooks.—At Spalding, on the 28th ult., Mr. GEORGE PLOWMAN, aged 67, an active Methodist.—At Holloway, Wirksworth, Mr. ISAAC GLADWIN, a valued Christian worker.—At Cheadle, North Staffs, Mr. T. H. RABONE, an earnest local preacher.—At Murton Colliery, Mr. HENRY GRAY, known in the North of England as a preacher of the Gospel.—At Loftus, Yorks, Mrs. BOLTON, a quiet, earnest worker.—At Wolverhampton, Mr. T. BANTOCK, an active Sunday-school superintendent.—At Mochdore, Wales, Rev. R. JONES, aged 70, a useful Baptist minister.—At Merthyr Tydfil, Mr. ELIAS MAURICE, a worker and preacher.—At Camberwell, Mr. G. L. TURNEY, J.P., an active temperance leader.—At the Danville Sanatorium, U.S.A., on 4th inst., Mrs. TALMAGE, wife of Dr. Talmage, the well-known Brooklyn preacher.

Appeals.

THE NAVVY MISSION SOCIETY writes urging the long distances its missionaries have to travel to reach the men, and asking any who may have bicycles of older pattern laid aside to offer these to the Society. Address the secretary of the Navvy Mission, Church House, Westminster, S.W.

THE Y.M.C.A.

The young Association at Winchester is progressing favourably and the meetings keep up well.

The Young Men of Sydney says that Y.M.C.A. work in New South Wales generally shows signs of reviving activity.

The Buenos Ayres Association is now holding Sunday-evening Gospel services in Spanish in order to reach the young men of the city.

The report of the North-West Metropolitan District Centre (Stafford Rooms) shows a large variety of earnest work and an increase in the membership.

An interesting little report of Y.M.C.A. work reaches us from Rangoon, Burmah. It is a story of beginnings, but these of the most hopeful type. The members number forty.

The memorial stone for the new buildings for the Kirkintilloch Association was laid a few weeks ago. The building is to cost £1000, and it is expected to be ready before November.

The Scottish National Council are shortly to lose the services of Mr. W. Henderson, assistant travelling secretary, who has been unanimously appointed to the secretaryship of the Aberdeen Association.

The Anglo-American Association, 160, Rue Montmartre, is having a continental influx of visitors this season, chiefly young men, who are being directed to good lodgings, made to feel at home in the Association, and generally helped by the secretary, Mr. Herbert E. Kinsley. The situation register is in much requisition.

The Hamilton Association is at present trying to raise £1500 for its new buildings, and it is interesting to learn that the first donation to the scheme was given by a poor but respectable Christian woman on her death-bed. The sum was only 6s., but, like the widow's mite, it "was all that she had." The receipt was written out, but before it could be handed to her she had passed to her reward.

The Dublin Y.M.C.A. is flourishing in all departments. Bible classes and evangelistic services keep up well in attendance, and at almost every meeting signs of blessing are seen. On Sunday evening Mr. J. B. Wookey, of London, delivered a social purity address to a large mass meeting of men, and many professed to put their trust in Christ. A vigorous open-air work is also carried on by the Association and opposition to the preaching of the Gospel is dying out.

Negotiations have been going on for some considerable time for the erection of a larger and more commodious building for the extension of the work of the Newcastle Young Men's Christian Association. The officials are now in a position to proceed with their new building almost immediately. They have purchased the whole block of property which stands between their present building and the old Academy of Arts, and the new premises will cover the whole of the former site and the additional space acquired. The site is one of the most commanding in the city, and the committee are determined to put up a building that will in every way meet the needs of young men, and which will also be a worthy addition and adornment to the central and prominent position it occupies. A sum of £10,000 will have to be raised to enable them to carry out the scheme, and, judging from the generous promises already made, the executive of the Association feel assured that this amount will be forthcoming.

The quarterly paper of the Scottish National Union of Young Men's Christian Associations says:—"There is probably no organisation in Scotland within whose borders and by whose members more varied work is carried on than the Associations and Unions embraced in our National Union. Our organisation aims at caring for the intellectual, social, and physical, but, above all, the spiritual parts of a man's nature, and in addition, by home and foreign mission agencies, it recognises the duty of our members to seek the highest well-being of others. In connection with our Associations and Unions such agencies as the following are found for the attaining of the objects mentioned—viz., evangelistic prayer and fellowship meetings, Bible classes, open-air meetings, tract distribution, kitchen meetings, Mizpah bands, choirs, Christian Endeavour meetings, temperance meetings, penny savings banks, lodging house meetings, educational classes of various kinds, rambling clubs, cycling clubs, golf clubs, gymnasia, foreign mission bands, Sabbath schools, etc. Every strong and well-organised association is thus not only helpful to its own members, but is a centre of usefulness, and of influences beneficial to the community in which it is placed. Because of these facts the National Council earnestly strives to spread a network of such Associations over the land."

DR. BARNARDO reports that the result, so far, of the recent street collection on behalf of his Homes is £1600, chiefly, though not exclusively, in coppers, showing that the working classes understand the value of these institutions.

DONATIONS RECEIVED BY MESSRS. MORGAN & SCOTT TO TUESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1895.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or Post Office Orders, not by stamps.

 Will donors oblige by stating explicitly and fully the titles of the institutions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Further correspondence will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Monday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

 Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders should be made payable to Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, London, E.C., and crossed "City Bank"; this will effectually prevent loss.

	£	s.	d.
China Inland Mission—P., 5s.; M., £1; Y.M. and Y.W.C.A., Bessbrook, £1; L.B.R., 5s.; M.P.A.*, £3 14s. 7d.	6	4	7
Spanish and Portuguese Church Aid Society—H. B.	2	2	0
Persecuted Stundists—Lady A. C., 10s.; C. S. G., £1; G. H. R., £1	2	10	0
J. G. Paton Mission Fund—Miss B.	0	15	0
McAll Mission, Paris—Spes, £1; Gratitude, £3 3s.	4	3	0
British and Foreign Bible Society—B. O. H.	2	0	0
North Africa Mission—A. A. H.	0	5	0
Miss Leitch's Work (Education Native Boys)—F. P., £2; A. E. W., £2; Mrs. C. J., £2	6	0	0
Mr. W. G. Smart's Work, Madeira—E. G.	0	10	0
Society Relief Persecuted Jews—Mrs. J. L.	0	5	0
Work at Evian-les-Bains—L. P.	0	10	0
Poor Jews, Jerusalem—A. McO.	0	5	0
Mission to Lepers of India and the East—Praise	25	0	0
Rio Wesson Harbour Mission—Praise	25	0	0
Church Missionary Society—M.P.A.*	1	17	3
Gospels for Tibet (Miss Taylor)—Miss B.	0	5	0
Baptist Missionary Society—M.P.A.*, £2 7s. 7d.; (Zenana Missions) M.P.A.,* 15s. 9d.	3	3	4
Church of England Zenana Missionary Society—M.P.A.*	1	17	10
Mission to Khonds—M.P.A.*	1	17	11
Salvation Army Work, Japan—M.P.A.*	1	11	0
Mildmay Deaconesses' Home, Kingstown, Jamaica—M.P.A.*	0	10	0
Paris City Mission—Gratitude	3	3	0
English Presbyterian China Missions—M. P. A.*	1	10	11
"Joyful News" Evangelists, China—M. P. A.*	0	11	4
Central Morocco Mission (Dr. Kerr)—M. P. A.*	2	8	5
Zambesi Industrial Mission—M. P. A.*	1	5	0
Boca Mission, Buenos Ayres—M. P. A.*	1	6	2
Student Volunteer Missionary Union—M. P. A.*	0	12	0
Mrs. Baxter's Missionary Training Home—M. P. A.*	1	13	7
East London Training Institute—M. P. A.*	3	3	0
Homes for Aged Blind, Crouch Hill—L. B. R.	0	5	0
Aged Pilgrims' Friend Society—L. B. R.	0	5	0
Christian Police Association—L. B. R.	0	5	0
Poor Sick Children's Holiday Fund—M. J. F., 10s.; J. A. M., £1; R. H. L., £1	2	10	0
Ragged School Union (Cripples' Holiday)—H. S.	0	10	2
Mr. Boyer's Cripples (Holiday Fund)—H. S., 10s. 2d.; A Constant Reader, £1	1	10	2
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—A. J. V.	0	7	6
Friendless and Fallen—Gardener	0	2	6
Jewish Work L.C. Mission (Children's Day in Country—J. R. W., 5s.; R. B. J., 10s.	0	15	0
St. Giles's Christian Mission—H. B., £3; Spes, £1; Y. Z., 10s.; (Country Holiday)—P. F. D., £5; D. D., £2; H. G. R., 4s.	11	14	0
Christian Community (Country Holiday)—P. F. D.	5	0	0
Mr. Fegan's Homes—P. F. D., £5; J. A. M., £1; R. J., 5s.*	6	5	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—P. F. D., £5; H. B., £3 3s.; W. N., 10s.; J. A. M., £1; M. H. G., 5s.; R. J., 10s.; E. D., 10s.; Y. Z., 7s. 6d.; H. N., 2s.; Praise, 10s.; (Emigration)—D. D., £10	21	17	6
London Medical Mission, Endell-street—H. B.	1	0	0
Aldershot Mission Hall—H. B.	2	2	0
Miss Weston's Work—H. B.	2	2	0
Scripture Readers' Society, Ireland—H. B., £2 2s.; W. N., £1; M. H. G., 5s.	3	7	0
"The Christian" Tract Fund—H. B.	0	10	0
Village Missions (Mr. Heley)—H. B.	1	0	0
Miss Robinson's Work—H. B.	2	2	0
Mr. Cook's Work, Hyde Park Hall—H. B.	1	0	0
Tram Car Text Mission—H. B.	0	5	0
Day in Country Fund—H. B., £1; R. B. J., £6 10s.; L. B., 2s. 6d.; J. A. M., £1; G. H. R., £1; J. S., 6s.; E. G., 5s.	10	3	6
Rev. S. Herring's Work (Children's Holidays)—S. L. R.	0	10	0
Open-Air Mission—H. B.	2	2	0
Rev. T. Connellan's Work, Ireland—H. B.	1	0	0
Lord's Day Observance Society—H. B.	0	10	0
Winchester Soldier's Home—H. B.	1	0	0
Dock Labourers' Mission—H. B.	1	0	0
Liberator Relief Fund—J. T., £1; Prov. iii. 27, £1.	2	0	0
Bibles for Jews (Mr. Bergmann)—L. B. R.	0	10	0
Mildmay Mission to Jews—W. N.	1	0	0
Watercress and Flower Girls' Mission—G. H. R.	1	0	0
Miss Macpherson's Home of Industry—W. N., 10s.; J. A. M., £1	1	10	0
Industrial Home for Boys (Copenhagen-st.,N.)-R. B. J.	2	0	0
Mrs. Meredith's Institutions—R. B. J.	2	0	0
London Samaritan Society—R. B. J., £2; (Day in Country) R. B. J., 10s.	2	10	0
Mr. E. Wright's Work—R. B. J.	2	0	0
Working Men's Mission, New Cut—R. B. J.	1	0	0
N. E. London Gospel Mission—R. B. J.	2	0	0
Mr. Wintle's Work, Pontymoile—R. B. J.	2	0	0
English and French Coa ting Mission—R. B. J.	2	0	0
Union Hall Mission—R. B. J.	2	0	0
Tower Hamlets Mission—J. A. M., £1; (Day in Country)—R. B. J., 10s.; A Constant Reader £1	2	10	0
Children's Country Holiday Fund—S. S., 5s.; K. S. R., 10s.; D. D., £3; A Lover of Children, 5s.	4	0	0
Mildmay Institutions—E. W., £1; Y. Z., 7s. 6d.	1	7	6
Railway Mission—G. H. R.	1	0	0
Total	£215	13	2

* Missionary Pence Association.

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Bridge of Hope Mission.—E. W. (Norwich), 5s.

Trinitarian Bible Society.—A. E. S., 10s.

Tower Hamlets Mission (Sick Children's Holiday).—A Scotsman, £1.

Dr. Barnardo's Homes.—N. S. A., 2s.; S. C. G., £5.

Christian Community Holiday Home.—W. Park, £1.

SUMMER HOLIDAYS IN THE PEAK OF DERBYSHIRE.

CLIFF HOUSE, the Country Branch of Dr. and Mrs. H. GRATTAN GUINNESS'S EAST LONDON INSTITUTE, will receive visitors as usual during August and September.

House charmingly situated and standing high. Air bracing. Extensive grounds. A beautiful tourist neighbourhood. Terms moderate.

For prospectus apply, enclosing 1d. stamp, to Miss DENNISON, Cliff House, Curbar, via Sheffield.

THE CHRISTIAN BLIND RELIEF SOCIETY.

Under the Patronage of H.M. the QUEEN.

President - - LORD EGERTON OF TATTON.

W. WAINWRIGHT, Esq., Hon. Treasurer.

No paid officials. No voting. No office expenses. No weary waiting for years. Aids 524 Pensioners in the United Kingdom. 51 Candidates waiting for Relief, six of whom are over 60, six over 70, and one over 83 years of age. Do HELP these poor afflicted ones!

FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED.

Hon. Sec., Rev. J. PULLEIN THOMPSON, The Vicarage, Tite-street, Chelsea, S.W.

PROTESTANT REFORMATION SOCIETY.

The Committee URGENTLY APPEAL FOR FUNDS, required at once, in order to prevent the necessity for discharging several of the Society's Missionaries, who are carrying on an excellent work throughout the country. The work of this Society (now in its 68th year) was never more needed than at the present time.

WILL YOU HELP?

Donations will be thankfully acknowledged by the Secretary, Capt. A. P. WILLIAMS, R.N., 20, Berners-street, W.; or the Editor of THE CHRISTIAN.

ST. GILES' CHRISTIAN MISSION.

Fresh Air, Wholesome Food, and Home Comforts

FOR

SICKLY, DESTITUTE, & ORPHAN CHILDREN

Their need is great, and strongly pleads for help.

WILL YOU GIVE IT?

And enable us to benefit a large number by

A Fortnight's Stay in our Holiday Homes,

and to

PROVIDE A PERMANENT HOME

for those

Destitute and Orphan Children needing our aid.

Contributions will be gratefully received by

F. A. BEVAN, Esq., Treasurer,

54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or

WILLIAM WHEATLEY, Superintendent,

4, Ampton-street, Regent-square, W.C.

NATIONAL PROVIDENT INSTITUTION.

For Mutual Life Assurance.

Invested Funds, £4,700,000.
Paid in Claims, £9,000,000.
Estd. 1835.

All the Profits are Divided amongst the Assured; already divided, £4,600,000.

DEATH DUTIES provided for by LIFE ASSURANCE.

48, GRACECHURCH STREET, LONDON, E.C.

ARTHUR SMITHER, Actuary & Secretary

APPLICATIONS FOR AGENCIES INVITED.

MISCELLANEOUS (Continued).

MIDLAND FURNISHING COMPANY,

69, 71, 73, 75, & 77, Judd-street, King's Cross, London.

ESTABLISHED 1830.

TERMS FOR FURNISHING BY EASY INSTALMENTS.

£10 worth	..	..	£0 6 0	per month.
£20	..	..	£0 11 0	.. ..
£30	..	..	£0 18 0	.. ..
£40	..	..	£1 3 6	.. ..
£50	..	..	£1 7 6	.. ..
£100	..	..	£2 5 0	.. ..
£200	..	..	£5 0 0	.. ..

NO DEPOSIT REQUIRED.

Goods delivered free in private vans on payment of first instalment, or other terms can be arranged. If necessary a house of any magnitude furnished at a day's notice. No INTEREST or Extra Charges. Country orders carriage paid to any railway station. £60,000 stock to select from on our own spacious premises. Business hours 9 till 8. Saturdays 9 till 6. Prospectus, catalogue, and press opinions post free

GEO. MICHAEL, Manager

NEAVE'S FOOD.

BEST AND CHEAPEST.

HE DRINKS!

When we hear this ominous sentence respecting any man how we pause and ejaculate "'Tis a pity! what a pity!" and wish, for his health and pocket's sake, that he and all drinkers would substitute the beverage made from the most palatable, thirst-quenching, refreshing, animating tonic drink produceable.

MASONS EXTRACT OF HERBS FOR MAKING NON-INTOXICATING BEER

For every OPEN-AIR WORKER and all employed in Shops, Mills, Manufactories, & Mines.

It is the finest beverage obtainable.

One 6d. bottle makes 8 gallons. Of all Chemists and Stores.

Sample Bottle Free 9 Stamps.

NEWBALL and MASON, NOTTINGHAM.

COLQUHOUN'S GENUINE SCOTCH TWEEDS AND KNITTING YARN

RUGS, BLANKETS,

in Vicuna, Worsted, Saxony, and Cheviot, guaranteed my own manufacture.

PATTERNS sent on approval, POST FREE. MILL PRICES. ANY LENGTH SUPPLIED. CARRIAGE PAID.

Direct from the Mills at a Great Saving

WOOL Special attention given to parties' own Wool sent for Manufacture into any of my Patterns or any kind of Woollen Cloth. Full information from ☞ LARGEST RETAIL MANUFACTURER IN SCOTLAND.

A. COLQUHOUN,

TWEED MILLS, INNERLEITHEN, AND AT GALASHIELS.

Respectable Agents wanted where not represented.

KEATING'S POWDER

DESTROYS BUGS FLEAS MOTHS BEETLES

LARGER TINS 3D 6D & 1S

DAINTREE & CO., DYERS, LONDON.

LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN'S DRESS, also Furniture of all kinds Cleaned or Dyed. 95, Mount-street, Grosvenor-square, W.; 365, Southwark Park-road, S.E.; 44, Leicester-square, W.C. Carts Collect and Deliver to all parts. PRICE LISTS BY POST.

COSTLY JEWELS

VALUED, PURCHASED, OR EXCHANGED.

Also Silver Plate, Gold, &c.

SPINK & SON, Goldsmiths & Silversmiths, 17 and 18, PICCADILLY, W. (Corner of Air Street).

And at 1 & 2, Gracechurch-street, Cornhill, E.C.

Respectfully announce that they have a Special Department for the Accurate Valuation, Purchase, or Exchange of the above. Established 1772. Appointments made if desired.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

Hymn Sheets

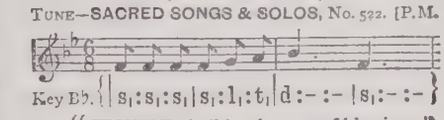
FOUR NEW SHEETS (Nos. 35-38),

NOW READY, SPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR

OPEN-AIR MEETINGS AND OTHER EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Well printed in clear readable type, on good paper.

Two pages each, 9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Post Free.



Nos. 1-34 (Two pp. each) may also be had at the same price.

The first line of the Music (air) is printed at the head of each Hymn, in Old Notation and Tonic Sol-fa.

SPECIMEN OF TYPE.

8 "There shall be showers of blessing." (EZEKIEL xxxiv. 26.)

TUNE—SACRED SONGS & SOLOS, No. 522. [P.M.

"THERE shall be showers of blessing:"
This is the promise of love!
There shall be seasons refreshing
Sent from the Saviour above.

CONTENTS OF THE NEW SHEETS.

No. 35.

When He cometh.
One there is who loves thee.
We are but little children weak.
I will sing of my Redeemer.
I hear thy welcome voice.
Oh! what will you do with Jesus?
A blessing for you.
There shall be showers of blessing.

No. 36.

Saviour, like a Shepherd lead us.
Only a step to Jesus.
Come, ye sinners, poor and needy.
Jesus, my Lord, to Thee I cry.
Jesus loves me! This I know.
While the silv'ry moonbeams fall.
"Whosoever heareth!"
Hark, sinner, while God.
Sun of my soul.

No. 37.

There is life for a look.
How solemn are the words.
Here from the world we turn.
Come, ev'ry soul by sin oppress.
God loved the world of sinners lost:
Oh, what a Saviour.
Jesus bids us shine.
Oh, do not let the word depart.
I think when I read that sweet story of old.

No. 38.

Rock of Ages, cleft for me.
Weary wand'rer, stop and listen!
Are you coming home, ye wand'rers?
Jesus bids us shine.
Behold Me standing at the door.
Have you any room for Jesus?
Oh, turn ye, oh, turn ye.
I love to hear the story.
A Ruler once came to Jesus by night.

Hymn Sheets: 4-Page Series.

JUST PUBLISHED.

TWO NEW SHEETS (Nos. 18 and 19)

Price 1s. 6d. per 100; 12s. 6d. per 1000. Post free.

Nos. 1-17 (4pp. each) may also be had at the same price.

The contents of No. 18 are the same as Nos. 35, 36 of the 2-page series see above.
" " " 19 " " " 37, 38 " " " see above.

A complete List of the Hymn Sheets published by MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, giving the titles of the Hymns on each Sheet, will be sent post free on application.

The full music for the Hymns on the various Sheets will be found in "Sacred Songs and Solos," 750 Pieces. Prices, in either Old Notation or Tonic Sol-fa, 2s. 6d. and upwards.

A NEW HYMN SHEET FOR SEASIDE SERVICES

Fishermen's, and Sailors' Meetings, etc.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN AND SCOTT.

Well printed in clear readable type, on good paper.

Two pages each, 9d. per 100; 6s. 6d. per 1000. Post Free.

The first line of the Music (air) is printed at the head of each Hymn.

CONTENTS.

Throw out the Life-line across the dark wave.
Eternal Father! strong to save.
Star of Peace!—to wanderers weary:
"Master, the tempest is raging!"
We are out on the ocean sailing.
Light in the darkness, sailor, day is at hand!
Fierce and wild the storm is raging.
Brightly beams our Father's mercy from His lighthouse evermore.
Tossed upon life's raging billow.

LONDON: MORGAN AND SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PUBLICATIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARDS.—Send to Wellington House, Higher Broughton, Manchester, for New List. Cheapest English, 1s. 6d. per 100; foreign, 1s. per 100. Missionaries constantly want cards. Gifts of money would greatly help to supply this need. c6360

ASSORTED GOSPEL BOOKLETS, including "A Saviour for You," "Thy Day," etc. Millions sold. Fifteen for 1s., post free; larger quantities at greatly reduced prices. Catalogues free. —S. M. HAUGHTON, 5, Hazelwood-road, Northampton. c6276

PRESENT STATE OF THE WAR between the Power of Satan and the Power of God." A reply by General Sir Robert Phayre, G.C.B. Post free 3½d.—Chas. I. THYNNE, 6, Great Queen-street, London, W.C. c6541

ASSISTANCE TO TRACT DISTRIBUTORS.—Can send specially prepared package, purely Gospel tracts, booklets, and bound books, suitable wide distribution. 62s. 6d. worth for 10s. List of contents application.—JOHN COATES, Northleigh, Ross, Herefordshire. c6572

NEW PAMPHLET.

THE BIBLE—Its Words and Phrases. 1d.
Also by the same author—
THE BIBLE—How it was Compiled. 1d. 25,000,
THE BIBLE—Its Seeming Difficulties. 1d.
THE BIBLE—Its Apparent Contradictions. 1d.
THE BIBLE—Its Peculiarities. 1d.

London: HOLNESS, 14, Paternoster-row; PARTRIDGE, 9, Paternoster-row. Glasgow: ALLAN. Blackheath: WILMSHURST. Greenwich: DAWE. Deptford: J. D. SMITH. And all Booksellers. c6540

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S EDITIONS.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE

To the Old and New Testaments, Popular Edition. Cloth bds., 3s. 6d. Superior Editions at 5s., 7s. 6d., and 10s. 6d.

"Of the worth of 'Cruden' it is, of course, absolutely superfluous to speak. Messrs. Morgan and Scott's edition is not only the cheapest in existence, but the best."—Bar 'ird Magazine.

"It surpasses any edition at the price we have yet seen."—Footsteps of Truth.

By Rev. A. T. PIERSON, D.D.

MANY INFALLIBLE PROOFS.

The Evidences of Christianity; or, The Written and Living Word. With portrait of the Author. Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d. Presentation Edition: Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"We affix our seal to the book as one of genuine and definite value."—The Rock.

By the late Rev. ADOLPH SAPHIR, D.D

CHRIST AND THE SCRIPTURES.

The Living Word and the Written Word. Crown 8vo, Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d. Presentation Editions: Cloth extra, 3s.; Cloth bev. boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"We thank God with a full heart for this fresh powerful, living utterance of great—and some of them forgotten—truths, which commend themselves to one's mind as the Spirit-guided expression of the convictions of a Christ-filled soul."—British Herald.

By Dr. BOYD.

THE WAY OF LIFE.

With introduction by Mr. MOODY. Tinted covers, 6d.; Cloth boards, 1s.

"I read it several times, and then circulated hundreds of copies. The numbers that then seemed blessed through reading the book induced me to ask Messrs. Morgan and Scott to republish it, hoping that it may be the means of good in this country, as it has been in America."—D. L. MOODY.

By the same Author.

YOUNG CONVERTS:

Or, Beginners in Zion's Ways. Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

Mr. MOODY says:—"I have read the work carefully, and recommend it to all young Christians for prayerful meditation."

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

FOR THE COMPLEXION.

BYROLIN

Renders the Skin Soft and Smooth.
Heals Bruises, Burns, and Heat Spots.

J. HOWARD & Co., 20-21, Queenhithe, London, E.C. c6357

THE DEAF HEAR

The New Patent SOUND DISCS

Completely overcome DEAFNESS and HEAD NOISES, no matter of how long standing. Are the same to the ears as glasses are to the eyes. Invisible. Comfortable. Worn months without removal. Explanatory Pamphlet Free.

THE H. P. WALES CO.,
62 and 63, New Bond St., London, W

Forthcoming Meetings.

[Communications respecting forthcoming meetings cannot be inserted unless received by Tuesday morning at the latest.]

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, or Wales, on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, London, W.C.; or, The Sec. Evangelisation Society, Scottish Branch, The Grove-street Institute, Glasgow.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send evangelists to any Evangelical denomination within the London postal area. Apply, Hon. Sec., 64, Kennington-oval, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for temporary or permanent work in our villages and country towns. Apply to Mr. G. H. Mawer, secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Thorne Evangelistic Missions.—Friends desirous to arrange for mission services, to be conducted by Mr. Thorne, should make early application to the secretary, Mr. James Pearce, Exeter Hall, Strand, to whom subscriptions for the Mission may be forwarded.

The King's Own Mission, St. James's Hall, Royal-road, Kennington, S.E.—Sun., Mr. John Langsford, 7 p.m., 3.15 p.m., P.S.A., Mr. O. L. Heatley.

Clapton Hall, Upper Clapton, N.E.—Mr. A. Milne Kyd, Sundays at 6.30, and Thursdays at 7.30, during August.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park.—Sun., August 11, 3.30, Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7, Mr. Joseph Samme.

Evangelistic Mission, Kilburn Hall, Kilburn-gate, N.W.—Sunday, at 7, Mr. Charles Green.—Malden Hall, Haverstock-hill, N.W., Sunday, at 7, Mr. George Hucklesby.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Sunday, August 11, 11 and 6.30, Rev. J. T. Vine.

Exeter Hall.—Mr. Henry Thorne, every Sunday in August, at 3.45 and 7 p.m.

West London Mission.—St. James's Hall, W., Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes.

Edinburgh Castle, Limehouse, E.—Sun., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. Henry Collins; 3 p.m., P.S.A.

St. George's Hall, Langham-place, W.—Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. T. B. Miller.

Coming Conferences.

Pakefield, Suffolk.—August 13, 14, and 15.

Blankenburg, Thuringia, Germany.—Sept. 2-6.

Perth.—Sept. 10—12, Rev. Dr. Bannerman, Perth, Hon. Sec.

Evangelical Alliance.—Annual British Conference, Belfast, Sept. 24-26.

West Norwood (Lansdowne Hall).—Oct. 15, 16, and 17 (Second Advent).

Deepening of Spiritual Life.—Carlisle, Sept. 2-6; Glasgow, Sept. 26-28; Hastings, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4; Blackheath, Oct. 1-4; Star Hall, Manchester, Oct. 6-13; Wakefield, Oct. 8-10; Ealing, Oct. 15-18; Oxford, Oct. 28-31; Norwich, Oct. 28 to Nov. 1; Belfast, Nov. 4-8; Bradford, Nov. 5-8; Edinburgh, Nov. 11-16.

Notices.

Mrs. C. Guthrie is informed that the address of Miss Davidson's Home for the Dying ("Friedenheim") is: Sunnyside, Avenue-road, Swiss Cottage, London, N.W.

Applicants for Tracts.—Wm. Carrington, 15, Brighton-road, Birkdale, Southport, Lancaster; A. Richards, 19, The Grove, Dorchester, Dorset; T. Taylor, Portadown, co. Armagh; W. Silcock, 201, Raglan-street, Lowestoft (for fishermen).

☞ As it is found that infidels and others send papers to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers should be carefully read before being given away.

Communications Received with Thanks.—W.R.C. E.T.E.P. W.H.P. J.G.G. E.J.B. E.E.T. W.C. F.M.G. C.M.B. H.J.E. D.C.J. R.B. H.G.T. L.R. J.H.E. W.G. J.C. J.G.M. L.P. H.H. J.J. S.T.F. E.G. E.M. A.E.V. A.H.G. J.C. R.R. E.W.C. J.H.M. M.S. R.C.T. W.B.S. M.M. S.M. J.W.A. T.J. F.E.M. R.T.S. E.R. W.E.K. J.N.G. C.O. I.H. C.K. M.F.P. A.W. L.K.S. D.S. E.G. K.M. E.S. J.R. F.W. S.A.B. J.C. E.R. E.C.H. L.G. T.E. A.R.C. Miss H. W.W.B. B.W. G.J.I. F.J.W. J.R. F.W.A. A.M. D.H. J.T.V. L.B. E.H.K. C.F.G. C.C.T. S.S.M. H.H. E.F.B. W.T.W. J.A. H.M. A.A.H. J.R. T.A. W.C. S.H.B. W.A.P. H.E.P. J.J. E.D. A.W.J.

THE EDINBURGH MEDICAL MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION is taking steps towards forming an auxiliary in Ireland. A strong deputation lately visited Ireland, and was warmly welcomed by friends belonging to various denominations.

STRANGERS' REST, RATCLIFF.—As usual on Bank Holiday, the workers here spent a very active and interesting day among the sailors. The Rest was crowded, and the men were socially entertained. Open-air services were held, despite the rain, with the sailors as a body-guard, and in the evening the Gospel was faithfully preached in various languages.

THE HAPPIEST LIFE ON EARTH.—Rev. J. C. Hoare, of Ningpo, China, asks:—"When are the English clergy going to realise that the happiest life on earth is that of the missionary? Yes, happier even than that of the English clergyman, which indeed I used to think the best that man could desire, but which I have now long realised is not in its joys and privileges to be compared with that of those who respond to God's call to come and preach the Gospel to the heathen. Or, if they cannot now understand the happiness, when are they going to realise the duty, the debitum, the debt, that they owe to Him who gave Himself for them, that they should obey the Master's command and come and preach the Gospel to 'great, dark, hungry China'? Poor China! People seem to think that this disastrous war may stir her up to reform. But no mere civilisation will do China any good. What she wants is the Gospel, brought to her by the messengers of peace and love."

[78S]

CONSUMPTION, AND ALL CHEST DISEASES.

INTERVIEWS WITH OLD PATIENTS, AND NEW CASES.

By MR. CONGREVE'S COMMISSIONER.

NINETY-FIFTH INTERVIEW,

With Mr. FIDDIAN, Albion Works, Longlands, Stourbridge, relative to the case of his son.

ADVANCED CASE OF CONSUMPTION.

Which was published in the weekly journals, November 21, 1889.

Briefly summarised, the history of this case, as already published, is as follows: Towards the end of the year 1887, Mr. Fiddian applied to Mr. Congreve on behalf of his young son, who was, according to the medical report, then in an advanced stage of Consumption. The illness had arisen from a cold after bathing, followed by cough, blood-spitting, periodic dyspnœa, pain in the side, flushing, night-sweats, loss of appetite and strength, and general wasting of body. After following Mr. Congreve's treatment for a few weeks, a wonderful improvement was manifest. This improvement continued, and the patient became well and strong.

Armed with these particulars, I recently called upon Mr. Fiddian, at his house, Longlands, Stourbridge, and asked him whether the statement was correct in every particular.

"Yes, all correct," he replied. "Before I sent to Mr. Congreve, my son had been ill about six months, attended by two doctors. One of them gave him up—said he couldn't do any more for him; his lungs were entirely gone.

"But I believe you afterwards had reason to believe there was hope for him?"

"Yes; when he had been taking Mr. Congreve's medicine for six weeks, he began to improve, and in course of time he got better. Since then he has never suffered with his chest."

I had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Fiddan, jun., and found him well, hearty, and strong, taking an active share at a forge connected with his father's business.

Mrs. Fiddian, too, spoke very highly of the medicine. It had recently cured her of a cough the doctor had failed to relieve.

Like all who are really grateful for benefits received, Mr. Fiddian willingly consented to my making public what he had told me.

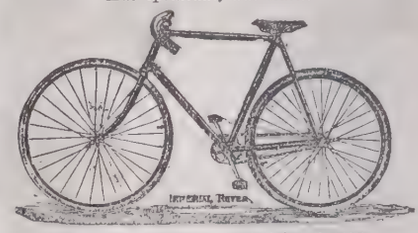
MR. G. T. CONGREVE'S work on CONSUMPTION, &c., in which are detailed THE CAUSES, SYMPTOMS, PROGRESS, AND SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT OF THIS SCOURGE OF ENGLAND.—WITH NEARLY FOUR HUNDRED CASES OF CURE. ALSO ON COUGH, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c., &c. The Book will be sent, post free, for ONE SHILLING by the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, London, S.E.

TOWER TEA

"A DAILY TREAT"

SOLD IN PACKETS ONLY 2/4, 2/-, 1/7, 1/4, 1/- PER POUND.

REGISTERED TRADE MARK · THE GREAT TOWER ST. TEA COMPY LIMITED · STRENGTH · LONDON ·



NONE GENUINE WITHOUT THE REGd TRADE MARK AND SIGNATURE.

AGENTS Tower Tea EVERYWHERE.

THE GREAT TOWER ST. TEA Co LTD
5, JEWRY STREET, LONDON, E.C.
Will send sample of tea and name of nearest agent on application.

IMPERIAL ROVER CYCLES

Aut optimum, aut nihil.

Highest class machines, noted for stability. Every machine guaranteed for 12 months from date of purchase.

Fully illustrated price list free on application to J. K. STARLEY & Co., Limited, Meteor Cycle Works, West Orchard, Coventry: London, 5, Holborn Viaduct, E.C.; Paris, 52 Rue de Dunkerque.

CURES HEADACHE INSTANTLY. BISHOP'S CITRATE OF CAFFEINE

Removes fatigue. Highly commended by the Lancet and British Medical Journal. Highest award Paris, 1889. Of all chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 6d.

Useful Presents.

Be Lovers Still!

Friendly Hints to a Bride and Bridegroom.

In Beautifully-illuminated Cover, Gilt Edges, 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 1s.

"A dainty booklet, the contents of which are a 'choice blend' of good-will and common sense."—The Cambs. Cong. Magazine.

Marriage and Home.

Wise Counsels for the Newly-Married.

In Elegant White Cloth binding, Gilt lettering on side, and Gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

In Handsome Leather binding, Gilt lettering on side, and Gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"A little gem, admirably adapted for a wedding gift."—Lady's Pictorial.

"All we could wish such a gift to be."—Fireside.

"Golden Treasury" Birthday Book.

With Beautifully Illuminated Frontispiece.

Presentation Editions: French Morocco, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d.; Rich coloured Leather, Padded, Gilt Edges, 4s. 6d. Each Copy in a Neat Case.

Can also be had, elegantly bound in Cloth, Bev. Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s. 6d.

In this Edition of

"BOGATZKY'S GOLDEN TREASURY,"

arranged as a Birthday Book, four additional pages are introduced at the close of each month's portions. The total number of names which can be inscribed in the "Birthday" Edition amounts to Over Fifteen Hundred.

The King's Palace.

A Series of Instructive and Spiritual Readings for each day of the Month.

By Rev. J. H. Rogers, M.A.

Beautifully printed in Carmine and Black. Morocco, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d. Can also be had in Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, gilt edges, 2s.

"Within and without, The King's Palace is simply perfect."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

LAZENBY'S

PREPARED FROM THE ORIGINAL RECIPE BEARS THE WELL KNOWN LABEL Signed Elizabeth Lazenby

HARVEY'S SAUCE

LAZENBY'S PICKLES
LAZENBY'S SOUPS
LAZENBY'S SOUP SQUARES
LAZENBY'S TABLE JELLIES
LAZENBY'S POTTED MEATS
LAZENBY'S BAKING POWDER

No. 1333.] # The Christian. [August 15, 1895.

PRINCIPAL CONTENTS.

PORTRAIT AND SKETCH OF THE LATE REV. R. W. STEWART, OF CHINA.

Notes and Comments ... 7
"Be Filled with the Spirit" ... 8
The Press in India ... 9
Missionary Service. By Mr. George Muller ... 9
Mrs. Baeyertz in Campbeltown ... 9
Songs Born of Sorrow. By Rev. F. B. Meyer ... 10
The Neglected Continent ... 11
The Wesleyan Conference ... 12
Northfield Revisited ... 13
A Story of God's Leading ... 13
Our Daily Homily ... 14
For the Young.—The Lighthouse ... 15
American Warships ... 15
The Chinese Massacre ... 16
Keswick Addresses:—
Deliverance and Blessing ... 18
God's Oil ... 19
God's Redemptive Scheme ... 19
Ladies' Meetings ... 20
Keswick Breathings—Poem ... 21
Rev. Andrew Murray's Testimony at Keswick (with portrait) ... 17
Ophthalmic Work in India ... 21
Irish Railway Talks.—II. ... 22
Romanism in France ... 22
Re-opening of Hoxton Hall ... 22
The Faithful Saying. By Dr. Cuyler ... 23
St. Giles' Christian Mission ... 23
Among Irish Romanists ... 24
The Story of Fred Davies ... 24

INSTITUTIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each Additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS AND MISSION,
HIGH STREET, WHITECHAPEL, E.

GEORGE HOLLAND thankfully acknowledges receiving from An Unknown Friend two suits of clothing for boys; so very acceptable.

A Record of Work for the Year 1894 will be sent free to any friend requiring one.

Rations of food to hungry children. Infant Day-Nursery. Day and Sunday Schools. Children's Services. Band of Hope. Evening Classes for Boys and Girls. Classes, Meetings, and Institute for Young Women and Elder Girls. Various Meetings, Classes and Parlour for Young Men and Lads. Bible Classes. Evangelistic Services. Lodging House Meetings. Temperance Work and Meetings. Mothers' Meetings. Clubs for Clothing, Coals, Bibles, &c. Prayer Meetings. Country Homes for Men, Women, and Children. Training Home for Motherless Girls, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 75, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E. c6334

THE SOUTHWARK. BOYS' HOME,
Branches: Greenwich, Ramsgate, Toronto.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT,

To receive really destitute boys from 6 to 18 years of age without payment or recommendation beyond ABSOLUTE NEED.

Urgent cases are considered at any time, but Mr. Fegan may be personally consulted about Orphan, Homeless, or Erring Boys at the Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E., on Mondays, from 10 till 2.

All communications should be addressed—
J. W. C. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home,
95, Southwark-street, London, S.E.

DAY IN THE COUNTRY for adults and children. Also fortnight for the weak and suffering out of St. Luke's and Clerkenwell. Pastor Philip Gast (of Spencer-place Chapel, Goswell-road), 12, Noel-street, Islington. For over a quarter of a century help has been sent. c5238

CHILDREN'S JOY.—Rev. J. W. ATKINSON, Claremont, Cawley-road, London, E., very urgently PLEADS for HELP to give a Day in Country to 5000 poor and often ailing East London children. Entire cost, including rail and substantial meal, under 1s. per head. Cheques and orders crossed London and South-Western Bank. Balance-sheet as in past years, by chartered accountants, to every donor. Major-Gen. Bolton and Lady Lewis cordially thanked. c5393

POOR JEWS IN EAST LONDON.

The eight Jewish Missionaries of the London City Mission wish to send away for one or two weeks, many of the sick and ailing whom they visit.

Contributions will be thankfully received by F. A. BEVAN, Esq., 54, Lombard street, E.C., or by Mr. G. R. COLE, 3, Bridewell-place, London, E.C.

SOCIETY FOR THE ASSISTANCE OF LADIES in reduced circumstances.—Will every reader of THE CHRISTIAN kindly send two articles of work or carving to be sold for the benefit of this society, to the Honorary Secretary, Miss SMALLWOOD, The Lees, Malvern? c6729

DESPAIRING AND DESTITUTE.—Hundreds of thoroughly reclaimable young men might be permanently benefited by the numerous Labour Homes and Emigration Training Farms of the Church Army if funds permitted. Nearly one million meals served yearly, irrespective of creed, with labour test and Christian sympathy. Donors of 5s. and upwards supplied free with tickets for giving to beggars. £4000 pressingly required for food, clothing, and maintenance.—Remit, Rev. W. CARLILE, Hon. Chief Sec., Headquarters, 180, Edgware-road, London, W. c6637

SOUTH AMERICAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY
(The CHURCH of ENGLAND MISSION to SOUTH AMERICA).

All who desire to see the Gospel preached to the millions of Indians in South America, and are interested in the spiritual well-being of our fellow-countrymen scattered throughout that vast continent, and who also desire to see its Spanish and Portuguese speaking people brought to a knowledge of the truth, are invited to GIVE THEIR SUPPORT TO THIS SOCIETY, which sends out its Bishop and Clergy and Lay Missionaries to effect these blessed and important objects. Its work at the great ports AMONGST THE SAILORS is deeply valued.

THE MISSION BAND TO THE INDIANS OF ARAUCANIA
Now consists of a Clergyman and Three Laymen.

All who desire that this finest of all the Aboriginal races of South America should be brought to a knowledge of the Gospel of Christ, are asked to further the rapid extension of the work by their believing prayers and willing offerings. The door is open. The Leader is a tried Missionary, and the band includes a medically trained Assistant. Much blessing is anticipated through the power of God the Holy Spirit. There are other open doors the Society is waiting to enter. MEN AND MEANS ARE NEEDED.

Cheques and Money Orders should be crossed "Messrs. BARCLAY AND Co.," and made payable to Captain E. POULDEN, R.N., Lay Sec., at the Society's Offices, 1, Clifford's Inn, Fleet-street London, E.C.

FRESH AIR FOR POOR CHILDREN.—For 10s. subscribed, a pale-faced child can enjoy a country holiday for a fortnight. Help very greatly needed this season for 500, in this, the third Poorest District in London.—A. STYLEMAN HERRING (for Local Committee), Vicar, St. Paul's, Clerkenwell, 45, Colebrooke-row, N.—Bankers: London and County. c5181

ZENANA MEDICAL COLLEGE, 58, St. George's-road, Belgravia, S.W., trains ladies for MEDICAL MISSION WORK in Eastern lands. Vacancies for pupils. Next term October. Partially free studentships granted. Funds needed. c5361

EDUCATIONAL.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Displayed Advertisements according to space.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL.—A clergyman's daughter offers the above. Loving care. Good education. Every attention. Terms £2 monthly, or 20 guineas yearly. Healthy, open neighbourhood.—Tredegar House, East Dulwich-road, S.E. 5332

MALVERN HOUSE, BLOCKLEY,
WORCESTERSHIRE.

Principals, the Misses JUDSON. Home school for girls in a lovely and bracing village on the Cotswold Hills. Resident foreign and English governesses and visiting masters. Earnest Christian training. Terms moderate and inclusive. References kindly permitted to the Rev. John Wilkinson, Mildmay Mission to the Jews, and to parents of pupils. Summer term begins (D.V.), May 2, 1895. c3968

SIX GUINEAS.—Two girls can be received into a good home school to fill vacancies. Certificated governesses. English, French, music, singing, drawing, drill.—Miss WEBB, Prospect House School, Rayleigh, Essex. c5247

SUPERIOR FINISHING SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate professors.
DELTA, Ward's Library, 112, Kensington-pk.-rd., W.

BURLTON HOUSE, READING.—High-class Ladies' School. Principal, Miss RATCLIFFE. Old established. Thorough teaching. Modern educational advantages, examinations. Finishing masters. Well-appointed home. Highest references. c5271

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Lenten House, Alton, Hants. Principal, Miss Chinn, daughter of the late Rev. S. Chinn. Very successful preparations for examinations. References, Dr. Stewart, Alton; Rev. W. Houghton, Guildford; Rev. E. A. Davis, Ventnor. c5131

FRANCHE, GREAT MALVERN,—Principal, Miss GRIGG. High-class home school for girls. Special arrangements for Indian and Colonial pupils. c5206

ALLAN BANK, OWLS ROAD, BOSCOMBE.
HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.
Thorough education. Success in public examinations. Care of delicate girls. House near sea among pines. Terms moderate. References to Evangelical Clergymen, and to Ministers.—Apply, Miss COOKE, Principal. c5801

REV. D. B. HANKIN, Mildmay, kindly recommends good home school, two hours from London. Spacious detached house. Thorough education. Fees from £25.—Miss LARTER, Nene House School, Thrapstone, Northamptonshire. c5130

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, East Tytherton, Chippenham.—Christian training. Preparation for examinations. Moderate terms.—Principal, Miss HOLLIS. c2317

UPPER MOUNT, SOUTHSEA.—High-class Home School for the daughters of gentlemen. Autumn term, September 17th.—For Prospectus, etc., address PRINCIPAL. c5567

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.—The Misses BALCH and EDMEADES, Clevedon Lodge, Reading. Pupils prepared for Oxford and Cambridge Locals (higher, senior, junior), and Trinity College Exams. Vacancy for student-teacher (premium). c6265

THE MORAVIAN SCHOOLS, Fulneck, near Leeds.—A thorough, advanced, and Christian education. Boys' School, Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON. Ladies' School, Rev. M. B. O'CONNOR. c5341

ILFRACOMBE.—WILDERFORD HALL High School for Girls. Thorough education. Preparation for exams. Comfortable home. Christian training. Special attention given to delicate girls. Principal, Miss HEALE. Paying guests received. Moderate charges. c6402

VACANCIES OCCUR in high-class school for girls. Pupils received whose parents are abroad. Christian training. Home comforts. Special attention to backward pupils. Terms 30 guineas.—PRINCIPAL, 10, Clapton Common. c6157

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Wilton House, Tylehurst-road, Reading. Head Mistress, Miss Marion White. Assisted by well qualified resident mistresses and visiting professors. Pupils prepared, if desired, for public examination. Wilton House stands on high ground, gravel soil, outside the town. Large garden, cricket field, tennis courts. Tepid swimming bath. Next term begins Thursday, September 19. c5378

LINDFIELD, MALVERN,
LADIES' SCHOOL.
Principals ... .. The Misses GRAHAM.
THOROUGH AND SUCCESSFUL TEACHING. Christian training. Pupils prepared for Local Exams. Visiting masters. References kindly permitted to parents of pupils in England and abroad. Vacancy for Gov. Pupil. Premium required. c6461

HOME SCHOOL BY THE SEASIDE.—Bracing air. Terms moderate. Successes at Senior and Junior Cambridge, College of Preceptors. Next term, September 11. Governess-student wanted.—Mrs. SKIDMORE, Withnell-road, Blackpool. c6498

STAFFORD HOUSE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, 260, Marylebone-road, London. Principal, Miss SHILLAKER. Healthy locality, near parks. Individual teaching. Special advantages for music and art subjects. Civil Service and all public examinations. Terms moderate. Highest references. Vacancy for articled pupil. c4476

BRIGHTON. — High-class school for girls. Healthy situation. Home comforts. Individual care. Great educational advantages. Resident French governess. Professors. Moderate terms. Vacancy for governess-student (premium). — The Misses NORTON, Farndon House, Stamford-road. c6520

SOUTH-WEST LONDON COLLEGE.
High-class School for Young Ladies.
1, CARLTON MANSIONS, CLAPHAM-RISE, LONDON, S.W.
Principal—Mrs. HALE, A.C.P.

Modern system of teaching. Visiting masters in daily attendance. Resident certificated governesses. Careful personal supervision, home comforts, and Christian training. Preparation for any examination if desired. Good garden and tennis.

Highly recommended by the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, Rev. D. MacEwan, D.D. and parents of former and present pupils.

WANTED, BY LADY, NEAR LONDON, little girl, about 10, to educate with her own. Very good governess.—c6710, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6710

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, DUDLEY HOUSE, DORKING. Principal, Miss WATERS. High-class education, based upon Christian principles. Pupils prepared for all public examinations. Autumn term will (D.V.) commence September 17, 1895. c6067

TO PARENTS.—Girls of any age instructed in practical housewifery, superior economical cookery, intelligent catering and marketing. Laws of health and sanitation studied. Business training, book-keeping, etc. Fee from ten guineas, including twelve weeks' board and tuition as above in experienced lady's well appointed home, S.E. References to parents of pupils.—c6725, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6725

ROSEBERRY, Western-parade, Southsea, facing sea and common. Christian home school for gentlemen's daughters. Thorough and successful teaching, careful godly training, refined happy home. Resident English and foreign governesses. Highly recommended. Principals, the Misses ROBINSON. c5105

EDUCATION NEAR LONDON.—Good professors. Christian training. Highly recommended by Miss Leicester, Head Mistress Wyggiston Girls' High School, Leicester, and parents of pupils. Governess-student wanted. Fee, 8 guineas per term.—c6724, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6724

SEASIDE EDUCATION.—The principals of high-class, old-established school, having two vacancies, are willing to take two girls of good position on greatly reduced terms.—PRINCIPAL, Blackmore, Bookseller, 38, Great Southsea-street, Southsea. c5106

FOUR GIRLS can be received in good school near Crystal Palace for 35 guineas inclusive. Thorough education. English subjects, music, languages, etc. Motherly care.—PRINCIPAL, 200, Selhurst-road, South Norwood. c6656

HOME OFFERED to lady in good school near Crystal Palace. Home comforts. Moderate terms. Lady whose husband is abroad, having children to educate, could be received.—200, Selhurst-road, South Norwood. c6657

EDUCATION.—LONDON.—High-class boarding-school for girls. Refined, cultured training. Excellent advantages for music, painting, languages. English subjects thoroughly taught. Modern system. Highly-qualified staff. Individual care and attention. Christian home. Beautiful, healthy suburb.—For prospectus and particulars, address, c6746, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6746

PARIS.—Establishment for young ladies, 16, Rue d'Auteuil (near the Bois de Boulogne). Principals, Mdlles. Bouré. Thorough French and German, music, drawing, painting, etc. Prospectus on application. c6621

CHATEAU DE MARNAND, SWITZERLAND.—Select school for young ladies at very moderate terms.—For prospectus and information, apply to Miss LOWE, 32, Gower-street, London, where Mdme. TROLLIET can be met from August 24 to 28. c6630

NEUCHATEL, SWITZERLAND.—Young ladies received in superior French Evangelical finishing home school. Eminent professors. Languages, music, art. Delightful climate. English home comforts. Highest references.—Apply to Mlle. COULERN, Neuchatel, Switzerland. c6561

STANLEY HOUSE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Thorough education, with decided Christian training. The premises include workshop, chemical laboratory, covered and open playgrounds, tennis courts and cricket field. Delicate boys receive special care. Fees moderate and inclusive.—For prospectus, apply PRINCIPAL. c2602

NEW COLLEGE,
CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Head Master: Rev. G. Hugh Jones, F.A.S.
High-class School for sons of Christian gentlemen. Inclusive Fees, £45 per annum; under eleven, £40.

MR. W. ERNEST MATTHEWS, B.A. (honours), assisted by efficient masters, prepares for the Army, Navy, Universities, Public Schools, etc. Pupils under Christian influence. Excellent situation.—10, Worcester-terrace, Clifton, Gloucestershire. c5986

PREPARATORY SCHOOL
To the Public Schools and Royal Navy, for Gentlemen's Sons, aged 8 to 14.

The Old Hall, Wellington, Shropshire.
(Founded 1845.) Very healthily situated, 370 feet above the sea, near the Wrekin. 3¼ hours from London, by L. & N.W. or G.W.R. Beautiful grounds, playing fields, &c. Illustrated Prospectus on application to the Head Master, G. E. W. CRANAGE, M.A. (Shrewsbury School and Trinity College, Oxford); or Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c5[illegible]

Huntingdon House School,
TEDDINGTON, Middlesex.

Christian training. First-class masters. Thorough teaching. Moderate fees. Preparation for professional and business life, and for examinations (over 100 certificates gained). Recommended by Rev. Evan Hopkins, Kensington, and many Christian parents. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.
Principal—Mr. GEO. COMBES, F.R.G.S., F.R.A.S

ETONHURST, WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Preparatory school for the sons of gentlemen. Competent masters attend daily. Prospectus on application to LADY PRINCIPALS. c5434

FOLKESTONE.

MR. J. W. C. FEGAN desires to recommend to Christian parents a high-class school for sons of gentlemen, in the best part of Folkestone. A thoroughly good education with real Christian influence, home comforts, and close individual attention to each boy. Highest references.—Mr. J. W. C. FEGAN, Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-st., S.E. c1574

Make your Boys Men of Business.

A sound COMMERCIAL EDUCATION is afforded at

WEST CLIFF SCHOOL, RAMSGATE.

(Founded 1864.)

Particular attention given to Book-keeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Modern Languages, Athletics, &c.

THE HEALTHY SITUATION of the School is unrivalled. Evangelical Teaching. Special care of delicate and backward boys. Liberal Diet. Prospectus free.—Apply to HEAD MASTER.

Highest references to Ministers, Old Scholars, and present Pupils' Parents. c4805

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL for boys. Thorough education. Every home comfort, with unlimited diet. Health resort. Medical reference. Careful Christian training. Terms inclusive and very moderate.—PRINCIPAL, Lucton School, Henfield, Sussex. c5134

MANY CHRISTIAN PARENTS who at the present time are seeking a school at which to place their sons, are invited to write to the under-mentioned, who is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, where the constant aim of the principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class education.

The premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the south coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectus and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application. Several wards in Chancery have been appointed as pupils in the school. Terms moderate.—Dr. THORN (not Thorne), Paddington, London c5109

ALRESFORD HOUSE SCHOOL, MARGATE.—High-class school for the sons of gentlemen. Boys are prepared for the various competitive examinations. Special care of Indian children. Christian home.—Apply, The PRINCIPALS. c5371

BEXLEYHEATH, KENT.

OLD-ESTABLISHED SCHOOL for sons of gentlemen. Beautiful situation. Seven acres of land. PREPARATION FOR PUBLIC EXAMINATIONS. —Illustrated prospectus on application to Head Master, G. E. OXLEY, M.A. c5398

COMBE DOWN SCHOOL, BATH, for the sons of gentlemen. This school will (D.V.) be removed after the summer term to more convenient and commodious premises, newly built, in Weston-super-Mare. Address, till end of August, Combe Down, Bath; after August, to Clarence School, Weston-super-Mare.—W. FRANKLIN, Head-master. c6319

YOUR BOYS have Christian home and education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Gordon School, Kingston-on-Thames. Established eleven years. Beautiful district, near Richmond Park. References. 20 to 25 guineas yearly. c5270

---

20 GUINEAS PER ANNUM.—Special offer. Seaside Boys' Boarding School. High successes last term. No failures. Highly recommended by ministers and parents.—Letters, CLARK, Chapel-street, Market Harborough. c5583

ARNOLD HOUSE, HASTINGS, conducted by Rev. John Stewart, where boys from 7 to 13 receive a thorough education and careful personal attention. Established 1857. c5395

PREPARATORY SCHOOL FOR SONS OF GENTLEMEN.—Froebel, St. Leonards-on-Sea. Principal, Miss S. E. SPARKS. Strongly recommended to Protestant Evangelicals by Mrs. Arbuthnot and Colonel Porcelli. N.R.

LADY HIGHLY RECOMMENDS conscientious governess (six years' reference). Thorough English, fluent French (France), German, latin, music, drill. £35.—JESSIE, Mrs. Edwin Hooper's Governesses' Home, Compton-terrace, London. Free to employers. c6788

EARNEST CHRISTIAN GOVERNESS, Dissenter preferred, required beginning September. Subjects, thorough English, French (conversational), music, call-threads, and needlework. Age about 26. Salary £30, laundry included.—Address, HOLYMAN, 8, Woodcote-road, Wallington, Surrey. c6735

STUDENT-TEACHER required, September, in home school for girls. Premium £12. Or two sisters, one as student-teacher, can be received on the terms for one. Thorough teaching. Preparation for exams.—Hope House School, Wallscote-road, Weston-super-Mare. c6464

GOVERNESS-PUPIL required in September, in a good-class ladies' school. Excellent opportunities offered to study for matriculation, and other examinations. Premium required. Principals, The Misses DOBSON, Endsleigh House, Colchester. c6518

YOUNG LADY, about 15, required in good boarding school, to assist with juniors while continuing her own education. University examinations. Professors. Christian training. S. coast. Premium.—X.Y.Z., 28, Stockwell-green, London, S.W. c6688

WANTED IN SEPTEMBER, conscientious nursery governess. Charge of four children, eldest 7½. Teach three eldest girls. Help given. Abstainer. Healthy, bright. Good needlewoman. References.—Mrs. BECK, Burnside, Northlands, Southampton. c6713

GOVERNESS-STUDENT required in select finishing school near London. English, music, French, German, and drawing, under first-class professors. Premium 18 guineas. Preparation for exams.—PRINCIPAL, Clarendon College, 16, Dalmeny-road, Tufnell Park, London, N. c6722

WANTED, GENEVE, SWITZERLAND, young governess-pupil, who would give one hour's English a day, in return for thorough instruction in the French language. Premium £26 per annum.—Madame ROSSET, Champel 2. c6662

HEALTHY SEASIDE HOME offered to gentleman's daughter, as companion-pupil. Preparation for the Cambridge Local.—Address, Cliftonville, 46, Crystal Palace Park-road, Sydenham. c6747

LONDON UNIVERSITY undergraduate (Christian) seeks post as junior assistant-master, with time for private reading. Latin, French, mathematics, and ordinary English subjects.—J., 8, Holywell-terrace, Shrewsbury. c6693

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES

(English and Foreign), recommended GRATIS by Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governesses' Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. (Established 1879). BOARD AND RESIDENCE from 15s. weekly. No fee to Governesses until placed. Schools recommended and transferred c5241

HIGHBURY HOUSE SCHOOL, ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.

Boys received from six to eighteen years of age. Three separate departments classified according to age. Preparation undertaken for public schools or for commerce, the professions, and universities. Delicate boys or those from colonies receive special care. Autumn term commences September 21. Illustrated prospectus, references, etc., on application to the Principal, J. C. DUFF. c5399

SITUATIONS, ETC., WANTED.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.

9d. for each additional 9 Words.

Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

PREACHER OF THE GOSPEL, having left his employment as tutor in France, for more direct spiritual work in London, seeks employment, French, German, etc. — C. RIDGWAY, 86, Wellington-road, Stoke Newington. c6690

CHRISTIAN LAY-PREACHER, age 54, who recently lost his wife, who was his constant companion, is anxious (instead of wandering about Europe for holiday), to find some useful vocation for a month, where he would be of service. He would relieve any Village Minister who needs rest; travel with anyone needing assistance either in Great Britain or abroad; or in any such like capacity be of service to God's children anywhere. No remuneration required.—Address by letter, X. Y. Z., c.o. Messrs. Marshall and Willats, 476 and 8, Oxford-street, W. c6658

SECRETARY OR ASSISTANT SECRETARY.—Young, energetic man (26) seeks position as above. Whole or part time. At present editor of small review. Earnest Christian.—SECRETARY, 26, Hasker-street, Chelsea. c6740

SUPERINTENDENT.—Office of Superintendent, or other post in connection with an Orphanage, or Reformatory and Refuge Home wanted. Previous experience. Highest references.—T. LEATHWOOD, Wheelock Hall, Wheelock, near Sandbach, Cheshire. c5407

A CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN, 33, is willing to go abroad as companion to a young missionary, paying own expenses. Must be non-smoker and abstainer.—c6643, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6643

MANAGER OF GROCERY and provisions seeks employment where there is scope for Christian labour. Disengaged end of September. Highest references. Wesleyan, abstainer. Age 33. Height 5ft. 10in. Photo.—SCALDWELL, Swanage. c6649

USEFUL MAN, middle-aged, neat, active, as attendant to single or invalid gentleman. Cook and housekeeper. Caretaker of mission hall of offices. Moderate wages.—Mrs. REUSS, Ditton Hill, Surrey. c28

AS GROOM-GARDENER in clergyman's or gentleman's place. Situation wanted in September. Understands cows, etc. Married, three children.—H. BAILEY, Westwood, Blythburgh, Halesworth. c6742

A LADY SEEKS SITUATION for her coachman's son, aged 16, with total abstainers, as under-groom. Has been under his father four years. —Apply, G. SMITH, care Mrs. Sims, Ipswich. c6741

COFFEE TAVERN.—Managers want re-engagement. Both well experienced and well recommended. Would rent or manage.—G. J., 72, Crampton-street, Newington Butts, S.E. c6753

LADY CAN STRONGLY RECOMMEND married couple as office-keepers or caretakers. Excellent references. Also ladies' maid, with young ladies preferred. Good dressmaker.—B., 9, Vanbrugh Park West, Blackheath, London. c6699

AN ENGAGEMENT wanted by a gentlewoman in London, as superintendent of a home. Practical housekeeper. Abstainer. Experienced in mission work.—G.B., 5, Troy-road, Upper Norwood. c6733

LADY DESIRES POST to assist matron or secretary of institution, or being experienced teacher, would give tuition (only) to children under 12. No salary required.—X., Seagrief's Library, Crouch End, N. c6676

WANTED, BY TRAINED DEACONESS (now or later), charge of shelter, small home, or orphanage, or as assistant in Y.W.C.A. or large home. Domesticated. Salary required.—Lindholme, Ambleside. c6698

DEACONESS, who has had varied experience in East-end mission work, is now disengaged. London preferred.—DEACONESS, The Rest, Alperton Park Sudbury, Middlesex. c6670

CHRISTIAN WOMAN, abstainer, desires management of small temperance coffee tavern, or matron in home, or any place of trust. No children.—A. RINNER, Little Witley, near Worcester. c6672

HOUSEKEEPER.—A clergyman (widower) wishes to highly recommend his lady housekeeper (age 37), especially to widower who has children. She is educated, kind, refined, energetic, and good manager. Church or Nonconformist.—Thurton Vicarage, Norwich. c6668

HOUSEKEEPER.—RE-ENGAGEMENT wanted by middle-aged lady, in quiet family, or to gentleman where servant is kept. Thoroughly domesticated. Good plain cook.—Mrs. R., 1, Victoria-terrace, Willesborough, Ashford, Kent. c6694

AUNT AND NIECE (gentlewomen), disengaged, to undertake work of small house or flat, where only one or two in quiet family. Salaries £20 each. Highest references.—c6677, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6677

HIGHLY RECOMMENDED, a widow as housekeeper, companion to elderly couple or gentleman, where servant is kept. Thoroughly domesticated, good cook, accustomed to household management. Abstainer. Moderate salary. Comfortable home.—Apply, S. GUYS, Registry Office, Saffron Walden. c6719

A CHRISTIAN LADY seeks re-engagement as companion to an elderly or invalid lady. Abstainer, kind, gentle, attentive, and thoughtful. Excellent references.—T., 33, Keildon-road, Clapham Common, S.W. c6704

EARNEST CHRISTIAN, forty, would give services to Christian family going to India, if expenses paid. Cheerful, abstainer, fond of children. Well educated, not musical. Highest references.—Miss LOWNDES, Nailsworth, Glos. c6664

A LADY, with excellent recommendations, desires a post as companion or housekeeper to an elderly lady.—M., 8, Calthorpe-road, Banbury. c6660

LADY OFFERS COMPANIONSHIP and help in light duties. Fair reader. Trustworthy, cheerful, and obliging. A kind, comfortable home valued, with small remuneration.—B., 14, Wolsey-road, Mildmay Park, Islington, N. c6709

YOUNG PERSON, age 27, wants situation as useful help in a Christian family. Small salary.—Apply, R., 9, Great Hampton-street, Birmingham. c6645

SITUATION WANTED by young lady as wardrobe-keeper in boys' or girls' school. Good needlewoman. Five years' reference. Or as lady nurse in good family.—K. HISTED, Forest-row, Sussex. c6650

LADY RECOMMENDS good plain cook. Also disengaged, several general servants (country girls), ages 14 to 20. Good characters.—Registry Office, 20, New Jersey-road, Gloucester. c6639

A PLACE AS GENERAL SERVANT wanted, for a strong girl of 16 or 17 (who knows her work), in a family where one servant is kept, and no children.—Address, Miss ROUTH, Park-road, Southborough, Tunbridge Wells. c6654

GENERAL SERVANT.—A lady wishes to find comfortable Christian home in or near London for an orphan (22), who has been in her service five years. Dissenter, abstainer.—Mrs. BATTY, 23, Kelmore-grove, East Dulwich. c6647

SITUATIONS, ETC., VACANT.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.

9d. for each Additional 9 Words.

Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

RETAIL DRAPERY TRADE.—Smart man wanted for superintendent and assistant-manager in large Scotch warehouse. Age 28 to 35. Reliable. Good references. Abstainer preferred.—c6718, Messrs. Haddon and Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6718

MAN AND WIFE wanted, without family, to take charge of the Sailors' Rest, Dublin. Man must be a Christian. A naval pensioner or sailor preferred.—Address, Mr. J. TIERNEY, 22, Goldsmith-street, Dublin. c6692

COLLECTOR FOR MISSION WORK wanted, either sex. Must be Christian and had previous experience.—Write, stating salary and experience, enclosing copy of references, Z., 44, Mostyn-road, Bow, E. c6721

WANTED, a lady as superintendent of a Sunday School Teachers' Home of Rest.—Apply, by letter, giving full particulars, age, experience, etc., to F. CLEMENTS, 56, Old Bailey, London, E.C. c5410

MATRON wanted for a training home for young girls. Good disciplinarian. Christian, abstainer. Salary £30. Also an assistant for a rescue home. Salary £20.—Apply by letter, with copies of testimonials, to W., 200, Euston-road, London, N.W. c5411

RESCUE HOME, TORQUAY.—Assistant matron. Light work. No salary, but opportunity for earning something afforded. Christian woman whose heart is in the work. Experience not essential. Good references, knowledge of laundry work essential.—Address, Miss BEST, De Burgh, Londonderry. c6714

MRS. JAMES HANNINGTON seeks an under-matron for a small temporary home for destitute girls in Brighton. Must understand plain cooking and housework, and be able to control girls. Christian and abstainer. Age under 30. Salary £18. —Address, 1, Alfred-road, Brighton. c6717

VACANCY FOR YOUNG LADY to learn Telegraphy (4 instruments), and Postal duties. Christian home. Thorough instruction. Appointment found when proficient.—Mrs. WANNELL, N. L. School of Telegraphy, 41, Camden-road, N.W. Terms moderate. c6653

PROPRIETORS (no family), popular private boarding establishment, vicinity Scotch watering place, desire lady partner. Good education and manners. Not above being useful. Knowledge of cooking. Small capital.—c6752, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6752

YOUNG LADY HELP wanted in September. Domesticated. Good needlewoman. Fond of children. C. of E. Desirable home offered to suitable person.—B., "Home Lodge," Birkdale, Southport. c6652

LEAMINGTON SPA.—Trained medical, surgical, and maternity nurses can be supplied from the Y.W.C.A. Home, York House, Clarendon-place, on the shortest notice. Telegrams, "Nursing," Leamington Spa. Terms upon application. c5120

NURSE WANTED, 20-25, two children. Good references required.—Apply, 107, Chetwynd-road, Highgate-road, N.W. c6680

ATTENDANT WANTED for elderly invalid lady. Experienced in nursing, kind, trustworthy, good needlewoman. Liberal wages. Quiet home. Good references indispensable.—Apply, by letter only, stating age, B. B., 11, Oppidans-road, N.W. c6679

CHRISTIAN LADY required as nurse-companion to girl of 16, suffering from slight epilepsy. Must be bright disposition, well educated, musical, experience.—Write, stating age, salary, with full particulars of former occupation, enclosing testimonials and photograph, to c6668, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6668

EASTBOURNE.—Wanted, for large, poor parish, trained and capable parish nurse. Must be thorough Churchwoman, spiritual and evangelical. Salary £70 commencing.—VICAR, Christ Church. c6636

NURSE wanted, for two children, respectable, and with good personal reference. Good needlewoman.—Apply, G., Cumrew, Ditton Hill, Surrey. c6734

A TRAINED NURSE would be willing to take into her cottage home, and train for domestic service, orphan, or destitute girl, age 14, 16. North country preferred.—c6750, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6750

WANTED IN LONDON OR SUBURBS, person who could make underclothing by hand, chiefly at home. If charges moderate, regular work. Send sample of hemming, also running, and good references. Someone also required to do fancy work.—c6645, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6645

A CHRISTIAN WOMAN WANTED, for the baths at the Bishops Teignton Health Resort, Teignmouth. c5391

LAUNDRY MATRON. — Wanted, an assistant matron to take charge of the laundry. A total abstainer. Salary £35, and all found.—Apply to THE SECRETARY, House of Refuge, Chatham, Kent. c6682

LAUNDRESS (experienced) wanted for certified girls' reformatory school. Twelve girls in laundry, and washing taken in for private families. Must be between 25 and 35 years of age. Protestant, and total abstainer. Salary to commence at £30 per annum, with board, lodging, and washing.—Apply, with copies of testimonials, to the LADY SUPERINTENDENT, 6, Tatham-street, Sunderland. c6736

LAUNDRESS wanted, middle of September, at country house. Good unfurnished cottage and all utensils for laundry-work provided. Widow and daughter preferred. Good wages.—Write, A., Willing's Advertisement Office, 162, Piccadilly, W. c6754

WANTED, A THOROUGH Christian lady to undertake cooking (plain) and other domestic duties, oversight of servants (three kept), etc. Good needlewoman. Small salary. Comfortable home.—Address, TRUTH, care Messrs. Deacons, Leadenhall-street, London. c6666

COOK (good plain) wanted in country, three miles from Southampton. Small family, three other servants. Must be well recommended. A Christian servant valued.—Apply, Mrs. MORRIS ASHBY, Lingwood, Bassett, Southampton. c6616

WANTED BY A LADY good plain cook, Christian valued. Also wishes to recommend late cook as working housekeeper.—Mrs. A. R. GRIMSDALE, Rabbs House, Uxbridge. c6711

A RESPECTABLE TRUSTWORTHY person wanted (superior), not under 30, willing to undertake plain cooking in small family. Very comfortable home.—Mrs. BEAVANS, Glenlyn, Archer's-road, Southampton. c6678

CAN ANY LADY recommend a good plain cook, about 30? Quiet, comfortable place. Good wages. Isle of Wight.—Address Miss F., Mount Edgecumbe, The Common, Tunbridge Wells. c6642

CAN ANY LADY recommend as kitchen-maid, where no scullery-maid is kept, a strong, willing, steady girl? Age 18 to 20. Some experience. One who has been scullerymaid preferred. Dairy and baking. Church of England. Small family. Quiet place.—Mrs. HEYWOOD, Elleray, Windermere. c6644

WANTED, FOR SEASIDE BUSINESS house, general servant, strong and willing, about 20. Also lady help, musical, fond of children. Christians preferred. Comfortable home.—23, High-street, Bognor. c6700

LADIES WANTING SERVANTS and servants seeking situations, should apply to Miss MAULDEN (late missionary), 97, Harrow-road, Paddington Green, whose office is well known and kindly recommended by the Rev. G. F. Pentecost, D.D., and others. Stamps for reply. c6664

LADIES REQUIRING SERVANTS or servants situations should apply, Domestic Agency, thirty-six, Coldharbour-lane, Camberwell, S.E. Kindly recommended by Rev. F. B. Meyer, B.A. Ladies' fee, 1s. booking, 1s. 6d. when suited. Servants free. Ten till five. Stamped envelope. c6716

7s. 6d. A WEEK SALARY and upward offered to both sexes (for spare moments) everywhere. The work may be done evenings.—Apply, enclosing addressed envelope, to M. TRUSCOTT AND CO, 5, Sherwood-terrace, Chelston (105), Torquay. c5234

TO LET, APARTMENTS, ETC.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.

9d. for each Additional 9 Words.

Displayed Advertisements according to space.

Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

MIDLAND TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 76, Guilford-street, Russell-square, W.C. — A first-class Hotel for Visitors to London. Central and pleasantly situated. A thoroughly clean and quiet home, with every comfort and convenience. Highly patronised and recommended by the clergy and ladies and gentlemen. Bedrooms from 1s. 6d., breakfast or tea from 1s. 3d., service 9d. Full tariff, with testimonials, free on application to J. W. TURNER, Proprietor.

W. TAVERNER, TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 41 and 43, Judd-street, Euston-road, London, W.C. Five minutes from Great Northern, Midland, and North-Western Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Silent roadway. Ten minutes from British Museum. Tariff on application.

AT LONDON.—TRANTER'S TEMPERANCE HOTEL, Bridgewater-square, Barbican, near St. Paul's Cathedral, G.P.O., and all places of interest. Quiet, clean, economical.—Write for "Visitors' Guide," showing "How to Spend a Week in London," with tariff and testimonials, post free.

BURR'S HOTEL, Queen-square, London, W.C., near British Museum, in centre of Metropolis, but just out of the daily noise and bustle, thus giving restful quiet. Write for terms. c5379

BETTWS-Y-COED, North Wales.—The Pont-y-Pair Temperance Hotel, very comfortable. For terms, which are extremely moderate, apply to the MANAGERESS. c5097

BEXHILL-ON-SEA.—Christian boarding house. Three minutes from sea and station. Air bracing. Home comforts. Terms moderate. Only a limited number received. References exchanged. —Caversham Lodge, Wilton-road. c5664

BOSCOMBE, BOURNEMOUTH.—To let, suites of rooms or entire house, well furnished, fifteen rooms, choice position, main road, very near sea, gardens, arcade, etc. Terms on application.—86, Christchurch-road. c5382

The Christian.

☞ To avoid delay it is requested that all letters relating to business matters should be addressed to the firm, Messrs. Morgan and Scott, and not to its individual members. Communications for THE CHRISTIAN should be addressed to the Editor, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, E.C. Letters of a personal nature should in every case be so marked.

All Advertisements for The Christian should be sent to Messrs. John Haddon and Co., Central Advertising Offices, Bouverie House, Salisbury-square, London, E.C., accompanied by remittance. (For Terms, see Page 1 of cover.)

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

☞ The Publishers request that all orders for The Christian by post, and remittances for same, be addressed to "The Christian" Postal Department, Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, London, E.C.

Cheques and Post Orders to be made payable to Messrs. John Haddon and Co. at that address.

The subscription for one year, including Postage and Coloured Almanack, is as under :—

For Great Britain and Ireland ..	6s. 7d. per annum
For India, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, France, Germany, and other European Countries	3s. 10d. „ „
For United States and Canada ..	2½ dols. „ „
Or including Monthly Copy of Herald of Mercy	2½ dols. „ „

Subscriptions for The Herald of Mercy.

4 Copies monthly	2s. per annum
8 „ „	4s. „ „
12 „ „	6s. „ „
24 „ „	12s. „ „

Post free to any address at home or abroad.

Remittances to be sent as above. Postcard should be enclosed for receipt or extra stamp to cover postage of same.

Notes and Comments.

Our readers will be interested in Rev. H. Montgomery's excellent account of "Northfield Revisited," on p. 13. We know of no better investment for Christian stewards than this apostolic work, and we trust that the Northfield and Mount Hermon management may be much encouraged by liberal gifts from the old land. Students from the British Isles, of whom there are quite a number, receive as warm a welcome as those from America.

We have long been persuaded that the standard for public men, which has of late years been gradually raised, should make it impossible for a nobleman connected with the Turf to lead either of the great political parties. The British Weekly, while saying a great many kind things of Lord Rosebery, has spoken the opinions of a large body of people when it says that his position would be immensely strengthened if he abandoned his connection with the Turf. Nay, further, that he cannot permanently lead his party unless he decisively "breaks off from an amusement which is so fruitful a source of misery and demoralisation." All public men, of whatever party, should be above reproach. To this end much remains to be done.

The case of Armenia, which seemed to be very black a few weeks ago, has suddenly brightened up again. Not a party question in itself, but a question of humanity, it promises to unite all parties for the relief of the oppressed. The tone of public sentiment has become vastly firmer, the last evasion of its duty by Turkey having greatly contributed to this end. Misguided by the spirit of falsehood and of insolent oppression, Turkey cannot understand that the one thing which the West demands for the Christian populations is liberty and safety, and that with nothing short of this will it be satisfied. This must be guaranteed, not with a Turkish pledge, but in a way to assure the Armenians and their friends. Turkey may as well yield now as later, for yield she must, and the Government must see to it.

A correspondent writes to The Rock to express the surprise with which he read a short time ago that the representatives of the drink traffic had made an appeal to the clergy to support them in resisting "what they call spoliation." How have the drink sellers ever aided the work of the clergy? Where have they, in any parish, closed the taverns in consideration of a special service either on a week-night or a Sunday? Other tradespeople have been known to close at an earlier hour every evening during a mission week, in order to allow their employés and others to attend the services, but the publican seldom or never. This correspondent remarks, with great force, that when the trade closes on Sunday evenings during divine service, and disallows and stops gambling and other bad practices at public-houses, it may with a better grace seek the support of the clergy. Only evil can profit by such a union.

The Women's Liberal League of Auckland (N.Z.) has passed a resolution in favour of the rigid enforcement of the C.D. Acts as a safeguard to wives. It is quite certain that to allow immorality even under supposed sanitary conditions will not prevent, but foster it; and if the moral, which is the root of the physical, evil be made easy, the latter will also grow and thrive. The Liberal women of Auckland are playing with a weapon which always wounds and destroys their sex. Our New Zealand friends would learn much from the pamphlets of Messrs. Dyer Bros., 31, Paternoster-square, London, E.C.

Henri Fourneau remarks very pertinently in the Paris Signal that however strange it may seem to hear about priests as reformers in our time, yet "converted priests reformed the Church and the people in the sixteenth century." True, and in our day they have done much for Italy. It would indeed be matter for rejoicing if converted French priests, of whom there seem to be a good number, were to be the messengers of Christ to their own people. Why not? A converted priest would be likely to have far more power than anyone else; he knows better what he is contending against; he knows also the worth of what he has found in the Gospel, and he is the best equipped by experience and training.

Captain Gambier points out in an article on "The Papacy, its Position and Aims," that it seems indisputable that a great blessing has befallen the Church of Rome through the loss of its temporalities. The Pope, a man of great intellectual power, has been left free to attend to what may properly be called the legitimate business of his position. Nevertheless, the resumption of temporal power is a fixed idea with him; it is the pivot on which everything turns; the Pope never wavers in the belief that somehow it will come back. How it may come about is a question which Captain Gambier attempts to answer in this way: "By abstention on the part of the faithful in Italy from all political matters, power is gradually slipping into the hands which must ruin the country." The present Government upset, the restoration of the temporal power would become a European necessity, for the simple reason that, "failing an Italian King, no other person, except the Pope, would be allowed by the other Powers to seat himself there." Perhaps so; perhaps not. We have often seen as well founded forecasts as this utterly at fault. But we know what the Pope aims at.

An article (somewhat startling for so Conservative an organ) appears in The Church Times on certain church reforms, which it deems both needed and practicable. While not wishing to weaken a clergyman's hold upon his benefice, it calls for some scheme, having only prospective force, which should require from him a "quid pro quo somewhat more in proportion than at present." The proposal is intended to reach

> The minority—larger, we fear, than would be admitted by optimist officials—who are not proof against the temptations to ease and indolence involved in an established position.

A minister whom the love of Christ does not constrain, nor a sense of obligation bind to his work has mistaken his calling altogether. Our contemporary would give the flock some voice in the appointment of their own shepherd, and it would also have parish church business managed by bonâ fide members of the church. This is all good in its way, if it be ever borne in mind that life is more than machinery.

Rev. J. C. Welldon, of Harrow, supports the theory that British sports are mainly the foundation of British power. He ascribes to us as a nation five imperial qualities—physical strength, promptitude, self-reliance, character, and religion. An Englishman's readiness to seize opportunities he believes to be our national distinction, and that it is fostered by school life with its games. Mr. Welldon believes that, notwithstanding the faults of the Englishman, he has been deep down in his heart God-fearing. If so, he often fails to show it.

Among the shrewd sayings of the late Bishop Thorold there are few wiser and wittier than the one which he spoke at a banquet of the citizens of Winchester in honour of his appointment to the See :—

> And if I make mistakes I hope you will remember that it is human to make mistakes, and that you will be quite sure I have made a mistake before you blame me for it!

Many a wounded heart would have been spared much pain if its accuser had first been sure that there was something to blame before blaming. Appearances often mislead; "judge not according to appearances, but judge righteous judgment." Personal misunderstandings and church quarrels would be much less frequent if this one precept of the Master were observed.

The Thinker notices a dissertation on faith by Carl Bötticher, of Berlin, which contains some suggestive points. Leaving out the element of conviction, he gives the elements of faith as unconditional confidence, complete surrender of heart and will, and victorious energy. The last-named is specially seen in the examples of faith given in Hebrews, the opening verse of the famous chapter being given thus: "Now faith is the power by means of which we lay down as certain what is still an object of hope, and regard as proved facts, which are still unseen."

In a paper on "Early Ideas of the Divinity of Christ," Professor Adeney calls attention to the fact that the silence of most of the New Testament writers on the manner of our Lord's birth is a singular confirmation of the record given by Matthew and Luke. "They never," he says, "let slip a single phrase that can be construed into an implicit denial of the great miracle. How easily they might have done so! Yes, if they had not known it, and penned everything with it in view. They said nothing contradictory of it, because they wrote as men who knew the fact, and who kept it in its right place, with other things in their right places. One other sentence in this brief paper is much too good to be passed over :—

It seems to be forgotten at times that, if the New Testament writers were not advanced critics, at all events they were not quite blind to the most palpable meaning of their words.

We do not like such a phrase as "the eloquence of Jesus Christ," however reverently it may be used. It savours of effort and style and manner—things which we do not associate with Him. Yet a French writer under this title has said some very true things, e.g.:—

Jesus does not labour to attain the truth, but by a flash of intuition seizes it, and in a word gives it expression. He does not reason as a philosopher, but speaks as a Master.

We never follow the story of the Gospels without being struck with the way in which every passing circumstance is there and then dealt with, every incident turned to account, every question answered. The parable comes at the moment, apposite, full, perfect. There is never a trace of growth in it; it might have been lying in our Lord's mind finished and ready to be spoken. What no man has ever succeeded in doing with the profoundest study, He did perfectly amid the rush and hurry of life. "Never man spake like this man."

The Kumi-ai churches of Japan are those which have grown out of the labours of the missionaries sent by the American Board of Missions, and are the most numerous in that Empire; in influence and culture also they are in advance of other churches. Now they are asking to be free, and to be allowed themselves to evangelise their own people. The American Board is sending out a deputation to confer with them as to the wisest step to take. We shall look with great interest for the result. If there be any country from which foreign missionaries might withdraw with safety, it seems to be Japan, which is so assimilative of ideas and methods, and yet so self-reliant and self-restrained. Beneath all this there may, however, be needs and weaknesses of which outsiders have little or no knowledge, and which would counsel delay.

"Be Filled with the Spirit."

Much valuable truth has been advanced of late years upon the above passage of Scripture. The subject, however, is far from being exhausted.

If we regard the outpouring of the Spirit at Pentecost as the witness from heaven to the exaltation of the crucified, risen, and ascended Christ to the right hand of the Majesty on High, all power having been given to Him in heaven and earth, we can accept the display and glory of Pentecost as being unique, and worthy of the inauguration of the dispensation of the Spirit as the Comforter, Guide, and Teacher of God's people during the absence of their Lord.

The promise of the Spirit had long been prophesied of (see Isa. xliv. 3, Ezek. xxxvi. 27, and Joel ii. 28). But the plenitude of the promise was only witnessed at Pentecost. Dispensations overlap each other! Our Lord said to the woman at Jacob's well, "The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in Spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship Him," i.e., if you have faith for it, you may now ("now is"), before the "coming hour" arrives, worship God as a Father.

So likewise in respect to the set time of Pentecost, the Lord had declared, "If any man thirst let him come unto Me and drink." This said He "of the Spirit." And "He breathed on them (his disciples), and saith unto them, receive ye the Holy Ghost." Both instances occurred before Pentecost.

And after Pentecost there is abundant evidence of the supply of the Spirit being vouchsafed to those who thirst for it (Rev. xxi. 6). "I will give unto Him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely" (Rev. xxii. 17). "Let him that is athirst come, and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

It will be admitted that spiritual life is of the operation of the Spirit, for "if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his."

As natural life exists in various degrees, so likewise spiritual life may exist in feebleness or in vigour. The will of the Lord is clear: "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly," or in abundance.

As sentient and responsible beings, the measure of the life as well as of the energisings of the Spirit will largely depend upon the measure of our felt need and faith: "According to your faith be it unto you."

In Isa. xliv. 3. "I will pour water upon him that is thirsty," but where the need can be compared to the dry and parched ground "floods" shall be accorded. And "I will pour my Spirit upon thy seed." We see the same truth in the words of our Lord already referred to, "If any man thirst let him come unto Me and drink," i.e., his thirst shall be quenched! But if a man believes in Jesus and accepts Him as Lord and Saviour, then "out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water, this spake He of the Spirit." See also John iv. 14.

May we, therefore, not limit the Lord in respect to this promise, but entreat Him to enlarge our desires and appreciation of it from day to day. He will not disappoint our expectations, for "He satisfieth the longing soul and filleth the hungry soul with goodness" (Ps. x. 7-9). The figure employed by our Lord, "rivers of living water," plainly shows, however, that it is not being made recipients of the outpouring of the Spirit, once for all, that should satisfy us, but rather the constant supply of the energy of the Spirit inflowing, infilling, and outflowing us, whilst the emotions and "signs following" should be considered as subsidiary. I notice this for the sake of any who may be unduly expecting the continuance of the emotion they felt at the time when they were filled with the Spirit (as they believed), and are, perhaps, disappointed at the susidence of it.

In proofs of our sincerity and appreciation of the blessing, may we not only present our tithes to the Lord, but lay ourselves, body, soul, and spirit, and all we possess, upon the altar of consecration! when the windows of heaven will assuredly be opened and blessing more than we can receive be vouchsafed us.

Lastly, let us not be unmindful of the devices of Satan and the insidious temptations of the carnal nature. "Ye ask (right things) and receive not, because ye ask amiss, i.e., that ye may consume it upon your lusts." We need to watch and pray that in all things God may be glorified.

W. T. Berger.

The Chinese Massacres.

The terrible massacre of missionaries in China, happening at a time when no question of absorbing interest was before the country, has attracted an unusual amount of attention. It is well that it has done so. It has recalled us somewhat to higher ends than making money or enjoying pleasure. It has stirred generous and kindly thought, if not always devout feeling. It will ultimately rouse in the churches everything that is loyal to Christ, and reinforce Christian missions with new faith and enthusiasm. Every detail of the tragedy which comes to hand, every fact of the lives of those who have suffered, go to show how wisely and lovingly they served the Chinese, and how foul has been the treachery and cruelty of the officials; on them, rather than on the mob, rests the responsibility of the crime.

There can be no doubt that the outrage is in some degree a result of the recent war. Dr. Griffith John, of Hankow, than whom no man knows China better, is of opinion that these recurring outbursts are directed against foreigners as such, and not against missionaries as such. Missionaries fall, because there are comparatively so many of them, and because they can be so easily got at; they have gone as far as ever they could into the country, and remain there, whereas a traveller or trader passes on. The war with Japan has had the effect of throwing the country still more open to the foreigner, and has thus rekindled the old hatred. The curious thing is that even after peace was signed the people were being deluded with the idea that China was winning; all the more galling the defeat when they learned of it.

The newspapers have given great prominence to the Chinese news, and have in some instances displayed astounding ignorance. Dr. Griffith John, of Hankow, was styled Dr. John Hankow by one of them, and they have told us that China is the most difficult mission field in the world, "a corner" (!) yielding practically no crop; that the Chinese have "native religion which answers fully to their spiritual aspirations"; that while in other parts of the world the missionary is a civilising power, he is not so in China, which was civilised when we were savages; that we should get a thousandfold more for our work at home; and that at least missionaries would do well to remain on the Chinese seaboard under shelter of our British guns, and not go inland. It would require a small treatise to correct such mistakes; enough to say that China is not a sterile land, and that her converts are both numerous enough and good enough to make it worth our while to strain every nerve to evangelise her.

One great anxiety is lest our friends in China should sometimes needlessly wound native prejudices, or forget native ways of thinking and living. We have the strongest assurance that the recent martyrs were exemplary in these respects, but some do forget, and thereby create prejudices and arouse evil thoughts. "Let not your good be evil spoken of."

It is to be hoped that Christian zeal will not appeal to force of arms for protection. We should regard it as the greatest calamity, worse than any number of martyrdoms, if the messenger of love and peace became identified with the cannon of British gunboats. The spirit in which the victims themselves would have regarded their murderers, we feel certain, would be that of their Lord and Master: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

The Press in India.

Dear Editor,—We wish to bring the following matter before your readers for their kind consideration.

An Indian paper has just come to hand in which the editor says:—"Agnosticism is undermining the foundations of morality and religion among the educated classes, and missionary effort seems impotent to control it. We must acknowledge that little or nothing is being done for enlightening the educated classes—those thousands who have left college and have entered on the sea of life. In the schools and colleges we have access, no doubt, to the natives of the higher classes, but it is only to such of them who are young and ignorant; those of a more advanced age are not within the pale of Christian influence. If India is to be evangelised, we must not neglect the educated classes."

As you are doubtless aware, there are many newspapers springing up in India which are attempting to furnish mental and spiritual food for the five millions of natives in India who know English, and for the ten times larger number who read in one or other of the native languages.

Many of these newspapers are having a wide circulation, for the people of India, roused at last from the sleep of centuries, are working up to a new thought and to a new life, and are eagerly reading whatever is put before them.

We believe that many of these are really hungering and thirsting after truth, but not knowing what is truth their minds remain in a state of doubt and unrest.

It must be evident to anyone who is conversant with what is going on in India that of the four great powers—the press, the pulpit, the platform, and the parlour—the former is destined to play a foremost part in the regeneration of India. Surely whoever will help the editors of India to see what is true and right, and to think good and noble thoughts, will do much for the people of India. What, then, do we suggest or wish?

Undoubtedly many readers of The Christian, after they have read their weekly numbers, in order that they may be of use to others, forward them to such of their friends as may not have the means to take the paper, or perhaps to the inmates of orphanages, poorhouses, infirmaries, and such institutions; but probably many make no further use of their papers after they have read them. Christ said, "Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost." Are there not many who, if their attention were called to the matter, would be willing to forward their papers regularly to these Indian editors? The postage would be but a trivial matter.

As its articles are addressed to an audience which is scattered over the world's surface; as many of the themes discussed are of general interest; as they are discussed in a broad and sympathetic manner; as the aim of the writers is to promote the cause of truth and righteousness; as it is evident that the writers of these articles are men and women who take Christ as King; and as the paper is altogether bright and attractive, we feel sure that many of the wide-awake Indian editors, the majority of whom know English, would be glad to receive The Christian, and would not only be influenced by its high moral tone and earnest Christian spirit, but would frequently cull from its columns for the benefit of their readers.

A good many of these editors have inserted articles in their papers at our request, and it has been a surprise to us to see how ready they were to copy into their sheets interesting and valuable articles from English and American papers.

Perhaps there are some who would send to the Editor of The Christian the subscription for one or more copies, to be sent to these editors regularly.

Hoping that you will favourably consider the subject, we remain sincerely yours,

Mary and Margaret W. Leitch.

Chavagacherry, Jaffna, Ceylon.

[We shall be pleased to do whatever we can to carry out the proposal of our kind correspondents, and to communicate with any friends willing to take up the matter.—Ed.]

Missionary Service.

By Mr. GEORGE MULLER.

At a meeting gathered at Alma-road Chapel, Bristol, to bid farewell to Miss Reynolds, prior to her departure as a missionary to China, Mr. Muller gave an earnest address on "Service," amplifying the following points:—

(1) We must be ourselves believers, or we may do great injury to others who are unbelievers, instead of doing them good. (2) We must know for ourselves that we are regenerate. Lack of this will soon lead to half-hearted service. We shall be looking back to this present evil world. (3) We must seek habitually after happiness in the Lord. We are to rejoice in our God. By this our work will be greatly affected; for it is not so much the amount of our work, as the spirit in which it is done.

In order to be thus happy believers (4) we must be lovers of Holy Scripture. After my conversion in 1825 I used to read the Bible, but it was not till about four years later that I was a lover of God's Holy Word. I believe this is one chief reason that I have been kept in happy useful service, because I have been a lover of Holy Scripture; and I love it more now than ever I did. It has been my habit to read the Scriptures through four times in a year; and it is important to read it in a prayerful spirit, to meditate upon what we read, and to apply it to our own hearts. Do I understand this? Do I obey this? What has this word for me?

Then (5) we must practise what we find in the Scripture, and the result will be a happy man, a happy woman. I have been for sixty-nine years a happy man; and I desire for my beloved brethren and sisters that they may be happy, happy, happy, ten times more happy than ever I have been in my life; for it is impossible to tell what God may give to us in this way if we are thus lovers of Holy Scripture. (6) We must take joyfully and gratefully the place that God gives us. (7) All our service must be preceded and followed by prayer. (8) Look for answers to your prayers. These are general principles which apply to all kinds of service.

A REMARKABLE REMINISCENCE.

In reference especially to our young sister, who is leaving us for service in China, and also for the benefit of any others who may be going afterwards to labour in foreign lands, I should like to add a word concerning the language. Our sister cannot speak in Chinese, and the language takes time to learn. When I came to England, sixty-six years and four months ago, I knew very little English indeed, and as I began to speak a few words, I used to go out and talk to the children; and though they used to laugh at my mistakes, I took notice, and was diligent to use the few words that I knew, and so I got on to learn others and to improve myself in the language. Use the words that you know, and you will soon make progress. But better far than this is what follows:—It is now sixty-three years and four months since a young woman, gaily dressed, and with her face painted, was going out for a holiday on the Lord's day; but first she thought she would go into Gideon Chapel and hear the foreign preacher, to make fun of his language. She only meant to remain two or three minutes, but she found she could not go out. Her attention was fixed. The Word reached her heart. She was rooted to her seat, and was converted to God that morning.

She went away from the service to wash the paint from her face and to long for the evening meeting. In the evening she brought her sister, and at that service the sister was also converted. Then she brought with her a married sister, and she was converted. Then the married sister's husband, who was a great drunkard, was brought. He would stand outside a public-house and take off his jacket and exchange it for gin, and then he would take off his waistcoat and exchange that for gin. He was converted, and became a preacher in the villages for thirty years, and he had no more trouble with the drink. Afterwards this young woman brought a younger brother, and he was converted. This younger brother had an intended wife, and she was brought and was also converted. Twelve months after I was invited to tea with that family, and there were present nine persons who had thus been brought to the Lord through that young woman who came in to make fun of the foreign preacher and his language. I have told you this not in the way of boasting, but to encourage those who have a desire to serve in foreign places. May God greatly bless you all and help us all to please Him in our service whether at home or abroad!

MRS. BAEYERTZ IN CAMPBELTOWN.

This town, so noted for its distilleries and whisky, has had the privilege of a fortnight's visit from this evangelist. The campaign opened on Sabbath, July 14, with services in the Highland Established Church, the largest sanctuary in the town, and capable of comfortably seating 1800 people. During the week the afternoon Bible-readings were held in the large hall of the Christian Institute. These readings riveted the attention of the earnest portion of the community, as well as of the surrounding country districts, and were greatly appreciated. Perhaps the outstanding features of them were Mrs. Baeyertz's marvellous grip of God's Word, her unswerving and fearless faithfulness in addressing the Christian conscience, and her urgency in summoning God's heritage to a holier life.

Her evening evangelistic work was conducted partly in Lorne-street Free Church and partly in the Highland Established Church, and many souls were deeply impressed. Evening after evening quite a number passed into the inquiry-room, and on the last Sabbath night of the mission both the Church Hall and Shore-street Mission Hall had to be utilised in dealing with the anxious. All the Presbyterian churches shared in the blessing. It was felt by many that there were at least three of the addresses that were specially powerful and memorable—that on "The Unpardonable Sin," that on "The Passover," and that on "The Lord's Second Coming." To many this latter was something akin to a revelation. She gave a masterly résumé of Jewish history, showing the part played and yet to be played by the despised Hebrew nation in the history of redemption.

Looking back over this mission that has revived so many of God's people and led so many to decision, there were several circumstances that impressed us: (1) the evangelist's thrilling personal and spiritual history; (2) her tender love for the Redeemer, whom she ever exalts; (3) her strong faith in and dependence upon the Holy Ghost; (4) her profound reverence for and insight into the Bible as the Word of God; (5) her remarkable gift of choice, ready, and logical speech; (6) her wise and spiritual treatment of anxious souls in the inquiry-room.

F.C. Manse, Campbeltown. Alexander Bain.

Songs Born of Sorrow.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, B.A.

The Church owes many of her sweetest hymns to the profound anguish which wrung the hearts of her noblest children. The rough feet of trial and pain have stamped, as in the oil-press, hearts whose life-blood is preserved in matchless lyrics. There is no such raw material for songs that live from heart to heart as that furnished by sorrow.

It has been said by a modern writer that, to his thought, the mysterious beauty of music is more wonderful than the prodigality of form and colour which overspreads the whole of nature; and he goes on to show that man only develops and liberates the music which is latent in almost all substances, waiting for his coming to give it expression. "Man only develops what was within them, just as the coal which is extracted from the bowels of the earth, when set on fire, merely liberates the heat and light, which in the forest it received from the sun." Is not this speechless music, locked within nature, pleading to be let out in song or sound through the agency of man, part of the earnest expectation of the creature, which waits for the manifestation of the sons of God?

It is remarkable how many of David's psalms date from those dark and sad days, when he was hunted as a partridge upon the mountains. His path may be tracked through the Psalter, as well as in the sacred narrative of his wanderings. Keilah, Ziph, Maon, Engedi, yielded themes for strains which will live for ever. To this gifted singer the power was entrusted of eliciting the music that lay concealed in the least congenial haunts. Is it not strange that these wild desolations are now immortal, and that each has contributed chords to the complete music of the soul? We will for a little trace the parallel lines of David's history and song.

I.—A CLUSTER OF PSALMS.

Keilah.—While sheltering in the forest of Hareth, tidings came of a foray of the Philistines on one of the hapless border-towns. "Behold, the Philistines are fighting against Keilah, and they rob the threshing-floors." The year's harvest was at that time spread out for threshing; it was an opportune moment therefore for the plunderer. The labours of the year were being carried off and the cattle "lifted" by Israel's bitter and relentless foes. Wrapped in these tidings there was probably a covert appeal for help from one who had often proved himself a wall of defence on the southern frontier. Saul was too far away, and perhaps too intent on his fancied personal wrongs, to be available for the rapid action that was required. David was alert, energetic, near at hand. The appeal to him was not in vain; especially as it was ratified by the Divine voice. He arose and went down from the hill-country of Judah into the plains, met the marauders on their return journey, heavily laden with booty and impeded with cattle, smote them with great slaughter, and brought back all the spoil to the rejoicing townsfolk, who, in return for his services, gladly lodged and entertained him and his men.

It was a brief spell of sunshine in a dark and cloudy day, and must have been very welcome to the weary little band. To be again in a town that had "gates and bars" was as welcome an exchange to life in the dens and caves of the earth as the comforts of civilisation are after the privations of the Tartar steppes. And this gleam of comfort probably elicited from the minstrel-chieftain Psalm xxxi., "Blessed be the Lord, for He hath showed me his marvellous loving-kindness in a strong city."

Ziph.—His stay in Keilah was brought to a summary close by the tidings, given perhaps through Jonathan, that Saul was preparing an expedition to take him, like a trapped bird, even though he destroyed in the attempt the city that sheltered his rival. These tidings were confirmed through the ephod, by which David appealed to the God of Israel; and the further information was communicated that the cowardly and ungrateful townsfolk, when forced to choose between the king and himself, would not scruple to save themselves by surrendering their deliverer. Then David and his men, in number about 600, arose and departed out of Keilah, and went whithersoever they could go. Perhaps they broke up into small parties, whilst the leader, with the more intrepid and devoted of his followers, made his way to the neighbourhood of Ziph, about three miles south of Hebron.

This was about the lowest ebb in David's fortunes. The king was searching for him every day with a malignity which made it evident that he had come out to seek his life. Beneath the expressions and formulas of devout religion which he carefully maintained (xxii. 7, 21), Saul secretly cherished the resolve of thwarting the Divine purpose. He knew, so Jonathan told his friend in a hurried interview the two noble youths arranged in the wood of Ziph, that David would be king over Israel. But this did not abate his determination to take his life if he could. What a desperate condition his soul had reached, as the result of turning itself to its own wild and evil way! And manifestly David had every reason to fear the outbursts of the hatred which, in proud defiance, had even set itself against the will of God.

In addition to this relentless hate there was the meditated treachery of the Ziphites, who sought to curry favour with the king by betraying David's lurking-place. Tidings of their intended falseness came to David, and he moved further south to the wilderness of Maon, where a conical hill gives a far extended view of the surrounding country. Thither the men of Ziph conducted the king with such deadly accuracy, that, before they could escape, the little beleaguered band found the hill on which they gathered surrounded by the royal troops, and their escape rendered impossible. Well for them that a breathless messenger at this juncture burst in on Saul with the words, "Haste thee, and come, for the Philistines have made a raid on the land."

Then David drew a long sigh of relief, and sang Psalm liv.: "Save me, O God, by thy name, and judge me by thy might."

Engedi.—From Maon, when the heat of the pursuit was over, David removed his quarters eastward to the strongholds of the wild goat on the shores of the Dead Sea. On the western shore, midway between north and south, there is a little piece of level ground, covered with the rich luxuriance of tropical vegetation. It is jealously fenced in by giant cliffs, jutting out into the dark waters of the lake, but its beauty is maintained by a tepid stream which, issuing from the limestone rock, 400 feet above the glen, "rushes down the steep descent, fretted by many a rugged crag, and raining its spray over verdant borders of acacias, mimosa, and lotus." It is said that grey weather-beaten stones mark the site of an ancient city, and traces of palms have been discovered encrusted in the limestone. But the tangle of a tropical jungle now reigns supreme. This was David's next resort—En-gedi, the haunt of the wild goat—where deep caverns in the steep cliffs, and the abundance of water-supply, furnished two of the most important items in his sparse and frugal programme. Here, again, the Psalmist sets his experiences to music in two priceless songs. Psalm lvii., "Be merciful unto me, O God, for my soul taketh refuge in Thee," and Psalm cxlii., "I cry with my voice unto the Lord, with my voice unto the Lord, do I make supplication."

Wilderness Experiences also gave rise to other psalms, all of them marked by a recurrence of the same metaphors borrowed from the wilderness and rocky scenery, of the same protestations of innocence, of the same appeals for the overshadowing wing of the Most High, of the same delicately-worded references to Saul. Amongst these are Psalms xi., xiii., xvii., xxii., xxv., lxiv.

II.—SOME CHARACTERISTICS OF THESE PSALMS.

We cannot deal with them in detail, but one or two features arrest the most superficial glance.

Their Imagery.—Men are as lions. "My soul is among lions, I lie among them that are set on fire." His soul takes refuge in God, hiding in the shadow of his wings, as he had often seen the eaglets do beneath the broad pinion of the parent-bird. God is his Rock, he hides in Him, as his fugitive band in the strong deep sides of the cave. His Divine helper will not let his enemies triumph over him; it shall happen to them, as so often happened to hunters in those very wilds, when they fell down the crumbling sides of pits dug to trap the creatures of the forest. At night, he shelters in God; with his psaltery he awakes the dawn. All these psalms are bathed in image and metaphors like these.

Their Delicate References to Saul.—He does not spare his epithets for those who goad the king to murderous hate. The men that watched for his stumbling, that cried "report it! report it!" that misrepresented and maligned him, are dealt with in no hesitating or mincing tones. But of Saul he says nothing, unless there is a veiled allusion to him in the plural, with which he describes the violent men that sought after his life. There is a plaintive allusion to happy days, past for ever, when he manifested his profund sympathy for the king's terrible malady, wearing sackcloth on his flesh, and humbling his soul with fasting (xxxv. 13); but there are no words of reproach, no upbraidings, no repayment of hate with hate. In this there is an anticipation of the teaching and temper of Jesus.

There is Conscious Rectitude.—His conscience was void of offence towards God and man. If challenged as to his absolute sinlessness, he would have been the first to deprecate anything of the sort; instantly he would have acknowledged that in his rough soldier-life, he was constantly in need of the propitiating sacrifices, which should plead for him with God. But, in respect to Saul, or to any treachery against him or his house, or to any crime deserving such treatment as that with which he was threatened, he protested his absolute innocence, and turned confidently to God, with clean hands and a pure heart, as one who had not lifted up his soul unto vanity, or sworn deceitfully (Psa. vii. 3, 4, 5; xxiv.).

There is a Great Evidence of Suffering.—Pain is attributable to four distinct sources.

To the direct agency of Satan, under God's permission.

To the results of our own wrong-doing.

To the Providence of God for high moral ends.

To the malignity and malevolence of our fellows.

Of all these, there is none so hard to bear, that stings so sharply, and strikes its poison fangs so deeply, as the last. This is what David suffered from most of all. To his highly sensitive spirit it was the acutest form of torture, that though he was absolutely innocent, though he was willing to give himself to prayer and ministry on their behalf, yet his calumniators pursued him with such unrelenting malice—"Their teeth are spears and arrows, and their tongue a sharp sword."

But his Appeal Was to God.—

"Save me by thy name.
Judge me by thy might."

"Behold God is my helper."

"I will cry unto God most High;
Unto God that performeth all things for me.
He shall send from heaven, and save me.
God shall send forth his mercy and truth."

"Refuge hath failed me, no man careth for my soul.
I cried unto Thee, O Lord.
I said, Thou art my refuge."

What depths of pathos lie in these stanzas of petition! He does not seek to retaliate or avenge his wrong; but commits himself to Him who judgeth righteously, assured that the Righteous One will shelter him during the time of trial, and ultimately bring out his righteousness as the light, and his judgment as the noonday.

If any should read these lines who is unjustly maligned and persecuted, let them rest in the Lord and wait patiently for Him. Some little time may elapse before the hour of deliverance may strike, during which they must wear white robes of stainless innocence and purity (Rev. vi. 11), but presently God will arise, and lift the poor out of the dust of the needy from the dunghill, to make them sit with princes and inherit the throne of glory. For the needy shall not always be forgotten, nor the expectation of the poor perish for ever.

THE NEW HEBRIDES.—In The Presbyterian there is appearing a series of lengthy letters by Rev. Oscar Michelsen, author of Cannibals Won for Christ, giving an account of his work on Tongoa.

MONKWEARMOUTH.—The foundation-stones were laid last week of a new mission church at Monkwearmouth, Sunderland, in connection with the Rescue and Evangelisation Mission, Sheffield, of which Mr. W. Corbridge is the superintendent. The Mission was commenced in a populous part of Monkwearmouth about eight months ago, and has been very successful. Since the effort was formed 142 souls have professed conversion, and £160 have been given by the members and friends to help on the work; 170 open-air and 250 indoor meetings have been held. The pastor has paid 2100 visits to the people. Open-air meetings are held three times in the week, and three times on Sunday. Help towards the building fund is much needed. The pastor is Mr. R. R. Greenwood, 13, Dundas-street, Monkwearmouth, Sunderland.

The Neglected Continent.

By Mrs. HARRIET L. MILNE.

PIONEERING IN PERU.

In my last letter I spoke of the farewell meeting at Callao for the young men from the East London Institute going to Cusco. On June 19 we went on board to say good-bye. Dr. Wood, who knows well the annoyances, imprisonments, etc., to which our Bible colporteurs have been subjected in that region, was able to obtain for them with great difficulty, and only at the last moment, some protection in the shape of a document, signed by the Minister of the Government of Peru, saying that they were British subjects, and claiming safe transit for them and their baggage. The paper only reached the house after we had all gone. Though it was already sunset, Mrs. Wood took a boat and managed to put it into Mr. Peters' hand before the steamer sailed, returning alone and in the dark.

Just as Miss Wood and I stepped on shore we were attracted by the sound of singing, and soon recognised the music as that of one of our own Gospel hymns. Presently we came upon a group of children, standing round a table with a lamp and singing lustily. They saluted us as we passed, and as the grateful music followed us, we felt thankful for the "beginnings" we had seen that day.

Last week, the prayer-meeting was again an occasion of farewell—that of the pastor, Señor Trigoyen, and Señor Carbajal, one of the church members, who are about to start as colporteurs for the American Bible Society, working in the south of the Republic, and going toward Cusco. Since colportage was stopped here, on account of the detention of the books, Dr. Wood has given some of the men employment in various kinds of Christian work, and has meanwhile encouraged them to persevere with, and has superintended, their studies. Señor Trigoyen is one of them, and so for a year and a-half he has been a pastor of the Spanish congregation. He is an Ecuadorian by birth, but took up arms for Peru during the Chilian war, and on one occasion was the only one left alive of thirteen men in charge of a cannon. His former experience makes him valuable as a colporteur, in which work he has been "in journeyings oft, in perils of waters, in perils in the city, in weakness and painfulness," as well as in "cold and nakedness." The other man is a humble artisan untried as to colportage work, whom Trigoyen has chosen and requested as his companion on this journey. Both men addressed the meeting shortly, Trigoyen asking humbly that they would pray rather for the triumph of the great cause than for the preservation of his poor life.

Dr. Wood reminded us that the old Bishop of Arequipa (at whose instance, in 1889, Señor Penzotti and two of his men were illegally thrown into prison there, detained for nineteen days, and had their books confiscated, and who has always taken the attitude and shown the nature of a tiger toward the Bible and all Evangelical work) still holds his place and power; though the Government officials who figured in that affair, obeying the Bishop's mandate against all law, have since died. Mr. Milne sought to encourage their hearts from the text, from which also Dr. Wood preached on Sunday night: "All power is given unto Me; go ye therefore." Others in the audience spoke shortly or led in prayer, women as well as men. Many of the women here have the gift of ready and well-ordered speech.

The following Sunday, during the closing exercises in the Sunday-school, Mrs. Wood asked if some of the boys would lead in prayer for their pastor, as this would probably be his last Sunday with them. After a moment's hesitation a coloured boy stood up; turning round half shyly he said, "Let us pray," and offered a short, well-worded prayer. The laddie's eyes were full of tears, and it was some little time before he ventured to lift his head. Then there was another, and another, and had the time been extended there would have been more. "Did you tell the boys beforehand?" I asked as we left the school. "No, indeed; I merely asked Señor Illercas in school if any of his boys would lead in prayer, and he said, 'Certainly.'"

Señor Illescas is another of Penzotti's old staff of colporteurs, who has also been through various perils and in prison for the work's sake, and who now teaches a day-school. Visiting in his school one day, after hearing some lessons recited, he told us of a sort of mutual improvement association which the boys had formed among themselves. They have the regular staff of officers, committee for visiting the sick, a small savings bank, etc. The senor secretario read the constitution to us. We were introduced to the other officers, and shared the boys' pride on the occasion. It has sometimes been said that school teaching is not mission work. Perhaps it is not; perhaps it is; but it is delightful to see both the doctrine and practice of the Gospel taught so prominently as it is here.

Our hearts are made glad these days by tokens of interest in South America from various quarters. Dr. Wood has recently received a letter from an inter-denominational missionary association formed in Toronto, with a view to sending the Gospel to the republics of this long neglected continent, making inquiries as to needs and opportunities. We hear also that more are coming from England. Our last letter from Buenos Ayres tells us of a missionary journey undertaken by Mr. and Mrs. Payne from Cordova, Argentina, to Bolivia. They have a good supply of books, and Mr. Payne will oversee two of our colporteurs who accompany them. They will proceed slowly, and work as God may guide.

Mr. Milne is looking prayerfully towards Ecuador, hoping that the revolution there may result in a more liberal constitution, which will allow the entrance of the Scriptures. He also hopes soon to send two men to the north of this republic of Peru. "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth labourers into his harvest." O that God's spirit might work in the hearts of many more of our sons and our daughters, the best and the brightest of them, and send them into this great harvest field.

ROMISH SUPERSTITIONS.

Turning the corner on the way to Sunday-school last Sunday morning we came upon something being erected in the street. By the time school was over it was finished. It seemed to be three boxes, one on the top of another, the largest at the bottom, and each separately draped with muslin embroidery. On the top there was a small arch adorned with flowers, inside of which there was probably a picture or small image of the Virgin or other saint. On either side of this stood a small image, one like a large lady doll, the other dressed like a priest.

We learned that there was to be a grand procession in honour of the feast of Corpus Christi, and that there were other shrines on the streets where the procession was expected to pass.

On arriving at the house we found a body of soldiers drawn up in front of the church, with a brass band alongside. We watched the proceedings from the balcony, as the church is in the same square and on the opposite side. Gradually different societies of ladies arrayed themselves in the procession, each society bearing a banner, and all wearing their particular insignia of a blue, a white, or a red ribbon round the neck over the universal manta.

At last everything was ready, and amid the ringing of bells, the beating of drums, and the music of the band the procession moved on.

It moved away from us, but we were able to watch it more closely when after having gone the round of a number of squares it passed right in front of us.

A woman who lives in a very humble-looking house on the opposite pavement, and who is celebrated in the neighbourhood for her devotion to the Church, now threw open her door, revealing a small shrine very gaily adorned. She busied herself with the broom, or with a burning censer, laid some long strips of carpet out on the street which she covered with flowers; placed little children on either side of the flowery path with bouquets or baskets or trays full of flowers. The procession moved on slowly to the music of the band. First came some small boys with white or bright-coloured cotton skirts and white tunics. One rang a small bell, another carried a banner. Then came the canopy—a large heavy-looking cloth, which had once been crimson. It is supported on six long poles carried by as many men. Under this walked a big fat priest, reverently carrying in his clasped hands a small bronze ornament, like a sun with projecting rays, inside of which is the host. His shaven head is uncovered, and he wears a rich white satin tunic heavily embroidered and fringed with gold. Immediately in front of him walks another priest with like rich tunic and shaven head, waving a large smoking censer. Then followed the soldiers, the band, the various ladies' societies, and a mixed multitude. There must have been several hundreds of people. They turned toward the shrine, and when the priest was right at the door the whole company fell on their knees. For a few moments we heard the priest's sonorous voice alone; then they all joined in singing. The church bells rang; the blue smoke from several censers rose, filling the air with the peculiar odour. This continued about ten minutes, when they all rose, and slowly marched into the church.

Scarce a day passes when the peculiar ring of the small bell is not heard calling on the people to accompany the host to some poor dying soul. On these occasions the priest walks under the canopy, accompanied by from five to fifty lighted torches, according to the purse of the interested party.

Callao, Peru, July 8.

IN THE MORNING.

The dewdrops glisten on the lawn,
No bird has waked to trill;
And in the solemn hush of dawn,
The earth lies calm and still.
E'en as an infant in its mother's keeping,
In God's own care his tirèd world is sleeping.

The breezes wake with murmuring sigh,
As speeds the shade of night;
The stars pale softly in the sky,
Before the gath'ring light.
And to the world another day is given,
To lead our pilgrim footsteps nearer heaven.

. . . .

It may be when the dawning light
Shall break upon our home,
Amid the parting shades of night
The Lord Himself shall come.
Then faithful souls awake! your watch be keeping,
Lest, coming suddenly, He find you sleeping.

Marian Isabel Hurrell.

THE EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE.

The annual British Conference, to be held in Belfast on September 24-26, promises to be an occasion of much interest and profit. Besides the usual matters relating to the fundamental principles of the Alliance, the programme embraces the consideration of such practical themes as "The Ministry of Reconciliation," "The World's Claim on Evangelical Christians," "The glory of the Old Testament," "The special danger to the Church from worldly amusements," etc. Among the expected speakers are Principal Douglas and Dr. Marshall Lang, Glasgow; Dr. Seaver, Dean of Connor; Canon Bell, of Cheltenham; Revs. H. E. Fox, W. Crosbie, G. D. Hooper, E. A. Stuart, and G. H. MacGregor.

The North Western and Midland Railway Companies have made ample arrangements for travellers to Ireland. Full details, with programmes, can be had from the secretary of the Alliance, Mr. A. J. Arnold, Alliance House, Adam-street, Strand, London, W.C.

AINTAB ORPHANAGE.

Pastor Hovannessian, the director of this useful work, has been for some time in this country, for the purpose of interesting friends in its operations. He states that he is prepared to receive and train orphans from the district of Sassoun (the scene of the recent Armenian massacres) if the funds of the institution are sufficiently replenished. The annual cost of maintaining an orphan at Aintab is only £6. They are kept for eight years and taught some useful occupation. The treasurer of the orphanage is Sir George Bruce, 3, Victoria-street, London, S.W. Mr. Hovannessian hopes to return to Syria in a few weeks.

LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—With a view of deepening the impressions produced through the centenary celebrations of the London Missionary Society, arrangements have been made by the Congregational Union for a course of monthly missionary lectures. These will be delivered during the forthcoming winter in the Memorial Hall, and subsequently at the discretion of the lecturers in other places. The following is the list of lectures and lecturers:—"Our Great Missionary Pioneers," Rev. Dr. Guinness Rogers; "Our Medical Missionaries," Rev. J. Ossian Davies; "Our Missionary Students," Rev. J. Morgan Gibbon; "Our Missionary Philanthropists," Rev. W. Hardy Harwood; "Our Women Workers in the Mission Field," Mrs. Elkanah Armitage; "Some Lessons from a Century of Mission Effort," Rev. R. Lovett. The lectures will be given on the Tuesday following the third Sunday in the months of October to March inclusive.

THE WESLEYAN CONFERENCE.

By A MINISTER.

The first Plymouth Conference, which closed on Thursday last, has aroused public interest in the busy Western port to a marked degree. The public gatherings and services, attended by crowds of people, have been times of spiritual blessing, and it is to be hoped that Evangelical Christianity has received a stimulus which will lead to increased effort and wider success in the preaching of the Gospel. It cannot be said that amid all the discussions relating to the complex organisation of the Methodist Church, it has been forgotten that the supreme need is above all else the power of the Holy Ghost. The President has strenuously insisted upon this as essential to success. His official sermon, a sturdy deliverance, closed with an earnest prayer for the outpouring of the Spirit upon the universal Church.

A STIRRING CHARGE.

There was an old-fashioned Methodist ring about the thrilling words addressed by the Ex-President, Rev. Walford Green, in his charge to the young ministers at the ordination service, briefly referred to in these columns last week. The very appropriate text was 1 Tim. iv. 16: "Take heed unto thyself and unto the doctrine." In regard to the first, the supreme thing was the maintenance of the life of God in the soul. In tones of earnest warning he bade his youthful brethren remember the danger that their familiarity with sacred things, and the very multiplicity of religious engagements, might lead to formality. The outward life of a minister might be blameless, his mind stored with Biblical knowledge, his powers of reasoning as great as ever, but if the inner life decayed, his power was gone. He quoted with effect his old tutor, Dr. Hannah, to the effect that "a worm, if God be in it, can shake the world," and made use of a beautiful poem by Bishop Walsham How, of which the last verse is:—

> Ah, Pastor, is thy heart full sore
> At all this sin and strife?
> Feed with the Word, but oh! far more
> Feed with a holy life.

Under the head of the doctrine, Dr. Maclaren's weighty words were quoted on the importance of preaching the Gospel. "For three centuries there has not been so much need as now to fight against the notion of a priesthood in the Church, and to urge this as the true definition of the minister's office: 'we preach,' not 'we sacrifice'; 'we preach,' not 'we work miracles' at any altar, or impart grace by any rites, but by manifestation of the truth discharge our office, and spread the blessings of Christ." As the Ex-President proceeded to insist that they should preach in "short, simple, Saxon words," with true earnestness of spirit and tender fidelity to doctrine, the thirty young men before him must have had a heart-searching time, and have registered vows of faithfulness and consecration.

The readers of The Christian will be glad to know that the insidious advance and true character of Roman Catholic claims have been exposed more than once during the Conference. Rev. C. H. Kelly, speaking on the youth of Methodism, in warm language denounced the folly of Methodist parents who sent their children to schools on the Continent, where Romish doctrines were taught by priest or nun.

A VOICE FROM ITALY.

In the open session for Missions, Rev. W. S. Jones, of the South Italian Mission, gave some startling illustrations of the abuses perpetuated by the Roman Catholic Church in Italy. Speaking of the picture-teaching of the Church of Rome, which some English minister had lately been praising, he said there were all kinds of pictures, but at the present time there was not one of the Lord Jesus Christ. A celebrated painter of Naples was asked to paint an altar-piece. He chose for his subject, "Christ before Pilate." Mr. Jones went to see the picture, but instead of "Christ before Pilate" he found a representation of Purgatory, and the explanation given by one of the priests was, "Oh, such a picture (as the former) won't do for a church like this." The magnificent painting stood in the vestry, with its face to the wall. The Lord and Saviour in the Roman Catholicism with which they had to do was hidden, denied, and discrowned, and Mary was uplifted to be Queen of heaven, of earth, and of hell. Mr. Jones declared that the spirit of enquiry was rising in Italy. Even the secular press had published the whole Word of God, illustrated by Gustave Doré. He also spoke of the friendly relations of the evangelical churches in Italy, and of success attending their work.

FOES AT HOME.

I referred last week to Dr. Jenkins's words in the representative Session on the spread of a worldly spirit. In the conversation on the work of God in the Pastoral session, Professor Shaw Banks, of Headingly College, dealt with other dangers threatening spiritual success. He said he was profoundly thankful for the severe check which he considered the spread of sacerdotalism had received in this country. He believed that the Tractarian wave had spent itself. By the way, Dr. Rigg afterwards said he could not share this sanguine view. Professor Banks went on to urge that scepticism was the chief danger in these days. He was sure they underrated the extent to which the poison of scepticism had spread among all classes of society. They saw the effects in literature, and in dreadful notions about social morality that were ventilated by some vile writers, whose works were extensively read by young people. What could they, as Methodist preachers, do to meet this danger? He thought it could be met by the earnest and positive presentation of the great doctrines of Christianity. Professor Banks also alluded to the remarkable success of Rev. Samuel Chadwick, at Leeds, in building up a spiritual Church from the outside world and from the lower classes of society. Mr. Chadwick's own explanation was that every Sunday he was working upon new material, not old accustomed worshippers, but material just as new as any touched by John Wesley. If they could get at this new material they would see a repetition of the spiritual miracles of early Methodism. Dr. Rigg followed the Headingly professor, and said he was going to write a book dealing with Sacerdotalism. He paid a warm tribute to the pastoral diligence of the clergy.

THE ROLL OF THE DEAD.

A quiet and solemn time was that in which business was put aside, and the brethren recalled the names and services of those ministers who had died during the year. In Great Britain, twenty three had passed away; in Ireland, six; and in our foreign missions, six. In each case a brief record was presented to the Conference, and as each name was called, one and another rose to bear testimony to the character and work of the deceased. Frederick Greeves, D.D., was one of the best known names. He began his ministry in France, and travelled in some of the foremost English circuits, becoming President of the Conference in 1884, and in 1885 Principal of Southlands Training College. The watchword which he suggested for the year of his presidency ("Salvation in every house") was the epitome of his own ministry. Rev. F. W. Macdonald, in graceful terms, voiced the feelings of Conference at the loss of one of its most distinguished leaders. He said that Dr. Greeves's mind, from his earliest years, reached naturally towards what was beautiful in nature, in literature, in life, and in morals. His character possessed Christian strength, and that indescribable element which might be called refined moral and religious taste. He was free from angularities, from eccentricities, from disproportions. Henry S. B. Yates died at the early age of forty-one, after a short but fruitful ministry. In him was a combination of evangelistic fervour and fine literary gifts, which found a fitting sphere for the last few years in the editorship of The Sunday School Chronicle. Special testimony was borne to the remarkable mission work done by Mr. Yates among the dockers of Hull. Thousands were made acquainted with the life and work of our Saviour through his open-air magic-lantern services at the dock side. George Abbott began to preach in his sixteenth year, and for forty-five years without interruption served Methodism, often in wide and laborious country circuits. William Gibson's life was largely spent in Evangelical labours in France. Mr. Macdonald said he was one of the saintliest men he had known. With all his amiability, he had a fixity of purpose that carried him through difficulties that would have daunted most men. To many poor French people Mr. Gibson's life was a revelation of Christian goodness and love. Oliver M'Cutcheon, D.D., was one of the leaders of Methodism in Ireland, and president of the Belfast Methodist College. His last public appearance was at a mass meeting in the Ulster Hall, where he spoke with all his wonted energy in protest against the sale of intoxicants at the Art and Industrial Exhibition.

It is still true that Methodists die well. Said William Scarborough as the end drew near: "It's growing very dark." But by-and-by the words came, "If this be death, it's all right." William S. Snow exclaimed, "Glory shall burst on my vision. I shall see his face, and prove the reality." Thomas B. Butcher's testimony was, "I am waiting on the banks of the river till the King's messenger shall come and take me over." After a night of great pain, John G. Devis exclaimed, "Bless the Lord! Jesus Christ is a splendid Rock to build upon." Said Joseph Chapman, "I have not a peg upon which I can hang a doubt." He will not shut the door in my face. I am an invited guest." The dying testimony of John Chambers was, "All is well. No doubts! No fears! Safe! safe!" Daniel W. Thorpe was a native minister in West Africa. "Do you wish to die?" asked one of his attendants. "To die is gain," was his reply. The last message of Elias J. Gloria, a native minister of Southern India, to his brethren was, "Tell them I am safe in the arms of Jesus." Thus do the servants of the Master triumph over death. "God buries his workmen, but carries on his work."

THE CLASS MEETING.

A conversation that arose in regard to the request of the South African Conference to modify the conditions of membership in the Church, showed that the Conference is not prepared to imperil or impair the efficiency of the class-meeting as a means of Christian fellowship. Dr. Rigg expressed the opinion that the class-meeting had grown in popularity of late years. Speaking of this institution in the colonial and missionary churches, Dr. Jenkins said that the class-meeting had been the source of great power amongst native races like the Fijians, and in the Tonga Missions, where they had been so successful. They would destroy their native work if they destroyed the class-meeting. It was during this conversation that the venerable William Arthur broke silence during Conference. In earnest words, which were all the more impressive because the voice that uttered them is now so seldom heard, he urged his brethren to bear their witness for Christian fellowship and the continual self-building up of the Church.

THE STATIONING OF MINISTERS.

During the closing days of Conference much time was spent in the stationing of ministers. The chief part of the work is done by a special committee of representatives, but the final appointment of ministers to circuits rests with the Conference itself. The claims of the work of God and the suitability of the men are both elements which receive earnest consideration. Some difficulty arose from the vacancies caused by the appointment of Rev. James Chapman, of Harrogate, to the Principalship of Southlands Training College, and by the sudden breakdown in health of Rev. J. R. Hargreaves, of London (Mostyn-road). Eventually Rev. Owen Davies was appointed to Harrogate, and Rev. W. J. Cooke to Mostyn-road. On the first Sunday in September the ministers, who are changing to the number of six or seven hundred, will begin their work in their new circuits. We may well pray that not only upon Methodism, but upon all the churches, God's Spirit may be poured out abundantly, and that the workers may have the joy of harvest.

THE UNIVERSITIES' CAMP now being held for public school boys at Bamburgh is a marked success. Last year, at Cresswell, only about thirty boys were present; this year forty-seven have joined. The weather could hardly have been worse than it was on Sunday last, yet no casualty took place, nor did a single boy take cold. The village being full of visitors the Camp is an object of unusual interest. Lieut.-Colonel Phayre is in command. The Earl of Tankerville has invited the Camp to visit Chillingham Castle and see the wild cattle.—Record.

A GOSPEL MESSENGER IN FRENCH.—For twelve years La Bonne Nouvelle, a little paper started by Mrs. Gibson, of the Wesleyan Mission in Paris, has carried the message of a Saviour's love into the homes of rich and poor with much blessing. Mrs. Gibson, who has retired since her husband's death from her former active share in the work, learns with regret that it is proposed to discontinue the periodical. She has, therefore, decided to make a determined effort to maintain it with the help of any friends who will come to the rescue. It would be a sad pity for such a useful little organ to become defunct. The subscription is 1s. 3d. per annum—a small enough sum surely. Mrs. Gibson's present address is Westbrook Hay, Boxmoor, Herts.

Northfield Revisited.

It was in the beginning of the hot August of 1881 that we first set foot in this now famous New England village. We thought it then one of the most beautiful spots our eyes had ever seen. It was early morning, and the calm and peace of the place were in striking contrast with the rushing, throbbing life of the windy city, whence a party of us had come to attend the summer conference convened by Mr. Moody. While the river still runs over its accustomed bed, and its banks are as lovely as ever, and the valley smiles in the summer sun, there are striking changes upon the village, both moral and material. Splendid buildings adorn the hills, and are the wonder and admiration of passing travellers. Morally, too, there have been striking changes, as we shall presently see.

Referring to the party which travelled from Chicago in 1881, about twenty-five in number, and which touched Northfield soil so early in the morning, many remain until the present, but some are fallen asleep. Colonel Clarke, of Chicago, was amongst them, and he is now gathered home. God still blesses the work He led the Colonel to begin in the slums of the great city by Lake Michigan; where Satan's seat is the Saviour has won blessed victories. Mrs. Clarke still lives to help in the aggressive mission associated with Pacific Gardens.

Dr. Andrew Bonar, too, was amongst the travellers of fourteen years ago. A very touching incident occurred en route, in which Dr. Bonar took a leading part. Our way lay over the Ashtabula Bridge, at which place Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Bliss lost their lives a few years previously in a terrible railway accident. Major Whittle, who also was in the party, pointed out the place where the disaster happened. Gathered on the platform of the car the fatal spot was passed in solemn silence and with uncovered heads. Then Dr. Bonar led in a solemn and touching prayer, thanking God for the lives of his servants, praying for the bereaved, and asking that all might be consecrated afresh to the service of the King. Dr. Bonar's voice was often heard that year at Northfield, and whether expounding the 53rd of Isaiah or discoursing on Joseph of Arimathea, he was equally helpful and spiritual.

But to Northfield! What wonderful developments have these years brought about! In 1881 the hills were, with one or two exceptions, just as nature left and arranged them, and now a magnificent series of noble buildings adorn the slopes of this part of the beautiful Connecticut Valley. There cannot be much less than £150,000 expended on the material structures associated with the educational and evangelistic agencies established by Mr. Moody. Well may the Christian visitor exclaim, "What hath God wrought!"

The aim of the schools is to reach young men and young women to whom the early opportunities of study have been denied. For this class surely a place is needed where lost opportunities may be regained, or where those who never had a chance may have it brought to their hand. Mount Hermon, with its commanding views and lovely surroundings, was designed to meet this need, so far as young men are concerned. Already 1800 students have benefited by the advantages of the school, and many more apply than can possibly be admitted. An annual fee of 100 dollars, including board and tuition, is charged, but this is less than half the cost of each student to the school. There is a happy blending of the mental and physical as well as the spiritual at Mount Hermon. The authorities have a system of manual labour by which each student is required to work two hours daily on the school farm, or discharge some assigned work, either at a trade or in some capacity about the school buildings. The Mount Hermon property embraces 800 acres. Some 140 cows are kept, and twenty-five horses are employed in the general farm work. It was most pleasing to see that Mr. William R. Moody, Mr. Moody's elder son, takes an important part in directing the work of Mount Hermon. We have seen no finer field for Christian service, and we are persuaded that a most blessed future, under God, lies before the professors, teachers, and directors of this inspiring headquarters of educational and evangelistic zeal.

THE BIBLE HONOURED.

The heart of the Christian visitor to Northfield must be made glad at the first place given to the Word of God. Thus it continues all through the varied training imparted to the students. In these days, when many decry the Bible, hundreds of young people are convened in Mount Hermon and Northfield to study it reverently and prayerfully, and are led to understand its meaning by men well qualified for the position by education and grace. We thank God for the honour which Mr. Moody and those associated with him puts upon the Word of God.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

In America many students have to earn as much during the summer vacation as will support them during the winter. Just lately there has been published very cheap editions of Mr. Moody's books, such as "The Way to God," "Heaven," etc., etc., also books containing Gospel extracts from Mr. Spurgeon's, Mr. McNeill's, and other preachers' sermons. There is considerable variety in the issue, and each volume contains 128 pages of earnest Gospel matter. The students are able to sell the books at fifteen cents each. This brings a most helpful class of literature within the reach of the humblest and, as there are about 100 students acting as colporteurs this summer, one cannot calculate the amount of good it is possible to do. Mr. Fitt is vigorously pushing this department, and it certainly promises to be most fruitful.

MR. MOODY AS TEMPERANCE REFORMER.

Many know that Mr. Moody unscathingly denounces the drink traffic. A position of undying hostility to the liquor trade he has consistently maintained all through his career. He carries his principles into action at home, for in his native village they have something very much akin to our "local option" proposals. Some years ago, when drink was sold in Northfield, it was thought the time had come to settle the question whether it should be so any longer. The vote of the inhabitants was to decide it, and as Mr. Moody happened to be at home, he started out to canvass the community as to discontinuing the sale of drink. The battle was stiff, but the victory lay with Mr. Moody and his friends, for they had six of a majority in favour of stopping the sale of all alcoholic liquor in the township. Since that time the saloon interest has tried several times to get this verdict reversed, but it has never succeeded, and now other villages and towns in the Connecticut valley have followed this good example. Thus, morally as well as materially, great changes have been wrought in Northfield.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS' MOVEMENT.

English readers ought never to forget that at Northfield, in the summer of 1886, the student volunteer movement was born, we are persuaded, from above. The blessings of this movement in bringing before the educated youth of Christian lands the claims of the Saviour and of the heathen in the matter of the world's evangelisation, can never be estimated. This marvellous movement is one of the most encouraging signs of the times. The dawn of the century saw the missionary spirit begin to live; the close sees it press forward to girdle the globe with blessing in the proclamation of the Gospel. We thank God for the hundreds who have already gone to the mission fields of the world through the influence of the student volunteers.

Mr. Robt. Speer said lately that the world was made up of pushers and pushed people. May the churches of the home-land push this great business to the front, for in so doing will come her largest and truest blessings.

SUMMER CONFERENCES.

Northfield has become world-wide in its influences in connection with its summer schools and conferences. Many have received such spiritual uplift there as to make it almost holy ground. Humbling and heart-searching addresses bearing upon the spiritual life have sent many away to the hills and glens to confess failure and sin, and to lead to wholehearted surrender to the Lord. Many a soul winner has received spiritual stimulus in the gatherings there which has told for good to the ends of the earth. As this article appears, a most helpful conference will be in progress, having amongst the speakers Revs. Preb. Webb-Peploe, of London, and Rev. Andrew Murray, of South Africa.

One gentle presence will be sorely missed and the voice of one true and tried teacher a-wanting this year—we refer to the saintly and scholarly Dr. A. G. Gordon, of Boston, whose call home leaves such a blank in the Church of God the wide world over. Being dead he yet speaks through his writings. We know of no books more helpful than Dr. Gordon's. They will long remain spiritual classics to thousands of devout souls.

HENRY MONTGOMERY.

Belfast.

A STORY OF GOD'S LEADING.

A letter had come telling me of the illness of a relative and asking me to go to Sydenham as soon as I could. At first I was tempted to rush off with a hasty petition sent up to my Heavenly Father, and no reading. A sadness came with the thought, however, and I sat down with the blessed Guide Book. The Word of Life! Why did I linger so long over that scripture: "Shall God in very deed dwell with man upon the earth?" And why did I turn to all those other verses proving that God the Spirit did and does dwell with man? I could not tell, but it seemed as if I must. So absorbed was I that when I looked at the clock I was startled to find it so late, lest I should not catch my train. I went at once to the station, but found that my train had left, and as there would not be another for some time, I must walk. I was feeling weak, and the distance was long. Suddenly, a beautiful carriage stopped, and the coachman said to me, "Are you going far?" I said I had missed my train, and would have to walk to Sydenham Hill. "Will you go in this carriage? I can leave you there as I pass it on my way to the Crystal Palace." Without waiting for an answer, the door was opened, and I found myself sitting in that lovely restful carriage, feeling quite royal. "How wonderful," I said, as I took out Miss Havergal's "Loyal Responses," which had been sent me, and read "The Secret of a Happy Day":

Just to let thy Father do,
What He will.
Just to know that He is true,
And be still.

My heart was in tune, and such glad praise notes went up to Him as I sat there. The carriage stopped, and the coachman asked if I would ride to the top of the hill, as it would be easier walking from there. I thanked him, and felt even more glad.

On looking out I saw a gentleman supporting a lady who was evidently ill. He asked the coachman if he could tell him where he might get a vehicle, as his sister was too weak to walk, and they had gone to the wrong station. They wanted the Palace station. "Will you mind getting into this carriage?" he asked. "Thank you so much," said the gentleman, "but will not the lady object?" "No," he replied, "she will get out at the Palace too." Very carefully he assisted the lady in, and when they were seated, the gentleman said, "How very wonderful!" "Yes," I replied, "I have been saying that so many times since I got in here; but then I know it is the one whose name is 'Wonderful' that put me in."

The lady had quite rallied now. So I told them all about it. They felt it was very marked care in my case and their own too. Then followed a most interesting conversation, and I found out why I had searched up those particular scriptures in the morning. They were just the very ones for their present need—that these friends might know that God can, and does, dwell in very deed with man upon the earth. Oh the joy and power of that little while, telling of Him, and hearing them tell of their desire to have the assurance of Christ in them the hope of glory.

They were over from Australia to see a special physician. We were each so thankful for the profitable, happy time, until we stopped at the Palace. Then I asked the coachman how it was that he invited me to ride when so many others were passing too. He did not know, but felt that he must. I asked him if he were on the Lord's side, and I hoped from his answer that he did know Him, whom to know is life eternal. My fellow-occupants and I parted, believing that we should soon meet again in the Palace of the King. I found the invalid was not worse, but was able to smile at the "better carriage than that of the train."

J. E. W.

CHRISTIAN EVIDENCE SOCIETY'S EXAMINATION. — The books selected by the Christian Evidence Society for their examination next spring are Dr. Gibson's "Rock versus Sand," Stewart's "Handbook of Christian Evidences," Butler's "Analogy," March Phillipps' "Divine Revelation," Flint's "Theism," Arthur's "Difference between Physical and Moral Law," Robertson's "Introduction to the Old Testament," and McClymont's "New Testament and its Writers." There is no restriction to sex, age, or religious denomination. Copies of the regulations may be obtained of the secretary, 13, Buckingham-street, Strand, W.C

OUR DAILY HOMILY.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 18.

"Esau Cried with an Exceeding Great and Bitter Cry."—Gen. xxvii. 34.

On this incident the writer to the Hebrews founds the impressive lesson, that the choices of the past may cast a bitter and irrevocable shadow on all our future. When he afterward desired to inherit blessing he was rejected (for he found no place of repentance), though he sought it diligently with tears. (Heb. xii. 16-17.)

Beware of the Cravings of Appetite.—In an evil moment Esau yielded to these, and sold his birthright to secure their gratification; he found afterwards that the choice made in that hour was irrevocable. How needful that we watch and pray that we fall not into temptation!

Let us remember these four positions as a preservative against the sudden intrusion of passionate appetite.

We were Once Dead in Sins.—Surely we do not want to go back again to the charnel-house with its corruption.

We Died for Sins in the Person of Christ Our Representative.—We have met the demands of God's holy law, but surely that must be an awful thing, which cost the Saviour so dearly.

We Died to Sin with the Lord Jesus.—We have passed with Him on to Resurrection ground, so that we belong to the new heavens and new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness.

We are Called On to Reckon Ourselves Dead to Sin.—The nearer we live to God, the more sensitive we shall be to the most distant suggestion of evil, closing doors and windows to it, reckoning ourselves "not at home" to it, and yielding our members as instruments unto God.

MONDAY, AUGUST 19.

"Behold a Ladder Set Up on the Earth, and the Top of it Reached to Heaven."—Gen. xxviii. 12.

All men feel that earth and heaven touch at the horizons of the distant past and future; but we ought to feel that the present moment of time and this bit of the world's surface are linked with heaven. This is what the ladder meant for Jacob. The moorland waste, where he lay, and Laban's home, whither he journeyed, were as near God as his father's tent. Earth is linked with heaven:—

By God's Daily Providence.—His loving eye is ever upon us, and his angels go to and fro on our world performing ceaseless ministries.

By our Saviour's Mediation.—As He intimated to Nathaniel, his own nature as uniting God with man, and especially his Ascension glory as the man Christ Jesus, is the one great connecting link.

By Daily Fellowship and Holy Thought.—We should practise the sense of God's presence, often stopping ourselves amid our ordinary avocations and interests to say, aloud when possible, God is near, God is here. In all likelihood we are daily living amid the glories of the eternal world, but our eyes are blinded. Oh, that by humility and purity we may become more sensitive, and awake to the things that are unseen and eternal.

By Holy Yearning.—When Jesus ascended He unrolled a path behind Him, along which we shall one day travel to meet Him. Hope treads that glorious Ascension ladder, and as she does so, again we see the heaven opened, and our destiny unfolded at Christ's right hand.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 20.

"But a Few Days for the Love He Had."—Gen. xxix. 20.

That touch is enough! We can fill in all the rest. This old-world love was of the same quality as our own. Oh blessed God! what a priceless inheritance this is! Time itself never tedious, but always too short; labour never hard; distance never long; sacrifice unheard of, the word almost in disuse—where Love is Queen. This is how we would feel to our dear Lord: so that the missionary away from home and friends, as well as the invalid suffering for Jesus, might feel years of loneliness and pain but a few days, for love of the beloved Lord. We may acquire such love thus:—

Meditate Much on the Love of Jesus.—Sit with the Apostle beneath his cross, and say, each time with deeper appreciation, He loved me, He gave Himself for me. Do not think of your love to Him, but of his. It is well to take the Lord's Supper frequently, as affording opportunities for this.

Be on the Alert to Detect His Love in Daily Providence and Trifles.—It is amazing how much is ever being arranged by his tender thoughtfulness to alleviate and brighten our lot. If you cannot detect it, dare still to believe it.

Ask the Holy Spirit to Breathe His Love into your Heart.—He that is joined to the Lord is one spirit, and when the doors are open between Christ and the soul, the aroma of his love freely enters.

Show His Love to Every One.—Whether you like people or not, do to them as He would do; let his love flow through you to them; what we manifest to others for his sake, we shall come to feel to Him.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 21.

"The Lord hath Blessed Me for Thy Sake."—Gen. xxx. 27.

Laban requested the longer stay of Jacob because he felt sure that the Divine blessing had been brought by him into his home. It was a selfish, low motive for desiring the postponement of his departure; and Laban was destined, alas! to be terribly undeceived. He would wake up one day, to find that during his sojourn with him, and under the cloak of religion, Jacob had been ruthlessly plundering his property. It was a shameful betrayal of trust on Jacob's part, and it conveys a searching warning to those who, because of their religious professions, are trusted by their relatives or others:—

With Their Property.—Always do the best possible for your employer or friend, who has entrusted his interests to you, acting towards him as the servant and steward of God. Bear in mind that God has bidden you undertake the office for Himself, and accepts your fidelity as rendered to Him: He will recompense.

With Their Friendship.—Be very careful here. God puts us into one another's lives, that we may be the medium through which his love and tenderness may enter them, but there is such danger of our monopolising for ourselves the place that He would fill. Sometimes we almost unconsciously deteriorate rather than elevate our friends by the intrusion of our own personality.

With Their Christian Instruction and Training.—Ministers of God's Holy Gospel must specially guard against the tendency to make name, fame, money, out of a position which they should occupy only as God's stewards.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 22.

"And God said unto Laban, Take Heed to Thyself that Thou Speak not to Jacob either Good or Bad.—Gen. xxxi. 24.

This visitation of God made a deep impression on Laban. He refers to it afterwards as restraining him from injuring his runaway son-in-law. Jacob, too, was struck by it. It is very wonderful to find the Holy God casting the mantle of his protection around this crafty and deceitful soul. No doubt it was due to his covenant relationship with the family and race, of which Jacob was a most unworthy member (13, 42). But if God thus interposed for Jacob, will He not much more interpose for those who desire to be his obedient children?

God will lay an Arrest on your Persecutors.—Israel was rebuked because the exiles in Babylon thought they would perish before a man that could die, and the son of man who was as grass, and forgot their Maker, the Lord of heaven and earth. All around you the fire may rage, but you shall walk amid it unscathed if only you trust. Remember how God in our own day has kept Dr. Paton.

God will lay an Arrest on Trial.—His finger is always on our pulse, and the moment the pain becomes more than we can bear He will stay it.

God will lay an Arrest on the Power of the Evil One.—We shall not be tempted beyond what we are able to bear. There is always a thus far, and no further. The Only Begotten of the Father keeps the sheep whom his Father has entrusted to him. Not one of them can be devoured by the lion of hell. If only we believed this we should be calmer, happier, even though circumstanced as Jacob. No need to altercate with Laban, but to look beyond him to the Father.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 23.

He Touched the Hollow of His Thigh.—xxxii. 25.

Our greatest victories are wrought out through pain, and purchased at the cost of the humbling of the flesh. Jacob learnt that the secret of prevailing with God and man was not in the strength, but in the weakness and suffering, of the flesh. It must ever be so. The victor Lamb bears still the scars of Calvary, and looks as one who had been slain.

Had Laban met Jacob that morning, he would have pointed to that limp as an indication of God's wrath and displeasure; but if he had looked into his face he would have seen all its hardness and cunning gone, or would have been melted by the unwonted tenderness in his voice.

The Shrunken Sinew Counteracts Pride.—So high a spiritual achievement as to prevail with God might have tempted Jacob to arrogance and self-esteem, as the abundance of revelation tempted Paul; but God anticipated the possible temptation by this physical infirmity, which was constantly present to Jacob's consciousness.

The Shrunken Sinew was the Secret of Victory.—Had it not been shrivelled by the angel's touch Jacob would have continued to resist in the pride of his strength, and would never have clung convulsively around the angel's neck, as though about to fall, crying "I will not let thee go." It was only in that act he became Israel, a Prince.

The Shrunken Sinew Makes us Think Little of this World and Much of the Next.—From this moment Jacob takes up more of the pilgrim attitude. He finds that for him, at least, the pace will have to be slower; but it is well, for he relaxes his hold on things to entwine more tenaciously about the unseen. "The days of the years of my pilgrimage."

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24.

I Will Lead on Softly . . . Until I Come Unto My Lord to Seir.—xxxiii. 14.

This was rather unworthy of the man who, the night before, had seen the face of God, and learnt to prevail. It is a solemn lesson to those who have passed through some rapturous experience.

After Blessing, often Trial.—When the fair colours have been laid on, the vessel is plunged into the furnace that they may be burnt in.

The Trial Frequently Presents Itself in the Home or Ordinary Life.—Some are led into the wilderness to be tempted, but more often, it is the contact with our Esaus that furnishes us with the supreme test of the worth of what we have received.

Failure Comes from not Reckoning on God.—Jacob looked at Esau's four hundred armed men, and compared his own following with despair. So Peter looked at the winds and waves. At such times we must fail, if we rely on schemes or plans, instead of saying, God Is.

We Must also Act Faith.—If Jacob had refused to use this subterfuge, and had spoken simply and manfully, he would have found that Esau would have acquiesced and left him. The angels who had dealt with him (xxxii. 2), had done their work effectively, and God had changed his purpose.

BOCA MISSION, BUENOS AYRES.

Dear Sir,—Opportunities were given me at one of the missionary meetings in the tent at Keswick, in the Wesleyan Methodist Church in the same town, and at the Students' Conference missionary meeting on Friar's Crag, of speaking on South American missionary work and of telling the story of the Boca Mission work. As already explained in previous letters, our work requires generous help, both for present activities and for necessary enlargements. The time for me to return to my field of labour draws nigh, and I trust that through the consecrated gifts of friends to this work, I may be enabled to return fully prepared to meet the immediate outlays which the work demands.

I shall be glad of opportunities of speaking on South American missionary work in general and of the Boca Mission work in particular. Friends should address me by letter at 186, Aldersgate-street, London, E.C.—Faithfully yours,

William C. Morris.

MISSION TO DEEP SEA FISHERMEN.—Any of our readers visiting Yarmouth and Lowestoft this month may be glad to know that the fine hospital ship Albert, of the Missions to Deep Sea Fishermen, which for the last two summers has been in Labrador, will be visiting both these East coast ports for the triple purpose of being inspected by friends, of having a floating bazaar on board, and of holding evangelistic services for fishermen and others. Mr. G. Andrew Hutchison is in charge of her.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSONS.

AUGUST 25.

Crossing the Jordan.—Joshua iii. 5—17.

Golden Text.—Isa. xliii. 2.

The important event connecting this with the former lesson is the death of Moses, and the appointment of Joshua as his successor. The name Joshua is the Hebrew form of Jesus, and means salvation. He was about eighty-four years old when he became leader of the people of Israel, and lived to be 110 (Judges ii. 8). Twice during the leadership of Moses he came into prominence, once during the war with with Amalek (Exod. xvii.), and again as one of the twelve spies (Numb. xiii.). His exaltation to the position of successor to Moses was the result of his previous fidelity.

The forty years' wandering of the Israelites were now ended. The land of promise lay before them, and they were about to take possession. Spies had already explored the land (Josh. ii.), and had brought back a report that the people of the land were filled with fear. God had evidently prepared the way before his people.

God was about to work a most notable miracle, which He describes as something unusual (4); which He speaks of as "wonders" (5); which must be kept in perpetual remembrance (12, iv. 8, 9); and in order to which special preparation must be made (5). The sanctification required had reference to ceremonial cleansing, but this was a type of the preparation of the heart. The outward was only valuable as it represented the inward. To turn from everything displeasing to God, to trust and obey Him, to offer to Him the heart as his dwelling place—this is the condition upon which He does wonders for his people to-day. Teachers will do well to remember that God uses prepared and sanctified vessels (2 Tim. ii. 21). McCheyne used to say, "It is not great talents but great likeness to Christ that God uses."

The miracle was performed at the most unlikely time. (Compare iv. 19, with iii. 15.) The tenth of Nisan was about the beginning of our April, and their barley harvest was gathered then. The width of the river at this period was increased, according to Dr. Thomson, from 100 to 500 feet. The Canaanites would feel secure while such a barrier lay between them and the Israelites. God took them by surprise, and made a more profound impression by the miracle. God times all his works with infinite wisdom.

The purpose of this miracle was threefold. (1) It put honour on Joshua (7). He was comparatively an untried man. Possibly some envied him his position, and coveted it for themselves. A miracle like this would prove him to be the choice of God. The people could safely follow one whom God honoured as He had honoured Moses. (2) It encouraged the people (10). There were other difficulties awaiting them. Strong nations, whose iron chariots, whose impregnable fortresses, whose strong confederacies seemed to bid defiance to any power the feeble Israelites possessed. But if this apparently insuperable difficulty is overcome they need not fear the rest. (3) It terrified their adversaries (chap. v. 1). "Their heart melted, and there was no spirit in them" when they heard of such a miracle.

God performed the miracle by very unlikely means (3, 4, 6, 17). To all outward appearance the ark was a wooden box overlaid with gold, containing two tables of stone, a pot of manna, and Aaron's rod. How can such a miracle be wrought by this? Yet it was the symbol of the Divine presence, and while the God whom it represented was worshipped and trusted and obeyed by the people, nothing could oppose their progress. Is not God always doing his wonders by unlikely means? An ox-goad, a sling and stone, a despised Cross—these are the instruments he uses. "Foolishness," men say. But "the foolishness of God is wiser than men." God's worst, as man counts it, is better than man's best.

The miracle required human instrumentality. The ark would divide the waters, but the priests must bear the ark to the water's edge, and then must stand by it in the midst of the stream. The Gospel saves, but God uses men for conveying the Gospel to others. The treasure requires the earthen vessel, the light requires the lantern. And the people have their part too. The ark led, but the people must obey (3, 4). If it seemed like following the ark to death they must do it, and find through death the way to life. Just such faith and obedience are required of us. Jesus leads, and we follow Him through the grave into the life of resurrection.

It is useless to seek for natural explanations of such a miracle. "It was the Lord's doing, and is marvellous in our eyes."

For the Young.

THE LIGHTHOUSE.

I wonder if any of you boys and girls have ever been over a lighthouse. A short time ago I paid a visit to one on the south coast, and I should like to tell you a few of the lessons it taught me.

On a high rugged cliff, a long way from any house or cottage, stood the lighthouse. Not a very large one, but of great importance. The coast is dangerous for ships, and there would be many a wreck if it were not for its steady light thrown out night after night across the dark sea.

As I climbed up towards the lighthouse, I noticed how firmly it stood, defying all the winds and storms and the tremendous waves which dashed in fury against the rocks beneath. And here it teaches us its first lesson. What makes the lighthouse so firm and strong? "Why, of course," you say, "it is built on a rock." Quite true, and if we would be like the lighthouse, we too must be built on a rock. And that rock is the Lord Jesus Christ. No storms of life, no temptations, no troubles can shake us if we are firmly built on that foundation.

When I reached the lighthouse and knocked at the door, it was opened by an old coastguard man, who offered to show me over. I followed him along a passage to the basement of the tower, where many things connected with the lighthouse are kept. But I did not stay long there, for he led the way up a steep staircase to the second and most important story. Round this ran a narrow gallery, and in the centre was the great lamp, which it is his duty to keep filled with oil, and to light every evening when the sun goes down.

Now we come to our second lesson. What good do you suppose the lighthouse would do the sailors, however firmly built on the rock, and though fitted up inside with all its machinery and lamps, if there was no one to fill it with oil and light it every night? It would be no good whatever. So, if we are to shine for Jesus in this dark world, and to show lost souls the way to Him, we must be filled with the oil of the Holy Spirit, and then lit by Him. Of ourselves we can give no more light than the lighthouse could if left to itself.

After examining the lamp my attention was drawn to the glass windows through which the light shone. How bright and clear they were—not a speck of dirt or dust to be seen. And how necessary that they should be kept so. Were they to be covered with sand from without and dust from within, how sadly the light from the lamp would be dimmed before its rays were cast over the sea. Another lesson for ourselves. We must be kept pure and clean, and go to the Lord Jesus for daily washing from our sins if we would have Him shine through us to give light to the world.

The last thing the lighthouse taught me was this. Compared to the sun or moon the light was very small. Yet those celestial bodies could never do its work. It had its own special spot in this great world in which to shine, yet if it shone there faithfully, how great a work it might do.

Dear boys and girls, you have each a special little corner in this world in which to shine for Jesus, and each a special work to do for Him. If you neglect to shine where He has placed you, if you neglect to do the work He has given you, no one else will be able to do it; it will go undone, and perhaps some precious soul you might have won for Jesus will be lost for all eternity. What solemn lessons the lighthouse teaches us! May God write them on our hearts.

T. M.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for week ending August 24, 1895.—Sun., 18, Mark iv. 13-29; Mon., 19, iv. 30-41; Tues., 20, v. 1-20; Wed., 21, v. 21-34; Thurs., 22, v. 35-43; Fri., 23, vi 1-13; Sat., 24, vi. 14-29.

THE FIRST SEVEN DAYS.

God first of all created light,
And called it Day, the darkness Night—
The first day.

The waters He divided next,
And heaven between He firmly fix'd—
The second day.

And now the earth appears to view,
The grass, the herb, and fruit-tree too—
The third day.

The signs and seasons, days and years,
He made the sun and moon and stars—
The fourth day.

To fill the sea, fish great and small,
And fowl to fly, God made them all—
The fifth day.

And next all beasts and creeping things
And man He into being brings—
The sixth day.

Thus, having all things made and blest,
God saw 'twas good from work to rest—
The seventh day.

T. McL.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

SEASIDE SERVICES.

Messrs. J. H. P. Cutting and M. Goodman, Aldeburgh, Aug. 9-26; Mr. A. J. Barff, B.A., Bexhill; Rev. T. Longstaff, Blackpool, from Aug. 6; Mr. G. Askwith, Boscombe; Mr. H. Hutchinson, Bridlington, Aug. 6-Sept. 6; Mr. T. Graham Bailey, Carnoustie, N.B.; Mr. W. H. Wilson, Colwyn Bay; Mr. H. M. Dale, Cromer, from Aug. 7; Mr. H. Falkner, Deal; Mr. A. G. Dodderidge, Eastbourne, Aug. 4-Sept. 10; Mr. Middleton, East Preston; Mr. Phillips Welch, Exmouth; Mr. Josiah Spiers, Felixstowe, from Aug. 7; Mr. A. B. Dixey, Freshwater; Messrs. C. H. Collier and J. S. Withers, Herne Bay, from Aug. 1; Mr. F. O. Lasbrey, Hoylake and West Kirby, Aug. 6-22; Mr. E. Arrowsmith, Hunstanton, Aug. 13-Sept. 15; Mr. W. R. Moore, Ilfracombe; Mr. R. H. Keable and Rev. M. C. Brownlow, Kemp Town (Brighton), Aug. 5-26; Mr. J. S. Tyler, Littlehampton, from Aug. 4; Mr. Frank Anderson, Llandudno, from Aug. 6; Mr. Russell J. Hill, Llanfairfechan, Aug. 4-22; Rev. L. Carr, Overstrand, near Cromer; Mr. L. M. Miller, Paignton; Mr. J. H. Greene, Penmaenmawr; Messrs. E. Collier and F. W. Betteney, Pensarn; Mr. H. B. Claxton, Penzance, Aug. 20-31; Mr. H. Steward, Port Erin; Messrs. Geo. Goodman and S. J. Hewlett, Rhyl; Dr. F. Churchill, Saltburn; Mr. J. R. Naylor, Sandown, from Aug. 8; Messrs. B. Herklots, T. G. Barber, W. A. Dark, and T. B. Bishop, Scarborough, from Aug. 4; Mr. J. M. Wigner, Seaford; Rev. W. S. Standen and Rev. S. R. Morse, M.A., Sea View, I. of W., (Sept. 1-14; Mr. J. W. Caldicott, Southend, from Aug. 1; Mr. S. M. Warner, Southsea and Sea View; Mr. Livesey Carrott, Southwold, from Aug 1; Rev. W. W. Martin, St. Leonards, Aug. 10-Sept. 9; Rev. F. S. Lawrence, M.A., Swanage; Messrs. E. Hughes and H. T. Sayer, Towyn, Aug. 4-Sept. 4; Rev. Norman Bennet, West Brighton, from Aug. 25; Messrs. W. Stuart Fox and N. Thwaites, Weston-super-Mare, from Aug. 6; Rev. G. C. Williamson, Westward Ho, Aug. 5-23; Mr. E. T. M. Dennes, Whitby; Rev. C. E. Haynes, Worthing, from Aug. 6; Mr. H. Hankinson, Lanark, Aug. 16; Hamilton, Aug. 17-18; Helensburgh, Aug. 19; Ballachulish, Aug. 20-21; Inverness, Aug. 23-25; Dingwall, Aug. 26-27.

AMERICAN WARSHIPS.

A very interesting event in connection with the visit of the U.S. ships San Francisco and Marblehead to the Thames occurred on Sunday week, when, by invitation of the chaplain and special permission of the captain, Miss Weston visited the flagship. She was present at the morning service, which was thronged by officers and men, notice having been given of her visit, on board the Marblehead. The chaplain conducted the first part of the service, giving place to Miss Weston as the speaker. Great attention was given her, many of the men were melted to tears, and the evident blessing and power that followed her words were very marked.

Miss Weston breakfasted with the ward-room officers, and before she left visited the lower deck, the sick bay, and the cells. Her monthly letters and Ashore and Afloat are received regularly by every ship in the American Navy, and are greatly valued.

Her Majesty has shown her interest in the work by providing out of her privy purse a room for Jack at Devonport. By her command the simple inscription runs thus: "Given by Queen Victoria, 1895."

MADRAS TAMIL MISSION.—Mr. Gnanamuthu Joseph Israel, of this mission, and an orphan boy, are now in England and have visited many places throughout the country. The Mayor of Sheffield recently gave the Mission a drawing-room meeting in the council chamber, when Mr. Israel explained that the object of his present mission to England is to secure help to enable the Mission to continue to carry on the day schools distinctly on Christian lines, independent of Government grants. He would be glad to address meetings in drawing-rooms, churches, and halls, and may be communicated with at 29, Botanical-road, Sheffield.

THE CHINESE MASSACRE.

Since our last issue further details as to the murder of C.M.S. missionaries at Ku-Cheng have come to hand, and very painful they are. Great and cruel maltreatment preceded the actual murder of the missionaries, and several of them were burnt beyond recognition in the house, which had been set fire to. Universal sympathy for the C.M.S. and for the bereaved relatives has been aroused throughout the country. As an instance it may be noted that a strong resolution of sympathy was passed at one of the sittings of the Wesleyan Conference.

In a letter to The Times, Rev. Ll. Lloyd, a brother missionary who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Stewart on their first going to China, writes :—

"As regards the people who have been guilty of this dark deed and their motive for acting so atrociously, it is a little difficult to speak with any degree of certainty in the absence of further details. It seems, however, almost certain that it was perpetrated by a band of vegetarian Buddhists, who are very numerous in the locality and who have been giving a great deal of trouble to the Chinese authorities lately. Indeed, for the last few months Mrs. Stewart and her family, together with the unmarried ladies, have been living at Fu-chau, it having been deemed wise as a precautionary measure to send them there; but I imagine that, as things seemed quiet again, it was thought safe for them to return. How far the Chinese authorities connived at this dreadful deed, or how far they were able to prevent it had they so willed, it is quite impossible to say positively. One can only hope that these untoward events are in some way hastening those reforms which China so sorely needs and which outward pressure from foreign Governments may compel her to adopt."

As the most prominent of the murdered missionaries, public interest has largely centred in the career of Rev. R. W. Stewart and his wife. The following biographical details, given in The Record, by Mr. Van Someren Taylor, will be welcomed :—

"Educated at Marlborough, Mr. Stewart proceeded to Trinity College, Dublin, where he graduated with honours. It was his intention to be called to the Bar, and he read three years in London with that object. The effect of that early training was apparent throughout his whole life. Through some mistake, which he never could explain, he mistook the day of the examination for the Bar. This set him thinking, 'Can God have some other work for me in life?' and the fact was borne down upon him that God had called him to mission work. He applied to the C.M.S., and with nervous anxiety he awaited the reply of the committee, fearing lest he should not be considered fit for mission work—an instance of his deep humility. He went for one year's theological training to the C.M.S. College, Islington, choosing that institution because he believed it would better fit him for the field.

"In 1876, along with Rev. Ll. Lloyd, he proceeded to Foo-Chow, and joined Rev. (now Archdeacon) Wolfe in the city. He was placed in charge of the College and Boys' School. He soon made his mark upon the Mission. He realised that a new building for a college was needed, and before long one was erected, chiefly, if not entirely, through funds raised by himself and his friends at home. But it was not long to be used as such. The Chinese authorities had made up their minds to turn out the European missionaries from the city. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, with their infant son, returning from a short holiday, suddenly found themselves surrounded by a howling Chinese mob, which, though it did not attack them, surrounded the house, and they witnessed the destruction by fire of the newly-erected college. More than once they expected to be attacked, and doubtless had they gone out they would have been so; what they dreaded was that after the college was burnt down their own house would also be set alight to. All that long weary night Mrs. Stewart, with her infant in her arms, sat or wandered from one room to another, not knowing what was to happen. On the ground of a flaw in our lease, we were compelled to leave the city and settle in the foreign settlement three miles away. Here, after numerous delays, a site was obtained, and a new theological college was erected, the funds having been provided by Mr. Stewart's friends.

"After eight years of service both Mr. and Mrs. Stewart returned home for furlough. Whilst at home they were most energetic, and it was chiefly through the energy they then displayed that the Fuh-Kien Dublin University Mission was started in connection with the C.M.S. It was during this time of furlough that he threw his whole-hearted energies into obtaining lady workers for the mission-field, and it has been chiefly through his exertions that the C.E.Z.S. was induced to send such a large and noble band of workers, some of whom have been so suddenly called to lay down their lives for Christ side by side with him, and greatly through the action of his friends at home money has been raised to send out such ladies. He was appointed their representative or secretary in the mission-field. At home he was engaged as a deputation for the C.M.S. On his return to Foo-Chow in 1885 he was again appointed to the College.

"Unfortunately the residence he lived in was unhealthy, and his constitution became seriously impaired, and as he expressed a wish to engage in evangelistic work, he was at his own request removed to Ku-Cheng in 1888—to have charge of the neighbouring district of Ping-Nang. How earnestly he prayed for more workers to work in those great untouched districts! The change to Ku-Cheng did not, however, prove as beneficial as it was hoped it would. In a few months he was invalided home. For a long time it was doubtful whether his health would permit of his return, but he was not idle. At home, he saw through the Press the 'Romanised' edition of the Foo-Chow Colloquial New Testament.

"In 1891 he was appointed by the C.M.S. to accompany Mr. Eugene Stock to the Colonies. On his return to China, in 1893, having proceeded viâ

REV. R. W. STEWART.

(From Photograph by Mr. J. H. Newman, Sydney.)

Canada as a special deputation, he was appointed to Ku-Cheng city. Here he threw himself energetically into the opening of day-schools—a form of mission work that had been most dear to his heart, and for which he pleaded earnestly at home, and had been able to raise a special fund for their support. All through his missionary career he has ever held before the Native Church the idea of self-support. His ideal of a Native Church was one entirely supported by the natives. And now God has called him home to Himself.

"In his wife Mr. Stewart found his heart's desire, ready to aid him in all things, always at his side. At the very beginning she threw herself heartily into mission work (for which her previous life with her mother, Mrs. Smyly, of the Irish Church Mission, at Dublin, had so fitted her). She rapidly acquired the language and spoke it most fluently. She energetically developed, if she did not in reality start, that large and most flourishing part of our task, 'the Bible-women's work.' And by his side she has shared his death. 'Lovely and pleasant' were they 'in their lives, and in death they were not divided.' Those who knew them must have noticed in both that ripening in Christian character and grace that sometimes comes to one before they go to be with God. In both their lives this was well marked. To both the coming of the Lord was a reality, and eagerly looked forward to as to happen soon. Above the yells of that murderous Chinese mob they have heard the cry, 'Behold, the bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him'; and from both their hearts, if not their voices, will have gone up the cry, 'Even so, come, Lord Jesus.'"

The telegrams published on Monday last announce the death of the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, in consequence of the injuries received; this brings the number of deaths to eleven.

Miss Smyly, of Dublin, aunt of the orphaned children, sails on Saturday by the Campania for Shanghai, via the United States, to take charge of the surviving members of the Stewart family.

GOD'S MARTYRS IN CHINA.

August 2, 1895.

Our hearts are well-nigh overwhelmed
With agony and pain,
At thought of kinsmen far away
By brutal murderers slain.

Amidst our desolation sore,
Is there no ray of light?
Ah, yes, the voice of Jesus
Speaks to us through the night.

"Is suffering death so strange and sad?
Remember, 'twas said by Me,
That even as the Master is,
So should the servant be."

Oh ye whose hearts are breaking
Look up to the Son of God.
This blood-stained path to glory
Is the very one He trod.

Look up, till ye catch the music
In that happy, happy land,
As the golden gates fling open wide
To receive the Martyr Band.

A. Tuting.

O brave white souls! Did ye so scan the need,
Nor deem toil wasted? Was your faith so high
In power of love? And seemed it good to die
Far from dear home? Nor wiser they whose creed
Though yours in name decries such venturous deed.
O Christ! But these in lonely witness bright
Have found thy Calvary, and in the light
Of thine Eternity their work we read.
But who those hour-long pangs may dare to name,
Renewed till gentler death the spirit freed,
Nerves tense, the mind in dark confusion bound,
Brute evil rioting, while through swoom and shame,
Prayer struggled Godward, where no man gave heed,
And cruel Mongol faces leered around.

Claybury Frederick Mann.

A WOMAN'S MISSION IN BOMBAY.

After much consideration and correspondence with the leaders of the different missionary societies, it has been decided to found a Missionary Settlement for University Women at Bombay. That city contains a Parsee population of 60,000, as yet almost untouched by missionary effort, and it is believed that among the women of this enlightened race, unhampered by Mohammedan and Hindoo restrictions, excellent missionary work can be done on educational lines. Parsee converts would become a powerful instrument for the evangelisation of the races around them. Then in the districts of Nasik and Malegàm, about one hundred miles from Bombay, there is pressing need for lady doctors among 2,000,000 native women, and a medical mission would find the fullest scope. The reflex action of the work, it is believed, would be most beneficial on the colleges at home. Offers of service have already been received, and if the necessary funds are secured, it is hoped to send out a first band of workers in October, 1896. The hon. sec. is Miss de Sélincourt, "Eversley," Balham, London, S.W. The advisory council consists of Revs. F. B. Meyer, H. C. G. Moule, E. A. Stuart, R. Wardlaw Thompson, Dr. H. Grattan Guinness, Mrs. de Sélincourt, Hon. G. Kinnaird, and Miss G. A. Gollock. Lord Kinnaird is hon. treasurer, and the committee is made up of members of Newnham and Girton Colleges, the London and Edinburgh Medical Schools for Women, Queen Margaret College, Glasgow, and Alexandra College, Dublin.

CHURCHES BROKEN INTO.—On Saturday the Congregational Church and the Baptist Church at East Finchley were broken into. The contribution boxes in the churches were broken open and their contents taken. In class rooms adjoining the Congregational Church sewing classes are held on weekdays, and from these a number of articles of clothing were stolen. On the previous day the Presbyterian Church, Highgate-hill, was visited by thieves, who tried to enter the building by breaking a window.

Rev. A. Murray's Testimony

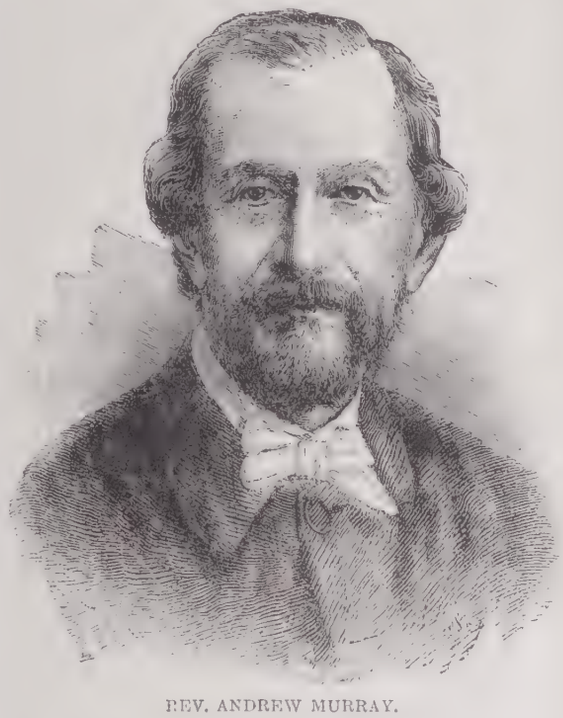
AT KESWICK CONVENTION.

In Psalm lxxviii. 34 you have these words, "When He slew them, then they sought Him." When I was asked to give my testimony, I said I doubted whether it was desirable, and for this reason: We all know what helpfulness there is in the clear-cut testimony of a man who can say, "There I was; I knelt down and God helped me, and I entered the better life." I cannot give such a testimony; but I know what blessing it has often brought to me to read of such testimonies for the strengthening of my faith. And yet I got this answer from those who wished me to speak: "Perhaps there are many at Keswick to whom a testimony concerning a life of more struggle and difficulty will be helpful." I replied: "If it must be so, let me tell, for the glory of God, how He has led me."

Some of you have heard how I have pressed upon you the two stages in the Christian life, and the step from one to the other. The first ten years of my spiritual life were spent manifestly on the lower stage. I was a minister, I may say, as zealous and as earnest and happy in my work as anyone, as far as love of the work was concerned. Yet, all the time, there was burning in my heart a dissatisfaction and restlessness inexpressible. What was the reason? I had never learned, with all my theology, that obedience was possible. It was with me a settled thing — I am a sinner. My justification was as clear as noonday. I knew the hour in which I had received from God the joy of pardon. I remember in my little room in Blomfontein, how I used to sit and think: "What is the matter? Here am I, knowing that God has justified me in the blood of Christ, but I have no power in service." My thoughts, my words, my actions, my unfaithfulness—everything troubled me. Though all around thought me one of the most earnest of men, my life was one of deep dissatisfaction. I struggled and prayed as best I could.

One day I was talking with a missionary. I do not think he knew much of the power of sanctification himself; he would have admitted it. When we were talking and he saw my earnestness, he said: "Brother, remember that when God puts a desire into your heart, He will fulfil it." That helped me; I thought of it a hundred times. I want to say the same to you, who are plunging about and struggling in the quagmire of helplessness and doubt. The desire that God puts into your heart He will fulfil.

I was greatly helped about this time by reading a book called "Parables from Nature." One of these parables represents that after the creation of the earth, on a certain day



A NUMBER OF CRICKETS MET.

One of them began saying, "Oh, I feel so happy. For a time I was creeping about looking for a place where to stay, but I could not find the place that suited me. At last I got in behind the bark of an old tree, and it seemed as though the place were just fitted for me, I felt so comfortable there." Another said, "I was there for a time but it would not fit me"—that was a grass cricket. "But at last I got on to a high stalk of grass, and as I clung there and swung there, in the wind and in the air, I felt that that was the place made for me." Then a third cricket said: "Well, I have tried the bark of the old tree, and I have tried the grass, but God has made no place for me, and I feel unhappy." Then the old mother cricket said: "My child, do not speak that way. Your Creator never made anyone without preparing a place for him. Wait, and you will find it in due time." Some time after, these same crickets met together again, and got to talking. The old mother said, "Now, my child, what say you?" The cricket replied: "Yes, what you said is true. You know those strange people who have come here. They built a house, and in their house they had a fire; and, you know, when I got into the corner of the hearth near the fire, I felt so warm, and I knew that was the place God made for me." That little parable helped me wonderfully, and I pass it on to you. If any are saying that God has not got a place for them, let them trust God, and wait, and He will help you, and show you what is your place. You know God led Israel forty years in the wilderness; and that was my wilderness time. I was serving Him very heartily, yet it was dark very often, and the great burden on my heart was; "I am sinning against the God that loves me."

So the Lord led me till in his great mercy I had been eleven or twelve years in Blomfontein. Then He brought me to another congregation in Worcester, about the time when God's Holy Spirit was being poured out in America, Scotland, and Ireland. In 1860, when I had been six months in the congregation, God poured out his Spirit there in connection with my preaching; especially as I was moving about in the country; and a very unspeakable blessing came to me. The first Dutch edition of my book "Abide in Christ" was written at that time. I would like you to understand that a minister or a Christian author may often be led to say more than he has experienced. I had not then experienced all that I wrote of; I cannot say that I experience it all perfectly even now. But if we are honest in seeking to trust God in all circumstances, and always to receive the truth, He will make it live in our hearts. But let me warn you convention Christians in your own thoughts or the thoughts of others. The deepest and most beautiful thoughts cannot feed the soul, unless you go to God and let Him give you reality and faith.

NOT TO SEEK TOO MUCH SATISFACTION

REV. ANDREW MURRAY.

Well, God helped me, and for seven or eight years I went on, always inquiring and seeking, and always getting. What we want is to trust God more. He helped me to trust Him in the dark and in the light. Then came, about 1870, the great Holiness Movement. The letters that appeared in The Revival [now The Christian] touched my heart; and I was in close fellowship with what took place at Oxford and Brighton, and it all helped me. Perhaps if I were to talk of consecration I might tell you of an evening there in my own study in Cape Town. Yet I cannot say that that was my deliverance, for I was still struggling. I would say that what we need is complete obedience. Let us not be like Saul, who, after he was anointed, failed, in the case of Agag, to accept God's judgment against sin to the very uttermost.

Later on, my mind became much exercised about the baptism of the Holy Spirit, and I gave myself to God as perfectly as I could to receive this baptism of the Spirit. Yet there was failure; God forgive it. It was somehow as if I could not get what I wanted. Through all these stumblings God led me, without any very special experience that I can point to; but as I look back I do believe now that He was giving me more and more of his blessed Spirit, had I but known it better.

I can help you more, perhaps, by speaking, not of any marked experience, but by telling very simply what I think God has given me now, in contrast to the first ten years of my Christian life. In the first place, I have learned to place myself before God every day, as a vessel to be filled with the Holy Spirit. He has filled me with the blessed assurance that He, as the everlasting God, has guaranteed his own work in me. If there is one lesson I am learning day by day it is this: that it is God who worketh all and in all. Oh, that I could help any brother or sister to realise this! I will tell you where you fail. You have never yet heartily believed that He is working out your salvation. You believe that if a painter undertakes a picture he must look to every shade of colour and every touch upon the canvas. You believe that if a workman makes a table or a bench he knows how to do his work. But you do not believe that the Everlasting God is working out the image of his Son in you. As any sister here is doing a piece of ornamental or fancy work, following out the pattern in every detail, just think, "Can God not work out in me the purpose of his love?" If that piece of work is to be perfect,

EVERY STITCH MUST BE IN ITS PLACE.

And remember that not one minute of your life should be without God. We do not believe that. We want God to come in at times—say, in the morning; then we are to live two or three hours, and He can come in again. No; God must be every moment the Worker in your soul.

I was once preaching and a lady came to talk with me. She was a very pious woman, and I asked her: "How are you going on?" Her answer was: "Oh, just the way it is always; sometimes light and sometimes dark." "My dear sister, where is that in the Bible?" She said, "We have day and night in nature; and just so it is in our souls." "No, no; in the Bible we read, 'Your sun shall no more go down.'" Let me believe that I am God's child, and that the Father in Christ, through the Holy Ghost, has set his love upon me and I may abide in his presence, not frequently but unceasingly. The veil has been rent; the holiest of all has been opened. By the grace of my God, I have there to take up my abode; and there my God is going to teach me what I never could learn while I dwelt outside. My home is always the abiding love of the Father in heaven. You will ask me, "Are you satisfied? Have you got all you want?" God forbid. With the deepest feeling of my soul I can say I am satisfied with Jesus now; but there is also the consciousness of how much fuller the revelation can be of the exceeding abundance of his grace. Let us never hesitate to say: This is only the beginning. When we are brought into the holiest of all, we are only beginning to take our right position with the Father. May He teach us our own nothingness and transform us into the likeness of his Son, and help to go out and be a blessing to our fellow-men. Let us trust Him and praise Him in the midst of a consciousness of our own utter unworthiness, and in the midst of a consciousness of failure and of remaining tendency to sin. Notwithstanding this, let us believe that our God loves to dwell in us; and let us hope without ceasing in his still more abundant grace.

THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR CONVENTION for 1895, held in Boston, U.S.A., was probably one of the most remarkable demonstrations which the century has witnessed. The Convention was international and inter-denominational. It was attended by over 50,000 delegates, representing nearly all the Protestant Evangelical denominations from all parts of the world, and all "bent on making the world better." It was a remarkable demonstration of the spirit of unity in purpose and action which is fostered by the movement. No person that circulated among the crowds at the Convention, says the Golden Rule, could help noticing the general trend of thought toward the final unity of the Church. Without any effort from the platform to direct it, the common outlook was toward an answering of the Redeemer's prayer for the oneness of his disciples. The secular press as well as the religious commented on the subject, and never before, in all minds, did the things that separate us from one another as Christians seem so trivial and of so little real consequence. Certainly everyone was impressed with the conviction that while there may be obstacles between us as individuals and as Churches, there are no obstacles between us and Christ Himself.

KESWICK ADDRESSES.

Deliverance and Blessing.

By Rev. G. H. C. MACGREGOR.

In a well-known verse in Gal. ii. we have these words, "I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless I live." God through his servants, during these past days, has been telling us much about death, and about the necessity of going down into the grave, if we would enter into that life which is life indeed. But remember that the Bible does not stop by speaking about death. It tells us that we are to reckon ourselves dead unto sin, in order that we may reckon ourselves alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. I wish to speak a little about the life to which this surrender leads us. The life is the direct consequence of the death. Perhaps some soul that up to this moment has shrunk from the death unto sin, may be led to do it as there breaks in upon the soul a vision of the glory of the life to which the Lord would call us.

As a basis of the description of this life, let us turn to Jer. xvii. 5-8. In this passage, it seems to me, we have a wonderful description of the life of which I speak, and you will notice at once that it is a twofold description. It is first of all described as a life of deliverance, and then as a life of blessing; the negative and positive aspects are brought before us. We have two pictures drawn for us, and two experiences described. The first two verses describe the self-life; the last two describe the Christ life. The first describes a life in which God does not get his right place; the last describes a life in which God does get his right place, because the soul has made an absolute surrender. First of all, the self-life is a starved life. "He shall be like a heath in the desert;" always hungry, thirsty, dwarfed, stinted, cramped; always looking for a satisfaction that never comes.

HOW MANY STARVED LIVES THERE ARE

amongst us! One who is accustomed to read faces can see it in the eyes of many of you. You come to convention after convention, and there you are, still unsatisfied. Why? Because your expectations are from man, from conventions, from speakers; you have not got past them, and put your trust entirely in the living God.

Then the life that does not give God his right place is a disappointed life. "He shall not see when good cometh." The man who is not fully surrendered is a man who is trying to manage his own life, and who is taking counsel of man. He is always missing opportunities; he rules his life by the will of man, and will not remain where God means him to be; so when good comes to the place where he ought to be, he does not see it. He is always too early or too late. As life goes on, he comes to the conviction that he is wasting and mismanaging his life. Some of us know what it is to have a man coming to us with tears and saying, "Would God I had known about these things fifty years ago; how different my life would have been!" Every moment your life is in your own hands is a wasted moment.

It is also a defeated life. He who takes his life into his own hand not only fails to achieve what he sets his heart upon, but he achieves nothing. He may do a great deal, but it amounts to nothing. He may be a Christian man, building on the true foundation; but on that foundation, simply because his life is not truly in the hand of God, he is building wood, hay, stubble. He may raise a fabric that may look fair and beautiful in the eyes of men; he may have any amount of reputation as a successful Christian worker, and a popular man; his character may be outwardly beautiful while inwardly dead. He is rearing a fine structure; but it has to be tried by fire, and when the fire tries it, it is levelled to the ground and utterly destroyed. As the man draws near the end of life the conviction seizes him that his life has been lost. He himself may be saved, so as by fire, but his life has been lost; he goes into the presence of God naked and bare. The surrender has to be absolute. It is no use talking about consecration if, at the point where God meets you, you say "No." There are some here who think they are wholly given up to Christ until it comes to some particular thing, and they say "Not that." Jesus demands

AN UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

The life of such a man is a lonely life, from which all true fellowship with God is shut out. I know that many of you have fellowship with God. You would not be Christians at all if you had not some; and I daresay that often your souls long for more fellowship, but you do not know what it really is. You have not got beyond a glimmering of what is in store for you. Sin is essentially a separating thing, tearing away the man from God. Wherever sin is tolerated, and opposition to the will of God, there must be loneliness. Fellowship with God is the only thing that can banish it, and the fulness of fellowship is for him whose will is the will of his God.

Then it is very apt to be a bitter life; dwelling "in a salt land." There are people who come up here and go away utterly disappointed. They attend another convention, and go away disappointed. If you come in contact with them, you find that the spirit is embittered. They are beginning to be cynical, to make sharp remarks about conventions and such movements. You can see it in their faces that they are being soured. What is wrong? God met them at some convention and said, "Do this, or that," and they did not do it. They let self rise against God, and went out into the salt land. Is not that an awful life? Thank God for anything that delivers from that. If there were no other side to it, how vast are the mercy and love that rescue us from a life like that. But there is another side; great as the deliverance is from things like that, the deliverance is the lesser part of salvation. What I feel is: it is not so much what God saves us from as what he brings us into, that makes the glory of the fulness of the blessing of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

In this passage we also have set down for us some of the blessings which are the direct consequence of absolute surrender, and of the inflowing of the Spirit of God, which is God's answer to the full surrender of the soul to Him. Here we have the spiritual life. First of all, it is a life free from care, a life of security in the literal sense of the word. "He shall be as a tree planted by the rivers of water." The man who gives God the management of his life does not plant himself. He does not say, "I want to live in England, and I won't live in Africa. I won't follow this profession, and I won't follow that." He says, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do? Father, deal with thy child as Thou dost wish." Then the Lord takes him up and plants him. When a man puts his life into the hands of God he has the conviction that that life is in the place where God would have it to be; and that is all we need care about. If we have this assurance we have also the assurance that

ALL OUR NEED WILL BE SUPPLIED.

So when we are planted by God, the soul has perfect rest. No fear of hunger, for the soul is rich; no fear of thirst, for its roots are bathed in the water of the river of life. No fear of deterioration, for He who planted will prune. No fear of destruction. "I, the Lord, do keep it; I will water it every moment, lest anything hurt it; I will keep it night and day."

Child of God, there is an answer to your question as to what will follow if you give yourself utterly to the Lord. Some are saying, "If I give myself utterly to the Lord, what will happen at home? I will be sure to fall back. I shall not be able to 'keep it up.'" If it is a thing that you have to "keep up," it is not much worth having; but if you get a thing that keeps you up, that is very different. Do not be afraid lest the Father should call his child into fellowship, and then leave him alone. He plants us by the rivers of water and gives us the assurance that He will never leave us, and that every need will be supplied. So there comes over the soul a perfectly indescribable feeling of rest. Until the Lord let me into this blessing I never knew what the words in Philippians meant: "The peace that passeth all understanding." It keeps the heart and mind; the heart and mind do not keep it. Venture all on Him and enter into the life that is free from care. Then there comes such childlikeness of spirit. As a little child relies on a care that is not its own so we rely on God and sing the child's Psalm: "The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want." Is it not a blessing to get the

WRINKLES TAKEN FROM THE FOREHEAD,

and those marks of care about the eyes removed, as the light of the glory of the Lord shines upon us?

Further, this is a life of growth. "He shall be as a tree planted by the rivers of water. Surrender does not do away with the need of growth; it provides the basis on which growth may go on. Do not think that God means to cramp your life. The gate of death through which we pass may be a narrow one, but it leads to a very wide place. There is room enough in the will of God for all his children, and all that He means them to be. Some of you are shrinking from this teaching about death, because you think it so dreadful. Go through the door and see what is waiting you on the other side. Do you think that God is going to make your life a poor, mean, and niggardly thing? Nay; He is going to take you, as a heath in a dry, sapless soil, and plant you in Jesus Christ till you grow to be like the cedar of Lebanon. You will never know what true liberty is till you are a bond-slave of Jesus Christ.

This is a life of unfailing vigour. In the life of trust there is no languor; there is deliverance from languor, ennui, weariness, and fatigue. How different is this from the experience of the man who tries to manage his own life. That is a dreadfully hard thing. The great majority of people are very tired. How weary people are—some with too much and some with too little. But when the life is wholly given to God there is deliverance from this. The sun that strikes down with its heat cannot touch the man who is in the hand of God. "The Lord is thy shade. The sun shall not smite upon thee by day, nor the moon by night." You will not see when heat comes; you will be rejoicing in the shade. There will be unfailing vigour because the soul is in contact with the source of all strength.

Here again we have an answer to the question, "Will it last?" It is almost amusing to find these questions coming up year by year. "Will the blessing last?" If it were not so pathetic it would be ludicrous. Get away past "the blessing" to the Blesser. Will God last? What says the prophet? "The everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary." Unfailing strength is the heritage and possession of those that wait on Him.

Once again, it is a life of perennial freshness. "His leaf shall be green, and shall not be careful in the year of drought." There is for the soul that perfectly trusts God. Spiritual freshness—how much it is needed, in this weary, dusty world. It is to the spiritual world what flowers, with their fragrance and beauty, are to the natural world. In the Lord's sanctuary strength and beauty dwell, and the man who dwells there not only renews his strength but his beauty. Have you ever thought what the source of freshness is? Of course it is in God, but have you thought how it becomes ours? "The God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghost" (Rom. xv. 13). There is a joy irrepressible bursting forth in the soul that is wholly the Lord's; and to that the freshness of the soul is due.

NEITHER WITHERING NOR WEARINESS

Then there is unceasing fruitfulness. "Neither shall cease from yielding fruit." This is the highest characteristic of the life of trust. Why is fruitfulness such a high characteristic of the spiritual life? Because it is that in the life which makes it fulfil the purposes of God. "Ye have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should bring forth much fruit, and that your fruit should remain." This is what the Lord Jesus Christ expects of every one of his children; and He will not be content till He gets it. Why does He want fruit from us? Because by our bearing fruit God is glorified; and when a man can glorify God that man has reached the goal of his life; he has achieved the end for which he was made. "Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit." This is what has been pressed on my own heart during these past days. What we must aim at is not joy, or peace, or power, but the glory of God. If we are seeking these other things we will lose them in the seeking, unless we are far more taken up with the glory of God than anything that can happen to ourselves. When God sees in our life the fruit of the Spirit—love, joy, peace, meekness, long-suffering, temperance—his heart is at rest. He sees that the purpose for which He sent the Lord Jesus Christ into the world has been fulfilled in us. "He rejoices over us with singing." How wonderful that to you and me, who have brought so much pain and sorrow to our Father, there is given the ineffable blessedness that brings to Him joy. What matters it what we lack, if we can give joy to the heart of Jesus; if we can bring Him such fruit, wrought in our lives by his own blessed Spirit. "He shall see of the travail of his soul and be satisfied." That is the life of fulness of blessing. Enter into it now and be fully blessed.

God's Oil.

By DR. ELDER CUMMING.

THE miracle recorded in 2 Kings iv., is also a parable. This widow of one of the sons of the prophets, is surely a speaking emblem of the Church of Christ, which has been reduced by poverty to the lowest depths of necessity, and turning hither and thither for help in her need, she comes at last where she should have gone at first, to seek help from God. The Church of Christ was meant to be enriched with all the fulness of God; but apparently from age to age she has become poorer and weaker, less able to conquer in the name of Christ, less able to go forward in his name unto the ends of the earth. How many Christians here are complaining of the small results of their daily and weekly work? How many a minister of Christ is sad at heart because of the few and poor results that he sees from the results of his labours. How many a missionary here from all countries of the earth, who with hanging head and rueful look and saddened spirit looks back to the past, and looks abroad to wide, vast, dark heathenism, or to obstinate and rebellious unbelief. Is it not the case of the woman of my text, who is reduced to the greatest poverty, and hardly knows where to look or whither to turn?

What is the message which the Lord gives by his servant, the prophet Elisha? "Tell me, what shall I do for thee?" Ask what thou wouldst of the Lord. What dost thou desire the Lord to do for thee, O Christian, O Church of the living God? A second question comes, when there is no answer given to the first—"What hast thou in the house?" The poor widow begins to reckon up all her possessions, and at last she can think of nothing—money all gone, title deeds long ago disappeared. She has nothing except one little remnant of what had been apparently in far greater quantity, and something that she dare hardly mention. "Thy servant hath not anything in the house, save a pot of oil." As much as to say, "That, of course, is nothing. It will be all gone to-morrow, and I shall be destitute."

You will observe that wherever God is intending to work a miracle He always asks something to work it with. So here, when God is to work a great miracle of grace for this woman and for the Church of Christ, He asks for —something to begin upon, however small. And the Church of Christ, bereft of means, of her spiritual possessions, having lost almost all power, and the Christian, feeble and failing, has still something. Every Christian has the Spirit of Christ; for "if any man have not the Spirit of Christ he is none of his." "What hast thou in the house, of all thy possessions?" "Thy servant hath not anything; oh, wait, yes, my lord, there is something, but I had nearly forgotten it. Of all the goods that I used to have, and that my husband left in better days, there is, it is true, one little pot of oil in the house."

SOMETHING TO DO IT WITH

Then there comes from God, by the prophet, the strange and trying command to "borrow of thy neighbours, empty vessels, and borrow not a few." He does not say for what purpose; he does not give any promise, but leaves the widow in absolute silence, with this one word from God. It was in a small village, probably Gilgal, that two chapters later is described as too strait for the prophet who is living there; and therefore I presume a small village, much smaller than Keswick. People are more afraid of the laugh turned against them than of anything else. There are men here who would walk up to the cannon's mouth, and who have walked up to it more than once in their lives, who could not stand the laugh of a man, and still less of a woman. So this widow went from door to door, in many a case meeting a refusal, and in others receiving a certain amount of ridicule, but impelled by the thought, "God tells me this is what I have got to do. I cannot understand it; it is to me a fearful mystery, but God tells me, and I have nothing else to direct me." So she went from house to house until she collected all the empty vessels they would trust her with. But notice there was one condition that all must have—they were to be empty. They would be of no use whatever if the most precious thing that her neighbour had was allowed to remain in the vessel. If they had offered her a vessel full of silver she must have said, "No use. I want an empty vessel." She could only take such a vessel and empty out the silver; it was not hers, and would be of no use in paying her debt. She had to go through all that trial. Then came a singular test of faith. This woman (illustrating, as I said, the Church of Christ) was told to go into the room and lock the door. Her two sons are to be with her, and they are to obey her telling. They were in danger of being taken away as bondsmen. She knows, for she has gone to God and got this word from God, that He is going to do something wonderful in that room.

She is told by the prophet to take and pour from the one pot of oil into the empty vessel. In trembling faith, perhaps she said, "Bring me one of the smaller vessels." It was brought. I see the way-worn face, marked with many a sorrow; for I suppose there is nothing that brings such sorrow to man or woman as limited means in the household, leading them into debt and all the trouble that debt brings with it. God keep all Christian men and women from the trouble and curse—and generally the sin—of debt. With a trembling hand and a sorrowful face, she pours softly, slowly, and carefully, wondering how long this little pot of oil will last, and whether it will actually fill a larger vessel. So another vessel was brought and filled, and another, and again another, and another, till there seemed to be no end. And all depending on this act of obedience—the obedience of faith; obedience in the dark, that was

SATISFIED WITH THE WORD OF GOD.

Now we come to the measure of this oil. It had a law. People nowadays tell us that when we come to law, God cannot interpose; cannot personally work; that there is a law in the way. But all laws are only the methods of God's working. And this law, this miracle, had a law of its own. What was it? As long as you can keep pouring out, the oil of God will last. The woman found it so. And the measure of God's working, and of God's blessing, was—with the filling of the last vessel, the stream and river of the oil of God was to cease. How much could she take of the gift of God? How much can the Church take of the oil of God? How much can the Christian take of the fulness of God's Spirit?

I read some years ago the story of an African missionary—still alive, and I believe in this country now. With his small party he had travelled the wilderness day by day until the water in the skins they carried was exhausted. Then the cry came: "What shall we do without water?" One day, two days, were passed under the burning sun without a drop of water to drink. At last, on the morning of the third day, I think, someone of the party climbing, an eminence, uttered a joyful cry and flung his cap into the air; they thought they could distinguish the words "Water! water! a river in front!" They pressed on at their utmost speed till they came to the blessed river flowing in its fulness before them. They cast themselves down and drank and drank just as much as they could, and when they had taken all that they could, how much of the river was left? It was flowing past with its full sweep, as full and broad and deep as when they came to it. It was there, and all for them—if they could use it. But they GOT ONLY AS MUCH AS THEY COULD TAKE.

The river of the oil of God is flowing to-night through Keswick. It is deeper and broader than that lake yonder. How much of it are you taking? How much can you take? How many empty vessels have you? Its law is that you shall have as much as you can take from God. This Convention shall have as much as it can take from God. The cry of the Church of God is: Bring me yet a vessel—another missionary, another mission—for India, for China, for Africa, for the Neglected Continent. Bring me yet an empty vessel. Let it be as large as you can find, and there shall be oil for it—such oil as shall fill the vessel to the brim.

"Mother, there is not a vessel more." And the oil was stayed. Was there any way by which more oil could have been got: by which that widow could have gone on pouring oil every day of her life? I think there was. Suppose she had made a division between her sons, and had said to her elder son, "John, you shall bring me vessel by vessel; as soon as it is filled I shall hand it to Robert, and he will go with it out of that door, and will bestow it upon that poor widow who lives at the end of the village. As soon as he has done so he will come back, and I will fill the vessel again."

THAT WOULD HAVE BEEN THE SECRET

of the flow of oil. As long as she could produce an empty vessel it would be filled, and refilled, and filled again. If we give as we get then there will come a fresh supply. It will be no longer getting and giving; rather it will be giving and getting. The secret of getting from God, after a certain stage, is giving to God—using what God has given. If you ask me how it is that Christians know so little of the fulness of God, I meet you with another question. "Have you used all that you have got for yourself and for your neighbours? Have you spent all that God gave, before you asked Him for more?" If you ask me why this Convention has been poorer in its practical results for God throughout the Church and the world than it might have been, my answer must still be the same. When we asked for another vessel, the answer was: "There is not a vessel more." The supply of candidates, of missionaries, of workers, and of work has stopped. God cannot give what we have no use for. Why is the Church of Christ—I do not mean my Church or your Church, but the Church of the Living God—in this condition? Is it not because she has said: "I have got nothing except one little pot of oil; and then you know that is no use." How has the Spirit of God been undervalued and ignored! How little has been thought of the one pot of oil—all that is left of what in better days some of you were; all that is left of what in better days the Church of Christ was—the Apostolic Church, the Reformation Church, the Church of Revival. When will the Church of the Living God learn that God asks just an empty vessel, a readiness to receive, to believe and trust his Word; an obedience to carry out his command; an ability to be filled and emptied, and then filled once more and presented to the Lord. That is the only secret of success in the mission field, in the congregation, in the home, in the heart. "Bring me yet another vessel," and God will fill that vessel to the brim.

God's Redemptive Scheme.

BIBLE READING

By Rev. HUBERT BROOKE.

(Concluded from last week.)

LET us look now at the closing verses of Mark's Gospel. Mark was a servant; he was the man-servant of Paul and Barnabas. He went with them as their minister, and his whole Gospel seems written from this standpoint. When Paul or Barnabas said "Do this," he went and did it. He did not stay to argue about it. If our servants began arguing about every command, we should never have got away to come to Keswick; we should have been arguing with them still. I wonder how many of us who are also servants would have come to Keswick if we had not been arguing with Him. The ideal motto for servants is that given in Titus—"Not answering again." Our Lord said: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; and he that believeth not shall be damned." I cannot apologise for the last word; it is there, you know. It is not for a servant to apologise for his Master's language in his Master's message, and to begin toning it down. There are those who tone these words down and explain them away; or they put a query in the margin. I have not got to answer as to the things that will happen to those who have never heard, and therefore could not believe. What I have got to answer to my Lord for is: Have I heard and believed but have not obeyed?

"Go ye into all the world and herald the good tidings." The herald goes before the sovereign with his trumpet and gives the message. If all the people reject it, that is not the herald's business. What Christ wants us to do is to go out and herald the good tidings. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; he that believeth not shall be damned." It is very sharp, and very clear; plainly dividing between the right and the left. There is no mistake about it; let us make no mistake either. Are there any here not yet on the other side of the dividing line? Get across to-day; there is no time to lose. Then, as soon as you are there, begin to be heralds; let the trumpet give a blast. Never mind if you do not do it very well at the first; the sound will get better with a little practice. We all do it clumsily at the first; and many of us at the last. And sometimes a rough blast of the trumpet will waken those whom a gentler note would have left asleep. If the trumpet gives an uncertain sound, or if it leaves out the last part of the message, for those who hear. I heard a story of one who was appointed to take charge of a Seamen's Bethel somewhere. It would appear the men were told that he did not believe in hell. A little deputation of them went to him and said, "You are come to take charge of our Bethel?" "Yes." "We are told, and may we ask if it is true, that you do not believe in hell?" "Yes, it is true; that is an old fancy." "Well, if there is no hell we do not want you; if there is a hell, we would rather have a man who believes in it." People say:—These are cultivated days, civilised days, days of good manners—and all that kind of thing. If God gives you the Gospel message to tell out, tell the whole of it; do not leave out the rough words and tell only the smooth. Do not say that God is the God of love, and leave out that He is the God of justice.

IT IS A SOLEMN THING

We come now to the third Gospel, and see what Christ tells us, more in detail, about this wonderful message that we are to carry. In Luke it is given as though every single workman must know so fully what he is to do, that each shall do his own share, and so all will be done. Here we have the architect's pattern and design worked out in detail; telling how this wonderful plan of the Lord Jesus Christ is to be carried out. "These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets and in the Psalms concerning me." (Luke xxiv. 44.) Remember that is what the risen Lord said. Some people say that before He died his knowledge was limited, or that He did not always know the things that people know now. Besides the fact that Christ spoke only the words that the Father gave Him, let us not forget that here He was risen from the dead and in his glorified body. He had been raised by the Spirit of God, and thus proved to be the Son of God with power. It was then that He said, "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." In this passage He says that Moses, and the prophets, and the Psalms, wrote of Him—not of Simon Maccabees, but of Him.

"Then opened He their understandings, that they might understand the Scriptures." May He do the same for us now and always. "Thus it is written, and thus it behoved." Here is a remarkable fact. Christ said there were about the Gospel. First, it must be that Christ had to suffer; second, it must be that He had to rise from the dead; third, that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name." We all know about the first two; we say that is the foundation of our soul's safety. But Christ did not stop there; He did not leave out the third thing that must be. He said it must be done; therefore our only duty is to ask the Lord how He is to be obeyed.

THREE ABSOLUTE AND ESSENTIAL NECESSITIES

"Repentance and remission of sins must be preached." By whom? Not by the Lord in glory, not by his angels, but by people like you and me. Then observe that he says, "amongst all nations." He could not mean that a little handful of ordained ministers of the Gospel can do it. He means that the labourers and workers in every Church should do it; that the worst educated as well as the best educated should do it. Even then there are not half enough of them. Many are too proud of their knowledge even to put a hand to it.

"And ye are witnesses of these things." Witnesses are people who have seen and known. Those who have seen and known that Christ died and rose again are the people to go out and say, "Repent and believe, for the remission of sins." It will take every single living believer to do the work, and if they are not all at it the work will not be done. Even the weak and the feeble must do their part. It will take all the children, the boys and girls, the young men and young women, those in the prime of life, and those whose lives are running down—from the oldest to the youngest, all will be needed to do the work. Every single witness who has heard and believed has something to do. I cannot tell you what. I am not "Clerk of the Works"; I am just one of the workers. But if you want to do it, the Master will make plain to you where your place is.

"And behold I send the promise of my Father upon you." That answers all questions. He does not send his soldiers; He does not employ his builders at their own charges. He supplies the power and all that is needed, so that the work may be done.

Now we come to the closing portion of John's Gospel, where he said, "Peace be unto you; as my Father hath sent Me even so send I you" (xx. 21). We all say, and we all pray, and we all sing, that we want to be like Jesus. Well, thanks be to God, He wants us to be like Him too. It would be interesting to study how many times He says, "As I; so you." Time after time He says so—and this must be

THE VERY CLIMAX OF IT.

You know how He was sent with all the supplies needed for all the purposes of his Father. Over forty times in the Gospels Christ is described as the Sent One. So the description of our life should be "The Lord sent me." Never mind about anything else, so long as you are sure of this—that you are in the place, and doing the work, to which God sent you.

A few closing words as to how Jesus was sent and how we are sent. You are sent with the same knowledge that Jesus Christ was sent with. "I am the good Shepherd and know my sheep, and am known of mine; as the Father knoweth Me, even so know I the Father" (John x. 14, 15). You are sent as one who knows and is known by the Lord. He does not send with this message those who do not know Him and do not know that they know Him. Again, "As the living Father hath sent Me, and I live by the Father, so he that eateth Me even he shall live by Me" (John vi. 57). We have the same Divine sustenance for the life of the soul as the Father gave to the Son. And again, "He whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God" (John iii. 34). The same instruction. You need not be troubled about the message. We are not to speak the words of man's wisdom, but the words which the Holy Ghost teacheth. Therefore our only care is that we receive from Him his words, and that we eat them. Do not be troubled about the fruit or the lack of fruit; be content to speak what the Lord tells you, and leave the rest with Him. Sow the seed, and God will make it grow. "God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost, who went about doing good" (Acts x. 38). When Christ was sent it was not at his own charges. So we have an unction from the Holy One, and we know all things—all things, that is, necessary for our service and the mission on which He sends us.

Look again at John xvii. 14, "The world hath hated them because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world." So that when He sends us He puts us into the exact position He was put into—hated by the world and bringing a blessing to the world. Think of that. To do them good where they do you evil; to speak of them good when they speak of you evil. The Lord Jesus is one who was sent like that, and He sends us to be like Himself. So you know you will have the same reception as He had. He came to his own, and they received Him not. So it will be with you. Some will mock; some will despise; some will reject; but there will always be some to hearken and believe and follow. "As the Father sent Me, even so send I you." More than that, because of the gift of the Holy Ghost, He said, "Greater things than these shall ye do, because I go to my Father."

That is the message. It is clear enough, is it not? It does not seem as if it were possible to read the words without knowing what they mean. If I have repented and believed; if I am a witness of those things, then there must be something for me to do. Things will not be right with us, nor with this Keswick Convention, and we shall not go away from it with the blessing it was meant to bring, unless we go with this thought in our hearts: "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" with this purpose: "What the Lord saith unto me shall be done." What He says can be done; there is no doubt about that. It is the word of a King—of the King of kings. And where the word of the King, is there is power.

Ladies' Meetings.

By a Special Correspondent.

Those who are responsible for the ladies' meetings at the Keswick Convention never face any service for God with so much of the "fear and trembling" which is united with the deepest and the most honourable service. The little group entrusted with this very sacred charge were the same as before; Mrs. Bannister and Miss Nugent being responsible for the meetings in the Lecture Hall, and Mrs. Tottenham and Miss M. Gollock having the care of the meetings for girls held in the Victoria Hall.

God tests his workers as well as trains them, and this little band can witness that no such emptying ever comes as before the Convention. "Lord, who am I?" is the deep sense in each, and the Lord answers by accepting it, and showing that that "I" can indeed only be used when it loses itself in the one "I am." It is the weak things He employs.

The meetings in the Lecture Hall were different from usual. It had been greatly felt that the "Waiting upon God" which seems to be one of the conspicuously urged messages of the Rev. Andrew Murray, should have more opportunity for being acted on. And it came about in these meetings without any planning. Never has there been so little "speaking," so little of set address given.

The first day was opened by prayer from Miss Nugent, after the hymn, "Quiet, Lord, my froward heart," had been sung. Much prayer followed for that deep and close heart-searching which God alone can give.

Mrs. Bannister then opened, reading Ps. cxxxi. First she reminded us that this psalm brought before us our attitude towards God; but there was also the attitude of the Lord Jesus towards us to be recalled. And what was that attitude? It was one of intense yearning over us. We saw it in the Saviour weeping over Jerusalem. Has He now to weep over any soul in the room? Oh, then may that soul know it! Weeping over the city that would not turn to Him, over the yielded pride, and the rejection of his Kingship. The Lord Jesus was not alone in this attitude of yearning. Read Ps. lxxxi. 13-16, and see how God longed for the full obedience and surrender of his children, that He might be able to feed them with the finest of the wheat. How many are present to-day, over whom He has to say, "I have many things to say, but ye cannot bear them now." Longing to speak and teach further, deeper, yet prevented by the unyielded will, the resisting heart. And for one more reference for the yearning of God, read Romans viii. 26. "The Spirit also maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered." So that the whole heart of the Trinity is going forth to us—Father, Son, and Spirit together, breathing with intense desire after the people of his own possession.

This is the attitude of God towards us. What is ours towards Him? What it ought to be, and what David's was, is given in this Psalm. This indicates the spirit which will bring joy to Jesus. "Lord"—and how much that word means when rightly used to Him! It means, Master, and says, I am thy slave—"my heart is not haughty, nor mine eyes lofty." Only a heart searched through and through can say this; only eyes which have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts, can truly say, "Not lofty."

Then in a running commentary, of which every word seemed to penetrate, Mrs. Bannister described what "a weaned child" meant. You can picture it—sobbing, struggling, resisting; but now in yielded rest in its mother's arms. "I have behaved and quieted myself, even as a child that is weaned of its mother." Dr. Kay's brief words on it were brought up. Behaved—the same word as in Isa. xxviii. 25. Speaking of the plowman, doth he not make plain the ground? giving the thought of a heart prepared ow for the seed which is to be fruitful; prepared y the plough, and the long deep furrows of the earching of God. And then quieted—a word vhich not only gives the thought of a little child ulled to rest, but of the great heaving sea stilled o peace after the storm. So that in the word we ave both the gentleness and helplessness of a child, nd the strength of the mighty sea.

The prayer which followed showed how deeply t had struck home, and had touched the chord vhich was stretched in many a heart.

The next day the hall was again filled to over-owing. The girls' meeting was being held at the ame time this year, but it made no difference in ither attendance. Mrs. Bannister opened with eading the latter part of Hebrews xii.: "See that e refuse not Him that speaketh" was its great ppeal. A time of prayer followed, and then Miss Jugent gave the passage in Jer. xxxi. 8-12, dwelling pecially on the verse which had been to her the mpowering word for Keswick. "They shall flow ogether to the goodness of the Lord"—"The good-ess of the Lord"—that was the goal! the sure, ertain goal which every word of revelation here vould lead to. "The goodness of the Lord"—not urs. Here that would be so shone upon in the ierce light from the throne of God, that nothing ould be said of self, but "Unclean, unclean." How vas that goal reached? It was by a river, a valley, y the low track; and it might be with weeping. But however it would be, the goal was "his good-ess." And the "weeping" of v. 9 ends in the song" of v. 12, and the "river" there to the height" of v. 12. Three points about his good-ess: it endures, Ps. lii. 1; it satisfies, v. 14; it umbles, xxxiii. 9.

Whatever the way, the goal is sure; it is his goodness" which is in front of us, when He under-akes to lead. The way to it is various, for God eads each soul by a different path. We cannot lay ut a chart of spiritual progress, as we mark a rail-ay line, and say here you will find a tunnel, and ext a long sunny level. There is no use laying own any route of spiritual experience. It will only ead to darkness and discouragement to a soul to nd that they do not reach the very spiritual pasture oretold at this juncture.

The words spoken felt to the speaker very poor nd inadequate. But when the atmosphere is harged, a very little spark will loosen the light, and seemed so to this day, for one could hardly measure ne response of prayer, confession, and yielding vhich flowed forth. That God was present, and nat it was a "time of asking"—souls knew and rasped the moment.

The third day was again a time of much prayer. fter the requests had been gone over, Miss Nugent oke on the Threefold Wings which are associated ith the life of each child of God: the wings of the per's bird, the sparrow (Lev. xiv. 1-7), which aught of the life by death, and evermore bearing ne death-mark on its free wings; the wings of a ove (Psa. lxviii. 13), which displayed the wealth of od; and the wings of an eagle (Isa. xl. 31), which ld of such identification with God, that the very rength of his might be ours, instead of our own. winged life meant (1) a life by death, (2) a sepa-ated life, (3) a lifted life, (4) a singing life. Under ne point of the separated life she showed how clear must be from the world, both in tone and atmo-here, if it was to be true to God: bringing forward ne three places where the word "entangle" was sed, in 2 Tim. ii. 4; 2 Pet. ii. 20; and then where explains the other two, in 1 Pet. iii. 3, showing that disentangle implies a complete undoing all the ay up.

The closing day had a special feature. An address y Rev. Andrew Murray on Wednesday night had een so great a help to many, that it appeared be God's marked message, and he was asked hether he would go over it again at the ladies' eeting. He accepted, and this had been announced n Thursday, so as to have only those present who ad not heard it. It was greatly blessed, and made ear to many what has often perplexed, that one ay have spiritual gifts without spiritual graces. is earnest prayer for "The Olives," under the harge of Mrs. Bannister, and the first eight embers going forth from it in October, was full sympathy in that sacred work. It was striking at our four days should open with a message hich brought before us the babe-spirit, which is underlie all the life of the child of God, and end ith showing the wrong side of the "protracted abyhood" which is to be avoided and left behind.

The girls' meetings were very greatly blessed. They were largely attended, for one marked feature hitherto of the Convention was again pronounced in the thronging troops of young girlhood and manhood, eager to yield their strong and fresh lives to Him. Several led in these meetings, including Miss Wilson-Carmichael, and the Spirit of God plainly worked, pleaded, and prevailed.

It was remarkable in these meetings, and it seems in others also of the week, that the decision to yield—to "let go"—to let Him undertake the life—was made in silence and alone with God, without much personal talk. It showed that the message "Wait upon God" was responded to in a special way. May God, by the power of his Spirit, work this principle unto us deeper and deeper, so that "God may be all in all," and we may more fully say, "My soul, wait thou only upon God."

CONTRIBUTIONS TO MISSIONS.

DEAR SIR,—It may interest your readers to know that the contributions received by me at the Missionary Meeting at Keswick, July 27, 1895, and up to August 1, amount to the sum of £1,642 6s. 3d., being about £100 more than last year, up to the same date.

This amount includes £100 given by a lady annually for the support of a Keswick missionary now in the field, she having previously given the same sum for last year, with £100 also for outfit and passage money. Perhaps others might be disposed to follow her example.—Very respectfully yours, ROBERT WILSON.

Broughton Grange, Cockermouth.
August 8.

MR. W. C. BAILEY, 17, Greenhill-place, Edinburgh, who has for the past two years collected a fund for helping missionaries and others to attend the Convention, writes:—"I received this year £64 7s. 7d., and had in hand from last year £2, making in all £66 7s. 7d. Of this sum I have spent £55 11s. 5d. in helping fifteen Christian workers to attend the Convention. I have now a balance in hand of £10 16s. 2d. towards the fund for 1896. I received several gifts when it was too late to make arrangements, hence the balance. Of the fifteen who were present ten were gentlemen and five ladies. Three were clergymen of different denominations, five were missionaries, one was a converted Jew; the rest were Christian workers in various spheres. Since the Convention we have received some touching testimonies to blessing received."

KESWICK BREATHINGS,

JULY, 1895.

O JESU, blessed Saviour!
I want to love Thee more;
I want to know a fuller joy
Than I have known before.
O may thy love immortal
So fill me from above,
That all my life henceforth may be
A bright response of love!

O Jesu, mighty Saviour!
I want to trust Thee more,
I want to follow fearlessly
Where Thou art gone before;
I want to lay life's burden
Of sin and care on Thee,
And know the rest of those whom Thou
Hast set at liberty!

O Jesu, gracious Saviour!
I want to know Thee more,
I want to learn thy wondrous worth,
And tell it o'er and o'er.
O draw me from the vain world,
And in Thy presence hide,
That I may live alone to Thee,
And die to all beside!

O Jesu, O my Master!
I want to serve Thee more,
I want to do thy holy will
While humbly I adore.
O fill me with thy Spirit,
That I the cross may take,
And bear it daily after Thee,
With joy for thy dear sake!

O Jesu, holy Saviour!
I want to sin no more,
I want to reckon dead the self
Which Thou to Calvary bore.
O break the power of evil!
O end the reign of sin!
My heart lies open, Lord, to Thee,
O come and enter in!

G. C.

OPHTHALMIC WORK IN INDIA.

WITH vast regions open, "millions yet have never heard"; and the Lord, we say, is at the door. Urgency is voted by all, but few volunteer to go, and the medical missionary (i.e., certificated) is scarce. It is known that need drives many to seek help from any one administering medicines. Not so well known is it that, where the whole course of medical study is impracticable, by giving one year only to one organ of the body a great influence is attainable.

We have asked Mr. Venables Greene, C.M.S., Kashmir, whose boat sails October 4, to give us a few particulars of his work. Desiring as great an influence for the Master as possible, after seeking guidance, he determined to study the eye and its diseases as thoroughly as he could in the time at his disposal. The knowledge gained enabled him (while not assuming the title of medical missionary) to diagnose and treat the various eye diseases with some confidence, and operate on a large number. His work is itinerant and evangelistic, and he expects, by migrating from the plains in the summer, to be able to spend most of the year at work under canvas.

The Chuvian district (Punjab), to which he is returning, is virtually unevangelised; ninety villages were lately visited—crowds of patients, eager listeners. The work was much helped by an able native preacher, by lantern exhibitions, etc.; their Gospels were "sold out," not given away, so great was the demand. To give one incident amongst many:—At a town of 20,000, a police sergeant (Sikh) was most attentive to them during a stay of several days; he received no other reward than thanks and a grip of the hand—this to test him. On returning after a month, they heard he had been preaching in the city that Jesus was the true God!

In Kashmir Mr. Greene had the advantage of Dr. Neve's reputation and assistance. Over 1700 new cases (with old, 2900) were attended within one month at one spot, and about 250 eye-operations done, a number being cataract extractions, to which God added his blessing in spite of difficulties unknown at hospitals. To quote from C.M.S. report just out—"The sick literally besieging us, and not allowing one to take food in private."

Eye diseases being so common in some countries (25 per cent. and upwards), there seems scope for development in itinerating ophthalmic work, and it has the further advantage of comparative inexpensiveness. Mr. Greene's address is Engadine, South Croydon; he will be glad to advise any interested, and thankful for the loan or gift of lantern-slides for the work.

A FAREWELL MEETING has been held at the Prince's-street Congregational Church, Norwich, under the presidency of Dr. G. S. Barrett, in connection with the departure of Mr. C. C. Piper, L.R.C.P. and S. (Edin.) and Mrs. Piper for the mission field. Before entering upon his medical studies Mr. Piper was a member of Prince's-street Church, and had hoped, on the completion of his studies, to be appointed to some field of labour under the auspices of London Missionary Society. That society was obliged to decline Dr. Piper's offer for want of funds. The English Presbyterians accepted him, and have appointed him to Aleppo, Syria, where he is to commence a new work. Dr. and Mrs. Piper expect to sail on August 19.

THE ARCHBISHOP OF YORK entertained a numerous gathering of Nonconformist ministers resident in the diocese of York at Bishopthorpe, the residence of his Grace, on Thursday last. At noon the guests, who numbered about a hundred, and who came from all parts of the widely-scattered diocese, boarded a small steamer at Ouse Bridge, York, and were conveyed down the river to the Palace wharf. The weather was beautifully fine, and all greatly enjoyed the sail. At Bishopthorpe, the ministers were heartily received by the Archbishop, who was accompanied by the Suffragan Bishops of Beverley and Hull. A brief devotional service, in which some of the guests took an active part, was then held in the room where his Grace is accustomed to address students. Short speeches were also made by the Revs. J. L. Pearse (Congregationalist, Sheffield), David Young (Wesleyan, York), G. Hester (Baptist), and E. B. Reynolds (Primitive Methodist, Rotherham), who thanked the Archbishop for his hospitality, and reciprocated the friendly remarks which he had addressed to them. The company afterwards strolled through the grounds, where tea and coffee were served during the afternoon. At four o'clock the guests returned to York by steamer, and at five attended evening service at the Minster, in which the Archbishop took part.

IRISH RAILWAY TALKS.—2.

By GEORGE WILLIAMS.

"Seats please!" shouted the guard. The door of my carriage opened, and in stepped a distinguished-looking man. It was the early train, and the morning sun shone brightly on the pleasant waters of the Irish Sea, by the side of which the line ran. I felt a bit sleepy, but was aroused by the new passenger observing to me that the train was up to time—an unheard-of thing on that railway. He then courteously offered me a French newspaper, he himself settling down to The Times. He had replaced his silk hat with a Scotch "bonnet," having a large silver thistle at the side, and this manly head-covering effectively set off his intelligent and pleasing face.

After a few moments he suddenly exclaimed, "Shameful!" and then, looking at me, said, "Would you please read the telegrams in that paper from Madrid to Paris?" I did so. "Now," said he; "listen to this," and he read the telegrams from Madrid to London, which gave exactly the opposite intelligence. "Can you explain that?" "No."

"Well; I can. It's the Jews. They are getting more power every day. They control the wires and send opposite news to London and Paris, so as to affect stocks. They brought about the revolution in Italy, and did a lot of damage there."

"And you think they have Europe by the throat?"

"I do."

"That is very interesting, for their sacred books predict that they will govern all nations."

"Oh, no. They will become Christians."

This gave me the opening I wanted, so I said, "It's a splendid thing to be a Christian."

"Yes, but in London there are about 180 different kinds of Christians; which do you mean?"

"That is an easy matter to settle."

"Is it? I don't think so. How do you settle it?"

"A Christian is a person within whom a new birth has been produced by the Holy Spirit revealing the Lord Jesus as a personal Saviour. All others are only Christians in name."

He seemed somewhat taken aback by this reply, and after a short silence, said: "You can only reach Christ through doctrine, and you can only have his doctrine from an authorised teacher." Upon this I at once said, "May I ask you a question?" "Certainly."

"Have you peace with God through a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ?"

"Oh, yes," he replied, with a bright smile. "Ten years ago I joined the Holy Catholic Church, in which alone is salvation."

This was an unexpected blow to me, but I immediately said, "May I ask you another question?" "With pleasure." "Are your sins forgiven?" He covered his face with his hands, was silent some moments, and then looking at me, sadly said, "I cannot answer that." "May I ask you another question?" "Yes."

"Have you got eternal life?" Again he covered his face and was silent, and then answered, "No."

"Well, then," I said, "what is the value of the peace you say you have? It is not peace with God, because that peace flows from knowing that your sins are forgiven, and that you have eternal life."

"And do you know that your sins are forgiven, and that you will never perish?" "Yes."

"But how do you know these things?"

"Because God assures me of them in his Holy Word." As I spoke, I drew my Bible from my pocket and added, "Here, in Heb. ix. 26, I learn 'He put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself,' thus making an eternal settlement of the matter; in Rom. iii. 25-26, I learn that God declares and accounts righteous the sinner who simply clings in faith to Christ Jesus; and again, in Rom. ix. 33, I read that 'whosoever believeth in Him shall not be confounded.' In a word, God in this Book points guilty sinners to the Lord Christ as a Saviour, and says that none who believe in Him shall perish. I have, as a sinner, cast myself on Him, and I know that God will keep his word, and that I shall never be confounded."

"Ah, you know the Bible better than I do. Did I know it as well as you do I might be able to show that you are in error."

"Well, why do you not study it?"

"My confessor won't allow me. I might wrest it to my own destruction. He reads it for me and tells me all I need to know."

With a deeply touched heart I looked on the noble face of my fellow-passenger and wondered how so intelligent a man could consent to a bondage worse than slavery.

Just then the train pulled up at my station, and as I rose to leave he said: "I cannot tell you how I have enjoyed this conversation. It is so rare to meet one like you who talks thus. My friends think me mad because I have withdrawn from worldly pleasure, and because I want to love God supremely and to do his will. I should like to have the privilege of your acquaintance. Will you exchange cards?"

On looking at his card I found he was the Earl of ——.

ROMANISM IN FRANCE.

The country which extends from La Rochelle to Bordeaux (formerly known by the name of Saintonge, and now forming the departments of La Charente and La Charente Inférieure) is probably, of all parts of France, that which at the present time is most open to evangelistic missions, and holds out the most hope and encouragement to the missionaries of the Gospel. Around the ancient Reformed churches of Marennes, La Tremblade, Arvert, Royan, Pons, St. Jean d'Angely, Jarnac, Barbezieux, etc., whose history goes back to the times of the Huguenots, many others have been formed in the present century, such as Matha, Rouillac, Fouqueure, Mansle, Cellefromès, Chasseneuil, Le Tâtre, Baignes, St. Maigrin, Soubran, St. Bonnet de Mirambeau, St. Aubin de Blaye, Auglade, etc. (to speak only of the latest), which are all the results of evangelisation, and almost exclusively composed of persons originally Roman Catholics, who have been converted by the preaching of the pure Gospel.

Whatever the cause may be, it is certain that in this region the spirit of the Reformation seems now to breathe again with remarkable force. At the same time, we may observe this peculiar phenomenon. A considerable number of priests, of the more enlightened or more courageous sort, feeling their consciences ill at ease, in consequence of the disagreement between their real belief and the dogmas of human invention they are obliged to teach, are much inclined to come out of this false position by a decisive rupture with Rome. With some it is an accomplished fact. Take, for example, the Abbé Nezereau, lately a parish priest in charge of three parishes in the canton of Tonnay-Boutonne, who, after putting off his soutane, and giving publicly the reasons for his decision, and having spent some time in studying the Word of God under the instruction of a worthy English Christian, Mr. Hathaway, is now attached to the McAll Mission at Rochefort. The addresses which he has delivered in his former parish, and its neighbourhood, have shown him to be a decided Christian, rejoicing in his resolution, and ready anywhere to give his faithful testimony to the truth. The populations to whom he preaches the Gospel receive him everywhere with respect and friendly feeling; and I should not be surprised if the impulse and awakening of soul produced by this famed conversion, were to result in laying the foundation of a new Evangelical Church in the canton of Tonnay-Boutonne, where, indeed, there was formerly a Reformed Church, broken up by the revocation of the Edict of Nantes.

There is now another priest, the Abbé Bonhomme, who was only the other day a parish priest at St. Palais, near Pons, who has lately taken up his position under the law of the pure Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. Less than a fortnight ago he informed me of a conversation which he had had with the pastor of the Eglise Réformée at Pons, M. Robert, and of his definitive resolution to come out of the Church of Rome. "Next Sunday, July 21," he wrote to me, "I shall preach my last sermon in my church, and shall publicly renounce the errors of Popery, and the same day I shall send the resignation of my office by letter to my Bishop. I feel myself urged to proclaim the pure Gospel. A wonderful diffusion of God's word is approaching in all this country. I hope to carry with me a considerable part of the population of my parish, and of the neighbouring villages. I am even acquainted with several priests who share my views, and whom my example will carry along with me. Pray for their conversion and that I myself may be strengthened. I need human help, but also, and above all, the help of God."

On July 22 he wrote telling me that the passage of the Red Sea was accomplished: "All went off well yesterday. There was an immense crowd and deep sympathy. The movement towards the Gospel becomes evident. I preached three times. In my evening discourse I explained, and accounted for, my change. All hands were stretched out to me. They applaud my determinntion. But whether they do or not, I was touched as deeply as possible. I have put my trust in God; for in a human point of view I am absolutely without resources."

M. Bonhomme begs further that some one may come and help him and give addresses in that district. "It is truly Christ," he says, "who put the same thought into our minds. I must remain at St. Palais and make excursions into all the surrounding region of Jonzac and Saintes." He seems to have the more reason for his expectation seeing that, in this country which he points out, namely in the villages of St. Bonnet de Mirambeau, La Pergerie, and elsewhere, Gospel addresses lately delivered have everywhere drawn together large and sympathetic crowds. An evangelist has been settled at St. Bonnet, and another at Soubran. The latter, M. Costa, himself an ex-priest, and formerly a vicar in the island of Corsica, has succeeded so well that more than thirty families, all come out from the Church of Rome, regularly attend his service.

It would be the lively desire of the "Société d'Evangelisation Nationale," which carries on the work of the former "Comité Parisien de Mission Interieures," and which is not afraid of evangelisation which is enterprising, pioneering, and (in the proper sense of the word) aggressive, to take this work under its patronage, and, in particular, to guarantee a regular salary to M. Bonhomme, who comes to us relying on the help of our heavenly Father. Funds are wanted for our undertaking. Could not our Christian brethren of England for once verify the assertions of M. Thiebaud, who pretends that the Evangelical propaganda is carried on in Saintonge by means of English gold?

Eugène Reveillaud.

24, Rue Chauchat, Paris.

REOPENING OF HOXTON HALL.

The alterations and decorations having been completed, the Hall was reopened on Saturday. The extra light afforded to the larger hall will be a great boon to the Sunday-school and other classes held there. Considerable improvements have been made in the lower hall, and the sanitary arrangements are perfected.

At 6 p.m. the workers met for tea. After this an open-air meeting was held in front of St. John's Church, and some earnest addresses were delivered. At 8 the meeting in the large hall was presided over by Mr. William Noble, who spoke of the past, present, and future of the work. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. J. Fyfe Stewart (chairman of the committee), George Blaiklock, G. Young, and J. T. Rae. The Hackney Wick Gospel Temperance Band rendered efficient help at both meetings.

The usual services were held throughout the day on Sunday, and at 7 o'clock the Gospel meeting was addressed by Mr. W. C. Braithwaite, Mr. William Noble, and others. Altogether the work has been resumed with encouraging tokens of blessing. The meetings will be continued every night during the present month, and a special mission held in September.

FOREIGNERS IN LONDON.—The army of foreigners in London is assuming enormous proportions, and in connection with the City Mission sixteen well qualified missionaries are employed. Some 200 foreigners were recently entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Barclay at High Leigh, near Broxbourne. The motley mixture of people, representing a great variety of tongues and religions, were delighted at the way in which they were entertained. Their behaviour was surprisingly good. At a meeting on the lawn the work of the Mission was sketched by Rev. T. S. Hutchinson, and the personal experience of Mr. Salter (missionary to Asiatics), were listened to with acceptance. Besides visiting on the river and at the docks, Mr. Salter has had intercourse with the Somalis at the Crystal Palace and the Indians at Earl's Court. Mr. Geo. R. Cole, the secretary, said that the missionaries to Italians and Spaniards had been down to Plymouth and Portsmouth and circulated the Scriptures amongst the crews of foreign warships recently visiting these ports.

The Evangelist.

THE FAITHFUL SAYING.

By Rev. THEODORE L. CUYLER.

Paul tells us that he was a man of one text at Corinth, and wherever he went he harped upon one string—but it was the string that gives the music of heaven. Here is his favourite text as he gave it to his spiritual son Timothy: "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." Paul might have said that it was a wise saying, showing that his judgment approved it; or that it was an eloquent saying, or a sublime saying. All these would have been true descriptions of his glorious Gospel-message. He goes beyond them, and cries out in the midst of his narrative, "faithful is this saying!" It came from a faithful God who had "sworn by Himself, that we might have strong consolation who have fled for refuge to this hope set before us." It is a faithful saying because it inspires the most perfect confidence in every soul that accepts it, and rests entirely upon the Saviour it proclaims. Never had a sinner who believed it been disappointed; those who have staked their eternal all upon its truth have found it so faithful that unnumbered tongues have declared "we know whom we have believed."

What a fragrant sweetness flows from these two simple Saxon words, "faithful saying"! They remind us of those accents of unselfish love that used to fall from that mother whose lips are now silent beneath the turf. They recall the "faithful saying" which some of us have spoken in all sincerity at the marriage altar; but, alas! how often may a turbulent temper have soiled the brightness of that promise, and made it an unfaithful saying! They remind us of our solemn covenant when we joined ourselves to Christ and promised Him to be his followers unto death; yet our lives testify how often we have failed to live up to it. No saying that ever issued from a merely human source, however solemn, can be regarded as a perfectly infallible truth on which to rest our eternal hopes. But there is one saying as faithful as the throne of the infinite Love, and that is the "faithful saying that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

This is the precious truth that has always lain closest and warmest to the Christian's heart. There is no story in the world, and never will be, like the story of the Cross. No mother ever sang it over the pillow of her child without tenderness, and no child ever listened to it without emotion. No living Christian ever heard the "faithful saying" with indifference; and no dying Christian ever heard it but as a sweet voice from Home. This faithful saying will be remembered when all the literature of this world is forgotten. With it the New Testament opens in that invitation to all men to "behold the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world." And the New Testament closes with it when, amid the magnificent visions of heaven, John heard the bursting anthem of joy, "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, to receive power, and wisdom, and riches, and strength, and honour, and glory and blessing for ever." In this world, and in the next world, and in that solemn hour when we hang between both worlds, no saying in the universe will be of such infinite value to us as that "Christ Jesus died to save sinners."

The power of every pulpit is to be measured by its power to exalt the Cross of Christ. What folly for us to chase every phantom that scepticism can raise! The only way to let the dark out of a human heart is to let in the light. The only cure for unbelief is faith; we must give men something worth believing, and the one thing worth a weak, tempted, sinful man's believing is that the Son of God came into the world to save him. If he gets hold of this faithful saying, he can get hold of Christ; and if he gets hold of Christ he is a saved man. If he fails to do this he is lost; and it matters little whether he perishes from scepticism or from love of the world, or from besetting sin of any description. People who gather before our pulpits want no guesswork; they want solid certainty. They want to listen to an infallible Bible from an infallible God, and to find a rock to build on for all eternity. Oh, the ecstasy of being able to give these sinning, suffering, tried, and tempted souls the grand old faithful saying!

The three great ideas which Paul found in this faithful saying were—a substitute, a sacrifice, and a salvation. Christ came into the world not only as a teacher, and a doer of miracles, and a spotless example to live by. He came to offer Himself as our substitute, and to suffer on our behalf. He became our sacrifice and died to bear our guilt. He offers eternal life and secures it to every man who believes on Him, obeys Him, and follows Him. This is the core of the Gospel. This is the creed of all true Christians, whatever denominational earmark they bear. This "faithful saying" made three thousand converts in one day when Peter first preached it in Jerusalem. It inspired the Reformation by Luther, and underlaid the Mont Blanc of Calvin's adamantine theology, and kindled John Wesley's enthusiasm to preach a full salvation until converted sinners shouted for joy. The one sublime purpose of all foreign missions is to translate this faithful saying into all the languages on the globe, and to tell dying men that Jesus came to save them. Can any man or woman be a genuine Christian and yet do nothing to spread this faithful saying, or to make other people Christians too? As Dr. Roswell D. Hitchcock pithily puts it, "Who, if he could, would like to be plodding heavenward in a path only wide enough for one?"

NOT A HOOF LEFT BEHIND.

"We will go with our young and with our old, with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go. . . There shall not an hoof be left behind."—Ex. x. 9, 26.

"Go ye that are men and serve Him,
Let your little ones remain."
Scorn the too reluctant mandate,
Treat the message with disdain.
Tell it to the tyrant, tell it,
With a calmly purposed mind—
Loud the chorus, none shall quell it—
"Forward! Not a hoof behind!"

Shall the dearest ties be riven?
Shall we yield the worldling's claim?
Shall the little ones be given
To uphold the foeman's name?
While of freedom we are singing,
Must the chains the children bind?
Nay, the sons and daughters bringing,
Shout it, "Not a hoof behind."

Will the Church divide her service?
Shall the world retain a part?
Will she give her hand to Jesus,
And refuse to Him her heart?
Homage to Jehovah tendered,
Yet to Rimmon still inclined?
Never! Let the whole be rendered,
"Not a hoof be left behind."

Shall we compromise for ever—
God and Mammon still defend?
Though the waves of Jordan sever,
Shall the heart to Egypt tend?
Never! by the love that bought us,
By the sacred bonds that bind!
Never! by the grace that sought us.
"Not a hoof we leave behind."

"Take your sons and take your daughters,
Only let your flocks be stayed."
Nay, if we would cross the waters,
Israel's God must be obeyed.
Nought apart from Him possessing,
Not a truce with Pharaoh signed;
This the open gate of blessing,
"Not a hoof is left behind."

Shall we flee to Him to hide us
From the Law's avenging curse,
Taking all He doth provide us,
Yet deny to Him our purse?
Shall we, without stint or measure,
Pledge Him body, soul, and mind,
Yet withhold earth's fleeting treasure?
Never! "Not a hoof behind."

Thine we are, Jehovah Jesus,
Thine we are by purchase-price.
Thine! from bonds Thou dost release us,
Thine! a willing sacrifice.
Thine for every pure endeavour,
Love-wrought chains about us twined!
Thine, to follow Thee for ever,
Thine, and "not a hoof behind."

Lucy A. Bennett.

ST. GILES' CHRISTIAN MISSION.

Mr. Wheatley opens his annual narrative by describing the varied forms of effort carried on in the numerous branches. "The year has been crowded with busy service," and there are many cheering indications that "the work is telling." Beginning with the Prisoners' Branch, testimonies are given, from those best qualified to judge, of the remarkable results in saving and reforming men who had gone far astray. Details are given of the operations among discharged prisoners and released convicts, while it is shown that among both classes great good is being done. The letters given from employers, and from men now doing well, amply prove this.

Nothing, however, is more remarkable than the issues of the work among the boys or first offenders. This has really grown out of the operations of the Mission, and, it must be confessed, it is a great fact that year by year 500 lads, apparently budding fast into full-blown criminals, are being saved in time, and by means of the four Boys' Homes and kindly Christian training and aid, restored to a life of honesty and well-doing, saving the boys themselves, healing many a mother's rent heart, and doing society an incalculable service. While the whole work of the mission is of value, this branch is peculiarly beneficial. Among many cheering letters there is one from one of the first boys rescued. It is long and enthusiastic, but a part here must suffice. After describing his early days he proceeds: "If it had not been for the helping hand that you gave me I should not be the man I am to-day. I hold as good references as any man could wish to hold since I have been out here. I have studied engineering, and now hold a second engineer's certificate. I can never forget the help you gave me, and can never repay it."

Details are also given of the Women's Home and Refuge, the new Children's Home, and the aid rendered to the families of prisoners left in a destitute condition. These varied operations are carried on under the direct daily oversight of Mr. Wheatley, whose self-denying labours ought to be backed by the liberality of many friends.

While we have dealt so far with the Prisoners' Branch, it must not be forgotten that the whole work of the General Mission among the poor and sinful of St. Giles' is in full and fruitful activity. Evangelistic and temperance services at five halls, relief and other helpful measures, Sunday-schools on large scale, house-to-house visitation by four devoted women workers and many voluntary helpers—these are extensively going on in the poor homes of St. Giles. Well may the report conclude:—

"Whether we consider the claims of the children, who but for such efforts, must grow up ignorant of God and of the joys of religion; or the needs of poor, miserable, dying men and women around us, who throng our services, bear our message, and seek our aid in sickness and sorrow; or, lastly, the urgency of that peculiar and unique work which God has laid upon us amongst discharged prisoners, unhappy women, and tempted and endangered boys, who need a friendly and helping hand outstretched to save if they are to escape the thraldom of crime:—considering all these, we ask, dare we leave them to perish? Is not such work worth doing? All who reflect on the question must reply that it is. Then, if it is to continue to be done, you must help us. If you cannot give all we need, you can influence your friends to come to our aid." The address of Mr. William Wheatley is 4, Ampton-street, W.C.

"TIPS" TO RAILWAY SERVANTS.—A correspondent makes the following sensible suggestion:—"Though agreeing that 'tips' should not be given except for special service, would it not be a suitable thankoffering to God for a safe journey, and an acknowledgment of our debt to the careful engine-drivers, to place a donation in the box for the 'widows and orphans' before leaving the station."

RATCLIFF WELCOME HOME.—The "fo'c's'le" was crowded with an interesting audience at the last muster of the Christian Lifeboat Crew. Miss Child gave the monthly text—"The Lord alone did lead him." She referred to the great loss the work has sustained through the death of Mrs. Mooney, of New York, who for many years had been endeavouring to win souls for Christ among sailors visiting that port. Many have been the trophies won for the Lord through her instrumentality. Miss Child asked prayer for several overdue ships and the missionaries in China who are labouring under such difficulties. Practical addresses were given by Miss Tuck, Mrs. Morrison, and Mr. W. Luff, and several bright testimonies came from the seafaring men.

AMONG IRISH ROMANISTS.

"Mrs. G— has another baby, and is not well, poor thing; will you go to see her, Miss?" "Of course I will," was the natural answer to my friend Kate, a delicate girl, unable to do much active work herself, but a good daughter, and true patient Christian, always ready to help me by pointing out objects for sympathy or aid.

Mrs. G— lives in a damp hollow, close to the bog; she has few neighbours, and her manners were at first rude and repellant. On the evening I write of she rose with a puny infant in her arms, and scolded the five ragged little ones around her sharply. After awhile her sad story was told. She had married a wild boy of 20, who proved to be a bad husband and father, and a reckless labourer, who could not be trusted to keep his engagements with the farmers who employed him.

"I think he can't be right in his head," said the poor wife, apologetically. "He couldn't get into such awful passions if it wasn't for that and the drink. One night, just after Patsy was born, he ran at me to kill me, an' I had to take the baby and go out into the snow."

"I wonder it did not kill you. Do you ever pray that God will change his heart?"

She laughed harshly. "Pray, indeed! Shure I'm tired prayin', an' crying,' an' cursin'."

"Ah! I hope you did not curse, Mrs. G—."

"Well, I did, thin! I did that same three things, but all to no use; and sometimes my heart feels breaking, I've such a pain here."

She pressed her hand to her breast with a quick, unconscious grace, her sad, sunken eyes on fire.

"Then I have a message just meant for you, Mrs. G—. God's Word says that the Lord Jesus 'came to bind up the broken-hearted, to comfort those that mourn.' Won't you ask Him to take your troubles and carry them for you?"

She looked up doubtfully, not understanding what I meant, but soon caught a glimmering of light, and promised to try the remedy of prayer to a loving Saviour next time the heart-agony became sore. At another visit I found, with surprise, that "He came to preach deliverance to the captives" conveyed a more vivid idea to her mind. "Shure, I am in bondage and slavery all my days, and want to be free."

"Jesus will come and open the cage-door for your body some day, and now your soul can fly to Him when you are in trouble."

She looked out wistfully on the green land.

"Why, even the little birds is happy, singin' out there. God made them to be happy."

"Yes, and you, too. We are his care more than sparrows, and yet He says, 'One sparrow cannot fall to the ground without his knowing it.' Can't you trust Him to know all you have to bear, and to feed and clothe the children, when He promises it so faithfully?"

"Yes, shure, those is good words. Thank you for coming to see me."

God grant that other visits may bring fuller light and peace to this sad soul!

A man whom we may call Bailey saw more deeply into the Saviour's love. "Our clergy will order us to pray to the saints to make intercession for us with the Saviour, but we find that even our Lord's disciples hadn't much compassion on the innocent little children when they bid them 'hold off!' But, thanks be to Jesus He was tender over them, and I'm sure He will have the same compassion for us if we just trust in his mercy; it would never do to be depending on the saints."

Would that poor old N— and his wife could find this secret of confidence! They are both much over eighty, and N— was an honest hard-working labourer all his days, but now the winter of life is upon them, and they meet it very sadly. Old N— tries to earn a few pence by breaking stones for the roads, his hands crippled and knotted, and his limbs aching with rheumatism. I went to their little hovel lately, the happy bearer of a pound of tea. The mud floor was swept up, and all as clean and neat as possible. There is no ceiling to the roof, and the bed had few coverings until a kind friend bestowed a blanket last winter. Mrs. N— was delighted to see me. She had a good grumble over her troubles and then cheered up brightly.

"All the children were in America, and didn't take much heed of them, but one boy sent a pound at Christmas. The old man had been very bad, and she was waiting for him to die, when she'd have to go to the workhouse. Thank God he was better at last, and the neighbours was kind."

"I suppose you can't get to chapel now?"

"No jewel, my legs is too bad with rheumatics; isn't it well that my hands don't pain me except at night? In the daytime I can wash our bits of clothes."

"Indeed we have all reasons to bless the good God. Do you pray to Him, Mrs. N—?"

"Ah, shure I do say my beads, honey, says them often an' often."

"What use are the beads to you, Mrs. N—? It's our hearts God wants, and He does not wish us to count out prayers to Him like money."

"No use at all, Miss; but it's just the way of us."

"Well, He sent me to you to-day, so won't you thank Him now for that?"

"Indade I will, thin. Come again soon, Miss."

She was quite sure that her "old man" would have secured salvation had he died recently "confessed and anointed." But Mrs. W— said, on hearing parts of Romans x. and 1 John i. ix.: "Oh! what happy news that is for us! Shure, when the blessed Saviour invites us unto Himself what occasion have we to be paying the priest to give us absolution? Thanks and praise be to his holy name!"

"It stands to reason that no man has power to forgive a sinner," said her husband, "and I think that any man that will take on to do it has a great sin to answer for himself."

Leinster. C. M. B.

THE STORY OF FRED. DAVIES.

More than thirty years ago, there lived near Stanley Dock, Liverpool, a family of the working class named Davies. In a family of six children there was but one boy; his name was Frederick, and he worked in the docks. While he was still a boy his father died. Fred tried to take the place of husband and parent to his mother and sister, and became a true house band, or husband, to them. He regularly gave all he earned to his widowed mother, unlike most boys, and in this way sustained the family for some years. This was a good beginning, but there was yet other work for him to do.

Many times his mother, sure of his pluck, had said to him, "Fred, I believe you would not mind what you did for others; I believe you'd lay down your life if you could."

"I don't know," Fred would say; "I can't tell what I should do. But I should try to do my duty."

On April 30, 1859, the Liverpool Sailors' Home was in flames, and many of the inmates, with their garments blazing, clung to the upper windows, hoping for some means of escape. When the ladder was hoisted it was found to be too short to reach them, and the poor creatures gave themselves up as lost. Amid their shrieks young Davies sprang from the crowd below, and climbing the ladder, braced a shorter one near its top, rung to rung, while four men and a boy escaped down it and over Fred's body from terrible, certain death! The weight of a man and a boy together was at one time upon him, and he afterwards said that this, and the deafening shouts of the crowd when they saw his bravery, almost compelled him to lose his hold; another moment's pressure and all three must have been dashed to pieces below. Fred Davies was feasted and interviewed, but all he would say was that it was God's mercy had saved them that day. A public subscription of £220 was raised for his benefit, and this he used wisely and well.

He was always ready to help the needy and distressed, and this characteristic of his boyhood was the keynote of all his after life, as the following will show. In 1865 he was visiting as her suitor, and with the full consent of the family, in whose service she was, a young woman named Kate Martin. They were sitting in the kitchen when the boiler suddenly burst, and the two young people were injured, Kate lost one eye, and nearly the other; she was so severely burned and disfigured that she was for some time prostrate. Davies was wounded in the head, and had not his usual presence of mind occurred to him, they would both have been suffocated. Realising this, Fred kicked out the panel of an outer door to admit the fresh air, and so they were saved. Kate was removed to the infirmary at West Derby, and Fred visited her as often as the rules allowed. The authorities observing his constancy, soon allowed him to visit her every day, and his cheering words and Christian counsel greatly helped in her recovery.

"As soon as ever you are strong enough, we will get married," said Davies; "You need a protector now." Surely she did! Sadly disfigured and nearly blind, she was not one whom the world regarded as marriageable. But Fred Davies was faithful and brave, and we shall see how God rewarded his fidelity to poor Kate.

Shortly after their marriage he was taken ill, and the doctor who was called in gave his verdict. "Consumption, latent from youth, has set in, and I can do nothing to stop its progress."

Young Davies daily grew thinner and weaker, until he became a shadow of his former self. "Ah," said a friend, calling to see him, "you who so nobly saved the lives of others, are now about to lay down your own! There is no one to save you." "Yes, there is!" replied Davies, quietly; "there is Jesus!" He referred, of course, to his soul, and not to his body. All the medical skill of Liverpool could do him no good; he was, therefore, gently conveyed to the home of his wife's parents, in Westmoreland, where the air was purer. But nothing availed. The physician who was called to see him three weeks before his death has left the following on record:—

"I can never forget the nobleness and benignity of the young man's countenance. His pale and beautiful brow was one of the most intellectual; I have seen some physicians and ministers of religion with a similar aspect, but seldom one in whom it was excelled. It was touching to hear him, instead of boasting of his feats, in a manner apologising for himself."

And what of his wife? Poor Kate, though almost helpless for herself, became her husband's "ministering angel." At his bedside her blindness became sight; she anticipated his every want and movement—no gloomy foreboding of her condition when he should be gone, marred the beauty of her service or the brightness of her love; she was patience, gentleness, tenderness embodied. As the end drew near, Davies delighted in listening to all he could hear of his Saviour. He had lived as God's child—he was dying in the same spirit. He was often engaged in fervent prayer. When at last the final struggle began, he gasped out the words, "Come unto Me, I will give you rest."

A sweet composure settled upon his countenance, and with an earnest, loving, last look at his weeping wife, he passed away.

Still young, he had gone to join—

> A noble army—men and boys, who followed in Christ's train. He was carried to his last earthly resting place by four young boatmen, his wife's brothers, leaving behind him a memory fragrant of good deeds and Christly love.

> Oh, stay not at the cheering words—
> Let deeds with language dwell;
> That one who pities starving birds
> Should scatter crumbs as well.
> The mercy that is warm and true
> Must lend a helping hand;
> For those who talk, yet fail to do,
> But build upon the sand.

M. B. Gerds.

C.M.S. MEDICAL MISSION.—The report presented by Dr. Herbert Lankester, gives a remarkable summary of work done: twenty-nine fully qualified medical missionaries; 4846 in-patients in the Mission hospitals last year, and 373,355 out-patients—what a mass of suffering relieved, and what openings for the Gospel message! The Auxiliary proposes this year to relieve the Society's general funds entirely of the medical expenses of the Missions, other than the personal allowances of the missionaries and the cost of new buildings; to defray, that is, no less than £4000.

GRINDELWALD.—The reunion section of the Grindelwald Conference, which does not commence this year until September 1, seems likely to be one of very considerable interest. The very important question "Is an Educational Concordat Possible?" is to be discussed by Principal Gent, Mr. Athelstan Riley, Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, Mr. P. W. Bunting, and others. The "Reunion of the Presbyterian Churches" will be debated by the Moderator of the Church of Scotland, Rev. Principal Story; the Moderator of the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, Rev. Dr. Oliver; and the Moderator of the Presbyterian Church of England, Rev. R. Leitch. The "World's Parliament of Religions" is to be described by its ex-President, Rev. Dr. Barrows; and the Free Church Congress by its ex-President, Rev. Dr. Berry; whilst on the general subject of reunion, those who speak include the Dean of Ripon, and Archdeacon of Manchester.

Letters to the Editor.

"THE WORK OF AN EVANGELIST."

Dear Sir,—In recent numbers of The Christian I have observed the expression used by several brethren, "lay evangelist." I read in the Bible that God gave among other gifts to his Church "evangelists," but there is no mention of any such gift as "lay evangelist." Now, Sir, is it not claimed that Protestantism consists in taking the Bible as the one rule? Where, then, do the brethren referred to get their authority to invent a new spiritual order? It appears to me, indeed, if a man is an evangelist at all, he is called of God to that office, and is no more "lay" than the Apostle Paul.—I am, yours truly, W. G.

TEACHING THE BLIND.

Dear Sir,—I am afraid a misunderstanding may arise from the notice in The Christian of to-day's date, as to the decision of the Home Teaching Society for the Blind, to use the "Braille" type in conjunction with the "Moon" type. I wish to state that my father's type is still to remain the chief system in use, as from 70 to 80 per cent. of the blind of our country are needing it. The great reasons why the Braille books will be kept by the Society are to lend to those who have been taught in schools to read that type, and to help any others who may be desirous of learning it. Not that the "Moon" type is less needed; indeed, the call for it at home and abroad increases greatly, a fact which would have rejoiced my dear father's heart were he still with us.—Yours truly,

Adelaide E. C. Moon.

104, Queen's-road, Brighton, Aug. 8.

NATIONAL PRAYER AND PRAISE.

Writing of the recent drought and the rains that have followed, a lady writes:—"How many passages there are in the Old Testament in which the giving or the withholding of rain is mentioned! Is not the Lord often in this new dispensation teaching us by the trials and joys of our present life as in the olden days, and that we should acknowledge Him in all things (Phil. iv. 6, 7; James i. 17)? This country has indeed much to give thanks for in view of the severe trials, whether through war, internal commotions or volcanic disturbances, experienced by so many other nations. Truly, as in the time of our Lord on earth, it is the poor who most appreciate the blessings which others take as a matter of course. Surely, publicly as well as privately, it is well to acknowledge our shortcomings and our dependence on the Lord of Hosts, and also to return thanks for succour in time of need and anxiety."

MISSIONS AND MONEY.

In The Christian of August 1 there is an excellent letter from Mr. John Moir on this important subject, which all should read and ponder well. I fear, however, that many will misunderstand the writer when, after quoting Lev. xxvii. 30, "All the tithe is the Lord's," adding, "God thus keeps the tithe in his own hands," he says below, "the very same principles hold good under the new dispensation;" and again, "the Old and New Testaments are therefore identical in principle."

I fear Mr. Moir may be understood to imply that the application of that principle involves the giving (or paying) tithe or ten per cent. on all incomes by all Christians. This "giving of tithe" has been insisted on by several eminent men of the present day, but it is not generally responded to, nor believed to be practicable, or really Scriptural.

The quoting of 1 Cor. xvi. 1 and 2 is quite to the point as requiring a methodical, systematic, laying aside in store, as God hath prospered a man. But in obeying the duty enforced in 1 Timothy v. and viii. of providing especially for his own house, one man with a large family and a very limited income might find it impossible to spare 10 per cent.; while another with a large income and few or no children, would easily and gladly give much more than that proportion. Still, it is all-important that some definite portion should be laid aside in store for God's service, from love to Christ and his people; and in accordance with the conscientious conviction of the donor as to what proportion he in his present circumstances ought to give. We can hardly expect men of the world, "millionaires," and others with enormous incomes, to give as they might easily do; but if only God's people would really give as God has prospered them, proportionately and systematically, we should cease to hear that the extension of Christ's kingdom at home and abroad is limited alone by the want of money to meet the necessary expenses. Your own editorial remark at page 7 of this same number of The Christian would then be abundantly confirmed.

My increasing infirmities have restrained me from addressing you on the subject from the time of the first "Thanksgiving" meeting. It is the necessary complement of that movement, and must accompany the present revival of missionary zeal at home and abroad. M. H. S.

1 PETER III. 19.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the letters which have lately appeared in your paper on this difficult passage of Scripture, I have just been reading a sermon on the subject by that godly man Bishop Walsham How, of Wakefield, and I venture to send you one or two extracts from it as tending to clear up one or two points of difficulty.

"St. Peter tells us Christ was 'put to death in the flesh but quickened by the spirit.' It would be more exact to translate this, 'dead in body but alive in his spirit.' It was then in his spirit that He went and preached to the spirits 'in prison'; 'preached' simply means proclaimed. It does not imply that He preached to the spirits to repent. It does not imply that those spirits could change either their nature or their state; but prison sounds to us a word of punishment. It is not so in the Greek in which St. Peter wrote. The word there simply means 'safe keeping,' namely, in safe keeping in the unseen world. But what were the tidings? The tidings of accomplishment of the great work of atonement He came to do, and if angels joy over one sinner that repenteth may we not suppose Paradise filled with rapture when the soul of Jesus came among the souls of his redeemed, Himself the herald of his own victory?

"But there is another difficulty, and that no light one. Why are the spirits in prison, which were sometime disobedient, when once the long suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, alone named of those who had died before the Saviour's coming? Perhaps we may see a reason for this: there is no reason to think that all who perished in that fearful destruction perished for ever. Many may have repented at the preaching of Noah and found mercy and pardon. And these may be named as a type of a class and as the most striking instance in the Old Testament of men cut off suddenly yet for whom there was mercy in store. But our Lord doubtless proclaimed not only to these, but to all those who died in faith and hoped for a salvation to come. . . . But we shall know this mystery soon ...this dream will soon be over and we shall awake to find ourselves amongst the spirits of the dead: Oh! may it be to meet the Lord in Paradise!"

I have found it difficult to condense the Bishop's words very much for fear of missing his meaning, but I hope it may help some to understand, as it has myself, that the Lord Jesus in spirit visited the dead, kept as yet in a "place of waiting" with the news of his work of redemption.—Yours faithfully, A. McAdam.

Blackheath.

GOOD WATER ON THE CONTINENT.

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me, for the information of the large number of temperance people at home, who may be contemplating a visit to the Continent, to insert a few lines in your valuable paper on a matter that may be of interest and help?

For years past we were told, and some even this year are repeating the cry, that if we ever visited the Continent we would be obliged to drink the wines and other strong liquors of those lands, as the water was so very unhealthy.

It has been my great privilege to spend several weeks in Italy, France, and elsewhere during the hot season with a number of people, travelling under the admirable arrangements of Rev. Dr. Lunn. Many of the tourists were White Ribboners of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. We resolved to do without the wines, and to trust to the water. To our delight, we found in every city, in addition to excellent coffee and fairly good tea, abundance of the best and purest of water, and what was specially welcome to the American tourists, plenty of good ice at the hotels in the different cities. In Rome, Florence, Venice, Turin, Milan, Berne, Lucerne, Geneva, Paris, and in every other place visited, there is plenty of good pure refreshing cold water. There is not the shadow of an excuse for people who are temperate at home, either in Great Britain or America, getting into the habit of using wine on the Continent. Many confess they began the habit from being erroneously informed. Some, I am glad to know, when convinced of the excellency and purity of the water, at once gave up the wine, with the result that they not only had better health, but better consciences.

In these crucial days, when so much is at stake, let us have no inconsistency on the part of temperance people by allowing some imaginary fears to cause us to be the laughing-stock of our enemies, in addition to the danger of wounding many in the house of our friends.—Very cordially yours,

Egerton R. Young.

MEDICAL "RESEARCH."

Sir,—At a recent meeting of the British Medical Association, Mr. Jonathan Hutchinson, at the close of his address on surgery, made some well-timed remarks to the effect that surgeons should not seek to display their own skill, or gratify their own predilections, but should always keep in mind that their first and foremost duty is to their patients. Such a caution is much needed in these days, when so many seem to consider scientific research as the one thing needful, and the cure of disease as quite a secondary consideration.

But the public require to be warned of a far more serious danger which is impending over all civilised nations, and which year by year grows more threatening and imminent. I refer to the danger of human vivisection, which is a direct and inevitable consequence of the rapid and sinister growth of the vivisecting spirit, and the rage for experimental research, not only in the medical profession, but also among scientists generally. It has been admitted by many vivisectors that the results of experiments on living animals are so doubtful and inconclusive as to be of little if any value, and hence a desire has arisen in some quarters to perform similar experiments upon living human beings. This, indeed, is no new thing. In very ancient times certain Greek and Alexandrian physicians vivisected human beings, using slaves for this purpose; and during the Middle Ages human vivisections were performed on criminals by various Italian experimenters at Florence and elsewhere.

Some people may think these horrible atrocities belong to the dark ages of the world's history, and could not possibly be repeated in the present day. But human nature is much the same now as it was then. There are still many men who, though kind and humane in the ordinary relations of life, become pitiless and remorseless when dominated by the vivisecting spirit. Their minds are filled with the ardour of research, the hope of discovery, and the expectations of riches, honours, and fame, as the reward of their labours. Such men would vivisect human beings as readily as animals, if they dared, and they are only prevented from doing so now by fear of the law and public opinion.

To show how real and imminent is this danger of human vivisection I may mention that a measure was recently brought forward in the Legislature of the State of Ohio, in America, for the purpose of legalising the vivisection of criminals under sentence of death. That proposal received much support and was very nearly carried. If such a measure became law it would be merely the thin end of the wedge. The number of capitally-sentenced criminals would very soon prove quite inadequate to meet the requirements of the experimenters, and new sources of supply would assuredly be sought and found. In a short time no poor and friendless person would be safe, and, sooner or later, a veritable reign of terror would be established in the community.

Twenty years ago the Royal Commission, in its report on vivisection, declared that this method "is from its very nature liable to great abuse," and it is quite evident that this cannot be prevented except by putting a stop to the practice altogether, as was done in the case of slavery. If the British people have due regard for their own safety they will take this course, and forthwith prohibit vivisection in every shape and form under severe penalties.—Yours faithfully,

J. H. Thornton, C.B., M.B., B.A.,
Dy. Surgeon-General, I.M.S., retired.

49, St. Charles-square, W., August 6.

CLIFF SUMMER SCHOOL.

By a Correspondent.

It is an old saying that God is best seen in his works, and certainly if this be so, no more charming place than Cliff could be found, in which to study the Bible and draw nearer to God. There among the hills and dales of Derbyshire, or on the lovely moors one feels that God is indeed present, and that it is an inspiration to get alone with Him.

It may interest readers of The Christian to have a slight sketch of the 1895 "Summer School" at Cliff College. As one who was present I can speak from a very delightful experience. No one who stays at Cliff can by any possibility be dull, or go away unrefreshed. Each morning there were lectures given by various well-known speakers on different Bible subjects.

To begin with, we had Mr. James Anderson, principal of the Bible Institute at Glasgow, who spoke on Christ as King. The chief thought impressed upon us was that in all things Christ should have the pre-eminence (Col. i. 18), not only in religious matters, but in every detail of our lives. He also spoke much on the divinity of our Lord as proved by both the Old and the New Testament.

Rev. D. M. McIntyre (the successor of Dr. Andrew Bonar) gave us an exposition on the Epistle to the Galatians, which was felt by all to come with much force and freshness; helping us to feel that Jesus himself was more real to us than ever before. He showed how all the epistle hinges upon chapter ii. 20, "I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me," and how all our Christian life must rest on the same basis if we would live near Him.

We had the privilege of Rev. Andrew Murray's sojourn for one day, and heard two addresses from him. One could not help feeling, while listening to him, what an increase of holiness and power, through the Holy Spirit, might be ours, if we could only realise, in a practical way, the stores which God has laid up for us. In the evening he spoke on "Waiting upon God"—the necessity in this busy age of securing a time in each day for perfect quiet alone with God; a time, not for prayer, or for Bible study, though these are all important; yet it is still more important to wait upon Him in silence, and hear his voice, which is lost in the busy rush of everyday life; to get a time with only Him, when he can come Himself to speak to us, and make known his will to us.

During the last week the morning lectures were given by Dr. McKilliam, of Blackheath. The subject dealt with was the Tabernacle and the offerings—how they typified and fore-shadowed Christ's work of redemption. He also drew a most interesting analogy between the Tabernacle offerings and the Christian life. Mr. Arthur's addresses on the Holy Spirit, also given in the last week, were most helpful and instructive.

IN THE AFTERNOONS

it was delightful to explore the beauties of the country round, and the many lovely places to be seen in the neighbourhood. The college is situated most picturesquely on the side of the hill, and the gardens slope down to the river Derwent, which winds through the fields below. Behind, the cliffs rise majestically, and a short, but rather stiff climb brings us on to the moors, which stretch away for miles. The view of the country all round is magnificent, and the bold rocky crags seem to tell of the wonderful power of Him who existed before the mountains were brought forth.

Drives were arranged to the more distant places; among those of interest may be mentioned Eyam, a village famous for the courage of its inhabitants. When the great plague was raging in London the infection was brought to it in a parcel of clothes, and the plague broke out. The brave people were resolved that it should spread no further, and so shut themselves up in the plague-stricken village, none going out and none coming in. The result was that almost the whole population was swept away by the dreadful disease, only some thirty people remaining to tell the sad tale. The heroic pastor, Mr. Mompesson, remained among them to the last, and the Pulpit Rock from which he preached to them is still to be seen on the hill at one side of the Cucklet Dale, while the people gathered to listen on the other side of the dale.

Another place of great interest visited was Haddon Hall. After seeing it one understands better what life in the olden days must have been. The quaint dining hall, with the minstrel's gallery running round it, the dark and badly-ventilated kitchen, the winding staircases, and irregular rooms, and the terrace walk and old yew trees, all help to bring to mind the bygone days. Other places visited were Chatsworth, the Hunting Tower, from the top of which a magnificent view is to be obtained, and Castleton, where the scene of Sir Walter Scott's "Peveril of the Peak" is laid. Miller's Dale and Monsal Dale also are specially worthy of mention, as they afford some of the finest specimens of Derbyshire scenery.

THE MISSIONARY TALKS

in the evenings, in the drawing-room, were listened to with much interest. Prof. Thoumaian's account of the recent atrocities in Armenia was most thrilling. South America was represented by Pastor Fanstone, of Brazil, and Miss Lucy Guinness, who brought the needs of this vast country most vividly before us. Dr. Harry Guinness gave interesting details of the work on the Congo. Mr. Smith spoke of his work in China, and Dr. Robinson of what was being done in India among the soldiers. As the need of one country after another was urged home, one felt that the Lord was speaking to all hearts. We hope that as the result many may be moved to yield themselves more unreservedly to the Lord for his work, and, if it be his will, to bear the news of his salvation to the uttermost ends of the earth.

The days so delightfully portioned out for study and recreation passed away all too quickly. Great gratitude was felt by all to God for having given us this time of spiritual and physical refreshment, and to Dr. and Mrs. Grattan Guinness for having arranged the two sessions of the Summer School, and for all their kindness to those who had been able to take advantage of it. On the evening before parting many spoke out of a full heart of the great things which God had done for them—of spiritual life deepened and missionary interest stirred and increased. May He grant that the blessing received may be communicated to others, and bear fruit on to eternity.

JESUS MY SAVIOUR.

Jesus, my Saviour, to Thee would I flee,
Whither for rest could I go but to Thee?
Driven and tossed like a wreck on the wave,
Jesus, my Saviour, Thou only canst save.

Chorus.

Jesus, my Saviour, to Thee do I flee,
Whither for rest could I go but to Thee?
Praising my Father for all he Has given,
Onward I march to my mansion in heaven.

Friend of the friendless, I come to be blest,
Joy of the joyless in Thee I find rest;
Jesus who died upon Calvary's Cross,
Mine is the blessing, but thine was the loss.

Trusting Thee fully, Lord, lest I should fail,
Counting on Thee for the power to prevail;
Learning of Thee every step of the way,
Singing of Thee as I journey each day.

Longing to drink of thy fathomless grace,
Seeking to serve till beholding thy face;
Hold Thou my hand, 'tis by thine I am led,
Through the rough desert my feet have to tread.

Waiting the heralding star of the morn,
Watching the glow of the glory of dawn,
List'ning to hear thy voice calling above;
Losing myself in thy measureless love.

S. Trevor Francis.

SCOTTISH NOTES.

A new Free Church has been opened at Caldercruise.

Special Gospel services have recently been held at Cullen by Mr. Davidson, of Inchmarlo, and others.

The Inverness U.P. Church, vacant through the resignation of Dr. Robson, has called Rev. G. Stewart, of Edinburgh, to the pastorate.

A special service was held last week in the Christian Institute, Glasgow, in connection with the recent massacre of missionaries in China. Mr. Graham Brown, of the China Inland Mission, narrated the progress of the work since the institution of the mission station thirty years ago. Mr. C. H. Judd, who till recently was a missionary in the interior of China, also spoke, and said he would rather work in the interior of the country than in the treaty ports.

IRISH NOTES.

Rev. Arthur Robinson Barton, D.D., rector of Enniscorthy, has been appointed incumbent of Zion Church, Rathgar, Dublin, in the room of the late Rev. James Hewitt.

An interesting conference on evangelistic work was held on Tuesday week in Riverside Church, Newry, under the auspices of the Southern Presbytery of the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

Ireland has been deeply stirred during the week by the harrowing accounts which have come to hand of the barbarous murders of missionaries in China. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and Miss Newcombe, belonging to Dublin, were well known in this country.

Much regret is felt in the north of Ireland at the death of Rev. John G. Smythe, senior Presbyterian minister of Ballybay, who has passed away in his 71st year. Deceased was a native of Carnmone, and spent his whole ministerial life of forty-eight years in Ballybay, where the most loving relationship existed between him and his congregation, and where he was the means of doing much good.

There was a scene of great excitement in Sligo on Sunday, when two missioners attempted street preaching. They were pelted with mud and stones, but were eventually conducted to their lodgings by a force of 200 police. The nose of one of the preachers was cut, and the eyes of the other blackened. Many Protestants, in no way identified with the mission, have been assaulted and insulted in the streets.

The Congress of the Deaf and Dumb Association was held in Dublin for three days last week, and was addressed by Mr. H. B. Beale, of Gloucester, who advocated the manual system of teaching deaf mutes as preferable to the oral or lip system. On Friday evening the members of the Congress were entertained at a garden party by the Archbishop of Dublin, and altogether the Congress was a great success.

Rev. William Henry Collison, Archdeacon of Metlakahtla, who has laboured so long and successfully in British Columbia, has been appointed central secretary of the Hibernian Church Missionary Society, in succession to Rev. A. J. Shields. Archdeacon Collison has addressed a number of meetings in Ireland, and created deep interest by his wonderful narrative of the progress of God's work in the far north-west, and of his own remarkable experiences as a missionary of the C.M.S. during the last twenty-two years.

The third annual convention for the deepening of spiritual life was held at Bangor, co. Down, for three days last week, and passed off very successfully. Professor Mackintosh, of Trinity College, Dublin, presided at each session, and the speakers included Revs. Henry Fisher, of Glengeary; T. B. Robertson, of Limerick; Wm. Clarke, of Moira; I. K. Macpherson, of Inchture; John Riddell, of Glasgow, and J. Elder Cuming, D.D., of Glasgow. The convention took place under the auspices of the Bangor Y.M.C.A., and the meetings were held in the local Presbyterian and Methodist churches.

Dr. Dewart, who visited the Irish Methodist Conference as a representative of the Canadian Methodists, has been giving some impressions of his visit. "The Methodists in Belfast," he says, "have a number of commodious churches, the Carlisle Memorial Church being exceptionally fine, with a large hall adjoining. All these churches seem to be well attended, and are centres of important Christian work. Grosvenor Hall, the centre of a most successful forward movement, is the most striking fact in Belfast Methodism. Rev. R. Crawford Johnson is doing a great work here. Not only are there large audiences gathered in from outside regular church circles, but all the branches of reformatory Christian work are carried on with great vigour and success."

SUNDAY DESECRATION IN DUBLIN.—We observe, with much regret, in a trade paper that the Dublin grocers' assistants held their annual sports on a recent Sunday. The Romish Church, which is so strong in that city, is evidently powerless to prevent the secularisation of the day of rest and sacred service.

PERNAMBUCO, BRAZIL.—A correspondent in this Rome-ridden land writes as follows: "We have much encouragement in the work, especially in some of our out-stations, of which we have five. It does one's soul good to see the attention with which the people listen. But we are not free from persecution yet. On Sunday night, in the meeting, a stone came whizzing past me. When fully half-way through the discourse a large bottle came flying at us, but was smashed to pieces on the platform, the pieces falling around my head, and even into the plate with the bread for the Lord's Supper. Another large stone, just missing me, struck a little girl square on the forehead, and she fell fainting into the arms of my wife, who was next her. After a few minutes she regained consciousness, and I proceeded with the baptism and Lord's Supper. At the close of our service the place was packed, in spite of the stoning.

New Work
by Rev. F. B. Meyer, B.A.

Christ in Isaiah:

A SERIES OF EXPOSITIONS.

Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, Bev. Bds., Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d.

REVIEWS.

"Word and Work."—
Clear exposition, skilful application of truth to life, considerable felicity of diction, and in all, fervent longing to be spiritually helpful in every page.'

"The Baptist."—
"Fully maintains the reputation of the author for evangelical fervour, and a clear apprehension of the hidden and spiritual meaning of the Word of God. In its pages, the sorrowful will find comfort, and the weary worker for God strength for service and conflict."

"The English Churchman."—
"A series of expository papers is here provided for the devout reader, which will amply repay perusal. The author displays acute discernment when dealing with 'things that differ,' clearly separating the things of God from those that be of man; he honours the written Word, and often with real eloquence dilates upon its precious truths. The volume is well printed, the paper is excellent, and the general get-up of the book does credit to the publishers."

"The Baptist Magazine."—
"A sound, spiritual exposition of words which, by all the laws of reason, are manifestly of Divine inspiration, and could not have originated in the clearest human intuition, the most sagacious philosophy, or the happiest forecasts. If Christ is foreshadowed in any part of the Old Testament, He is so here, and the Christology of the chapters is so self-evident that no criticism can shake or obscure it. Mr. Meyer writes with all the clear insight, the devout feeling, the ingenious suggestion, and the forcible illustration to which he has in his former works accustomed us."

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL WORK.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER,

WITH LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT of the AUTHOR, AND SEVERAL OTHER ILLUSTRATIONS.

The Bells of Is:

OR, VOICES OF HUMAN NEED & SORROW.

Cloth Bds., 2s. 6d.;
Cloth, Bev. Bds., Gilt Top, 3s. 6d.

A Review from "The Record."
"Mr. Meyer has a pleasant style in writing, and this adds much to the charm of these reminiscences, and in themselves they are of great interest. . . . Christian workers of all kinds will find much in The Bells of Is to encourage and help them in their efforts."

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Musical Leaflets

(2pp. each)

at 3/- per 1000 net.

A Choice Selection, admirably suited for distribution and use at

OPEN-AIR MEETINGS,
EVANGELISTIC SERVICES,
SUNDAY-SCHOOL ANNIVERSARIES,
AND OTHER SPECIAL GATHERINGS.

Each Leaflet (with few exceptions) consists of Two favourite Hymns and Tunes, tastefully printed on tinted paper.

Morgan and Scott have a remainder (about 100 varieties) of Musical Leaflets:—

PUBLISHED AT 10/- PER 1000

WHICH THEY ARE NOW OFFERING AT 3/- PER 1000 NET, CARRIAGE EXTRA.

Not less than 1000 copies can be supplied at this rate, and in making up parcels of 1000 assorted, not less than 100 of any one Leaflet can be included.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN and SCOTT.

Tracts

SUITABLE FOR

OPEN-AIR GATHERINGS;
CHILDREN'S MEETINGS;
COLPORTAGE WORK;
SEASIDE SERVICES;
SPECIAL SERVICES;
GENERAL DISTRIBUTION.

SPECIAL OFFERS.

30/- worth for 20/-
15/- ,, ,, 10/-

In each Tract the Gospel is presented in Pointed, Earnest, and Attractive Fashion.

SPECIAL OFFER.

30/- worth for 20/- net.

A Parcel containing the undermentioned

FIVE THOUSAND TRACTS
(About 384 Varieties) for

£1 net. (Carriage extra.)

(Purchased in separate packets the price of the contents of this parcel would be £1 10s.)

CONTENTS OF THE 20/- PARCEL.

				SOLD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS, In Packets, Post free:—
500	BLACKDOWN TRACTS A Series of Narratives.	32	Varieties.	64 for 6d.	128 for 1/-	1000 for 5/9
500	PICTURES OF LIFE Illustrated. 4 pp. each.	8	,,	64 ,, 6d.	128 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 5/9
500	BROWNLOW NORTH'S TRACTS On Tinted Paper. 4 pp. each.	32	,,	64 ,, 6d.	128 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 5/9
500	NARRATIVE TRACTS By Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Gosse. 4 pp. each.	32	,,	64 ,, 6d.	128 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 5/9
300	"THE SCRIPTURE SAITH" Scripture Words: with illustrative incidents. 2 pages each.	16	,,	128 ,, 6d.	256 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 3/-
500	HERALD OF MERCY TRACTS With small Illustrations. 2 pp. ea.	64	,,	100 ,, 6d.	200 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 4/1½
200	WORDS FOR WAYFARERS A Series of Pointed Appeals. 2 pp. each.	16	,,	128 ,, 6d.	256 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 3/-
500	HERALD OF MERCY LEAVES Quarto size. Illustrated. 2 pp. ea.	about 120	,,	160 ,, 1/4½	400 ,, 3/-	1000 ,, 6/1½
300	PLAIN QUESTIONS In the very Words of Scripture. 2 pp. each.	16	,,	150 ,, 6d.	300 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 2/9
200	BUNYAN LEAFLETS On Tinted Paper. 2 pp. each.	16	,,	128 ,, 6d.	256 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 3/-
500	LAMPS FOR LITTLE FEET For Distribution at Children's Services, and in Sabbath Schools. 4 pp. each.	16	,,	100 ,, 6d.	200 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 4/1½
500	LITTLE TRACTS FOR LITTLE READERS Illustrated Narratives for Children. 4 pp. each.	16	,,	100 ,, 6d.	200 ,, 1/-	1000 ,, 4/1½

5000 Tracts · about 384 varieties, for 20/- net.

SPECIAL OFFER.

15/- worth for 10/- net.

A Parcel, containing the undermentioned

3000 TRACTS (About 168 Varieties) for

10/- net. (Carriage extra)

(Purchased in separate packets the price of the contents of this parcel would be 15/-.)

CONTENTS OF THE 10/- PARCEL.

500	HERALD OF MERCY TRACTS	64 Varieties.
300	THE SCRIPTURE SAITH...	16 ,,
500	PICTURES OF LIFE	8 ,,
200	WORDS FOR WAYFARERS	16 ,,
300	PLAIN QUESTIONS	16 ,,
200	BUNYAN LEAFLETS	16 ,,
500	LAMPS FOR LITTLE FEET	16 ,,
500	LITTLE TRACTS FOR LITTLE READERS ...	16 ,,
3000	TRACTS	168 ,,

FOR 10/- NET.

These Tracts are also sold separately. For prices see above.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C. And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Forthcoming Meetings.

[Communications respecting forthcoming meetings cannot be inserted unless received by Tuesday morning at the latest.]

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, or Wales, on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, London, W.C.; or, The Sec. Evangelisation Society, Scottish Branch, The Grove-street Institute, Glasgow.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send evangelists to any Evangelical denomination within the London postal area. Apply, Hon. Sec., 64, Kennington-oval, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for temporary or permanent work in our villages and country towns. Apply to Mr. G. H. Mawer, secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Thorne Evangelistic Missions.—Friends desirous to arrange for mission services, to be conducted by Mr. Thorne, should make early application to the secretary, Mr. James Pearce, Exeter Hall, Strand, to whom subscriptions for the Mission may be forwarded.

The King's Own Mission, St. James's Hall, Royal-road, Kennington, S.E.—Sun., Mr. John Langsford, 7 p.m., 3.15 p.m., P.S.A., Mr. O. L. Heatley.

Clapton Hall, Upper Clapton, N.E.—Mr. A. Milne Kyd, Sundays at 6.30, and Thursdays at 7.30, during August.

Exeter Hall.—Mr. Henry Thorne, every Sunday in August, at 3.45 and 7 p.m.

West London Mission.—St. James's Hall, W., Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Rev. Egerton R. Young.

Edinburgh Castle, Limehouse, E.—Sunday next, 11 and 7, Mr. Henry Collins; 3 p.m., P.S.A.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Every night at 8; Sunday next, 11 and 6.30, Rev. John T. Vine.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park.—Preachers for Sunday, August 18, 3.30, Mr. Budd; 7, Mr. S. Trevor Francis.

Talbot Tabernacle, Notting Hill, W.—Sunday next, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Rev. G. Wearham.

St. George's Hall, Langham-place, W.—Sundays, August 18 and 25, 11 and 7, Lieutenant Mandeville.

Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate, N.W.—Sunday, at 7, Mr C. Greeno.

Malden Hall, Queen's-crescent, Haverstock-hill, N.W.—Sunday, at 7, Mr. Geo. Hucklesby.

Home of Industry, 29, Bethnal Green-road, E.—Monthly meeting for Christian workers, Wed., August 21; tea at 6, meeting at 7. A missionary prayer meeting for China and other lands.

Special Religious Services in Theatres, Halls, etc.—Sunday, August 18.—Agricultural Hall, Upper-street, Islington, at 3, Rev. R. Wylie; at 7, Mr. Wm. Coates; Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, N.E., at 3, Rev. Simpson Johnston; 7, Mr. J. T. Marriott; Grand Hall of Varieties, Clapham Junction, at 3, Mr. Cromwell; at 7, Mr. Flews.

Polytechnic, 309, Regent-street.—Mr. Charles Inglis, on Sundays during August, at 3.30 and 7 p.m.

Central Y.M.C.A., 186, Aldersgate-street, E.C.—Friday, August 16, at 7.30 p.m., lecture by Rev. Mark C. Hayford (African Minister), on "Mission Work in West Africa."

Coming Conferences.

Blankenburg, Thuringia, Germany.—Sept. 2-6.

Perth.—Sept. 10—12, Rev. Dr. Bannerman, Perth, Hon. Sec.

Evangelical Alliance.—Annual British Conference, Belfast, Sept. 24-26.

West Norwood (Lansdowne Hall).—Oct. 15, 16, and 17 (Second Advent).

Deepening of Spiritual Life.—Carlisle, Sept. 2-6; Glasgow, Sept. 26-28; Hastings, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4; Blackheath, Oct. 1-4; Star Hall, Manchester, Oct. 6-13; Wakefield, Oct. 8-10; Ealing, Oct. 15-18; Oxford, Oct. 28-31; Norwich, Oct. 28 to Nov. 1; Belfast, Nov. 4-8; Bradford, Nov. 5-8; Edinburgh, Nov. 11-16.

Appeals.

Y.W.C.A., Waterford.—An earnest appeal is made to all interested in the welfare of Protestant young women in Ireland, on behalf of the Waterford Branch of the Y.W.C.A. The committee greatly desire to establish a home for girls in this city, but their funds are quite inadequate. There is a membership of about 150, but most of these are unable to pay more than a very small annual subscription.

Fairview, Waterford. (Miss) H. F. White, Hon. Sec.

London-street Mission and Schools, Dockhead, S.E.—Mr. W. Bustin, hon. secretary and manager, 13, Priter-road, Bermondsey, S.E., writes: We have been established thirty-one years, and the work has not only outgrown the accommodation, but our premises have become so dilapidated and generally inconvenient, that we absolutely must clear out shortly. A piece of vacant land has become available in the immediate vicinity. It is a splendid site on the open road, within 100 yards of the Mission, and we are anxious to retain it, and propose to erect an iron mission hall. The cost will be about £400, and we can reckon on £150 of that, leaving £250 still required, and we shall be able to clear out of the present premises, and save the exorbitant rent we are paying.

Notices.

Communications Received with Thanks.—J.E.L. E.A.P. A.M. W.B.C. B.R. L.S. T.A.I. J.P. W.E.B. L.M. C.M.B. T.L.C. E.M.T. E.S. I.W.T. L.A.B. J.C.M. J.H.T. T.E.W. A.F. C.R. J.H.G. T.R.W. A.M. R.C. C.J.P. M.A.L. W.B. R.W. A.P.F. A.T. F.A.H. C.S.S. H.R.C. S.N. A.E.S.F. J.F.M. A.O.D. C.M.B. C.B.S. M.M. W.S. H.L. E.G.B. E.D.B. L.W.P. A.E.W. S.H. E.M.B. A.B. J.R.C. M.D. E.T.B. W.C.B. J.R. J.S. M.D.M. E.C.S. G.G. T.K.C. T.M.W. H.A.B. F.H. A.M.O. M.H.G. C.H.A. H.M. C.F.G.C. S.H.J. J.H.C. E.G. M.H.H. H.J.W. M.J.L.

Applicants for Tracts.—W. Battersby, Bridge Farm, Lydiate, near Liverpool; Mrs. Sarah Hopkins, Chaceley, Worcestershire; Mr. Barrand, 50, Midhope-buildings, Judd-street, Euston-road, N.W.; Rev. J. Wesley Waddell, 9, Gibson-street, Amble, Acklington, Northumberland; W. Barnes, 48, Havelock-street, Islington, N.; A. Woolley, North Devon Mission, Morchard Bishop; Miss Wyatt, Square, Uffculme, Devon; H. Richardson, 55, Stoke Newington-road, N.; A. A. Clarke, 348, Hackney-road, London, N.E.

☞ As it is found that infidels and others send papers to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers should be carefully read before being given away.

[814]

Just Published. Price One Shilling.

CANCER:

ITS NATURE & SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT.

Post Free One Shilling, from the Author,

H. KELWAY BAMBER, F.I.C., Westminster Chambers, 9, Victoria-st., London, S.W.

E. W. ALLEN, 4, Ave Maria Lane, E.C.

BUMSTED'S TABLE SALT.

CONSUMPTION.

THE GRAND OLD MEDICINE OF NEARLY 70 YEARS

has maintained its position as the first medicine in all Chest Complaints.*

As a preventative of mischief, it should be taken at the first appearance of Cough or Cold. As a safeguard against Influenza, and in subsequent weakness of the lungs, it has been used with wonderful results.

But the renown of this celebrated medicine in all these cases has been eclipsed by its success in cases of

PHTHISIS, PULMONALIS, or CONSUMPTION, Aptly called the Scourge of England.

Interviews with patients, new and old, by Mr. Congreve's Commissioner, are published every alternate week in most of the weekly journals.

Mr. Congreve's book on Consumption and Chest Diseases may be had post free for one shilling, from the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, London, S.E.

* Congreve's Balsamic Elixir may be had of all Medicine Vendors in Bottles at 1s. 1½*d.*, 2s. 9*d.*, 4s. 6*d.*, and large bottles at 11s. and 22s. The smaller sizes are of little use except in slight cases of Cough or Cold.

AJAX BEST AND CHEAPEST CYCLES.

PRICES FROM £4. Over 1,000 New and Second-hand. 200-page Illustrated Lists free. Easy Terms, from 10s. per month. Machines sent carriage paid.

British Cycle Manufacturing Co.

Liverpool: 45, Everton-road.
London: 42, High-street, Camden Town.

EPILEPTIC FITS.

TRENCH'S REMEDY.

Write for particulars to

J. TOWNSEND TRENCH,
The Remedy Depot,
38, SOUTH FREDERICK STREET, DUBLIN.

One little bottle of Norton's Pills
Is not guaranteed to cure all ills,
But one little bottle, beyond all question,
Will thoroughly conquer Indigestion!

They have 100 YEARS' REPUTATION of being an UNEQUALLED REMEDY for INDIGESTION, HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS, DEBILITY, STOMACH and LIVER COMPLAINTS. A SPLENDID TONIC AND GENTLE APERIENT.

NORTON'S CAMOMILE PILLS

Mild in Operation, Perfectly Safe, and Free from Injurious Drugs.

In Bottles, 1s. 1½*d.*, 2s. 9*d.*, and 11s., of all Medicine Vendors. Ask for "Norton's Camomile Pills," and do not be persuaded to take a substitute.

Prepared by Norton's Ltd., 21 Spital Square, London, E.

ONE LITTLE BOTTLE. NORTON'S TRADE MARK.

SCRIPTURE TEXTS.

For Mission Rooms, Hospitals, &c. A List of these Large Type Texts, printed in blue ink, size 31in. by 20in. (seventy different Texts, 3d. each), will be sent on application to the Publishers.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Useful Presents.

Be Lovers Still!

Friendly Hints to a Bride and Bridegroom.

In Beautifully-illuminated Cover, Gilt Edges, 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 1s.

"A dainty booklet, the contents of which are a 'choice blend' of good-will and common sense."—The Cambs. Cong. Magazine.

Marriage and Home.

Wise Counsels for the Newly-Married.

In Elegant White Cloth binding, Gilt lettering on side, and Gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

In Handsome Leather binding, Gilt lettering on side, and Gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"A little gem, admirably adapted for a wedding gift."—Lady's Pictorial.

"All we could wish such a gift to be."—Fireside.

"Golden Treasury" Birthday Book.

With Beautifully Illuminated Frontispiece.

Presentation Editions: French Morocco, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d.; Rich coloured Leather, Padded, Gilt Edges, 4s. 6d. Each Copy in a Neat Case.

Can also be had, elegantly bound in Cloth, Bev. Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s. 6d.

In this Edition of

"BOGATZKY'S GOLDEN TREASURY,"

arranged as a Birthday Book, four additional pages are introduced at the close of each month's portions. The total number of names which can be inscribed in the "Birthday" Edition amounts to Over Fifteen Hundred.

The King's Palace.

A Series of Instructive and Spiritual Readings for each day of the Month.

By Rev. J. H. Rogers, M.A.

Beautifully printed in Carmine and Black. Morocco, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d. Can also be had in Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, gilt edges, 2s.

"Within and without, The King's Palace is simply perfect."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN & YOUNG PEOPLE

MR. RUSKIN

writes:—"The book on Birds seems to me entirely charming."

BIRDS OF THE BIBLE.

Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By James Bowker. With Coloured Frontispiece and numerous engravings. Cloth, Bev. Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s.

ALICE; or, The Early Crown.

By Rev. H. Burton, B.A. Tinted covers, 6d. Presentation Edition: Cloth, 1s.

"An admirable reward book for thoughtful Sunday-school scholars."—Methodist Family.

LITTLE KATHLEEN.

Sunny Memories of a Child-Worker. By Annie R. Butler. With two striking portraits. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Red Edges, 1s. Tinted covers, 6d.

"We commend it as a charming gift-book for children, whom it will be sure to interest."—Footsteps of Truth.

NETTIE'S MISSION LIBRARY.

A Series of Six small Books Illustrating the Lord's Prayer.

NETTIE'S MISSION; or, "Hallowed be Thy Name."
LITTLE MARGERY; or, "Thy Kingdom Come."
MARGERY'S HOME; or, "Thy Will be Done."
MAGGIE RILEY; or, "Give us this Day our Daily Bread."
ROSY CONROY; or, "Forgive us our Debts."
NED DOLAN; or, "Lead us not into Temptation."

Each Volume may be had separately in Cloth Boards, 6d.; or the Six Books may be had enclosed in a Neat Box, price 3s. complete.

London: Morgan and Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

No. 1334.]

The Christian.

[AUGUST 22, 1895.

PRINCIPAL CONTENTS.

PORTRAIT AND SKETCH OF THE LATE REV. B. D. ALDWELL.

Notes and Comments ... 5
The Lord's Care ... 6
Are We Ready for Revival? ... 6
Irish Railway Talks.—3 ... 6
"Father, keep them." By Rev. Marcus Rainsford 7
Temperance Reform ... 7
The Ragged School Union ... 7
David's Self-Restraint. By Rev. F. B. Meyer 8
Openings in Chili ... 9
A Trophy of Grace ... 9
Our Daily Homily ... 10
The Outlook in Ireland ... 10
International Sunday-school Lesson ... 11
For the Young.—Children welcomed to Jesus ... 11
A Message from the Grave ... 11
Judicial v. Experimental. By Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe ... 12
Rev. W. Hay Aitken ... 13
Northfield Conference ... 14
Universities Camps ... 15
"How Much Owest Thou?" (poem) ... 15
China's Crisis ... 16
The "Vegetarians" and the Riots ... 16
The Recent Massacre ... 17
Persecution in Russia ... 17
Baptism in the Spirit ... 18
The Christian Associations ... 18
Obituary ... 19
Personalia ... 19
Evangelistic Notes ... 19

ANNOUNCEMENTS

of BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, and DEATHS, inserted in this column.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.

9d. for each additional 9 Words.

Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

BIRTH.

COOPER.—The wife of Rev. Wm. E. Cooper, of the Christian Mission, Partabganj (B.N.-W.R.), Bengal, India, of a daughter.

DEATH.

COOPER.—On Wednesday, August 14, at The Manse, Sandon, Herts, Lydia Searle, wife of James Cooper, aged 81. Interred at Histon-road Cemetery, Cambridge. c6865

INSTITUTIONS.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.

9d. for each Additional 9 Words.

Displayed Advertisements according to space.

Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS AND MISSION,

HIGH STREET, WHITECHAPEL, E.

GEORGE HOLLAND thankfully acknowledges receiving clothing from "B."

Rations of food to hungry children. Infant Day-Nursery. Day and Sunday Schools. Children's Services. Band of Hope. Evening Classes for Boys and Girls. Classes, Meetings, and Institute for Young Women and Elder Girls. Various Meetings, Classes and Parlour for Young Men and Lads. Bible Classes. Evangelistic Services. Lodging House Meetings, Temperance Work and Meetings. Mothers' Meetings. Clubs for Clothing, Coals, Bibles, &c. Prayer Meetings. Country Homes for Men, Women, and Children. Training Home for Motherless Girls, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 72, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

"A Record of Work" for the Year 1894 will be sent free of cost to any friend requiring them.

THE SOUTHWARK. BOYS' HOME,

Branches: Greenwich, Ramsgate, Toronto.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT,

To receive really destitute boys from 6 to 18 years of age without payment or recommendation beyond ABSOLUTE NEED.

Urgent cases are considered at any time, but Mr. Fegan may be personally consulted about Orphan, Homeless, or Erring Boys at the Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E., on Mondays, from 10 till 2.

All communications should be addressed—

J. W. C. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home.
95, Southwark-street, London, S.E.

FRESH AIR FOR POOR CHILDREN.—For 10s. subscribed, a pale-faced child can enjoy a country holiday for a fortnight. The Duchess of Wellington and Sir J. Dyer are heartily thanked for their kind donations. Help very greatly needed this season for 500, in this, the third Poorest District in London.—A. STILEMAN HERRING (for Local Committee), Vicar, St. Paul's, Clerkenwell, 45, Colebrooke-row, N.—Bankers: London and County. c5378

DESPAIRING AND DESTITUTE.—Hundreds of thoroughly reclaimable young men and women might be permanently benefited by the numerous Labour Homes and Emigration Training Farms of the Church Army if funds permitted. Nearly one million meals served yearly, irrespective of creed, with labour test and Christian sympathy. Donors of 5s. and upwards supplied free with tickets for giving to beggars. £4000 pressingly required for food, clothing, and maintenance.—Remit, Rev. W. CARLILE, Hon. Chief Sec., Headquarters, 130, Edgware-road, London, W. c6785

ZENANA MEDICAL COLLEGE, 58, St. George's-road, Belgravia, S.W., trains ladies for MEDICAL MISSION WORK in Eastern lands. Vacancies for pupils. Next term October. Partially free studentships granted. Funds needed. c5361

PERTH CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.
THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL MEETING, Sept. 10-12. Subject: "Deliverance, past, present, and to come."—Programmes from Rev. Dr. BANNERMAN, Perth. c5397

THE LONDON BIBLE WAREHOUSE.

A SPECIAL OFFER OF THE

NEW ILLUSTRATED OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES

In Egyptian seal, yapp, calf-lined, round corners, red under gold edges, very strong and flexible.

Pearl Type, 10s. for 6s. 5d., post free.
Ruby Type, 12s. „ 8s. 0d., „
Minion Type, 18s. for 11s. 0d. post free.
Bourgeois Type, 25s. „ 13s. 6d. „

New Catalogues Post Free.

ALSO THE LARGEST SELECTION IN LONDON

OF

OXFORD, EYRE & SPOTTISWOODE'S, AND BAGSTER'S BIBLES, &c.

Cash Discount 3d. in 1s.

53, PATERNOSTER ROW, E.C.

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY,

56, Paternoster Row, London.

For HOLIDAY Distribution.

TRACTS

For HOLIDAY Distribution.

Tracts in all the Continental Languages, Welsh, and Gaelic.

Please Write for the Society's

NEW TRACT CATALOGUE,

Post Free on application to the Publisher,
56, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

150 SIXPENNY PACKETS.

MISSIONARIES' OUTFITS.

MISSIONARIES preparing their Outfits, or Supplies, are invited to send for book, giving list of requirements and special terms, to JOSEPH TUCKER, 83 and 85, Newington Green-road, N. Passages secured at Missionary rates. Parcels to India and China, 3d. per lb., minimum, 1s. References to Missionaries and Missionary Societies. Established 1868.

POOR JEWS IN EAST LONDON.

The eight Jewish Missionaries of the London City Mission wish to send away for one or two weeks, many of the sick and ailing whom they visit.

Contributions will be thankfully received by F. A. BEVAN, Esq., 54, Lombard street, E.C., or by Mr. G. R. COLE, 3, Bridewell-place, London, E.C.

THE BENEVOLENT OR

Strangers' Friend Society.

Treasurer, Alderman Sir JOSEPH C. DIMSDALE.
Chairman, J. H. ANDERSON, Esq.

Founded a hundred and nine years ago. GREATLY STRAITENED FROM WANT OF FUNDS. There are 188 Christian men and women unpaid visitors engaged in the Society's work of BEFRIENDING THE SICK POOR of London. Kindly remember it in testamentary arrangements.

Office, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C. c5340

EDUCATIONAL.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.

9d. for each additional 9 Words.

Displayed Advertisements according to space.

Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL.—A clergyman's daughter offers the above. Loving care. Good education. Every attention. Terms £2 monthly, or 20 guineas yearly. Healthy, open neighbourhood.—Tredegar House, East Dulwich-road, S.E. 5332

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Wilton House, Tylehurst-road, Reading. Head Mistress, Miss Marion White. Assisted by well qualified resident mistresses and visiting professors. Pupils prepared, if desired, for public examination. Wilton House stands on high ground, gravel soil, outside the town. Large garden, cricket field, tennis courts. Tepid swimming bath. Next term begins Thursday, September 19. c5373

MALVERN HOUSE, BLOCKLEY,

WORCESTERSHIRE.

Principals, the Misses JUDSON. Home school for girls in a lovely and bracing village on the Cotswold Hills. Resident foreign and English governesses and visiting masters. Earnest Christian training. Terms moderate and inclusive. References kindly permitted to the Rev. John Wilkinson, Mildmay Mission to the Jews, and to parents of pupils. Summer term begins (D.V.), May 2, 1895. c3968

SIX GUINEAS.—Two girls can be received into a good home school to fill vacancies. Certificated governesses. English, French, music, singing, drawing, drill.—Miss WEBB, Prospect House School, Rayleigh, Essex. c5247

SUPERIOR FINISHING SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate professors.

DELTA, Ward's Library, 112, Kensington-pk.-rd., W.

BURLTON HOUSE, READING.—High-class Ladies' School. Principal, Miss RATCLIFFE. Old established. Thorough teaching. Modern educational advantages, examinations. Finishing masters. Well-appointed home. Highest references. c5271

FRANCHE, GREAT MALVERN.—Principal, Miss GRIGG. High-class home school for girls. Special arrangements for Indian and Colonial pupils. c5206

ALLAN BANK, OWLS ROAD, BOSCOMBE.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS. Thorough education. Success in public examinations. Care of delicate girls. House near sea among pines. Terms moderate. References to Evangelical Clergymen, and to Ministers.—Apply, Miss COCKS, Principal. c5301

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, East Tytherton, Chippenham.—Christian training. Preparation for examinations. Moderate terms.—Principal, Miss HOLLIS. c2317

UPPER MOUNT, SOUTHSEA.—High-class Home School for the daughters of gentlemen. Autumn term, September 17th.—For Prospectus, etc., address, PRINCIPAL. c5337

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.—The Misses BALCH and EDMEADES, Clevedon Lodge, Redhill. Pupils prepared for Oxford and Cambridge Locals (higher, senior, junior), and Trinity College Exams. Vacancy for student-teacher (premium). c6265

LINDFIELD, MALVERN,

LADIES' SCHOOL.

Principals ... The Misses GRAHAM.

THOROUGH AND SUCCESSFUL TEACHING. Christian training. Pupils prepared for Local Exams. Visiting masters. References kindly permitted to parents of pupils in England and abroad. Vacancy for Gov. Pupil. Premium required. c6461

HOME SCHOOL BY THE SEASIDE.—Bracing air. Terms moderate. Successes at Senior and Junior Cambridge, College of Preceptors. Next term, September 11. Governess-student wanted.—Mrs. SKIDMORE, Withnell-road, Blackpool. c6498

STAFFORD HOUSE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, 260, Marylebone-road, London. Principal, Miss SHILLAKER. Healthy locality, near parks. Individual teaching. Special advantages for music and art subjects. Civil Service and all public examinations. Terms moderate. Highest references. Vacancy for articled pupil. c4476

SOUTH-WEST LONDON COLLEGE.

High-class School for Young Ladies.

1, CARLTON MANSIONS, CLAPHAM-RISE, LONDON, S.W.

Principal—MRS. HALE, A.C.P.

Modern system of teaching. Visiting masters in daily attendance. Resident certificated governesses. Careful personal supervision, home comforts, and Christian training. Preparation for any examination if desired. Good garden and tennis.

Highly recommended by the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, Rev. D. MacEwan, D.D. and parents of former and present pupils.

THE MORAVIAN SCHOOLS, Fulneck, near Leeds.—A thorough, advanced, and Christian education. Boys' School, Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON. Ladies' School, Rev. M. B. O'CONNOR. c6341

ILFRACOMBE.—WILDERFORD HALL High School for Girls. Thorough education. Preparation for exams. Comfortable home. Christian training. Special attention given to delicate girls. Principal, Miss HEALE. Paying guests received. Moderate charges. c6402

VACANCIES OCCUR in high-class school for girls. Pupils received whose parents are abroad. Christian training. Home comforts. Special attention to backward pupils. Terms 30 guineas.—PRINCIPAL, 10, Clapton Common. c6157

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, DUDLEY HOUSE, DORKING. Principal, Miss WATERS. High-class education, based upon Christian principles. Pupils prepared for all public examinations. Autumn term will (D.V.) commence September 17, 1895. c6667

TO PARENTS.—Girls of any age instructed in practical housewifery, superior economical cookery, intelligent catering and marketing. Laws of health and sanitation studied. Business training, book-keeping, etc. Fee from ten guineas, including twelve weeks' board and tuition as above in experienced lady's well-appointed home, S.E. References to parents of pupils.—c6725, Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6725

ROSEBERRY, Western-parade, Southsea, facing sea and common. Christian home school for gentlemen's daughters. Thorough and successful teaching, careful godly training, refined happy home. Resident English and foreign governesses. Highly recommended. Principals, the Misses ROBINSON. c5105

EDUCATION NEAR LONDON.—Good professors. Christian training. Highly recommended by Miss Leicester, Head Mistress Wyggiston Girls' High School, Leicester, and parents of pupils. Governess-student wanted. Fee, 8 guineas per term.—c6724, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6724

SEASIDE EDUCATION.—The principals of high-class, old-established school, having two vacancies, are willing to take two girls of good position on greatly reduced terms.—PRINCIPAL, Blackmore, Bookseller, 38, Great Southsea-street, Southsea. c5406

FOUR GIRLS can be received in good school near Crystal Palace for 35 guineas inclusive. Thorough education. English subjects, music, languages, etc. Motherly care.—PRINCIPAL, 200, Selhurst-road, South Norwood. c6656

EDUCATION.—LONDON.—High-class boarding-school for girls. Refined, cultured training. Excellent advantages for music, painting, languages. English subjects thoroughly taught. Modern system. Highly-qualified staff. Individual care and attention. Christian home. Beautiful, healthy suburb.—For prospectus and particulars, address, c6746, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6746

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Lenten House, Alton, Hants. Principal, Miss Chinn, daughter of the late Rev. S. Chinn. Very successful preparations for examinations. References, Dr. Stewart, Alton; Rev. W. Houghton, Guildford; Rev. R. A. Davis, Ventnor. c5426

GIRLS' SCHOOL, SUMMERLAND College, Honiton, Devon.—Preparation for exams. 14 certificates in 1894. Home comforts and unlimited diet. Governess-pupils received. Next term begins September 17.—Principal, Mrs. ROGERS. c6239

TO CHRISTIAN PARENTS.—Wanted, in first-class school, young lady, not under sixteen, daughter of gentleman, to work with two clever intelligent girls in their 17th year. Inclusive terms, with full advantages of good professors, £50 per annum. First-class references given and required.—c6776 Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6776

ILFRACOMBE.—TORR'S PARK COLLEGIATE SCHOOL for girls. Thorough education with refined Christian home. Healthy climate for delicate children. Music governess student required. Premium. — PRINCIPAL, Hillsborough, Bovey Tracey, S. Devon. c6872

COMBER HOUSE, CAMBRIDGE. Refined home school for girls, with careful Christian influence, and every educational advantage. Moderate and inclusive fees. Governess-students received. c6863

EASTBOURNE. — A CLERGYMAN'S daughter can receive children into her happy home school for 20 guineas yearly. Large house on sea front facing south.—Muncaster House, Royal Parade. c6871

SEASIDE HOME SCHOOL for girls. Thorough tuition, with kind Christian influence. English, French, German, music, painting. 21 guineas per annum. No extras. Governess-pupil required.—Shaftesbury House, Hunstanton. c6863

LADY STRONGLY RECOMMENDS home school where relative of her own is. Companion-pupil desired. Seaside. Careful Christian training. Thorough teaching. Entire charge if desired.—BETA, 276, London-road, S., Lowestoft. c6774

THE PRINCIPAL of a high-class school, Crouch End, offers home on moderate terms to lady students or teachers, or to a widow lady with child to educate.—L. L. A., Haddon's Advertising Agency, Salisbury-square. c6809

A LADY IS ANXIOUS to hear of comfortable Christian home for young girl, aged 17, whose education, owing to sad circumstances, has been neglected. She has natural talents, is clever, and most anxious to improve herself, but needs training. —Reply, T., Mount View, Bettws-y-Coed, N. Wales. c6780

PARIS.—Establishment for young ladies, 16, Rue d'Autenil (near the Bois de Boulogne). Principals, Mdlles. Bouré. Thorough French and German, music, drawing, painting, etc. Prospectus on application. c6621

NEUCHATEL, SWITZERLAND.—Young ladies received in superior French Evangelical finishing home school. Eminent professors. Languages, music, art. Delightful climate. English home comforts. Highest references. — Apply to Mlle. COTLERU, Neuchatel, Switzerland. c6661

STANLEY HOUSE, CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Thorough education, with decided Christian training. The premises include workshop, chemical laboratory, covered and open playgrounds, tennis courts and cricket field. Delicate boys receive special care. Fees moderate and inclusive.—For prospectus, apply PRINCIPAL. c3702

TO GODLY PARENTS. — The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL where the constant aim of the principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class education.

The premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the south coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectuses and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application. Several wards in Chancery have been appointed as pupils in the school. Terms moderate.—Dr. THORN (not Thorne), Paddington, London. c4608

Huntingdon House School, TEDDINGTON, Middlesex.

Christian training. First-class masters. Thorough teaching. Moderate fees. Preparation for professional and business life, and for examinations (over 100 certificates gained). Recommended by Rev. Evan Hopkins, Kensington, and many Christian parents. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.

Principal—Mr. GEO. CUMES, F.R.G.S., F.R.A.S.

FOLKESTONE.—Penfillan House. Mr. Toke, B.A., and Mr. Vaughan Wilkes, B.A. (assisted by specialists), receive eight pupils to prepare for the University, Army, and other exams. Individual tuition. Careful supervision. Four successes in 1894. c4787

MR. W. ERNEST MATTHEWS, B.A. (honours), assisted by efficient masters, prepares for the Army, Navy, Universities, Public Schools, etc. Pupils under Christian influence. Excellent situation.—10, Worcester-terrace, Clifton, Gloucestershire. c6788

PREPARATORY SCHOOL

To the Public Schools and Royal Navy, for Gentlemen's Sons, aged 8 to 14.

The Old Hall, Wellington, Shropshire.

(Founded 1845.) Very healthily situated, 370 feet above the sea, near the Wrekin. 3½ hours from London, by L. & N.W. or G.W.R. Beautiful grounds, playing fields, &c. Illustrated Prospectus on application to the Head Master, the Rev. W. CRANAGE, M.A. (Shrewsbury School and Trinity College, Oxford); or Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6883

FOLKESTONE.

MR. J. W. C. FEGAN desires to recommend to Christian parents a high-class school for sons of gentlemen, in the best part of Folkestone. A thoroughly good education with real Christian influence, home comforts, and close individual attention to each boy. Highest references.—Mr. J. W. C. FEGAN, Boys' Home, 35, Southwark-st., S.E. c1574

ALRESFORD HOUSE SCHOOL, MARGATE.—High-class school for the sons of gentlemen. Boys are prepared for the various competitive examinations. Special care of Indian children. Christian home.—Apply, The PRINCIPALS. c3371

BEXLEYHEATH, KENT. OLD-ESTABLISHED SCHOOL for sons of gentlemen. Beautiful situation. Seven acres of land. PREPARATION FOR PUBLIC EXAMINATIONS. —Illustrated prospectus on application to Head Master, G. E. OXLEY, M.A. c3398

NEW COLLEGE, CLIFTONVILLE, MARGATE.

Head Master: Rev. G. Hugh Jones, F.A.S.

High-class School for sons of Christian gentlemen. Inclusive Fees, £45 per annum; under eleven, £40.

HIGHBURY HOUSE SCHOOL, ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.

Boys received from six to eighteen years of age. Three separate departments classified according to age. Preparation undertaken for public schools or for commerce, the professions, and universities. Delicate boys or those from colonies receive special care. Autumn term commences September 21. Illustrated prospectus, references, etc., on application to the Principal, J. C. DUFF. c5399

ETONHURST, WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Preparatory school for the sons of gentlemen. Competent masters attend daily. Prospectus on application to LADY PRINCIPALS. c5334

COMBE DOWN SCHOOL, BATH, for the sons of gentlemen. This school will (D.V.) be removed after the summer term to more convenient and commodious premises, newly built, in Weston-super-Mare. Address, till end of August, Combe Down, Bath; after August, to Clarence School, Weston-super-Mare.—W. FRANKLIN, Head-master. c6819

YOUR BOYS have Christian home and education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Gordon School, Kingston-on-Thames. Established eleven years. Beautiful district, near Richmond Park. References. 20 to 25 guineas yearly. c5350

20 GUINEAS PER ANNUM.—Special offer. Seaside Boys' Boarding School. High successes last term. No failures. Highly recommended by ministers and parents.—Letters, CLARK, Chapel-street, Market Harborough. c6538

ARNOLD HOUSE, HASTINGS, conducted by Rev. John Stewart, where boys from 7 to 13 receive a thorough education and careful personal attention. Established 1857. c5395

NEAR WANDSWORTH COMMON.—Christian lady, who loves children, wishes two little boys (daily pupils) in small home school. Could be taken out if desired.—c6881, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square. c6881

HAPPY HOME SCHOOL for boys. Thorough education. Every home comfort, with unlimited diet. Health resort. Medical reference. Careful Christian training. Terms inclusive and very moderate.—PRINCIPAL, Lucton School, Henfield, Sussex. c5418

A FREE EDUCATION, with prospect of four years free at University, is offered to two sons of gentlemen, really in need and between the ages of ten and twelve, well grounded in Latin, arithmetic, French, and English.—Apply to B. H., New Zealand Cottages, Ascot, Berks. c5423

MUSIC AND SINGING.—A Christian lady, of long experience in teaching, gives lessons in music and singing to those who wish their gifts cultivated for the Master's use.—For particulars, apply by letter to c6887, Haddon's Advertising Offices, Salisbury-square, E.C. c6887

EXPERIENCED RESIDENT GOVERNESS desires foreign engagement. English, advanced music, drawing (freehand), elementary German, Latin, Euclid, algebra. Certificated Intermediate, Royal University. Silver medallist London College Music.—Miss KENNY, Harrington College, Dublin. c6765

YOUNG FRENCH LADY (18) desires engagement in England, either in a school or private family. French, Italian.—For further particulars, write, T. D., Beech House, Park-lane, Croydon. c6762

SITUATION WANTED as nursery governess to one or two young children. English and music. Age 21.—C. M. R., Appley, near Wellington, Somerset. c6807

EXPERIENCED GOVERNESS-HOUSEKEEPER wanted. Three children, ages 9 to 5. Thorough English music. Christian. Nonconformist preferred.—Apply with full particulars, age, salary, experience, Mrs. LOSE, 31, Kcr-street, Devonport. c6800

GOVERNESS-PUPIL required in September, in a good-class ladies' school. Excellent opportunities offered to study for matriculation, and other examinations. Premium required. Principals, The Misses DOBSON, Endsleigh House, Colchester. c6748

WANTED, GENEVE, SWITZERLAND, young governess-pupil, who would give one hour's English a day, in return for thorough instruction in the French language. Premium £36 per annum.—Madame ROSSET, Champel 2. c6662

AN EDUCATED, SENSIBLE GIRL wanted to teach in small school, assist in sewing, etc. No salary first term.—Address, with testimonials, age, etc., Mrs. C., 4, Marylands-road, Paddington, W. c6852

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES

(English and Foreign), recommended GRATIS by Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governesses' Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. (Established 1879). BOARD AND RESIDENCE from 18s. weekly. No fee to Governesses until placed. Schools recommended and transferred. c3241

SITUATIONS, ETC., WANTED.

30 WORDS FOR 3s.
9d. for each additional 9 Words.
Advertisements should be received by JOHN HADDON & Co., Bouverie House, Salisbury Square, E.C., not later than MONDAY.

EXPERIENCED EVANGELIST, age 39, well educated, active and painstaking, seeks an opening where hard work and devotion to duty would be valued. Would work with any Evangelical believers or take entire charge of mission. Highest references as to preaching ability and character.—Mr. ERNEST RICKMAN, 28, Groham-road, South Croydon. c30

